Why Marriages Are Decreasing In Belleville

The High Cost of Loving is Made Evident to the Young Man as Soon as He Becomes Engaged—House and Furnishings Come High for Ambitious Newly-Wedded Couples.

RECORDS SHOW MARKED DROP

Statistics recorded recently by The Intelligencer indicate that marriages in Belleville are falling off. Sure, the same marriage month of 1921, had only 30 weddings, while October of the previous year for instance, had 37. Some conditions cause thoughts to circulate through the mind and the whys and wherefors are readily sought. But a chief reason offered is the high cost of living, and possibly also, the high cost of loving. This week's remarkable reason, too, knowing that the present day maidens are as fair as the brides of yesterday, and the young gallants as gallant as of yore.

Of course many writers claim that, that which is commonly known as "jazz," is largely responsible for the desperation of the flappers and jazzboys. Surnames are used in introductions nowadays, it is alleged, and all formalities are dispensed with right off the reel, whereas in the days of '61 the wooer never got nearer the house than the iron gate for several seasons, and even after the engagement, necessitated the loving couple in their journeys to the tea meeting, three in a buggy.

Suppose for the sake of argument that one of Belleville's sons were to up and ask her today and she would say "yes". Immediately a few amazing thoughts would rush through his mind, and probably when he arrived home, he would do some figuring with pencil and paper, unless he were presently to fall heir to a substantial fortune. If he decided on living in an apartment he would likely rent a room of from $15 to $20 per month, according to size, location and conveniences. Before he rent a six-roomed house with all conveniences, he might figure on a rental of $25 per month, and $25 for the rent of house without conveniences. If he bought the house at say $3,000, he would have to borrow the money at interest at 7% per cent. per annum, (if he could get it,) and besides pay taxes to the extent of possibly $100 on the house with the conveniences, and over $50 on the same house without the conveniences, according to as-

OLD ENGLAND DOING EXTREMELY WELL

London, April 1.—With the close of the financial year, the statement of the Chancellor of the Exchequer indicates that the department not only balanced its budget but secured a surplus of almost forty-six million pounds for the reduction of the national debt.

FOOLS' DAY IS HERE AGAIN

Never Judge a Book by its Cover on the All Fools' Day.

Once more the wheels of time have rolled around, until March has passed out, and "Fools' Day" has been graciously ushered in. This is April the day of reckoning for many, who are continually on their lookout for the practical joker, and who is there among us, who has not been found guilty of being such, on this annual occasion, at least.

This is the day you receive that gift, which when unrolled from the pretty container is found to be of little worthless bit of paper "suitably inscribed." Many people like to make April 1st "Pay Day" also, being particularly big hearted with their soap and onion contents.

A favorite in the good days was to live up in front of the school just before one o'clock, and watch some young innocent fall into their trap. A hurried along the old, board walk, look-laden, and thinking of who he would get those Algebra deductions for, he spies a text book on the walk. He sees, he stoops but he does not conquer, for it is anchored with a three inch nail; and immediately, a dirty heel hawk comes from a hundred laughing countries.

LLOYD GEORGE REFUSES PROBE INTO ENGLISH LOCKOUT

London, April 1.—The Government today refused to grant a court of inquiry into the engineering lockout, as was requested yesterday, following a conference of the engineering unions. In answer to the request the Government expressed surprise that a satisfactory agreement was not reached between the employers and the engineers on the basis of negotiations recently put forward by the employers.

ROTARY CLUBS IN CONVENTION

Int. President Tells of Rotary's Growth Throughout the World.

WELFARE WORK

Service to Crippled Children One of the Subjects Discussed.

Rochester, N.Y., April 1.—Rotarians defied th March elements yesterday when they carried out the first day's program of the 1922 conference of the Rotary Clubs of the fourth district in spite of the worst rain storm of the year. The opening exercises were held in Jefferson junior high chool auditorium. Shortly after 10 o'clock Vice-President Eugene Blaine welcomed the Rotarians in absence of President William J. Smith, who is ill. Mayor Clarence Van Zandt extended the welcome of the city and, the invocation was pronounced by Dr. Murray Bartlett, president of Hobart College, Geneva.

Following the presentation of past district governor District Governor Hart L. Jones outlined the object of the conference, and alluded to the progress which had been made during the past year. He announced that the cup offered for the best attendance record in the clubs of class A having a membership of 200 or over had been awarded to the Utica club. Elmira was second in this class and Rochester third. In class B the cup was awarded to Niagara Falls, N.Y., and the class C cup went to Owen Sound with Orillia and the class D cup to Niagara Falls, Canada.

J. Crawford McCullough, president of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, struck the key-note of the morning session. He spoke of the unprecedented growth of the Rotary organization which years ago started with one small club, and to-day has 1,200 clubs in 22 countries of the world. He laid the reason for such growth on the fact that Rotary endeavored a simple truth and founded its whole life and organization upon it.

At the noon luncheon President William Westaway of the Hamilton, Ontario club presided, and Dr. William H. Sedgwick of the Hamilton club spoke on life's highest motto.

The work of the crippled children occupied the larger part of the afternoon session in the High School Assembly Hall. Demonstration by classes from the Rochester School for Cripples were given, and excited great interest and enthusiasm. Children who less than a year ago were unable to move more than crawl on their hands and knees played games showing the progress that had been made in strengthening and straightening their bodies.

U. S. RECEIVES REPLY TO HARDING'S NOTE

Demand For Payment of U. S. Rhine Services is Acknowledged.

Paris, April 1.—France replied yesterday to the note from the United States concerning payments of the cost of the United States army of occupation of the Rhineland. The French note repeats the recent declaration of the Chamber of Finance before the Senate of the United States in the matter. The only question is to whom the request for reimbursement should be made, by the allies or to Germany.

The French Foreign Office characterizes the note as a more acknowledgment of the claims as set forth in the United States note.

THREE-YEAR-OLD COW AFTER MILK RECORD

Woodstock, March 31—Clarence Pullin of East Oxford is the proud possessor of a Holstein cow which as a three-year-old has established a Canadian championship production record. This fine animal, during a milking period of 305 days gave 17,- 264.1 pounds of milk. She is known as Queen Norine No. 45052. Since establishing this noted record of performance she has, as a four-year-old during a seven-day period given 555.5 pounds of milk, with a butter fat equivalent of 23,066 pounds of butter.

BELLEVILLE SUFFERS NO HYDRO POWER INTERRUPTION

Despite the fact that there was considerable trouble on many of the hydro lines yesterday, as a result of the snowstorm, which has been in progress intermittently, for the past two days, there has been no interruption in the service in this city.

CURIOUS POINT IS RAISED

Is Young Blazek the Son of Both Siamese Twins?

Chicago, April 1.—Doctors here today said Rosa was the mother of Frantz, the twelve-year-old boy. He said the twins must be considered as different persons. Dr. C. W. Bridges holds that Frantz is the offspring of both sisters, as they cannot be considered two complete persons.

In case it is decided Rosa is the mother, Frantz will inherit $50,000 left Blazek's fortune will be sent to her family Czecho-Slovakia. In the event it is decided Frantz is the son of both, the entire fortune will go to him. Attempts to obtain a court order to conduct a postmortem to establish the parentage of Frantz will be made. This follows refusal of Frank, a brother of the twins, to allow the doctors to be separate in the interest of science.

RUSSIAN RELIEF IN CHURCHES

Belleville People Fall in Line to Help Worthy Cause.

"To-morrow will be Russian Sunday in Belleville, in all city churches I believe," said Miss Pearson, organizer of the Russian Relief Work in this city, when asked this morning. Miss Pearson was certain that St. Thomas church was having a special collection to-morrow for this worthy cause, and felt that all city churches would follow the lead.

The Ministerial Association of Canada, has requested all churches in Canada to take a collection on the morrow, but some churches have found it impossible to do so.

There is a real lack of information among the poole, and also a good deal of misunderstanding. Every cent raised for this cause is spent right here in Canada, and the grain shipped direct to Riga. From Riga it is shipped in sealed cars, under the guarantee of the British Red Cross, direct to the kitchens. That this work is in every community is evident, and is clearly demonstrated by the fact that representatives of the Soviet, have been refused admittance to Canada, as Canadian Governments, that they do not object to their relief work on condition that they do not carry on propaganda derogatory to Sovietism. This great work of feeding conditions in Russia, and gaining supplies to the starving children, must be continued, and it is very imperative that Canadian grain be sent in Russia in time for the spring seeding.

There has been sufficient money collected here to start a kitchen, and next week will see a campaign launched in Thurlow, towards the same end.

STORM CAUSES HYDRO BREAK

Many Cities in Western Ontario Have Electric Service Cut.

GRAVE MISHAP

Trouble Between Dundas and Niagara Falls Causes The Tie-up.

Toronto, April 1.—While the storm of yesterday was at the spectacular feature, of the February 22 digitation, ances of unpleasant memory, not only residents of Toronto but of a large section of Southern Ontario will have reason to recall the manner in which March of the year of grace, 1922, took its leave. The complete suffering of Hydro power in Toronto for nearly four and a half hours, service being only restored this afternoon about 4 o'clock until 10.30 p.m., when the downtown streets were again illuminated, although the suburbs will be denied light until later, as a precaution to tax the power of the municipal-featured Hydro plant. Outlined it will be recognized that the breaks are one of those unavoidable mishaps to which every undertaking is subject, but that it was the fortune of war that it should have been the Hydro which got and not that of the Toronto and Niagara Power Company that was incapacitated. The break occurred between Dundas and Burlington, and all through the evening F. A. Gaby and other officials of the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission were energetically on the job. It was known early that the mishap was a grave one, and every available power service was restored fears were expressed that repairs could not be made before midnight, but they were made before midnight.

F. A. Gaby said last night that the storm area had centred between Dundas and Niagara Falls, where ice two and a half inches in diameter was clinging to the wires. As there was but a single line open between Toronto and Niagara Falls, advantage was taken of Mr. Keith Russell's wireless set, messages being relayed from Niagara Falls, N.Y., to the Canadian side, which were sent from Toronto by telephone. The line was repaired at seven o'clock and was repaired some four and a half hours later. London, Ont., suffered severely. Wires of every description were out of commission and had not been repaired in many instances at late hour last night. The new line being constructed between Niagara Falls and Toronto would, when finished, be capable of four, as at present, and would relieve much of the responsibility of a complete disruption of service.

PORTUGUESE PLANE TO RESUME FLIGHT

Being Prepared at Canary Islands for Cape Verde Flight.

Lisbon, April 1.—The Portugese hydro-plane, which left Lisbon on Thursday morning on the first leg of a porposed flight to Rio de Janeiro, and covered 710 miles to the Canary Island, in 7½ hours, was being prepared to-day for a jump off of 516 miles to the Cape Verde Islands. Arriving at Cape Verde Captain Coutinho and Captain Sacadura propose to wait until the full moon, which rises in the light of the full moon for the 18-hour flight to Fernando, Noronha, near the Brazilian coast, northeast of Pernambuco. From Fernando Noronha the light will extend over the 258 miles of water to Pernambuco, and the aviators then propose to touch at Pernambuco and Bahia in pointing southward to Rio de Janeiro.

WILL PROHIBIT SALE OF LAND OF RUSSIA

Moscow, April 1.—The buying and selling of land will be forbidden by a decree of the commission appointed by the last All-Russian Soviet Congress.

The title to all land will remain vested in the state but it will be given over to the use of communes or peasants' societies as they see fit.

Individual peasants may obtain land either by becoming members of the local land commune or each may obtain a farm for himself.

Further, each peasant may lease his strip of land to another peasant.

Labor may be hired by special permission.

PREDICTS VICTORY FOR IRISH TREATY

London, April 1.—"We look forward to the Irish elections with the utmost confidence. I see no reason why I should alter my statement of a month ago, when I prophesied that the Free State party would carry more than 70 per cent. of the electorate. The treaty signed last night strengthens our position immensely and we will carry it by loyalty."

This statement was made to-night by Arthur Griffith just before he left for Dublin.

Huge Mine Strike Has Started in U.S. and Canada

Production of Coal Has Entirely Stopped in Twenty States — Strike May Involve Over Half a Million Workers, Say Union Officials — Canadian Miners Have Downed Tools in the Maritime Provinces — Protect Property.

PRES. HARDING SAYS OPERATORS AT FAULT

Indianapolis, Ind., April 1.—Coal production was stopped last night by the nation's coal miners, who, after spending their day's work in the mines of 20 states with the avowed policy of remaining indefinitely idle, left it to them to force the operators to accept the miners' terms for a new wage scale.

Officials at the headquarters here of the United Mine Workers of America declared that the suspension would not only include half a million workers, but also that at least 100,000 non-union men would join in the strike. In the Kentucky union district 60,000 union men will continue at work because their contract with the operators does not expire until April 16.

During the day President John L. Lewis declared that the suspension in the Kansas-Missouri district unless would not be averted by the action of the Kansas Industrial Court ordering a reduction in wages of the last two years be continued for thirty days. In a formal statement last night the union chief declared that the strike affects "hundreds of thousands of citizens" not directly engaged in the coal industry.

In addition to the Kentucky miners' union men in Nova Scotia will remain at work, but those in the Western Canadian provinces were expected to join the suspension.

Numerous mines from the coal fields of the United States also reached headquarters, which Mr. Lewis declared, instructed the down their tools while three hundreds of thousands of citizens" not directly engaged in the coal industry.

LOCAL MARKET WELL ATTENDED

Prices and Products Offered for Sale Were Fairly Good.

Fresh dairy butter was quite plentiful on the market this morning, ranging from 42c. to 45c. per pound. The article will in the near future become scarcer due to the opening up of cheese factories.

Dressed poultry still commands a high figure, in fact it may be considered a luxury. Chickens sold from $2.50 to $3.50 a pair according to size and quality.

Maple syrup was offered for sale in considerable quantities and remunerative prices were obtained for same. In a few cases the price charged was 60c. a quart, but the ruling price was 65c. and 70c. a quart or $2.50 and $2.75 per gallon. The make this season in this vicinity has been about equal to former seasons, and the quality gained one of a high order.

Garden products such as cabbage, parsnips, lettuce, etc., found ready purchasers and those having same for sale disposed of the greater portion of their stock.

A number of meat stands did a good business and considerable quantities were sold. Beef sold from 12c. to 16c. per pound according to cuts and veal from 12c. to 15c. per pound.

The ruling price for potatoes was $1.75 per bag, with a prospect that this price will be maintained for some time and probably increase when planting time arrives.

TWO FISHERMEN DEAD IN GRIM FIGHT WITH WAVES

Exhausted Dog Brings First Tidings of Terrible Tragedy On Lake Erie off Port Dover—One Body Found in Boat.

Port Dover, April 1.—Archie Edmondson and Carl Rankin's dog, Jack, arrived yesterday morning at 9 o'clock this faithful friend of his master came whining to the door of his home, wet and exhausted. Search expeditions were organized, and east of Fisher's Cove the wreck of the boat was found with the body of one of the occupants, Rankin, lashed to the boat. No hope is held for the recovery of Edmondson, and thus the dog remains the sole living witness of a tragedy of Lake Erie storm.

An easterly gale sprang up Wednesday evening after the departure of the fishermen. Alarmed at the continued absence of the men—an alarm that was increased when the dog returned home—all the local tugs went out, but the storm baffled their search.

Captain Duncan Macdonald set out with the Jean F. and patrolled the north shore under Ryerse's Island in an unsuccessful search for the missing boat. He returned three hours later with all forward glass in the cabin smashed by the heavy seas.

A beach patrol was on the point of setting out along the shore when information was received that searchers east of Fisher's Glen had discovered the boat and one occupant lashed to it.

The boat was a staunch little craft, but the storm proved too much for it. Rankin had died from exhaustion while it is evident his companion was washed overboard by the heavy seas.

Mr. Rankin leaves a wife and three small children. He was a member of the local hockey club, and recently a Sunday School class teacher.

Edmondson was unmarried and lived with his mother.

PORT ARTHUR EXPLOSION IS UNSOLVED MYSTERY

Port Arthur, April 1.—Nothing had been discovered by the coroners to-day to assist the police in clearing the mystery of the explosion which caused the death and wrecked the rear part of Charles Donatti's store Tuesday evening. The police will continue investigations in an effort to determine whether the explosion was accidental or whether the material which caused the explosion was placed with intent. The Coroner's inquest takes place on April 11.

Music and Drama

THE BEAUTIFUL BOHEMIAN GIRL

The above title is appropriate either way you apply it—whether you refer to Balfe's beautiful opera or whether you refer to Helen Merrill, prima donna of the Boston English Opera Company, who will sing the title role when the famous organization plays a return date at Griffin's next Friday night, April 7th, in this even more famous opera.

Of all the world's favorite comic operas of the world's favorite comic operas, the beautiful ballads, "I Dream of Dusk in Marble Halls", "Then You'll Remember Me", "Bliss Forever Past", "The Heart Bowed Down", "Light Land of Poland", and its rollickin choruses such as "Come With the Gipsy Band", "My Lady Moon" etc., have never been eclipsed, they are full of tuneful melodies, pathos and romance, a combination not seldom achieved that when it is it lives forever.

The Boston English Opera Company on its recent visit to this City proved itself the finest singing organization heard here in many years and it will indeed be a pleasure to again hear Helen Merrill, Norman Arnold, Edward Gisbaut, Henry Kosse, Dorothy Bell as well as the famous chorus and Balfe's beautiful opera. The Bohemian Girl comes to Griffin's next Friday night and from all indications will be greeted by a capacity house.

LAST CHANCE TO SEE "JUST AROUND THE CORNER"

Those who have missed seeing "Just Around the Corner" which has been playing at Griffin's on Thursday and Friday night have their last opportunity tonight. It is a cosmopolitan production made for Paramount and was directed by Francis Marion who also wrote the scenario from a story by Fannie Hurst, author of "Humoresque."

"Just Around the Corner" tells a simple and beautiful story of New York's East Side. Margaret Seldon, Lewis Barrett, Sigrid Holmquist and Edward Phillips are the principals in the cast. The picture is quite worthwhile.

REX STOCK COMPANY AT GRIFFIN'S MONDAY

The Stock of the Rex Stock Company, Mrs. Rex Bierbrauer manager and leading woman by popular company at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday. This is the production Rex intends sending out four next year, nothing which he is making any expensive beautiful scenic backgrounds.

Manager Forlan of Griffin's received advice this morning from Mr. Sturgeon at Kingston that his scenic artists who have been working on the production are now through with it and intend to have everything complete and ship for Monday, and as it is Mr. Sturgeon's intention to make this play one of the features of his season here one that his many Belleville patrons will remember for some time, he has decided to postpone it for one week and in its place is going to present Bessie McCoy's sensational New York and London triumph "Three Twins" a delightful comedy with music.

The presentation of "Three Twins" in Belleville, will serve to reveal the versatility of the Rex Stock Company, and lend, if possible, to more firmly establish this popular company in the affections of local theatregoers.

Special scenery, and new wardrobe specialties between acts will be used to increase the spectators' enjoyment of the performance.

BIRD MAN PLEASING

The last of the series of entertainments in connection with the Y.M.C.A. Star Course was held last evening, and despite the inclement weather was well attended. Those in charge of the program certainly selected most pleasing and elevating events, and last night was no exception to the rule. Mr. Charles Crawford Good known as the Bird Man had the platform and he was certainly both entertaining and instructive. In his proceeding with his descriptive talk Mr. Good took the audience to the woods and calls, he with accompaniment on the piano, allowed his powers as a mimic full sway. Mr. Good produced, only about twenty elementary bird notes. Every note is made up of variations and combinations of these sounds, produced at longer or shorter interval, and in higher or lower keys. In his early youth Mr. Good began attempting to imitate the bird notes, the first of which came only after two months of continual practice. Today he is a mastered over two hundred songs, and can imitate nearly a hundred different birds. Mr. Good is no clever at imitation that even the birds themselves often have been misled into believing one of them was singing. With the help of charts and pictures bird paintings specially prepared he would have delivered a lecture on bird life as an interpreter of bird music. Mr. Good is an artist of rare talent and has been for years reproducing and describing the beautiful in bird music. While presenting this unique entertainment Mr. Good's purpose is to awaken a renewed interest in bird and nature.

CONFIDENCE IN USE OF RADIUM

Dr. Hayward Pinch Says Radium Has Great Therapeutic Value.

London, April 1.—Dr. A. E. Hayward Pinch, medical superintendent of the Radium Institute in his report of the work of that institution for last year, contends the idea that radium has no therapeutic value. He declares that this theory originated from advertising but, duplicated practitioners having very little personal experience.

"Radium", he declares, "is not a failure when used intelligently and scientifically and applied to the treatment of those conditions which experience has shown are amenable to its action. No honest worker claims it has ever attempted to claim, that radium is to be regarded as a panacea, or as a cure-all for malignant disease and many acute and chronic conditions comprise the names of many much more research and clinical work patients suffering from recurrent inoperable malignant disease who first be done before it will be justifiable to use the word 'cure' even in selected cases of malignant trouve'e.

"It is best, therefore, to speak only of 'arrest of disease' and this can truthfully be affirmed in very many instances. Patients who have undergone operative treatment and subsequently irradiated and who have suffered much intense received."

HOLDING GOOD POSITIONS IN THE WEST

Below is a quotation from a letter written March 31st by a business man in Saskatoon, Sask., to Belleville, in appreciation and convincing testimony to the superiority of the training given in a Belleville educational institution.

"I have several personal friends who attended and graduated from ONTARIO BUSINESS COLLEGE. They all speak very highly of their work there. I NOTICE THAT THESE PEOPLE ARE ALL HOLDING DOWN GOOD POSITIONS. I am enclosing a money order in payment of the latest edition of your book, The Canadian Accountant."

This letter was addressed to Mr. I. L. Moore, Principal of Ontario Business College. Mr. Moore had not previously been in correspondence with the writer, and naturally is much pleased to receive this additional evidence of the success of his former students.

How to Wash Your Clothes in an Electric Washer

THE SIXTH ARTICLE OF A SERIES OF TALKS ON WASHDAY PROBLEMS.

In this talk we will discuss the four fundamental principles of washing adopted by the manufacturers of the electric washers.

Every housewife will be interested in knowing how these different makes wash clothes.

(1) The Agitating Type, on any washer where a doly or a paddle is used inside the tub. In this type of Washer the doly or paddle turns the bulk of clothes back and forth through the water. Care must be observed in not overloading the Washer so that there won't be any undue strain on the clothes. The correct amount of clothes to use is judged when the clothes are just covered. On the down stroke the cups squeeze the water out of the clothes, and on the up stroke suck the water through again, moving in a new place each time so that all the clothes come in contact. If too little water is used the suction cups form too hard a contact with the clothes and lose their washing proficiency. If too much water is used you merely have an agitation of water and no suction at all and of course it is the suction which does the washing.

(2) The "Oscillating" or rocking tub type of Electric Washer. This Washer is a plain copper tub, round or oval, with vertical ridges or corrugations inside to cause agitation. There are no moving parts in this type of Washer. Clothes are thrown in regardless of how fine they are are well covered over with lots of hot water water. The rocking motion of the tub throws the water through and through the clothes until every garment is cleansed.

(4) The revolving "cylinder" type of electric washer. The washing principle of this type consists of a round wood or metal cylinder which revolves inside a galvanized or copper tub. The inside of the cylinder has several thin boards or lifters which lift the clothes to the top of the cylinder about four times to every revolution. Only three or four pails of water are used to obtain best results in a cylinder type washer. The clothes are placed in the cylinder (the most delicate fabrics being washed) and as they are lifted up to the top of the cylinder they drop into the water of their own weight. It is this constant dropping of the clothes into the water which gently but thoroughly washes out every particle of dirt.

81 DAYS' SUPPLIES OF COAL ON HAND

New York, April 1.—Government reports indicate goodly coal supplies on hand, estimated at 81 days' supply in certain areas, at least. Railroad officers asserted plans had been made to suspend certain freight trains, especially on coal roads. It is estimated that 18,000 railroad men in Pennsylvania will be out of work tomorrow as a result of the strike.

Schedule of New Bowling League Announced

INDOOR BALL DOUBLE HEADER

Tigers Tire Win From K. of C.—Shoe Clerks From Intell.

The second round of the Indoor Baseball League series, was pulled off at the armories last night, when the Intelligencer staff team clashed with the Shoe Clerks and the K. of C. met the Tigers in the Tigers' Tiers, winning the first game 15-5 and the Shoe Clerks the second game by the score of 13-12.

The first game, between the K. of C. and the Tiger Tiers teams was rather a one sided exhibition, the Tigers being the better team in every department. Langdon, the Tiger pitcher, had the edge on his opposition White, who was not only wild but lack ed the steam that Langdon had. The Tigers have a snappy infield, and they all took like an aggregation that has had considerable experience at the outdoor game. They were very fortunate with the willow also, pounding out many long ones.

The teams:—

Tigers—Langdon, p; F. Goyer, c; G. Platt, 1b; F. Platt, 2b; G. Clapper, ss; Hay, as; McKenna, lf; L. Goyer, cf; Bryce, rf.;

K. of C.—H. White, p; S. Garvin, c; V. Barrow, 1b; Whalen, 2b; D. Doran, ss; D. Barrett, 1.f; Harris, c.f; D Trudeau, r.f.

The second game, between the Intelligencer and the Shoe Clerks was more nearly like a ball game, as the score will indicate. The team were fairly evenly matched except in the hitting department, and that was the only department the Shoe Clerks had over their opponents. Seven runs were chalked up against the Intell boys, although it is not all the fault of the pitcher to have many in the in one game. A number of the Shoe Clerks' runs were "lucky" ones, the ball taking an erratic route, however. The Intell team fielded fairly well, considering that most ones they had to handle, many of which were laid down just inside the 3rd base line, and had they been able to get away with the willow they would have been able to circle the bases with ease.

Harry Anderson pitched for the Intellizers' aggregation, and stayed it all evening, but he hadn't anything on Mclaine, the cool headed hurler for the Shoe Men who mixed slow ioh with fast ones and fooled more than one of his batsmen.

Umpire Ken Colling, on balls and strikes, and base umpire Vern Wetherall the game to the satisfaction of every one.

The Teams:—

Shoe Clerks—McAlpine, p; Canning c; Shorey, 1b; Donahue, 2b; Clarke 3b; Woodley, ss; Hadley, lf; Reid c.f; Hill, r.f.

Intelligencer —Anderson, p; L. Mason, c; Scott, 1b; McLeod, 2b; J. Mason, 3b; Brown, ss; Hidley, lf; Lesser, c.f; Hutchinson, r.f.

IS M'TIGUE POSSIBLE CHAMP

Canadian Boxer Has Makings of Classy Boy, Say Experts.

Toronto, April 1.—The possibility that Canada may soon possess a world's champion professional fighter looms large on the boxing horizon. Canada has had amateur champions in boxing, but the records do not contain many names in the professional championships ranks. Tommy Burns was, of course, a Canadian and a sterling fighter, but since his boy-day the Dominion has supplied few fighters of championship qualifications.

However, now that Mike McTigue, the Irish-Canadian middleweight, has fought his way to the forefront in his division, Canadian boxing fans will follow his career with interest and will hope that he will develop into a real champion with careful handling.

Although, technically, Johnny Wilson, the Boston Italian retains the middleweight title, there is really no recognized champion among the boxers.

Mike McTigue is a strong Irishman, and it is safe betting that if ever the Irish-Canadian champion succeeds in luring the Boston Italian into a roped arena there is going to be a new star in the pugilistic firmament. McTigue has earned himself the right to a fight for the championship, and while the critics were not deeply impressed with his last fight with Young Fisher, they concede that he has the makings of a champion. Jack Smith of course still looms forth but he is a veteran, and he is not considered a serious contender.

McTigue is a clever finished boxer, but what he lacks in the finer points of the game is counterbalanced by his fighting ability, stamina, courage and his faculty in assimilating punishment. He who has youth on his side, being a comparatively short time in the game, but long enough to defeat men who were considered in the forefront of his class. What he knows was learned in Canada, where he soon cleaned up all opposition that stood in the way of his march to being a headliner and the championship.

With careful handling and the accumulating of ring knowledge which will come with experience. There is no reason why McTigue should not soon bring the middleweight title to Canada if a match for the championship can be arranged, as he possesses all those qualities of which champions are made.

Remarkable about that boy Eber. About six or seven months ago he was nearly down and out. In fact the fistic world had almost forgotten him. To date his comeback has been sensational. He has been taking on the good boys and trouncing them with plenty of regularity.

And the little weazened champ is none is anxious to have any part of the tough Mountain City lad. The last crack made by him was that he would meet Eber if he were allowed to appoint his own referee.

:: :: :: ::

Looks as if he ought to have an "I" in the middle of his name.

:: :: :: ::

These champions are hard lads to talk business to. They want a good slice of the earth to appear with the veriest ham and then they want all the protection possible. The old title is worth plenty in dollars and cents and they certainly hate to take any chances of losing it.

There are no friends of Harry Greb who urge him to take a shot at "Jawn" Dempsey. Meanwhile Greb is cleaning up the jack travelling around with a burlesque show that advertises him as the "Wonder Man of the Ring."

:: :: :: ::

All the good work of a good publicity man is going to be shot to hoot as friend Dempsey gets one good whack at the erstwhile "Wonder Man."

Strangler Lewis offers to bet $50,000 he can trim Dempsey in a go-as-you-please scrap fest. That boy talks like Tex Rickard in his balmy days.

Dear Sirs:-

Twenty-seven years ago, when Red Rose Tea was first placed on the market, we selected the daily newspapers as the quickest way to reach the most people.

At that time grocers were selling, principally, China teas in bulk, while Red Rose Tea was, and is to-day, a blend of fine British grown teas from India and Ceylon, put up in sealed packages.

Because it goes directly into the home, into frequent and close touch with the woman, the buyer of the family, we can count on results in building Red Rose Tea sales for merchants in small towns as well as whole sections, so we consider the daily newspaper gives us a definite service.

We are happy to say this with the experience of 27 years behind it. For India and Ceylon teas have almost completely supersaded China teas, and the daily paper has helped us make RED ROSE TEA, in its sealed package, known to Canadians from coast to coast, and our trade mark, "RED ROSE TEA is good tea" a household name.

Yours truly,

T. H. ESTABROOKS Co. Limited.

PRESIDENT.

P.S. You may use this letter in any way you fsel inclined,

There is no doubt about it—if you want to make the name of your goods a household word you must advertise in Daily Newspapers. As Mr. Estabrooks says: and his comment is based upon 27 years' experience, "The Daily Newspaper goes into the home and is in frequent and close touch with the woman—the buyer the family.

GETTING MORE SPEED.

It is a most significant thing that not a single passenger was either killed or seriously injured from the operation of civilian airplane services in England last year. Between 400 and 500 people crossed the Channel each week, and more than double that number were taken up on joy rides. In fact, the business of transporting people between London and Paris is now on a definite commercial basis, and is exhibiting an encouraging measure of growth. The charge in the best-equipped airplanes is about $26 for the trip, which is, of course, much above the combined rail and steamer fares, and yet an increasing number of people are willing to pay it. The fact that no casualties occurred in 1921 is credited to the skill of the pilots and mechanics, the aeronautical inspection department, and the controller of aerodromes and licensing.

Having regard to the number of people involved, railway travel is still fairly safe. In 1920, in the United States, only one passenger in every 5,763,000 was killed, and we did nearly as well in Canada. There was a time when the proportion of casualties was much higher, which goes to show that the transportation of human beings with relative safety is rapidly approaching perfection. With the installation of train control, now proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission across the line, further advances may be made.

The world will soon be divided between those who want to travel faster and those who want to travel slower. The "faisters" will win out. It is in keeping with the modern tendency in all things to accelerate the pace.

"PROBLEM CASES"

There is one class of returned soldier which especially deserves the help and sympathy of the country. It is the man who has been discharged from the army as fit, but who, subsequent to his discharge, has developed disabilities of a nature to impair his earning capacity, or destroy his health, which disabilities are traceable to his war experiences. There are many such cases, and though it may not always be possible to assign definitely the origin of such disabilities, in many instances the physician would be able to do so. The man who suffers from his war service in this way, even though his disability has developed after his discharge, has a claim on the country's benevolence. At present, it is difficult for him to make good such a claim, and grave injustice results as a consequence. The suggestion of Major-General Mewburn that a royal commission be appointed to deal with such cases is designed to remove the injustice.

Major-General Mewburn's proposal is for a committee of four of five members, one of whom should be a medical man with overseas service, to visit all the large centres of population in the Dominion, having their sittings well advertised in advance, to adjudicate upon these "problem cases," hearing the soldiers personally, after having received a full statement of their claims. It is reported that the suggestion was favorably received by both sides of the house, and that it will probably be given consideration by the house committee. The public will warmly endorse such action. It is the will of the country that our fighting men who have returned broken in health and handicapped economically should receive a measure of compensation for their misfortune. Every facility should be given for the examination of these cases and for dealing with them in a generous spirit.

Even in our own Canadian literature, all of which is so comparatively recent, one may find books that have been almost if not quite forgotten, and that deserve a better fate. To how many of us, for instance, is Haliburton anything more than a name? Who to-day reads "Sam Slick the Clockmaker", or "The Old Judge", or "Nature and Human Nature?" And yet Thomas Chandler Haliburton was perhaps the one native writer of British North America who really approached the rank of genius.

Mr. Murdock is giving the mine workers of Glace Bay equally sound advice when he urges them to go back to work with this unmanly passive strike. Let them come right out into the open if they have a grievance. There is a Canadian law that will ensure for them a fair hearing on terms of absolute equality with their employers, so far as the safeguarding of their rights is concerned. The passive strike is a foreign-made weapon, being a striking resemblance to the stiletto made for stabbing in the back only. It is no sort of weapon for a free-born Canadian to use, and we do not believe any body of Canadian workmen will be found using it.

The Poets' Corner

THE CALLING SEA

The wind sweeps in from the marsh at night
And wails like a lost banshee,
And I go down from the quiet town
To stare at the roaring sea.

The wild wind, shrieking of distant lands,
And the green surge rolling free,
And the rising lights of the ships at night
Are signals that call to me.

I watch how the vessels lift and swing
To the tenth of the waves' wild tide,
Where the great waves roar on the rocky shore
And the pitching barges ride.

So I dream of shipping before the mast,
And sailing to foreign lands—
At rattling a way through the salt sharp spray
To tropical coral strands.

I have watched the vessels for foreign ports
Stand out to the open sea,
And I must go where the great storms blow
And the lashing wind roars free.

I may be that I shall come back again
To the peace of the little town,
Where the hyacinth grows, and the prim hedge-rows
Run neatly up and down.

I may be that when I grow tired and old
Then the little town will call,
And the quiet days and the sunlit ways
Shall please me most of all.

VANDALISM
Owners of cottages on Sugar Island are not in a pleasant frame of mind these days. Some time during the past two weeks every cottage on the island, with one exception, was broken into and ransacked. Miss Elsie Ferrier was the present sufferer. She spends considerable time at her summer home, and had it very comfortably furnished, but the latter presents a sorry spectacle now. The miscreants had a small bore rifle and made targets of the lamps and pictures, bedding was strewn around and many small articles to which sentimental value was attached, destroyed—Tweed News.

WHY MARRIAGES ARE DECREASING

sessment. Taxes nowadays are high everywhere, and Belleville seems to be right in line. Taxes have more than doubled what they were some years ago, due to a great extent, by the large improvements, such as sidewalk construction, sewers, and permanent pavements.

Some writers speak of "Springtime being rise time", of the birds singing "Come Feather your nest", and various other tantalizing invitations to the boring youth and maiden who are being weighed in the balance, but the question is, will brick and mortar, as these prices, hold warmth and love inside?

Then when the nest has been built or secured there is the second big item of furnishings. That's where our fatherless sought friends have it on we mortals. Their furnishings are very scanty, and when cold winds begin to blow, they go south. Not so with newly weds, they must stay and bear the shocks of circumstance.

It will be necessary to have a kitchen cabinet, dining room, suite, for newly weds do get hungry eventually. The cabinet will cost in the neighborhood of $35 to $50 and the dining room outfit between $50 and $70. A bedroom can be furnished at a cost of some $35. The parlor furnishings will need to consist of at least a library table at $20 and a settee and pair of chairs at from $50 to $60.

Before everything has been made ship shape, $500 will have vanished and the rest of $1,000 could be expended easily.

Is it any wonder then, that knowing these facts, and owing to the daily evidence of unemployment and hardship, that the young men hesitate in making the greatest investment in their life; when they invest their all in a stock company, where the preferred stock is never preferred and where there is no guarantee of substantial dividends.

GIRL H. S. ATHLETES HOLD BANQUET

Pleasant Function is Enjoyed by Many Guests Last Night.

The first banquet ever held by the Girls' Athletic Association of H.S. took place Friday evening at six o'clock.

The art room was prettily decorated with the B.H.S. colors and in the centre of the room was a huge U table.

The guests of honor were Miss Mc. Gyn, Instructress; Miss Hicks, Secretary, (halfback); Miss Baker, who says little but does everything; Mr. W. B. Riggs, active promoter of sports; Mr. A. Jamer, representing the "House Committee".

After a dainty supper, served by charming little waitresses, Miss Wylda Palmer proposed a toast to "The King". Various other toasts were proposed to the two Basketball teams and Baseball team and hockey team.

Mr. James proposed a toast to "The Girls' Athletic Association" to which Miss Merry responded. She said that it really didn't matter about the old brick and mortar desks if there was a spirit of co-operation in the school nothing could give you this spirit like athletics, where each girl on the team was playing for the honour of the school

A toast was proposed to Miss Merry herself, after which everyone joined in singing "She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Riggs, however, did not wish to let the matter drop there, and he persisted in singing a solo from "She's a Jolly Good Fellow" as if she wasn't always a jolly good fellow.

After the banquet the girls entertained a few of their gentlemen friends until the party broke up before the beginning of "All Fools' Day."

Before the close Mr. W. B. Riggs and Mr. James each gave the G.A.A. ten dollars. Three cheers for them.

HUGE MINE STRIKE STARTED IN U.S.

on duty at mines, strike to protect property.

NO GOOD reason for agreement between the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association and the miners' union to this effect was reached this afternoon.

How long the strike may continue is an unknown quantity; much will depend upon the Board of Conciliation appointed by the Dominion Government. At present both sides to the controversy have taken the most determined stand, and the miners have refused to accept the revised scale of wages offered by the operators.

President Harding's Statement

Washington, April 1.—President Harding believes that responsibility for the coal situation rests right, rests entirely upon the operators of Western Pennsylvania, who have consistently thrown down Governmental efforts at arbitration.

This was revealed by the administration's spokesman directly after yesterday's Cabinet meeting, which failed to produce a solution.

The Cabinet meeting was anxiously watched in the hope that the Government, in an eleventh-hour appeal, might prevent the strike. Late in the afternoon, however, the announcement was delivered made at the White House that the administration "had done everything it has thought it can do to prevent suspension of operations." The Government will keep hands off "until something happens," it was indicated.

This statement was followed by an analysis of the steps taken by the Government in bring both sides to the dispute together. Only the obdurate attitude of the Western Pennsylvania operators, it was said, had prevented this attempt being successful.

RUSSIAN RELIEF FUND.

The sum of $453.97 has been previously acknowledged for the Russian Relief Fund, here, and evidences of further good will to this worthy cause has been announced today, when the following contributions have been recorded:

Grand Trunk Shops	$66.29
M. W. Ackerman	50.00
Mrs. P. J. M. Anderson	5.00
Queen Alexandra School	4.00

The good will and contributions of the good people of Belleville have accordingly brought the sum total of the contributions to the fund, to $570.26, or more than enough to keep five hundred starving children of Russia alive until next harvest.

"I Fly Away."
A good fly spray can be made from 4½ quarts coal tar dip, 4½ quarts oil, 3 quarts coal oil, 3 quarts whale oil, and 1½ quarts of tar.
Dissolve 2 lbs. laundry soap in water, add the ingredients of the spray and bring the whole up to 36 gallons with lukewarm soft water. This spray will keep off the flies and prevent the coats of the animals from becoming harsh.
The cows should be sprayed twice a day—in the morning after milking and in the afternoon when in the barn for silage of green feed. Thirty gallons of mixture will spray 40 cows twice a day for ten days.

September Notes.
Peonies should be divided and reset during September or October.
Do not forget to lift some of the geraniums, salvia, coleus, or other plants in the yard or garden. They will bloom in the window this winter.
A drain tile set over each plant is a good method of blanching celery. Celery for winter storage should not be blanched before putting in the cellar.
Plant tulips in the garden or border the last of September or early October. Tulips, narcissus, daffodils and hyacinths planted now in pots or boxes and put in a cool place will give good flowers next spring.
Place squash or pie-melons in a dry room near the furnace or in a warm attic room. They must not be left for frost place. They will stand a great deal of heat and dry air, but little moisture. If you wish squash or pumpkins to keep well, handle them carefully as they are not bruised.
Dahlias, cannas, gladioli, etc., should be dug and stored after the foliage has been killed by frost. The first part of October is usually the time.
Also arrange a change of pasture for the sheep. Changing the pastures is essential as possible parasitic losses through parasitic diseases.

All vegetables should be harvested in the early morning and put in a cool place until dusted for the day. None but cull should be left on the ground.

How They Learn To Roller Skate

ONE-MINUTE ESSAYS ON HEALTH BY DR. S. WM. H. RIDDICK

The best recipe for learning to roller skate was given with a wisdom he didn't realize by a small boy who said that he learned "by getting up every time he fell down."

Children are entitled to their fun on roller skates but if they fall there is apt to be trouble. It is easy to slip one of the joints of that very flexible organ, the child's spine. A fall thrown into disturbed alignment does not right itself, as hundreds of chiropractors have discovered. A disturbed alignment will cause pressure on spinal nerves and the result is a partial paralysis, a complete one sometimes, that causes disease.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments restore the cause of diseases of the head, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, pancreas, spleen and the bowels and the lower organs.

CONFORMITY TO CHRIST

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God."

The one great word for service is sacrifice. We have the Christian ideal for service in the words of our text. We are entreated to present our bodies as living sacrifices to God. The idea of sacrifice was a very common one all through the Jewish dispensation. The Old Testament sacrifice was slain on the altar, but Christ put Himself to this kind of sacrifice by the offering up of His own body "once for all" as a sacrifice for sin. While Paul in these words presents thought of the past—of what was old and vanishing away. He also gives us a new conception of sacrifice, the New Testament one. God desires no more pouring out of blood. He looks for the pouring out of life, abundant life, "a living sacrifice." Seeing that Christ was put to death once, for every one of His followers, and hath been quickened by the Eternal Spirit, and His followers being likewise quickened—God expects the springing up and outpouring of life everywhere. The Son has risen, it is springtime. We are looking for the manifestation of life everywhere. Christ has risen to give life. You have received it. Then manifest it. "I beseech you be a living sacrifice to God."

We have not yet learned the meaning of service until we can say with Paul, "I shall gladly spend and be spent for Christ." There is a motive for this service of self-sacrifice. What is it? "Mercies of God." Not the universal mercies that daily fulfil temporal wants, but rather the great mercies streaming down from heaven and founded in Christ as related in the previous chapter. "I beseech by the mercies of God"—the great manifestations of His grace in Christ Jesus "that ye would present your bodies," etc. We are reminded of what Paul says elsewhere, "Ye are not your own, ye are bought with a price, therefore glorify God in your bodies and spirits, which are His." This is our "spiritual worship" and it is "reasonable"—appeals to the mind.

Let us tender this service which we owe to God. To do this there are two attitudes we must maintain—one negative, towards the world, the other positive, towards Christ.

Negative Attitude.

"Be not conformed to this world" —or age. What is the spirit or tendency of this age that we must turn ware off? It is pleasure, forgetfulness of God—or mammonism, or all three? The warning by the beloved John is: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." The love the world will crowd out the love of God. Too many are feeding on the husks and missing the best things in life. They deceive themselves by promising to keep the best things last, and they rarely ever find them. We should seek and find the best things first. We fear many are trying what is impossible, to "serve God and mammon." "Ye cannot," Jesus said. So it is very foolish to try. Do not attempt this foolish thing any longer, this practice of holding out one hand to the world, seeking its pleasures, and hold out the other hand to God, seeking His blessings of joy and peace. Cannot have both. Let us pursue the negative attitude—Be not conformed to this age.

A wealthy young lady who had lived in pleasure, shortly after her conversion was perplexed as to whether she should attend any places of amusement. She had great confidence in the friend who led her to Christ. So she asked him, "Would it be right for me to attend the theatre?" "Yes," he said, and after a pause, added, "if you can take Christ with you." She said "I'll take a friend with me." He said, further, "When purchasing tickets buy three, one for yourself, one for your friend, and one for the Lord Jesus." Such an idea shocked her, and never after did she think or desire to attend any place of worldly amusement. The attitude must be against all that is of the world—whatever is "according to the course of this world"—whether of materialism and pleasure seeking. Such lead to forgetfulness of God and worldly lust, which drown men into perdition. You may say "I am not troubled with fleshly lust." It may be something worse. Fleshly lust is bad, but idolatry is far worse. Your sin may be worshipping the God of this world. Let us strike at the root of this—what is it? Something objective that begets a subjective condition. "Beware of covetousness, which is idolatry." What do you covet most? Do you desire more than your food of this world's goods? Then beware of idolatry. If it is more money you want you will learn to beget a love for it, feel its sordidness and know not its value, but its curse, viz.: that "the love of money is the root of all evil." If you have enough to eat and to wear be content, and you shall find, if the "one thing needful" is added, that you are rich indeed—"Godliness with contentment is great gain.

Now that we have discovered the root let us find the fruit. There are three shoots springing from this root and they produce all the fruit of worldliness and lust we can find on this age. These are, "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life." They compose all that is in the world which is not of God. They are all sinful and sin-producing. By these man fell and continues to fall. Every son of Adam is tempted by either or all of these.

The Son of God was tempted in all points—but triumphed over them through the truth and the mighty power of the Spirit. Satan did tempt the Son of God and questioned His Sonship and divineness by overcoming His tempter and proving a victor to a triple temptation. In this three-fold temptation Christ resisted all that was in the world, viz., "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life."

If we would also be victors and maintain good warfare we shall come off more than conquerors by keeping close to our Saviour and following His example.

But it is not enough to maintain a negative attitude and resist any conformity to the world. There is a higher ideal for the Christian. Let him "eschew that which is evil and cleave to that which is good." So then, in the hope of finding a better way, pursue the Positive Attitude.

"Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." We are just about to witness a transformation and renewal. The process is going on now. This is springtime. God is fulfilling His word by transforming and renewing the earth. The warm rains have melted the frozen ice and snow, the gentle rains have fallen, the sunbeams have been operating all around, God is now clothing the grass. In a little while we shall see every bush and tree renewed and transformed. It is a time of house cleaning, homes are being renewed, windows are thrown open to let the musty air of winter out and the spring air come in to replace it. The accumulation of dust will be swept out and everything made clean and bright.

The merchants will be renewing their stocks, winter goods will be put away and spring and summer goods in their place. Like the homes the places of business will be renewed and transformed. The change shall be seen in ourselves. We shall soon be putting off our winter garb and donning our summer dress.

All this is a timely lesson to be transformed and renewed in the inner man. The most important transformation is not objective but subjective, not outward but inward. It is, what Paul says in another epistle, "Be renewed in the spirit of your mind" While nature is busy putting on her beautiful garments, merchants renewing their stocks, and the housewife her home, let us see that we do not neglect the inner man. "But be ye transformed by the renewing of your minds." Begin now and take stock of all that is in your mind; all your thoughts, purposes, plans, etc. Cast away all the hard frozen thought of winter. Get rid of all your selfish purposes and plans. Seek "the mind of the Master" and replenish your little mind. Clean the windows of your understanding that the light of His truth may shine in your mind and make your life beautiful. See that the rooms of your heart and soul are furnished with some of the Master's most beautiful paintings. Put the lily in a vase and take time to examine it and consider it. Think the Master's great thoughts. This is a most effectual way to overcome or prevent any tendency to conformity to this age. Renew our minds by remembering the age to come. Our living here is not to be according to the fashion of this age—for it passeth away. Our ideals are not in time but in eternity. We are to set our mind on things above and fashion our lives by the unseen things. This is the only way we can ascertain what the will of God is. Many of us have proved part of God's good will by believing on Jesus. As we go on in the life of faith in the Son of God we shall learn God's will more completely. Have we discovered that the will of God is ever our sanctification? We must come to know the perfect will of God by a complete transformation to the likeness and character of Jesus Christ.

God Himself has begun the good work in us and will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ. Let us manifest outwardly what God is working inwardly. This after all is the secret power that transforms the believer into the likeness of Christ, viz.: conformity to the will of God in opposition to the world's will or self will. It is well to learn in time that there is only one sweet will in heaven or earth, for every believer, find that is the will of God. Oh, child of God, would you have the joy and peace of God flowing through thy soul as a mighty river? Then prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.

In conclusion, let me entreat you as Paul did the Romans that you find the highest motive for service, viz.: the love of God in Christ for you. Remember that God loved you in your sins and by the great sacrifice of Christ saved you.

Think of this deeply and let your service, by the use of every power God has given you, be whole-hearted. Pour out your life daily in His service that your may truly be a "living sacrifice" acceptable to God.

To shun conformity to this world follow in the Master's steps. Seek renewal day by day in faith and love and every grace. Find out the will of God concerning you day by day what He would have you be and do.

Remember that the process of transformation is going on while you hold to the two attitudes. Non-conformity to the age in which you live, and a positive conforming to the will of God that you may be transformed into the likeness of Christ Jesus our Lord.

TEA PRICES RISING

Rumor has it that the labor unrest and general dissatisfaction in India, the largest tea producing country in the world, have made production expensive and hazardous that a general rise in prices may be expected in the near future. The estimated consumption this year will be much larger than the crop available.

Just get one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—add to it a little sugar and enough hot water to make a half pint and you've got an inexpensive remedy better than you can buy ready mixed.

Its soothing, healing action on the membrane is the reason so many people use it for Catarrh and acute nasal colds.

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian spring weather—one day mild and balmy, the next raw and blustery is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is so often over-heated and bad ly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or banishing colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ailments of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail a 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW FORESTS FOR GREAT BRITAIN

A shipment of seven hundred pounds of Douglas fir seed was recently forwarded from the Dominion Forestry Branch seed-extracting plant at Westminster, B.C., to Great Britain. This is the final shipment of seed collected in 1921. The total quantity of each kind of seed shipped for this season was: Douglas fir, 4,000 pounds; Sitka spruce, 2,000 pounds; and western hemlock, 100 pounds. As tree seed is very small and light, ranging from an average of forty-three thousand seeds to the pound of Douglas fir to four hundred thousand seeds to the pound of Sitka spruce, it will be seen that many millions of seedlings will be germinated from these shipments for planting in the extensive reforestation scheme which the British Forestry Commission has in hand.

AVOID THE HOLD-UP

"There's a Board Meeting at 10 o'clock and I'll be late," said the director of a prosperous concern as he stood watching the removal of a blown-out tire. "I told you to put that "Gutta Percha" tire on before we left. I can't afford the time these hold-ups cost." Business men don't relish stops on the road to fix tires. Chauffeurs don't like it either. Instruct your chauffeur to put "Gutta Percha" Tires on your car and you will both enjoy the assurance of trips without stops.

When you are thinking about things and muttering to yourself during the replacing of a tire, just register a new resolution that henceforth you will motor on tires that don't blow out—"GUTTA PERCHAS."

WINDOW AND VERANDAH

Brightened With Flower Boxes and Hanging Baskets.

The Boxes Must Be Strong and Durable—Soil Should Be Kept Rich and Well Watered — Hints on Arrangement of Plants.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Window boxes should be made strong and durable. Each box should be nine or ten inches wide all the way, and bottom, seven or eight inches deep. These measurements, of a suitable length to fit the window, not over four feet in length, made of one-inch dressed lumber, and when finished, painted a dull green color. Half-inch holes should be bored about six inches apart through the bottom of the box for drainage purposes. Verandah boxes should be about the same measurements. A large iron pipe, or a wooden staple, should be put at each top, outside (front) corner of the window boxes. A strong piece of wire should be attached to these long enough to attach to another screw eye or staple placed in the window frame about a foot higher up than top of box, so that the box can be fastened securely in position. Boxes and barrels may be made more artistic and rustic looking by nailing moss and fungi covered bark, of lastive trees, on the outside. This not only adds to their attractiveness but also helps to keep the plants moist and cool at the roots in summer time. The bark from Basswood, Elm, Cedar or thick trees will be found suitable. By the exercise of a little taste and originality, very pretty boxes can be made at slight cost. Verandah boxes and rustic stands can be made in something the same way. One of the prettiest rustic stands I have ever seen was made from the lower half of a sugar barrel, reinforced by a thickness of half-inch board nailed on the bottom of the barrel outside to strengthen it, with three quarter-inch holes bored through for drainage purposes.

Hanging Baskets.

Wire hanging baskets lined with green moss or sphagnum moss are very effective, especially for a sunny position. The clay baskets dry out very quickly and are better suited for a shady position than a sunny one.

Soil.

The soil for window boxes must be rich in fertilizers if the best results are to be obtained. Use as much loam to put an inch in depth of well rotted barnyard manure, or other manure, near the bottom of each box before filling it up with the prepared soil. About an inch in depth of soil may be placed in the bottom of the box first, and the fertilizers named spread over it, or about half a pound of bone meal may be used as a substitute for the first named fertilizers. These fertilizers will help sustain plant growth late in the season when the soil has become exhausted. One part sand, one part leaf mould (black soil from the bush) and seven or eight parts of light loamy soil well mixed, with two parts of either of the fertilizers named added, will make a good soil for window boxes, rustic stands, etc.

The best time to fill window boxes is when they are to be placed in position toward the end of May or early in June. The boxes may be set in position and well secured, before they are filled with soil or plants, as they are heavy and difficult to set in position when filled.

Arrangement of Plants.

Tall growing plants should be placed at the back of the box nearest the window. Dwarf plants and trailing plants should then be put around the front and ends of the box. Any space between the tall plants in the centre of the box should be filled with medium height plants. It is a good plan to first fill the box nearly level full with with soil, then stand the plants on the surface where they are to be planted finally. By doing this the plants can be changed about and rearranged, and a good idea of the arrangement and effect obtained can be obtained before finally planting them. For color effect, for there should not too much of any one color, especially the heavier colors, should only be placed in any one part of the box, whether a dwarf or tall plants, else there would not then be a proper balance of color, something that would detract from the effect considerably. Try to cover the plants on the surface of the soil before planting as mentioned, any change required can be easily carried out. Use light colored plants mainly whether of foliage or flowers, and, if possible, make use of good sized plants. Boxes filled as described at the time of setting out, will do much better than boxes filled indoors early in the season. Boxes filled very early indoors, often look shabby as soon as they are set out, and sometimes become positively unsightly before the summer season is half over.

Care of Boxes.

Window boxes, etc., require copious and frequent waterings every day, or at least every second day, especially during hot weather. The soil should be well soaked with water when watering the boxes. Toward the end of the season, in July and August, some liquid fertiliser may be given the plants. The late Wm. Hunt, O.A.C., College, Guelph.

THE CONTINENTAL LIMITED

One of the World's Finest Long Distance Trains

The history of the railroad in Canada makes interesting reading. While it is one of the comparatively modern institutions, few have made greater strides in development than it.

Some of our oldest inhabitants may still remember when the first steam locomotive was imported and tried out, and undoubtedly many can recall the time when railway service was very crude and meagre.

Records show that the first railway charter in Canada was granted in 1832. In 1836 the first railway, which was sixteen miles long, from La Prairie on the St. Lawrence to St. John on the Richelieu, was opened for traffic. The rails, unlike the solid steel ones of to-day, weighing 100 lbs. to the yard, were of wood, with a strip of steel spiked on the top. The first year of operation, horses were used, but in 1837 a steam locomotive was imported and put into service. The cars were only 54 miles of road open for traffic in 1853 there began a great era of railway construction, bringing in its wake development and colonization. To-day the people of Canada, in their Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways, own over 22,000 miles of road, the greatest railway system in the world.

With the passing of the years and the ever increasing mileage have also come many changes in railway equipment. From the rakish little engine used in 1853, modern locomotive has evolved the mighty Pacific type of locomotive, weighing 407,700 lbs., and having eight powerful driving wheels, 60 inches in diameter, used to-day. "The Continental" construction has given way to solid steel construction, and the great transcontinental train of to-day, "The Continental Limited," operated by the Canadian National Railways, is equipped with practically all the comforts and conveniences of a modern hotel. This premier train operates daily in transcontinental service between Montreal and Vancouver, and is called "The Continental Limited," as signifying that it travels across the continent.

To keep up this daily service via Ottawa, Winnipeg Saskatoon and Edmonton, it is necessary to maintain 14 trains, 10 of which are in active service all the time, the latter four being used as guard trains. To equip the trains actively in service it takes 10 locomotives, 30 baggage or express cars, 10 colonist cars, 10 tourist cars, 10 standard sleepers, 10 dining cars and 10 observation-compartment cars—in all about $1,500,000 worth of equipment. A crew of 190 men is needed to operate these trains.

The route of "The Continental Limited" traverses six of the provinces of the Dominion. From Montreal it passes through the famous Cobalt mining district and the pulp forests of Northern Ontario, via Ottawa, North Bay and Cochrane, to Winnipeg, these continuing across some of the richest farm lands of the prairie province, via Saskatoon and Edmonton. It then proceeds through the Northern Canadian Rockies, via Jasper, and Mount Robson Parks and follows down the Fraser Valley to Vancouver.

IN DAYS OF SLAVERY

NEGROES SOUGHT SAFETY IN FREEDOM-LOVING CANADA.

Story of the Handsome Octoroon Who Made His Escape, Only to Be Followed Across the Line by Kidnappers—Government in Upper Canada Was Always on the Side of the Unfortunate Black Men.

Matthew Bullock is not the first black man who has found refuge in Canada from the injustices that prevailed in the days of the United States. Many romantic stories of the escaped slaves who came to this country before the American Civil War are worthy of repeating, says a writer in the Toronto Sunday World. In 1820, that a handsome young man who gave his name as Andrew Anderson had been held in slavery in Kentucky, and got as far as Detroit without being detected. He was an octoroon, with finely chiselled features and bright hazel eyes, there would not then be a proper system of color, scientific that would detract from the effect considerably. He crossed the plains on the surface of the soil before planting as mentioned, any change required can be easily carried out. Use light colored plants mainly whether of foliage or flowers, and, if possible, make use of good sized plants. Boxes filled as described at the time of setting out, will do much better than boxes filled indoors early in the season. countries Bailey and his neighbors had learned that his home was too close to the border to make a safe place of refuge for an escaped slave who was as fine a specimen of manhood as Anderson. They took up a subscription, and Andrew journeyed in state by stage-coach to "little York," where he became a much respected citizen.

It was in their efforts to create legal ways of securing the return of their slaves that the Americans found the Canadians aggravating opponents.

According to the law of the land, the slaves who reached Canada were free. In 1819, John Beverley Robinson, the Attorney-General of Upper Canada, issued a statement to that effect. He also added a veiled threat which intimated that if slave owners came to Upper Canada and attempted to obtain possession of their property, they would undoubtedly meet with official "interference." At first sight "interference" seems a mild enough word, but the slavers never tried to discover its full meaning by attempting to carry off their men under the eye of the Canadian law.

The plan that the American slave owners hit upon was simple. They no longer claimed the negroes as slaves, but accused them of other crimes and brought up witnesses against them. It was easy enough to do that, as most of the runaways had stolen something from their former masters, either in the way of money to escape, or perhaps the clothes that they were wearing.

Under the laws of Upper Canada, alleged refugees charged with crimes were returned to their own country to be tried. The slaves knew enough if was a good plan to get their property returned as law breakers. Then they could be taken over again as slaves.

The case of Thornton Blackburn gave the Americans the first indication that the Canadians were determined the subterfuge. This negro and his wife escaped from Kentucky in 1831. They were arrested at Detroit, and the magistrate decided that they must be returned to the Kentuckian who claimed them. On the day that the sheriff was to take him back a band of negroes overpowered the guards. In the riot that followed both Blackburn and his wife got safely across the river.

The Government of Upper Canada was called upon to return three prisoners, but the Governor of Upper Canada, in his reply, made it very plain to the officers of the courts across the line that the Canadians saw through the clever schemes of the slavers. It was further intimated that Sir John Colborne and his advisers did not think Blackburn would ever be tried for causing a riot, but that he would be returned to slavery without morsdade.

The Thornton Blackburn case happened in 1831.

Popular Varieties of Strawberries.

From the beginning of commercial strawberry growing, about 1800, the Large Early Scarlet was the leading variety grown in the United States. About 1850 the Wilson replaced this variety, because it was much firmer and was more suitable for shipping to distant markets, as the hardiness and good bearing qualities helped to make strawberry growing more popular in Ontario. From about 1880 varieties began to replace each other more rapid succession, each 10 percent 25 sorts constitute about 90 per cent. of the total commercial strawberry acreage. The Klondike, the leading variety in the Southern States, heads the list, constituting 25 per cent. of the total strawberry acreage. The Aroma, the favorite variety in the South Central States, is second with 13 per cent. of the total acreage, while the Dunlap in the Northern States ranks third, with 10 per cent. In Ontario among the leading varieties for commercial-ly are the Glen Mary, Williams, Dunlap, Aroma, Parsons, Brandywine, and Sample. Among the fall bearers the Superb and Progressive are preferred.

Feeding the Cow Before Calving.

The proper time to begin feeding a dairy cow is six or eight weeks before calving, and practical dairymen believe that this preparation has more to do with the amount of milk and butter fat which will be produced during the lactation period than does the feeding after calving has been effected.

For cows calving during the summer they can easily be prepared likes to have a small pasture away from the herd but with an abundance of grass, and, in addition, they like to have a suitable grain mixture. Corn silage, with clover or alfalfa hay and a limited grain ration of three parts ground oats, two parts of bran, and one part of oil meal is especially good for cows calving during winter or early spring. After calving the cows should be started slowly up to full feed and thereby steadily to a higher production.

Feeding Young Chickens.

Young chickens should be fed from three to five times daily, depending upon one's experience in feeding, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Undoubtedly chickens can be grown faster by feeding five times daily than by feeding three times daily, but it should be borne in mind that more harm can be done to the young chickens by overfeeding than by underfeeding, and at no time should they be fed more than barely to satisfy their appetites and to keep them exercising, except at the evening or last meal, when they should be given all they will eat. Great care must be exercised not to overfeed young chicks, for if they are confined, as big weakness is apt to result.

GAINED OVER 20 LBS

Consumptive Condition Restored to perfect Health.

"An attack of "flu" in the fall of 1918, left me in such a weakened condition that I could not walk across the kitchen, and for nearly two months I spit blood. My neighbours as well as myself thought I was in the first stages of consumption. My weight was 120 lbs., and I shrunk from that to 98 lbs. On the recommendation of my druggist I began to take Carnol. Before finishing the first bottle I felt a marked improvement. I then took four bottles and my improvement was so marvelous that at the end of three months I gained in weight—the most I ever weighed in my life. I can safely recommend Carnol to anyone as a run down condition, as being the best as well as the most palatable tonic on the market today. My little girl of eight years took Carnol for the head and chest and was so bad she could scarcely breathe. I gave her Carnol in hot water and the next morning she was able to get out of bed for the first time in several days. I know Carnol will do for you what it did for me and my little girl —worked wonders."

The experience of Mrs. F. of Halifax.

Carnol is composed of that wonderful nerve tonic—glycerophosphate salts. This is recognized known the world over as the "Blood Salts." It is the best blood builder and nerve invigorator yet discovered.

Carnol is sold by your druggist and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 1-1222

THE LIGHT IN THE CLEARING

'twas hopin' you'd say that," he went on. "Well, boy, I think it can be arranged. I'll see the senator as soon as ever he comes an' I believe he'll be glad to know o' yer wishes. I think he's been hopin'. Then that ye would propose it. Go up to the farm and spend a happy month or two with yer aunt an' uncle. It'll do ye good. Ye've been growin' plumpy down there. Go an' rest it off in the fields."

A little more talk and we were off to bed with our candles.

Next morning I went down into the main street of the village before breakfast to see the sights. I wanted to see how it looked and, to be quite frank, I wanted some of the people of Canton to see how I looked, for my clothes were of the best cloth and cut in the latest fashion. Many stopped me and shook me hand—men and women who had never noticed me before, but there was sociality in their smiles that I didn't quite enjoy. I know now that they sought me a little too grand on the inside. What a storm-socked bit those bakkses were! "All ain't gold that glitters." How often I had heard that voice of the old motto!

"Why, you look like the senator then he is just gittin' home from the capital," said Mr. Jenkes.

They were not yet willing to take me at the par of my appearance.

I met Betsy Price—one of my schoolmates—on the street. She was very cordial and told me that the Dunkerleys had gone to Saratoga.

"I got a letter from Sally this morning," Betsy went on. "She said that among Mr. Latour was at the same hotel and that he and her father were good friends."

I wonder if she really enjoyed sticking this thorn into my flesh—a thorn which made it difficult for me to follow the advice of the schoolmaster and ahead me of the little peace I might've enjoyed. My faith in Sally wavered up and down until it settled at a wounded level and reassured me.

It was a perfect summer morning of I enjoyed my walk over the familiar road and up into the hill country. he birds seemed to sing a welcome ome. Men and boys I had known tved their hats in the hayfields and ked at me. There are few places se in this world like that of a boy iting home after a long absence.

My heart beat fast when I saw the hse and my uncle and Purvis coming t from the twenty-acre lot with a ad of hay. Aunt Deel stood on the front steps looking down the road. Now and then her waving handkerchief went to her eyes. Uncle Ivesbody came down the standard of his load and walked toward me.

"Say, stranger, have you seen anything of a feller by the name o' Bart Baynes?" he demanded.

"Have you?" I asked.

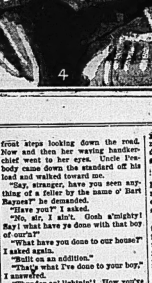

"No, sir, I ain't. Gosh a'mighty! Say! what have ye done with that boy of ourn?"

"What have you done to our house?" I asked again.

"Built on an addition."

"That's what I've done to your boy," I answered.

"Thunder an' lightnin'! How you've raised the roof!" he exclaimed as he grabbed my satchel. Dressed like a statesman an' bigger'n a bullmoose, I can't rastle with you no more. But, say, I'll run ye a race. I can beat ye an' carry the satchel, too."

We ran pell-mell up the lane to the steps like a pair of children.

Aunt Deel did not speak. She just put her arms around me and laid her dear old head upon my breast. Uncle Peabody turned away. Then what a silence! Off in the edge of the woodland I heard the fairy flute of a woodthrush.

"Purvis, you drive that load on the floor as' put up the hosses," Uncle Peabody shouted in a moment. "Ye you don't like it yer can hire 'nother man. I won't do no more till after dinner. This slave business is played out."

"All right," Purvis answered.

"You bet it's all right. I've fer abolition an' I've stood your domineerin', nigger-driver ways long enough for one mornin'. If you don't like it you can look for another man."

Aunt Deel said I began to laugh at this good-natured, make-believe scolding of Uncle Peabody and the emotional strain was over. They led me into the house, where a delightful surprise awaited me, for the rooms had been decorated with balsam boughs and sweet ferns. A glowing mass of violets, framed in moss, occupied the center of the table. The house was filled with the odors of the forest, which, as they knew, were dear to me. I had written that they might expect me some time before noon, but I begged them not to meet me in Canton, as I wished to walk home after my long ride. So they were ready for me.

I remember how they felt the cloth on my back and how proudly they surveyed it.

"Couldn't buy them goods 'round these parts," said Uncle Peabody. "Nor nothin' like 'em—no, sir."

"Feels a leetle bit like the buttermilk trousers," said Aunt Deel as she felt my coat.

Area, but them buttermut trousers ain't what they used to be when they was young and limber," Uncle Peabody remarked. "Seems so they was gittin' kind o' wrinkled an' baldheaded-like, 'specially where I set down."

"Ayes! Wal I guess a man can't grow old without his pants growin' old, too—ayes!" said Aunt Deel.

"If yer legs are in 'em ev'ry Sunday they ketch it; of ye, my uncle answered. "Long sermons are hard on pants, seems to me."

"An' the longer the legs the harder the sermons—in them little seats over 't the schoolhouse—ayes!" Aunt Deel added by way of justifying his complaint. "There wouldn't be so much wear in a ten-mile walk—no!"

Then the dinner was taking and the strawberries were ready for the shortcake.

"I've been wallerin', since the dew was off gittin' them berries an' vittles ready!" said Aunt Deel, now busy with her work at the stove.

"Aunt, you look as young as ever," I remarked.

She slapped my arm and said with mock severity:

"Stop that! Wy! You know better 'n that!"

Wyer vigorously she stirred the fire then.

"I can't return the compliment—my soul! how you've changed—eyes!" she remarked.

"I hope you ain't fit no more, Bart. ~ can't bear to think o' you flyin' at folks an' poundin' of 'em. Don't seem right—no, it don't!"

"Why, Aunt Deel, what in the world do you mean?" I asked.

"It's Purvis' brain that does the poundin', I guess," said my uncle. "It's kind o' got the habit. It's a regular beetle brain. To hear him talk ye'd think he an' you could clean out the hull Mexican nation—harrin' accidents. Why, anybody would suppose that per contract to climbin' trees as soon as they see yo-ounin' an' that you pull the trees up by the roots to git at 'em."

"A certain amount of such devilitry is necessary to the comfort of Mr. Purvis," I remarked. "If there is nobody else to take the responsibility for it he assumes it himself. His imagination has an intense craving for blood and violence. It's that type of American who, egged on by the slave power, is hurrying us into trouble with Mexico."

Purvis came in presently with a look in his face which betrayed his knowledge of the fact that all the cobwebs spun by his fancy were now to be brushed away. Still he enjoyed them while they lasted and there was a kind of tacit claim in his manner that they were subjects regarding which no human could be expected to tell the truth.

As we ate our dinner they told me that an escaped slave had come into a neighboring county and excited the people with stories of the auction block and of negroes driven like yoked oxen on plantations in South Carolina, whence he had escaped on a steamboat.

"I b'lieve I'm goin' to vote for abolition," said Uncle Peabody. "I wonder what Silas Wright will say to that."

"He'll probably advise against it; the time isn't ripe for so great a change," was my answer. "He thinks that the whole matter should be left to the glacial action of time's forces."

Indeed I had spoken the view of the broader men of the North. The subject filled them with dreadi alarm. But the attitude of Uncle Peabody was significant. The sentiment in favor of a change was growing. It was now to be reckoned with, for the abolition party was said to hold the balance of power in New York and New England and was behaving itself like a bull in a china shop.

After dinner I tried to put on some of my old clothes, but found that my nakedness had so expanded that they would not cover it, so I hitched my white mare on the spring wagon and drove to the village for my trunk.

THE KHAN, IN TORONTO TELEGRAM

THE SITES OF IT.

When Aimee Geddes flung her stool at the head of the preacher in St. George's Hall what thousands of others would like to have done before and since. She was simply protesting against a rite which she did not understand.

Scotland hath furnished history with three famous women—Mary Queen of Scots, Jennie Geddes and Jeannie Deans. It is difficult to say best which of these will outlast the others, but Mistress Geddes was the most human of the three. We are told that she hit the preacher, "whatsoever she was handiest to," one didn't hit the pulpit even, but, nevertheless, that was the blow that killed father.

There would be more religious revolutions to-day, only the pews are too soft and they are fastened down as a rule. In the days of Jennie Geddes there were no pews in the churches, and you brought your stool with you. Nowadays we forbid people to carry firearms. After Jennie's day the occasional pistol-shot gradually vanished, stool and installed pews. This was one of the greatest strides that civilization ever made. Few people don't know about that, either. Any person who goes to church with a stool under his arm and sat on it for two hours, throughout the service, must have meant it. Then stools were the seats of the mighty; that we know from Shakespeare. Nowadays we see pews that are mighty seats, but few of them are seats of the mighty.

Jennie didn't understand the ritual, but we can understand Jennie. If you attend the funeral of a friend who was a member of some secret society to which you yourself do not belong, you will be confused, and perhaps bemused, by some of the performances about the grave. It's perfectly all right, though. You simply don't know what it all means, and your if you guess shrewdly what they are, as a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. The people enjoy the ritual, understand all its symbolism, and to them it is impressively suggestive and beautiful. To you it seems like so much tom-foolery. What about a perfectly deaf person, think when he witnesses a ball-room full of people dancing? He cannot hear the music and the scene must appear to him like a wild and indecent orgy.

Every man is a natural-born ritualist. No philosopher can't make some of them think so. Our North American Indians were the finest ritualists in the whole race. The sun dance was a pageant which, for impressive grandeur dwelled by either the eastern or the western church. The stately medicine man in full regalia standing on a hill top addressing the great sun of high, was indeed a high priest standing face to face with a living God. Then our missionaries came along and converted them—or did they convert them?—to the true faith!

Famous evangelists like Carrie Nation and Billy Sunday moved the multitudes because they stage d a great show. Much of them was a ritualist, although neither of them was aware of it. Great salesmen like Gladstone, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and Hon. W. T. Raney, the Hon. Bob Rogers, and Joe Martin, were all ritualists. They summon old zeal with the bald head and to carry his stool to the party camp meetin' like the rest, but any day he hurried his rear at the preacher and started a new religion. He devised a great up-to-date ritual, and if you go up to the Legislature any afternoon you will see them going through the whole performance with a few amendments. If Miss Muriel thirst for immortality, all she's got to do is to leave her desk at Mister Speaker, and if she misses it, and inadvertently hits the late William Lyon Mackenzie's grandson she needn't bother about her future.

All the little decencies and courtesies of life are ritual. This morning at breakfast Ole Dad Sloomie cut the tip-top off his rasher of ham and laid it gently, almost reverently, on Sarah Anne's plate. It was the thin strip between the layers of fat that she likes so well. He does something like that almost at every meal. It is an old-time courtesy of affection. He did it at the plowing match banquet last fall, and it amused quite a few lowbred young people. They didn't understand the ritual. But, right along, we do this for the baby or the sick girl. We put tit-bits on baby's plate, it's a beautiful old rite that is sinking into decadence in these parlous days. If we are all ritualists (and there is no doubt about that) why not have our rituals as beautiful as we can? The lilied lodge of the forest and the noseringed savage of the South Seas, the lahamaiite in the desert, can teach us many things. The world stands ashead of the movie theatre. There should be no need for alarm in a city hall of churches. A glorious ritual will draw the congregations from the picture palace.

Canterbury will outlast Hollywood. The Book of Common Prayer will outlive Tarzan of the Apes.

CHURCH CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN COPENHAGEN

Tips to Housewives

Garbage vs. Hygiene.

The garbage can in the backyard should be fastened to a hook on the post or fence to keep dogs and cats from upsetting it.

Dry Flour and Silverware

When storing silver away for any length of time pack the pieces with dry flour and they will remain untarnished.

Cut Fingers Avoided

Wet a woolen cloth and pat gently to pick up broken glass on the floor. In this way the smallest slivers are gathered up without any trouble.

Use for Empty Jars

Empty glass tobacco jars make very serviceable receptacles for rice, sauce and spices. They are considered dainty additions to kitchen shelves.

Rusty Keys

Keys, that have become rusted, should be covered with kerosene, and left standing, for a few days. The oil will loosen the rust, which then can be readily rubbed off.

Hard-Boiled Eggs

Add a little salt to the water when preparing hard-boiled eggs. The eggs when taken from the water, are cracked, and the shell is easily removed without the white sticking fast.

MORE ANSWER ED LETTERS

Mrs. O.—I know this is not in your line, but I do hope you will answer it! I would like to know what general style you would advise me to adopt in making a dress of dark blue crepe de chine with dark blue fringe trimming? I am about 30 and quite stout. How should I trim it around the neck? And how get the fringe on?

Answer: It is quite certain that I have recently seen a dress in a shop, which was made of crepe de chine with fringe trimming and which I believe would suit you in style. Of course I do not know where you get a pattern for such a dress, but I will describe it for you in hopes that that you can perhaps find such a pattern—or make it up without a pattern at all. The skirt was medium wide with a generous hem; and an over-skirt half covered it, the fringe being put on to the bottom of this over-skirt with gracefull effect. At the waistline was a crush girdle of crepe de chine. The waist bloused over the shoulder, with a simple blouse effect across the front, and bound armholes. The three-quarter sleeves, ended with fringe that was set into a waistlining. The neck was finished with two-inch-wide scrolled "V's" inserted with fringe set fast to top and finished with a narrow lace edging to match. Of course the neck of the crepe de chine blouse had to be cut quite low in order to set in this neck-finish. Without exception it was one of the most graceful dresses I have seen in several years. If you wish to, you could hand-embroider some motifs on the over-skirt, using floss or silk. If you have not enough fringe for the sleeves as well as for the overskirt, you could finish the sleeves like the neck with the corn lace.

Mrs. T.M.B.—Can you tell me what to do to stop the hair from falling out and to force? I have just cleaned my little girl's white set with a paste which I made out of gasoline and flour. They look lovely, but I believe it has made the hair fall.

Answer: Cleaning the fur could not have made the hair fall. It was ready to fall anyway and the cleaning simply hastened matters. Sling them in the sunshine so as to kill any moth-eggs that may remain in them. There is nothing else to be done.

Interesting Game: Please print a couple of games to be played by a group of young men between 20 and 24 years of age.

Answer: Advertising Game: Cut the advertising slogans ("It Floats," "His Master's Voice," etc.) entirely from a magazine, of course choosing only the slogans of widely-known advertisers, and lay them on a table. Give each young man a pencil and paper with his name on it, and ask him to write down the monthly advertising that will different slogans. Thirty minutes may be allowed for doing this.

Literary-reasoning Game: One player goes out of the room. The rest sit in a semi-circle and decide upon some famous author, such one taking one letter from the author's name. For instance if the author's name chosen is "Stevenson" the first player of the group will choose "S," the second player "T," the third player "E"—and so on. Each player must now think of some other author whose name begins with the letter he has. For instance, the first player's author might be "Shakespeare" (Harriet Beecher), the second's "Tennyson," the third player's "Emerson," the fourth player's "Venus"—et cetera. The outside player is then called in to ask each player in turn, questions concerning his particular author. When he guesses "S" for instance, he knows he has the first letter of the general author's name—Stevenson. When he guesses "V" he will probably guess the rest, and it is then some other player's turn to go out of the room.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRINGTIME

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need.

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way many people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as so many people do in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and when instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood, which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Miss S. L. McEachren, Marn P.O., N.B., says: "I have been in the habit of taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring and they keep me in the best of health. I think it is entirely due to the use of these pills that I always have such good health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AIRPLANES AND THE FOREST

Airplanes were used with great advantage in forest protection work in five provinces of the Dominion last year, and the work is likely to be extended in the coming season. The advantage of an airplane patrol over that by canoe is illustrated by the following extract from a report of one of the airmen engaged in protecting the forests in northern Manitoba last year: "We could always see from 20 to 50 miles on either side of the plane, and it would be no difficulty to locate smoke at that's distance. When you compare this with a canoe travelling up a river with high banks, where it is impossible to see more than a hundred yards in either direction, and where the patrol would be unable to notice smoke unless it was driven down over him, the advantage is entirely on the side of the plane."

CADET TRAINING TO BE SUSPENDED

Melbourne, April 1.—Cadet training, which is the basis of the Australian military system, is to be suspended for a year in the interests of economy under a decision of the federal government. It is estimated that a saving of £2,000,000 will result. Meanwhile a remodelling of the defence scheme is to be considered.

WHAT a joy to a mother's heart when baby comes! What a relief after months of anxiety and nervo strain!

Mother is happy and expects soon to be strong and well again.

But frequently reaction sets in, and when the excitement is over she is left weak and limp and does not seem to build up the way she should.

BELL SHARES AT DOLLAR EACH FOR FUND TO CONDUCT SEARCH FOR AMBROSE SMALL

Toronto, April 1.—Friends of Ambrose Small, missing millionaire, are planning to apply to the Ontario government to take out a charter for "investigation and search" for Mr. Small and to sell shares to the public to raise a fund to carry on an independent search and probe.

"The government, so far, has not put up any money to carry on an investigation, nor has the city," stated a friend of Mr. Small's. "All the money spent so far has come out of the estate at the direction of the committee. There are other relatives and friends of Mr. Small who want the money spent to investigate the case. TROTSKY MAKES STRONG THREATS

Moscow, March 31.—War Minister Trotsky has just returned from a troop inspection on the southwestern front, in the region opposite where General Wrangel and other "White" leaders are reported to be concentrating. He addressed the Communist Congress to-day, saying,

"If the Soviets are to be attacked by the whole European bourgeoisie, perhaps the Soviets will reintroduce a war of communism, which would be more merciless than during the civil war in Russia."

"It is now suggested to apply for a charter to form a company and sell shares at a dollar a share."

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

It is to be another organdie summer, peach of yellow being particularly good, and soon French modes feature white pinafore with exotic flowers on panels and around hems.

It may be discouraging to the dahlia fancier who possesses only a city backyard to learn that there are now 4,000 varieties of his favorite flower.

Oriental jumpers are seen with sleeves and plain hem of the same bright-colored material as the skirt with which they are worn.

An "understanding" is simply that point in a love affair where the man understands that the girl will marry him, if he can make up his mind to ask her.

Aside from red and the new deep de lion yellow, green is having one of the most tremendous vogues of its career, says New York, and the particular tint bobbed at present is one which tha French call "pait," in other words, a sort of verdigris.

When the self-supporting wife pays her husband a compliment he at least is not compelled to wonder whether she has picked out a spring suit or merely has her eye on a new hat.

Nice promenades show small cloche shapes often made of richly patterned Oriental or Paisley silk, and there is a decided tendency toward the hat with the brim cut in two, forming a flap both back and front with bound edges.

Judge Graham of San Francisco has announced that women lawyers usually are more economical than men, and therefore, he has directed that a business course shall be given the girls. A family shall be conducted by Mrs. Beatrice Wynn for a month with the object of finding out whether the business cannot be properly conducted at less expenditure.

Large straw and crinoline hats with flower wreaths, worn on the Riviera, were among the most attractive of the new models, and a tango red hat has red and yellow flowers; a deep purple straw has purple velvet roses; a yellow crinoline shape has large brown poppies.

SOLDIERS TAKE REPUBLICAN OATH

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer — Canadian Press Limited

Dublin, April 3.—A meeting addressed by Michael Collins at Castlebar, County Mayo last night was stopped by the members of the Fourth Western Division of the Irish Republican army after stormy scenes in which Mrs. Fogarty of Commercial Hotel was wounded by a bullet accord ing to eyewitnesses reaching here.

The crowd numbered about two thousand among whom were many hostile to the Provisional Government who spoke from some lorries which were used as a platform. His speech was frequently interrupted and after an attempt to rush the platform during which a supporter drew his revolver, an officer adjourned the meeting in the interests of peace.

Official figures to-day show that 2,239 were the Dublin Battalions of the Irish Republican army and took the oath of allegiance to the republic Mountjoy prison yesterday Wednesday when one hundred Free State troops marched to the gates of the prison and accepted the Irish republican army, adherents of Eamon de Valera, they were refused admission.

Four men were shot and killed and three children were wounded last night in the Shore Fein area near the Old Lodge Road District. The ages of the men ranged from 45 to 63. The children are two, seven and 13 years old.

ROTARIANS HEAR DR. B. TAYLOR

Principal of Queen's University Gives Thought-ful Address to Club.

Remarkable in every sense was the address delivered to the Rotary Club at the luncheon tendered to Rev. Dr. Bruce Taylor, principal of Queen's University on the "Problems of the British Empire". Dr. Taylor drew a vivid picture of the troubles besetting the British Empire at the present time and gave an historical resume of the events in Egypt, India and Ireland which have led to the present conditions in these countries.

In rising to speak Dr. Taylor was greeted by the Queen's cheer from Rotarians Rev. "Doug" Ramsay and Dr. Fenton and a luncheon visitor, Mr. Cameron. Dr. Taylor referred briefly to the problems of the war and said that the after-war problems were as important if not more so. He scoffed at the idea of the Old Country being in a back number in any sense of the word, but said she was at present recovering from the terrible inroads made upon the manhood and money of the country during the war.

The British Empire, the speaker pointed out was not a real Empire as

ROTARY CLUB ENDS CONFERENCE

Toronto Club Wins Silver Cup for Best Attendance Record.

MONTREAL NEXT

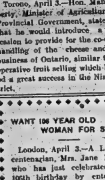

Eastern Canada City Will Be Scene of 1923 Conference.

Rochester, N.Y., April 3.—The Toronto Rotary Club won the Governor's Cup for the best attendance at the 1923 conference of the fourth district Rotary Clubs, held in this city. The announcement of the winner was made at the Saturday afternoon session, and the cup was presented to John J. Gibson, president of the Toronto Club, by William J. Cairns of Ottawa, who was recommended for the office of District Governor, and who will undoubtedly be elected at the international conference at Los Angeles, California, in June.

The Toronto delegation was one of the largest single delegation in attendance. Its average was announced as 23 1-3 per cent., which captured the cup. The Toronto club sent 160 members, including Past District Governor Harry Stanton, Stanton, President John J. Gibson, President-elect Fred L. Radcliffe, and most of the board of directors. They have taken a prominent part in the activities of the 1922 convention, and Saturday night gave a dinner in the Powers Hotel which was easily one of the feature affairs of the two days' session.

The conference Saturday was featured by the addresses of D. H. Hoover, of Springfield, Mass., secretary of the Junior Achievement League of the Eastern States Exposition, and Dr. Arthur F. Sheldon, Rotarian, of Chicago. Mr. Benson took as his subject, "Boys' Work." In the course of

SIR JOHN EATON LAID TO REST

Tens of Thousands Pay Impressive Tribute to Noted Merchant.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer — Canadian Press Limited

Toronto, April 3.—Darkness was almost entirely suspended throughout this city, factories were shut down and the Ontario Legislature and the Toronto City Council adjourned during the burial of Sir John Craig Eaton here this afternoon. The route from the Eaton memorial church to Mount Pleasant Cemetery was lined with ten thousands of men, women and children as the impressive cortege passed by. In the procession were many returned soldiers in uniform, and the most prominent men of business, religious and public life of the community.

Four denominations were represented by the clergy officiating at the funeral service which commenced in the Timothy Eaton Memorial Church at three o'clock.

In addition to the adress of the pastor, Rev. C. A. Williams, who was in charge, there were addressed by Rev. Dr. H. J. Cody and Rev. E. B. Chown. The other ministers participating were Rev. Dr. Bruce Macdonald, principal of St. Andrew's College; Rev. W. A. Cameron, pastor of Elmer Street Baptist Church, and Rev. Prof. Hugh Michael, of Victoria College, former assistant to Rev. Williams in the Eaton Memorial Church. The service as planned were very simple and was not longer than an hour in duration. The choir sang "Souls of the Righteous in the Hand of God," and Dr. Ernest MacMillan played the "Dead March."

WILL LL. GEORGE MEET DEFEAT?

Interest at Fever Pitch Over Premier's Speech Today.

DEFENDS GENOA.

Will Hold That World's Need is Real Economic Peace.

London, April 3.—Premier Lloyd George will face another dramatic moment in his extraordinary political career when he appears in the House of Commons to-day to justify the initative he took in calling the Genoa conference. He will make one of the most important speeches in the history of the House of Commons.

Will England reconcile the Soviet Government as the de jure Government of Russia? That will be the crucial point of his speech. The Premier will say that the world's paramount need is a real peace based upon an economic restoration and he will insist that it is the duty of the British Empire to take the lead in rehabilitating the exhausted world. He is expected to draw a gloomy picture showing that much of Europe and Asia is bankrupt and that the parts that have been scourged by war and pestilence are on the brink of chaos. He will enlarge upon Britain's acute perils with her foreign markets paralyzed, a million workers on strike and a further two millions without employment.

The Premier will defend the Genoa meeting as a supreme attempt to rally the enemies and the allies together with the common object of restoring world-prosperity. He will refute the critics of Bolshevism. Lloyd George will make it clear that if recognition of the Soviet Government is the outcome of the Genoa conference,

NOT AFFECTED BY COAL STRIKE

Local Coal Dealers Well Stocked Up and Prices Stationary.

The coal strike will not affect the people of Belleville for some time to come, it is believed, as there is a good supply of the "black diamonds" stocked up by all the coal merchants here, and patriotism is to see them through the present crisis.

The Intelligencer called on a number of the coal merchants here this morning, and all of those interviewed stated that the strike had not affected them as yet and did not believe that it would although they admitted it was rather questionable depending much upon the duration of the strike and the terms of settlement. The last change in the price of coal here took place on February 18th last, when the present price was struck, namely, $15.50 per ton for all hard coals, except pea coal, which now retails at $12.50 per ton.

There is no prospect of any further change in prices for some time, and not a chance of a lower price inside the next two weeks.

The drop in the price of coal, which took effect on February 18th last, inventor of the alternator, which has made the great advance in wireless telephony and telegraphy possible.

Miners Willing To End Strike Says Strike Chief

600,000 MEN IDLE, SAY THE UNIONS

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer — Canadian Press Limited

Washington, April 3.—Armed with arguments in support the action of the unions suspending work in the coal mines President Lewis of the United Mine workers is here to-day to confer with Government officials regarding the strike. He will also appear before the House Labor Committee.

The union coal miners who suspended work Saturday in the bituminous and anthracite fields were declared to-day by President Lewis of the United Mine workers to be the fairest of ending the suspension of mining operations at the earliest possible date but the resumption of coal production entirely depends upon the future attitude of the coal operators.

New York, April 3.—The second day of the country-wide coal mine strike passed quietly, with both sides preparing for the first real test of strength which was expected Monday.

Union officials maintained that 600,000 men are idle, 150,000 more than non-union miners, were idle Saturday, and that 4,500 mines were closed, only some 1,500 open shop pits being in operation.

While not disputing these figures, operators claimed a total of those who would return to work Monday, as Saturday was observed as a holiday, the anniversary of the granting of the eight-hour day in the mines. Wort Virginia operators also were reported preparing to reopen a number mines on an open shop basis.

In the main, however, both sides were expected to observe a truce until they make no effort for the time being to operate the mines. The miners are supplying the watchmen and pumpers necessary to protect the pits from flooding.

In the meantime the eyes of the country are turned to Washington, where John L. Lewis, international president of the miners, will appear before the congressional committee to testify regarding strike

SPECTACULAR ROBBERY STAGED IN NEW YORK

Bold Bandits Invade Millionaire's Mansion and Loot $100,000—Inmates of House Are Tied While House is Ransacked.

New York, April 3.—In one of the boldest hold-ups recorded by local police, four bandits, yesterday afternoon broke into the home of A. R. Shattuck, millionaire retired financier, at Number 15, in fashionable Washington Square North, bound two butlers, a doorman, three maids and a cook with rope at the point of revolvers, locking them in a wine cellar and a pantry.

Then they bound Mr. Shattuck and his wife, Mrs. Mary Shattuck, and for an hour and a half ransacked the house, three of them escaping with jewelry valued, it is estimated, at $100,000.

The fourth man, who said he was Ezequio Diaz, 37, a Spanish sailor, was caught after a chase at Eighth Street and Sixth Avenue. Jewelry valued at $30,000 was recovered from an overcoat he had discarded.

Charles Zang, the butler, who was among those bound in the pantry, freed himself after an hour and ran across to the home of Colonel John Jay, 13 Washington Square from where he telephoned the police.

Two policemen jumped into a taxi cab and arrived at the house just as the four bandits were leaving. Two of the robbers ran south through the park, one ran east to Fifth Avenue and the other west to MacDougal Street, where he turned south. Two police followed the one who ran east.

More than a thousand people, who were in Washington Square, took up the chase as the other three bandits, but all these escaped.

At MacDougal Alley, the man who had been captured, threw his weapon away and also cast off the overcoat, in which was found the $30,000 worth of jewelry which was recovered.

WANT 106 YEAR OLD WOMAN FOR STAGE

London, April 3.—A Lincoln centenarian, Mrs. Jane Lister, who has just celebrated her 106th birthday by entertaining her doctor and his wife to tea, has doubled her claim to distinction by refusing an offer from Glasgow to star as a place of public entertainment at a salary of £100 a week. This refusal is by no means inspired by qualavings on the score of health. Mrs. Lister is in the best of health and spirits.

CANADIAN WEEK CELEBRATION IN LARGE AMERICAN CITIES

Festivities Sponsored by Kiwanis Clube Mark Completion of 104 Years of Peace Between the North American Neighbors.

Chicago, April 3. — "Canadian Week," celebrating 104 years of peace between the United States and her neighbor, was ushered in yesterday by a parade 5,000 strong, down Michigan avenue and through the loop, passing in review before George Bell, jun., Commanding Officer of the 8th Corps area.

Along the line of march the curb was lined with an encouraging crowd, which cheered and waved as the detachments sent from Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Station, which greeted warmly the Canadian veterans and the marchers of the American Legion, and was hugely interested in the Battle Raid of the Canadian Club.

"Canadian Week," which is intended to foster social and commercial fraternization between Canada and the United States, is being observed in all large cities of the country largely through the efforts of the Kiwanis International. Twenty-five Canadians of state have been sent to the U. S. to speak before various organizations throughout the country, and 75 American speakers have been sent to Canada, where "United States Week" is being celebrated, Chicago is host of R. C. Drury, Premier of Ontario; Major J. F. Lewis and M. Fetridge, author.

Governor William C. Sproule of Pennsylvania is also in the city to take part in the observance. The celebration will close with a mass meeting in the auditorium on Friday evening.

GOOD STIFF BREEZE SAVED NASSAU CITY

Bahama Island Capital Was Barely Saved From Destvastating Fire.

Miami, Fla., April 3.—A Southeast breeze saved the City of Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, from destruction by the fire which destroyed the Colonial Hotel and 13 nearby buildings early yesterday morning who arrived from Nassau on the steamer Miami said last night.

Activities of looters while the fire was at its height resulted in Provost Marshal Whebell declaring martial law and serving notice that whites would be shot on sight, but before guards could be thrown around the buildings large amounts of liquor had been carried away.

A number of narrow escapes and spectacular rescues of guests and employes from the hotel were reported, none being injured except till just before the walls collapsed. The loss was estimated at $3,000,000.

FOUND IN MAILS

Many Things Are Forwarded Besides Correspondence.

Superintendent of Philadelphia Post-office Tells of Interesting Experiences for Past Year.

Every one who has watched the crowd collect in front of the parcel post window at holiday time knows that the public knows more or less about it, remarks the Philadelphia Ledger. What unknown it can you do not know till you begin to find out about it.

Still, thinks the superintendent at times, all the world is mailing, knows the Ledger. Every day we go through the mails—"every single parcel," as the saying has it.

"Mr. Johnson" stood his head. "No, that's not right. Stood up his head." He chided with rather deprecating shrug at the slip, and then go. Sometimes very unconsciously the mistake is correct.

"An old Virginia darkey wanted to ship himself home parcel post. Every Christmas" she had received a slice fat pocket through the mail. It looked like a good idea, and after her own people. She pictured Christmas down on the plantation in all the glory of her fancy, parcel enclosed. She opened it to see if it was all right and then she didn't know how to go. She had not enough brains to know that she was too ignorant to take the long journey by herself. So she came to her mistress.

"Couldn't I just be labeled as" stamped and weighed, she suggested, "and sent along back to Virginia with the mistress? I'd like to go myself as a Christmas present to my folks this year."

"Nonsense, but pathetic as well isn't it?"

Mr. Johnson likes this a Virginian and has a true gift of telling a story.

"A negro said there were three kinds of pies, the' weeped, the' watched and the' berried. We have to do with the berried variety. In a country district some one made the most beautiful harvest apple pie. They decided to send it through the mails to a friend in Philadelphia. Great was their trust. They put a string through each of the ears. Tied on a label with the address and address and the proper amount of postage. Put the pie in a pie plate and sent it off on its journey. That pie arrived in perfect condition. It had appealed to the humorous sense of the clerks and had been handed from one man to the next with the greatest care."

Mr. Johnson also had amusing experiences when he worked in the railway mail. Bags collected at the large stations often contain queer gowns.

"I have seen a clerk open a bag and a small engine come out," remarked Mr. Johnson merrily; "whenever that happens they look as if they had been struck by green lightning.

"The bag had been put down somewhere and somehow the hook of the engine got caught in it."

"At places too small for the express to stop, the mail bag is hung out on an iron crane. The postal clerk grabs it and throws out another as the train goes by. I had just taken off a pouch and opened it when the train stopped a chicken. Not a day-old chicken, but a good-sized bird. You could have knocked me over with a feather when I saw that fowl."

Suitors for Heroism.

Sergt. Willie Sandlin of Devil's Jump Branch, Leslie county, Ky., forfeits a serious long affection as the result of gun battle which he had with some forest, he was told when he visited Richmond, Ky., for examination by government physicians.

Sergeant Sandlin, advancing in command of a platoon at Bois de Forge, France, September 26, 1918, kept on his discovery of a machine-gun nest brought a command to halt. In one day he destroyed three machine-gun nests and two others, captured six machine guns and a hospital group, the 46 German lieutenant with his own gun.

Sergeant Sandlin was awarded the Distinguished Medal of Honor, the Croix de Guerre with palm, the Medal Militaire and citations from General Pershing and Marshal Foch.

Natural Colored Silk.

Experiments made in France, it is reported, show that the yellow and green colors possessed by the silk spun by certain caterpillars are due to coloring matter derived from the food they passed through the blood of the spinners.

By impregnating leaves with artificial colors, the experimenters caused some species of caterpillars to produce silk of bright orange-yellow and fine rose tones.

By the aid of the spectroscope the presence and nature of colored pigments in the blood of the little creatures were established.—Washington Star.

Birthday Cake Candles.

The custom of placing candles on a birthday cake—one for each year—comes from Germany. The Germans placed a taller one in the middle called Lebenslicht, the light of life.

Only he or she who declares his or her birthday may put out the light of life; it is unlucky if done by any other member of the family.

The lights are symbols of life and its spiritual forces, the number increased in years one candle must die out, or otherwise too many would be burning.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Supreme Sacrifice

By CLAIRE SMITH

(Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

A beautiful young girl sat at an open window gazing out upon a garden redolent with lilac bloom. Her hands were clasped, her eyes fixed upon the full moon sailing on its silvery state, her soul thoughts going forth to her lover at the other end of the world.

She was Agnes Norton, and the person whose image was heart centered was Wade Latham, author and artist. Once he had been a law reporter, but finding himself handicapped by conversation upon which rested the vital interests of the great Norton will case, the Norton family rose or fell on the final decision upon that noted litigation.

It was natural on account of this that Agnes and Wade should meet. It was natural that they should love.

The Norton case would not come up for a year. Wade had an offer from a publication to invade central China and bring back something new from pen and pencil to give to the world. Should he take this offer and, further, a recognition by the Academy of Design, which a great collector here for a young man and Wade ambitiously understood its exercises.

A year had nearly gone by. Agnes had not heard from her lover for nearly three months. She will soon come up in thirty days.

She pictured his among great temples, far extending mountain chains, amid splendid pageants of richly perfumed antiquity—only the glare and glitter of a vast empire filled her mind.

At that very hour the man she loved was at the crisis of his life—a head figure amid a lonely, lonely scene. He was crouched on the floor of a hut and in a Chinese burial ground, pale, thousands of miles from civilization, a friendless hunted fugitive, he was lurking in this forlorn retreat, clinging with a natural love of life to a mere thread of hope.

He had been driven into the shadow of his refuge as he made out two forms approaching. Then of a glance he made out Chinese and knew them not. Both the new comers were Mongolian. One portly dressed advancedly, tottered humbly to Wade, and even kissed his feet—reverently, gratefully.

"See," he said, arising and waving his companion forward as though he were some supreme personage—"it is the high one of our family—Kwang Lo." Wade welcomed the little, aged young man introduced. There was a quiet dignity that attracted.

"I am the sacrifice," he said simply.

"The sacrifice?" repeated Wade in astonishment.

"It is so," was the quiet reply. "It is you who a month since found the wounded man in the bank of the river. He was about to be beheaded as an unknown member of the law. I was that or the payment of 1,100 taels.

"Wade well remembered the circumstances. Sheer pity for the unfortunate fanning had, indeed, induced him to part with nearly all his surplus stock of money.

"The sacrifice," continued Kwang Lo, "the evil mandarins, thinking you had money, have imprisoned you in the hopes of winning the bribe reason you could not pay. Last night I informed here enabled you to escape from jail. They will seek you everywhere. They have sent for me, the high one of the family, to get you before peril, and because for some great reason that is not our affair you must be in your native land specially."

"Why I have no means to pursue my journey from Beiro to Canton," suggested Wade.

"They shall be provided," quietly assured Kwang Lo.

Then the high provider Kwang Lo re appeared shortly with a two-wheeled conveyance holding a close wicker hood top. Across this was a broad sheet of bamboo bearing some Chinese letters in bright vermilion.

In an instant Wade knew what this meant. The royal sign manual was always written with a vermilion pencil.

Within that wicker covert Wade Latham was conveyed to Beiro. When it was opened in the broad highway in the rear room of a Chinese pawnshop, Wade Latham descended to the street. Encircling him was a band of gold, heavy and unbroken, bearing native characters. There was some talk between him and the keeper of the shop. Then money passed, and Kwang Lo came forward and placed in Wade's hand a sum equal to two hundred American dollars.

"I have agreed to remain here the space of the days longer until I am redeemed," said Kwang Lo. "The family circles, and served my relations faithfully your family will not allow it to pass to others at my death! But this is small to you. I am the sacrifice. I glory in thus doing for the man who saved my kinsman."

That sublime sacrifice was first in the thoughts of Wade Latham when he landed on American soil. As quickly as he could reach his friends more than the amount necessary to redeem Kwang Lo and his family talisman was transmitted to Beiro to make of him a free man.

In time to act as a witness in the great lawsuit and to see it won for General Norton, learned and famous throughout China for his science and literature, Wade Latham gained a still richer prize after all his perilous adventures—the hand of loyal, loving Agnes Norton.

Music and Drama

"REX" SHELGROVE HAS GREAT HUSH AT THE TWINS AT GRIFFIN'S

Owing to the play "The Spenders" announced for presentation by the Rex Shelgrove company at Griffin's tonight (Wednesday), being postponed till next week, "Rex" announces that his versatile company will present in its place the comedy they featured on four last season "The Three Twins", a comedy with music. Hazel Vincent (who Little Red Head) will play the Bessie McCoy part, singing the Yama Yama number. She and Mr. Sermon will do the "Middle of the Little Closer" number. Other numbers will be introduced throughout. The simple fact that this is a Shelgrove organization and NOT a musical company, adds greatly to the run of the thing. It is snappy, pure, simple and silly. Rex appears in one of his "Nut" parts and "Old Bill" Tate creates a lot of fun as the fire eating General. The full scenic production has been taken out of the store house for this occasion.

MUSICAL SERVICE AT ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

Excellent Musical Program Was Feature of the Evening Service.

The evening service at St. Thomas Church on Thursday was a musical service, when Schnecker's Cantata, "The Story of Calvary" was rendered by the choir of the church, and other excellent musical numbers were given.

Mr. Donald Love, violinist, pleased greatly with his rendition of "Berceuse" by Godard, in an excellent and rich manner. Miss Ponton, who has very fine violin and organ was specially written by Professor Wheatley, and was most effective. Miss Ponton's rich contralto voice was especially enjoyed, were rendered by Mrs. Singer, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and "A Beloved humbly to Wade, and even kissed his feet—reverently, gratefully. Mrs. Wheatley, "I come to Thee"; and Capt. Harper, "There is a Green Hill".

The church was crowded to the doors, additional seats being required for the congregation. Ven. Archdeacon Bennett, M.A., the pastor, occupied the pulpit, and a special offering was taken for the Mission funds.

Professor E. Wheatley, musical director, is to be congratulated on the great success of his musical service.

BIG NEW INDUSTRY WILL MANUFACTURE ALLOY STEEL IN CANADA

Dominion Alloy Steel Company Will Supply Requirements of Automotive and Other Industries—New Plant Will be Located at Sarnia.

The announcement of the formation of the Dominion Alloy Steel Corporation, Limited, has attracted no little attention both in the trade and in investment circles throughout Canada and is an indication that the steel industry, a basic one, is on the up grade.

It develops that the Dominion Alloy Steel Corporation is concerned in the production of grades of steel not heretofore produced in the Dominion of Canada, and for which a big demand has sprung up in this country during the past few years. Alloy steels are employed in particular in the automobile industry, which, as is well known, is increasing in leaps and bounds. While on the subject it is worthy of note that the operation of the British Preferential duties in different parts of the Empire favoring products of other portions of the Empire, has been an important factor in inducing the large automobile manufacturers of the United States to open factories in Canada, in as much as from these factories can be carried on with great advantage the export of automobiles to the countries included in the preference.

It has been found that alloy steels attain their highest perfection when produced through the operation of electric furnaces." The high cost of electric current has militated to a considerable extent against the development of this class of furnace in the United States, and yet, practically all of the steel manufactured in Canada has had to be imported in face of disadvantageous duties and rates of exchange, which absorb the profit.

The Dominion Alloy Steel Corporation, Limited, has been organized by a number of expert steel men whose experience with the steel trade of the United States and Canada has resulted in the conviction that Canada has abundant supply of hydro-electric power and low cost electric current places her in a commanding position in so far as concerns the production of electric furnace steel. This steel, it should be added, is an absolute necessity in the production of high-grade automobile parts, so that an almost unlimited field awaits the product of the new plant.

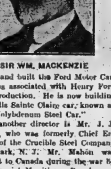

HARRY R. JONES

After due deliberation, and taking into consideration all the requirements of the commercial situation of this steel, organizers of the Dominion Alloy Steel Corporation, Limited, decided that the selection of a site on the St. Clair River, near Sarnia, as the most advantageous for their purposes. This site has the distinct advantages of low freight-rates from the coal and iron fields, together with the shipping rates and the favorable electric current costs. At the same time it is close to a market which is more than likely to absorb the new company's initial output of 50,000 tons per annum. At this plant will be constructed the electrical furnaces, rolling-mills, machine shops, laboratories, etc., required for the production of alloy and high carbon steels. It is claimed, however, that in addition to the home demand, the company will be able to produce alloy steels in the Canadian plant at a cost which will permit it to export advantageously to the United States and to Shefield, and other world's markets.

The present authorized capital of the company is $7,000,000, divided into $3,500,000 common, and $3,500,000 8% cumulative preference shares, and on this capitalization there is every confidence that the company will be able to show large earnings.

The Dominion Alloy Steel Corporation is peculiarly fortunate in having as its organizers and promoters, men whose experience is second to none in the industry. Prominent among the directors is Mr. Harry R. Jones, who joined the United Alloy Steel Corporation of Canada, Orillia, Ont., and whose qualifications may perhaps best be indicated in the statement that during his management and ownership by the capital of the corporation increased from the original $600,000 to the present $27,000,000.

Another director is Mr. C. Harold Wills, who was associated with Mr. Jones in making a commercial success of Vanadium Steel. Mr. Wills holds patents on molybdenum steel processes which will be available to the Canadian company. Mr. Wills designed and built the Ford Motor Car, and was associated with Henry Ford in it production. He is now building the Wills Sainte Claire car, known as the "Molybdenum Steel Car."

J. J. MAHON

Yet another director is Mr. J. J. Mahon, who was formerly Chief Engineer of the Crucible Steel Company of Newark, N. J. Mr. Mahon was Colonel Overseas during the war by the Imperial Munitions Board, and supervised the production of shell-steel throughout Canada.

Another well-known steel man who is on the directorate is Mr. George H. Simpson. Mr. Simpson was formerly associated with the Alloy Steel Corporation of Canton, Ohio, but during the past eight years has been Sales Manager and general representative of the Steel Company of Canada. In this capacity he has been a close student of the needs of the Canadian steel industry, and brings much strength to the new industry.

On the directorate are many other well-known Canadian names, including W. Wallace Jones, President of the Ontario Steel Products Company, W. B. Boyd, Consulting Engineer of Toronto; Sir William Mackenzie, well-known Toronto financier; Hon. Jacob Nesbitt, of Toronto, who is also a director of the British Empire Steel Corporation; Bert H. Mellon, Vice-President and Manager of the Dominion Bond & Debenture Corporation, and Col. William McBain, formerly Chief Engineer Securities, Toronto.

It may be doubted if any steel company has been organized in Canada has had the benefit of the guidance of so many men of experience in the trade, and it is evident of the particular significance to the future of the Dominion Alloy Steel Corporation, that these men have the utmost confidence in the success of the new industry.

BIG FARM SALE

One of the most important transfers of farm real estate that has taken place in this section for some time was brought about recently when Mr. Merritt Finkle of this city purchased from Mr. Chas. Crandle the latter's splendid farm of Collesson. The property is beautifully located along the Provincial Highway and adjoining the village of Collesson. There are 19 acres of apple orchard on the farm all of which is in bearing. Mr. Finkle will move there with his family in a short time.

This important deal was put through by Mr. Jas. Jeffs, of this city, who has just recently entered the services of the Willoughby Farm Agency Electrical Farmers.—Oshawa Times.

HEAVY MIGRATION OF U.S. FARMERS

Expectation of Canadian Official Causes Much Anxiety in Washington.

Washington, April 1.—Reports have reached Washington that Canadian officials expect a heavy migration of farmers from the United States to Canada because of the depressed condition of agriculture in the United States. These reports are viewed with apprehension by the members forming the agricultural bloc in Congress. They have for some time foreseen the likelihood of such a movement of these unemployed and declared to-day, especially among tenant farmers and farmers who have been caught by the deflation of prices and had their mortgages foreclosed. The bloc will urge Congress that it is all the more necessary that some form of credit legislation and other legislation conditions in order to prevent the United States losing to Canada many of its best practical farmers.

AIRPLANE HITS SMOKE-STACK AND BURNS, INJURING THREE

Macon, Ga., April 1.—W. J. Fisher of Chicago, Ray Rowland, of Kansas, Mo., and J. J. Costa, of Anthony, Kansas, were severely, if not fatally injured late yesterday when their airplane crashed into a sixty foot smoke-stack at the Macon, Dublin and Savannah Railroad shops, caught fire and fell in the yards between two railroad trains.

The accident occurred just after the airplane had hopped off for a flight to Atlanta and thence to Texas. The three men were removed to a hospital, unconscious. They were severely burned.

THE LIGHT IN THE CLEARING

...ewan, I've learned to think you are the best of men who ought to go," he said, "and I'm ready to go with you directly." I have been visiting until we should meet to congratulate you on your election as Governor of Texas. I now have the right, since—that is the subsequent matter—to congratulate you upon your hospitality in the game of politics. Let us call you a stranger," he added, with a merry shrug of the shoulders, interrupted by a cough. "I'm in Washington, interrupted by a cough. The office of Governor of Texas is a very fine thing, and possibly it may be a very useful thing. We are perfectly still. A young cock bird with his beautiful coat showing out, flits the hole on the back of a frightened doe, strode toward me with a loose, dreamy sort of manner. It seemed as if he were entranced. I'm bound to tell you that you are as still as stumps and he stared to and went on with the others. The clapping of the hands had ceased now. Suddenly we saw a big buck bounding from the bushes at the other end of the clearing. He looked to right and left. Then he made a long leap into the water and traveled slowly until it reached him. He actually had his head half submerged between his shoulders and swam quietly downstream, his nose just showing above the water. His antlers were held up out of the water. It was a fine sight, and we all stood still and watched him. The animal might easily have passed for a piece of dead timber, I think that most of us had our tongues tied and our hands and feet benumbed. The buck deliberately he reached the place where he found the buck's trail. Then he turned slowly and began to swim down the current. He had not an hour before he found the buck's trail. Then he turned slowly and began to swim down the current. He had not an hour before he found the buck's trail. Then he turned slowly and began to swim down the current. He had not an hour before he found the buck's trail.

"I've seen many a rascal, driven to water by the hounds, go swimming over so style as that back, with their heads in the air, looking as innocent as a bit of driftwood. They come to the front, both shores—the Whig and the Democratic—and they are always ready to let Jones come back or the other."

"I remember it reminded me a little of 'Lake' Ike' say Dad, they came in from both shores."

"Then when do you want to do?" he asked pleasantly.

"I should like to go down to Washington with you and help you in any way that I can."

"All right, partner—we'll try it," he answered gravely. "I hope that I don't forget and work you as hard as I work myself. It wouldn't be decent. I have a great many letters to write. I'm just thinking out how much you take them down in sound-hand. Then you can draft them neatly and I'll sign them. You have tact and good manners and can do many of my secretarial for me and save me from those who have no good reason for taking up my time."

"You will meet the best people and the worst. There's just a chance that it may come to something worth while—who knows? You are young yet. It will be good training and you will with-stand the making of some blunders and then."

"What station I tell!

Again the voice of the hound, which had been ringing in the distance, came closer and closer.

"We must keep watch—another deer is coming," said the senator.

We had only a moment's watch before a fine yearling buck came down to the opposite shore and stood looking across the river. The senator raised his rifle and fired. The buck fell in the edge of the water.

"How shall we get him?" my friend asked.

"It will not be difficult," I answered as I began to undress. Nothing was difficult those days.

I swam the river and towed the buck across with a belt which is his personal joints. The hound joined me before I was half across with me. The dog had scent the carcass and swam on ahead yelping with delight.

We dressed the deer and then I had the great joy of carrying him on my back two miles across the country to the wagon. The senator wished to send a guide for the carcass, but I insisted that the carrying was my privilege.

"Well, I guess your leg thighs and broad shoulders can stand it," said he.

"My uncle has always said that a man could be called a success until he can go into the woods without a guide and kill a deer and bring it back on his back. I want to be able to testify that I am at least partly successful."

"Your uncle didn't say anything about fetching the deer across a deep river without a boat, did he?" Mr. Wright asked me with a smile.

Leaves of the bushes, maples and basswood—followed by frost—hung like tiny banners flowing with the morning light, above the dim forest aisle which we traveled.

The sun was down when we got to the clearing.

"What a day it has been!" said Mr. Wright when we were seated in the wagon.

"One of the best in my life," I answered with a joy in my heart the like of which I have rarely known in these many years that have come to me.

We rode on in silence with the calls of the swamp-robin and the hermit thrush ringing in our ears as the night fell.

"It's a good time to think, and there we take different roads," said my friend. "You will turn into the future and I into the past."

RELIEF WORK IN VERDE ISLES

Lisbon, April 1.—The Portuguese government is taking steps to relieve the economic distress in the Cape Verde Islands which last summer were famine stricken in consequence of the drought which had lasted for three years.

The Minister of the Colonies has instructed Filip Dias de Carvalho, the new governor of Cape Verde, to under take an elaborate program of humanitarian relief work. This will comprise harbor construction work at St. Vincent and improvement of other ports, irrigation of the islands, establishment of regular steamship lines between Lisbon, Cape Verde and Sao Tiago, and erection of a wireless station at St. Vincent.

Credits are to be opened for the islanders to pay for these improvements for a complete cleansing and disinfection and for a thousand tons of corn lately purchased to feed the starving inhabitants of archipelago.

PRICES REDUCED ON LIVE STOCK

Steady Decline in Canadian Markets During the Past Year.

Wahler, April 1.—There was a marked decline in the average prices of live stock in Canada in the month of February this year compared with the quotations for the same month last year, but there appears to have been, judging from the returns of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, to have been, somewhat of a rush to market. At the five principal markets in the country, namely, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, and Edmonton, strain of the lengthy proceedings in the receipts this year and last year, connection with the cases in February were respectively: cattle, 34,832 and 31,286; calves, 9,454 and 6,041; sheep, 16,146 and 14,417; and sheep, 16,413 and 14,446 the larger numbers in each case being for this year. The average decline this year in prices per hundredweight for February compared with the same month last year at the five markets was: cattle $1.93; calves 2.50; hogs, $.66, and sheep $1.45.

OUTBREAK OF OLD FEUD

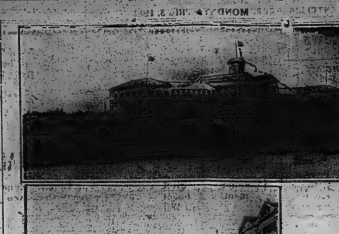

Bavaria Press Complains of Prussian Espionage in Their Country.

Berlin, April 1.—The old feud between Bavaria and Prussia shows signs of breaking out afresh.

The Bavarian press complains of the presence of alleged Prussian spies in Munich. The Prussian Commissioner of Public Order categorically denies that he has any agents in Bavaria, and declares that Staat Zeitung maintains that Prussian espionage in Bavaria is continuous and that the agents are constantly forwarded to Berlin.

The Regensburg Anzeiger also protests against Prussian interference in Bavarian affairs. This paper, the organ of Dr. Held, the leader of the Bavarian People's Party, in the Diet, publishes a noteworthy article on the recently founded Monarchical League in Bavaria, saying:

"The great majority of the Bavarian Diet would certainly be on the side of a reformed monarchy. The republic exists only so long as the monarchists think it expedient. The present system will perish of itself. When will come a suitable moment for the reintroduction of the monarchy."

Health turns the Clock Backward

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the body.
2. It is composed of 24 joints, 23 of which are movable.
3. Nerves from between these joints control the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are in alignment the nerve openings are full size and the nerves are free from pressure.
5. A nerve under pressure at the backbone spoils and causes disease in part it serves.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by adjusting the backbone and this adjustment paves the way for health thru nerve energy.
7. If chiropractic saves but one disease in a life that it can do, what a monument to it will be—compared to simply a thing as best.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease. It is the height of folly. It is the violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

He Had Never Had a Stomach

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 66

By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

A Western mining engineer was being interviewed by a magazine writer. Though he had spent his life at it he criticised everything and refused to see anything interesting, hopeful or human in mining. Then the interviewer switched to the subject health. The truth came out. The mining engineer never had a stomach. He was tortured and soured by everything he ate.

When there is stomach trouble of this character, the cause is in the spine, as otherwise a change of diet, or a reduction in the amount of food would give relief. The chiropractor by chiropractic spinal adjustments of the vertebrae pressing upon spinal nerves to the stomach lifts the pressure and Nature restores normal digestive vigor. A good stomach makes an optimist.

Why Night Calls Are Popular

"How good it would sound to hear Mother's voice tonight. If it didn't cost so much I would call her up. Perhaps it doesn't cost as much as I think."

"Long Distance, what will it cost to talk with 624 Springville?"

"The day rate for a Station-to-Station call is 90 cents, but as it's now nine o'clock you can talk for 45 cents. After twelve o'clock the rate is only 25 cents."

"Great!" said John, "Get me 624 Springville." Soon the welcome voice was telling him the things he wanted to hear, and a midnight talk for every Wednesday was arranged. Did Mother grudge the little sleep she lost when Wednesday night came 'round?

These low rates on Station-to-Station calls are a precious boon to thousands, enabling them to talk with dear ones far away.

POLICE REVENUE.

It is evident that the deputation of Ontario municipal officials who waited upon the Minister of Justice at Ottawa recently to ask for a redress of grievances in the matter of the disposal of police court revenue made a favorable impression. At Sir Lomer Gouin's request the deputation drafted and submitted to him such an amendment to the criminal code as would satisfy the claims of justice, and the Minister promised careful consideration of it. More than that, Sir Lomer intimated that in his opinion the representations made by the deputation were well founded and that the request made was reasonable.

What is asked of the federal Department of Justice is that the municipalities be protected from the capacity of the provincial authorities. The criminal code provides for a division of the revenue from police court fines between the municipal and provincial governments. In Quebec such a division is fair enough, because in that province the provincial government bears the greater part of the cost of the local administration of justice; but it is grossly unfair, generally, for in this province the urban municipalities bear practically all the cost and get a comparatively small part of the revenue.

This is a grievance of long standing. There is no use looking to the provincial government to redress it. In applying to headquarters and asking for relief by means of an amendment to the criminal code, the municipal representatives have taken the right course.

BRITAIN'S DRINK BILL.

Mr. George B. Wilson, of the United Kingdom Alliance, has published a statement on the national drink bill for 1921. He states that the consumption of intoxicating liquors in the United Kingdom during 1921, measured in terms of absolute alcohol, showed a decline of almost 12 per cent., and the expenditure on such liquors a decline of about 14½ per cent. on the consumption and expenditure respectively in the year 1920.

Mr. Wilson estimates the amount spent on intoxicating liquors in the United Kingdom during 1921 at £402,700,000 as against £470,000,000 in 1920 and £166,000,000 in 1913. The expenditure per head of the population was, therefore, in 1921, not less than £8 10s. and per adult of 21 years and upwards (including abstainers), £14, 4s. as against £3, 12s. 6, and £6 respectively in 1913.

The taxation collected by the trade from consumers of intoxicating liquors in 1921 was in round figures: Spirits, £66,000,000; beer, £122,000,000; wine, etc., £2,700,000—or £190,000,000 in all; about 47 per cent. of the total bill. The sum of £3,500,000 was received during the financial year ended March 31, 1921, in respect of license duty.

The total exports of British and Irish spirits amounted to 8,068,000 proof gallons, the export to Canada 1,246,000 proof gallons, and to "other countries," which terms includes British West Indies, Mexico and the United States, and some other countries, the exports were 1,910,000 proof gallons, as compared with 2,014,000 in 1920 and 3,235,000 in 1913. These figures, Mr. Wilson states, dispose of the wild statements in circulation as to the vast exports of spirits from this country directly or indirectly, to the United States to make up a spirit consumption which in 1917 was over 122,000,000 British proof gallons.

Although figures of convictions for drunkenness in 1921 are not yet available for the whole of Great Britain, there seems no doubt that there has been a definite reduction during the years.

CRISP COMMENTS

Turkey's treatment by the allies will heartily encourage it to continue further gobbling.

If alien women are to be given the vote in Canada, there should at least be a proviso that they learn enough English to know what they are voting for.

Sir James Craig firmly declares that the sole object of his followers is "Civil and religious freedom for all." Any fair-minded man might uphold that banner.

Mr. D. B. Hanna, chairman of the National Railway Commission, is credited with a salary of $37,000. In these hard times, he will be wise to hang on to his job.

The U. S. Senate redeemed itself materially from the charge of factiousness, in the case of the naval reduction treaty when it passed it by 74 to 1. The leaven of peace is surely working.

It must be admitted that advocates of a "bone-dry" Dominion received a cool reception from Premier King. But there also can be no prohibition of hope springing eternal in the breasts of its upholders.

General regret will be expressed at the loss by fire of the famous church of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que. Apart from the huge monetary damage sustained, it was not only the most celebrated shrine for the faithful in Canada, but a never-failing object of interest for tourists from various lands.

In the death of Sir John Eaton, of Toronto, at the comparatively early age of 46, Canada has sustained a distinct loss. He was one of a class of those buttressed by wealth who did not live for himself alone, but rather to ameliorate the conditions of existence, in practice the principles of noblesse oblige, for the benefit of those less favored in the battle of life. A good man has gone home.

THE MERCHANTS BANK

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

The combination before the courts and Parliament would be effective in the event, but it only be said with propriety that the action taken, if it results in a thorough clean-up of the whole affair, will meet with general approval. To have ignored the demand for such a clean-up would have weakened public confidence, not only in the banking institutions of the country but in the Government as well.

ENGLAND'S REAL ALLIES

Britannia trusts whatever blast,
Her look is proud and high,
She knows her foes—their number last—
Hear freedom's warning cry!

The Soviet hosts are gathering fast,
Brute hordes of lust and might;
Where e'er their lightning flame have passed,
Dire freedom, life, and light!

While everywhere, the German band—
False friend, but consant foe—
Would all crush with stealthy hand,
To deal the coward's blow.

But not alone she fronts the storm,
But girt by stalwart ones,
Proud every sound her ancient form
Old England has her sons!

From the true north to the far south,
Front every land and sea,
Her flag on one will give full mouth
To kings of liberty!

The banded plotters, think again!
Lest haply ye may find
Bloodstained and torn—in grief and pain—
The Lion's whelps are grown!

The Prize Misquotation

Says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer's Post Box:

"As a whole, the man who is employed can well afford to part with a few shillings to his forlorn and ship wrecked brother sailing o'er the sands of time."

And, as Jake Falstaff says, it's a darn sight better than Longfellow's version, at that.

Unfortunate Explanation

A clergyman of a certain village decided to give notice that there would be no service in the afternoon, as he was going to officiate with another clergyman. The clerk announced at the close of the service.

"I am desired to give notice that there will be no service this afternoon, as our minister is going off taking with another clergyman."

"Yes, mother, I know. But father put it on a horse instead!"

Thoughtfully, Mrs. Cookmaker finished peeling the potatoes.

"Well," she sighed, "as secretary of the Prevention of Cruelty to Horses, I really can't say a thing to him about it."

And she took another thirty-five dollars out of the cracker jar and turned Jimmie's toes and her own toward a clothing store.

NEW ACADEMY FOR IRELAND

Will Be Thoroughly National and Adapted for the Irish.

Dublin, April 3.—The Royal Irish Academy, Ireland's oldest centre of learning, is now to have a rival. It has long been famous, especially in its contributions to science. However, it has mainly looked to England rather than to Ireland or other countries for its models and inspiration, and, in the fight with the British, it expelled Professor John MacNeill, speaker of the Dail Eireann and a distinguished Irish historian, in consequence of his political activities.

The new academy is to be thoroughly national and, in addition to its scientific work, aims at securing for the Irish language, literature, and history that primacy of influence and inspiration at home and for all Irish work and research an extended measure of appreciation among the learned academies of Europe and America.

The first professors has been appointed to draw up the constitution of the new body. At its head is Professor Eoin MacNeill, Fellow of the Royal Society, who is a professor in the National University.

The other professors of the National, including Professor John MacNeill, are also on the drafting committee as well as some gentlemen of St. Patrick's College, Maynooth. Trinity College is holding aloof, for it has a very strong representation on the old academy, amounting perhaps to 80 per cent. of its membership. There is on the committee one professor from Queen's University, Belfast, Professor Robert M. Henry, who, however, does not lay claim in this matter to speak for his university. He is a very distinguished Latinist, but is chiefly known to the man in the street through his book on "The Evolution of Sinn Fein."

VALUABLE GIFTS FOR ROYAL PAIR

Newspaper Men Came to View Presents, but Were Too Late.

London, April 3.—The vast number and varied assortment of wedding presents to Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles displayed here caused many people to wonder what the newly-weds would do with the 66 jugs and bowls, 18 silver toast-racks and 28 clocks included in the offerings.

The late King Edward, after his marriage, found himself the possessor of 1,500 teapots of all types and descriptions and of more than 800 cruets. It is reported that some of these are still stored in London.

Only persons who had been presented at court or who could claim personal acquaintance with either Princess Mary or her husband were permitted to tender wedding gifts on the occasion of the recent royal wedding. Charitable and other public organizations and institutions were, of course, excepted.

This ruling perhaps saved Princess Mary the embarrassment ever disposing of teapots and cruets, suffered by King Edward.

A classification of the gifts exhibited at St. James' palace shows only 26 tea services were presented. Other items are 158 articles of jewelry, including bracelets, necklaces, pendants, tiaras, brooches, rings, caskets, fans, and watches; a trayful of flawless, unset precious stones; 803 gilt clocks from precious metals including 28 trays, 94 vases, 31 cups, 18 goblets, 13 inkstands, 25 statuettes, 14 card trays, nine cigarette cases, eight travelling cases, and seven workboxes, 197 books and manuscripts, 22 candelabra, 17 umbrellas, 11 lamps and shades, 17 rugs, 2 sets of cutlery, eight wall brackets, 36 dinner services, 24 breakfast table services, 18 silver salvers, 70 pairs of gloves, 10 wedding cakes and seven hunting crops.

While correspondents invited to a private view were being shown about the state rooms where the presents were on display, the 22 gilt clocks all began the chiming of 6 o'clock at almost the same instant—and the newspaper party was ushered out as it had been invited to call "between 5 and 6 p.m."

Dear Sirs:

Referring to your recent letter, I would say that I believe newspapers are a highly effective form of advertising. They not only reach channels impossible to reach by magazines, but they have an intensive effect not only on the consumer but on the dealer as well.

A woman, for instance, who sees an advertisement of COMMUNITY PLATE in her own newspaper realizes at once that it must be on sale in her own town. COMMUNITY PLATE for her is localized and her buying impulse is greatly accentuated.

Of course, with the dealer, he knows from experience that newspaper advertising in his own town is especially valuable to him and can be made to directly bring him business.

We feel that newspaper advertising has played an important part in helping us to place COMMUNITY PLATE in the dominant position in the Canadian tableware market.

Sincerely yours,

Burton Dunn

Director of Advertising.

This confident attitude of the consumer and the dealer is the key-stone of the daily newspaper's superiority. Local advertising which sends a buyer directly to the place where your product is on sale, is the dominating factor in linking the retailers' interest permanently with your own.

IN EVENING DRESS

More Change in Formal Attire That in Other Clothes.

Colors, Lovely Gold Dresses Most Effective Under Artificial Light—Dresses Are Cut Square or Oblong.

Evening dress has been beginning to appear on the few new evenings now on its way, so nothing is much in advance of the present mode. There is more change about formal dress than in other clothes. The skirts are longer, the full sleeves of the moment and the bodices are cut square or oblong instead of round. Designers on the boulevards are using the skirt, and even drapings on the sleeves, when there are sleeves, are the order of the day.

Price still keeps opposing any fashion in evening attire to choose from, the majority of the models are cut very sensibly for lovely evening occasions that forbear with less. She can be the "dream girl" or the "artful type of person," or she can be the sort who has draped herself in the fashion following closely the mode of her sister. Some there are who simply can't and there are those who can't and there are those who need not, either, and consequently.

The fashioned evening dress of yesterday is many and varying this season. There are those made in long skirts that boast by means of accordion pleating in the way of cleverly contrived flounces. These have the fullness of effect so still that, of their own free will, they stand out from the body part those that are necessary. Others are done by means of many layers of chiffon or of full lines, spend over still infinite that; give them their full foundation and seem to appear on the scene as a part of the actual dress.

One kind of evening dress seems so fleecy that it would blow away with a sudden breath of wind, but it has still an solid of foundation that it is that gossamer dress which makes the pretty thing look simple. One of these was made from gold net, which fashioned was used for the foundation for the overskirt. Then, applied to the folds of that net, were clusters of little gold flowers so finely and so daintily constructed that they were almost invisible, except as a sort of sheen or brightness upon the filmy surface of the net. All of this was draped and pulled over a foundation of the cloth, and the metal shimmer of the latter shining through the meshes of the transparent gold, was a thing to delight the eye. The evening lights caught the reflection so as to give it the look of a fairy gown made, perhaps, of mere cobwebby vellings.

AGAIN THE CLASSIC PSYCHE

Hair Combed Straight Back and Tied and Ears Exposed, is Radical Paris Fashion.

Long skirts reaching to the ankle, and length, lightning sleeves are the most conservative among the possibilities in new styles. Not only has Paris decreed these radical changes in dress, but it has also revolutionized the mode of dressing the hair.

The hair is combed straight back from the forehead, over from the ears, and tied in a psyche knot. The old "attractive, artistic and should not be hidden."

The designers predict a certain proportion of women, forbidding those who ecstatically adopt the latest Parisian styles, will wear long skirts and even the tightfitting sleeves and high neck gowns. The vast majority of women, especially the younger girls, will be out upon wearing their skirts short.

Princess Style Worn.

Dresses cut as princess, with fringe hanging from the waist across the back only, are often seen. One such model, made of dull cloth of gold, had the fringe made of gold spangles. Uneven lines are the rule, not the exception, these days, for day, as well as evening frocks.

Efficient Housekeeping

THAT TOUCH OF BRIGHT COLOR IN YOUR LIVING ROOM

I have received a letter from a Corona reader, signed (Dissatisfied), which asks me to explain the reason why her living room "gets on her nerves." "I have had it newly done over," runs this letter, "and the result is just a dreadful monotony. I wish I had left it the way it was before! It now has brown wall-paper (it is a dreary drab), brown mahogany furniture, blue-mixture tapestry on the upholstered davenport and arm chairs, a table and desk, a piano, a large brown rug, brown curtains, and a brown velour cushion on the davenport as well as a brown-shaded shade on the drop-light. I thought the old-time note in the tapestry and lamp shade would relieve it, but it isn't enough—but it does not. Is there anything to be done?"

This reader's letter describes a very common mistake in interior decoration, the mistake of not getting enough color coloring into a room.

A half-century ago the home maker's tendencies leaned just the opposite way. There was a horror of much coloring into her rooms, sometimes so much that garish effect was the result. Then, about 300 years ago, "Mission Furniture" became popular, and the darker colors such as greens and browns also came into popular favor to form "harmony" with this new brown furniture. But to-day we find some women positively afraid to use striking colors in their living rooms, even in modernism. If this drift toward Conservatism continues, we shall soon have black the popular color in our scheme of home-decoration.

Off all the rooms in the house, the living room should be the most cheerful. And a bright note of color, here and there can do so much toward creating this cheerful effect.

"In the room described in the above quoted letter were mine, this is how I should treat it: I would take nothing away from its furnishings except the brown over-drapes and the lamp-shade. But I should add Oh, my candle and everything I should add would be in the tone of either yellow, gold or copper. I should have cream "glass" curtains at the windows with copper-colored lamp-shade on the drop-light;

STUDENTS GO TO U.S. AFTER HIGHER EDUCATION

Toronto, April 3.—Post-graduate work is essential to those who wish to enter the field of higher knowledge fully equipped, says a bulletin on post graduate work just issued by the Alumni Federation of the University of Toronto. "Now, though much excellent work is done in Canada in the higher courses culminating in university graduation, are not enough for earnest students after knowledge for its own sake, and graduation is only the beginning of an education." The bulletin further declares. The bulletin points out that as a result of this inability of the provincial university to provide sufficient post-graduate facilities students are continually going to universities in the United States, where greater attention is paid to such work.

O.B.A.A. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Toronto Man is Elected President of Baseball Governing Body.

Toronto, April 3.—At the Carls-Rite Hotel here Saturday representatives from practically every section of Ontario gathered at the annual convention of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association. These men are the leading spirits of the league that are promoting the summer pastime under the proper jurisdiction throughout the Province, and the progress of this branch of amateur sport during the past few years is a great tribute to their administrative ability. The missionary work of the O. B. A. A. officials has been far-reaching, and though there are still hundreds who have not as yet affiliated with the governing body, they are comparatively few and the opinion was expressed that closing of the 1922 season would find them all in the fold.

Jos. F. McCarthy, of Toronto was elected President to succeed Frank E. Robbins of Hamilton. The Past President has done splendid work at the helm of the association, and under his capable guidance it has made many big strides forward. Mr. Kennedy was the First Vice-President last year, and his promotion is a fitting reward for the time and energy he has expended in the interests of the Provincial governing body. D. P. McFarlane of Harrisburg stepped up from Second Vice-President to take the place vacated by Mr. Kennedy, while Councillor W. J. Snyder of Hamilton replaced Mr. McFarlane. Only four of the Councillors were elected, the remaining two are to be appointed by the President. The following delegates were in attendance: Frank Robbins, Hamilton; Robt. Long and J. L. Baines, Brantford; M. B. Dolmage and Chas. H. Penfold, Guelph; Norman Johnson Mahaney, John S. McFarlane, A. T. Smith, Merriton; Hugh Maguire, St. Catharines; W. L. MacAvay, Port Dalhousie; E. H. "WALLIE" REID IN SPEED RACE

Famous Movie Star Has Entered 500-Mile Indianapolis Event.

Indianapolis, April 3.—Wallace Reid, famous movie star, has officially entered the international 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Tuesday, May 30, according to the statement of T. E. Myers, manager of the Indianapolis race course.

"His entry is on file at our office," said Myers, "and we have definite information that he will arrive here May 4 to start training and practicing for the big event. Reid, although a movie star, has many qualities and experience that appear to make him worthy of a mount in the international sweepstakes. This is our first announcement that Reid has entered the race, and we made a thorough investigation before making a confirmation from our office. Lasky, head of the organization for which Reid has been filming pictures, has made an statement which backs Reid out of the affair because of the dangers of automobile racing. However, we have evidence which we are confident that Reid will be at the starting tape on Decoration Day."

Reid has driven in competition with America's best drivers in moving picture races. However, the same conditions exist in any race, except, of course, that it was determined before the event who was to win. Other than the hazards, skill in driving nerve and daring were just as evident as in a professional race. The popular Wally has always been a favorite around the racing camps, and he was a spectator to the pleasant Ormond Beach before the Indian driver leaped into the limelight. Eddie Hearne, Jimmy Murphy, Joe Thomas, Eddie Miller and others have taken part in Reid's movie races. He will be pitted against them in his first professional debut at Indianapolis, but all the directors in America couldn't save them down to permit Reid to pass in the 500-mile battle, for approximately $180,000 will be hanging on the finish wire, and five will want the first grab.

Wally plans to be in Indianapolis the entire month of May, so that he will have the advantage of daily rehearsal at the track before race day.

Reid has always been an "outdoor" man, and it is said he owns one of the largest stable of automobiles in California. Reid's pops have played a big part in his cross-country journeys, and he is forever being cautioned for speeding, but he won't have to worry about that in the Indianapolis course.

AUTHORS OF CANADA TO MEET IN OTTAWA

Montreal, April 3.—The Executive of the Canadian Authors' Association announced here Saturday that the annual meeting of the association is scheduled for Ottawa, April 24 and 25, when about 200 Canadian authors are expected to attend. Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Winnipeg will provide the bulk of the attendance, and a large delegation will also come from the East.

The meeting will deal especially with the new, and, as yet, unannounced Copyright Act which is to be discussed.

BENNY LEONARD LOVES TENDLER

Will be Some Fight When These Two Scrappers Meet.

New York, April 3.—Grudge fights are almost unknown to the ring in these days of six-figure pugilism. Clove gladiators kiss each other after ten round and whisper apologies in a kisser under the eye or a puffer.

Press agents always write about the bitter feeling existing between two knights of the resin, but it's mostly bunk. With a few rare exceptions, it's a business proposition. The boy wants to get his purse and escape the rap, if possible.

Two lightweights are running around making faces at each other on the level, however. If Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler ever get in the ring together for the lightweight championship, there will be grudge behind every lick.

Leonard hasn't liked Tendler for years, claiming that the Philadelphia boy was stealing advertisement by making light of the champion. Benny got sore when Tendler called him "Ben" as his end, after he had run all over the country telling the world that the champ was afraid of him.

One thing led to another, culminating the climax when Tendler grabbed a $6,000 forfeit in Philadelphia last fall when Leonard had to call off a fight on account of a broken hand.

Billy Gibson went bald with rage over the affair and his feelings were further aroused recently when Tendler's manager copped another $500 forfeit because one of Gibson's preliminary boys was a pound over weight before a bout in the garden.

"That cutift never will get a chance at the title now," Gibson said. "They're too close. They spoil business—Benny and Lew. They'd take a trip to Africa on a date for a quarter. I never took a forfeit in my life. It's a fighter's game, and I want nothing to do with skates."

Gibson also shoots it into Tendler for demanding so much as the champion gets. "When we were hauling the title, we would have fought for nothing, and we did almost," he said. "Tendler runs around saying Leonard is afraid of him, and when some promoter talks to him about a Leonard fight, he up and says $50,000."

Tendler claims that he acted within his rights when he took the $6,000 forfeit. "What are forfeits for?" he asks, and perhaps he is right.

"Leonard ran out of that fight. He's got a lot of mugg when I was in training and I was entitled to some compensation. I still have the $6,000 and he can get it when he's ready," Tendler says.

Gibson says the right will never take place, but if he allows a purely financial matter to stand in the way of making $40,000 or $70,000 he is not a very good business man, and no one has ever accused him of being unbusinesslike.

FOUR-CLUB BALL LEAGUE ORGANIZED AT MONTREAL

Montreal, April 3.—A project of the Eastern Canada Baseball League, to comprise four clubs, Ottawa, Montreal, Three Rivers and Valleyfield was assured at a meeting of representa held at the Windsor Hotel here this afternoon. Quebec City was not represented, it being taken for granted that the abscint capital would not hold a franchise this Summer. The league will open about May 10 and close September 10, and a schedule of 120 or 126 games will be considered. The league has applied for affiliation with the National Association of Base ball.

SPORT STUFF

The big leaguers are on their way north. Season opens in about two weeks.

To look at the snow on the streets here you'd think it wasn't going to open for three months.

That was a nice reception Freddy Goyer received down in Guelph. They surely appreciate good men down in that town. And they don't make 'em any better than the ones that come from Belleville by the Bay.

The O.B.A.A. is in session. Wonder if there are any new kinks for the coming season.

Here's a little something that's got a whole lot of philosophy behind it:

When Jimmy Jimpson starts to pitch
At baseball in the box,
He gives his little head a twitch
And ties himself in knots.
He bends his body, lifts his knee,
And limbers up his toe,
And swings the ball amazingly
Before he lets it go.

But Tommy Tomson's not the same;
He doesn't move around
As Jimmy does; a different game
He plays upon the mound.
He sizes up the boy at bat;
He looks him in the eye;
Then takes a little step—like that,
And lets the pellet fly.

And thus the game of life is played.
When you are one and twenty You'll find in every line of trade
Of Jims and Toms a-plenty.
I think this humble mittin
For a moral well will serve;
There's nothing in the motion
If you haven't got the nerve.

NICE RECEPTION FOR FREDDY GOYER

Former Belleville Pitcher is Heartily Welcomed to Royal City.

A Guelph paper has the following in regard to the reception of Freddy Goyer, late of the C.O.B.L. Belleville team, at their annual meeting:

"A pleasing feature of the meeting was the hearty welcome which was extended to Fred Goyer, the former Belleville boy, who has won the reputation of being one of the best pitchers in the province, and who will be seen in a Guelph uniform this year. On behalf of the Maple Leaf Club, President Herbert Hower extended the welcome to Fred, drawing the attention of those present to the fact that Guelph was particularly fortunate in having a player of the Belleville boy's class, taking up his residence here.

Fred, in a brief reply, thanked President Hower, his team mates and others for their splendid reception, and stated that he would pitch better ball this year than ever. He expressed himself as pleased with his surroundings in the Royal City, and said that he was willing to do his share in assisting the Maple Leaf team to get the Ontario honors for 1922."

WATCHMAN SHOT BY ROBBERS

Windsor, Ont., April 3.—George Cabana, 55½ St. Joseph Street, Sandwich watchman for the Neal Baking Company, Caron Avenue, was shot in the thigh by three men early this morning when he refused to lead them to the company's safe in the office of the plant. After shooting Cabana, the thugs fled. Cabana was taken to Hotel Dieu, where his wound was dressed. He was not seriously hurt.

REVENUE SHOWS FALLING OFF

Decrease of Over Sixty-Four Millions in Customs and Excise.

Ottawa, April 3.—There was a decrease of more than sixty-four million dollars in the customs and excise revenue for the fiscal year, which closes to-day, as compared with the year previous.

The total customs and excise revenue for the twelve months ending March 31, 1922, was $220,990,274, while that for 1920-21 was $284,-407,565.

Big Drop in Customs

Of the total customs and excise revenue for the year just closing $119,563,425 came from customs import duties, as compared with $177,994,239 for the year previous, which was a reduction of more than fifty-eight millions.

Excise duties—that is, duties on spirits—account for $36,580,453 during the year 1921-22, a reduction of $17,-549, a falling off of $6,858,602 from 1920-21. The balance of the total revenue for the year is made up of "sundry collections" amounting to $1,537,043, which were not so specific as the statements given out for the year previous.

March Shows Recovery

The falling off in revenues during the month of March, 1922 was proportionately less than for the year as a whole. March, 1922, shows a total revenue of $20,971,111, as compared with $21,771,065 for the same month in 1921, or a decrease of $1,699,326. The falling off in customs import duties was very small, only $8,120, was not due to a reduction in wholesale coal prices, but rather to exchange, as one dealer explained. Water coal (coal delivered here by boat in the summer) was high priced last year, owing to the high rate of exchange. When that coal was all retailed and the "new" coal delivered, the exchange rate was sufficiently lowered to enable the merchants to drop their prices $1 per ton. This, then, is the cause of the latest drop in prices.

NOT AFFECTED BY COAL STRIKE

Coal merchants do not profess to be prophets, however, and naturally do not like to commit themselves when approached on a monstrous problem like a nationwide coal strike. While they do not anticipate any direct effects here, they do not make their decision final, as they are not in a position to know the results of the strike before they take place.

PICKED CONCERT UP

OFF THE GROUND

St Catharines, April 3.—One of the novelties of the storm discovered yh local radiographists was the fact that their antennae served good collectors of music from Schenectady, although the storm raised them to the ground and covered them with ice. The program was enjoyed notwithstanding the disturbance. It was a two falling of the custom import duty-demand made for the landsters to pick their concert up off the ground.

KU KLUX HAS PART IN U.S. COAL STRIKE?

Morgantown, W. Va., April 3.—On the eve of the coal strike, residents of this city were startled at nine o'clock to-night by the appearance of four fiery crosses all being ignited simultaneously on the city's hills. These lighted the sky vividly and the spectacle continued for twenty minutes. No information as to the originators of the demonstration was available, but police suspicion credited the Ku Klux Klan, which is said to have been in existence here for a number of months.

The story of the old darkey who was out for catfish in a Mississipi yawl. He landed a big one that pulled him overboard. As he crawled out aplenty line mad, he yelled:

"What! I wants to know is is dis fitzzer fishher or is dis catfish nigger fo'?"—Richmond Times-Despatch.

WILL LLOYD GEORGE MEET DEFEAT?

It will only result from negotiations looking to the demobilization of the Red armies and the establishment of guarantees for lives and private property.

After the opening speech, J. R. Clynes, Labor member, will move an amendment approving of the conference but condemning the exclusion of the subject of German reparations, and declaring that the conference lacks the confidence of the country because it is partly responsible for the conditions which have produced the sick to be remedy.

Interest in the whole of debate has reached the very pitchpoint a record attendance of members is certain. The Government has sent out a three-line whip already calling upon the supporters of the Coalition to be present. No vote will be taken at 10:30 when it is certain that Lloyd George will have a comfortable majority.

BARNSTORMERS WALKING TIES ARE ARRESTED FOR THEFT

Brockville, April 3.—Disaster overtook members of a burlesque theatrical troupe walking the ties en route from Kingston to Montreal yesterday when police arrested at the Union Station, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boston (the latter known professionally as Nora Dooley Patterson), Jessie Lindsay, Montreal, (known professionally as Hazel Patterson), and Fred Willis, of Kingston, on a charge of having entered a house at Yonge Mills, west of here, and ransacking it. The quartet admitted having entered the house while the owner was absent for the purpose of seeking shelter from the storm and having taken from it several articles which were found in their possession. Willis was accompanying the burlesque performers from Kingston.

IF DICKENS LIVED TODAY.

How Would His Democracy Fit With Modern Life.

"Charles Dickens was the supreme democrat of the nineteenth century, if democracy implies a belief in fraternity and equality as well as in liberty," says Mr. Sydney Dark in "John o' London's Weekly."

"Dickens certainly valued personal liberty. If he were living today he would probably join with Mr. Chesterton and Mr. Belloc in denouncing bureaucratic interference with the actions of the common man. He would oppose prohibition, and would have no greater love than Mr. Chesterton has for the wilderness of peeping inspectors who nowadays compilicate the life of man-kind. Dickens, of course, belonged to the age of romantic fiction, and I imagine that if he were alive to-day he would regard all foreign alliances as the creation of vain imaginings, and that he would not be immensely attracted by the League of Nations.

"It is interesting to speculate as to his attitude towards the Irish question. Great wars and wholesale killings were unknown in the days of his lucky generation, and it is permissible to suppose that his sympathy for humanism would have antagonised him to any policy that meant the continuation of strife and death, and that he would be heart and soul with Mr. Lloyd George in the endeavor to make peace between the English and Irish people.

"Let us be happy" is the first injunction of the Dickens gospel. Then there followed the constant denunciation that there are so many happenings for the cruel, the selfish, and the inconsiderate. Ralph Nickleby is rich and miserable. Uriah Heep, however his lying ways succeed, is never happy. Mrs. Pipchin is a miserable old woman. On the other hand, Tom Pinch, Mark Tapley, Nicholas Nickleby, Joe Gargery, and old Varden—each kindly, unselfish souls, all of them are as happy as the day is long. Mr. Dickens gospel can indeed be summarised in the late Prince Consort's fine injunction, 'Let's join hands and help one another, for to-day we are here together.'

"It is, therefore, certain that if Dickens were alive to-day he would use the great weapon of his laughter against present-day abuses and present-day cruelty, as he used it in his own day against Dotheboys Hall, Yorkshire schoolmasters, the law's injurious delays, and the vicious system of imprisonment for debt. He would find Mr. Podsnap in many high places. He would gibbet pomposity and humbug. He would emit the simple and the kind, and he would say things at Christmas-time of the turmoil and the bewilderment in which our lives are cast, it almost seems as if our generation were destined to that Charles Dickens is not alive to lessen the world with his deep, wholesome Cockney laughter."

Peculiar Facts and Figures.

A cherry tree at Sittingbourne, Kent, England, which still bears fruit, was planted in the reign of Henry VIII.

Marshal Foch, during his recent visit to the United States, was cited 13,000 miles, and made 164 speeches and 2,000,000 citizens.

The dog spider of Madagascar is the largest spider in existence. It weighs about 6 pounds, and each of its eight legs is as long and thick as an ordinary lead pencil.

Welsh school children during the summer holidays have, in honor of one of the principality, helped to compile a record of the electors, from the age of five.

The word "honeymoon" originated from Germany, where it was the custom to drink mead—a sweet liquid made from honey—for thirty days after the wedding, "moon," of course, meaning "month."

The Gordian knot takes its name from Gordium, an ancient city of Asia Minor, where Alexander the Great was to have severed the knot with the yoke of Gordius, King of Phrygia. To-cut the knot is means to evade a difficulty, and to get out of it in a summary manner.

A Long Vacation.

A certain philanthropist is also a man of business, and is noted for his hospitality for the "down-and-outers." If possible he will give any deserving applicant for a job a chance to "make good." On one occasion, it is said, this gentleman was approached by an individual so utterly disreputable in appearance that any but the philanthropist himself would have had him ejected from the office. "Now, I've got a job for you, if you're all right" asked the good man, when he had heard the man's story of hard luck woes. "I can find work all right," said the man, bitterly and with a sneer, "everybody wants references from my last employer." "And cannot you get those references from him?" "No, sir, he's been dead for twenty-five years."

Unfortunate.

An old couple in the south of England were much distressed owing to their increasing poverty. Thinking that one or both would need help from them, they wrote, stating their troubles, and saying that if they could aid them they would be obliged to go on the poor-house. A couple of weeks passed, and then came a letter from the son, saying: "My Dear Parents—Just wait another week, and I'll come home and go with you.—Your affectionate Son."

Ultra-Polite.

Mrs. Murray, to the principal of the school which was attended by her daughter—"Dear Madam, I am sorry her Clarice informs me that last year she was obliged to study Roman Emperors. Please do not let this happen again. I do not like the way some of the teachers, let them be as refined as possible."

MUTILATED MEN TO BE AIDED

Experts Investigate Best Method of Helping the War's Unfortunates.

Geneva, April 3.—The best methods of aiding the 4,000,000 mutilated victims mutilated in the world war are being investigated by the commission of experts of the International Labor Bureau, one of the subordinate commissions of the League of Nations.

The commission is experts of the International Labor Bureau, now at the subordinate commissions of the League of Nations.

The commission is being assisted by representatives of all the large associations of "mutilés," as the mutilated persons are called, and also by official delegates from Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany, representatives of the Hygiene Commission of the League of Nations, the International Red Cross and of the League of Red Cross Societies.

The experts are considering whether the Red Cross should call an international exposition of apparatus used by the mutilés showing all the devices and equipment evolved by each country for the diminution of suffering and to increase the injured person's capacity.

The experts are under consideration a proposal to establish a technical bureau to study the artificial devices of all countries designed to aid the crippled and maimed.

The commission is looking into the various methods in the various governments to war invalids, and is studying a plan under which all countries would give the same aid to all mutilated persons residing therein, regardless of their nationality.

The commissioners hope to bring about an international agreement for that purpose.

RUSSIAN BOLSHEVIST GOVT. WILL ATTEND THE GENOA CONFERENCE

Moscow, April 3.—A little girl who had been given a bunch of flowers by Soviet bodyguards, and who suddenly received an invitation to a party at the home of one of the rich little girls on the hill, could hardly display more excitement than the Russian Bolshevist government has over the invitation to the Genoa Conference.

They now feel they are in the social swim at last, and are very much excited to make faces at representatives of former Russian regimes who refused to play with them.

Unless, for reasons of policy which do not at present seem likely to be invoked, the Soviet delegation to Genoa should decide to appear there in the garb of the proletariate, the Bolshevist representatives will be fully acceptable as immaculate as any others attending the conference. They are going to be well dressed at their first party.

NAIL IS REMOVED FROM MAN'S SPINE

Remarkable Operation in Toronto Hospital Proves Successful.

Toronto, April 3.—Isaac Campbell, of Caledonia, Cape Breton, had an iron nail removed from the middle of his spine in the Western hospital on March 17, following an unusual operation.

The nail had been imbedded in Campbell's spine for twenty-one years. It penetrated the spinal cord, causing through an accident on a railroad.

This miracle operation, probably the first of its kind in the world, so far as it known, the first ever performed in Toronto, was a success. Although three pieces of the nail retained were removed by the surgeons in extracting the nail, Campbell withstood the shock and it was stated last night that his chances for recovery were good.

KING GEORGE'S FAVORITE PASTIME IS LAWN BOWLING

London, April 3.—One of King George's favorite pastimes at present is the game of bowls. Recently he had a new bowling green laid out in the grounds of Buckingham Palace, especially for the use of the domestic staff there, and played the first game on it. Subsequently he used the tennis court at Sandringham turned into a bowling green which is now in constant use at the Castle, and in the Eastern Counties of England. The King's second son, the Duke of York, is also fond of bowls, and is his father's usual opponent.

ARREST PLOTTERS AGAINST PRINCE

Tokio, April 3.—Scores of Indian radicals, who were preparing a demonstration of violence in connection with the visit of the Prince of Wales, April 12, have been arrested here.

Every precaution is being taken by the Japanese government to protect His Royal Highness during his voyage through Japan. It is feared that Crown Prince Hirohito may be assassinated. Indians who were arrested had explosives in their possession.

CITY COUNCIL MAKES GRANT FOR COLEMAN WARD SCHOOL

NEW SCHOOL FOR COLEMAN WARD

Board Presented Requisition for $120,000 to the City Council.

NAME CHOSEN

Delegates Were Chosen to Attend School Meeting in Toronto.

At a special meeting of the Board of Education, held last night, requisition for $120,000 was presented to the City Council which also met last night, for the purpose of building and equipment of the Coleman Ward School. The requisition was adopted on motion of Messrs. J. Elliott and Col. W. N. Ponton.

Mr. Elliott stated that debentures payable in 20 years at 5½per cent. interest would now sell at 95½ and of debentures. Mr. Elliott also wished that a representation of the Board of Education accompany the city council's delegation chosen to dispose of the debentures. Col. Ponton wished that the school should be called the new school in honor of our Great Sovereign, since all other schools here are named after citizens. Mr. T. R. Deacon expressed his wish that it be called after the late Sir MacKenzie Bowell, who lived all his life in what is honored citizen, had the highest gift of the country and had an exempt ary character. Col Ponton's motion carried, however, and the school will be known as King George's School.

Messrs. A. Melville and Elliott and W. Ackerman were chosen, a committee to present the requisition to the meeting of the council.

The tender for the building of the school was awarded to Thomas Manley & Sons, there's being the lowest tender.

A communication from Georgetown Board of Education was read, in which they desired that a delegation of the Belleville Board meet them at the Prince George Hotel, Toronto, on April 4th, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. for the purpose of discussing the matter of technical school grants. Messrs. T. R. Deacon and A. McGie were chosen to represent the board at this meeting.

A communication from the Women's Christian Association asked that the Board of Education give their hearties co-operation in making the child welfare week in Belleville a success, and that a delegate be appointed to attend their meeting. Messrs. F. S. Deacon and Mrs. A. McFee were chosen to attend the Public Health meeting and represent the Board.

A communication from Principal P. C. McLearis of the High School requested that a delegate from the Cardinal Csernoch, Primate of Hungary stated to-day, that in his opinion, Otto had become a king.

DIES FROM SEVERE INJURY

Ex-Reeve of Huntingdon Township Victim of Distressing Accident.

Some three months ago Mr. William J. Jeffrey, one of the most widely known and popular farmers of Huntingdon Township, was the victim of a distressing accident, which has terminated fatally. In company with his son, James, he was engaged in felling a tree, when it lodged against another tree. While endeavoring to dislodge the tree it fell in a direction which Mr. Jeffrey could not escape and he was pinned to the ground. His injuries were such that the spine was affected so that the greater portion of his body was paralyzed. Yesterday afternoon he passed away. The deceased was about 47 years of age and was born in Huntingdon Township, being a son of the late Mr. William Jeffrey. He had in late years taken an active part in municipal affairs, and for a few years was Reeve of the Township, a position which he filled with credit to himself and the municipality. He was deservedly popular with all classes of the community and his demise is sincerely regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends. Mr. Jeffrey was a member of Stirling Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and was identified also with the Orange Society. In religion he was an Anglican and in politics a conservative. A widow and three children survive, being James, Florence and Bessie. To the bereaved ones is extended a heartfelt sympathy of many friends.

CHILD'S REFUGE IS SHELTER

Intelligencer Reporter Makes Special Trip of Inspection Over Institution.

PATHETIC CASES

Efforts of Those in Charge to Instil Sunshine Appreciated.

On entering the front door of the Children's Shelter on Dundas Street, E., one of the first things to attract your attention is that fine, old motto: "Let us not be weary in well doing," and on being shown through the spacious building, the fact that this motto is being diligently followed, is demonstrated in no uncertain manner.

When The Intelligencer called this morning, Miss A. T. Harris, the matron of the Shelter, very kindly showed the representative through the whole building from farmers room to store room, and everything was spotlessly clean and in excellent order, speaking well for the work of the matron and her three able assistants.

There are 21 children in the shelter at the present time, 10 of whom are boys and 11 girls. Of this number, four attend school, and five more recent arrivals will be ready for their entrance next week. There are more children in the Shelter during the winter months as a rule, and the number for the past 18 months has ranged between 18 and 34 per month, or an average of 19 per day for the year. The children are in good health, well dressed, and were having a wonderful time at their games when interrupted. The Fire Canadian girl of 5 years, 47 inches in height, watched the other girls play, and a dark complexioned girl, who has been an inmate since infancy and who has an interesting ancestry, also enjoyed the proceedings. A particularly sad case was brought to the attention of the Shelter recently, when four orphan girls, aged 16, 14, 13, and 9 years respectively, were admitted on Saturday last. Their mother died last September, and the father committed suicide last month. They are lovely children, but have no relatives in this country, their parents being immigrants.

There are excellent play grounds in the rear of the Shelter, besides playrooms for both boys and girls inside, but Miss Harris would like to see a few more swings and a merry-go-round installed, similar to the one at the Exhibition grounds.

"Of course, shortage of money is the case here, the same as other institutions," said Miss Harris in discussing the improved playgrounds.

The building is managed, and all work done by the Matron, the boy's nurse, girls' nurse and the cook, the services of a man not being used. There is a good garden below the playgrounds, but it would not pay to hire a gardener, for all that could be raised. Everyone is kept busy on account of the amount of sewing which is necessary to do. Suits and clothing are made over for, all the children from clothing given to the Shelter, and each child when being sent out on a month's trip for adoption, is given two suits, or dresses, as the case may be.

The public do not realize the pitiful cases that come before the Matron. There are those whose mother had died and whose father had deserted them, have been admitted, who have never slept in a bed, never wore shoes, and never climbed a stair.

They had lived in a shack in the North Country, and did not know what a bed was when they saw one. Their clothing in this wild state, consisted of a man's old suit coat, buttoned about them, and that was practically all. You wouldn't believe they were the same children as they joyed in the swings this morning, thanks to the good work of the Shelter administration.

There is a humorous side to life in the Shelter too, and among the stories related incidentally by the matron, was one in particular that could be appreciated. The children were recently taken down town for a group photograph, and afterwards when viewing the soda fountain of a down town drug store, they were each presented with a sample visit of perfume. The whole party followed directions in this matter, and the result was that a pleasant, but pronounced "perfume barrage" was "put over" at the Shelter when they returned home.

The officers appointed to carry out this campaign are as follows: Mr. C. M. Stork, director; Rev. D. C. Ransom, vice-director; and Mrs. Chadwick, Charles St., secretary. The program committee consists of Mrs. A. G. Marshall, Miss Simons, Mrs Marry, Dr. Louise Tower and Miss Gastrell. Mr. Robt. Gorman will be in charge of the publicity committee.

Short addresses were given by Dr. Clinton, medical officer of the Provincial Board of Health; Miss M. E. Heeley, Public Health Nurse, and Mrs. W. C. Mikel, President of the W.C.A., outlining the work, the necessity and organization for such work.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

That Hanna stated at the council meeting last night that the committees were unable to come to an agreement in reference to the claim and it was necessary to appoint an arbitrator in the matter.

The claimants of the estate claim damages from the city, alleging that when Murney's flats were torn down and paved the Murney property was damaged to some extent.

French Attitude Changes.

Paris, April 4.—The French attitude toward the Genoa conference has undergone a great change in the last forty-eight hours, the coolness previously shown in official circles having given way to the sentiment that something must come out of the conference, and the French delegation must go to work whole-heartedly to that end.

Leave for Genoa.

London, April 4.—Minor officials and secretaries attached to the British delegation to the Genoa conference left this morning for Italy.

Archbishop's Condition Serious.

SOME MINE OPERATORS MEET STRIKERS' DEMANDS?

So Say Strike Leaders, Who Claim Complete Victory Over Independent Producers—Conflicting Statements Have Been Made by Rival Factions.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

New York, April 4.—The strike leaders announced here to-day that the anthracite Mines General scale committee would meet in New York to-morrow to act on the request of several independent producers to grant the strikers the nineteen wage demands immediately if they would return to their jobs.

In the coal-mining strike which has closed more than six thousand collieries, leaving over 400,000 men idle, the union claim many non-union miners who were idle Saturday in observance of the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday have returned to work.

Both sides agree, however, that the strike is practically 100 per cent. perfect in the great central competitive field of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania.

Operators assert that many pits are in operation in West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama. Keenes operators yesterday agreed to return their wage scale of May, 1917, providing for $5.66 a day, instead of the $7.50 named in the prices' agreement.

Union leaders claim a victory for striking anthracite miners through the offer of several independent operators to grant the miners' wage demands if the men would return to work immediately.

President John L. Lewis, of the miners, told the House Labor Committee yesterday that the miners were prepared to meet, and, if needed, to end, until the operators sign up a basic wage contract for the coming competitive field.

Following a card party, Day drove a number of his guests home and on his return he found his wife struggling in the arms of Beck. He is being held on a charge of shooting Beck.

Schoolgirl Amazes Experts

At various intervals throughout the ages persons have arisen who astonished their generation by their "stunts" and mental powers, and doubtless these persons were regarded as freaks in their own day. Only a few got by with their stuff, however, only to be unmasked by subsequent investigators. Sometimes they had made a monkey of science before they died and claimed a supernatural origin for natural phenomena. Occasionally a man deceived the people of his own time and leaves a mystery which is never solved. To one of these classes belongs Miss Dennis, a Kansas City girl, who is attending High School and who appears to have some remarkable gift. She makes no claim of being in communication with the spirit world. She does not know how she performs her wonders, and is in every respect an ordinary flapper, who seems to be fond of boys and chocolate sundaes and who is no better nor worse for her queer gift, than the ordinary girl of her age. The theory is advanced that she has "psychic eyes," whatever that may be. Then she is a "clairvoyant" appears to be an untenable theory, she has already been investigated to establish that fact and by men who are acknowledged expert in that line, about as far as any one can. Miss Dennis began to startle her friends by her powers when she was first visiting, being a youth who was driving her in his car suddenly exclaimed, "Oh, look at that automobile accident!" Then she looked at the driver and said, "You have got to turn around right away and go back to the scene and help me carry a message to the hospital." Astonished, the driver turned around and shook her by the arm and in a moment she was herself again. She told him to hurry with his car into town, as there had been an accident, and if help did not come immediately a man would die. He put on all speed in the direction she pointed out and presently saw two wrecked automobiles and a large group of people. They told him that the victim of the collision had been already taken to the hospital. It would appear that Miss Dennis was somehow or other made aware of the accident at the moment it happened. In fact she saw it.

Some time ago she paid a visit to Omaha, and it was from there that the first public news of her queer gift emanated. One of her women friends remarked that she had lost a valuable diamond ring the day before, and Eugenie, without going into a trance, but merely concentrating her mind, told her where it had been dropped. She said it would be recovered if she hurried, because in half an hour a man with a vacuum cleaner would be busy with the rugs. The matron hurried away to the friend's house, went to the room, and at the designated spot picked up the ring. She had not recovered from her amazement and delight when a servant knocked at the door and asked if it would be convenient for him to clean the rugs. There were several other similar incidents which found their way into the newspapers, with the result that the American Society for Psychical Research in New York became interested and commissioned an investigator.

It happened that the best investigator for one phase of the problem is a resident of Omaha. He is David Abbott, whose business is the manufacture of paraphernalia for magicians. It is said that half the tricks of the performers of legerdemain are the invention of Abbott. He has often said that he can duplicate any trick of the professional mediums and was eager to interview Miss Dennis. It was arranged that she should live at his home for a few weeks. She did so, and Abbott's report, which has been forwarded to the society, will say that she remains a mystery to him, and that there can be no possibility of fraud in what she performs. Nothing more dramatic in the history of these investigations over occurred than the incident one evening recently, when Mr. Abbott invited some twenty-five guests to meet the girl and witness a demonstration of her powers. For a while she remained chatting with them, telling them things about their past lives, which astonished them, when suddenly she stopped and cried: "Wait! Wait!"

"I'm getting something!" she exclaimed. "Something awful is happening. A man is being killed right now—right here in Omaha. I see a street car. I see three dead. faced men running through the street. The man is dead." She resumed her chat in normal tone, and a few minutes later the guests were leaving the house. They boarded a street car and noticed the excitement of the other passengers. They then learned that three negroes had shot and killed a policeman at the end of the car line, fifteen minutes before, at the precise moment when Miss Dennis had her vision. It is said that the girl has also successfully repeated a test message agreed upon between Abbott and a dead friend, who had promised to send this particular message if ever he found a medium. Eugenie is to be further investigated by the Society for Psychical Research.

Music and Drama

THE BOHEMIAN GIRL

You'll take your hat off to "The Bohemian Girl" when she makes her bow to you.

"The Bohemian Girl" will make its bow to music lovers of this city at Griffin's next Friday night, April 7th. When Manager Forhan of Griffin's booked that the Boston English Opera Company is making a return tour in Balfe's beautiful opera he immediately got busy and was fortunate to secure this excellent organization in Balfe's popular opera.

The "Bohemian Girl" is without doubt the world's favorite comic opera its score abounds in beautiful ballads, joyous choruses and rollicking comedy.

The Boston English Opera Company, needs no introduction and for near Helena Morril sing "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls", to hear Norman Arnaud sing "Then Still Remember Me", to hear the beautiful Barlion of Henry Kunze, in "The Heart Bowed Down", and the vibrant contralto of Dorothy Bolt, in the plaintive "Bliss Forever, Past" and last but not least the deep toned Edward Orchard as Devilshoof the Chief of the Gypsies is something to look forward to with pleasurable anticipation. Mr. Orchard is conceded America's foremost simple comedian. Another star in the cast is a part in which he has few if any equals, his beautiful voice and fine scene of comedy make this role one of the outstanding features of the performance.

Natural Gas.

Of natural gas the people of this continent burn usefully in a year fully 480,000,000,000 cubic feet—or 40,000,000 tons of coal, and sometimes 600,000,000 families are directly benefited by it in cooking, heating and lighting. But the most significant aspect of this matter is that approximately two-thirds of the gas is used industrially. The history of our treatment of natural gas is a record of wanton waste. Just think of it, that in one single month gas was allowed to escape unchecked from a well Heidler Dome, while 1,000,456,000 cubic feet of gas! The dissipation of potential heat corresponded to 250,000 tons of coal, enough to supply 50,000 households for a year. By recourse to moderate expense for proper casing at our gasoline wells an enormous conservation of this fuel might be effected. —Scientific American.

Law Against Beetles.

The "Memoires de la Societe Royal Academique de Savoie" give a curious account of a lawsuit once taken against beetles in 1445 and 1447. They had committed great ravages in the St. Julian vineyards. Having listened to counsel on either side, the judge suggested that the vine growers should cast lots for the parish land where they could live without trespassing on the vineyards, otherwise he ordered that the vineyards should be inspected by the beetles under certain penalties. The beetles lawyer protested that the land was barren, and the court appointed assessors to survey it. They reported favorably, but the beetles raised a legal quibble and so it went on, but what the upshot was is not known owing to the destruction of the document.

The exact direction and velocity of the wind can now be ascertained to as high as eight miles above the earth with special telescopes and gas-filled balloons.

Mr. A. McGie—The tender was $120,000 and in addition to this is the equipping of the school and the fixing up of the grounds.

Ald. Ostrom said he was inclined to approve of the request.

Ald. Robinson — Considerable money has been saved by postponing the erection of the school, until this year; the ratepayers said that last year by opposing the erection of the school and had a petition circulated against it. It would be impossible for him to ask or vote against the request.

Ald. Foster—Lay protection for Belleville labor and a fair wage to be paid.

Mr. McGie—The tenderer would attend to this.

Mayor Hanna—He was pleased that the Board had presented the requisition.

Mr. Thomas Manley said he always employed union men and paid union wages.

Ald. Foster—I want to protect the working men of the city.

Mr. Ackerman—We are doing the best we could for the working men of Belleville, and the money will be spent here.

A vote of appreciation was laid on the table on the understanding that a motion would be introduced in the future to the same effect.

Moved by Ald. McCreary, seconded by Ald. Greenleaf that the prayer of the petition of the Board of Education for the sum of $120,000 to provide for the construction of a new public school in Belleville be granted and that the necessary by-law authorizing the said debentures be prepared.

Ald. Robinson—The word equipment should be included in the motion.

Ald. McCreary—That is satisfactory.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

REX STOCK CO. IN FUNNY COMEDY

"Three Twins" is the Feminine Comedy Seen Here Yet.

Rex Roslyncer again picked a winner when he selected for presentation at Griffin's that evening that rollicking, three-act comedy "The Three Twins", a comedy of unusual merit and cleverness and packed with laughs from the action of the play. Ina Williams, the Little Red Head was acceptably the Yama Yama number which famous by Bessie McCoy in the original New York Production of the comedy with music. The presentation of the comedy serves to reveal the versatility of the popular Rex players. "Old Bill" Yule handles capably the role of the old fire-eating, General Standhope, his rendering of the old popular ballad "The Old Town Hall" being accorded liberal applause. Rex stacks every ounce of humor of the role of Tom Standhope the General's wild offspring, Gloria Meehan, Billy Seymour, Hazel Williams, Wm. F. Mitchell, A. J. Cole and Charles Hanlan all filled their roles capably.

The production has been given the correct atmosphere, by the introduction of special scenery, the action of the first two acts being laid in the Sea-View hotel, and the last act in Doctor Hartman's Sanitarium.

If you want a sure cure for that jaded winter feeling take our tip and visit Griffin's to-night or Wednesday night and see "The Three Twins", it is an unusual comedy with many clever situations, and is one great laughmaker.

C.C.M. Bicycle Prices Reduced

"HURRAH, fellows: You don't need to hold off buying your new bicycle another day.

"C.C.M. Bicycle prices have been fixed for this season and they are right down to bed rock.

The 1922 C.C.M. Standard Adult Models are:

$15 Below "Peak" Prices
$10 Less than Last Summer

"This certainly gives us Canadian riders a generous reduction and a square deal. I'm told that bicycles of equal quality cost more in the United States than C.C.M. Bicycles do in Canada.

"Remember, C.C.M. prices didn't advance anywhere nearly so much as most products, so they hadn't as far to come down.

"And C.C.M. Bicycles are even better now than before the war.

"You know, the best steels and materials were reserved for war purposes, and the best mechanics put on war orders. Now, the best steels and materials are again obtainable, including English Seamless Tubing for C.C.M. Frames. The best mechanics are on the job again with their skill, improved as a result of the accuracy demanded in their delicate time fuse work.

A Nifty New Pedal

"And, say fellows, they've put a new pedal—called the Gibson Pedal—on the 1922 Men's Models, and it's a bird!

"The easy-running Triplex Hanger and the self-contracting New Hercules Brake are on the new models, too. No extra charge, either.

"But I almost forgot to tell you the new low prices this year. They are only:

$50 and $60

For Standard Adult Models According to Equipment.

"This means that a C.C.M. costs only about $5 or $6 a year, as a C.C.M. Bicycle easily gives 10 years of service. Many have given 15 years and longer."

the average brain. The underlying secret of his power was soon apparent to me. He stood always for that great thing in America which Walt Whitman has called "the divine aggregate," and seeing clearly how great measure would be lucky to attest its welfare, he followed the compass. If he had him to a height of power above all others and was to hold him onto the loftiest pinnacle of achievement in American history.

Not much in my term of service that I remember, but the little task of mine. I did my work well, if I may believe the testimony of the great men with the gentle and ungentle arts of the politicum.

The great fact grew in magnitude and smiles portent as the months passed; the gigantic figure looming in the streets of the South viewed with growing alarm the spread of sedition and discontent. Then, quietly and naturally they were feeling for the means to defend and increase their power. Strength were coming to the surface in that session which betrayed this deep, concerted purpose. We felt it and the senator was worried, I knew, but said his party was safe for a year and his opinions until the hour had struck that summoned him to the polls. The senator never played with his lance. By and by fipscomer openly sounded the note of conflict.

The most welcome year of my life opened on the first of January, 1864. I remember that I arose before daylight that morning and dressed and went out on the street to welcome it.

I had less than six months to wait for that day appointed by Sally. I had no doubt that she would be true to me. She had my picture and I had hers and reciprocal jewelry was

THE HIDDEN MOTIVE.

On the surface there does not appear to be sufficient reason for the general strike of the United States Mine Workers of America. The chief ostensible reason is the irreconcilable attitudes of the miners and the operators regarding wages. The mine operators in the bituminous coal industry refuse to meet the representatives of the miners in order to discuss a new wage schedule. In so refusing the operators violate an agreement made two years ago. There is no valid defence for this act of bad faith.

But is the wage question the vital one at stake? There is good reason to believe that were that all, the difference between the miners and operators would have been adjusted long ago. It is believed in well-informed circles that the operators, far from dreading the impending strike, have planned for it, and are in fact parties to it, there being an understanding between them and the executive of the miners' organization.

For some years the non-union miners of West Virginia have been a thorn in the side of the unionized mining industry. In the West Virginia mines the wages are lower than those paid in the union mines, and mainly for that reason the West Virginia coal undersells the product of the union mines and is rapidly supplanting it. About a third of all the bituminous coal mined in the State is mined in West Virginia. While the union mines have been worked only three or four days a week, those in West Virginia operate on full time. The non-union miners are contented, for, although their wage-scale is lower than the union scale, they work full time and steady and earn much more than the union workers, who work only three or four days a week, and sometimes less in many cases.

Both the operators and miners in the unionized districts have been making desperate efforts to get the West Virginia mines unionized in order to do away with the competition from that quarter. Attempts have been made to buy the mines. Force has been used, and more than once a condition resembling civil war has developed, making necessary the intervention of federal troops. But all in vain. The belief is common that the great strike has been brought on largely in the hope that it will bring about the closing of non-union mines in West Virginia and their ultimate unionization—and that it has been planned with the approval of the operators in the union districts.

Whatever the effects of the strike upon the coal industry may prove to be, it is fairly certain to result unfairly and unpleasantly for the general public. The coal consumers in the United States and Canada will have to pay the cost of this great industrial war. Is this fact not enough to suggest the query, Since, under private operation in the coal industry, the public welfare is ignored and the public suffers injury, is it not time to consider the advisability of trying the experiment of public operation?

THE IRISH TREATY.

Another brand new peace agreement has been signed by Northern and Southern Ireland, with the distinct and definite understanding that each shall work for unity. Of late, recent reprehensible acts of violence surely have served to impress upon all parties concerned the urgent necessity of causing murders and outrages to cease. Comment in regard to Ireland generally is adverse because the continuance of armed strife there has embarrassed all Irish friends, and created indignation in many quarters formerly friendly. Moderation is the gospel that should be preached in Ireland, and anything else will bring nothing but evil to the people of Ireland themselves. Collins, Griffith and Craig, from all appearances, are anxious to show real statesmanship and devotion in the welfare of their country, and never was there a time when this was more necessary, considering the anti-Irish tactics of the de Valeras. The conclusion of the Irish treaty, which has now been officially signed by the King, inspires fresh hopes that alas! lately seemed to be melting into thin air, and a renewed feeling of peace arise in Ireland without the slightest provocation must be abandoned definitely. The crimes against the unity of Ireland are being committed by non-Irishmen. Ulster and the South of Ireland by virtue of peace and goodwill can make their housesholds one; but for Southern Ireland to attempt to capture Ulster would be as equally absurd as for Ulster's six counties to capture the remaining twenty-six. It is now the bounden duties of both Governments to deal drastically with the men who seek to upset the treaty. There should be no disillusions in that regard.

The great talent for public affairs which Irishmen have shown in their far-flung dispersion among other nations can now be tested to the full in their own country. An unhappy impression has been created by a bad start in Ireland. The prestige of the Emerald Isle has been lowered since the peace treaty twice was effected in January last. The bickerings and calumnies, quarrels and animosities have filled friends of Ireland with amazement and fear. Ireland has waited a long time for peace, and now it will be wisest to see that no further outbreaks of violence are possible so as to make the maintenance of peace and good government otherwise than paramount and permanent.

Not one of the great powers can justly plead not guilty to the charge of deserting the Armenians. All culpable, though perhaps not equally so.

Balfour will probably feel more at home in the House of Lords than in the Commons. The balance in brain power has shifted to the upper chamber.

EVEN AT BROCKVILLE
Brockville Recorder.

There is altogether too much loafing, and particularly at night, along King street. Complaint has been made of young men congregating in business doorways and passing unseemly remarks especially when members of the fair sex are passing. Such conduct is not permissable and does not add to the reputation of the town as a whole. Strangers coming to Brockville are not to say the least, impressed with the spectacle. The police should start a campaign against the practice. The town bylaw governing such things should be strictly enforced.

The Poets' Corner

AN ATTIC WINDOW

It opened up toward the dawn,
High up in gray home gables, and
A casin,
Easy and old and kindly, waited
there;
And thence, o'er porch and lawn,
The view lai out, and on, and far away
Down the long valley, past the river grey,
To dreaming hills withdrawn.
So faint, so far, one might their borders scan,
Though somewhere round their dim peaks heaven began.

'Twas not the outlook there
Claimed us of old, but inside sights a wealth
Of rare old treasures, best explored by stealth.
Clutter of curious ware—
Bellows and sconpipe hats, an inlaid chest,
And on it carved what mother called "a crest".
Yet in some twilight fair,
When to the attic we her feet would lead
We found her oftenest at this window place.

And when with smile and sigh
We yoked that each made other doubly dear,
She turned, but left untold the vision clear
That held her lingering eye,
We, too, looked out; we saw the vale, the hill,
Far and afar; and seeing, wonder set still;
All that we might decry
Too shadowy seemed and strange, withdrawn too far
New fears to kindle or old joys to stir.

But 'twas a magic seat
Under the antique casement, and the years
The wide, wise vision that makes old eyes dear.
And now, when age poor street
Marks our horizon, and an outraged car
Warns us how weary wears a world too near,
Gladly would we repeat
For our own, what that simple, high empries,
And give life back its outlook toward the skies.

THE HELL THAT NOW IS

By BYRON STAUFFER

Still does the long procession of Trusted Employees continue its lockstep around the Hell of Penitentiary. The grim gatekeeper shoots the bolt and the hinges creak out their doleful greetings as the latest recruit is delivered. Then the prison gallery photographer and the prison barber perform their respective stunts; the new arrival doffs his striped suit and starts his long compulsory holiday with the assessment.

There you have the Hell that now is. It begins the moment the first dollar was taken from the employer's till. Then developed the horrible fear of the auditor's searchlight on the checker's desk. The Judge Hades enough, God knows, when came the sting at the door, the mealtime, the quiet entrance of the detectives and their stern request that he come with them. He gave his companions the assurance that it was but an unfortunate mistake, and staggered out into the night to take the silent ride to police headquarters.

The next day a nerved-up young woman's face appears between the bars of the cage, behind which the culprit is pacing to and fro; like the wild beasts at the zoo. He grins to her in true braggadocio style, assures her that his lawyer tells him it will all be cleared in short order and that he will be out in a day or two, a free man once more.

Then his honest, old farmer father comes to town, arranges for bail, secures a good lawyer, finds the exact amount of the shortage and prepares to place a mortgage on his homestead. It is a sleepless night he puts in at the hotel, and out home a mere woman, he has reeled from the phone and sunk into her chair, becoming old in a trice.

The day before the trial, the lawyer informs the father that he has viewed out the evidence and finds the case hopeless, that the son had better plead guilty. It is the lad's first offence, and a frank confession might, who knows, get him off on a suspended sentence. The elevator boy in the building wonders what ails the white-faced old man; who seems dizzy or blind as he gropes his way to the street. Then he rallies, hoping against hope, and goes to tell the young culprit, who, even now, maintains his nonchalance.

The next farmer the old farmer laboriously ascends his Golgotha, bearing his cross—which means that he climbs the stairway to the criminal courtroom with bowed head, while the lad litters with health. There is a cry: "Silence in the court!"; the judge quietly orders the next case called. The son hears his own name shouted out; he is pushed into the prisoner's box; the father comes as close as he may. The gruff clerk spiels out a swift list of sentences, in monotone, informing the accused what he is charged with; asks him, "How do you plead: Guilty, or not guilty?" He murmurs "Guilty," and his lawyer perfunctorily tells the Judge the few and feeble points in the young man's favor. Then the court points out the gravity of the offense, that society must be protected, that in view of his youth, his record, and his reputable parents, he is inclined to show a degree of mercy and—sentence him to Kingston Penitentiary for three years! The father sinks low, as if a blow had struck him, the culprit hears a court official ordering him to "Come this way."

EDDY'S everywhere IN THE HOME
Faithful servants of the home, wherever men have built a safe shelter against bare or cold, Eddy's have found their way by right of necessity, comfort, convenience and safety. The first thing in the morning, the last thing at night, in the homes of the rich as well as of the most humble—an Eddy match lights the way.

EDDY'S everywhere IN THE WOODS
Hunters, trappers, coureurs des bois in the great silences, whose very life depends on the match that starts the evening fire, have relied on Eddy's since the days of flint and steel. Eddy's early realized that conservation was more important than re-forestation. The perfection of Eddy match-safety has saved millions to Canada through prevention of fire losses.

EDDY'S everywhere ON THE WATER
"Sure ye got the matches?" is their last question before leaving shore for the nearby deep. Drenched to the skin but for his oilskins, his sole companion his pipe, how quickly it lights up with the appearance of an Eddy match—sure as a flash of lightning in a stormy sky. They swear by Eddy's on the Banks.

EDDY'S everywhere ON THE TRAIL
In the long marches, in the barren wilds—to the end of the trail with these fearless riders, Eddy's has been their constant companion and friend. Out through the Crow's Nest Pass, in the Hudson Bay Posts, on the icy coasts, they count on Eddy matches. Faithful members of the Light Brigade, Eddy's have been an invaluable ingredient of law and order.

TAN AND BROWN SPORT SUITE

Steamer blankets served as inspiration to the clever designer of this chic tennis sport suit in tan and brown.

BEGINNING—TEST OF SKILL

Attire Must Take Into Consideration No Two Women Are Alike—Oh, Yes, Just to Be Beautiful.

Among the Eastern nations Turkey was first to feel the effects of Roosevelt's visit. Turkey has recently developed a taste for French fashions; and in India, too, there is a growing tendency to adopt foreign styles.

Designing for the individual is a test of the skill and art of the designer. No two women are alike, and the designer that is suited in every particular to one woman will not suit another. There are certain outstanding lines that determine the use of line, form and color for the individual; the color of her eyes, the color of her hair, her complexion, her figure, her individual personality—all differ one from those of other women, and all important in the designer who is going to give advice or to bring out her particular points of beauty and conceal whatever defects she may have. The purpose of the costume is to make the wearer appear harmonious and the observer will say: "What a beautiful woman that is!" and not "What a beautiful gown she is wearing!" In costume designing, as in the other arts, the purpose of art is to conceal art. The artist must not be an observer one, but it must be felt never theless.

DAME FASHION'S FADS.

Black satin and white radium lace are used in combination.

Blood stockings are taking the place of the popular gray one.

Fruit and flower-trimmed felt hats are having a great vogue.

Splits of striped velvet fabrics are trimmed with wide fringe.

The long waistline silhouette is favored for children's fall dresses.

The soft bodice is generally loose and features a narrow string belt.

A bewitching bodice of sand georgette has sweet embroidery of georgette.

Hat hatbands have created work that gives the effect of rhinestones.

White satin frocks beaded in crystal and spangled in lettuce green chiffon have been introduced by the French.

White flannel skirts are seen with bright-colored sweaters and are worn with matching hats of ribbon, felt or straw.

The frock of canton crepe is very much worn. It is generally made in a plain, low, sleeveless model, embroidered heavily at the hem.

NEW HATS ARE PICTURESQUE

Certain Phases Droop in Every Direction Except to Totally Hide the Face.

The newest hats for wear with more formality, and some have taken back all of that picturesqueness which has been a part of well-dressed women of the past. There are numberless certain phases drooping in every direction, except to totally hide the face. They seem to find absolutely their best expression when they do partially hide the face or the eyes, or some interesting feature. As one designer put it: "Now wear that hat straight and low and make the passer-by wonder whether you have any eyebrows or not." The newer hat has come to be, indeed, a much more subtle affair than the one of the last few seasons, and though women still cling to the little, round, informal affairs, they are yet being educated quietly in the direction of these more dignified lines.

Broadcloth.

Among the revivals of materials which we will like is that of broadcloth. It has been a long time since a smooth material like that had much chance. Developments and weavings and all pile fabrics have pushed it out. But satin broadcloths are to be much used. These are trimmed in fur, have rather short coats with a bend of fur on the bottom and skirts ten inches.

The Difference.

Young Son—Father, what is the difference between robbery and pillage?

Father—Brother, my son, robbery is my son, by-virtue that a dentist's bill is robbery; while a doctor's bill is a salary grab.—Wayside Tales.

Efficient Housekeeping

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Mary, C.—Will you kindly print some good lunch or supper dishes? You always tell what to have for breakfast or for dinner—but when it comes to lunch or Sunday supper, I never know what to cook.

Answer: Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope (not a tiny, or a long, narrow, envelope) and I will send you a full-page sheet of recipes I have just had printed, entitled, "Seven Good Supper Dishes." These you will find suitable for both lunch and supper. I will send this to any Reader who writes me, provided, of course, they send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

J. K. S.—Please tell me how to remove the stains from my silver-plated mesh bag without scratching it. It is the factory to be cleaned. Answer: Rub your leather handles with neatsfoot oil. Sometimes leather is improved by sponging with water, then powder and rubbing lightly with the white of an egg. The silver mesh bag may be cleaned by placing it in a bright aluminum pan with one tablespoon each of salt and baking soda for each quart of hot water used. Put the bag in this way for ten minutes, put the bag into another pan, lift it from the factory to be dried with soft cloth to which a drop or two of ammonia has been added. Rinse in clear water, and dry well. Silver cleaned by this method has a dull lustre, which to many women is more attractive than a high polish.

E. C. E.—Will you please send me the Baked Potato Cake recipe you published last Thursday? Also Soft Answer: Baked Potato Cake: Boil and mash 12 medium-size white potatoes. Put this mashed potato into two bread pans and make a hole in the centre of the mound in each pan; into these two holes stir the following ingredients, mixed: 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon of bread crumbs, ¼ onion chopped finely, 1 tea-cup of butter, 1 teaspoon of salt and 1-4 teaspoon of black pepper. Use half this mixture for each pan of the mashed potato. Butter the top of each "loaf" and bake them 30 minutes in a hot oven. (The chopped onion should be steamed on the range in a little butter—not browned—until almost tender, before being added to the above ingredients.)

Mrs. C. D. "Can you tell me how to clean fibre rug? The color is white and green and the white part is soiled.

Answer: Scrub the rug with salty water, using a small, soft brushed and brush to do the work. If no salt were used in the water, the light parts of the rug would turn yellow. One cup of salt to a gallon of water is about the right combination to use.

Mrs. R. M. "Please tell me what to do about my window panes, which seem to have something like oil on the outside. I have tried washing them with gasoline, but without success."

Answer: Try washing them with hot water to which you have added a generous amount of ammonia. And soda from naptha soap. A good sand-soap would also help.

Mrs. U. "Can one reliever a mirror at home?"

Answer: No, it must be sent to a factory to have that done.

Make Gillett's your household assistant—use it for making soap for washing dishes, for cleaning sinks, for washing greasy pots and pans, it cleans and disinfects

A REAL HAIR SAVER

If your hair is falling out, prematurely gray, brittle, lifeless and full of dandruff, quick action must be taken to save it.

Get fresh any slrug or toilet counter to-day a bottle of Parisian Sage and this is directed—there's nothing else so simple, safe and effective.

"Before going to bed I rub a little Parisian Sage into my scalp," says a woman whose luxurious, so't and fluffy hair is greatly admired: "It keeps away all dandruff—my hair is never dry, faded or scraggy, but retains its natural color, and beauty."

Parisian Sage is inexpensive, and money refunded if not satisfactory. McKeown's Drug Store sells lots of it.

The Daily Recipe

Welsh Rarebit.

One pound cheese, 2 cups milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg.

Put butter in a smooth sauce pan and melt without discoloring. Add milk and cheese cut in small dice. Cook slowly until cheese is melted. Mix salt, pepper and mustard.

Beat yolks of eggs slightly with the seasonings and stir into cheese mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Pour in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and dry. Serve on toasted crackers or crisp triangles of toast.

Most of the Paris houses are now showing shirt bems six to eight inches from the ground, but Jean Patou carries them an inch lower, although the lengths have been handled so gracefully one scarcely realizes how radical the change is.

One reason why a man is never comfortable in the presence of his wife's best friend is because "knowing what she knows," she always seems so bridally determined to make the best of him.

HARD TO PLEASE

Uncle Hi Jason, proprietor of a general merchandise store, sold him a entire stock of umbrellas during a long rainy season.

When a neighbor congratulated him on his good luck, Uncle Hi shook his head dolefully. That's so, he said, but I didn't sell a single parasol.

A HOLIDAY HAUNT

Algonquin Park, Ontario, set apart by the Province of Ontario as a forest and game preserve, and as a vast playground for the people of the district of a well illustrated booklet just published by the Canadian National —Grand Trunk Railways. A variety of sport awaits the holiday makers in this woodland sanctuary in which moose abound in greater numbers than in any other area of 2,700 square miles. The Park contains at least one thousand lakes, providing endless opportunities for fishing, boating and bathing, while the worshipper of nature, should he so desire, may wander for miles unmolested through a land of freshness and charm, or pitch his camp by one of the many streams in which pierce the pine woods. For those to whom camp life is not a joy, and who would dwell in the society of the day and in comfort by night, there are admirably appointed log cabins and a first-class hotel with excellent accommodation, the Highland Inn, overlooking one of the many beautiful lakes with which the reserve abounds. Free copy of this booklet can be obtained on application to any Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways agent, or C.E. Horning, D.P.A., Toronto, Ont.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

A famous stage beauty declares a smart woman's hat should give the smooth appearance of a bird's wing.

Mulberry street now has a shop where wedding dresses are to rent by the day by New York brides.

Nobody is quite so frank and sophisticated as a flapper, who is just recovering from a baby grand passion.

A favorite spring shade in Paris is nobette, a tint akin to nutty or maple sugar, and it is the keynote to gowns of coffee, sand or putty, ravaging to redder hues of chestnut or cinnamon.

Passion for matching is now carried out even in the hats, which often have mounts developed to the fabric or color of the evening gown itself.

A New York woman says: "Deliver us from the man with a new motor-born, the woman with a new phonograph, the boy with a new wheatin, and the neurotic with a new complaint."

Tact is the quality which keeps a girl silent when a man tells her that of course he could make more money easily, but he has all he wants now.

Nice reports all the large hats have closely fitting wreaths of flowers round the crown, generally of the same tone as the hat, though many of the red hats are seen to have golden coloraturas mingled with the little scarlet blossoms that adorn them.

Mabel Willebrandt, the U. S. Assistant Attorney-General, who recently argued for the Government a case involving $45,000,000 in revenue was the first woman to handle a case involving so tremendous a responsibility. Her presentation of the case drew commendation from Government officials.

At a big night at the Metropolitan this week there was a great deal of white chiffon worn and most gowns were cut with a low square decolletage and flowing sleeves, and one woman who wore all white had a wired ruff of rare lace at the back of the neck, in the style of some of the Mary Stuart portraits.

CIVIL WEDDING FEES INCREASED

London, April 4—Civil wedding fees here are about to be increased and the church authorities, alarmed at the growing popularity of registrar offices, are expected to seize this opportunity to induce bridal couples to come to the altar.

According to the registrar General civil wedding fees have not been altered since they were first fixed about 40 years ago and now he proposes to introduce a bill into the House of Commons which will give him the power to increase them.

William found a pocketbook But the string jerked it back

It looked like a happy discovery as it lay there on the sidewalk—until the discoverer reached to pick it up. Then the hidden string jerked it away. All William got was disappointment.

That's the way a good many people have found it to be with the comfort and cheer they thought they had secured in tea and coffee. When they come to depend on it—there was a hidden string, and nothing left but disappointment.

The drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee, is a nerve stimulant. Constant stimulation of the nerves often produces rebellion that takes the form of sleeplessness, headaches, irritability, high blood pressure. That's the string to tea and coffee.

Postum, that wholesome and delightful cereal beverage, is completely satisfying and there's no harmful quality whatsoever, to jerk away the comfort which you find in this splendid table drink. Any member of the family may enjoy Postum with any meal—and there will be no after-regrets.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by grocers.

BABE RUTH MUST DELIVER

Must Produce the Home Runs or Get the Razz.

Fame exacts its price no less than obscurity, but by different methods. The modest violet, born to blush unseen, pays in one way. Even when found it is expected to blush and nothing more, but the star must scintillate or be voted a failure.

Take the case of the New York Yankees. They are known the land over as home busters, and when clusters of singles ring out and moan the crowd is gratified. Singles, doubles and triples are expected, and if an occasional home run adds spice, why so much the better. But Pipp Ward, Schang and the rest may go home-runless for days or weeks and still be accepted at face value.

But not so with Ruth. He has to hit the ball out of the lot every day or endure the verbal shafts of the crowd. The skill of the pitcher, who works with might and main to prevent the Bambino crashing one, is forgotten. The failure of Babe stands out. It is commented upon on the part of papers. And the fans do it on the way home. The human side of the home run king is forgotten. That he fails to hit home runs more often than he succeeds is also forgotten. Ruth is the synonym for home run, and fans demand a clout from him every time he comes to the bat.

Jealous of his fame, Ruth tries to deliver as expected, which is obviously impossible. He is paying the penalty, too, for right now he is the most bunged up star that ever tinkled. Most serious of his several disabilities is a torn muscle in his right side, suffered because of his terrific swinging, and frequent missing. It is an old injury, one which kept him out of games from time to time, and this most recent aggravation makes it more painful. He should rest, but the fans flock through turnstiles to see him perform, and he wants to satisfy them.

Wants Wider Powers

FINAL GAME ON WEDNESDAY

City Championship Basketball Game at Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday Night.

Wednesday evening will possibly settle the question of the hour, namely—what team is going to clean up the basketball championship of this city. The Junior Athletic Club, with their string of fast goal-getters, are a team that will be hard to beat. On the other hand, the Grand Trunks while not so sensational, are a team not to be overlooked and are known as a squad of go-getters.

The Grand Trunks defeated the J. A.C. aggregation by the close score of 36 to 31, at their last game, and if they are successful again, the city championship will go to the railroad men. If the J.A.C. supporters attend the Tillicocain roasters Wednesday evening, however, the third battle will be staged. The following players will figure on the teams:

Grand Trunks—Hurley, Meagher, Armstrong, Weir, Schreiber and Lloyd.

Junior Athletic Club—Cole, Marshall, Malcome, Allen, Yeomans and Elliot.

In the semi-final Pete Hoben, the Belgian welterweight, beat Joe Jackson of Philadelphia, in an eight-round match.

JOHNNY HART SUSPENDED

Hartford, Conn., April 22.—Johnny Hart, middleweight boxer of Brooklyn and his manager, Moies Levyr, of New York, were indefinitely suspended by the State Boxing Commission at a hearing held here yesterday. Sandow put up sioner of sport and, distinctly, a great battle, and as the bets swung nounced to-day. Mr. Carlisle said into the last round, honors were Kerr had agreed to pitch for the City practically even.

DICKIE KERR IS REAL HOLDOUT

Kerr, pitcher for the Chicago Americans, who has been holding out because of alleged "technical" differences with Manager Rowland, of the Chicago Americans, has announced that he will report to the Chicago Americans on Thursday, April 6. Kerr's action in signing with the Chicago Americans for the coming season will be a distinct surprise to baseball followers, as it was generally understood that Kerr had definitely decided to retire from baseball. Kerr had agreed to pitch for the City Hall nine, it is understood.

SPORT STUFF

Ever notice the sporting yells of different sport fans. For instance, the baseball fan yells "Sock her on the nose." The football fan says "Hold that line, hold 'em." The tennis fan lets go something like this "Love thirty," and did you ever hear of the guy that walks up to the bar, holds up two fingers and says "Grapejuice." Some sporting yell we'll inform the universe.

:: :: ::

Remember our definition of a true sport that appeared in this column some days ago. Went something like this "One who wins honestly. Loses cheerfully. Hopes increasingly. Differs Fairly. Accepts praise modestly. Meets all mankind smilingly. Works as hard as he plays."

:: :: ::

Sandy Lockington evidently hasn't got over the licking that the Belleville Tigers handed the Ontarios during the hockey season and he reproduces the quip with the following little slap at us—"And we hear some person saying there ain't no such animal in Belleville."

:: :: :: ::

Slaps like that are about as necessary as a ukelele in Sousa's band, And of the same size.

:: :: :: ::

Come to think of it wasn't it the Port Hope Golds that reproduced the threat of "Finnigan" Hills to get "Gunner" Arnott if the latter ever stepped on Port Hope ice,

WHO MAKES THE PROPOSAL?

According to Smoking Room Authority it is the Woman Who Generally Suggests Marriage.

The contented somnolence of the after-dinner group in the smoking room was disturbed by the heavy plunging of a portly guest.

"Lady love story, all sentimental speeches," explained the Reader, between mouthfuls to me. I suppose I can't judge of these things. Me most always, for instance, bore at once proposals.

Here comes de proposer," growled the fat-and-pudgy gentleman in the corner, of the breakfast. "Electrifies some unsuspecting female with a proposal for granted, and I'm ready to bet that not one of you proposed to your wife."

There was a brief silence as each man examined memories of his part of his memory. Then one man laughed and said: "Now, when I think of it I guess my suite right in my case. I didn't propose to Alice. She was one of a large, lively family, and all the brothers and sisters were my friends. Gradually it happened that I was with her pretty much or tennis more often than any of her sisters. When I announced that I had been made partner in my firm, Alice's mother kissed me and said she was glad. Then Nan and Alice can be married at last.' So we were—and a jolly good time we had, too."

"When you think of my quiet little wife," said Brown, the bald-crown, bashful one of the group, "you might imagine that I climbed her into matrimonial bliss. But, as a matter of fact, she married me. We had known one another from childhood, and even when she saw me she said, 'You have a button off your coat and you are going to have trouble.' I better sure you when you get well again that, to keep you from trouble, they'll all the proposing that took place in our case. But what about Grayson there? I can see from his firing by writing short stories that surely some said something pretty nice to proposed."

"I didn't," said Grayson, as he resified his pipe, "after helping Kitty to distribute favors at her sister's wedding. I supposed I have to go through this horrible fuss some day, I groaned. 'Yes, I suppose I shall,' she said.—Cincinnati Edition of the London Mail.

It is Not True

That people "begin wearing glasses too soon." Because the skilful Optometrist finishes examining a pair of eyes, he knows what their condition is; he knows what they need and what they don't need; he will not put glasses on that patient until they are necessary.

It is a Fact—

That many who could at little trouble have their eye trouble corrected very easily and comparatively quickly, suffer for years before eyes examined until their ocular muscles are in pitch. A chronic condition that makes the correction of their defect is much more tedious and difficult by far than it would have been the case had proper advice been sought for earlier.

The service of our Optometrist with his long years of practice and up-to-date education is a "safety first" proposition.

POST OFFICE DISCOURAGES

USE OF SMALL ENVELOPS

As a result of the adoption of short cards or envelopes the Post Office cancellation mark frequently falls on the address partially obliterating it with the possibility that the article may be misdelivered or at least delayed.

There is also difficulty in putting small cards or envelopes through the stamp cancelling machines in many post offices, and this too causes delay.

The small size of the cards or envelopes makes them apt to fall out of bundles in which they are tied, and there is the possibility of loss as a result of this.

Responsibility for loss, misdelivery or delay as outlined above, arising from the use of small cards or envelopes, rests entirely with the sender.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(All Letters to The Intelligencer.)

Dear Sir—During the late war there was a highly organized and ably directed propaganda carried on throughout the U.S.A. and in other parts of the world against England. The German agents had a free hand, and they worked up strife in America, India and Egypt, while the Gian-na-Gada brought havoc to parts of Australia, to New Zealand, and together they tradoced the English, so graciously the world over that their deliverance and their secure part in the world war, that the Premier of Great Britain was compelled to say, "Never before in the pire and her Allies from the floor of the House of Commons, England's share in the war."

England mustered out (Gedies' report) 4,550,000 men and bore 83 per cent. of the casualties on all British fronts; an who will dare to say England fell short in ships, money and philanthropy. Such is magnificent England and it should stamp out forever, any remains of this malignant propaganda in any quarter of the globe, for England nobly "played up and played the game.

Now for another source comes some interesting statistics.

On Imperial Services—Money Contributed:

England contributed 81.33 per cent.

Scotland contributed 10.93 per cent.

Wales contributed 3.6 per cent.

Ireland contributed 3.76 per cent.

Money retained for local expenditures:

England retained 73.71 per cent.

Scotland retained 10.83 per cent.

Wales retained 4.65 per cent.

Ireland retained 10.81 per cent.

Thus it is evident England contributes more per head to Imperial services than Britain has yet paid for local expenditures than any other portion of the United Kingdom, showing that Britain has no lack of British fair play.

Turning to the Vitility of a nation and how we observe the laws of the land, the following statistics are worthy of notice.

Marriage rate per 1,000 Population—Ireland, 6.4; Scotland, 4.9; England, 4.4.

Death Rate per 1,000 Population—Ireland, 17.8; Scotland, 15.4; England, 13.7.

Crime (Convictions) per 1,000 Population—Ireland, 18.1; Scotland, 14.3; England, 11.3.

Illegitimate (Illigitimates) per 1,000 Births—Ireland, no statistics available for 1920; Scotland, 74 per 1,000 births; England, 45.

Now sir, with such official returns in 1920, set forth by the British Press, it is a plain to a pheasant, Britannia is sound at heart. Her people are virile and law-abiding.

Let Britain and the sons of Englishmen ever remember their great heritage, The Magna Charta, Parliament, the Constitution and above all a word Liberty based on Justice.

Nor is this all, what of her language, the finest product of the English-land's contribution to literature, science, art and engineering. Who but Englishmen have built the New England's equal? If more were required, her breed of horses have long been recognized as the finest stock in the world over, while her Durhams and Herefords are found in every clime. Her sheep and women in the same could be said. Agriculture in England is fast attaining a scientific basis.

Harking back to history, we are reminded, as England has risen in Elizabeth's day (The Great Armada) and again when Napoleon lusted for power (At Waterloo), so England again rose when the Kaiser's Hordes marched forth to rule the world, and how well she played her part for liberty, history will long make known.

"Come the three corners of the world in arms,
And we shall shock them; Nought will make us rue,
If England to itself do rest but true."

Yours truly,

Hamilton Thomas Wickett.

WILL COMBAT CORN BORER

Dr. Grisdale Urges Co-operation of Farmers in Combating Pest.

The Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Dominion, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, in a recent address dealt with the history, production and utilization of corn and tells of the devastating spread of the European Corn Borer in the United States and the possibility of this province. Early explorers of the northern half of America, as far back as Columbus in 1492, record the fact that vast fields of corn were grown by the aborigines. European settlers appreciated its cultivation. The types grown in the early days were the same as they are to-day, excepting for the new varieties created from them, namely, the Flint and the Dent, the first named being used by the Indians for making of hominy and similar foods, and the latter for flour. The Indians also appear to have enjoyed parched corn. To-day the United States crop of corn runs annually from thirty-five to over forty million tons of stalks or fodder, most of the latter being stored in half a million silos. Canada's crop of corn is over two hundred million bushels of which Ontario produces close to seventy-eighths, and six million tons of fodder valued in between fifty and sixty thousand silos.

Dr. Grisdale told of the cultural experiments which have been and are being carried on at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, detailing the cost of production, cultivation, and showing the average yield per acre for four years was 16.40 tons and the profit per acre, $22.31. The advantages of growing corn for ensilage is that, he said, thoseheapness and succulence for feed, the large return per acre, land crop on which to apply manure, for cleaning land and for breaking up a sod fed, easiest crop to harvest as to weather conditions, most cheaply housed, most easily handled in feeding, best for supplementing dry pastures, and as to labour in husking, and to consume coarse and poor roughage, and the crop that permits the carrying of most live lock per acre. Referring to the corn borer, Dr. Grisdale stated that in all 100 townships in Ontario, covering an area comprising 7,930 square miles, are known to be infested, and urged farmers to co-operate in control of this very serious pest by following instructions given in Leaflet No. 16, "The Control of the European Corn Borer" Leaflets on application to the Publications Branch Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAR ADDRESS

Mr. J. O. Herity Speaks on "The Land of Evangeline."

Last evening the Young People's Society of Bridge Street Church were favored by the speech by Mr. J. O. Herity of Travel Talk by Mr. J. O. Herity, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Herity gave a beautiful description of our sister provinces to the East as he said "The Land of Evangeline" was the subject of the address and that beautiful and historical valley was described by the speaker. The poetry of Longfellow from Tennyson's book on Evangeline helped to link up the past with the present in a way that was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by all.

Mr. Herity is always a welcome visitor and speaker to Bridge Street Young People's Society.

Headlines in Egypt.
Headline writers on Egyptian newspapers published in Egypt have their own peculiar difficulties. Every day they are faced with the words' Conference at Cannes' and 'Mediterranean.' Imagine the difficulty of getting an early settled during the war by the frequent use of Mesopot. Moreover we have a capitulation in Cairo daily in Alexandria—it appears simply as 'Lloyd George's speech' to set the only difficulty. The names themselves are misleading when in distant action. What can an American make of the-the-street do but laugh when he reads in type as lush high 'Venice Fail to Get Angora,' And a factual statement about Mustapha Kemal Pasha becomes pathos on a London dispatch which read 'Mosque Desagreement,' the hoof for the three is of it!—Christian Science Monitor.

Spare the Tree, He Warns.
The dangers of forest denudation and the need of increased forest production were outlined by James W. Tenney, dean of the School of Forestry, Yale university, in an address before the School of Citizenship of the Connecticut League of Women Voters. He declared an increasing scarcity of wood ultimately would result in a permanent shrinkage in many industries.

Out of the original 322,000,000 acres of forests in this country, we have cut and destroyed about 175,000,000 acres. The last vestige of our Virgin forests will disappear in 30 years.

BUSY SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

The Committee rose and reported. Report received and adopted.

Enquiries

Ald. Robinson asked Ald. Foster what progress in regard to the gas works was being made.

Ald. Foster—The gas works are progressing very favorably, and he would have a quarterly report to present at the next committee meeting.

Ald. Ellerton—In a gangway between Charles and Albert streets, a stalk was needed.

Ald. Donohoe—I will attend to it.

Ald. Patterson asked if a light would be placed on Dufferin avenue?

Ald. McCreary—I will look into the matter.

Ald. Robinson—Who has been filling in the sewer on West Bonisteel street, and who gave the authority?

Ald. Donohoe—I do not know anything about the work, probably the contractor is doing the work. He gave no instructions to have the work done.

Mayor Hanna asked if the petition had been presented for water on College street?

Ald. French—I have not heard of it.

Ald. Greenleaf—Mr. Ives wants a line drawn between the city line and his property. Will the engineer do this?

Mayor Hanna—The Engineer can do it.

Ald. Greenleaf asked about life preservers being provided to be placed in Victoria Park.

Ald. Thompson asked what about the starting of some of the sewer work by the unemployed in the city?

Ald. Donohoe—We are not ready to build the sewer leading from Albert College as we do not know what to do. It takes time to go the auction from the Provincial Board of Health.

Ald. Greenleaf—Can we not put them walks?

Ald. Donohoe—We are liable to have frost which may interfere with the work.

Bylaws

Some forty bylaws relative to sewers sidewalks, etc., enacted in various parts of the city were introduced by Ald. Ostrom. These bylaws were passed through various stages and numbered from 2364 to 2404.

Ald. McCreary was in committee of the whole on Bylaws.

Motions

Moved by Ald. Donohoe, seconded by Ald. Patterson, that the clerk publish a copy of Notice of Intention to construct a sanitary sewer on Dufferin Park street, from East Moira street to Strachan street, on Geddes street from Strachan street, to North Front street, and on North Front street from Evan street to College street in the City of Belleville, under section 9 of the Local Improvements' Act, estimated cost $3,554.56.

Ald. Thompson objected to the latter part of the motion to have it constructed under section 9 of the Local Improvement Act, Get the signatures of residents be secured.

Ald. Donohoe—We must build that sewer as the school is going to be built.

The motion was adopted.

Ald. Donohoe moved, seconded by Ald. Patterson, that the city engineer be a notice to construct all necessary private connections or laterals at the same time that the sanitary sewers are constructed on South Park street, from East Moira street to Strachan street, on Geddes street on Evan Simcoe street to Evan street on Evan street from Geddes street to North Front street, and on North Front street from Evan street to College street, under section 9 of the Local Improvement Act, cost of same estimated at $10,818.56.—Carried.

Ald. Greenleaf moved, seconded by Ald. French, that Alderman Patterson and the Chairman of Public Works committee with power to act to call for tenders and let contracts as they may decide for certain sanitary improvements for Victoria aPrk.

Ald. Robinson was opposed to the motion, as it was too sweeping. He did not know what the committee purpose doing.

Ald. Ostrom did not like that portion of the motion which referred to power to act.

That portion of the motion relative to the committee having power to act was eliminated and the motion was adopted.

Notice of Motion

Ald. Greenleaf presented the following notice of motion:

That, whereas, it is desirable and to the best interests of the citizens, that our various parks and park sites be improved, beautified and perhaps added to in number, that our streets and boulevards be made more presentable by the addition of trees, ornaments, etc., that, athletic fields, play grounds, and fair grounds, be established.

That, whereas the city have, from time to time, at their disposal for sale various properties not desirable for city, industrial, or school purposes.

Be it resolved, that these properties be turned over to the Parks Commissioner and Public Council for parks purposes or for listing and for sale, that the proceeds of such sales be placed to the credit of the Parks Commissioner's account for the purpose of beautifying, improving and developing the parks, athletic field, fair grounds, and parks purposes, to establish a special account other that that already appropriated for park purposes, and that the moneys be available for such purposes, subject to the approval of said Parks Committee.

That, if necessary, and not contrary to the Municipal Act, Solicitor prepare necessary bylaw legalizing this resolution.

Ald. Robinson—How much interest will this cost.

No answer.

Side Facts.

In the site you can store corn in a form in which practically every kernel will sprout.

Silage gives the effect of pasturage in winter; it is both palatable and succulent, and it also aids digestion in the dry-feeding season.

Animals fed silage are not more liable to contract disease, but do more their teeth more quickly, and are not shorter-lived than animals fed other foods for the same purpose.

The use of the silo often makes it possible to save a crop that would otherwise be lost by frost.

A good silo should be round, airtight, water-proof, have walls that are perfectly smooth, and be strong and durable.

Silage should be placed where it will require the least expenditure in labor to feed to the animals that are to consume it, preferably cattle.

A silo 14 feet in diameter will feed the average family of silage a day during the winter.

A silo 14 feet in diameter and 34 feet high will hold 160 tons.

Silos, if well built, will last ten years; cost from $1 to $3 per ton. Material for the type and material used in construction.

Farm Notes.

Michigan is the first state to offer a state planter, and a potato digger, leaving with other machines and a more intelligent agriculture, a farmer has been able to produce a potato crop of 300 bushels an average hour's labor. A half century ago the same time he could not get 10 bushels. See the United States Department of Agriculture.

DETAILS OF NEW KING GEORGE SCHOOL ARE ANNOUNCED

DETAILS OF NEW SCHOOL

As Designed by Belleville Architect, is Model of Beauty.

LOW COST

Many of the Latest Features of School Architecture Introduced.

The following is a brief description of the Coleman Ward School, to be built in Belleville:

More than two years ago the Board of Education advertised for architects to compete for a large new school with provisions for future extensions and a large assembly hall. Ten architects entered the competition, mostly from Toronto and Hamilton. The plans and designs of Beaumont Jarvis were selected. Since then, working drawings and specifications have been prepared and tenders from contractors have been received for the third time.

The design of the exterior is in the style of collegiate gothic and will be one of the best planned and designed schools in America and for the low cost probably has no equal.

The grade line of the building will be on a terrace two feet above the present level of the ground. From the grade line to the ground floor, seven feet in height, will be used to create utility, marked off in courses with joints and bush-hammered, which will have the appearance of natural stone. From the top of this work to the brick, two feet above the roof line, will be used a rough pressed brick in variegated shades. The brick will be burned to a vitrified surface, which is quite similar to the most natural stone. All the window and entrance trimming will be of concrete stone.

The front entrance is in the centre of the main court, and will be very handsome with just enough stone ornament to make it very interesting. The entrances for the boys and girls are at the ends of either end of the building, having porches and vestibules. There will be no steps outside the building except three at the front entrance.

On the ground floor there will be four standard size class and cloak rooms, also library, teachers' room, dental nurse's and principal's rooms. There will be a large assembly hall about fifty by eighty feet on the ground floor.

The second floor will have six standard size class and cloak rooms.

The corridors on the ground and first floors will run from end to end of the building, with steel stair cases at either end of them. The corridors will be trimmed with concrete terrazzo floors on reinforced concrete slab.

In the basement which will be only four feet below the window sills, will be spacious play rooms for girls and boys with the very latest and best lavatory fixtures and ventilated by separate electric fans which will discharge above the roof. All corridors and the assembly hall will have the very best system of fresh, warm air and exhaust system. The ventilating drives by a large fan and motor having a capacity of twenty thousand cubic feet of air per minute.

WAR BREAKS OUT AGAIN IN THE DISTRESSFUL ISLE

Civil War Breaks Out in Dublin—Is Evidence of Campaign by Supporters of De Valera Against Free Staters.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

London, April 5.—Fourteen Sinn Feiners were released from English prisons during the week end.

Belfast—Two children, wounded during the week end died early today. A train car depot on Falls road was raided to-day and $550 taken from the cashier.

Dublin, April 5.—War has broken out afresh in Ireland. This time, instead of Irishmen attacking the British forces, they are attacking their fellow-countrymen. Last night there were ambush attacks in three different parts of Dublin City. Just as a year ago the British were attacked by the Irish soldiers, automobiles and troops of the Free State were attacked by a hail of bombs. Fortunately few casualties were reported. The only death known to have occurred in the three attacks was a young boy who was the only survivor of a large family, of brothers who were killed in attacks was during the civil war.

Last night's affairs are viewed with gravity, as indicating the opening of a campaign by the Republicans against the Free Staters. The Roman Catholic Bishop of Clonfert to-night denounced De de Valeraites, saying that seizure of property by them is robbery, and that every killing is a murder. Order was restored in a city under Minister of Defence Mulcahy is the only legitimate army that Ireland has, because it is about the Civil Government elected by the people.

Republican forces to-day ordered all shops in Swinford closed. It being market day, the owners of the shops refused. Early this evening hundreds of armed men enforced the town. Pandemonium reigned for a time while several shops were wrecked, and all business of the town was forcibly suspended.

Lt. Sir Keith M. Smith and Capt. Sir Ross Smith, British brother airmen, who will start on April 20 on their attempt to encircle the world by airplane.

MORE CANADIAN MINERS GO OUT ON STRIKE

Nova Scotia Miners, However, Have Accepted the Offer of Premier Mackenzie King to Reconvene the Gillen Conciliation Board.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Glace Bay, April 5—Seven hundred and fifty miners employed in the Blue Diamond mine at Brule, have decided to strike. It is the largest non-union mine in district eighteen.

Sydney, N.S., April 5.—The executive board of district number 26, United Mine Workers, representing the 13,000 coal miners of Nova Scotia, yesterday unanimously decided to accept, unconditionally, the unconditional offer of Premier King to reconvene the Gillen Conciliation Board for a new hearing of the wage dispute between the British Empire Steel Corporation and its employees.

The executive suggests, however, that the personnel of the board be changed.

Furthermore, the executive voluntarily ordering the miners of district No. 26 to go back to work pending the result of the new negotiations.

A message to the above effect was telegraphed Minister of Labor Murdock.

Private houses will be served for $2.50 per month. Ice washed and placed in ice box, or $2.00 per month. left outside.

ADDRESS ON SAFETY WORK

Col. Ponton Speaks at Safety Convention in Toronto, Tuesday.

The Joint Safety Convention, under the auspices of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Workmen's Compensation Board, the Department of Labor, the Ontario Safety League, Ontario Pulp and Paper Makers' Safety Association, Electrical Employers' Association, Lumbermens' Safety and Industrial Accident Prevention Association, opened at the King Edward Hotel yesterday and will continue in session to-day.

Accident prevention was discussed from various viewpoints. In discussing traffic accidents, S. J. Dickson, chief constable for Toronto, declared that pedestrians were more to blame than motor drivers in street accidents, and urged an educational campaign on street regulations to lessen the toll of life and limb.

Colonel W. N. Ponton spoke on "Accidents from a Humanitarian Standpoint", and made a very eloquent address. He quoted the saying of Justinian that "The safety of the people is the highest law", and the men who were directing the people into the channels of safety were strong, observant men who were carrying on a work of uplift for the good of the community. Co-operation between employees and employer in such a campaign should be secured.

Col. Ponton secured a good deal of his data from Superintendent J. S. McLean, head of the division of the Grand Trunk Railway, and also President of the Safety League of the Division of Allied Grand Trunk Railways. The members of the Grand Trunk railroad employes in "Safety first and always", using as an illustration the saying: "You can always repair a box car but I'll be damned if you can rebuild a human life."

This "Safety First", work is a most commendable undertaking and most essential in this age of high strung and greatly accelerated methods of work and business. The advent of the automobile has demanded quick action and initiation and it is gratifying to know that Belleville is right in line for anything to better conditions in any way for her citizens.

BIG NIGHT IN ROYAL ARCH

Visitors From Kingston Exemplify Their Work Here Last Night.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Members of Ledge are Suitably Rewarded for Long Service.

Moira Chapter of Royal Arch Masons were last evening paid a fraternal visit from the officers and committee of Ancient Frontenac and Cataraqui Chapter No. 1, of Kingston. Thirty companions of Kingston came in the most happy occasion, exemplifying the degree work on nine candidates of Moira Chapter. The Kingston companions proved capable masters of the work. The fathers of the old Kingston Chapter visited the town of Belleville on May 29th, 1856, bringing with them all the implements of labor required for the opening of a Chapter and on that date Moira Chapter was established under the Grand Chapter of Eng land. The same implements were employed last evening in the work and after sixty-six years of constant use were in perfect condition, which speaks well for the materials supplied by good old Kingston and the craftsmanship of masons.

As those who met from the east smiled at the birth 66 years ago to the little town of Belleville bringing rich gifts of material and implements for the masons to help it build with, so last evening worthy sons of worthy sires from that same city journeyed to the same town bringing rich gifts of thought banners of royal companionship, abundance and love.

During the evening presentations from the companions were made to Rev. Canon Philpott—Rt. Ex Companion Dr. J. J. Farley, for 45 years an energetic member, rarely missing a meeting, for five years, 1884-1887—the First Principal, and for very many years down to the present time the faithful treasurer and custodian of the Chapter; also Ex. Companion Wm. Thompson, a Past Grand First Principal. This worthy men were presented by the companions of their Mother Chapter with gifts of very great value.

The evening was one of those rare and happy occasions which stimulate and enthuse.

In addition to those happy and suitable companions from Kingston there were present Comp. S. H. Ayres, of No. 57, Michigan; Right Ex. Comp. Wm. J. Hill, Grand Supt. of this district; also companions from Madoc, Stirling, Trenton, Brockville, Picton, Ottawa and Newport News, Virginia.

The gathering broke up at mid night, after an enjoyable two hours of mirth spent in the banqueting rooms of the temple. The Grand Orchestra Wenger in attendance. There was also community singing led by Bro. Wotten, a solo by Rt. Ex. Comp. Thompson, and readings by Miss Mildred Lloyd, and all excelled.

CHANGE IN RULE OF ROAD TO BE COSTLY TO NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, N.S., April 5.—If the Nova Scotia Legislature should vote to change the rule of the road from left to right, the Halifax Tramways Company will claim compensation to the amount of $50,000 on account of the changes which, it is said, will be made necessary in the tracks, cars and snow sweepers. Other tramway companies in the province will present similar claims.

It is stated that the British Columbia Government compensated trum companies to the extent of $250,000 when the drive to the right rule was adopted in that province.

Reports from Toronto, However, Say No Truth in the Story.

NEW ACTION

Attorney General Sanctions Activity in Search for Missing Millionaire.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, April 5.—Rumors were thick in Hamilton and Toronto to-day to the effect that Colonel Small, theatrical millionaire mysteriously missing for more than two years, had been found. They seemed to be no basis for the rumor and the police would make no statements on the case.

While no official confirmation is available, it is understood that Attorney-General Raney has given instruction to R. H. Greer, K.C., to further investigate the A. J. Small case, along certain specified lines. When spoken to last night, Mr. Greer said that there were no further developments, as far as he was concerned. Gideon Grant, K.C., who is handling the matter for the sisters of A. J. Small, also declined to say whether the Attorney-General had communicated with him recently, in respect to the case.

POSSE CAPTURES BANK ROBBER

Desperate Gun Battle in Swamp Leads Up to Capture.

Dowagiac, Mich., April 5—Battling for two hours in a swamp, a posse of 200 farmers and deputies from surrounding communities late yesterday captured four men, identified as robbers who held up the Eau Claire bank earlier in the day.

Fully one hundred shots were exchanged in the desperate fight the thugs put up in an effort to escape, and it was only after one of the gang was wounded that the attacking party was able to close in on the fugitives. The chase carried over a stretch of marsh land three miles in length, and the posses met with many handicaps because of the unsettled condition of the land.

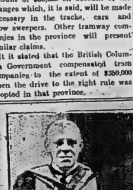

The four men entered and robbed the Eau Claire bank of $1,500. They gave their names as George Ellis, Elmo Evans and Henry Griffin, negroes, and Mike Frankolich, white.

Buenos Aires, April 5.—Laurence Glennell, former British M.P. who rents last year as an envoy of de Valera seeking the recognition of the Irish republic, has closed Irish "Legation" and left for Ireland. He declined a message to the "friends of Ireland in South America" characterizing "the fall of the republic "as the greatest Irish disaster since the death of Owen-Roe O'Neill in 1649."

FUND GROWING TO PERPETUATE CANADIAN BAR ASSOCIATION

Ottawa, April 5.—Following the lead which was taken seven times ago by Sir James Aikens in donating $50,000 for creation of a perpetual fund for the Canadian Bar Association, several members of the association are applying for life memberships. Songs and Speeches Plainly Heard By Local Radios Remarkable Entertainments Are Broadcasted Each Evening, Which Are Heard by Belleville Wireless Fans — Intelligencer Reporter Gives Detailed Account of Last Night's Program — Oration on Celebration of 104th Anniversary of Peace Between Canada and U. S. Recorded.

HEAR "SHYLOCK" COURT SCENE

Although the Toronto Star Radiophone concert was not heard in Belleville last night, and the greetings sent to the Kiwanis club of Toronto, from the Kiwanis club of Albany, N.Y., who are celebrating Canadian night, at the Ten Eyck hotel, there were very plainly heard. Other stations, however, were listened in on by a reporter for the Intelligencer who spent nearly two hours last night at the home of Mr. Wallace Hall, 213 George St. listening over his outfit. During the evening, Mr. J. O'Connor President of the Kiwanis club of Toronto was mentioned, and the Kiwanis club assembly dinner for Canadian Diaise and Canadian Legions, at Albany, N.Y., was also mentioned. The speaker went on to say that for 100 years, peace had existed between the two sister nations, although only an imaginary line separates them, and he hoped that such would always be the case, and that, by following the tenets of the Kiwanis Club, Motor Guard would be installed into men, and consequently nations.

Last night was a particularly good night, on the radiophone here, and concerts, at Schenctady, N.Y., Pittsburg, and Detroit, N.J., were very distinctly and plainly heard. Mr. Hickey gave an address on copyright relating to the Radio Act, at Pittsburg, telling of the wonderful, undeveloped, copper deposits in that country, where he lived for 45 years. He stated that the Mexicans were not barbarians, but peace loving people, and had a country which when developed would make history. Piano solos were also heard. The Westinghouse Co. presented the programme at Pittsburg, consisting of opening assemblee number "The Lord's Prayer", soprano solo, bass solo and quartette numbers also selections on an Acolian Player piano.

CITY FATHERS PASS BYLAWS

School Bylaw Endorsed and Arbitrator Appointed in Claims Dispute.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held on Tuesday afternoon at which Mayor Hewson and Ald. Alderman were present. The object of the meeting was to pass two bylaws, namely, a bylaw to appoint an arbitrator and a bylaw to provide $120,000 by debentures for the proposed new King George Public School in the West Ward.

Mr. Charles Whelan, real estate agent, was selected as the city arbitrator in the matter of the claim for damages against the city by the executors of the late Mrs. Sarah Ann Wills for a strip of land on the property on West Bridge Street, by reason of cutting down Murney's Hill. Judge Wills is an arbitrator for the executors, and with Mr. Whelan will appoint a third arbitrator.

The bylaw to grant $120,000 to the School Board for the new Coleman Ward school was passed finally, having various stages and numbered.

The following recommendation was also adopted.

Moved by Ald. (Greenleaf, seconded by Ald. Robinson, that a special meeting of the committees be held on Thursday night, April 6th, when deputations will be heard, and that deputations be heard on the regular committee meeting night, Thursday, April 13th.

LOCAL CASES AT AT OSGOODE HALL

Judgment Reversed by Members of the Appellate Court.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, two local cases were argued before the Appellate Division, presided over by Mulock, C.J., Kelly, J., Masten, J., Hodgins, J.A., and Latchford, J. The cases were as follows:—

Rex v. George; Rex. v. Marmont—W. C. Mikel, K.C., for defendants. F. F. Brennan, for the Crown. Appeal by defendants by defendants from conviction by Sproule, C.J., of the 16th March, 1922, dismissing defendant's applications on return of habeas corpus with certiorari for motion for release from cost and ordering them to be remitted to confinement. Appeal argued. Judgment reserved.

Shirley Burgess—W. C. Mikel, K.C., for plaintiff. F. J. O'Flynn (Bellleville), for defendant. Appeal by plaintiff from judgment of Latchford, J., of 6th March, 1922. Action against widow and executrix of Philip E. Burgess for damages for alleged false and fraudulent representations by the said P. E. Burgess on sale of farm to plaintiff. At trial the action was dismissed with costs. Appeal partly argued, but not concluded.

SONGS AND SPEECHES PLAINLY HEARD

At (3 x 3) Deal Beach, N.J., a tenor solo "The End of a Perfect Day" was heard as plainly as in a concert hall the number being rendered by a finished artist. The bugle calls of the United States army were given, and fox trot selections by an orchestra were also heard. "Oliver Rose" was one of the fox trots announced and played.

At ten o'clock the correct time was broadcasted. It is sent out from Washington, D.C., picked up at Pittsburg and relayed out although it is possible to catch it direct from Washington here. The time is relayed for five minutes.

By stitching an electrical appliance to the radio outfit, Blakely can tune up with the wireless stations at the Atlantic coast, and in various parts of Canada, and the code may be distinctly heard. The code sounds some what like a telegraphic instrument, but each station has a slightly modified code and sound.

The Pittsburg station connected with a theatre in that city at which Shakespeare's, "The Merchant of Venice," was playing. The court room scene was broadcasted, and heard here quite plainly, the applause of the audience being also quite audible. This scene concluded at 11.20 p.m.

EARLY SCANDAL RECALLED.

Something About the Rawling Brood of Bribers.

A celebrated episode in Ontario politics has come into notice again through the death of Sir Donald Macmaster. This was the famous bribery conspiracy case of 1884, in the trial of which Sir Donald, then a young lawyer, took part as one of the counsel for the defendants.

"When I took the chair in the Legislative Assembly on the evening of the 17th of March, 1884, I started with me that which was destined to create a wide sensation when laid before the House," said Col. Charles Clarke in his book, "Sixty Years in Upper Canada," published many years after the incident described. "Robert McKim, member for North Wellington, and William D. Balfour, member for South Simcoe, had each given to me in the afternoon of that day a letter addressed, 'To the Speaker.' Opening the outer envelope, I found that there was a second and sealed envelope in each package, and each package endorsed with the request that the second cover should not be broken until the Attorney-General should desire me to ascertain the contents."

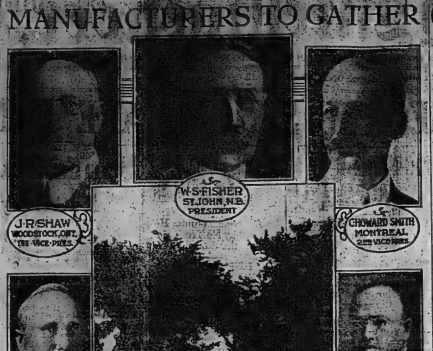

That evening the envelopes were opened at the request of Premier Oliver Mowat, and found to contain $1,000 and $800, paid, respectively, to the two members for the purpose of influencing their vote, and the payment being made by "Jim" and Wilkinson. This was the beginning of a long and sensational episode, and the phrase uttered by Hon. C. F. Fraser, who spoke of all those implicated in the affair as "a brawling brood of bribers," became celebrated. A hearing inquiry was held by Mr. Justice Proudfoot, Judge Scott of Peel, and Judge Boskier of Lincoln. But the net result of the whole thing was silent, and police court prosecutions resulted in an acquittal.

The passage at arms between Oliver Mowat and Donald Macmaster in the examination of the former by the latter was a fine exhibition of legal surgery, and when the brilliant and sarcastic S. H. Blake encountered Sir David Macpherson, massive and stately, the characteristics of the two men were pointedly brought out. Sarcasm and repartee likewise abounded when Dalton McCarthy examined Hon. C. S. Fraser and Hon. A. S. Hardy.

Of those who were prominently connected with the case, probably the only survivors now are Henry C. Hamilton, who was Secretary of, the commission, now living quietly in Toronto after years of residence in Sault Ste. Marie, and Edward Meek, a barrister in Toronto for many years past.

MANUFACTURERS TO GATHER

The national officers of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and a glimpse of the Algonquin Hotel, St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, where the Association will hold its annual meeting next June.

On June 29 next a parliament of Canada's business men, or as it is more generally termed, the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association will meet at beautiful St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, New Brunswick. From all over Canada leading business men will be gathered together to discuss matters of interest to the trade and commerce of the Dominion and, incidently, to enjoy the delights to be found in the historic and beautiful neighborhood of St. Andrews.

The C. M. A. convention goes to St. Andrews this year because it is the time of the Maritime Provinces and because its secretary, in the person of the late Colonel H. S. Fisher of St. John, N.B. About three years ago the Association was organized into five territorial divisions, Maritime, Quebec, Ontario, Prairie and British Columbia, and the annual meetings are held in rotation in these divisions. In 1920 the convention was held at the Hotel Vancouver, Vancouver, last year at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, and this year it goes to the Algonquin Hotel, St. Andrews, famous as an important resort for all land and water summer sports.

About 300 members of the association will be present, and the subject of Canada's export trade being at this time of supreme importance will receive more than usual attention in the various reports presented. Prospects for an extension of trade with the West Indies will also be considered as a result of the visit of a large number of members there during the past winter.

St. Andrews has an interesting history dating back to the seventeenth century. It saw the early struggles between the French and English and, it was later a garrisoned border town enjoying all the excitement of a border town in war times. Its streets were laid out in 1784 and some of the quaint buildings of early colonial days still stand. The little town has important fishing industries.

MANITOBA LEADS IN BUTTER TEST

Ontario Makes Eighth Place in Dominion-Wide Scoring Contest.

The Dominion educational butter scoring contest is creating a healthy rivalry between the Provinces, judging from the report of the Chief of the Dairy Division of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch at Ottawa. This shows that the scores for flavor in 1921 were higher in the October than in the 1920 contest. All the Provinces sent for the competition a 14-pound sample from each creamery which could send from May to October, inclusive (except that British Columbia had the season limited to the months of April to September), thus providing the makes of 83 cream eries to be judged. A marked feature of the contest was the forward showing of the Western Provinces, proving that, while they have made immense strides in the quantity of butter manufactured year by year, the quality has in no manner been overlooked.

Results of Contest

In the final results, according to points, Manitoba stands first with six special grades, Quebec second with five special grades and one first grade; Saskatchewan third with four specials and two firsts, Alberta fourth with three specials and three firsts, British Columbia fifth with two specials and three firsts, Prince Edward Island sixth with two each special, first and second, Nova Scotia seventh with three special, two firsts and one second, Ontario eighth with one special, three firsts and two seconds, and New Brunswick ninth with one special, three firsts, and two seconds. For workmanship based on the scores for texture, incorporation of moisture, color, salting and packing, the Provinces ranked in this order: Quebec, Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Nova Scotia, British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick.

SURVIVOR OF BALACLAVA CAVALRY CHARGE DIES

Liverpool, April 5.—Trumpeter James Richardson, a survivor of the famous Balaclava cavalry charge, immortalized by Tennyson, died here at the age of 91 years. Two years ago seven canister shots were removed from his shoulder, where they had lodged for 64 years, without causing him discomfort.

HUNGER AND FILTH AFFECTS BEAUTY

Even Theatrical People in Russia Are Pale and Emaciated.

Odessa, April 5.—Beautiful hands are a thing of the past in Russia. The hands of handsome women are hard and horny, almost as those of field laborers. They have neither luck nor soap in which to wash them, nor salves and cold creams to prevent chapping.

Constant labor in their single rooms making fires for cooking, carrying water, chopping wood and many other primitive duties have hastened the effect of cold and dirt.

The hands of men and women of the theatre, opera, pianists and instrument players, are in the same condition.

Malnutrition is another cause. Lack of milk and fats has wrought havoc with tender skins. Many women's cheeks are mottled like the skin of a fish. The same cause has hastened the decay of their teeth.

MANY NAMESAKES OF ROYAL COUPLE

Boathouses, Children, Shops and Inns Named After Wedded Pair.

London, April 5.—In the wake of the marriage of Princess Mary to Viscount Lascelles, a countrywide craze has developed for naming children and things in honor of the occasion and its principals.

From different parts of the country come reports of such name as "Royal Wedding Hill" and "Princess Mary Shaw". Innumerable Harry, Marys, Mary, Alexandras and so on, figure in registrations of the past few days.

Painters and sign writers testify to a mild boom in their art owing to the many changes in signs and names of shops, bungalows, boatsheds, houses &c., in order to give them a "topical" touch.

Items in all parts of the country are being named "The Princess Mary" or "The Lord Lascelles" as substitutes, according to reports, for German or other names that have survived the war.

Preparations for the coming season at seaside resorts include the labelling of bathing huts with such names as "Marylands", "Marrylite" and "The Princess".

GERMAN NATION BADLY BROKEN

Spirit of Democracy Has Levelled a One-Time Powerful Nation.

Copenhagen, April 5. — Philip Scheidemann, leader of the German Democratic party, whose party had the Associated Press that German militarism was dead forever. The spirit of democracy had levelled Germany to that extent that the German republic could easily withstand any reactionary assault.

Foreign countries, he said, exaggerated the political importance of the party of the German reactionaries. The Communists were no real danger either. They were only gradually grasping their way into the German trade unions "in order to learn their political manners."

Discussing the relations of Germany with Russia, Herr Scheidemann said the German government had negotiated with Karl Radek, Russian Soviet agent in Berlin. He expressed the opinion that the murder of Count Mirbach, for which no apology had ever been received, prevented any barrier against the two nations arriving at an understanding.

TO RATIFY THE TREATIES SIGNED AT WASHINGTON

Ottawa, April 5.—Notice has been given that the Government will soon move in the Commons for the ratification of the treaties signed on behalf of Canada at the Washington conference for the limitation of armaments. The treaties were signed on behalf of Canada by Sir Robert Borden, whose report on the conference has been tabled in the House by the prime minister. This report is to be printed for the use of the members.

NEW ZEALAND EXPORTS BUTTER

Sister Commonwealth Sends Large Quantities for Use in Canada.

Ottawa, April 4.—More than two million pounds of New Zealand butter were imported into Canada during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1922, according to a return tabled in the Commons to-day by Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs. Total imports of butter in the past fiscal year were 5,305,422 pounds, valued at $1,501,267, and the duty collected on this was $796,253. Of the amount 2,036,471 pounds came from Great Britain and 1,333,210 from the United States.

The imports during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1921, totalled 1,741,758 pounds, valued at $1,905,289. Of this amount more than 2,000,000 pounds came from the United States in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920, actual of 297,555 pounded valued at $176,994, was imported, and of this 1,271,271 pounds came from the United States.

Importations of oleomargarine during similar periods show a great reduction. In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920, a total of 4,497,021 pounds, valued at $1,572,104, was brought in from the United States; in the next fiscal year the amount was 2,238,351 pounds, valued at $1,206,351, and in the fiscal year just closed importations were 1,238,654 pounds, valued at $266,728, of which 6,000 pounds, valued at $1,399, came from the United Kingdom.

Shortly after I was married, I decided to go to Winnipeg, and there I took the choice of a president and the meeting cannot be persuaded to a hundred miles from my home. I don't say by two at the conventions, but I was a good deal of a man. I went to our friend Rice, who will look after the comfort there. Rice, I decided to stay with me a few days, and I have my way to do in Winnipeg.

I took this stage for Baltimore next morning, twenty-four miles. The conversation and me—the Rice the street crowd, the bands, the songs, the speeches—I see and hear and feel it all to my life. The upcoar lasted three days, and then Mr. Howard and I got on to nomination.

Then the undercurrent! The South was divided on Mr Wright and Mr. Taft. The deep current of its power was in favor of the speech of the party leader, Mr. Senator Simmons. Coincidentally the Van Buren and modestly Democratic Club of the city had invited for the two-thirds rule, which was considered to his advantage in the balloting began. It continued for two days—Wednesday and Thursday. The second day, after adjournment, the evening, many of the Van Buren dele-gates were entertained at the house I attended it with Judge Rice.

THE REVOLVER AND CRIME.

The Ottawa Journal has discussed several times the desirability of the suppression of the manufacture and sale of revolvers as a means of preventing violent crime. If there were no revolvers there would be fewer hold-ups and assaults. The revolver is the ready weapon of the criminal.

A New York judge, sentencing a man to prison for manslaughter, spoke some plain truths on the subject. Perhaps if they were oftener voiced something might be done toward the removal of the senseless evil. Said Judge Kapper of New York:

"Hardly a day passes," he said, "that we do not read of bold-faced robberies committed by armed men. Pistols are the cause. The ease with which the criminally inclined obtain revolvers is the evil to which must be ascribed the prevalence of crimes of violence.

"Just so long as the gunman and highwayman can possess himself of a pistol, just so long must we expect holdups, robberies and murders. The manufacture and sale of firearms which can be concealed upon the person should be stopped."

The Federal Government can materially aid by an appropriate interstate commerce embargo. Pistols and their cartridges are no more a fit commodity for general and indiscriminate purchase than is poison. If pistols are useful and needful in police and army service, let the Government distribute them under suitable registry and control. I should say that with this idea carried through, violent crime would shortly be materially lessened, and within a reasonable period of time would substantially disappear."

VOCATION TESTS.

Psychologists, economists and others have from time immemorial discussed that exceedingly vexed and constantly recurring problem of ensuring that square pegs in business and other affairs shall not be placed in round holes. It has always been and remains, a manifold problem, the solution of which is fashism is permissible. The psychologist devises the tests to decide for what particular vocation the individual is fitted. The teacher provides the training that will develop this special fitness without neglecting the other objects of education. The economist determines to what extent such vocational selection and training can be adapted to the present needs and the future progress of industry. Many learned men have made a definite declaration that we are all suited as a general rule for some one vocation. A Mr. Watts laid it down the other day that in a properly-organized state of society vocational tests would be a necessity.

There is a widespread belief in the capacity of psychology to define what characteristics are required for a particular occupation and to discover whether any given individual is thus endowed. But there must be closer contact between industry and the schools if success is to be promised for the schemes according to the psychologists. It should be sufficiently clear that fuller adaptation of educational processes to industrial needs depends upon active and thoughtful co-operation between the directors of industry and the schools. Many hundreds of children on leaving school find themselves in occupations for which they are utterly unsuitable. Such conditions produce, as a consequence, much misery, unhappiness and waste of time and money. A system which ordains that large numbers of people are to be put into occupations which they dislike and in which they work inefficiently produces social discontent and for one thing limits the output of industry. But wise men will say that they very much doubt the power of the psychologist and the teacher to ensure that everybody should like his job.

It is not an unfamiliar experience that a boy whom his own desires and the best opinions available have selected for some particular profession should not sooner discover what it is like than he makes haste to get out of it. Not a few men whose success and their own mature judgment pronounce very happy in their vocations, could tell of early years when the work seemed intolerably irksome. There is something to be said for the doctrine that the normal youth is neither round or square, but malleable, and in general he contrives without excessive agony to make himself either square or round, as his job demands. Despite all this, it is generally agreed that the utmost care in the selection of the man for the job is desirable, and it follow that no care in the choice of a vocation and in adaptation by training to that vocation is excessive. It is impossible to abolish habits, although the percentage may be greatly reduced.

The Poets' Corner

EARLY SPRING

She comes on with warmth and mirth
The wintry woodland waking
About the bare of prisoned Earth
A tender sun breaking.

The sabers drifts that haunt the groves,
Like ghosts are disappearing;
And, flushed at her coming in sweetness moves
The silence of the clearing.
With pageantry of coming days
The spring-pipe is thrilling,
Soon shall their streaming robes of praise
These wrinkled branches cover.

And prank the russet leaves, until
Their faded brown grows fonder;
Where dead of winter lay, and fill
With dancing light and wonder.

How fair the flow of Love's first dawn
The rapture-pipe is thrilling,
And that first bud mid scenes forlorn
Whose soft lips, too, are singing.

MEER-EYED, BUT BOLD

By BYRON STAUFFER

She was a meek-eyed, soft-voiced young thing, and I was boldly proposed to her during my last half of demanding twenty minutes of my time. Unless I guaranteed that she could see, and would be, untold to me the most stupendous financial speject ever.

"Twenty minutes is a long time, madam," I parried, "except when you realize that the alarm clock is about to summon me from my important snooze. Couldn't you be satisfied with ten?"

"No; twenty minutes is exactly the time it takes me to develop our epoch-making proposition," she replied. "That has been demonstrated several times in our salesman's college. I could do it in eighteen, but hardly in full justice to you. You'd be forced to adjourn an interview, and never to end one without obtaining a positive answer, yes or no, which I'm sure you'd presumed, of course, that H. I demonstrate beyond successful contradiction that from here on forever and I have the opportunity of all the lifetime from Jacob's cattle syndicate to the present speculative day graves."

But to be frank, it really think it was the twenty-minute promise that bothered me. Had that been merely of a saleswoman proceeded to interest and capture me, arousing my cupidity until I was willing to sign on the gimme of the golden moments and bent only on securing as much of the stock as I could by borrowing the limit from my unsuspecting relatives, her visit might have been crowned with a modest measure of success.

Whoever taught her that method of approach erred in the matter of twenty-minutery psychology. It would be foolish for a writer to head his column with, "Dear Reader, Twenty Minutes, Please!" or for an author to label his volume, "This Book Took Thirty Hours." The writer, preacher and playwright must arrest the eye or ear from the very start. So in the reader's case, at any rate, there is no guarantee that he will stay with you for a single sentence after the first.

Twenty minutes is a long time until it is spent. Why, gauged by the wage of a skilled machinist, that stock agent was asking me for thirty dollars!

In twenty minutes, Caruso could have sung three or perhaps four of his divine solos. Twenty minutes is the maximum some churches allow for their weekly sermonic effort. Besides, many laymen think it too long.

Twenty minutes is all that a reporter is allowed to spend over the telephone, even on a first-class fire.

I have watched a business king half-wit Jack Morgan and Charley Schwab over the cashoda of produce, quote prices for enough goods to fill a store, call his wife deary, over the phone, and promise a golf lit go golfing at sort-all-interesty minutes.

Reading very leisurely, the whole Sermon on the Mount can be clearly enunciated in far less than twenty minutes. Recently immortal speech at Gettysburg can be delivered ten times in twenty minutes.

Twenty minutes is all that is needed daily to perform one of the best series of physical exercise designed for men who have no time. At five hundred-and-fifty minutes in making the eighteen holes of a golf course.

Brevity is the order of the day. One of America's most successful lawyers earned a $100,000 fee for writing "Yes."! Of course, one can easily forget the young woman who, answering by wire the most important question ever put to her, made the memorable reply: "Yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes, yes," That was real thrift, for it added emphasis without extra telegraph toll.

If you want to make yourself popular with buyers, Mr. Salesman, be brief. If you do not desire to have men walk around the block to avoid meeting you, eliminate the unessentials. Use your most intimate friend will perceive it. Say "hail" him on Yonge street with a hearty "Hello,"—and pass right on!

BANKRUPTCY IN BRITISH TRADE

London, April 4.—London newspaper opinion is that the year has started inauspiciously for British trade generally, judging from bankruptcy statistics which show that there have been 1,160 failures in January and February; a figure far in excess of the average.

The main reasons assigned for failures are reckless over-buying during the late boom, absence of reserves and good-will, heavy taxation and the decline of trade.

Provision dealers, farmers and builders, in the order named seem to be the hardest hit.

One Northampton shoe factory, has just paid its creditors one-fifth of a penny in the pound—the equivalent of .36 per cent.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,—Thousands of the most realistic visits are being made by ladies and school girls in Belleville to be sold for funds for the Belleville Hospital on Saturday, April 15th to residents of Belleville, Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

While it is known that the Hospital serves a large area, it may not be known to the general public the proportion of patients that are taken care of. Last year there were 1438 patients, of whom 806 came from the city, over 400 from the county of Hastings, and 180 from Prince Edward county. By these figures it is easily seen that it is not only a city hospital, but a county hospital.

There is accommodation for 85 patients. From 35 of these beds the returns are not large enough to pay for their maintenance, which is about half of the remainder just pay for themselves, so it is easily seen why the Hospital has to ask for aid.

The overhead expenses are heavy for an institution of this kind, where standardization and the best of equipment is demanded without taking into consideration the ordinary repairs and the extraordinary expenditures such as new boilers, sterilisers, laundry and operating room equipment, besides other appliances needed for efficiency.

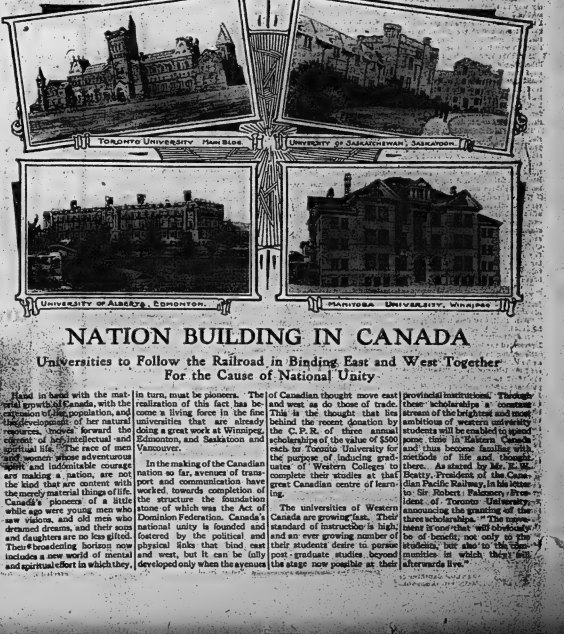

The Belleville Hospital has no endowment; the legacy from the late Mr. Thomas Ritchie, if specifically stated to be for, a building to be known as the Ritchie Memorial Home for Nurses, so that means are not available from that source. But at the present time funds are very much needed for the extraordinary expenditures, and hence visits, the most realistic visits, are being busily prepared, as tags and badges, bonbons and the avid people entering in both the city and counties.

Easter Sunday is Visiting Day. Therefore we ask that your readers show their appreciation of this good work by buying Hospital tags to wear on that day.

Yours sincerely,
LILIAN E. MIKEL

NATION BUILDING IN CANADA

Universities to Follow the Railroad in Binding East and West Together For the Cause of National Unity

Hand in hand with the material progress of Canada, with the expansion of her population, and the development of her natural resources, has moved forward the current of her intellectual and spiritual life. The race of men and women whose adventurous spirit and indomitable courage are making a nation, are not the kind that are content with the merely material things of life. Canada's pioneers of a little while ago were young men who saw visions, and old men who dreamed dreams, and their sons and daughters are no less gifted. Their broadening horizon now includes a new world of mental and spiritual effort in which they, in turn, must be pioneers. The realization of this fact has become a living force in the fine universities that are already doing a great work at Winnipeg, Edmonton, and Saskatoon and Vancouver.

In the making of the Canadian nation so far, avenues of transport and communication have worked towards completion of the structure the foundation stone of which was the Act of Dominion Federation. Canada's national unity is founded and fostered by the political and physical links that bind east and west, but it can be fully developed only when the avenues of Canadian thought move east and west as do those of trade. This is the thought that lies behind the recent donation by the C.P.R. of three annual scholarships of the value of $500 each to Toronto University for the purpose of inducing graduates of Western Colleges to complete their studies at that great Canadian centre of learning.

The universities of Western Canada are growing fast. Their standard of instruction is high, and an ever growing number of their students desire to pursue post-graduate studies beyond the stage now possible at their provincial institutions. Through these scholarships a constant stream of the brightest and most ambitious of western university students will be enabled to spend some time in Eastern Canada and thus become familiar with methods of life and thought there. As stated by Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in his letter to Sir Robert Falconer, President of Toronto University, announcing the granting of the three scholarships: "The movement is one that will obviously be of benefit, not only to the individuals who receive the opportunities in which they are afterwards live."

KNEES' IDEAS IN HOSIERY

...Clocks are receiving all the emphasis

...stockings for evening are coming in and
...they match the dress with care to be seen

...The biggest thing of the moment is
...the so-called "suede bouquet," which

...Hose for wear seems as fancy have been for some time past, being re-

...brown and black.

...Spanish effects which follow the ...trend of the moment are emphasized.
...They are in allover lace designs with ...large or small flowers, giving a pleas-
...ing, open-work effect which is another
...fascination that has style interest.

To Stretch Curtains.

...If you have curtains that need

...starch sideways as much as the ma-
...terial will allow.

Sleeves.

...Sleeve cloths deserve very often ap...proval in all black dressy and, of ...course, we have had scarce time the ...artistic red crepe shown in black silk
...frocks. This, as well as many other
...shades, shows a tendency to emphasize
...the plain, black dress. Sometimes
...such garments are worked in em-
...broidered angels on it.

BOSTON OPERA COMPANY ENGLISH OPERA

"THE BOHEMIAN GIRL"

The more mention of "The Bohemian Girl" brings to our memory the beautiful music of that prized Irish composer Michael Balfe.

To hear this beautiful opera presented by the Boston English Opera Company is indeed an unusual treat.

The Boston English Opera Company on its recent visit to Toronto gave us the finest aggregation of singers heard in many years.

It will be a long time before we forget Helena Marrill's Gretna sopranic or Norman Arnold's delightful tenor or the deep dramatic basso of Edward Orchard. To think of hearing Helena Marrill sing "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls" or to hear Norman Arnold in the plaintive "Then You'll Remember Me", and the brook "Fair Land of Poland", to say nothing of hearing the sycamore baritone of Henry Kunga in "The Heart Bowed Down", and Dorothy Bell's vibrant contralto in "Bliss Forever Past."

In short the performance of "The Bohemian Girl" by the Boston English Opera Company promises to be the supreme musical treat of the entire theatrical season.

Special interest is centred in Edward Orchard's impersonation of Devilshoof, the chief of the gypsies. Mr. Orchard is concede the foremost singing comedian in America and his impersonation of the rollicking gypsy chief is a sheer delight.

In spite of this famous galaxy of stars the prices will be within reach of all.

"The Bohemian Girl" comes to Grand's this Friday night, April 7th.

SUPERB PRODUCTION IS GEORGE MELFORD'S PICTURE "THE GREAT IMPERSONATION"

James Kirkwood, featured player in George Melford's new Paramount production, "The Great Impersonation", which is to be shown at Griffin's tomorrow night, and Saturday matinee and night has one of the most difficult dual rolls ever portrayed on the screen. The skill required in the portrayal of this role will be understood when one considers the fact that Mr. Kirkwood must enact two racial characters, with entirely different characteristics—one a German, the other an Englishman.

The roll becomes further involved when, as the story develops, it appears that the German has killed the Englishman and impersonates him in Britain, acting as a spy of the Imperial Prussian government, just prior to the great war.

After many thrilling scenes, a smashing surprise develops, which is declared to be the average modern picture fan can guess. It is said this finale is unequalled in interest and dramatic power by any similar situation ever shown in a motion picture. Mr. Kirkwood's portrayal of this difficult role is delightfully clever.

This Paramount picture is an adaptation by Monte M. Katterjohn of E. Phillips Oppenheim's novel, Ann Forrest, Winter Hall, Truly Shattuck, Alan Hale, Lawrence Grant, and Fontaine Lafter are other prominent players are associated with Mr. Kirkwood in the all-star cast.

"Dull Care" a Reel Larry Semon comedy, a new chapter of the popular Western serial "Winners of the West", and Pathe News will be exhibited on the same program.

REX STOCK COMPANY IN "THE THREE TWINS"

If you don't like to laugh it is not advisable to attend the Rex Stock Company at Griffin's to-night, it has caught on in quite short order, has proved itself a laugh maker of the first grade. It is easily the funniest play so far presented by the Rex Players. The introduce a number of tuneful musical numbers during the action of the comedy which are greatly enjoyed.

"TEA GOING UP."

The unrest in India has caused more or less serious labor trouble in the tea districts of Assam, and has resulted in the price of tea rising considerably for the past year. Between October, 1920 and October, 1921, there advanced between 8 and 15 cents a pound, as the crop is much less than estimated and consumption is the same. It is probable that the price will go still higher.

COUNTY FORESTS

It is announced that surveyors' crews in Ontario have taken possession of the Ontario Government's area for establishing municipal forestry. These counties have adopted by-laws providing agricultural land which, in connection with the Provincial Forest Service, is to be planted with coniferous and other trees. The blocks of land vary in size from 100 acres up to 1,500 acres. It is expected that other counties will take up forestation within the coming year.

Efficient Housekeeping

EASY MENUS FOR THE NEW MAID'S FIRST WEEK

Many women are pausing on engaging a new maid, to plan simple menus for her first week. For even an experienced maid when new, should have easy dishes only during the week or the first few days, when her mind is taxed with so many instructions concerning the general running of the home. The following set of one week's menus are intended to help the housekeeper who is facing this problem.

Many maids today, ask for Wednesday afternoon off instead of Thursday, so these menus have been planned with that idea in mind; that is, Wednesday evening the housekeeper, not the maid, prepares the dinner, having the two lemon pies mentioned (one for that evening, and one for Thursday) and also baking the two Veal Loaves mentioned (one served cold on Thursday) in this way the new maid is not asked to do any pastry-baking or cake-baking the first week. Any evening cooking, too, the housekeeper prepares a double quantity of mashed potato so that half can be used next day for lunch on Thursday combined with left-over breakfast bacon. I have not given the fruit desserts because in so many homes breakfast seldom varies, consisting chiefly of toast, coffee, cereal and perhaps an egg, bacon or sausages.

Monday: Noon Lunch—Fried Cornmeal Mush with Syrup, Cocoa. (If the maid arrives on a Monday, as I have assumed, the housekeeper will have the cold cornmeal mush sliced, ready for her to fry. The housekeeper may also have the gelatine dessert ready for her to try. The housekeeper may also have the gelatine dessert ready for dinner that night—Saturday. The maid's first day in the kitchen on easy one. Night Dinner: Sunday's Roast Beef, served cold, with pickles, boiled potatoes, spinach, coffee, fruit gelatine dessert.

Tuesday: Noon (Lunch): Baked Rice Custard-Dish. Tea, Jam (on bread). Night Dinner: Stew made of last cold end ends of the cold roast beef, mixed with onions, carrots and potatoes. Coffee, Rice Pudding.

Wednesday: Noon Lunch: Bread Crumb Omelet. Tea. Night Dinner: Hot Veal Loaf (make two loaves). Mashed Potatoes (make double quantity). Canned Lima Beans. Coffee. Lemon Meringue Pie (make two pies).

Thursday: Noon Lunch: Fried Potato Potato Cakes (or these cakes may be baked in a pan with a little butter under them). Cocoa. Night Dinner: Cold Veal Loaf, Boiled Potatoes, Boiled Onions, Coffee, Lemon Pie.

Friday: Noon Lunch: Baked Macaroni-Cheese Dish, Tea, Jelly. Night Dinner: Cod steak with Tomato Sauce, White Potatoes, Canned Peas, Coffee, Sliced, sweetened fruit covered with a boiled custard sauce.

Saturday: Noon Lunch: Orapeauts Baked Dish, Cocoa. Jam Night Dinner: Hamburg steak balls, with potatoes, canned tomatoes, coffee, Apple Sauce topped with Mock Whipped Cream (which is made by beating one egg beaten stiff, sweetened, and flavored with 2 tablespoons of the apple sauce whipped in).

Sunday: Noon Dinner: Roast Leg of Lamb, Brown Gravy, Boiled Potatoes, Canned String Beans, Canned Peaches topped with Mock Whipped Cream, Coffee.

The housekeeper should write out the recipe for all these dishes and give them to the maid on Monday. The Orapeauts Baked Dish is made by turning one-half package of Orapeauts and one quart of sweet milk into a baking dish, adding one-half cup of sugar, and letting bake one hour in a good oven. This is not sweet enough to be a pudding, yet is just sweet enough to be delicious.

TREES ABOUT PRAIRIE SCHOOLS

A short time ago very few school districts in the Prairie Provinces planted trees about the school-house, but in the last three years the number has been steadily increasing. This year in Saskatchewan alone 150 school districts will plant trees. The seedling trees are obtained from the Dominion Forest Nursery Station at Indian Head, Sask.

IS DEMPSEY OVER RATED?

Bunch of Bunk is Bound to Grow Around Every Champ.

The Dempsey bubble. Use a great fighter and there is no reason to think that he is not, but for the most part it is a supposition rather than a proven fact. He has not met any great fighters and it is only by defeating a great fighter that greatness can be demonstrated conclusively. Tom Gibbons looked just as great as Dempsey while he was piling up that record of twenty straight knock-outs. He did not look so great when he met Willie Greb.

The only sure thing about Dempsey is that he is overrated. Every heavyweight champion we ever had has been overrated, and the reason is not difficult to find. The heavyweight champion is the biggest source of news connected with boxing. He is talked about and advertised more than all the other champions put together. Advertising make him great in the eyes of the public. Give any second rater the same amount of publicity and he also would be thought great.

Here is one instance of how Dempsey's fame grows through publicity rather than what he actually accomplishes in the ring. Ever since that battle in the big arena at Jersey City reports have been coming over the big water about Carpentier's poor health. Every time Georges gets a boil on his neck or feels a little tired he has dying up too late, the cables say he is still suffering from that frightful beating he received at the hands of Dempsey.

As a matter of fact, Georges was not hurt at all in that fight. The only after effect that caused him any suffering was the injury to his thumb. But the whole world is constantly told that Dempsey is such a murderous hitter he ruins his victims for life.

BABE RUTH IN SLUMP

Batting Bambino is Not Crashing Them at All Lately.

New York, April 5.—Followers of the New York Yankee baseball team viewed with little enthusiasm the resumption of the series between that team and the Brooklyn Dodgers at Little Rock, Ark., to-day. Their chief pride and boast, George Herman Ruth, appeared to be in the throes of a batting slump, and the wrecking facilities of the team were badly impaired.

George Herman has made only four hits out of eighteen times at bat in the last four games, and he apparently has lost the home-run habit even when hitting against minor league pitchers.

There was some cheer for the Yankee fans, however, in the fact that Wally Pipp had regained his hitting eye. He got four two-baggers with the Dallas Texas League team yesterday, and that was considered a fair day's work. The Yankees won by a score of 5 to 3. Ruth got a single in the last inning.

Brooklyn, on the other hand, had been plowing along with the whole team hitting on all cylinders and the pitchers doing real big league stuff.

Pitching against Fort Worth yesterday, Managers and Mitchell held the Texans to seven hits and no runs, while the Dodgers were getting seven hits and eight runs.

The Giants might have had a hard time in winning against the Memphis team at Memphis yesterday, if the Southern Association team had been able to get on. The Dixie lads compiled an error column that was most contentious, and the Giants won, 9 to 1.

DYE WAS LAST OF BISONS TO REACH TRAINING CAMP

Toronto, April 4.—Advices from Buffalo state that "Babe" Dye, who won a name for himself with local hockey fans by his goal-getting ability during the past season, arrived in the Bisons training camp at Gastonia, N.C., on Sunday. Dye was the last of Wilse's squad to report. The Buffalo papers made quite an item over Babe's arrival, describing his dress and actions for the rest of the day. Dye was stated to have arrived in a checkerboard suit, checked hat and Spring overcoat, but no mention was made of his pants.

DUNN SELLS BEN EGAN TO JERSEY CITY TEAM

Salem, N.C., April 5.—Ben Egan, who has been first string catcher for the Baltimore Orioles for several years, has been sold to the Jersey City International team. Egan will leave at once for Jersey City and is expected to take charge of the team. Manager Dunn, of the Orioles, announced to-day that he has farmed out three recruit pitchers, Schulter, Gillies and Ulrich, to the Molinos team of the Three I League.

INDOOR BALL LEAGUE GAMES

Grand Trunks and U-Go-I Go's Are Winners of the Evening.

Two of the snappiest games yet put on were played at the Armouries last night in the City Indoor Baseball League in which the K.V.A. hooked up with the U-Go-I-Go and lost by the score of 13-6, while the Vets lost out to the Grand Trunks after they did their utmost in the way of a last inning rally to try and overcome their opponents' lead. The final score in favor of the Trunks read 6-4.

In the first game the K.V.A. seemed unable to hit the fast shoots served out by K. Nolt, the U-Go-I-Go twirler who at one state of the game was threatened by many heavy bombardments. The U-Go-I-Go had won on bases several times but did not seem to be able to come through with the willow at the crucial moments.

The teams lined up as follows—U-Go-I-Go—Cornell, K. Nolt, Callahan, William Stark, Robinson, Nott, Bland, McDonald.

K.V.A.—Wheeler, Baigeley, Arnot, Hamilton, Lesley, Nesbit, Langley, Hinds, Frichette.

The second game was a fast and furious affair and both sides were on their toes every minutes of the nine frames and provided an exhibition of lofty ball that was worth getting long way to see. Smith, the Trunk pitcher seemed to have the boys from France eating out of his hand for the better part of the game but they got to him in the last stanza and pretty nearly uncorked a win. The teams lined up as follows—G.T.R.—Meagher, Symons, Weir, Smith, Miles, Young, A. Weir, Reid, Binfield, Vets.—Pearson, Lawler, Newton, Alexander, Finkle, Ketcheson, Ferris, Cummins, Hay.

Ingston, H. P. Ryan, W. F. Smith; regatta committee, H. F. Ryan, Dr. Neish, G. Smith, Prof. Jemmett, R. T. Skinner, C. H. Powell, W. F. Smith. These committees have power to add to their numbers. J. Arthur Dalton, secretary-treasurer, presided at the meeting.

SPORT STUFF

We'll tell the gaping universe that these are the dog days for sport writers. Nothing to write about and yet the "copy" has got to look just as fat and healthy as if the season were at its height.

If Ho Hum. Guess we'll run a tennis serial by that famous writer, S.V.D., entitled "Racquets I have Raised." But if we ever get another snow storm like the last it'll be thumbs down on that one.

That was a hot one that Tommy Gorman pulled when the League Officials at Toronto asked his opinion for what changes he would suggest in the N.H.L. next season. Tommy wired back "Change the goal umpires in the Toronto Arena when Ottawa plays there." Zowie.

Connie Mack, the famous baseball manager, has injected a hot line of gyp in the pre-season dope by announcing that his team will draw out of the ballot position which they have so gallantly held for the last few years. Boy stirring up the price of the half pound of peanut shells in the silk container and present them to Mr. Mack. He deserves them for that one.

Plenty of action in the local athletic lines tonight. The J. A. C. are taking another pass at the Grand Trunks for the basketball honors and the Business Men's class of the Y.M.C.A. are tackling the Rotarians in a catch as catch can baseball game.

The famed "Cheese" trophy is at stake and the Rotarians are out to retain their hold on the unware despite the fact that the Busy Business Men are thirsting for blood. So let's go.

SCRAP IRON

OPPONENT FOR DEMPSEY UNCOVERED IN MONTREAL

Montreal, April 5.—An aspirant to Jack Dempsey's title is at present being trained in the city in the person of a young giant, named Rioux, who hails from Trois Pistoles, Que. He is, his supporters claim, nearly six and a half feet in height and weighs well over 200 pounds. By taking a short run, he can touch a mark nine feet from the ground with his toe, they inform. Rioux, who was once a lumberjack, joined the police force here. He has never done any scientific boxing, although he has participated in many free-for-all encounters in the North woods, where his great size and strength made him a power to be feared throughout the lumber camps.

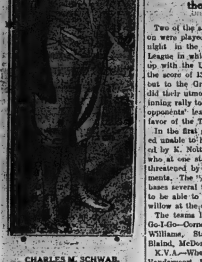

GREB TO MEET WILSON

Montreal, April 5.—It was announced here last night that George Engel, manager for Harry Greb, had received an offer for a bout between Greb and Johnny Wilson for the middleweight boxing championship to be held at Madison Square Garden May 5.

IN TROUBLE AGAIN

New York, April 4.—John Arthur "Jack" Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, is in trouble again. Supreme Court Justice Cohalan will determine tomorrow if the negro pugilist should be adjudged guilty of contempt of court for failing to appear before the court March 20, in response to an order issued in a civil action.

Attorneys for Barney Gerard and the estate of Henry C. Miner, Inc., obtained the order, claiming Johnson had paid only $1,000 on a judgment of $3,679. Johnson has been appearing in vaudeville in recent months.

BIG BATTLE STAGED TONIGHT

The Rotarians and Business Men Clash at The Armouries Tonight.

About one week ago the fast moving Rotarian indoor baseball nine defeated the Lions Club aggregation and copped the trophy, which Charlie Keeler now has on cold storage in the Y.M.C.A. building. A shield has been soldered on the side of the imposing "ordinary trophy," and the names of the boys who brought home the bacon are nicely engraved thereon as a remembrance of their skill and prowess with ball and bat.

The Business Men have heard about the proceedings, and have challenged the victorious Rotarians to a battle in the Armouries this evening at 8.15 p.m., where they will attempt to show up the victors. No trophy is being awarded for tonight's exhibition, but it is the duty of the victors to take on all challengers. Hence the battle.

Here's the way they'll line up:

Rotarians—C. Keeler, p; E. Lewis, c; Y. Hyman, 1st b; G. Graham, 2nd b; Scott, 3rd b; Dr. Day and F. Allen, s.s.; H. Wilson, C. Symons and W. Seward, fielders.

"Business Men—S. Brocket, Prof. Pitchford, E. Lasier, R. Brown, O. Hennings, A. A. Affleck, Prof. Hillwell, C. C. Walker and E. Lasky.

SIR JOSEPH COOK, Australian high commissioner to London, will represent that dominion at the Genoa conference.

GRAND TRUNKS VS. J. A. C. TONIGHT

Formidable Teams Clash Again in Struggle for Championship.

As announced last evening in these columns, the big championship basketball game between the Grand Trunks and the Junior Athletic Association, will take place this evening in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. This game, it will be remembered, decides who goes into the finals for the championship of the city, and a bumper crowd is expected to witness the exhibition.

The Grand Trunks won the last game by a small margin in a hard battle about one week ago, and if they win to-night, they are the team that will be entitled to meet Jimmy Alexander's team "the Vets."

RARE IS RIGHT

Little Rock, Ark., April 5.—Jimmy Johnston, Brooklyn third baseman, pulled a rare fielding stunt in the game with the Yankees here to-day when he snared a rabbit galloping at full speed across the diamon... The ventriloquist broke through the cover at left field and headed straight at Jimmy, who sang the bunny off its feet with a neat one-handed pickup. He stuck the rabbit under the back of his shirt, and played out the inning thus encumbered.

SACRED CANTATA GREAT SUCCESS

Maunder's Masterpiece, "Olivet to Calvary" Rendered Really Presented.

Maunder's sacred cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," was last night presented at the Baptist Church before an audience which filled the auditorium to capacity. A most ably well balanced chorus of about forty-five voices, under the direction of Mrs. Eva T. LaVole made a splendid manner. The chorus was good on attack and followed the director's leadings perfectly. The solos of the Baptist church and Christ Church (Anglican) formed the chorus, which was assisted by three well-known soloists—Miss Anna Fenton, soprano; Mr. R. J. F. Staples, tenor, and Mr. Jas. D. Dyer, baritone, a former popular Belleville baritone. The solos in this cantata are exceedingly fine and were well taken by the soloists. Miss Laura D. LaVole presided at the organ, and gave the difficult accompaniment a careful rendition, rendering the soloists and chorus splendid support. To the Misses LaVole is due much of the credit for the outstanding success of the evening. A work of this kind requires a tremendous amount of preparatory labor, and they must indeed be pleased with the evening's performance. The audience was requested to refrain from applause during the evening, but at the close were not slow in expressing their appreciation. During the evening the Misses LaVole were presented with lovely bouquets of cut flowers by two little girls, Misses Marjorie Doolittle and Martha Thompson. At the conclusion of the cantata a spiritual Easter anthem, "Hosanna" was given, the solos being taken by Miss Anna Fenton and Mr. Staples, tenor. The cantata is being repeated in Christ Church this evening, and the church should be filled to the doors.

It is Not True

That people "begin wearing glasses too soon." Because when the skilful Optometrist finishes examining a pair of eyes he knows what their condition is; he knows when they need and what they don't need; he will not put glasses on you when patient until they are necessary.

It is a Fact

That many ailments could at least time have had their eye trouble corrected very easily and comparatively quickly, after having their eyes examined until their ocular muscles and in such a chronic condition that the correction of their defect is much more tedious and difficult to use than would have been the case had proper advice been sought early.

The service of our Optometrist with his long years of practice and up-to-date education is a "safety first" proposition.

RIVAL FACTIONS CONTINUE TO CLASH ON ULSTER BORDER

LOUDS DARKEN OVER ULSTER

olice Forces Are Concentrating on the Border Near Fermanagh.

MORE SKIRMISHES

Ian Feiners Under De Valera are Meeting in Londonderry.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited
Belfast, April 5.—Republican forces are reported to have concentrated on the portion of the Ulster frontier between the counties of Leitrim and Fermanagh. Early to-day one constable was reported missing and three wounded from a patrol near Belcoo. Reinforcements of police have been sent to the border.

During his visit to Londonderry yesterday, Eamonn De Valera presided at a conference of the six County committee appointed by the Anti-Treaty Sinn Fein organization the duty to be followed in Ulster, Count Donegal where the Republican leader is at present, is the only portion of the State territory in Ulster in which he has secured a foot hold.

Parliamentary members of the Irish Republican Army entered the King's County Court House to-day and closed the revenue offices, declaring them to be "British Institutions" the officials were ordered out of the building, but were allowed to retain the keys of the offices.

Dundalk—This morning a body of armed men held up railway official and destroyed sixteen wagon loads of Ulster merchandise and all passengers from Belfast were seized and burned.

Dublin—One hundred young men from Twenty-seven counties in Dublin to join the Free State army, were interviewed at Mallow, County Cork, by a deputy party of Republicans. A clash occurred in which it is reported one of the Free State recruits was wounded.

Hamilton, Ont., April 6.—All Hamilton "closer" to the Small mystery lead to the asylum. Miss Small, one of the sisters of the missing Small, is in the asylum as is Hamilton following up clues. All she has been able to discover so far is that a woman in the Dundurn, who had gone insane over the case, had thrown a letter out of a window at the asylum. It was addressed to the police but contained the ravings of a disordered mind. Three people here have gone insane over the case.

LIBERALS WOULD RETURN TO PATRONAGE SYSTEM

Question is Understood to Have Been Raised at Yesterday's Caucus—Would Take Away Much Power From the Civil Service Commission.

Ottawa, April 6.—Enthusiasm over the banishment of patronage from the civil service of Canada which was proclaimed by Liberal members in the peaceful last year, has to a large extent oozed out of the party since its return to power, it is said. In fact quite a number of Liberal members are understood to have informed the Government of that circumstance at their caucus yesterday. Returning to office after ten years in opposition, Liberals found patronage delightful and appointments to the civil service being made on the recommendation of the Civil Service Commission. They were besieged by the faithful of the party demanding Government positions. The present Government if it seeks to meet these demands, will find itself faced with the record of liberal opposition to the Aylesworth Bill last session. Moreover, the Progress was pursued last session.

ives and, likely the Senate also will be opposed to a return to the patronage system. Many Liberal members, however, would be attracted to the attempt some action is not, however, yet clear. Whether or not a coat of living bonus should be granted to the civil service was another subject of discussion by the caucus. Thus far, no provision has been made in the estimates for payment of such bonuses. It is possible, however, for the Government, if it decides to pay bonuses, to submit a supplementary estimate to Parliament. That course was pursued last session.

BRITISH BOYS ARRIVE HERE

Forty-five New 'Canadian Farmers Arrive at the Marchmont Home.

SPLENDID WORK

Boys Are of Magnificent Type and Should Make Good.

Forty-five sturdy sons of Old Britain, comprising the 98th party from the Liverpool Sheltering Homes to arrive at the Marchmont Home, Belleville, arrived here at 2.30 a.m. on Wednesday morning last. This morning, when The Intelligencer representative called at the Home, the boys were enjoying the fine Canadian spring weather, as they walked about the yards, happily singing and chatting. The boys have been in Canada but four days, and everything is doubtless strange to them.

Mr. H. B. Pelt, headmaster of the Liverpool Sheltering Homes, was in charge of the party, which arrived at St. John, N.B., on Monday, April 3rd, and in Belleville on Wednesday morning. The voyage was made on the Montcalm, which is a new ship, this being her third trip. The party were nine days on the ocean, which was fairly rough, with the result that six or eight of the boys were seasick during the whole voyage.

The boys are a fine healthy group, who are bright and obedient, and all comfortably housed. Every farm applicant, the majority of whom will be placed in Central Ontario, and the counties surrounding Belleville. The boys range in ages from 12 to 17 years, and are very suitable types for farm work. The demand for such boys is far in excess of the supply, and by Saturday next almost all of

MASONS BANQUET COL. M. K. ADAMS

District Deputy Grand Master Entertained Here by Local Brethren.

One of the finest meetings held in this city in forty years, is how local brethren of Moira Lodge, No. II, A.F. & A.M., remember the banquet and meeting held in the Lodge Rooms last night, the occasion of the visit of the District Deputy Grand Master of this district, Lieut Col. N. K. Adams of Picton. Lieut-Col Adams is also D. D. G. C. of Prince Edward district No. 15.

After the work had been completed the brethren attended a sumptuous banquet, presided over by W. Bro. W. G. Swayne. The toast to the King and Craft was followed by a toast to the Grand Lodge, which was responded by H. W. B. H. F. Ketcheson and responded to by District Deputy Col. Adams, R. W. Bro. Baker, K. W. Bro. H. J. Clarke, and others. The toast to the visiting brethren was proposed by W. Bro. John McIntosh, and responded to by W. M. Col. E. O'Flynn, V. M. A. R. Schryver, of the sister lodges of this city, and others.

The toast to Belleville was proposed by R. W. B. John Newton, one of the oldest servants of this city and replied to by W. B. Chas. Hanna, Mayor of Belleville, and W. B. O. Cannon, Alderman.

The meeting took the form of a musical ritual, which was continued after the banquet. Professor Wheatley very capably presided at the piano and was indefatigable in his efforts to make the evening a success, which he did. Songs were rendered by Messrs. Harry McKay, James Booth and George Bialowithy, after which the happy brethre, dispersed after singing Auld Lang Syne.

It might be mentioned that Moira Lodge No. 11 is the oldest Lodge in the district, having now being organized 125 years.

COMBINED CHOIRS SCORE TRIUMPH

Second Rendition of "Olivet to Calvary" Greeted by Large Audience.

Church union was, in a way, again exemplified last evening this time in Christ Church, when the choirs of that church and of Wycliffe Avenue Baptist church combined in presenting Maunder's sacred cantata, "Olivet to Calvary." The large auditorium of the church was filled to the doors with a much-pleased audience, which at the close of the performance was enthusiastic in their congratulations showered on those taking part. Miss Blanche LaVoie, for their skilful handling of this composition. As on the previous evening, the quartet rendered by Miss Anna Fordon, soprano; Mr. R. J. F. Staples, tenor, and Mr. Jas. D. Dyer, baritone, had their interpretation of their several parts was above criticism, the solos being given with a degree of fervor which could not help but be inspiring and uplifting. In the absence of the rector, Rev. Canon Bethune, D.D., who is in Boston attending Bishop Lloyd's consecration as bishop of the diocese, the duty of welcoming the choirs was performed by the Rev. F. L. Barber, of Picton.

At the conclusion of the service the members of the choirs repaired to the parlor of the Baptist church, where the ladies of that congregation served them with a dainty luncheon. A vote of thanks was tendered to the ladies for their hospitality by Mr. Batchelor on behalf of Christ Church choir, and was responded to by Mr. W. R. Faulkner for the Baptist ladies. The hope was expressed by the speakers that when opportunity offered the choirs would unite in other such efforts.

WOULD CONFER WITH OPERATORS

Leaders of Striking Miners Say Men Would Welcome Meeting.

New York, April 6.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, established a temporary strike headquarters in New York yesterday, to wait the outcome of the Hard Labor Committee's invitation to bituminous coal operators to join the miners in a wage conference at Washington, D. C.

While awaiting further advice from Operators Notice, chairman of the House Committee, Mr. Lewis announced he would hasten negotiations for the settlement of the anthracite strike.

Referring to reports from Washington that operators in Ohio and Indiana already had sent telegrams to Mr. Nolan declining to meet the miners, Mr. Lewis said:

"I have not received any official notification that the operators refuse to meet us, and only reaffirm our willingness to negotiate with them at any time."

The strike, both in the bituminous and anthracite fields is 100 per cent. effective, Mr. Lewis said. Although reports were too incomplete to indicate to what extent the 100,000 non-union miners had joined the strike, he declared, "the strike is rapidly being extended into non-union territory."

LLOYD GEORGE WINS AGAIN

Vote of Censure is Defeated by Very Strong Majority.

LONG DEBATE

Austen Chamberlain Gives Lack of Confidence Motion a Stormy Passage.

London, April 6.—Although a number of Laborites and Independent Liberals voted with the "die-hards," the motion of Sir Wm. Joynson-Hicks censuring the Government which was debated in the House of Commons lengthily and acrimoniously last night, was overwhelmingly defeated. No division was taken on the motion itself, but those supporting it and the Coalition Unionists was carried 233 to 95.

"The Unionist party meeting," as Joseph Sim described the discussion of the die-hards' resolution, attracted a full House. Not since the days before the Asquith Senate, but the bitterness was discernible below the surface between the die-hards and their Unionist colleagues.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, appealed to the Conservative leaders to take command of the Conservative party as the country's greatest instrument for national good.

Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader who at an early stage entered the arena, declared that he did not know what was not a single paragraph in the resolution or a single definition of faith. "Put your hands, he declared, were either unable to define their principle or declined to do so in order to avoid the ideological defeatism which other section of the Conservative party which they might be able to split away from it.

FORMER RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

Mrs. (Prof.) G. A. Swayze Joins the Great Silent Majority.

Word has been received in the city announcing the death of Mrs. Esther Ann Swayze, relict of the late Prof. G. A. Swayze, B.A., for many years of Prince Edward County on Thursday last, March 30th, and the body was on Sunday last interred in Dundurn cemetery, after an impressive service had been held in the Dundurn church. Mrs. Swayze was a lady who was known to many in Belleville, where resided some years, whilst her late husband, Prof. Swayze was connected with Albert College, the Belleville Business College and Instructor of penmanship in the schools of the city. Deceased had been for year a member of the Methodist church and faithful worship here was attached to Holloway St. church, where she took an active interest in church work. Her active life was crowded to duty's call what good she was able to do. Deceased was in her 81st year, and for the past few years had made her home with Mr. Spiner, in Elzin County, where she was born. A year ago Prof. Swayze predeceased her. A family of three survive, namely, Mrs. Roy Lyeson of St. Thomas; Mrs. John H. Reid of Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Mrs. Lt. Col. R. Anderson of Montone, France. Miss Mabel Harrison of this city is a granddaughter of the deceased. To those called upon to mourn the loss of a loving and devoted mother will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of many relatives and friends.

MILK SUPPLY IN GOOD SHAPE

Sanitary Inspector Reports Conditions of Milk and Receptacles Good.

That the milk bottles and receptacles used in the city have never been in a more sanitary condition than they are now is the opinion intelligently received by Dr. Crunk, M.O.H. from Mr. T. F. Wills, the local Sanitary Inspector. The report reads as follows:

Dr. G. S. Crunk,
Medical Health Officer,
Dear Sir:—Enclosed herewith please find report of the results of a Milk Test taken on March 20th, 1922.

I am pleased to state that the milk bottles and receptacles from which these samples were taken have never been found in a more sanitary condition. The milk itself was found to contain far less sediment than usual. Owing to the fact that the cows are still being confined in the stables, it would almost look as though my recent visits to the different farms from which the said milk is supplied; had a good influence on the keeping of the cattle and stables free from dirt.

Yours very truly,
Thos. T. Wills
Sanitary Inspector.

PREMIER WILL APPOINT CHIPPAWA COMMISSION

Definitely Set Against a House Committee for the Inquiry —Course is Severely Criticized by Both Opposition Leaders, Who Denounce Outside Interference.

Toronto, April 6.—The Drury Government, after having safely emerged from a sharp turn away from the Premier's announcement of a committee of the House to investigate Chippawa power affiliture, apparently intends to force through its new plan of a Royal Commission of inquiry. The fact that Premier Drury's sudden about-face on the question of an investigation has incensed the Opposition was shown by some yesterday, when for three solid hours the House, under cover of a formal motion to adjourn, discussed the matter.

Judging from indications, the Premier's chance of heart will be opposed by both the Liberal and Conservative groups, both of whose leaders placed themselves on record in favor of original proposal of an investigation by a committee of the House. There will be one or two Labor members from the Opposition side at least one from the Government ranks, W. H. Casselman, U.F.O. member, coming out frankly and unequivocally against an inquiry except by the people's representatives. In the three-hour talk, which the Premier tactlessly described as a "blathering fest"—a word he was compelled to withdraw—little real progress was made because the House must go through all of over again when Mr. Drury, in fulfilling promises made yesterday, submits the personnel of the commission. Mr. Drury has announced that the personnel of the commission will be known to-day.

Both Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Raney, Opposition leaders, criticized the Premier severely for his change of front. Mr. Ferguson, who is not a member of the House, was given the privilege of the floor, and he made a vigorous attack on the Premier's proposal to appoint a commission. He declared that the Premier had been "bulldozed" by outside interference, and that the Government was now in the hands of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. He said that the Premier's proposal to appoint a commission was a "confession of weakness" and that the Government was "afraid to face the music."

Height of Women Increasing.

The increase in the height of women has gone on steadily for more than fifty years, but measurements have proved most notably in the last two decades. Our grandmothers stood barely five feet in their shoes, but their daughters measure five feet four inches, and their athletic granddaughters of today measure from five feet to five feet ten in their stockings.

America's premier huntress is Mrs. Frederick Daldish, who has recently returned from a big game shooting expedition in East Africa with a score of trophies of her progress—the tusks of elephants and rhinoceros, the skins of seven lions, the horns of buffaloes, a leopard and a cheetah.

THE TALLEST MONUMENT.

Name of Famous People Given to Mountains.

America was called not after Columbus or Cabot, its first discoverers, but after a later comer, Amerigo Vespucci, and it is the most notable instance of a man's name being immortalized in this way. There are some living people who have had this compliment paid to them, so that even if history fails to keep their memory green, geography will do them that service.

There is a mountain in the Antarctic continent named Mount Asquith, another named Mount Harcourt, and still another Mount Henry Lucy, after the famous "Toby, M.P."

Certainly one would rather have this sort of everlasting monument than a paltry statue which will be unrecognizable in a few centuries.

Why do not serfdoms in the Dominions, where they have still a few unnamed natural features, as Deakin Mountain testifies in Australia and Ward Mountain in New Zealand, named after Sir Joseph.

The late Captain Scott gave Shackleton's name to an inlet, and that gallant explorer paid his old commander back in the same coin by naming a mountain after him. Major Leonard Darwin is also immortalized in this way, as he deserves to be for his work as president of the Royal Geographical Society.

Shackleton, as he had a perfect right to do, enshrined his family in the Antarctic, for his son Raymond has a mighty peak to his name, Mount Cecily is called after another child, and Mount Emily after the explorer's widow.

Fighting the Ice Fiend.

Many of the Northern European seaports are icebound for three or four months on end in winter, and trade would come to a complete standstill if it were not for the use of specially designed vessels to cut a narrow channel through the ice and to keep it open.

These vessels, which are known as ice-breakers, are, naturally, immensely powerful. The bows of an ordinary ship would crumple up like paper if she were driven at full speed against thick ice; those of the ice-breaker are reinforced, and her forward end is nearly as strong as that of a battleship. She must have huge engines, also, to enable her to thrust her way through.

To see an ice-breaker at work is an extraordinary sight. She rushes full till at the ice and cleaves her way through it for a yard or two; then her bows mount up on to the ice, and for a moment it looks as if the whole ship was coming out of the water. She remains poised half afloat, and half on the ice for a second; then suddenly, with the shrieks and groans of a thousand tormented spirits, she gives way and she settles back into the channel that has been opened. The process is repeated again and again until a lane has been cut right into the harbor.

There are few more nerve-shattering experiences than to spend a day on an ice-breaker in the depth of the northern winter.

SCHOOL HONOR ROLLS.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

At the end of February we asked the parents to cooperate with us in order that a more regular attendance might be secured. This has been accomplished and in many cases there has been a most decided improvement as will be shown below.

Yet there are a few families who do not attach sufficient importance to this matter.

Occasionally the pupils may complain at home regarding certain affairs at school. In such cases it is always better for the parent to interview the teacher and the principal rather than take steps that are sometimes taken. I have yet to learn of a case when a brief interview did not settle the matter.

Attendance for March has been 99 per cent. of possible attendance and 91 per cent. of total registration yet 10 per cent. of our pupils were absent for 1 day or more during the month.

We are expecting a still further improvement at the end of June.

Business Men are Victors Over Rotarians

BUSINESS MEN OUST ROTARIANS

Trophy Holders Defeated by Speedy Business Men Last Night.

"When Greek meets Greeks, they start a restaurant," so goes a modern Shakespeare, when the Business Men of Belleville pit an indoor baseball team to play against the rip-roaring Rotarians, they not only start the fireworks, but they make history, in spinach of that popular game. When last night's battle had cleared after most eight's 9 inning struggle, the score stood 16-13 for the Business men.

Every one here knows that the Rotarians won the "Culinary Trophy" when they defeated the Lions' team a week ago, and it now occupies a conspicuous corner in the T. M. C. A. office. The Business Men bumped heads and said to themselves, "Here, let's organize and co-operate and show these "rangulahers of fees" to a game, and see what it feels like to play against softer weweed fer grapples. It is true we may not have a look in, but we'll die fighting, and if possible we'll show these chaps how." Consequently it was duly arranged to have the big battle last night, with the above mentioned results.

"The game was one of the snappiest exhibitions ever staged at the Armouries, some brilliant plays being made, with more than one player on each team, turning in a real good game. For the Business Men, Phil Brocks played a nice game and had air tight support in the infield. Jimmy Alexander at right short and R. Millward at left short gobbling everything that Blatchford, southpaw first sacker also secured an excellent game. For the Rotarians, Keeber and "Doc" McCreary were the big guns on the willow, slamming out many long, two bagger. Adams got a couple of lifters at the pan also. McCreary was one of the best boosters in the game also, getting two nice flies and a few hot ones, after he was promoted from left garden up to right short stop. Keeber pitched a big game but he made a better showing before. Jimmy Alexander pulled the most spectacular play of the game when he handled a fly ball that was hit against the basketball basket and bounded almost out of reach. He just got it on the end of his fingers and held it.

Everyone entered the game with lots of steam and were just as nimble as big boys with they chased the old pill around, and they say there is nothing like keeps a person young, like acting, feeling and thinking young.

The teams:

Jack Williams, umpire on balls and strikes and Alf. Symons on the bases.

SOUTH AMERICAN BOXER WINS

Newark, N.J., April 5.—Luis Firpo, champion heavyweight boxer of South America, defeated Joe McCann local heavyweight, tonight, scoring a technical knockout in the sixth.

McCann was floored in the fifth round and saved from a knockout by the bell. When the bell rang for the beginning of the sixth round McCann was unable to resume, and his seconds threw in a towel, signifying defeat.

FLANAGAN DEFEATS SCHWARTZ

St. Louis, Mo., April 5.—Joe Schwartz, Detroit bantam, lost the referee's decision to Patsy Flanagan; St. Louis in 12 rounds, last night.

MEYERS GETS DECISION

Chicago, April 5.—Johnny Meyers of Chicago, claimant of the middleweight wrestling championship of the world, was given the referee's decision after twelve rounds of wrestling here last night with Ralph Parcant of Spencer, Iowa. The match was slow.

IS RUTH THE BEST PLAYER?

Some Experts Figure Rogers Hornsby is a More Valuable Man.

New York, April 5.—Most say manager on the big time would give half his team and the grandstand for Babe Ruth, but there don't all agree that he is the greatest player in the game.

If Rogers Hornsby and the swat king were both in the American league there would be some excitement and a thousand dollar prize that Ban Johnson has put up for the most valuable player.

Here it comes to packing them in the parks and laying the foundation for dividends there is no doubt but Ruth is not only the greatest to-day, but the greatest ever.

When it is a matter of real value to a team, of real all-around stars, some of the wisest baseball minds differ.

If I wanted a colorful player who could draw them in every day at the gate, I would take Ruth, says Harold Parrat the baseball expert' If I had to choose a real ball player to make a team, I would select Rogers Hornsby as the greatest player in baseball," John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, said.

McGraw is generally regarded as the greatest manager in the game and one of the smartest baseball men of all times.

Branch Rickey says he wouldn't give up his Rogers for a couple of Ruths. Uncle Wilbert Robinson, also credited with knowing a few things about baseball, says he would rather have Rogers on his Brooklyn team.

Others straddle the issue and facetiously remark that they would like to have them both.

Ruth has one big booster in Miller Huggins, his manager. The pilot of the American league champions not only gives it as his personal opinion that the Bam is the greatest player of them all, but he quoted figures from the record book.

Ruth scored 177 runs himself last year and he drove in 170 more. Enough to win quite a few ball games Huggins contends. Ruth got 204 hits on an average of .378 and he stole 17 bases.

Hornsby hit .397 and 235 safeties. He stole 13 bases and scored 131 runs. Not so bad, his backers say.

TY COBB TWISTS ANKLE

Americus, Ga., April 5.—Ty Cobb twisted his right ankle sliding into third base to-day in a game between Rochester and Detroit. He had to be carried from the field, and it was said to-night he probably will be out of the game for several days. The score was—Rochester (International) 3, Detroit 10.

Annual Meeting Belleville Amateur Athletic Association will be held at the Chamber of Commerce, Thurs., April 6, at 8 p.m. Reports will be presented, officers elected for the ensuing year and other general business transacted. All those who are interested in the promotion of athletics, sports and amusements in Belleville are cordially invited to attend.

DIAMOND DUST

TROUBLE STARTS IN YANKEE CAMP

Bristol, Tenn., April 5.—The slumbering spark of dissension and discontent in the ranks of the Yankees broke into flame here to-day with the laying of a $200 fine on Pitcher Carl Mays, star twirler of the American League.

Mays's action in throwing the ball over the grandstand at Little Rock on Monday after Huggins had taken him off the mound in the middle of the inning was the start of the trouble. Later during the train ride from Memphis to Bristol the manager and the pitcher had words, and Waite Hoyt and Huggins are also said to have engaged in a verbal battle over the question of discipline.

British Boys Arrive

the party will have been placed on farms. Besides this party, there are a number of sturdy boys, 12 years of age, for well recommended homes, and a band of girls are expected in June, ranging in age from 6 to 14 years.

Mr. G. Bogue Smart, supervisor of Juvenile Immigration, of Ottawa, arrived in Belleville on Wednesday afternoon, where he inspected the boys, welcomed them, and gave them some wholesome advice.

Mr. and Mrs. Merry, who are in charge of the Marchmont Home, have recently issued a periodical called the Marchmont News which, it is proposed, shall be issued quarterly. This interesting periodical tells of the work accomplished by the Home and the success of the old and newer boys. It is the wish of Mr. and Mrs. Merry that this periodical get into the hands of as many of the old boys as possible, and that they in return keep in touch with the Home.

Affection of Old Pupils.

An excellent example of the appreciation the old boys hold for the Home that has meant so much to their success was very clearly demonstrated here recently, when they subscribed sufficient money for the installation of an up-to-date electric washer, which is also very greatly appreciated by the administration of the Home.

Procaution is taken that these boys be placed in only the best of homes. A farmer who desires to secure a boy must be recommended by the pastor of his church and a Justice of the Peace.

The boys are given 'on on a month's trial, providing the farmer qualifies, but if he fails to suit, he may be returned after two weeks notice on the part of the farmer.

Mr. Falk will visit a number of the older boys during the coming few weeks, after which he will return to Liverpool, after having conducted the second party of boys to Canada.

Marchmont Home is a branch of the Liverpool Homes, established some fifty years ago by Miss McPherson, a Christian lady in England. Since that time no money has been asked or used from the government, the Home depending absolutely upon private subscriptions which have never yet failed, vouching very favorably for its management.

J. A. C. TURNS TABLES ON G.T.R.

Snappy Game at the "Y" Proves Win for the Juniors.

Playing a fast snappy combination game the J. A. C. basketball team turned in a tables on their G. T. R. opponents at the "Y" last night and took them into camp to the score of 45-36 and the score just about indicates the advantage the youngsters had over their older and heavier adversaries. The game was clean and marked by few penalties altho the checking at times was inclined to grow strenuous. The Trunks seemed overwhelmed by the Juniors's combination and time and time again the J. A. C. quintette would get away and have two and three free shots at the basket before their checks would come up to them.

Among the Juniors it would be unfair to pick out any outstanding player as every one of them played a sterling game. For the losers Vern Weir played his usual capable game and scored 15 of the 30 points—scored by his team. Mr. M. A. Lasser, refereed the game to the satisfaction of both teams. These teams have each won a game from the other and now will meet in the last game of the elimination tournament to find the city champions.

The teams lined up as follows:—

J. A. C.—L. Hurley A. Meagher A. Armstrong, V. Weir Schreiber, C. Young.

G. T. R.—C. Marshall, Cole, Maidens, Allen, Yeomans, Elliott. (45)

LLOYD GEORGE AND GENOA.

Notwithstanding all talk of disaffection within the ranks of the Coalition, Lloyd George holds them like a magnet in all matters of foreign policy. It was a foregone conclusion that he would receive the mandate he asked for this week. The Genoa conference would not have been called if he had not insisted on it and prepared the basis of a programme at Cannes. It will offer the first opportunity since the war of bringing Germany and Russia into council. Lloyd George's greatest difficulty has been to banish the belligerent atmosphere in considering remedies for the ills of Europe. He has had to contend with the French idea of security by force as against the British idea of security by agreement and consent. With Premier Poincare reconciled to the plan of the conference and sustained by a huge vote of confidence in parliament there is hope that the best results will flow from the Genoa gathering of the nations.

The British Premier will now go to Genoa with an expression of confidence from the nation's representatives which should strengthen his position there and, in fact, make him for the dominant figure. It will not be all plain sailing by any means, as France is reluctant even to discuss the Treaty of Versailles and insists on full guarantees from Germany, and the United States will not take part on the ground that the conference is of a political rather than an economic character, in which the Government of the United States could not helpfully participate." This refusal must not, however, be taken to mean that America is unwilling to help in the eventual settlement.

It is undoubtedly true that the conference is largely political, but it will be economic as well. The very fact of Germany and Russia being at the same table with the other powers is a political fact of the first magnitude. It is impossible to approach the solution of economic problems without some political adjustment toward Russia and Lloyd George frankly recognizes this fact.

EXCHANGE PROBLEMS.

The London Times of March 24 contains an article headed "Canadian Exchange Puzzle," which presents the effect of exchange conditions in an unaccustomed light. The notice refers to a more extensive article in The Times Trade Supplement, in which the same question is discussed. Taking the British board of trade index numbers and those furnished by the Canadian department of labor as a basis, it is pointed out that, from the viewpoint of purchasing power parity, sterling was at a premium over the Canadian dollar, varying from 2c. to 69c. in the pound, during the whole of the year 1920 and the first six months of last year, and that at the beginning of this year the pound was at a premium of 10c. "It follows that, contrary to popular belief, the state of the exchange is those two years in countries has not cheapened British goods in the Dominion," says the Times. Moreover, since April, 1920, the Canadian dollar has been quoted in New York at a premium over purchasing power parity. "The effect has been to enable Canada to buy from the United States at prices considerably lower (measured in Canadian currency) than would have been the case had the exchange rate coincided with the true parity rates, while goods made in the United Kingdom were quoted at prices higher in Canadian currency than if sterling had been established at the true parity rates."

The exchange situation is a subject so complicated that even the most experienced are apt to make erroneous deductions from given conditions. Things are never what they seem to be on the face of them. If the true situation could be explained to Canadians, remarks the Times, they would understand how it is that British goods "have not proved as cheap as the state of the exchange has led Dominion exporters to expect, and the British manufacturers must be acquitted of the charge of "taking all the benefit from the exchange."

For a "dying minister," Lloyd George shows remarkable recuperative powers.

Did you ever notice, as in the case of the latest storm, that, nature seems particularly amiable after doing the most mischief?

Continued murders and outrages in Ireland emphasizes the scriptural futility of those who cry "peace, peace, when there is no peace."

Opponents of Lloyd George were anxious to press a want of confidence vote. That it resulted in a majority of 278 for the astute little premier will not conduce to their satisfaction.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR THOUGHT

Minneapolis Daily News:

"George Ade's comments that the American theatre seems striving for strange and unusual, and "there seems to be a tendency to believe that anything which gets away from the old traditional forms of entertainment is worth while." What's really wrong with the stage, says Mr. Nicholls, is a lack of original thought. And freakishness is not originality.

THE RUSSIAN BEAR

Cleveland Plain Dealer

The Secretary of State expresses sympathy for the Russian people, but reiterates his opinion that nothing should be done for Russian reconstruction until the Russian people themselves have eradicated the Bolshevist evil. At the same time he serves formal notice that the United States will not respect or tolerate confiscate arrangements which would lead to place Americans in an unfavorable position in Russia. He very unmistakably proclaims a Russia "open door" doctrine, but advises that the door is kept closed to all until such time as underspreading nations can, without bolding their noses, deal with a recognizable Russian Government.

The Poets' Corner

FATE

Two shall be born too whole wide world apart,
And speak in different tongues and have no thought
Each of the other's being, and in bed;
And one unknown seas to unknown lands
Sisal cross, reaping wreck, defying death,
And all unconsciously shape every act
And deed to wandering step to find one end—
That one day out of darkness, they shall meet
And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life
So sorely side by side that should one turn
Ever so little space to left or right,
They needs must stand acknowledged face to face,
And yet, with wistful eyes that never meet,
With groping hands that never clasp, and lips
Calling in vain to ears that never hear,
They seek each other all their weary days
And die unsatisfied and this is fate.

The Suppressed Editorial

By CALVIN HENDRICKS.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.

"Gee, the Alpaca Oil company, sir," is the biggest thing in Texas today," said "Colonel" Ware, looking up at Ormsby from his plate of sugar-cured ham. "And what is more, our friends believe in me and doing all they can to help us—most of them."

"There was no mistaking the cold tongs in the colonel's words. Ormsby looked across the table at Mildred. He was conscious that she was covertly watching him all through the examination of the meal.

Ormsby was financial editor of The Financial Observer, a staid, accurate, old-fashioned financial weekly, of fifty years of undiminished reputation behind it.

No other influences than money may be at work in a man's mind. Mildred Ware and Ormsby were acknowledged lovers. And "Colonel" Ware was a speculator—a spectacular one, to be sure, but one half a dozen fortunes. Just now his whole fortune was placed in Alpaca oil.

The "Observer" had delayed offering its opinion upon this stock.

Ormsby knew that Mildred understood the situation. They had loved each other for two years.

Ormsby kissed her, good-by and went down the hill to his office with a very heavy heart. That editorial must be written soon.

"There's a man waiting to see you, sir," said the office boy as he entered.

"Show him in," said Ormsby. And a moment later he was looking into the face of his visitor. The man was of the "Colonel" Ware type, but more instinctively disturbed.

"I am Jonathan Hall, touched on Alpaca oil yet, I notice," he said.

"Well, sir?"

"It's a swindle, isn't it?"

"If it were a swindle the "Observer" would say so."

"What would you say, young man, if I was to prove that for nothing?" he added "that I could make a bad lot over once and I'd be glad enough to get even what we lost?"

"I should say that your facts were probably malicious and inaccurate," said Ormsby.

"Then look at that," said the man, handing Ormsby a photograph. "That's the well on the 40 and the derrick of my life. They've put armed guards around it and look after it day and night since the gusher blew down."

The most cursory survey of the picture left Ormsby cold. Down on the table showed Ormsby that his suspicions were more than justified.

Ten minutes later he had begun the most impassioned article that he had ever written. It was denunciatory of Alpaca oil as a fraud, he showed up Colonel Ware as an unscrupulous adventurer.

He finished the editorial, sent a proof by the boy to Manton, instructing his subordinate to have the article set as soon as Manton's formal acknowledgment came over the wire, and hastened home. He fell asleep after hours of agonized wakefulness.

When he awoke he sat up in bed, wondering why his head ached and all the events of yesterday rushed upon him to remember. The news must have become general property long ago. Texas, pouring on his downfall, town, he telephoned his office.

"Get a minute, please," said the man at the other end. "Here's Mr. Manton. He wants to talk to you."

A moment later the owners voice came over the wires.

"Hello, Ormsby," he said. "Say, what in thunder did you mean by that piece about Alpaca oil? I caught it just as I was going to have the proofs! It just in time. Why, that's the biggest proposition that's listed today. It'll touch 150 before the week is out."

"You must be mistaken," said Ormsby. "Come up to my house," said Manton curtly, and hung up the receiver. Ormsby stared blinking with indignation. He was shown into Manton's study—he had not only Manton but Colonel Ware and Mildred. The colonel was looking sour and Mildred dejected.

Colonel Ware took two or three strides up and down the room.

"Ormsby," he said, "I'm pretty tough, but I can't stand for this. I'm the client."

"What do you mean, Colonel?" inquired Manton stiffly.

"Remember George—shabby little fellow with a limp who used to come to the Knack properties? Well, Manton, it may not have been quite straight, but I meant to let you fellows in on it. I tried to work Mr. Ormsby to give us a fair write-up. When he wouldn't I sent George to him with some fake papers and photographs in hopes he'd write up Alpaca oil article as a fake and. If that had got into the paper our stock would have been cheap at 40—and I'd sold half my holdings to buy it in then. Next week, when it was found that Alpaca was an absolutely good thing, it would have jumped to 100 again and I'd have cleaned up a million. As it is I've skinned out about $20,000 to the bad. And you can thank your great alarm, Manton, that Alpaca oil is sound, or that article would have blown us all skyhigh."

"Then the well is good!" gasped Ormsby.

"None better in Texas, sir," said the colonel shortly. "And since you've skinned me out of $20,000 with your confounded honesty I guess you'd better take care of Mildred for me. I don't think I'm a fit father for her, somehow."

There Are Certain Families In England Who Hey Marry In Old Westminster Alley

The wedding of the Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles in Westminster Abbey, and the extremely rare occasions on which the marriage ceremony is performed there, have raised some discussion as to what persons can claim this privilege.

Undoubtedly the dean and chapter of the Abbey have the final and decisive voice in this matter. They could, if they desired, even prevent any royal wedding from taking place there, so absolute is their power and control of the famous shrine.

But, on the other hand, there are certain people to whom neither Dean nor Chapter would ever oppose if they desired to be married at Westminster. The first of these is any member of the royal family. But only very seldom indeed have these demanded the right of marriage there. The last case was that of Princess Patricia of Connaught, who was wed in 1918 to Commander Ramsay, R.N., at the abbey. Before that wedding hundreds of years had elapsed since a royalty was married there.

It may be said with the truth, that any clergyman connected with the abbey would have the right to demand that his wedding should be celebrated there, and that this claim would be admitted by the highest authorities. Thus, not long ago Rev. Canon Wellesley, who wedded the DAUGHTER of Rev. A. S. Raynor, master of the Kings Scholars, and Westminster School, in the precincts, was married in King Henry VII.'s chapel —which is, by the way, the actual Tudor Chapel, too.

Another notable cleric whose wedding took place whilst he was a member of the chapter of the abbey was Bishop of Durham, then Canon Hensley Henson. His wife was one celebrated at the High Altar of the abbey, as the princess' aunt and in the famous chapel already mentioned.

The next class of persons who have the right to marry in the abbey are the scholars who have certain prescriptive rights.

Lastly, there is another section of the community which has the right to claim the use of the abbey for a wedding, if this is celebrated within a certain period. These are the "King's Scholars" of Westminster School.

Of course, nowadays no boy would dream of taking such a step, although there IF he marries during his term as the school, when sons, roughly speaking, of nineteen years of age. But in past centuries the married scholar was not entirely unknown in England's great schools.

The Westminster "Scholars" are, by royal enactment, actually members of the Chapter at the abbey, and are duly admitted as such at an annual service held by the dean after each new election, owing to this fact, they are believed by certain legal authorities to be able to claim successfully the right of being married in the abbey, just as, should they die whilst Scholars, they would have some claim to be buried in its precincts.

It is noteworthy that, though no actual Scholar ever could marry nowadays, nevertheless, when "old boys" do sat to be allowed the privilege, it is seldom denied them, especially if they have resided within the abbey precincts, apart from their actual residence in college.

As it means the case where Mr. J. C. Gow, son of the late headmaster of Westminster, and formerly a scholar, was united in the abbey a few years back to King Henry VII.'s —the School— Chapel.

A Mammoth Scrap Book.

Every line of war news printed by the newspapers, from every newspaper, from start to finish of the conflict, has been clipped, mounted on red morocco leather, embellished with the pressure to extract moisture, and bound into a consecutive history of more than 300 volumes and 81,242 pages, at a cost of $10,886. It is claimed that this war news is preserved in as permanent a form as skill can compass; and what is probably the most complete scrap book ever made is now in the library of Princeton University.

"YES, at my age I suppose I should expect a change in my condition. But I am so nervous and irritable, so easily excited and worried, that I cannot understand what is wrong."

"I know just how you feel, my dear, for I have gone through exactly what you are experiencing now."

"But you are not nervous."

"No, not now, but there was a far worse condition than you are, when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I need not tell you more, for you know how well I have been for the past few years."

Mrs. H. Akhorn, 23 Gerald St., Charlottetown, P. E. I., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was recommended to me by an aunt who used it while passing through the change of life and was completely built up by its use. From my experience as a wife and mother I find that the majority of cases are women, especially women passing through the change of life; next by young mothers to regain strength after baby comes, and also by mothers for their young daughters entering their womanhood. While it is good for all classes of humanity, I am sure it is especially so for women, as they seem to be troubled most by nervous diseases."

It is Not True

That people "begin wearing glasses too soon." Because when the skilful Optometrist finishes examining a pair of eyes he knows what their condition is; he knows what they need and what they don't need; he will not put glasses on that patient until they are necessary.

It is a Fact—

That many who could at one time have had their eyes brought to correction very easily and comparatively quickly, defer having their eyes examined until their ocular muscles are in such a chronic condition that the correction of their defect is much more tedious and difficult to use than would have been the case had proper advice been sought early.

The service of our Optometrist with his long years of practice and up-to-date education is a "safety first" proposition.

JUST HOW LONG IS A DAY?

Every One Knows What it is Scientifically, but Really it Depends on Circumstances.

Scientifically, of course, a day is 24 hours long; but it is the popular custom to separate this period into the two parts of "day" and "night," and when one says "all day," only the daylight hours are meant, and this meaning may be further qualified and limited to a specific number of hours; if a person is hired to work "a day" he expects to give service for the usual or legal number of hours, or may enter into arrangement in order that endless contentions and misunderstandings may be avoided, since the length of a daylight day varies widely. Actually, mutual understanding is that one shall work so many hours, not so many days.

At London, England, the longest daylight day has 16½ hours, while at Stockholm, Sweden, it is 18½ hours and at Petrograd, Russia, the longest day is 19 hours, and the shortest five, while at Wardhuy, Norway, the longest day lasts from May 21 to July 22 without interruption. At Spitzbergen the longest day is 3½ months.

In the United States the duration of the longest day depends upon the locality, but that of Kansas City, a little less than 15 hours, is about an average longest day for the whole country.

Legally "a day" may be 24 hours or almost any shorter period, depending upon specific statutes, custom and common understanding. If one engages a hotel room for "a day" he is entitled to its use, unless there is a specific agreement to the contrary. For 24 hours continuously, but a horse hired for "a day" could not be retained for more than 12 hours unless otherwise agreed, that 12 hours would run between sunrise and sunset, and it would be necessary to surrender the animal at sunset, no matter when it was taken out.

For general purposes, the law divides the 24-hour period into equal parts of "day" and "night," and assumes that the daylight hours are meant in the ordinary agreement. A man who contracts to deliver ice "once a day," for instance, is not required to do all of it during the daylight hours and at some reasonable and convenient time, but if a gas company reserved the right to shut off the gas for an hour "once each day" in order to make repairs, for instance, it could do so at any hour of the 24.

It is thus clear that it is no more possible to answer specifically the question, How long is a day? than the classical query, How large is a piece of chalk?—Kansas City Star.

Amateur Farmers.

Mr. D. A. Cameron, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, recently spoke of his Saturday evening discussions while seated on the boxes of the grocery store at Shanty Bay. Mr. Cameron said that, while he was regarded as a member of the banking profession, he also claimed to be a farmer, with a farm of about twenty acres on the shore of Lake Simcoe, not far from the home of Mr. Drury.

"I am not the only farmer in my class in that community," he said. "I have as neighbors Mr. Frank Ralph, Mr. Robert Cassels, Mr. W. R. Houston, Col. Peuchen, Col. Mason, Edson Moore, E. R. Hains, and Sir James Woods' two sons, and many others, and when we all shoot on harvest and bows in the grocery store at Shanty Bay, awaiting the arrival of the mail on Saturday evenings, we have many serious discussions about the wealthy problems of this country, and I may say to you that the harvest news of Shanty Bay as we are frequently described, are distinctly recited of the fact that one of our number has been chosen to fill the high and exalted position of Premier of this province."

Sister Cecile Chang, the first Chinese nun to take her vows in Canada, who is returning to work in her own land and Sister Mary, a heroic Montreal nun who is going to live for the rest of her life in a large Chinese leper colony, formed part of a notable little band of Roman Catholic sisters who left Montreal recently for work in far-off mission fields.

FORESTERS AT HOME TO THEIR FRIENDS

An Enjoyable Evening With Members of Court Moira No. 33.

Officers and members of Court Moira No. 32, Independent Order of Foresters were last evening at home to their many friends at the I.O.O.F. hall, Front street. There was a large attendance of members and visitors, and all had a most enjoyable time. In the early part of the evening a varied program was carried out and all taking part acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner. Bro. J. Hollis, Court Deputy, was chairman, and filled that position very acceptably. During the evening Bro. Harry Lloyd of Toronto, Deputy Chief Ranger, gave an address that was pleasing and instructive. He gave a general resume of the workings of the society, its aims and objects. Bro. W. G. Mikel, K.C., of this city, also gave an address, which was appreciated. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental selections. Mr. D. Dafoe, as a magician, amused all present with his numbers. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments in abundance were served, after which dancing was indulged in until the wee small hours of the morning. Music was furnished by Green's orchestra.

Try Magnesia For Stomach Trouble

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble as the cause does not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way as long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

J. HOLLEY,

Is Now a Healthy Boy

"From a puny, delicate child, my little Johnny has become a strong sturdy boy."

One mother writes—"If you had seen my little Johnny four months ago and you were to see him to-day, you would never believe that he is the same boy. Then he weighed only 68 pounds. To-day he weighs 98 pounds and I doubt if he weighed four pounds more. His freckled face started with a cold, which we never noticed because he was strong and like all mothers I dreaded coming cold. After a while we began to notice that his nose, instead of getting better, was getting worse, that he was looking pale and losing weight. He seemed to be tired all the time, had no energy to do anything. Before he caught this cold he was comfortable with his bowels and considered the head of his ailments without much study. But we began to notice a change. He didn't seem to care whether he knew his lessons or not and nothing seemed to interest him. He coughed so much and so hard at times that his face would become purple and we thought he would surely burst a blood vessel. Medicines and cough mixtures didn't do him any good. Finally, in desperation and as a last resort, we tried Carnol. In a short time his cough had almost disappeared. His appetite was returning and he was beginning to take an interest in his studies. And, thanks to Carnol, he has become as strong and healthy as he ever was."

Carnol is sold by your druggist and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it has not done you any good, return the empty bottle and he will refund your money. 1-12t

Seagull and Golf.

Every golfer knows the story of the Sussex man who was put off his play by the ship passing up and down the English channel, but there are other dangers than ships to a game on the seashore. Seagulls, to wit. One of these was being chipped on the green at Port Erin, Isle of Man, a seagull swooped down, seized the stationary ball and carried it off. After flying for about a hundred yards he quite dropped the ball, but at once recovered it, flew another hundred yards and dropped it again. Then the player came into his own. There was a proviso that might have served as a memorandum subject for newspaper correspondents in the future, one player argued that the ball should be played where it was dropped, another contended that as the ball had been dropped by an agency outside the game, it should be replaced where it originally lay. This was done, but there should be a definite ruling on the point. Seagull golf with any do for hazards may not do for all the golfing world.

Safety First.

The marines are notoriously able to live off the country, writes Mary Roberts Rinehart. In time of need they barely mention the surprising way in necessary, and most of us know the story of the little pickaninny in the cane field.

"Mammy, come and look at the soldiers coming!"

Mammy goes out and surveys the approaching ranks. Then she shouts to her offspring in shrill reproof-tion:

"Them ain't soldiers, honey. Them's marines. You come right on in and bring that dog in with you!"—The Leatherneck.

YEARLY STATEMENT A HUMAN DOCUMENT

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Makes Splendid Annual Report.

The business statement of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for 1921 contains interesting matter not generally found in the statement of a financial corporation. It relates to the human side of a great business. The company has over nine times that many billion, one hundred and fifteen million dollars and its policies outstand-ing number more than twenty-five and a half millions. Over 1,200,000 policies are held by Canadians. Many people have more than one policy, and the best estimate of the Company is that this number of policies insures, in round numbers, nineteen million individuals. As over twenty million of the policies are the so-called Industrial, which premiums are collected weekly by Agents who call at the policy-holders' hospes, this gives to a Company with the financial strength of the Metropolitan an opportunity for wealth and welfare work. The statement published shows how the Company has accepted this opportunity.

While the year 1921 in the popular mind is put down as a year of dull business, life insurance has been an exception. The Metropolitan again paid the largest amount of any company in the world in 1921 with $1,564,780,000 for insurance placed on the books. In addition it placed $364,450,000 annuities. Its assets increased more than one hundred and thirty million dollars, and its income was $30,403,000 more than it was in 1920.

The Metropolitan has a total investment in Canada amounting to nearly $71,000,000. This amount, added to that has been paid in death claims, matured endowments, annuities, expenses, exceeds by $31,000,000 the amount of premiums received by the Company from Canadian policy-holders.

For many years the Company's principal business was industrial—small weekly premiums collected by the workers of men of the United States and Canada, and their families. But latterly the Ordinary insurance, where the premiums are paid quarterly, semi-annually or annually, has so increased that the branch of the business now exceeds the industrial in amount.

In accepting the opportunity to wealth and welfare work the Company extended the long nursing service given to Industrial policy-holders to Ordinary policy-holders. It effective in 2,950 cities and towns in the United States and Canada, and the nurses have made 2,100,000 free visits to Canada, largely in co-operation with the Victorian Order of Nurses. Thousands of lives have been thus saved. Arrangements have been completed by which employers, insurance companies and individuals may receive the benefits of the nursing service and welfare litigation.

In making the weekly collections of premiums, the 16,000 Agents distributed booklets and pamphlets dealing with health matters, and in simple language how to avoid preventible diseases and what to do if the policy-holders are sick. More than twenty-five millions of these pamphlets were distributed in this way last year. The number distributed in Canada was 3,500,000.

In 1921, the death rate among Industrial policy-holders was 7.6 per 1,000, lowest point—31 per cent. lower than it was ten years previous. The rate has declined 50 per cent. since 1911. Prevent.; from tuberculosis, 43 per cent.; from Bright's disease, nearly 30 per cent.; and from all other causes, children nearly 37 per cent. The records kept by the Company show that there occurred 491,000 deaths, 191,000 less than there could have been if the 1911 death rate prevailed. While there has been a general public health movement and notable progress in medical science and sanitation, the improvement is in part, there is evidence that a considerable factor in reducing the death rate among policyholders of the Company has been the widespread health campaign carried on by the Company.

The Metropolitan announces its intention to continue its best efforts for the improvement of health, and the consequent saving of life, recognizing that the confidence which the people have in the Company gives it still greater opportunity to serve them, not only in insurance protection, but in the promotion of life. Those who have the management of big finances believe that great opportunity brings great responsibility.

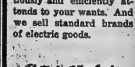

AUTHOR OF "20TH FLANE" DENOUNCES SPIRITUALISM

Toronto, April 6.—Arthur D. Vennard, a former president of the Toronto Society for Psychical Research, author of "The 20th Plane" and "Life Through Death," has changed his views in spiritualism. Sometime ago he was announced that he had several relations with Louis Benjamin, the medium made known by the "Twentieth Plane". Now Dr. Watson expresses the opinion that messages from mediums are usually unreliable or "faked", and that exercise in spiritism is positively dangerous to health. He will write another book giving expression to his revised opinions.

Rex Beach is a Novelist Who Finds That His Tales Are Better in the Movies

The moving pictures have been absorbing a great many minor writers of fiction in the United States, several of the men who were once well known as fourth-rate novelists having now settled down among the dramatic writers who are making a good living out of the preparation of plays for the screen. Probably the most known of this group of writers is Rex Beach, with Rupert Hughes a close second. There was a time when the friends of Rupert Hughes hoped that he might some day do a big piece of work as a writer, but as the years went on, they began to realize that he was in the business to make a living. At last he went into the movies, and during the past two years he has been writing at the same pace as a romantic writer than he ever possessed as a novelist.

But Rex Beach has gone further than the movie game than Rupert Hughes because he got into it first. Rex Beach won his popularity as a novelist in the days before the movies were a power in the land. It is nearly twenty years ago now since his series of Western novels, "The Spoilers," "The Barrier," and "The Silver Horde," made their way into the best sellers. He was one of the first of the successful writers of the hoch-bloed-and-cold-steel school of fiction. His novels were also among the first of the stories to be used for the Wild West films. It was that success which caused him to turn almost entirely from the making of fiction to the making of pictures. As a matter of fact, Rex Beach was always better as a creator of incident than as a handler of the English language, and that is the reason why he has never bothered on the silver sheet than between book covers.

It looks as though the time is not far distant when there will be a sharp division between the American novelists who write for readers and those who write for moving picture producers. The authors' association of that country took action some time ago in the matter. They were angry with a certain type of publisher and editor who refuses to consider stories unless they are suitable for screen production, after they have been run in magazine or book form. After all, there ought to be a great difference between stories written for the library and those written for the movies. Anybody can see the difference between Mrs. Wharton and Mr. Rex Beach.

It is to be hoped that no person has read this little article through under the impression that Rex Beach is a summer resort.

Old Homes.

Several houses complete in every detail, dating from the sixteenth century, have recently been transferred to the United States from England. An English firm makes a specialty of selling these houses and keeps a number of them on hand in its show place near London for inspection. When an old house is to be torn down to make room for modern improvement, the building is bought in, usually for a nominal sum, and every brick carefully taken apart. It is rebuilt in the show place near London ready for the inspection of prospective. If it is bought by an American, for instance, the house is once more taken down and packed with care for shipment. The bricks, and all the parts, so that the woodwork, will not be injured. The English builders usually come to America to see that the house is exactly as it originally stood in England. In some instances these old houses have been surrounded with English, gardens, reproducing the original setting in England of centuries past.

How Old Masters Worked.

A Brazilian art scholar asserts he has discovered how the old masters of painting and sculpture worked. He has taken the pictures and shown, by drawing lines and angles on them, how the artists gave their compositions strictly mathematical foundations. Ancient Egyptian artists had a rule of proportions based on the length of the middle finger, the distance of which was contained nineteen times in the length of the whole body. Greek artists adopted these proportions until it was established that the face must be a tenth part and the head an eighth part of the total height of the body. The face was divided into three equal parts—from the roots of the hair to the root of the nose; from the root of the nose to its point, and from the end of the nose to the chin.

The hair worn by women in 4,000 B.C. is stated to be very similar to modern worn to-day.

History of Domestic Cat

Small fitness about a "cat" is a kitten, and maiden ladies prefer the cat to the dog as a companion, the original and early subject of Felis domestica will be of interest. In the Contemporary Review Arlene Gould Stevens writes about "The Coming of the Cat." The coming of the dog would be a more difficult subject, for it dates back so far as the time when man could bring up and discipline a wolf's cub there were dogs. The Egyptians made much of cats, protected and worshipped them. But Herodotus says that Egyptian families went into mourning when a dog died. However, Mr. Strong says nothing about that. His subject is the cat. He is inclined to think that if the Egyptians had domesticated the mongoose, that animal would now be sitting on the hearth or sunning itself on the garden wall. He insists that the cat in ancient Egypt was really sacred, not nominally so. Diodorus is quoted as an authority for the statement that cats dying in a natural calamity were brought home for burial, although the soldiers might be on short rations, enduring frightful privations.

After the Romans conquered Egypt, they, with their usual sagacity, tolerated cat love and worship. Diodorus tells the story of a mob tearing a Roman soldier "to pieces" because he had accidentally slain a cat. An office of Keeper of Cats was hereditary. The Turks adopted Felis domestica. In Constantinople cats are fed by order of the Kadi. According to Lane, translator of the Arabian Nights, the Sultan Ez-Zahir Beybars founded a home for cats in a garden near his mosque. It must be admitted that the Constantinople cat's consideration for cats was not so tender. There can be no doubt that the Egyptians were a persistent and patient people, for we should probably have no domestic cat to-day if they had not adopted Felis caffra, the wild cat of the desert, and trained the progeny for generations. This appears to be settled, although there are scientists who point out that the color of the fur on the under surfaces of the wild cat's foot is yellow to the knee, while that of the domestic cat is generally black.

There are said to be 100 different breeds of cat now, but who can believe that the domestic cat was once a tame, comfort and discreet animal, clean in its habits, wise of counsel, a great friend to philosophical meditation? It is significant that the domestic cat mates with the wild cat in all countries, so that pedigree becomes a hazy thing, and, in the township of Ludlow, Vt., a woman used to mate white cats with black, which she had brought up on the bottle, says the New York Times. Her self-styled discovered them in a hollow log in a mountain pasture by four little cats, who were open. They slept in her lap and submitted to feeding until they were old and fine as Airedale dog, but eventually they took to the woods and became wild. The domestic cat was evolved only after a long, many generations of selective test and unremitting care. Mr. Strong finds that the Egyptians did not become a "familiar figure" in Europe until the Middle Ages or the Christian era. It was imported from Egypt. When it was first actually revealed Britain about A. D. 426 the family cat was performing tricks on the fiddle. Only about 500 years later before the cat got into the statute book.

In 936 Hywal Dda, Prince of South Wales, had a law enacted for the protection of cats. It seems that the Romans did not hold the cat in high esteem, for while "fragments of horses, and dogs' bones" have been found in the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum, remains of the cat were absent. A. Nehring's researches are not mentioned by the writer. The Berlin investigator came to the conclusion that the domestic cat is of dual descent, one branch coming from Southeastern Asia and the other from Southeastern Europe. The Persian or Angora cat is nothing like the Egyptian variety, and then there is the tawny cat of Siam, which Mr. Strong considers to be of mixed race, there may be a distinct type of domestic cat in Siam, as there is in the Canada lynx. In Paraguay they have a very small cat, three pounds is the average weight, which never caterwauls.

It is supposed to be descended from the Jaguarondi. A cat that goes for most birds without blood on the tiles by light of the moon would be a very unsatisfactory pet. Breeders should not neglect the Paraguay species, Mr. Strong has collected some agreeable etymological data. For instance, the Syrian who cares for cats is the Northwestern India and from Northwestern India and brought cats with them called the Persian cat. This form," we are told, "seems to tally with the Egyptian pusha or bast, and hence puss, the term of endearment. The Greek word for cat is ailouros, or ailuros, "an obvious onomatopoetic." Apparently we owe the word cat to the Romans. They called the animal "catus," which means "to catch one," and the word passed into the Romance languages as cat and gato.

"THE GREAT IMPERSONATION"

GRIPPING MYSTERY PLAY AT GRIFFIN'S TO-NIGHT

George Melford, whose special Paramount productions have a world wide reputation, is responsible for the superb production of "The Great Impersonation," the E. Phillips Oppenheim story featuring James Kirkwood which is the feature attraction at Griffin's tonight, and Saturday, matinee and night.

Mr. Oppenheim writes for a big public—probably one of the largest claimed by any English or American author. "The Great Impersonation" is one of his latest tales of mystery, and intrigue, and it has already gone through several editions. The plot deals with a mysterious air-man who is identified and re-connected with incidents immediately preceding the Great War. There are many exciting and various scenes which include episodes in German East Africa, the Royal Court of Berlin and the social drawing room of an English mansion.

James Kirkwood, the featured player, has a dual role, appearing both as an Englishman and as a German. In the leading feminine role is Ann Forrest, while Alan Hale, remembered for his fine work in the stage play "Friendly Enemies" by Lawrence Grant. Others in the cast are Pontaine LaRue, Beriram Johns, Winter Hall and Truly Shattuck.

"Dull Care" a two reel Larry Semon comedy, a new chapter of the popular serial "Pearls of the West", and Pathe News are being exhibited on the same program.

A Business Statement that is a Great Human Record

HOW WAS IT DONE?

Records kept by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its Industrial, or weekly premium, policy-holders. Comparing 1921 with 1911, for example, there were 35,000 less deaths in 1921 than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

What brought about the great saving of life?

The general public health movement—progress in medical science and sanitation—other causes, perhaps. But a very great factor has been the tremendous health campaign carried on by the Metropolitan itself. This page tells a part of the story.

HELPING 19,000,000 PEOPLE

About 19,000,000 people are insured in the Metropolitan—over 16,000,000 under weekly premium contracts like policies. The weekly calls of Agents at the policyholders' homes provide a wonderful opportunity for health and welfare work.

The Company has accepted the opportunity and to-day is at the forefront of public health work in the United States and Canada.

14,693,000 VISITS BY TRAINED NURSES

Free nursing service is given to Industrial policy-holders in 2,600 cities and towns. Trained nurses not only heal the sick but teach right living. About 14,000,000 visits have been made—2,116,875 in 1921. Numerous letters tell of lives saved.

In CANADA alone, Metropolitan nurses, largely in cooperation with the Victorian Order of Nurses, paid 201,883 visits free of charge in 1921.

DISCOVERING DISEASE IN TIME

Free medical examinations, often double the chance of incipient disease is cured, it, are granted to Ordinary (annual premium) policy-holders, subject to reasonable conditions.

HELPING THE EMPLOYER TO HELP

Employers insuring their employees under Group policies are advised regarding health conditions and accident prevention, while the local boards of health in eight esteem, for while "fragments of horses, and dogs' bones" have been found in the ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum, remains of the cat were absent. 238,000,000 PIECES OF LITERATURE

Attractive booklets and pamphlets in great variety, dealing with the important phases of health and disease, and prepared by leading experts, are distributed broadcast. Over 238,000,000 copies have been distributed—25,000,000 in 1921. The number distributed in CANADA in 1921 was nearly 3,500,000.

In addition, 18,000,000 copies of The Metropolitan, a health magazine, are issued annually—1,500,000 copies, in English and French, being distributed in Canada.

A CITY THAT IS WATCHED

In Framingham, Mass., the Metropolitan is leading the way in a great experiment, watched by health authorities everywhere, to demonstrate what proper community health regulation can do. Deaths per annum from tuberculosis have dropped from 131 per 100,000 to 60.

FOR THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

144 health exhibits and demonstrations; 4,000 county fairs last year; 295 "Clean-up" campaigns; agitation by Agents for health reforms; widespread campaigns against special diseases; sickness and sanitary surveys; a study of municipal health departments; leadership of practically all American research work relating to influenza—these are some instances of the Metropolitan's activity in the interest of public health.

GREAT DECLINE IN DEATH RATES.

The death rate among Industrial policy-holders reached its lowest point in 1921—31.9% lower than in 1911. The rate from typhoid decreased 71%; tuberculosis, 49%; Bright's disease nearly 30%; infectious diseases of children nearly 37%. The "Expectation of Life" of white males (reckoned from age 10 increased 4 years.

PUBLIC APPRECIATION.

The people of the United States and Canada have made the Metropolitan the greatest life insurance company in the world, with 7,005,707,839 insurance in force.

It leads not only in Industrial but in Ordinary. More than half of its business is in force in Ordinary—$3,892,267,274 — which is more than that of any Company in the world.

About 68% of its Canadian business is Ordinary—$258,624,270 at the end of 1921.

NO MONEY TAKEN OUT OF CANADA—A REAL CANADIAN COMPANY.

The Metropolitan's total investment in Canada at the end of 1921 was nearly $71,000,000. This was added to the amount paid to death claims, matured endowments, dividends and other payments to policy-holders, and in addition thereto payments to Canadians for administration expenses and taxes since the Metropolitan company commenced business in Canada, November 1885, exceeds $31,000,000 the amount received by the Company in premiums from Canadian policyholders.

THE FUTURE.

The Metropolitan will continue its endeavor to offer the best there is in life insurance, and to save human life. Continued growth will give the Company still greater opportunities for service in insurance protection and in the conservation of life and health.

Royal Honors Often Declined

It may be that when Mr. Balfour declined the offer of the King to make him a Knight of the Garter he thereby opened the way for Viscount Lascelles to receive this honor, since the late Marquis was then only twenty-five, and it is not often that there is more than one vacancy at a time. If the only vacancy was that filled by the bestowal of the honor upon the viscount, the compliment preferred by King George is intensified, since the acceptance by Mr. Balfour would have made it impossible to confer this dignity upon his Majesty's son-in-law. The only royal honor Mr. Balfour has so far accepted is that of membership in the Order of Merit, and he chose this, perhaps, because it seemed to be a recognition of his scientific and literary labors, rather than those directly connected with politics. That he should have declined a dukedom was not surprising, for at least twice before an "offer" of one has come from King Edward and again from King George. Despite the considerable backing the hereditary character of the honor had no charm for Mr. Balfour, and he remains plain "Mister," he is surely in goodly company.

Thrice did Joseph Chamberlain refuse peerages, simply from pride in his own name, which he had made a household word throughout the Empire. He had plenty of money with which to support the rank and is family to inherit it, but he pointedly refused when urged by King Edward to accept a peerage. When he passed away, we learn, on the authority of Mr. Garvin, Owen, C.H.E., that a unique honor was paid to his widow, who was the birth air American. She was urged by King George to accept a peerage in her own right in recognition of her husband's great services, and also in her own loving care during the long period that he was as helpless as a child through infirmities which nevertheless left his mind keen to the last and his interest in public affairs unabated. But Mrs. Chamberlain declined again on the ground that, since her husband had declined the honor from the present sovereign, she would be only deferring to his views by following his example. No doubt Mr. Austen Chamberlain can have an earldom any time he cares for one.

Though Queen Victoria had no great admiration for Mr. Gladstone, she twice offered him a peerage. The Queen was only following precedent in making the offer, since on each occasion the Grand Old Man resigned the Premiership and announced his intention of entering private life. The first offer, it is said, he accepted in principle and made it known that he purposed to assume the style of Earl of Liverpool because he had long family and political affiliations with that city. When this became known to Lord Hawkesbury, who was at that time Lord Steward of the Royal Household and him to royal favor, he filed objections on one ground that, little belonged to his mother's father, and that through this relationship he had a certain claim upon it. Since it is an unwritten law that no peer should assume a title which has belonged to a family still in existence and which may therefore be revived for one of its members, Lord Hawkesbury prevailed. Since he could not have this title, Mr. Gladstone would have no other.

A curious reason prompted Sir Edward Malet, for long British Ambassador at Berlin, to decline a peerage. His wife was a daughter of the former Duke of Norfolk, and she retained her rank as a duke's daughter, since for purposes of etiquette, knights and baronets are considered commoners. Lady Malet, therefore, cherished the wives and daughters of all earls, viscounts and barons, whereas if her husband had become an earl, she would have lost this precedence and would have had to take a lowly position as the wife of a newly-fledged earl. Sir Edward Malet could well afford to forego the honor for another reason. His family is one of the noblest in England, and he was able to show descent in the direct male line from Sir Robert Malet, cousin and ally of William the Conqueror and King Harold. Peerages have been declined more than once because those offered them did not have the money to maintain the dignity worthily, and doubtless that they would be able to leave a sufficient fortune for their descendants to support a title. It is on this account that most of the great lawyers in England, who are raised to the peerage as Lords for their services as judges, accept only life peerages, in order that their descendants may not be burdened with great expense and be practically debarred from their more valuable professions.

But to decline the Order of the Garter is much more than to decline a peerage, and the honor was a particular one in the case of Mr. Balfour, because in the last two centuries it has only been bestowed upon two commoners, Robert Walpole being one and Sir Robert Peel the other. It is true that both were raised to the peerage shortly afterward. One notable instance is cited by Mr. Melville Owen. It was offered to the Earl of Brownlow, a territorial magnate of great wealth and sense of public duty and usefulness. He asked to be excused on the ground that he had merely done his duty and that there were others of greater merit on whom it might more properly be bestowed.

Peat as Fuel.

Next to coal, peat is the best possible fuel, and is cheaper than wood and gives more heat.

Bairnsfather.

The idea of "Old Bill," "Fragments from France," and "The Bystander 'Ole," said Captain Bruce Bairnsfather at the London Playgoers' Club rose from sheer pain. He sat in the mud and got so frenzied that his feelings broke out in picture form. He drew sketches of the sergeants and officers sitting round him, which the men stuck up in their dug-outs.

The colonel, the divisional commander and other officers, said, "B. B." got hold of his drawings, and it was bruited about that there was an eccentric lunatic in the trenches drawing pictures.

WEAVERS WON FAME.

They Were Pioneers of a Mighty Cooperative Store.

Over seventy years ago, in 1844, in a small house in Rochdale, England, twenty-eight working weavers met together and founded the first cooperative store.

Each of the weavers had saved a few pounds, a store was built in the house of one of the members in "Toad Lane, Rochdale, and the money was invested in the purchase of flour, oatmeal, butter, sugar and candles, which were placed on sale among themselves.

The idea underlying the venture was that the goods should be sold at market prices, that profits be divided in proportion to purchases, that members should pay subscriptions to capital in quarterly instalments, and that interest be set at ten per cent. be paid.

It was not long before the business extended. In succeeding years a store was opened for the sale of linen and woollen goods; then the society started to sell meat, bakeries were built, and very soon half-a-dozen branch stores were opened in the town. By this time the original house in Toad Lane had been superseded by a large central store, with library and reading-room combined.

Other towns and cities throughout the Midlands and the North soon followed suit, and in 1863, nearly forty years after the first store was opened, there were 1,051 societies in existence.

Both was the romance of the great co-operative movement in England which took has a membership of 4,111,477, a vast increase from 1863, when the total was 627,625. From a very small beginning sprang the profits have grown greatly, while the amount of sales to-day has reached the high figure of £198,930,437.

A Strange Letter.

An Oxford character familiar to several generations of undergraduates—of those at least who made any serious study of modern languages—has passed away by the death at Darmstadt, of Dr. Heinrich Krebs, at the age of 77. He was appointed librarian of the Taylor Institution in 1871 and continued to hold that office until the present year.

Dr. Krebs one day saw in the papers an announcement of the death of Mr. Charles Neate, a former M.P. for Oxford City. At the time Mr. Neate happened to have a book out from the Taylorian. The librarian was puzzled for a while as to how he should get it back. Finally he wrote a letter somewhat in this fashion:

"Dear Sir,—I understand that you have no further use for ..... (mentioning the name of the book) which you have taken out from this library. I shall, therefore, be much obliged if you will kindly return it to me at your earliest convenience."

He then addressed the letter to "the late Charles Neate, Esq.," and sent it to the house where the body of the deceased borrower was awaiting burial.

ROBBED OF HIS SAVINGS

WHEN LEAVING FOR RUSSIA

Montreal, April 4.—While he was away saying good-by to some friends on the eve of his departure for Russia, burglars entered the room of Alfred Ranlarance, 679 Pontenac street, and carried off his packed trunk, containing all his money, 1,200, together with his ticket to his native country. The money represented the savings of ten years of toil in Canada. The robbers, it was discovered, entered and left the room by the window.

Exchange—One should always wear a smile at breakfast—that much, at least.

A Twentieth Century Industry

A GENERATION ago no one would have looked upon paperboard as an article of prime importance.

To-day if the paperboard industry ceased operation, almost every line of business would be instantly affected.

Practically every article of consumption, wearing apparel and use in our every-day life is put up, shipped or delivered in a paperboard package.

The largest concern in Canada making paperboard is the Canadian Paperboard Company, Limited, with mills at Frankford and Campbellford, Ont., and Montreal, Que.

An offering will be made shortly of the First Mortgage Bonds of this Company, providing a security of unusual merit, yielding an attractive income. Write for full information.

FOUNDER OF A GREAT CANADIAN INDUSTRY

Originator of the whole vast organization of E. B. Eddy Co. of Hull, largest wares/manufacturers of matches (180,000,000 a day), paper (125 tons a day), paper bags (over 1,000,000 a day), industrial fibre ware, wood pulp, absorbing and sanitable, in the British Empire.

Every process of manufacture and packing is carried out in the great industrial establishment he founded and brought to completion.

75 Acres of Canadian Plant equipment operated by Canadian capital, the profits kept in Canada for the development of Canadian industries. Eddy reserve totals 1,500 square miles of Canadian forest lands. The power Eddy generates 12,000 horse power.

Eddy's pays over $50,000 in Easter Taxes to the Dominion Government every week. Its pay-roll for over 5,000 workers amounts to over $3,500,000.

Ezra Butler Eddy
1827 - 1906

INSPIRED by an ideal of match value and match service, 71 years ago, in 1851, he began making matches with his own hands in a little rented shack at Hull.

Driving his only horse and wagon, he travelled the country-side, selling his matches as far as Toronto.

To realize his vision of the Canadian pine forest perfecting the vital function of lighting Canada's way on its road to progress, each log supplying a million lights, each a little bit of Canada doing its duty, he herded the logs and harnessed the Chaudière Falls.

A score of times he faced devastating fires. Financial difficulties that would have overcome a less resourceful and indomitable courage were conquered. His progress never faltered.

In the fullness of years, his products improved by every invention known to science (many conceived in the fertile brain of his trusty lieutenant), he passed to his reward. Yet his spirit goes marching on. The fire and force of his example still remain. Inspired by his unflagging zeal and resourcefulness, his assistants in the early days carry on the great Eddy tradition — "the most of the best for the money." The Eddy ideal of match value and match service still prevails!

THE LIGHT IN THE CLEARING

I have lived to see the ancient plan of ostracism, for self-protection, completely foster the world. I have seen that the will and conscience of every individual shall be ignored and controlled by some conceited prince, backed by an army. It cannot fail, I should say, according to such observation in the human spirit as shall inspire the masses to such dominion of men.

If one is to follow the compass he can have but one ship—his God.

* * * * * * *

I am near the end. I rode back to Baltimore by that famous train that nominated Mr. Polk of Tennessee for president and Silas Wright for vice president. I was a boy of fifteen and Silas Wright would decline the honor, as he did.

I hurried northward to keep my appointment with Sally. The boats were slowed by fog. A visionary I seem also behind my schedule. I should have only an hour's leeway if the boats on the upper lakes and the stage from Plattsburg were on time. I feared to trust Sally to the care of the westbound train and reached Utica three hours late. There I bought a good horse and his saddle and bridle and hurried up the north road. When he was near enough I hailed him for a ride with Morgan mare up in the little village of Sandy Creek. Oh, I have a good horse as well as the next man and a better one than she I had borrowed over. I was back in my saddle at six in the afternoon and stopped for feed and an hour's rest at nine and rode on through the night. I reached the hamlet of Richville soon after daybreak and put out for a rest of two hours. I could take it easy then. At seven o'clock the mare and I started again, well-fed and eager to go on.

It was a summer morning that aborned the read—even that of the young lover. Its air was sweet with the breath of the meadows. The dawn and the clever and the cornflowers and the wild roses seemed to be waving a welcome to me, and the thousand—shapely ornament of my native hills—were, in heaven. As the sun's pigeons swept across the blue deep above my head. The great choir of the fields sang to me—bobolinks, song-sparrows, meadowlarks, bluebirds, warblers, wrens, and far away in the edge of a spruce thicket I heard the flute of the white-throated sparrow.

I bathed at a brook in the woods and put on a clean silk shirt and the coat of my saddlebags. I rode slowly then to the edge of the village of Canton and turned at the bridge and took the river road, although I had time to spare, for my heart was beating as I heard the familiar scene! The river slowed its pace there, like a discerning traveler, to enjoy the view of its shores. Smooth and silent was that water and in it were the hills of the sky and the feathery shadow-spires of cedar and tamarack and the reflected of blossoms of iris and waterlily. It was a lovely scene.

"There was the lake, but where was my lady? I dismounted and tied my mare and looked at my watch. It lacked twenty minutes to eleven. I would come—I had no doubt of it. I rubbed my hands and face and waited in the cool water. Suddenly I heard a voice I knew singing: "Barney Carry the Girls Alone." I turned and saw—your mother, my son. Those last lines were directed to the mare. She was in the stern of a birch canoe, all dressed in white with roses in her hair. I raised my hat and she threw a kiss at me. Old Kate sat in the bow waving her handkerchief. They stopped and Sally asked in a tone of playful assurance:

"Young man, why have you come here?"

"To get you," I answered.

"What do you want of me?" She was looking at her face in the water.

"I want to marry you," I answered bravely.

Then you may help me bestow it you please. I am in my best, white

"Then You May Help Me Bestow It, If You Please."

slippery and you are to be very careful."

Beautiful! She was the spirit of the fields of June then and always.

I helped her ashore and held her in my arms and, you know, the lips have a way of speaking then in the old, comprising, final argument of love. They left no doubt in our hearts, my son.

"When do you wish to marry me?" she whispered.

"As soon as possible, but my pay is only sixty dollars a month now."

"We shall make it do," she answered. "My mother will provide your aunt and uncle and the Hackets and the minister and a number of our friends are coming in a fleet of boats."

"We are prepared either for a picnic or a wedding," was the whisper of Kate.

"Let's make it both," I proposed to Sally.

"Surely there couldn't be a better place than here, could there, Kate?" she asked in smooth and soft and steady, mild, she.

"She could there be a better day or better company," I urged, for I was not sure that she would consent.

The boats came along. Sally and I waved a welcome from the bank and we merrily followed.

"It's to be a wedding," —

Then a shout from the boats, in which I joined.

I shall never forget her, when the company had arrived and the greetings were over. Uncle Peabody approached your mother and he said:

"Say, Sally, I'm goin' to plank a kiss on both o' them red cheeks o' yours, or do it deliberatin, too."

He did it and so did Aunt Noel and Aunt Kate, and then I, and then I, and your mother and me, they were the happiest people at the wedding.

* * * * * * *

There is a lonely grave up in the Adirondacks at the foot of Whiteface on long ago on Rattlerood. One day I found old Kate sitting beside it and she told me that she was to have the name, Enoch Rose.

"It is very sorrowful," she whispered. "He was trying to find me when he died."

We waited as in silence while I recalled the circumstances. How strange that those tales of blood and bitter farting which Kate had given to Anne Grimshaw had led to the slaying of her own son! Yet, as it happened, and the old wives will tell you the world up there in the hills.

The play ends just as the night is falling with Kate and me entering the cabin where your mother now lives and is ever welcome with Aunt Noel and Uncle Peabody. The latter meets us at the door and is saying in a cheerful voice:

"Come in to supper, you rovers. How solemn ye look! Say, if you married Sally and was to call the laughin' here you're mistaken. There's a lot of it to be done right now, an' it's time you Pixed to. We have some moths' but laugh since we got up, an' you're in need o' help. What's the matter, Kate? Look up at the light in God's window! How could it shine would if when I feel bad I always look at the stars."

THE END.

CALLED MODERN ST. FRANCIS

Charles Caleb Pierce Tramped and Preached Throughout 42 Years—Welcomed Everywhere.

Memories of a host of picturesque figures in the history of California are revived by the centennial of the missionary society of the Episcopal church, which was celebrated November 8. The initial gun was fired in that morning in January, 1846, when Jim Marshall picked up some bits of yellow metal in the tail-race below Sutter's mill up in the Sacramento valley, and shouted "Eureka!" like the shot fired at Lexington, was heard round the world. The rush of the '49ers followed, and in the vanguard was Rev. Flavel Scott Mines, who erected the first church building on the Pacific coast, Trinity church, San Francisco, which was opened on October 28, 1849.

Probably no name has a more lasting place in California annals, however, than that of Charles Caleb Pierce, called by Bishop Moreland "a modern St. Francis," who, beginning his missionary career in 1861, devoted his life to the people of El Dorado county. Without private means and scorning to accept a salary, Pierce established headquarters in a rude parish church at Placerville. Sunday always found him there. Regularly each Monday morning he packed his bag with religious literature and "hit the trail." Six days a week, rain or shine, rain or out, he walked over the county, averaging 60 miles each week, every house his home, a place at the table of whatever house he visited or a spare bed always being certain wherever he happened to be. He always traveled on foot. His charity was unbounded, and he was the friend and helper of all.

For 42 years he tramped and preached about El Dorado county, and in all that time he never left the county but twice, and on both occasions against his will. Then, March 13, 1903, the news flashed through the county, "Father Pierce is dead!" Universal mourning followed.

Hogs Plow Orchard.

Hogs take the place of plows and harrow in the cultivation of one of the best producing small apple orchards in Ontario. Most orchardists plow and replow and harrow and ditch the land between the rows of trees. J. W. Tuttle of Currie merely turns in a drove of hogs.

"When I bought my farm, four years ago," said Mr. Tuttle, "the orchard had been allowed to grow wild. I gathered only three bags of apples that fall. In the spring I sprayed and pruned the trees and turned 20 hogs into the orchard. They rooted for their living all summer.

"By fall every foot of soil had been turned up by their snouts. The land looked as if it had been plowed. And it had, for these four-legged plows had done a thorough job and had gone as deep as a plowshare. I gathered 21 barrels of apples that season. That was the direct result of plowing and manuring my land with hogs.

"Next year I got 83 barrels and the third year 205 barrels. This year I have more than 200 barrels."—Detroit News.

THE KHAN, IN TORONTO TELEGRAM

THE RITES OF IT.

I love a Jew and I will tell you why!
Spoil the Egyptians!
You never heard of a Jew robbing a son of Isaac because every Hebrew is a dead game sport.
There's where they put it all over us like a pavilion. There be millions of folks here on earth who are not man enough to rob anybody but their friends, but they are not Jews Nosir! They are not Jews!
There are a few among us whom you can trust as far as you can throw a bull by the tail. If you will sit down a minute I will explain how this happens. For two thousand years the Jew has been an outcast, an outlaw, more than without a home, a country, with a bounty on his head like a wolf. For centuries the only city of refuge was Britain, and thither he fled. The genius of old England for centuries have predicted, prophesied, prayed for, hoped for her fall. It is hard to understand why she didn't fall. There is no apparent reason why she should not have gone to pieces and the other pieces, but unless mine eyes deceive me, she is there yet, doing business at the old stand. This is not hieroglyphics—I'm plain. The Lord never shuts a door but He opens another. Pass that in your hat. There would never have been a British Empire had it not been for Judea. When He shut them out of the land flowing with milk and honey, He opened a gate in an Invisible and Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego escaped into the temperate zone. And a son of Shadrach, became Prime Minister of England, even as Joseph ruled in Egypt. A descendant of Meshach is Viceroy of India, more potent than a thousand rajahs, and undarajahs and them some. And a descendant of Abednego walks with the common people and he is well off.

It is the most natural thing in the world when there are not enough men to go round for the girls to marry outside the tribe. And that's what they did. The fathers tried to prevent it. The rabbis protested. Aw, what's the use? It's a girl—and a Jewish girl isn't a shit different from the rest—if a girl loves you, she'll marry you, by heckers, even though the heavens fall. I've been there, I know all about it, and I assure you I'm not talking through my hat.

There was more of this than you think.

I have a great old book in my library and it is adorned with wonderful pictures of Sarah and Rebecca, of Judith and Esther, of Miriam and Mary. Every now and then on the highway, on a street car, in a theatre, at the Island or on the beach, I am startled by a living Esther, an imposing Deborah, a superb Rachel. Somewhere in their veins runs the blood of the ancient and chosen people—for blood will tell!

Did I say there were men, as straight as a ramrod? If there isn't a drop of Jewish blood in them somewhere, I miss my guess. It's great! And there is no such a thing as dog eat dog among the Jews and that's what's the matter with the Gentiles. Jew's families and people and nations flounder, each other. Wolf eat wolf. It ain't not the way of the Jew. When Sennacherib wanted a gold or silver ornament he didn't rob Meshach or go there and demand a trunk. Not or go there and demand a trunk. Not he spoiled the Egyptians. That's it—he spoiled the Egyptians!

Let us learn a lesson from this. If we are going to rob people, let it not be each other.

How many give there who will tell you that they were despoiled by their room mate, relied by those they love? The wretch! is that did this could not work it on an Egyptian, they go to do their own people, dirt. Folk whom by every right they should have cherished and protected. Them are men around us who are raiding in wealth, but it can't be said of them that they robbed the Egyptians. They plundered their old aunt, they beggared their brothers and they pauperized their sisters, their cousins and their aunts.

A Jew wouldn't do that. I said it before and I say it again—there's too much dog eat dog in this country. If you want to spoil some one—spoil the Egyptians!

PLAY GOOD POLO

Indian Beggars Are Adepts at "Rich Man's Game."

Have Their Own Rules, but Are Able to Give British Officers "Run for Their Money"

Polo is supposed to be a rich man's game, but go to Gilgit, in Kashmir, the original home of Indian polo, and there you will see it played on even bigger ground—and played well.

The great game was brought to India centuries ago by the Persians, the countrymen of Omar, who according to FitzGerald, mentioned his national game in his poetry.

Gilgit, a tiny Indian frontier town, boasts of being the first home of polo in the empire, and there they play it as it was played by those old Persian sportsmen.

You need be no millionaire to be a polo enthusiast in Gilgit. You need not order your breeches in Saville row nor buy your ponies at Tattersall's to play it as it is played there. All you require is a ground—and that every native peasant possesses—and a stick, which you will probably make out of cane with your own hands.

On polo days the glad news that a game is about to begin is announced by some one shouting it in the village. Soon all the lads of the village appear with their ponies and, with sticks in hands high and with the oddest collection of saddles ever seen. Some of these saddles look more like thatched straw mattresses from which pieces have been hacked to fit the pony's back.

Whether the riders be clothed or not matters little, for they are all bareheaded, and the game is played on the ground as much as possible.

The game is played with an almost unlimited number of players on either side, and the polo ground is the main road. There is no goal posts. A spot at each end of the polo ground serves as such, and the game is played side by side, but until one side has scored nine goals or until both teams are utterly exhausted.

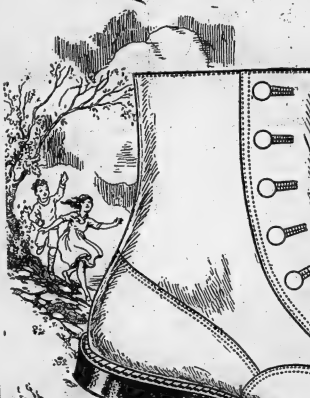

The sticks at Gilgit differ both in shape and material from those generally used. They are fashioned out of cane and are L-shaped rather than T-shaped as those used at Hurlingham.

They are also made without a polo-ed end to their heads, and have no straps to slip over the wrist. Any player is allowed to pick up the ball at any time he likes and immediately fling it as far as possible toward the goal. This procedure, which might annoy the umpires at Hurlingham, is made possible by the size of the ponies.

There are three native teams at Gilgit, the best of which plays against the British officers stationed there, and among which are some very fine players. On tournament days prizes are uniformly the same. The British officers always contribute 200 cartridges and the second of four blanket overcoats.

There is some difference between the polo played up and down the steep street of Gilgit and that played by native beggars on horseback—many half naked and in rough homespuns and dirges—and it is played on the smooth and noble turf of Hurlingham.... Yet men who know both say that as better game exists than that which is played during long, heat-laden afternoons up and down that dust-embedded street.

WELCOMING BACK THE PINAFORE

When grandma was a little girl she wore crisp white "pinafores" to protect her frocks. Today the children's pinafore has come back—but instead of its being white, it is fashioned of bright cretonne or of worn ties with bands and "patch" pockets of "teddy bear" stamped goods.

This is a sensible clothes. For, as all-white apron requires, too much laundering to make it a practical garment for a child. Then, too, the modern colored aprons for little folks are prettier and gayer than the old-time plain white ones—and childhood is the happy time when bright colors seem a natural accompaniment to romps and fairy tales and all the other carefree activities of our early years.

I am going to describe for my Reader Mothers several aprons which some of my friends have recently made for their little girls to wear this Spring and Summer. All of these aprons were made without patterns, were simply originated by these clever mothers who could not afford to buy their children ready-made aprons in the shops. If the Reader cannot make a garment without a pattern to guide her, she can buy a simple apron-pattern; or she can make her own apron-pattern by pinning pieces of newspaper together on the child.

An Apron for the Little Cook: This apron was made for a child who likes to play Mother-cook. It was made of light colors so that when the little girl sifted flour, in baking, the flour dust would not show up too much—as it would on a dark blue material, for instance. The body of the apron was of white muslin with bands of bright yellow across the hem, around the low cut neck, and on the pocket-tops. Appliqued on these broad yellow muslin-bands were pieces of the white muslin cut in the shape of bowls and cups. The button-hole stitch secured them in place.

An Apron for the Little Gardener: This was made of tan Indian Head with pieces of red, yellow and blue chambray cut in the shape of flowers, (appliqued near the hem.) A large yellow tomato formed the patch-pocket; and a tan sun-bonnet, decorated around the brim with smaller colored "tomatoes," completed the picturesque costume. As I looked at this pretty and sensible garment I realized how many hours of ironing it would save the young mother who made it. A stout cashion of tan Indian Head for the child to kneel on while planting seeds and weeding, was in the process of construction.

An Apron to Wear While "Playing School": All Mothers know how popular the game of "playing school" is among the folk. This game frequently enhances the sharpening of pencils as well as the using of pencils—and, too often the pencil-scrawled sheet is placed face-down on the freshly laundered frock, leaving a dusty smudge. One Mother friend of mine guarded against this common mishap by making her little girl an apron of old-rose cretonne to wear over her clean dresses. The apron was made perfectly plain, with a large patch pocket, and was edged all around with white rick-rack braid. An old-rose hair ribbon was provided for the child to wear with the apron.

An Apron for General Wear: This was made of unbleached muslin with large colored flowers cut from cretonne applequed on at hem and neck. One large flower formed the patch pocket.

TO WEAR THIN WAISTS OR SLEEVELESS DRESSES

(Beauty Topics)

With the aid of a delatone paste, it is an easy matter to many women to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck and arms. Enough of the powdered delatone and water is mixed into a thick paste and spread on the hairy surface for about 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.

Do not polish your fine footwear often, but do it while you are about it. Apply the polish over and over, dry and rub well.

London, April. 7.—Sir Ross Smith announced yesterday that he plans to leave London April 23 on a round-the-world flight. He said:

"I contemplate devoting 240 flying hours in the journey, spread over three months. I will divide the route into 500-mile stages, doing one each day in six hours for three consecutive days, then rest a day.

"The round-the-world flight will constitute the most severe endurance test ever made of an airplane and crew, but I do not consider the trip unduly hazardous."

Ross himself will pilot the plane and will be accompanied by his brother, Sir Keith, navigator and wireless operator, and Lieut. Bennett, engineer. These men accompanied him in his flight recently from London to Australia. The adventurers will start eastward, their itinerary being as follows: Croydon, Lyons, Rome, Athens, Cairo, Bagdad, Basra, Karachi, Calcutta, Hanoi, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Fusan, Tokio, Petropavlsk Atka (in the Aleutian Islands), Dutch Harbor, Kadiak, Yakutat, Wrangel (Southern Alaska), Vancouver, Winnipeg, Borden, New York, Ireland and back to Croydon.

The total distance of the proposed flight is 21,500 miles, mostly along the coast lines and over wide expanses of ocean. For this reason, the planes will use an amphibian type of plane, a Vickers-Viking, fitted with a 360-horsepower Lion engine.

MANY MURDERS IN IRELAND

Former Police Officer Tells of Terrible Crimes by Assassins.

St. John's, N.B., April 7.—The hair has not told all the tragic incidents in Ireland to-day, in Ulster especially, Belfast, they are bad. In Dublin they are worse, and, in my belief will be far worse before there will be any sense of improvement. Such was the opinion expressed by a former police officer of Belfast (who desires his identity be kept secret), arriving here to-day aboard the Canadian Pacific steamships Limited, liner Empress.

"You have reason to be thankful, he said, that you are not an Irishman and obliged to live in Ireland. Continuing he said:

"I have had twenty-two years' experience on the Belfast police force, and can speak with some degree of intelligence on conditions there. Murderers are going on in a ruthless manner. The system is well-known. Men are told off to do certain murders, others are told off to see to it that the one doing the killing makes a good job of it, if he doesn't he is liable to be shot down.

"Murders are committed in broad daylight, on crowded thoroughfares and no one dare interfere. One looks at the man who falls and passes on. Should one attempt to interfere it means that one will be shot down and it is from this fear that more arrest for murderous assaults are not made. I have been in the thickest of it and know. Robberies are frequent and happen usually in the day time. There are usually three engaged in a hold-up, one to cover the victim with a revolver, the second to go through it, mark a person and the third with revolver to prevent any interference.

MAYOR WANTS WATCHMAN KEPT

Railway Crossing at Bay Bridge Road Bone of Contention.

Mayor Hanna has addressed the following communication to be the Secretary of the Board of Railway Commissioners relative to the protection of the railway crossing leading to the Bay Bridge:

Belleville, Ont.—April 7, 1922.

A. D. Cartwright, Esq.,
Secretary, Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, Ottawa, Ont.

Dear Sir,—
Re file 9437.325. Application C. N. Rys., for an Order amending Order of Board No. 25233, March 10th, 1917, which ordered the installation of gates at Bay Street Road, near Belleville, Ontario, by substituting a bell and winker for the gates.

I beg to state that I still maintain the same opinion that I did at the hearing here on March 10th, viz., that watchmen should be maintained at this crossing. True there has not been a fatal accident since watchmen were placed there.

Gates were ordered to be installed at this crossing, which has not been done. We would not object to this if the watchmen were kept on. Now if you have anything further to say, let us hear it.

The public using this highway are not satisfied with the protection by these signals, and I strongly protest against the removal of the watchmen and feel that if they are removed, that there will be many more accidents — a more or less serious nature, probably with fatal results, therefore in view of this very dangerous condition I appeal to you to have the watchmen remain in commission, or install gates according to your order of March 10th 1917, No. 25233.

Should you not comply with the reasonable request and continue, what to my mind is the only adequate means of protection, I beg to state that the responsibility for all accidents, which may occur at this crossing, then falls on your head.

Yours truly,
—CHAS. HANNA.
Mayor of Bellevill

Terrified stenographers telephone girls and clerks crawled under desks for protection from the bullets. After Salenoli had killed a clerk he was killed by E. J. Powers, Superintendent of the plant, who dashed straight into the face of Salenoli's fire and put two bullets through his heart. Lennox Makes Serious Charges Against O.T.A.

Member for North York Flays Attorney General Raney for Retaining Services of Operatives Who Have Criminal Records—Some Found Guilty of Perjury and Other Serious Crimes — Raney Makes Notes, but No Reply.

MORE CHARGES TO COME

Toronto, April 7.—Ministers of the Crown have in days gone by had some uncommon times at the hands of Opposition critics, but it is doubtful if one ever passed through such an ordeal as Hon. W. E. Raney endured in the Legislature last night, when for three solid hours he sat and listened to a castigation of his administration of the Ontario Temperance Act, that has never been equalled in the Legislature. In came from T. Herbert Lennox, K.C., who brought to the House such a damning pile of material that when three hours of speaking had exhaust it, and at eleven o'clock, when he moved the adjournment of the debate he had still more distance to go.

The burden of Mr. Lennox's speech against the enforcement of the O.T.A. was that in the system that had been developed under the present Attorney-General, the very worst of the law had been placed in the hands of thugs and criminals to enrich themselves, that justice had been perverted through the mire, innocent citizens persecuted and the law itself brought into disrepute. Statements of this sort have been made on more than one occasion in the past both in the House and out of it, generalizations that many good people, anxious to advance the true interest of temperance have been prone to believe, even speaking without justification for the purpose of discrediting prohibition. But it was not generalization that Mr. Lennox had to offer, for during two hours he devoted himself exclusively to a statement of facts backed up by names, dates and places, by sworn evidence from court records. He told of the employment as special officers of men who were convicted highway robbers, bank robbers, of one man who had robbed a woman whose house he had searched for liquor, of another, who, escaping conviction for aiding and abetting the manslaughter of a girl of fourteen, had afterwards been convicted of an assault on a young wo-

STRIKING MINERS WILL FIGHT TO A FINISH

Coal Famine in Six Weeks is the Prophecy of Strikers' Leader—Deny that Non-Union Mines Can Supply Country's Needs.

New York, April 7.—Predicting that the nation will be in the midst of a bituminous coal famine if six weeks' operations in the present strike is settled, Philip Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, last night declared, "Congress must be blind not to see what the country is up against."

Mr. Murray's statement was made shortly after John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers, asserted that the refusal of operators in the central competitive field to confer with the workers, at the invitation of the public, by their absence means the strike would become a "fight to the finish."

In support of his prediction of a famine, Mr. Murray asserted that the stock piles of the country contain only sixty million tons of bituminous coal, of which twenty millions already are in the bins of the consumers. At a present rate of consumption of eight million tons a week the forty million tons will suffice for only another five weeks, according to Mr. Murray's figures.

Claims of the operators that the production of non-union mines would provide adequate supply in such works were denied by the union leader. Latest reports from non-union strongholds, he said, indicate that 80 per cent. of the non-union miners in Pennsylvania walked out with the union men.

TRAVELLERS' AID DOES GOOD WORK

Dr. Detwiler of Kitchener Addresses W.C.T.U. at Y.M.C.A. Parlors.

Dr. Detwiler, Provincial Superintendent of the Travellers' Aid Society of the W.C.T.U., addressed a meeting of the local branch of that organization in the Y.M.C.A. parlors on Thursday afternoon, on the work if the Travellers' Aid officials in forming a Protective Agency and performing many work among young women and girls, who are travelling alone.

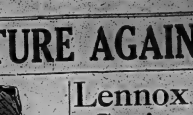

Dr. Detwiler pointed out that statistics show that more than 50,000 women and young girls disappear in the United States every year, through the White Slave agency, whose operatives entice their victims on board ships, in the most wily and clever manner. Canada's share of disappearances are nearly as high as the United States per capita, and the small communities are affected as well as the cities. It is the ambition of the United States social workers to station a matron on all through, fe-rains, for if a young girl is forewarned she is fore-armed.

"Our towns and cities are protected by law," said Dr. Dewiler, "and is it not reasonable that our young women should be protected by law also?"

The parents should cooperate in this work and 4 representative should be appointed in each community to voluntarily meet any train by request, or place anyone in communication with the Travellers' Aid in any city or town they desire.

Dr. Detwiler related many interesting stories of his wide work of the agents, many of whom are women with gray hair and motherly appearing aspect. They have been known to dress as deaconesses in order to get the confidence of their victims, and male agents have been known to station in Ontario are immune from this preying parasite and Central Ontario girls have been molested on more than the occasion.

Mrs. T. Ruston is official representative of the Travellers' Aid Society in Belleville.

FARM PRODUCTS REPORT FILED

Clover, Wheat and Potatoes Come Through Winter Pretty Good.

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Kent says: "Clover and fall wheat are apparently in good condition to date and prospects are that they will come through safely, as far as winter killing is concerned. Considerable of the wheat is affected by Hessian Fly. The next amount of damage from this remains to be seen."

Oxford claims that fall wheat is coming along much better than was previously reported, more especially the early fields that had a good top.

Lambton, under the weather of the past week, though hard on roads, has been rather protecting to fall wheat and clover. North Simcoe, Middlesex and Dufferin speak in a similar strain.

Kent remarks: "The stormy weather of the week just past has brought the frost out of the ground and the chances are that the land will come into workable condition rapidly."

Middlesex reports that the heavy winter storm of the last three day of March has done much injury to both orchards and woodlots, and claims that one tree in every ten is affected has been more or less damaged.

Lambton strikes a new note regarding sugar beets: "The acreage of sugar beets grown in this territory this year will be very much below normal. Many growers who have been pioneers in the establishing of this industry are dropping out, owing to the fact that the contract offered by the sugar company does not warrant returns greater than any ordinary crop, which does not require the same attention as sugar beets."

Potatoes are selling at $1 a bag in the Port Arthur district.

Kenora says: "Several inquiries are coming into the office regarding the growing of sunflowers, and in all probability the acreage will be greatly increased and several silos put up. Those who have silos this year have had first class results and intend putting in a larger acreage."

Fredericton observes: "Had the short area of feed in showing its effects in the condition of live stock, but sofar that the saving of the situation has been the more reasonable prices in mill feeds and corn. Kent reports plenty of feed on hand, and that cattle have a sufficiency of roughage generally.

At the Waterloo county pure-bred Holstein sale held recently prices for mature cows ranged all the way from $100 to $225. Good grades at a sale near Galt went as high as from $12 to $160.

Renfrew says: "At the first pure bred Holstein auction sale held in this county, on March 31st, Mr. K. Plaunt, Northcote sold his herd for $2,200 net, or an average of nearly $150."

At the purebred consignment sale in Woodstock last week the average price was about $125.

Frontenac says: "Most of the cheese factory meetings for the arranging of the seasons' work are over. The general impression has been that the cost of making will be greatly increased on account of the Dairy Standards' Act. The majority of factories are paying from one-eighth to a quarter of a cent more a lb. for making, to meet this extra cost. Some cheese makers propose making at the old price, but the testing equipment must be put in by the patrons. There does not seem to be any strong opposition to the Act."

Kenora says that as lumber camps are breaking up good horses can be purchased for $150, although some bring as high as $225.

Bush reports horses selling very well with the Englishman and impossible him in his own country. But at the finish there is one of the most unusual developments ever seen in a photoplay and one that will surprise the most blase audience.

Mr. Kirkwood and Ann Forrest are admirable in their respective leading roles. Adequate support are given by Alan Hale, Fontaine LaRue, Winter Hall, Bertram Johns and Truly Shattuck.

THE BOSTON ENGLISH OPERA COMPANY HERE TONIGHT

"The Bohemian Girl" with its wealth of beautiful ballads such as "I Dream I Dwell in Marble Halls", "Then You'll Remember Me", "Bliss Forever Past", "The Heart Bowed Down", "Fair Land of Poland", with its joyous choruses and rollicking humor is fittingly called the world's most popular comic opera.

That the Boston English Opera Company has chosen this delightful opera for its return engagement to Griffin's Opera House, tonight, is indeed cause for joy to all who appreciate good music and clean comedy. In addition to the same famous cast heard here in "Il Trovatore" including Helena Merrill, Normand Arnold, Henry Dunn, Dorothy Bott, Edward Orchard conceded to be America's foremost singing comedian will be heard as "Devilshoof" chief of the gypsies, a part in which he has no equal.

T. PHILIPS OPPENHEIM'S "THE GREAT IMPERSONATION"

When two men who are alike as two peas meet, something is bound to happen. That is the principal situation in "The Great Impersonation" which comes as a sequel to the success at Griffin's last night.

It is a Paramount picture produced by George Melford. James Kirkwood plays the dual role of a young German military commandant and an English nobleman, two men who look exactly alike. Fate brings them together and the German, the latter to serve the Kaiser, who is planning his great attack on civilization, determines to do away with the Englishman and impossible him in his own country. But at the finish there is one of the most unusual developments ever seen in a photoplay and one that will surprise the most blase audience.

MILK FAMINE IN LONDON DUE TO PRICE REDUCTION

London, April 6.—There is a milk famine in London, and it is believed to be the result of the recent reduction by price from nine pence to five pence per quart. ART TREASURES ARE SACRIFICED

Plate, Paintings, and Swiss Watches Being Sold at Low Prices.

Odessa, April 7.—More oil Russia's apparently inexhaustible supply of art treasures are being thrown upon the market under the new foreign trade policy combined with the increasing need of money to buy food. Here, as in Moscow and Petrograd, she shops sell to the most part secondhand jewelry, of gold and silver.

The bitter story of the homeburning revolution is told in any shop window. The majority of these things are heirlooms. Among them are collections of plate, painting, Swiss watches and Sevres vases which were imported from the western countries in the last 200 or 300 years or taken as loot in old wars, especially wars to the south and to the east.

Hundreds of articles bought in France during its great revolution and brought to Russia are now finding their way home again, bought up at low prices by foreigners.

Lost from Poland has gone back. A set of Soviet diplomats were interned in Poland included diamonds requisitioned from the old Russian rich when their turn may have clothed them from Poland long ago. Second-hand wedding rings are plentiful in the shops for women are parting with the last tie that binds them to their loved ones.

Dozens of newly opened commission shops here display a wealth of old wedding dresses, richly brocaded in gold and silver thread, Persian shawls, silk shawls of the time of Catharine the Great, babies' clothes, satin slippers, ball gowns cut into pieces and old-as scarfs or shirtwaists, handworked bed linen, hallowed old laces, silver chains of Persians and Caucasian old silken fans from France and Japan, handpainted by Watteau and like artists.

The men, too, have sold their imperial regimental watches and decorations, their pipes, their gold cigarette cases, their little gold and ivory icons. Musicians have placed on sale their instruments, masters their black "mahlstick" batons inscribed by admiring friends with silver and gold plates in memory of their triumphs.

LIQUOR SMUGGLING

Officials of the Canadian department of customs claim that stories regarding the export of liquor across the border are grossly exaggerated. The picturesque accounts of customs officers driving a rushing business throughout the night, collecting $13.50 per case on liquor destined for the United States, are characterized as "pure imagination." Though some liquor is checked out in this way "near dusk", the operation never extends to midnight or after, we are told. All this aside, there is no doubt in the world that a big traffic is conducted, and that tremendous profits are reaped from it. It is a disgraceful fact, and though Canada is not responsible for the failure of United States authorities to suppress this illicit importation, it is humiliating to reflect upon our impotency in face of the evil.

The only remedy lies with the prohibition enforcement agents on the other side of the line. Commissioner Haynes has not hesitated to charge Buffalo municipal authorities with failure to co-operate with these agents. He has high praise for the Canadian authorities, speaking of their "splendid co-operation," but regretting that Canadian law does not forbid export. High-powered motorboats and fast automobiles are to be brought to Buffalo and all other measures adopted which may seem necessary for the suppression of the smuggling. The more effective the measures the better the law-abiding people of this country will like it.

THE PENITENTIARIES

The population of the Dominion penitentiaries increased from 2,331 to 2,150 during the year ending March 31 last, according to report issued by Superintendent Hughes. The increase was almost wholly in the Kingston penitentiary. Superintendent Hughes advises the immediate construction of other institutions as necessary to relieve the congestion in these.

The report contains much interesting information as to the treatment of convicts, and the prison population is divided under various heads. It is shown, for example, that of the 2,150 prison occupants 500 were abstainers, 1,092 were "moderate" and 468 were "intemperate." There were 1,377 Protestants, 670 R.C.'s, 102 C. of E.'s under twenty years of age, 1,154 between thirty and forty, and so on, the numbers diminishing as the record proceeds.

"Many of the inmates," writes the Superintendent, "are very young men, and most of them are graduates of some of the numerous provincial reformatories." In conversation they acknowledged a lack of discipline training, the practice of idling on the street, attending picture theatres, carrying revolvers, petty thieving and joy-riding in stolen cars. They are described as nearly all good-looking, bright, intelligent boys who had never been taught to take anything seriously, and their condition is made the basis, or part basis, of an argument for better methods of classification and segregation of prisoners. Already endeavors are being made to study and treat the inmate individually, and it is evident that much has been done to ease the burden of prison discipline. Moving pictures are provided at intervals and books to "suit all proper tastes" are provided in the libraries; "thus, when an educated inmate comes to the prison we no longer insult his intelligence by offering him literature to read which he despises." These things are well and good in their way, and the desire to bring out, foster and encourage the good that is in the convict is a laudable one. The difficulty is that what is so often miscalled prison reform may be carried to an unreasonable length. We are a long way from the penal abuses revealed in Charles Reade's celebrated novel and there is a distinct danger in a tendency which gives more thought to the comfort of criminals than to the protection of society. Superintendent Hughes, to judge from the observations and recommendations which he makes, is fully aware of the importance of measures which may defeat the primary purpose of imprisonment. He asks that there should be an honest effort to assist the inmates on their discharge to go upstream on the road to good citizenship, but he finds fault with a system which frequently permits the release on parole of prisoners who are amongst the worst behaved in the prisons, while many first offenders, of exemplary prison conduct can only hope for release through the expiration of their sentences. During the year under review 874 inmates of the Dominion penitentiaries were released on parole, while 658 left the provincial prisons and reformatories under the same system. More inmates left the penitentiaries on parole than through the completion of their sentences. The establishment of area parole officers and boards is again recommended, to the end that "only those who are daily in contact with inmates, and are therefore able to intelligently express an opinion regarding them, would have authority to recommend their release." The report has been prepared with care, and the data and suggestions which it contains are of value in their relation to what has never ceased to be an important social problem.

Paying your income tax this month is just a pleasant little introduction to meeting your water rates and civic taxes a brief space later.

That must have been a swell "Last Night" at the Parliament Buildings on a mixture to the session of 1921 a Toronto alderman brought the matter up, probably in hope of injuring the Drury Government among prohibitionists. It does show there is a whole lot of hypocrisy among legislative prohibitionists, when a dozen members of parliament drink more or less. Most of them despise the O. T. A. They vote for it because they get votes by voting for it. There are exceptions, of course, a whole lot of exceptions. Hon. E. C. Drury is one and Hon. W. E. HOPE ON

There was never a day so misty and gray
That the sun was not somewhere above it;
There is never a mountaintop ever so bleak
That some little flower does not love it.

There was never a night so dreary and dark,
That the stars were not somewhere shining;
There is never a cloud so heavy and black,
That it has not a silvery lining.

There is never a wailing time, weary and long
That will not some time have an ending;
The most beautiful part of the landscape
Is the low where the shadows are blending.

The smoking and shadows are blending.
Through the gray, misty colors will fall
But heaven sends the sunshine of hope
Through the rifts in the clouds we may see it will.
See the beautiful blue above us
Let us hope, though the day may be dreary,
And, in darkness be sure

MOVABLE PARTITIONS TO EVADE POLICE

Winnipeg, Man., April 7.—Equipped like the mystery houses described in "dime thrillers," local police, in a search for offenders of the Manitoba Temperance Act, recently discovered a house with movable partitions, electrically controlled by a push button in the floor. The partitions were used to evade the police and during a test the movable wall worked "like a charm." A portion of the partition taken to police headquarters as evidence against the owner was covered over with the same paper as on the solid wall of the house.

CAMPER'S MOTTO SAFETY FIRST

There Would be Fewer Fires if Campers Exercised Reasonable Care.

An urgent plea has been made by all public bodies interested in forest and game protection, to campers, hikers, motorists and others having occasion to visit the woods for recreation:

Every camper is asked to be careful.

It is a comparatively simple matter for any camper or fisherman to take sensible precautions to extinguish a camp fire before leaving camp, to put out a cigarette before throwing it away or to avoid throwing matches into inflammable leaves, twigs or moss. A great many campers show very little caution in selecting a spot to build their camp fires. In no case should a camp fire be built against a tree or in an old log or in a dry bed but wherever possible on a rocky piece or on gravel or sand bar. A small fire always cooks better than a large one and is much easier to extinguish. When through with the cooking fire a few quarts of water or a shovel or two of earth will easily extinguish it. No burning coals or smoking fire ends should be left under any circumstances.

Those who enjoy and profit by the forest areas of Ontario, particularly campers and fishermen, would take such simply precautions as they would preserve this year hundreds of the finest and most beautiful camping spots in the province and at the same time remove one of the main sources of forest fires which are doing such enormous damage to the main source of employment in this province.

CATCHES WOLF BARE HANDED, GOT AWAY ONCE

Port Williams, Ont., April 7.—Once a wolf, once trapped, may yet be caught again, is the experience of an Indian, named Charlie Shenjohan, at Quarry. Last fall Charlie trapped a large wolf which, however, showed its way to freedom by the familiar method of gnawing off the front leg by which it was held. The wound healed and last winter during the winter Charlie caught sight of the three-legged beast shambling its way through the bush and leaving behind it unmistakable footprints that revealed its identity. Recently Charlie went out along his trap line and found the lame wolf securely clasped by the steel jaws, which were clamped about his other front leg. The wolf, apparently, realized that it would be fatal to gnaw off this latest remedial front leg, and it was for it to collect the bounty.

Embellishment Provides Excellent Means of Rejuvenating Last Year's Garment.

TAG AND STEEL ORNAMENTS

Buttons Are Used on Very Dressy Gowns to Bright Effect—Metal Girdles Worn by Governor's Consort.

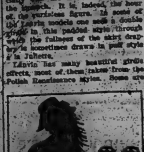

Paris, March 25.—Apropos of the vogue of the girdle, which, by the way, is still young, it is likely that less expensive copies of the costly girdles will be made and that these will be worn on the last extremity pockets. Already all of the further novelty costumes models are putting great stress on girdling; and the Callot models, a very important part of the costumes had, although elaborately girdled, a separate girdle to augment many of the elaborate girdling dresses. The simplest form of the girdle is an extra addition of a piece of material to the waistline.

Nothing to be said that girdles are never more important than they are this present fashions. Paris says so, the present fashions. Paris says so, and every dressmaker and every suit carries out her idea of girdle ornament or girdling or is worn with a belt, near or over one of which is placed at a point.

Ancient Inspiration.

As the eye becomes more accustomed to the idea of the girdles. Many of them are developed in perforated metal, and the Paris dressmaker puts on, less than $50 for one of these added to many girdles. The former sometimes very wanted, all beautifully worked in perforated designs after the style of metal, sometimes of real period.

Don't forget that starting in the mid-eighteenth century the gold-smiths' trade began to develop in an important way, and that it played an important part in the art history of the French and Italian craftsmanship. In fact, many of the finest examples of the work of the goldsmiths' craft of that time are to be found in the form of girdles, and these can be duplicated in the present day in perforated metal designs. There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Belleville Amateur Athletic Association, held last night in the Chamber of Commerce, Grailing Spring reports were presented by Secretary J. O. It is expected that six teams will comprise the junior league of boys under 19 years of age, "Spug" Hayes, who was present last night, has two teams in the making, representing the Boy Scout Troop of Belleville.

President Ramsay thanked those present for re-election, stating that a more agreeable body of men to work with among would be hard to find. The president also stated that he believed metropolitan aspect.

PRINTERS WIN BOWLING GAME

Defeat K. of C. Team, Making Twelfth Consecutive Win.

The Printers and the K. of C. bowling teams, last night, battled for supremacy, upon the Y.M.C.A. alleys. Considerable interest was manifested in the game which was attended by a number of spectators. The result was a decisive win for the Typos and by the way, the twelfth consecutive win for that team. Hill for the winning team, bowled a consistent game, his three string of 606 being high and his average of 202 was also high. Right at the same team was a close second with 203. Dr. O'Callaghan for the K. of C. was not in his usual form and had to be content with a total score of 631. This total score for the winning team was 2661, and the losers 2042 leaving the typos 430 to the good. The figures and scores were as follows:

SOUT FOR DANNY FRUSH

Cleveland, O., April 7.—Danny Frush, Cleveland featherweight, has been matched to box Tony Ogoski of New York, in Madison Square Garden, May 5, it was announced here today. Articles call for a twelve-round bout, the boxers to weight in at that hockey would not suffer [illegible] ing an interest, on behalf of the organization, and might benefit greatly from the lookers-on there.

An executive meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon next at 5 p.m. when the question of the purchase of goals and nets for the soccer players, as introduced by Mr. Harvey, will be discussed upon. These goals and nets cost $22. Mr. W. A. Elliott will again be chairman of the Grounds Committee and in the meantime the memory of Mac Robertson is to be "jogged" regarding a certain promise made last season about a board for the outfield here, to make the ball park take on a more

Reports from the training camp say Babe Ruth is in the throes of a bad batting slump. We should worry, the Battering Bambino is not due to get in the game for six weeks after the season opens and he can slump as much as he likes in the meantime. But some folks have designs on the slump during a regular league game and he fails to deliver—Hurry call for the Grand Order of the Pan.

:: :: :: ::

Wonder if the disaffection in the Yankees' camp is responsible for the "Babe's" showing. Manager Miller Huggins is surely having his trouble with that gang of high priced stars. Now Carl Mays threatens to quit the team because Huggins slammed a $200 fine on him for throwing the ball over the grand stand in an exhibition game recently after the manager had "yanked" him from the game.

Now that the B.A.A.A. has held its annual meeting we're waiting to see a regular awakening in all lines of athletics locally. The association is a sort of "Big Brother" to all the smaller sport clubs in the city and their call for 1,000 members should not go unheeded. Let's all join.

Carpentier has become the mystery man of the ring, and must exercise as much fascination for the medical profession as he does for the fight fans. One day he is reported to be dying of tuberculosis and the next time we hear of him he is whaling the daylights out of some aspiring Australian or New Zealander. Reports about his condition conflict every time a cable comes in. But nobody has yet reported that the French Flash has lost his fortune; that would be the last straw.

There's always some silver lining to every dark cloud as the following story told by a visitor who has recently returned from the race track at Bowie serves to show. It's about a negro horse rubber.

A group of them were working on the horses. Overhead, against the grey of the morning sky, buzzed the big planes carrying mail by air from Philadelphia and Washington.

A big De Haviland hummed overhead, and one of the little negro boys looked up.

"Hot dog!" he said. "Suttainly would hate to be up there in 'at thing."

Another roared past.

"Suttainly would hate to be up there in 'at thing," he muttered.

Still another plane buzzed away.

The rubber regarded it with thoughtful eyes.

"An' Ah suttainly would hate to be up there an' NOT in 'at thing," he restured. Then he went back to his rubbing.

WILL DEMPSEY MEET WILLS?

London is Said To Be Eager To Secure the Bout.

New York, April 6.—Jack Dempsey evidently is determined to go on that trip to Europe, although no matches are awaiting him on the other side. This is the dull season for Dempsey and it does not matter a great deal what he does during the next month or two. He is through with his stage engagements in America and there is not much chance of his doing any fighting here until the warm weather sets in, even if he is lucky enough to find an opponent.

There is an idea that Jack will be able to pick up some easy money on the other side bowling over such as Joe Beckett, Frank Goddard, Bombardier Wells, Tom Cowler, Jack Curphy, George Cook, Marcel Nilles and Horace Jones. That is all wrong. English boxing followers do not think any of that crowd would have a chance with Dempsey and they are not anxious to see their men slaughtered.

Georges Carpentier is the only man in Europe who would be permitted to box Dempsey, and there is no particular demand for that match. Georges has signed for a number of minor bouts and he is going to tour France and Spain, giving exhibitions. There is no talk of his meeting Dempsey again.

If Jack really wants to fight in England he might induce a promoter to stage a match with Harry Wills. They would pay big money in England to see those two in action. Sporting men from all over Europe would attend. The premier of America alone would be large enough to pay off one of the fighters.

No one has staged a real big fight in England since pursse grew to their present bulky proportions. Until recently the London National Sporting Club, seating a few thousands, conducted all the important battles. Of late Major Wilson, a new promoter with up-to-date ideas, has succeeded in sidetracking the National to some extent. Wilson believes in catering to the general public instead of the select few. He has made a financial success of several bouts, although the matches he had to work with was not of much account.

PROPOSED SITES OF BALL PARK

Sporting Men of Belleville Discuss Live Issue at Meeting.

The question of playgrounds came up for discussion at the meeting of the Belleville Amateur Athletic Association meeting held last night. Mr. G. Graham stated that he had inspected the Marry street grounds, along with a delegation consisting of Mayor Hanna and the Chairman of the Parks. The city council do not believe that the Marry street grounds would be a practical proposition, and have shelved the idea, was the speaker's opinion. Mr. Graham believed that the stretch of land below Blackburn's Hill would make the best ball park in the city. The main entrance would be three blocks from the heart of the city, and the field could be put in shape at less expense than other proposed ball parks. This land can be purchased for $7,060. Mr. Graham stated that he believed the Moira Club were on the job, and a proposition involving Coleman Field, Wall, Gerow, manager of the Belleville Grand Trunks, concurred with Mr. Graham and stated that the land below Blackburn's Hill would make an ideal ball park.

Mr. W. Elliott stated that he believed that Zwick's Island would make a good ball park, but the inconvenience of Zwick's Island from the city would cripple gate receipts. Moreover, if the city established a ball park on Zwick's Island, it would be public property and no one could be forced to pay for admission fee, as pointed out by Mr. H. D. Stock.

QUADRUPLETS BORN TOGGERMAN FRAUIS

Berlin, April 6—Germany have no reason to fear race suicide as long as women demonstrate their ability to give birth to four children at once. Two cases of birth of quadruplets were reported this week, one in Pomeranis, the other in Upper Franconia.

Owing to the frequency of biological phenomena in Germany, the old Prussian law requires a court commission to visit the room where the children were born and solemnly draw lots to determine priority of birth.

INQUEST TO BE HELD

Washington, April 8.—A Congressional effort at settlement of the coal strike, particularly as it involves the bituminous fields, was begun today when Chairman Nolan of the House Labor Committee was authorized to telegraph invitations to a number of representative operators and officers of operators' associations in the Central Competitive Coal field to attend a meeting with the miners' union leaders in Washington, April 10, an attempt to reach an agreement.

It is Not True

That people begin wearing glasses too soon. Because when the skilled optometrist finishes examining a pair of eyes he knows what their condition is; he knows what they need and what they don't need; he prescribes just glasses on that patient until they are necessary.

It is a Fact

That many who could at one time have had their eyes perfectly corrected very easily and comparatively quickly, defer having their eyes examined until their ocular muscles are in such a chronic condition that the correction of their defect is much more tedious and difficult to use than would have been the case had proper advice been sought early.

The service of our Optometrist with his long years of practice and up-to-date education is a "safety first" proposition.

VAGRANCY COURT

Before Magistrate Masson, this morning, Anna Bella Peters, a young Indian girl was charged with vagrancy. Commander Cavender of the Salvation Army, who was present in court, undertook to take charge of the girl and return her to her home in Thurlow Township. The case was dismissed and later taken to her home.

Case En Camera

After some evidence had been taken the case was adjourned for eight days and in the meantime the accused will remain in custody.—Mr. Mahaffey for the Crown, and Mr. C. A. Payne for the accused.

Oh what a comparison to the "spring" weather we are enjoying here.

BRENNER GOES TO KINGSTON; HOPES TO GET NEW TRIAL

Toronto, April 8.—Confessing that he had no person to blame for his present position save himself and that he had fooled only himself while "in a state of panic, to be influenced by the representation of New York brokers," Meyer Brenner left yesterday to begin serving a seven-year sentence for theft of $100,000 from the company of which he was president.

Brenner expressed himself dissatisfied with the trial, saying there had been perjury and, further, that his family were preparing to apply for a new trial, when he was confident he would be found not guilty. Was not handcuffed. Frank Lowson, convicted of theft of $18,000 from Trust Banks' cash register, was also one of the party; Lowson will serve four years.

BAY WHEAT BOARD REVIVAL WOULD BE WRONG TO COUNTRY

Montreal, April 8.—Emphatic disapproval of the proposed resurrection of the Canada Wheat Board was voiced at a special general meeting of the Montreal Corn Exchange Association here this afternoon. It was pointed out that in order to secure the effect desired by Western Grain Growers, the Government would have, through the Wheat Board, to guarantee a minimum price for wheat, which was considered an unsound proposition economically and impossible to carry out without serious injustice to the rest of the country for the benefit of one class.

Resolutions to the above effect will be drafted in conjunction with the Board of Trade with a view to forwarding them to Ottawa in order to reach the standing committee of Parliament on agriculture and colonization who are now considering the subject before their meeting in Ottawa on Saturday.

In the arguments of Mr. Lennox's arraignment lay in the declaration that the Attorney-General either of himself or through his responsible heads, knew of the conduct of some of these men yet continued to use them, continued to pay them. In one or more charges, Mr. Lennox declared that an operator who had perjured himself in court by the testimony of paper slips supplied to him by two fellow operators, who had gathered the evidence while the third lay hopelessly drunk in a Toronto hotel. The evidence of that perjury was on file in the Attorney-General's Department, yet that man was still in the employ of the Government helping to convict citizens.

City of Algiers Is Mediterranean Beauty Spot

Mr. D. V. Sinclair and Party Visit Former Pirate City and Tells of Its Many Interesting Features — Arab Population Are Segregated in Its Own Section and Have Many Peculiar Customs.

WRITER PRAISES FRENCH ENTERPRISE

The Daily Intelligencer takes pleasure in presenting the following letter from Mr. D. V. Sinclair, it is the fourth of a series which he intends to forward for publish on the European trip of Mr. Sinclair and family.

Athens, March 18th, 1922.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,—

I seem like a long time since I wrote to you my second letter of our trip by the third letter ending with Gibraltar.

Leaving this celebrated fortress after a three days' visit, we proceeded to Algiers and it is about this city that I wish to write at this time but before do so I wish to refer once more to the wonderful voyage we have had. From the date of our last letter to the present which is one month and four days, we have never yet experienced the first suggestion of rough weather on the Atlantic behaved splendid-ly and we have now sailed the Mediterranean, from Gibraltar to Athens, a distance of the far north of Italy, Turkey south east through the Straits of Dardanelles and on to Athens and in all that time we have never seen the Mediterranean so rough as it does many times on the old bay of Quinte. One Captain Geden, who by the way knows the Bay of Quinte and has always a good word to say about it, has repeatedly told us that he never experienced such continued fine weather on both lofty cruises and each time he has a reason for this, the fact that we have two modern ladies, twin sisters on our steamer. Mr. Ley to make it that short sixty Canadians, mixed up with our seven hundred Americans may have some effect on the weather conditions. However, be this as it may, we have a happy lot of people and all appreciate the delightful way in their congenions with which we have been favored especially when we know that this is not the case directly, indirectly by only a few days, the Empress of Scotland and the George Washington, have experienced some terrible storms, in fact at Cadiz in Spain the passengers from the Scotland were obliged to land by tender by the basket as rope and many people refused to go ashore.

But now as for Algiers let me say this city situated as it is in the North of Africa has been the great surprise of our trip. Perhaps this may be due to our limited knowledge of Africa but I rather think that ninety-nine Canadians out of a hundred would be as surprised as we were. Perhaps the fact that about seventy-five people from our ship had a few days before visited Tangiers and brought back a report that would prevent anyone from spending a fortnight of any city in North Africa but one has to remember that Tangier is a Spanish possession while the Province and city of Algiers represent the French method of looking after their colonies.

The approach to the City of Algiers is quite as beautiful as that of any city in Italy or Spain and I say this after seeing Genoa, Genoa and Naples which are generally allowed to be among the most attractive. Algiers is situated in a beautiful bay of the same name, with a background of majestic mountains, some of which rise to the height of 4,000 feet and the sheltered and rarely months of spring the hillsides are now capped giving a beautiful setting to this city of Darkest Africa, for the adjoining province of Tangiers may well be considered the Dark Continent.

Approaching as we did in the early morning with the sun shining brightly by we saw this beautiful city from the very first under most favorable conditions and as we drew nearer and became better acquainted we found our first impressions were fully sustained. The water front of Algiers is one of the most impressive the many pub-

LOCAL BOYS IN VIMY "SHOW"

Survivor of Terrible Battle Tells Experiences to Intelligencer Reporter.

Several Belleville soldiers took part in the Vimy Ridge scrap that engineered, of which with its colossal tonnage, a Belleville and district supplied four battalions of infantry and a battery of artillery to the Canadian Vimy. They were the 21th, 155th 80th and 254th battalions of infantry and the 34th battery. The infantry battalions reinforced the 2nd, 12th and other famous battalions.

Espirvale O. W. Dawes of 15 Rid-ley avenue, who enlisted here with the 58th battalion and served in France with the 12th battalion, had interesting occurrences of that memorable day, to an intelligencer representative this morning, although modestly stated that he had almost forgotten all he wished to remember of that awful day, some of the salient remarks made page after page of history.

The 12th battalion, commanded by Col. Jooss of which Pete Dawes was a member, went over the top at day break in the hard fought battle of Vimy hill storm. The mud was waist deep and it was an awful morning. The machine gun fire was hot from the start, and heavy losses sustained. It was impossible to get the wounded to dressing stations, they turned over the top, a welter of mud and slush.

The 4th, 5th and 6th brigades went over in close order, undaunted by the terrific shell fire and rat-a-tat rattle of the deadly machine guns. They knew their positions and held on.

Mr. Dawes, who was 4 years in the army, and 2 years and 10 months in France, stated that while there were a number of Belleville boys in the Vimy scrap, there were not many in the 12th battalion at Vimy. He remembered of Louis Clement and Harry Hickey of this city participating in the fight with the 12th.

ANNIVERSARY OF VIMY RIDGE

Fifth Celebration of Battle Will be Held on April 9.

Toronto, April 8.—Canada's platform; part in the great Battle of Vimy Ridge the most successful offensive staged on the Western Front to that date will be recalled by many cities and towns in the Dominion on April 9, the fifth anniversary thereof. The thrill that went through this country when the cables flashed the news of the taking of Vimy Ridge by the Canadian Corps has not been forgotten, but continues to be a source of pride and gratification as long as the history of the war is remembered, and this will be as long as patriotism has a place in the human atmosphere of men.

Belleville will join with other cities in the celebration on April 9th, 1922, with the climax of interest at Ottawa where the Governor-in-Council and attached great importance to its retention, as it dominated the plains and the Douai plain, the centre of coal fields. The Prussian Guards explained there, along with the Bavarian Landwehr, until they had to hold it to the last man. But the attack, carried out from "forty" hour to "forty" hour, according to Prussian clockwork precision, was not to be denied.

By two o'clock that afternoon the Canadians had done their work so effectively that they had driven the German counter-attack completely out and in complete possession of Vimy Ridge except for Hill 145. They kept on in their forward assault until they had observed their way clean through, and by eleven o'clock that night the enemy was in full retreat and Hill 145 was in our possession.

Vimy Ridge was not taken without much preliminary fighting which hundreds of Canadian soldiers laid down their lives. It was a splendid victory. The Corps was not the only part record and learts in this country, as well as hearts filled with pride and gratitude. Sir Arthur Currie, as he then was, commanded the Canadian Corps and in addition to being raised to the peerage was the title of Baron Vimy of Vimy, he was further rewarded by being promoted to the command of the Canadian Militia, having succeeded in command of the Canadian Corps by Sir Arthur Currie.

Much Produce Offered for Sale and Disposed of at Reasonable Prices.

Today Saturday's market was one of the largest that has been held here for some time. Sellers and buyers alike were out in large numbers and the offerings of all descriptions for sale was disposed of at prices which in some cases were reasonable while some were high, especially for fowls.

Fresh dairy butter was quite plentiful retailing at 45c and 46c per pound. Eggs also were secured at a slightly lower figure.

Judging from the quantity of eggs offered for sale, hens must be trying to out do themselves. The various counters in the interior of the market building were filled with baskets containing eggs. The prices asked were reasonable namely, 25c. and 27c. per dozen. Some lots were procured for 25c. per dozen.

Dressed chickens are certainly a luxury, judging from the price asked for them. Fowls and ducks were sold at $1.50 and $2, the ruling price was $2.00 a pair and in a few cases a higher price was secured.

Garden products grown in hot beds were offered for sale, consisting of lettuce, radishes and rhubarb which found purchasers for same were to be found. The prices asked were quite reasonable. Potatoes sold at $2.00 a bag.

Maple syrup was very plentiful and a drop in price was noticeable. It sold at 55c. and 60c. per quart and $2 a gallon.

Considerable quantities of fresh meats was cut up and customers for same were quite numerous.

"SAFETY FIRST" REAL SLOGAN

Men of Local G. T. R. Division Live Up to Precepts.

IMPORTANT WORK

Children Must be Taught Necessity of Protecting Their Lives.

Possibly no company or association is so thoroughly organized along "Safety First" principles, as the Grand Trunk Railway, as pointed out at the Safety Convention held in Toronto recently, by Col. W. N. Ponton, of this city.

With a view of informing the general public as to how large organizations attend to this "live wire" issue of today, a representative of the Intelligencer called on Mr. J. D. McMillan, Superintendent of the Eastern District, of the Grand Trunk Railway yesterday.

Mr. McMillan is a strong advocate of "safety first and always" principles, and when approached upon the subject submitted a typewritten sheet which clearly explained the entire organization of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The general committee of the "Safety First" organization has headquarters at Montreal, and is composed of all the divisional officials. Each committee is made up of one or two employees from each department, who meet every two months. Each committee is instructed to pay particular attention during the two months to the discovery of any unsafe conditions, to have any discovered, and report on a prescribed form at the regular meeting, for the consideration of the committee as a whole. There is also, a safety engineer with headquarters at Montreal, whose jurisdiction extends over the whole system, including the lines in Canada and the United States. Reports are sent direct to him at the conclusion of every meeting, which he considers, and takes any necessary action.

This "Safety First" system has been in existence on the Grand Trunk Railway for the past eighteen months, and a good work which has been accom-

THIS CITY ESCAPES DAMAGE BY STORM

South Eastern Ontario Suffers From a Severe Electrical Storm.

A severe electrical storm passed over the city last night in a Southeast direction and played havoc with it by long distance telephone lines between Ottawa and Toronto, Belleville and Kingston. Early this morning communication to Toronto could only be effected by a round-about route to Montreal." So reads a despatch received from the Bell Telephone Co.

When asked at the local telephone exchange regarding this report, the official there stated that there had been no serious results from the storm here. Hydro officials stated that their lines were not affected either, but that of the Hydro Electric Co., stated that the line west of this city kicked out badly. THE CHRISTIAN'S GOAL

A SERMON FOR "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"I'm a Boy and Christ"—That is the way Paul began his letter to the Philippians, and closed with a farewell greeting. He seems intent to conclude his epistle. But something else is on his mind, and he must write it. Paul is a master builder, and he seems impelled to do so. Therefore, many things to me in the Word are "Paul and Timothy" and "Paul and Silas" as we read it in Acts. He was warned them before, and now he warns again. "Look out for the dogs, look out for the evil workers, look out for the circumcision." He refers to the Judaizers, who deemed his gospel of "saved" ordinances, and called the Gentile Christians "dogs." Ah! they (themselves) were the dogs. They were also the evil-doers; busy bodies, busy trying to undo the good work of the apostles. They gloried in saying, "they were the circumcision," but the apostle wails them the mutilation. True circumcision was of the heart. The apostle makes this claim for the Philippians and closely. "We are the circumcision which worship God by the spirit, whose boasting is in Christ, and have no confidence in the flesh."

There is a painting by a German artist called "The chain after fortune." It presents a gaily dressed woman riding upon a galloping horse in her left hand she holds a golden castle and with her right she dangles gaily another away. Behind and behind her on a narrow board, laid across an abyss, men and women run with outstretched arms after the phantom before them, unmindful of the way, unconcerned about those who fall at the right and left. Such were some of us by nature, seeking after the vain things of time until we found the pearl of great price. We and the apostle declaring his position in a very earnest way.

No Confidence in the Flesh.

Paul, to use a political expression denounces the old policy. He has adopted a new and better policy. The things in which he boasted in the past he now refutes. There are people in our day, more so in the old land, who boast of their pedigree; they belong to an ancient family, they have "blue blood" in their veins. It is a vain boast, unless people have something better, by the grace of God, to boast about. It is soon becoming to be modest and keep quiet. The apostle had reason for boasting; he belonged to an honored race; he could claim all that the best on earth could claim. He was one of the chosen people—had been circumcised the eighth day, according to the law of God, and the covenant made with Abraham. He was of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews. In regard to the law he was a Pharisee—none kept the law better, at least, as far as the letter went. When we come to zeal for the most ancient customs he was most zealous of all. He was a positive quantity in the old religious cause, the bare statement was sufficient, "persecuting the church." But Paul strikes a high note when he makes his last claim, "touching the righteousness which is in the law, found blameless." Surely no one could make a greater claim. Yet what is Paul's simple comment on all this?

"Howbeit, what things were gain to me, these have I counted loss for Christ." What a reversal! At one time Christ was nothing to him and these things were everything. Mark the change. We now reach the key to this chapter. "Yea, doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, for whom I suffered the loss of all things and do count them but refuse that I may gain Christ." What a text for the Christian of this day! Not one but all the things mentioned Paul counts as loss, but "all things" he counts as worthless that he may gain Christ. What a contrast this gain and loss. Put down all that the man of the world counts dear and precious: his home, his friends, his money, his land, his stocks, property, reputation, character, social standing. Honors that come from men, good health, intellectual ability, moral worth and "blue blood." All these Paul counts as loss in order to win Christ. His reason for having no "confidence in the flesh" is the fact that he has transferred his confidence to Christ. All that the natural man counts as gain Paul counts loss. All is worthless to him compared with what he finds in Christ. It is because of the supereminence of the knowledge of Christ; the eclipses all things. The first thing in the gain that Paul put down is "the righteousness of faith in Christ"—he has found. This right-ousness God bestows on faith. It is no longer works of law in which the flesh may glory, but righteousness by faith—faith in Jesus Christ. However, that blessed fact does not satisfy Paul. He says, I gain my knowledge of all the things that men may count as gain "that I may know Christ Himself, the power of His resurrection, the fellowship of His sufferings, sharing the likeness of His death; if by any means I might attain to the resurrection from the dead." Paul has found enough in Christ to cause him to forget all else. He has given up all that he might find all in Christ.

The Goal Kept in View.

Remember the key, "that I may win Christ." Paul says he has yet to win the prize. He is not, in this perfect, but he adds, "this one thing I do." We need a two-fold attitude in this "one thing" that the apostle does.

First, Paul's attitude to the past, "forgetting the things that are behind." He states a great fact in saying, "Christ has laid hold on me that I might lay hold upon the prize of my upward calling." "I count not myself to have laid hold thereof but this one thing I do, forgetting the things that are behind." If we are running in the race for the prize of our upward calling we shall do well to make sure that there is nothing in the past of our lives to which we are unduly clinging so that we are hindered. To think there is no days like days gone by, so full of peace, sunshine and joy, you will never have the like again. Don't think of your sin and failure, for that of others, or of how you were hindered in the Christian race by others. Forget the professor, or how you yourself may have hindered others. Or to vainly dream that your life could live over again so that you might avoid the mistakes you have made. These and many idle thoughts had better be forgotten and cherish this assurance instead. "It is better on before." May we take the true disciple's attitude and leave the past behind, and like the dead past bury its dead," and aim for the best possible in the future, which is so full of promise. This was the apostle Paul's attitude, forgetting the things that are behind."

This greatly helped him in his attitude towards the future, "I press toward the mark for the prize of God's upward calling."

The apostle has a figure in mind. He has doubtless witnessed the Roman or Greek races, and in them he has seen the runners heading forward in the direction of the goal. They were running for a garland, a crown which would soon perish, or the empty praise of men; but Paul runs for an everlasting prize of the Master of men. "So run," we hear him say elsewhere, "that ye may win the prize."

The apostle concludes this chapter with words of exhortation, warning and promise. "Let us therefore who are ripe of understanding be thus minded." And again, "Let us walk according to our attainments." And again, "Be imitators together with me, and mark them who walk according to my example." Then he adds, "Many walk of whom I used to tell you, they are the enemies of the cross of Christ; whose end is destruction, whose god is their belly, whose glory is in their shame, whose mind is set on earthly things". Then he closes with this promise, "We have our commonwealth in heaven from whence also we look for the Saviour the Lord Jesus Christ; who shall change the body of our humiliation into the likeness of His glorious body."

The Overcoming Fight.

And take, to arm you for the fight,
The panoply of God.

To keep your armour bright,

And watching unto prayer.

"THE GREAT IMPERSONATION" WINS

James Kirkwood is the featured player in George Melford's magnificent Paramount picture production of "The Great Impersonation," based on E. Phillips Oppenheim's novel of the same name which has delighted large audiences at Griffin's this week-end and which is receiving its final exhibition this week end.

Mr. Kirkwood has a dual role in this picture, and in the course of his action, he is called to do some highly dramatic work. Mr. Kirkwood is seen as an Englishman and a German and then the latter, who is a spy in the employ of the Kaiser, causes the Englishman to be presumably slain so that he may assume his name and station, a thrilling incidents ensue. There is an engaging finish to the story. Lois Corrren has the leading woman's role in "The Great Impersonation"; Winifred Hall, Truly Shattuck, Lorraine Rice, Alan Hale and other noted screen players are in the supporting cast.

Larry Semon in a 2-reel comedy, "Lathe News, and a new chapter of "Adventures of the Wild Girl" are also exhibited on the same program.

"EX" STOCK COMPANY TO PRESENT THEIR FEATURE BILL, "A GRIFFIN'S MONDAY"

What might be termed the dramatic triumph of the entire season for the "ex" Stock Company, will be their next play which is to be produced at Griffin's Monday to Wednesday and titled "The Spenders". It has been said that this story was used to advantage in filching what is now admitted one of the season's greatest picture plays, "Foolish Wives". In this it may, "The Spenders" is certainly a play with a punch, more than that it deals with a delicate subject, and handles it, and conveys a great and wonderful lesson, to not only married couples, but more than that to young couples on the verge of matrimony.

You—Mr. Husband, are you a good husband? Oh, I don't mean are you a good provider, for perhaps you are. Too good. Do you lavish everything lucked your status as a husband, and to mind your obligations as a mother? Are you selfish? Good mothers don't have time to be selfish. Are you a "Spender and a Waster?"

There seems little doubt, that "The Spenders" will create a stir in local theatricals that will echo for many down.

And win the well-fought day.

Then, having all things done,
And every conflict passed,
Ye may o'ercome through Christ alone,
And stand complete at last.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" HERE NEXT THURSDAY

In many respects William H. Kibble's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the most important of the old-time productions. In the first place it is said to exploit the marvelous skill of many of Europe's noted artists. Lyman Brunt's elaborate painting entitled "The Celestial City," and Mertz Verlon's picture of the New Orleans slave mart, and secondly it has brought back into prominence the majesties of that grand old lady, Harriett Beecher Stowe, and serves to revival the beautiful lessons ready to be learned by careful attention. Second to the Holy Book does "Uncle Tom's Cabin" rank as a sacred instrument. The pulpit has endorsed it as a moral teacher worthy of mankind's support, while the Board of Education in many of the large cities has encouraged scholars in witnessing the worthy dramatization of the story that was limited mental in making our country religious, free and happy. Like a poet's composed book, there are many versions of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" now being forced upon the public under confessed coverings, which are detrimental to the greatest degree. They are usually short lived, for the people of today are not to be bewildered as readily as those of not so many years ago. It is a known fact that William H. Kibble possesses the original version of Mrs. Stowe's story, and that it has been unanimously accepted by the people of the United States, Canada and England. The Kibble revival will be brought to Griffin's Opera House, matinee and evening, Thursday, April 13th, the matinee performance being at 4-15.

CITY OF ALGIERS IS BEAUTY SPOT

the buildings being massive and of the most substantial kinds that are on the aristocratic blocks that we have seen, at once proceeded to Ain Taya through the city streets where all the very best and we are given for miles through first the business part of the city, then in the market, the churches, the army section and finally with a view of the better residential section, known as the Mustapha Superieur. I think I can say we enjoyed one of the most delightful rides we have had in any city and this I say after having the celebrated drive to Florence up the hillsides to Fiesole and the ride to Amalfi.

The villas in the Southern Palaces and with through the beautiful grounds which we took in which and ask why our gardens could make us look. Well and thoughtful it all we are at Montecarlo.

But the greatest surprise to the writer was that of the business places. They are mostly located on the Boulevard de la Republic which is said to have cost fifteen million dollars in the construction. The stores are like a lot of money to the Chairman of Public Works in Belleville but anywhere else in the great Southern could easily understand that it would cost real money and a lot of it. But how the stores and business places! Many of these are located on this Boulevard and on either side for perhaps a quarter of a mile there is one continuous colonnade fronting the finest store fronts I have ever seen. Some side has said that only Paris can equal the street fronts of Algiers and of one thing I am certain, is this, no other city that I have ever seen either in America or Europe, so far, can equal those of Algiers.

But there is another side to Algiers and to most people this would in one sense be more interesting. This is the Arab or Native section. This is found to represent the Orient in days of long ago. The very strangest customs prevail, here all mingled together we see all the peoples of North Africa and many others from far away lands. We never saw such a strange mixture of people, and yet each and all seem to be picked out by the native dress. All these strangely costumed people were huddled together in the narrowest of narrow streets possible, after dark that one is often compelled to feel ones way and yet these same little booths facing the dark streets, the people doing their buying and selling, their eating and sleeping, their praying and their drinking all in full public view and in dirt that would cause one to draw back in fear of some dread contagion. It requires real nerve to visit all sections of the Arab Quarter where all Native Dances are indulged in, indescribably many features that would not appeal to people of the better sort in a city like our own and yet these are but samples of the life that is now in Northern Africa.

Now, I might continue this letter to almost any length but in consideration of your readers I will not do so but this one thing I do want to say: Algiers stands as a memorial to French enterprise in contrast with that of Peoriers which is under Spanish domination, but more than this I wish to point out that less than one hundred years ago, the little town of Algiers through its organized pirates held the whole world in terror and compelled toll from every vessel on the Mediterranean. It is the Arab Section alone, lost over three hundred ships to these pirates of Algiers and what this thousands of brave sailors were enslaved here.

And now as we say au revoir to Algiers, I would note more convey best wishes and kind regards to all your many readers.

Sincerely yours,

D. V. SINCLAIR.

People who suffer from Indigestion, Rheumatism, Headache, Biliousness, Constipation and Kidney Pains will find almost instant relief by taking one Tanlaxd Calomel Tablet before meals, by two at bedtime. The secret of the success of this medicine is due to the fact that it is the only medicine that acts upon the liver. Besides, laxatives or castor oil are necessary after taking Tanlaxd. If you do not feel well get a small box of Tanlaxd Calomels from the druggist and you will feel fine in a day or so. It is sold at McKown's Drug Store.

CLEVER PERFORMANCE GREATLY ENJOYED

Boston English Opera Company Present Balfe's "The Bohemian Girl."

A full-sized audience greeted the return engagement of The Boston English Opera Company at Lish Opera House last night and their presentation of Balfe's ever-popular light opera "The Bohemian Girl" was enthusiastic.

It was sung with fine sympathy and abandon and as is well appreciated by the local critics, there was a distinctive, there are voices of the first quality in the company.

Normand Arnold, in the part of Thaddeus, held the audience spellbound by his rich tenor voice and wonderful interpretation in his role parts. Miss Helene Morrill, soprano, as Arline, excelled even her own notable triumphs and as Gypsy Queen de Jasseid of her Henry Kirby, who is possessed of a baritone voice of unusual sympathy and flexibility, took the part of the Count, and an actor and singer both he acquitted himself well. Edward Orchard was the part of Devilshoof and was a dashing rogue. Miss Dorothy Bott made a magnificent Buda as large with her colorful contralto voice. Florentine was played by Martin Albrecht, who was nimble and nominal in the part. Miss Frances Morreau was cast for the nurse in the Count's palace and filled that minor part most acceptably.

UNDER BOLSHEVIKI RULE.

Sergei Rachmaninov, who is known wherever good music is known as one of the most eminent of Russian pianists and composers, has given, in a letter recently published, a pathetic description of the condition of Russia's artists and intellectual workers under Bolshevikii rule. The description might be regarded as fanciful and exaggerated if it did not come from so good and authentically [illegible] Review. Please read it you can, he says, "a regime in the United States"—he is addressing the people of the United States—"that prohibited by force the publication of any current literature, magazines, books or any printed outlet for the theories, thoughts and ideals and dramas that surge in the brains of such minds! Imagine a condition that made of the creation of new music or wondrous paintings an effort not only to be derided but a crime as well!"

In this same picture, he goes on to say, the position of university and professors people is not to be covered from normal conditions, in that they would be viewed by the ruling classes much in the same light as one looks on the criminal classes. The most menial labor, even to the cleaning of the streets, is reserved for intellectual workers. Hard work, as Rachmaninov observes, will hurt no one, but when "a violinist, a doctor of philosophy, a poet, or a great portrait painter whose hands have been made for honorable effort in honorable professions is forced for no reason under the sun, except the mad whim of temporary rulers, to the bench and the plough, the mop and the hoe, then there is danger indeed that the human spirits will utterly and forever drop with discouragement and their messages die unspoken for the delight of posterity the world over."

So hard is the lot of some of these people that they are appealing to friends outside Russia for blank paper on which to write.

Pariah Bolsheykik, who profess great admiration—at long range—for the Russian system of government, would do well to give some consideration to the conditions described by Rachmaninov. Do they really want to make such conditions universal?

CHOOSING A CAREER.

A problem which is agitating middle-class parents in England is of direct interest also to the people of this country, who are, in fact, themselves experiencing difficulties of the same sort, though not on quite such an extended scale. The thorny question is being debated in the British press under the heading "What Shall We Do With Our Sons?" It is not a new problem, but the war has given it a keener edge, and the prevailing depression has increased its anxiety. The professions are overcrowded, especially those connected with engineering and science. It is becoming increasingly difficult, moreover, to place out young men of good education and qualifications in commercial life. Most authorities agree that the present situation will improve before very long, but there is little disposition to deny that the difficulty of finding a suitable career at remunerative wages for the sons of middle-class parents is one for which no adequate solution is in sight. Highly efficient candidates crowd one another for every vacancy, and the output of the colleges and high schools continues to increase.

As in the case of Britain's surplus labor population, so in regard to these trained men, the hopeful outlook is looked to as the logical field for their absorption. These jobless young men are being told, quite truly, that in countries like Canada, qualifications are the only essential credentials; that the need for experts in practically all departments is great, and that talent cannot possibly fail of its own reward. The effect of such advertising incitation is bound to be considerable, and we may anticipate an eager response. Men and women of this type are certainly welcome, but they should understand that they will not find an empty field when they get here. Our own high schools and colleges are overcrowded, and for their part busy in turning out great numbers of aspirants to position, both in the professions and in commercial occupations.

The situation is giving rise to the query, which is often raised, and is tacitly ruminated upon by many an anxious parent, as to whether higher education is worth while. Does it always repay the expenditure and effort necessary for its acquirement? The answer is yes, even in cases where the coveted financial returns fail to materialize. Scholarship and skill cannot be judged by mere utilitarian standard. Like virtue, they are their own reward. But, not on the low ground of dollars and cents, the educated man or woman, the trained mind, will always have the better chance in competition with others. There should be more discretion and advice, however, in the matter of choosing and training for a career, to prevent the overcrowding of certain popular professions and the comparative neglect of others. There is, perhaps, too much speculation. The young man or woman possessed of a good general education can turn his or her hand to anything and be reasonably sure of making a success of it. The specialist, on the other hand, may find the market for his particular brand of accomplishment glutted, in which case he is undoubtedly to be commiserated with.

Several Guelph merchants have been victimized by the enterprising forger. It appears difficult for many to learn that checks may be "loaded" as well as guns.

COMMUNIST NIGHTMARE

And so slowly but surely the eyes of Russia are being opened. Lenine who was to replace the curse of capitalism by the heaven of communism now cries for capital. The proletariat, who were to have bread and comfort and prosperity in the new Jerusalem, are being told to go to work. "Cease theorizing and dreaming and get to work," Lenine told the All-Russian Communist Congress this week, adding, not without grim humor: "You must be paragons of industry." So ends the latest Communist nightmare.

NO NEED FOR PANIC

Stratford Herald

The threatened coal strike is just like everything else. If people get panicky over it, there may be a lot of trouble which could be avoided. Ferry boats have been known to swamp when every passenger on board rushed over to one side of the boat. If people start laying in coal for next winter with an anxiety which has no reason for gain the effect will be just as felt when the strike becomes reality. There is reason to believe that existing stocks of coal are large enough to go round if the proper distribution is made and if economy is practised by all.

UNDER-REPRESENTATION

It is time that this "scandalous under-representation" ceased, both as regards Ontario and the whole Dominion. There are many people who regret that the Right Hon. It would have made a prodigious difference in the election; and surely the people of Ontario will that soon such an act being passed before another Provincial election is held.

Although you have read it ten times through.
I don't mean books like "Punch" in action,
Or all the volumes of "Notes and Queries,"
But those wherein, without effort, your eyes

The Professor of Biology entered the classroom full of excitement and bade his students pay great attention to what he was about to show them. I have secured, he announced, a dissected frog—a most interesting specimen indeed, and, drawing a parcel from his pocket, unwrapped the covering and displayed—half-and-half sandwiches! For a moment he gazed at the unexpected sight in bewilderment, then remarked, in good gracious! I am sure I ate my lunch.

Little Jackie was spending a holiday in the country and was highly entertained by everything he saw in the barn and farmyard. The old rooster's cackle to announce that she had laid an egg was a never-failing source of delight. He always stood ready, once to get the egg immediately.

One day he was allowed the privilege of gifting all by himself to fetch the treasure. Shortly he came running back excitedly, but his expression was not great. He tripped and fell.

In a minute his hands and blouse were smeared with yolker as he clutched bits of broken shell.

But he came up smiling to his mother. "Oh, mummie, he cried, as he held up the fragments, I had a fall, but its all right, 'cause I didn't lose anything, only the juice.

THE PEW FOR YOU IS

I didn't know she loved Ill
A moment ere the church went in,
It almost made my heart stand still,
I heard her thro' the bell's loud din,
"How dye do" to the Khan,
There's room for you,
In Father's pew.

The chants were fine, the hymns were sweet,
The sermon read a fine balsamic effect,
And there I sat with heart akin,
And heard one single anthem'd wail,
"How dye do" to the Khan,
There's room for you,
In Father's pew.

I sensed her gown against my hand,
I felt her breath against my cheek,
All things were holy, rich and grand,
The reason why—not far to seek,
How dye do!
There's room for you,
In Father's pew."

In years gone by the bell mockingly clang
In vain the noblest music roll.
Last night the little song she sang,
Hath saved my future and my soul,
"How dye do?
There's room for you,
In Father's pew."

And should she die before I do,
Short him to the heavenly shrine,
The little girl I used to woo,
She'll smile and say, so debonair,
"How dye do?
There's room for you,
In Father's pew."

You seek for Cupid, brother mine?
Take my advice, just journey a bit
Go seek him in the nearest shrine,
For Cupid is a great church-goer!

There's room for you,
In Father's pew."

Individual members of the committee have visited the various schools, in order to get in touch with the principals and teachers, who are asked to organize the pupils as to safety methods. They are told to in casual ways about in crossing railways tracks, to stop, look, and listen. Much excellent co-operation has been secured in this manner. Superintendent McMillan points out that while not walking with a nodding youngster, a parent always warns the child to watch for approaching danger. If this is followed up, after the children are able to run about themselves, and until they are thoroughly educated as to dangers, and precautions to take the toll of accidents will be decreased considerably.

Special officers have been stationed at the highway crossings where there is heavy traffic, with instructions to settle license number and report to the league of the careless auto driver.

"I would be in favor of having a "Safety First" sign pasted on the windshield of every automobile", said Mr. McMillan. "We must protect the lives of our children and aged people, who are liable to be killed or injured at railway crossings and street intersections. Mr. McMillan's working theory is very practical, that "You can rebuild and reconstruct an engine or an automobile, but you cannot restore life", so by all means according to this very true saying, make every effort to protect humanity.

A Business Talk to Young Business Women
YOU will generally find that well-informed stenographers, teachers, secretaries and other salaried women employers hold one or more life insurance policies, including probably an endowment. This policy has many attractive features.
An endowment policy is a provision for her own future.
An endowment policy is a particularly good one for the woman who desires to make a sound and profitable investment of her savings.
If she should die before her endowment policy is paid up, the full amount of the policy will be paid to her mother or any other person she may name.
Her policy after the first three years always has a cash surrender value. And she can readily secure a loan from the Company upon the security of her policy.
A profit-participating policy is the cheapest in the end, because the profits reduce the cost. These are the points business women are discussing at the Business Clubs and elsewhere.
One Canadian Company, and only one, shares its entire profits with its policyholders. Let us send you our booklet—"Life Assurance for Canadian Women"

ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT
ONEIDA, N.Y.

December 20, 1921.

Canadian Daily Newspapers Association,
902 Excelsior Life Building,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sirs:

Referring to your recent letter, I would say that I believe newspapers are a highly effective form of advertising. They not only reach channels impossible to reach by magazines, but they have an intensive effect not only on the consumer but on the dealer as well.

A woman, for instance, who sees an advertisement of COMMUNITY PLATE in her own newspaper realises at once that it must be on sale in her own town. COMMUNITY PLATE isn't in scalised and her buying impulse is greatly accentuated.

Of course, with the dealer, he knows from experience that newspaper advertising in his own town is especially valuable to him and can be made to directly bring him business.

We feel that newspaper advertising has played an important part in helping us to place COMMUNITY PLATE in the dominant position in the Canadian tableware market.

Sincerely yours,
Burton Bowne
Director of Advertising.

BLD'RM

This confident attitude of the consumer and the dealer is the key-stone of the daily newspaper's superiority. Local advertising which sends a buyer directly to the place where your product is on sale, is the dominating factor in linking the retailers' interest permanently with your own.

SOME RARE RECIPES YOU SHOULD HAVE

A goodly number of these recipes I know will be welcomed by those who have lost or mislaid their stock of rare recipes, so that any Cobalt Cookery Readers may have them.

Cherry Cobbler—Make a rich shortcake dough as for baking powder biscuits, using 2 cups flour, 2 tea spoons soda, 4 teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup sour milk. Roll out rather thin and cover the bottom of a deep pudding dish with the dough. Fill the dish with cherries, sweeten to taste and add a little flour to thicken the juice. Cover with dough and bake in a moderate oven, then, without removing the cake from the pan, spread on top of the cake a meringue made of the whites of 2 eggs beaten stiff with 4 tablespoons powdered sugar and flavored with vanilla. Return to the oven and brown delicately. Serve with whipped cream. Line the pan with greased paper. Serve in the same pan.

Lemon Sponge Cake—Beat the yolks of 3 eggs until thick, add 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon of flour, 1 teaspoon each of salt and nutmeg, a pinch of black pepper and the juice and grated rind of 1 lemon. Mix these ingredients thoroughly together and put them in the top of a double boiler, over boiling hot water, then add 3 well-beaten eggs and stir well. After these are hot, add ½ cup of vinegar and cook until as thick as custard. Then add 2 tablespoons of salad oil and beat with an egg-beater (off the fire) until well mixed.

Concord Indian Pudding: 5 tablespoons of "minute" tapioca, 4 tablespoons of cornmeal, 2 tablespoons of butter, 3-4 cup of molasses, 4 cups scalded sweet milk, 1 cup of seedless raisins, and 1 cup of apple cut up into small pieces (the apple may be left out, but is an improvement). Pour the table-spoon of butter over the cornmeal and tapioca, then add these ingredients in the top of a double boiler, over hot-water. Add the molasses and milk, and stir well. Bake in a deep dish for 2 hours in a moderate oven. Serve with cream or simply plain. This is very delicious.

Filled Cookies: Cream together 1 cup of granulated sugar and ½ cup of shortening. Add the yolk of 1 egg, ½ cup of sweet milk, 1½ cups of flour mixed and sifted with 1 teaspoon of vanilla, and fold in the stiffly-beaten egg-white. Roll out rather thin and cut with a cookie cutter. Put two of these cooked discs together in the greased baking pan with the following filling between them: Filling: Sour cream or buttermilk is a seasonal appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

This is because in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness in the world-wide; due, in a measure, to the exertion following the war, Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately, so vitally, connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. That "FRUIT-A-TIVES" will do.

Dandelion Salad

Mix equal parts of tender dandelion leaves and shredded lettuce, two tablespoons oil, one tablespoonful vinegar, one-half teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon sugar.

Wash and crisp dandelions as carefully as lettuce. Mix salt, sugar and pepper with vinegar and beat in oil drop by drop. Pour over greens and mix well. Serve with toasted cheese crackers. This salad has much the taste of French endive.

These are all simple old-fashioned recipes, but if carefully followed and painstakingly served the result is most satisfactory from every standpoint.

KEEP BABY WELL IN THE SPRING

Mothers who have little ones in the house find the Spring a time of great anxiety. At this season conditions make it necessary to keep the baby in order. He is often confined to overheated and badly ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds; constipation and colic, and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TEA GROWING VERY EXPENSIVE

The very high wages that have to be paid to workers on the tea plantations in India and Ceylon, due to social and political unrest, has caused the price of tea to rise consistently in the primary markets and in London. This influence is now being felt farther along the line and it is to be expected that the price of tea will increase to the consumer in the near future.

Just let them soak themselves perfectly clean with Rinso—the new scientific form of Soap in granules.

Do not put the Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth subsides put it in a tub of cool or lukewarm water and you will have enough for a batch of clothes. If the clothes are extra soiled, use more Rinso.

BODY REALLY SANE AT 30, LAWYER SAYS

Chicago, April 7.—"There is no such thing as a perfectly sane man or woman in the world who has reached the age of 50 years," declared Charles R. Webster, an attorney, in his address to the jury on behalf of the Northern Trust Company, proponents of the $1,000,000 will of Mrs. Angela C. Gormully. The will is being contested by relatives of the woman on the ground that she was of unsound mind eight months before her death.

Dwelling upon the question of the sanity, Mr. Webster said there are very few persons, men or women, whom you would call perfectly sane. Each has his pet delusion.

Oh, do tell me, now what you used to dream about in the Antarctic!" Preste padding, answered the explorer.

Two Snappy Games in City Indoor League Last Night

CANADIAN GAME IS REVIVED

Many Entries in Ontario Lacrosse League for This Season.

Toronto, Ont., April 8.—Canada's great summer and national game—lacrosse—is fast returning to popular favor, and during the next two years made strides far beyond the expectation of the most optimistic lacrosse lover. Some two or three years prior to the outbreak of the war game was at its zenith of interest and popularity in this province, but during the years of the conflict the ranks of the rough and ready pastime were decimated to the point where it was creeping into the quiet brought about by the "arts at all other sports. The supporters of the game were not slow to realize this and soon without any fuss or feathers the Province of Ontario Lacrosse Association was formed. Nevertheless, the Province of Ontario saw a change for the better and the game was promptly restored to its former position, and back just as in season of 1916 was getting under way with fresh vigor the European struggle again upset calculations and their practically every lacrosse player was to engage in the game was suspended for the duration of the war. Those left behind decided to carry on the junior, juvenile and midget series and in 1919 when the war concluded the boys from "over there" returned to find that their favorite pastime had not been neglected in their absence and the season of 1919 saw greater progress being made than for many previous years. In 1920 forty-five teams played in the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association series, while 57 junior and forty-three teams were entered, of which eight-five actively participated.

It was hoped that the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association would be revived during the coming season. Correspondence has been carried on between the Ontario and Manitoba interests but no definite plan has been formulated. Amateur lacrosse in the Pacific Coast is somewhat unsettled due to the trouble of three years ago between Vancouver Island and Victoria when the Mann Cup games were decided. It is claimed that Victoria refused to give up the cup in fact, they will only accept a challenge for the same upon their own terms.

Professional lacrosse appears to have had its day. Ottawa, Cornwall and Montreal teams operated last season on what might be termed a semi-professional league but the attendance at the games was rather limited. On the Pacific Coast matters are in even a worse condition in the Professional ranks, though Con. Jones who sparked so much interest in the past to get together a winning team tried again last season to get the fans to follow professional lacrosse, but not withstanding the fact that he invested open the gates and charged no admission to see the contests the citizens would not give him their patronage. Several men were taken from the Maple Leaf and played under the colours of Seattle, but the venture was a heavy losing proposition for Mr. Jones.

The Lord Desborough Cup, donated two years ago by the Toronto Board of Trade in the interests of lacrosse should also prove a help to stimulate interest in the game. Any team that

TWO SNAPPY INDOOR GAMES

Junior Athletic Club Defeat K. of C. and Intell. Down Scouts.

Two very snappy games of indoor baseball were played last night at the Armouries, between the Boy Scouts vs. Intell and the J. A. C. vs K. of C. The Intell. team won their game by a close score of 21 to 20 and the J.A.C. were too much for the Knights by a score of 27 against 5. The first named games were very evenly matched as the score will indicate, while the last two were fairly evenly matched although the J. A. C. had a better pitcher, namely Elliott."

The game between the Intelligencer and the Scouts was a fast and snappy game. Curry, pitcher for the Scouts was very good although nearly all of his balls were slow, the Intell. getting many long drives off his deliveries. Jeffrey, who replaced Curry in the seventh inning was very good, pitching them over with much steam. Lesser, the pitcher for the Intelligencer team was also very good. The Intell. was good at the bat, getting 15 runs in the fifth inning. The Scouts had a far better team than when they played the K. V. A., many changes being made.

The J. A. C. team was in fine form last night making many runs. The pitcher was excellent and worked fine. His was on the job all night, catching many flies that look impossible. H. Hurley, pitcher for the K. of C. was very good too, although he seemed weak in the arm. The K. of C. team did not seem to be able to get away from the pitcher of the J. A. C.

The line-up of the first two teams were as follows:—

Boy Scouts—Crozier, c; Buskard, c.f; Jeffrey, 3rd b; Leigh, s.s; Curry, p; Boyle, 2nd b; Myles, 1st b; Ilfe-head, l.f; Walls, r.f.

Intelligencer—L. Mason, c; R. Scott c.f; McLeod, 3rd b; Anderson, s.s; Lesser, p; J. Mason, 2nd b; B. Scott, 1st b; Ridley, l.f; Hutchison, r.f.

The line up of the last two teams:—J. A. C.—Hurley, c; Allen, 3rd b; Elliott, p; Hagerman, 2nd b; Armstrong, s.s; Maidens, 1st b; Cole, c; Marshall, r.f; Manley, r.f.

K. of C.—Barrett, c.f; D. Whalen, 3rd b; E. Hurley, p; Hart, 2nd b; D. Doran, s.s; H. Whalen, 1st b; Garvin, c; Dewey, r.f; Harris, l.f.

Strike and balls umpire—K. Colling. Base Umpire—M. Brant and Vern. Weir.

comes second to its group games has the right to challenge, and which should result in many teams continuing their season in a effort to win the coveted trophy who would otherwise hang up their sticks in the early part of August and leave the lacrosse fans clamoring for further matches. Amateur teams in any part of the Dominion may compete for this trophy.

Pitcher Frank ("Dixie") Davis of the St. Louis Americans, and William Doak, pitcher of the local Nationals, have been afflicted with sore arms, which may have some effect on the early playing of both teams, at these men expected to be among the main pitchers of the teams this season.

DIAMOND DUST

Dan Howley, former Leafs pilot, is in charge of the Detroit team during Cobb's absence.

Frank Baker is hitting home runs with great regularity on the training trip, while the much press-agented "Babe" Ruth is having trouble enough to get singles.

Picking on the visiting major league clubs is becoming a pastime of the Wichita team, champions of the Western League. After conquering Cleveland on Sunday 7 to 2, the Kansans came back again on Wednesday and trounced Manager Killefer's Chicago Nationals, 4 to 3.

"Babe" Ruth has expressed the opinion that he will not be able to better or even tie his 1921 home-run record during the coming season. As Ruth will be out of the game for six weeks, he is only predicting something that everybody already takes for granted.

If all American League clubs waive on "Pop" Young, and he is given his unconditional release by the Detroit Club, something that must be done if waivers are obtained, he will try to land it, the Pacific Coast League this season, and at the conclusion of the Coast race retire from baseball. Young has business interests in Philadelphia, to which he intends to devote his attention.

SUZANNE TO RESUME PLAYING

Paris, April 7.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen is among the entrants for the singles, doubles and mixed doubles events in the Cannes tennis tournament, which begins to-morrow. If Mlle Lenglen plays it will be the first time she has entered a competition in this country since she was defeated last year in the United States by Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory.

In their game against the Carters last night the Bowlers did not pile up a tremendous score but were good enough to win from the former by a safe margin. SPORT STUFF

April is the bugler that pipes the reveille of sport, says Grantland Rice. And this April happens to start under way the greatest programme that sport has ever known—not only in a competitive wa yfort for a greater army of participants. Within less than a fortnight the Penn. relay team visits Oxford and Cambridge in the first of the international tests, and only a day or so after this the first major league box scores begin to blossom throughout the land. In addition to the unending swarm of golf and tennis. Yellowed with flutter out again at the first of the big crew races comes within two weeks, and before the month is out the hurly-burly will be terrific. The dazed citizen, interested in sport, will be in a dizzy condition as he attempts to follow the spectacular whirl, but from now until next December the nation's real wealth—meaning happiness—will be more than doubled. Which is something.

It is Not True
That people "begin wearing glasses too soon." Because when the skilful Optometrist finishes examining a pair of eyes he knows what their condition is; he knows what they need and what they don't need; he will not put glasses on that patient unless they are necessary.

It is a Fact
That many who could at one time have seen more by a trifle corrected very easily and comparatively quickly, defer having their eyes examined until their ocular muscles are in such a chronic condition that the correction of their defect is much more tedious and difficult to use than would have been the case had proper advice been sought early.

The service of our Optometrist with his long period of practice and up-to-date education is a "safety first" proposition.

SHE FOUND RELIEF AFTER FIVE YEARS

An Ex-Service Man Tells How His Wife Found New Health.

"I wish to testify", says Mr. R. A. F. Hughes, of Hamilton, Ont., "as to the efficiency of your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the following reasons:

"When I returned home in May, 1919, after nearly five years absence on army service, my wife had changed from a healthy, robust woman, to one whose life was a burden and ordinary duties almost impossible. Through incessantly undergoing what I might describe as an undermining process, for years."

"I was fully aware from her letters that I would not find her the same woman, but, when I reached home, I was terribly shocked to find her in the condition she was in. Her healthy color had changed. She seemed bloodless, very likely was sallow. She was worked out, listless, and with difficulty moved about the house. She hardly ever moved out of the house as she became so short of breath and scared she would fall during one of her dizzy spells, which she said were becoming more frequent.

"The day I arrived home I visited our doctor, who is an old friend, and, later through his advice, consulted with another physician of this city. Everything was done that could be done, and many medicines were prescribed and faithfully taken. As these were of no avail I trusted that time alone would suffice to build up what had gradually been undone in the course of five years. After twelve months' condition had become worse. Then I thought, against all of six, gave up my position in the city and moved to the country. Even this did not help her. I think I added to her depression.

"One day a friend called in and as a result of their conversation my wife made me put mind to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I had not much faith in what I did, but procured three boxes. This happened nine months ago. I was surprised to hear my wife say, after about the tenth day, 'I believe these pills are doing me good.' A week or so after that I certainly believed they were, for I saw color returning to her cheeks and the sallow, unhealthy color disappearing. The pills were certainly doing what you claim they will do, and of her own free will she continued them for about three months. At the end of this time she swept quite a different woman. Life was worth living. The listlessness had gone and she could walk up the sleep hill which is part a mile long, reaching the car without the slightest inconvenience. At this stage she discontinued the pills and she is just as well now as ever she was.

"Now sir, I want to say I have every faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as I have had proof, and I believe that what this medicine did for my wife, it can do for others."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SPRING FISHING HAS OPENED

Schooners Sail for Fishing Banks, Among Them the Bluenose.

Halifax, April 8.—Nova Scotia will have a larger number of deep fishing vessels engaged in the south of fishing this year than in any spring since the war, and leaders in the fishing industry anticipate a record financial season for 1922. The fishing business was one of the first to go to pieces, when the cycle of business depression set in, but it is now well on the road to recovery, and the activity everywhere manifest in this industry is giving an impetus to all kinds of business throughout Province.

Scores of schooners have already sailed for the fishing banks and others are being fitted out as fast as possible. The well-known racer "Bluenose" was one of the first to sail.

To the spring fishing Lunenburg, which for some years past has had numbers of grand bankers lying idle, will send out practically every vessel of its big fleet, which is not away on a trading voyage. And whether or not the spring trip is a success, the indication are that the summer and fall fishing for the fishing will be pressed into service for the summer trip to the Grand Banks. Much ice has been reported on some of the fishing banks this spring, but in spite of that the fishing industry have been eager to make an early start.

According to prominent fish merchants here the fish markets are in a position to absorb a big catch this year. Very few dealers have stocks of any importance on their hands, and for the past two months prices have been increasing, though usually at this season of the year the tendency of prices is to decline. There does not appear to be any noticeable increase in the consumption of fish as might be expected during the period of general business depression, though fish was the first food stuff to drop to the low price level. The present favorable market conditions are attributed to the fact that the catch last year was comparatively small, and available stocks are now smaller than at any time for years. A big catch this year will be necessary to meet the requirements of dealers and get the normal yearly over of stock.

With the revival of the fish industry, the shipyards where schooners and scows are constructed are also showing signs of activity.

After the ceremony, which was conducted by Rev. H. Grover, Pastor of Parkdale Baptist church, the happy couple took a short honey-moon trip, on their return were tendered a reception at the home of the groom's sister, where some forty guests joined in the well wishing of the happy couple. Mr. and Mrs Grahame will reside in Toronto. The bride was a former employee of the Intelligencer office.

GENOA ECONOMIC CONFERENCE FORMALLY OPENED TO-DAY

First Sod Turned For New King George School

Without Any Preliminary Speech Making or Ceremony, Ex-Chairman McGie Performs the Ceremony of Turning the First Sod —Location of School is Set by Members of the Board of Education—Site is a Perfect One.

MORE DETAILS OF THE BUILDING

A number of the members of the Board of Education of this city, also some of the Aldermen of the City Council and interested citizens assembled this morning on the site of the new King George School in Coleman Ward. The site procured by the Board is all that could be desired for such a building. It is located on the west side of North Front Street, just south of the G. T. R. overhead bridge, being formerly owned by Mr. S. Weddon, who, by the way, was at one time a member of the Board of Education. There is seven acres of land in the site acquired by the School Board, which will provide for a baseball diamond and space for other games after the school is erected.

The visit of the officials today was for the purpose of locating the school building, so that the contractors, Messrs. Manley & Son, could proceed at once with the excavating for the foundations. It was decided to locate the school in the centre of the site, north and south, and the front will be 132 feet from the road line and facing North Front street. The depth of the building will be 95 feet 10 inches and the frontage will be 134 feet. The location of the building is unanimously agreed upon. While there was no speech-making in connection with the turning of the first sod, the act was performed by Mr. Arthur McGie, ex-chairman of the School Board and at present chairman of the Sites, Buildings and Repairs committee. It was not a difficult task as the sod was soft after the rain of the past few days.

The contractors were present upon the ground and went to work immediately in staking out the ground for the excavation purposes, after the site had been selected. It is the intention of Mr. Manley to prosecute the work of construction as rapidly as possible, and thereby have the school in use by the fall, when finished, the pride of Coleman Ward. It will also provide an incentive for building operations in that part of the city.

The members of the Board who were present were Messrs. H. W. Ackerman, H. Crosher, A. McGie, H. Chown, D. Bleecker, W. B. Riggs, F. S. Dobson, Dr. Marshall, L. F. Hughes and P. Harrison.

Members of the City Council were Aldermen Thompson, Deputy Mayor, McCrosty, French and Patterson. Mr. Beaumont Jarvis, the architect, was also present with the board officials, etc., and was prepared to give any information it was possible of to give.

LOCAL DIV. SUPT. IS HONORED BY GOV.-GEN.

The Governor General, who is on a tour of Southern Ontario cities, has presented a gold and enamel scarf pin, carrying the Royal Crest, to Supt. J. D. McMillan of the Grand Trunk, marking his appreciation of the courtesy service received on the system.

THREE MONTHS IN REFORMATORY

Sentence Imposed Upon Russell Clarke on Vagrancy Charge.

Russell Clarke, the young man who some days ago was taken in charge of the police at the Union Station, Toronto, and brought back to Belleville on a charge of abduction, also wanted in Saint John, New Brunswick, was also given a suspended sentence. Last week he was again taken in the police net in Saint John, and was found in company with the girl he abducted. This morning Clarke appeared before Judge Deroche, when he was sentenced on a charge of vagrancy. The sentence was an intimate one of only three months and not to exceed two years less one day in the provincial reformatory. At the local trial one of the stipulations of the suspended sentence enjoined Clarke to keep away from the girl in the case.

PICKEREL AND PIKE ARE NOT UP YET

Herring in Bay for First Time in Forty Years.

Old fishermen, who know all the signs pointed in the bay, through their years of experience, made a real discovery in the Bay at the week-end, many on Sunday. They saw a number of herring, a variety that has not been seen here in 40 years or they say. Herring come up to the fall each year but have not been seen in the spring time.

The white fish and trout are hatching wonderfully these days, according to information supplied by the officials at the Hatchery, but the pickerel and pike have not been seen as yet. Pickerel do not come up in the spring as a rule anyway as it is then they are very plentiful at Shannonville. The men from the hatchery had nets up Wednesday and some fish were made them take them down. They now have to set at Trenton and a man in charge of the fishing work had been as yet received as to his luck.

SECOND WEEK OF COAL STRIKE

Unions Are Gaining Ground in Non-union Fields, Says Lewis.

OPERATORS' CLAIMS

Granting of Strikers' Demands Would Add $3 to Every Ton.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 10.—The second week of the strike of the union coal miners got under way today with union's organization still presenting an unbroken front and the situation in the non-union fields becoming more favorable to the unions' cause, according to President Lewis, of the United Mine Worker of America. He declared that the union is gaining strength in the non-union fields.

New York—The granting of the Anthracite miners' demands would add about one hundred and seventy million dollars to the annual coal bill—$3 on every ton—operators declared here today in opening their campaign for a settlement of the strike on a basis of wage reductions.

Sydney, N.S.—A proposal to parade the "starving women and naked children" of the mining districts before the Gillen Board when it meets at Glace Bay next week was one of the features of a meeting held by the United Mine Workers yesterday afternoon.

J. B. MacLachlan, District Secretary-treasurer, was the principal speaker, and he denounced the laws, Judges, lawyers and politicians.

MacLachlan claimed the British Empire Steel Corporation had stultified itself during the present dispute by actions by entire years, and that by declaring them to be the highest it could possibly pay, and then granting a higher rate.

GYPSY MAID GETS MONEY

Tells Conductor's Fortune but Costs a Fortune to Hear it.

The suckers may not be up yet, but there are plenty on the land, as Prof. T. Barnum so aptly described the population. A case was brought before the attention of the provincial and city police on Sunday.

A caravan of gypsies are camped on the Kingston Road, and as usual have among them the prophets and fortune-tellers. A local conductor, wishing to know what the future held for him, decided to ascertain the subject for the fortune-teller. Before anything was told, however, the gypsy operator blew on the bills, and when the "reckoning up" took place his roll was minus a ten spot.

The provincial police searched the outfit on Sunday for firearms and for articles stolen last week in Kingston, but nothing was found., A Kingston doctor's residence was burglarized last week, when $500 worth of cut jewelry, jewellery, etc., was taken. The caravan was camped in the vicinity at the time and it was thought they might have known something about the burglary.

The same band bivouacked by the roadside a few miles from Napanee, and tore down a farmer's fence for firewood. The act, however, was discovered and they were brought to police court and fined $21.50.

Nothing was forthcoming from the police descent and after a thorough search no arrests were made.

SERIOUS FIGHTING IN ASIA MINOR

Greeks and Turks Are Battling Despite Allied Peace Efforts.

Athens, April 10.—Quite serious fighting has occurred between Greek and Turkish forces on the Dorylee front in Asia Minor, in spite of the efforts of the allied powers to bring about a truce there. During the fighting two Greek soldiers were killed and 14 were wounded, an official report states that in front of the Greek positions a large number of Turkish dead were seen. One of the dead Turks was an officer.

BISHOP OF ONT. PREACHES HERE

Forty-One Candidates Confirmed at St. Thomas' Church by Bishop.

There was a good attendance at St. Thomas' Church on Sunday morning, Bishop Reeve, Rev. Canon Bleasdale, Bishop E. J. Bidwell, D. D., D. C. L., conducted the confirmation ceremony. The candidates and the congregation were confirmed at this service, 15 males and 26 females. His Lordship Bishop Reeve is to be ordained to-day by the Rev. Archdeacon G. R. Beamish, rector.

The verses from which the sermon was chosen, was in Matthew 26th chapter, the 58th verse, from the words "But Peter followed him afar off," where the story of the Denial of Christ by Peter, is told. His Lordship emphasized the fact that there ought to be no neutrality in religion, "We are either a good disciple of Christ, or we are not. Jesus Christ says that there very plain himself while on earth, on three occasions at least.

When a candidate for the discipleship approached Jesus once, he asked the candidate if he knew what it would be to face the ridicule attached to a disciple. "The fowls of the air have nests, but the son of man hath no place to lay his head," continued that true discipleship meant the giving up of one's self to Christ. On a second occasion, Jesus informed a disciple who wished to bury his father, prior to leaving on his mission as a disciple, that he was first, "Let the dead bury the dead." Thirdly, when another disciple wished to bid farewell to his dear ones, Christ exclaimed that he would not be privelcged to do so, if he were a true disciple, for, "No man having put his hand to the plough and looking back is fit for the kingdom of God."

PAST PRESIDENT IS HONORED

Rotarian J. G. Moffatt is Presented With Emblem by Fellow Rotarians.

In appreciation of his efforts in the interests of Rotary, and his splendid work during the year 1921, Past President Gordon Moffatt was today presented with a diamond Rotary emblem by the members of the club at the annual meeting luncheon at the Quinte Hotel. Secretary E. Goss Porter, K. C., M.P., made the presentation on behalf of the club and in a few well chosen words extolled the virtues of the retiring president.

This was the club's annual meeting day, which had been postponed, and seldom, if ever, has there been a more enthusiastic meeting of the Rotarians here. The incoming president, Rotarian W. B. Deacon, was greeted with the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and three hearty cheers, and a tiger when he arose to speak. Past President Moffatt and Secretary Scott were also the recipients of that honor today.

Pres. Deacon briefly outlined his duty and promised the members his faithful attention to duty. He made a strong plea, however, for the co-operation of the club members in every undertaking as a condition for the continued good service of the club.

The financial report, as presented by Rotarian Chas. Symons showed

BRITISH TROOPS IN DUBLIN

Soldiers' Appearance for First Time Since Truce Causes Sensation.

MORE RIOTING

Irish Minister for Foreign Affairs is Very Roughly Handled.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer and Canadian Press, Limited

Dublin, April 10.—Surprise, amounting to almost a sensation in certain sections of Dublin was caused yesterday with the appearance of British military foot soldiers, fully armed on the streets for the first time since the creation of the truce.

Tullamore, Kings County—George Gavan Duffy, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was seized by a crowd of young men and women and dragged from the platform upon which he was making an address in support of the treaty here yesterday. After counter mobs consternation the disturbers withdrew, shouting: "Long live De Valera", "Long live the Republic of Ireland."

London—News has reached Limerick of an attack on the police barracks at Broadford, County Clare, manned by the official Free State troops. There was a heavy exchange of fire, but the besieged forces were relieved by Capt. Wm. O'Brien, in charge of the troops in the barracks was fatally wounded.

London—It was rumored in London and Dublin late last night that the secret meeting of the Irish Republican army, in Dublin yesterday deposed Eamon de Valera as leader of the Republican army. The Daily Mail this morning.

The newspaper adds that what actually happened is a mystery, but says confirmation of the rumor is given by the statement that "de Valera now has no governing part in the Republican army."

POLICE SUMMONS MANY LOITERERS

Drastic Action is Taken by Authorities on Street Loungers.

On Sunday evening some members of the Belleville police force in plain clothes took the names of several young men who were loitering in doorways and at street corners on Front and Bridge streets. Summonses will be secured and summonses will be issued for their appearance in the police court part of the week. The charge will be that of loitering. One of the young men refused to give his name or address and the part of the police will be much appreciated by the public and will have a tendency to stop the blocking of doorways on Sundays and evenings during the week. It is time this nuisance was eliminated.

MANITOBA'S LIQUOR SALES UNDER PROHIBITORY LAW

Winnipeg, April 10.—A total of 1,211,461 prescriptions have been issued and 510,993 gallons of liquor distributed by stores in Manitoba since prohibition came into force, according to information tabled in the Legislature by Hon. Thomas Johnson, Attorney-General.

The number of prescriptions issued monthly since the 15-gallon law came into effect has decreased very little in January of this year there were 16,241 prescriptions issued and 1,466 gallons of liquor sold through the official channels.

Before Hon. Mr. Johnson prorogued this morning, a resolution calling upon the Dominion Government to rescind the Canada Wheat Board and to provide a better system of marketing of grain was unanimously passed.

MAURETANIA'S NEW RECORD.

Cherbourg, April 10.—The Cunard steamship Mauretania, arrived today from New York, making the trip from the Ambrose Channel lightship, 3161 miles, in five days ten hours and nine minutes, which is declared to be the fastest time recorded by any transatlantic vessel since the beginning of the war in August, 1914.

CHILD'S WELFARE WEEK'S THOUGHT

Do you know that there were 73,511 babies born last year in Ontario?

Do you know that 7,804 babies under one year of age died last year in Ontario?

Think what this means. Imagine nearly 8,000 families with the suffering and sorrow of a little baby's death.

Do you know that ignorance is the cause of many of these babies' deaths?

Many babies die because mothers have not the knowledge necessary to rear their children successfully. Mothers must be educated.

It is unnatural for a baby to be sick. Every child has a right to be loved, to be protected from disease, and to have a fair chance in life.

KILLS COMRADE IN BIG ROBBERY

Former London Preacher of the Gospel Commits Murder inPrison.

Los Angeles, April 10.—Herbert Wilson, formerly a minister of the Gospel in Ontario and London, Ont., held in the county jail pending trial for robbery of the mails here of nearly $1,000,000 on the night of April 30, 1920, shot and killed his alleged accomplice, Herbert R. Cox, just after officials had frustrated what they attempted jail-break late yesterday.

Cox, Wilson and Eddie O'Brien, recently arrested here in connection with a mail robbery at Toledo, Ohio, more than a year ago, had made their escape from the jail proper and were on the "bridge of sighs", a passageway leading to the Hall of Justice, when Deputy Sheriffs closed in on them.

Then Wilson trained a revolver upon Cox and killed the latter. Officers said there had been bad blood between the men since shortly after their arrest, when Cox was said to have made a statement to Federal officers, and the report became current he would testify for the State at Wilson's trial.

MINERS MAKE THREATS.

Sydney, N.S., April 10.—"Every pumpman and fireman will be called out, not a wheel will turn, and we will make industry as silent as a graveyard," said Secretary McClellan, of District 26, United Mine Workers, addressing a labor meeting here, referring to a possible lock-out in the Nova Scotia coal mines. "If we cannot be guaranteed a living wage, we will organize an army that will sweep from the Atlantic to the Pacific," he said.

POLICE CHIEF SHOT BY FLEEING BURGLARS

Thamesville Police Official Receives Severe Wound in Leg While Attempting to Arrest Three Burglars Single Handed.

Thamesville, April 10.—Chief of police William Pickard of this village was shot through the left leg by burglars at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, both bones being badly shattered. It is probable that amputation will be necessary.

Answering a telephone call from the central operator, who had been notified by nearby residents that a new line burglars at work at Bambridge's store, Chief Pickard responded immediately, single-handed, he made an attempt to capture the men. When the Chief came within fifty yards of the store one of the men who was keeping guard sprang out of the door and beat a hasty retreat. Pickard fired two shots in the direction of the fleeing man, when two others who were inside the store came out and fired three shots at the officer, one shot hitting its mark.

Within a few minutes several residents were on the scene, and an alarm was sounded, which brought scores of men to the street, a large number being heavily armed, as the reports of the revolvers had told them serious trouble was brewing.

Two large touring-chiefs were found near the scene of the shooting. These were recognized as belonging to Wallace's planning mill. Examination at the mill proved that padlock had been broken and the tools taken.

A message to High County Constable Mitchell of Chatham, brought him to town in short order and chase was at once given. The trail led to Ridgetown, where Constables two Indians named Ed. Ryckman, junr., and Richardson Logan were placed. Ryckman met and left in charge of local citizens, while a hunt was made for Zimmer Noah, the third man suspected. Logan made an attempt to capture the men. When the Chic came within fifty yards of the two of the men who was keeping guard sprang out of the door and beat a hasty retreat. Pickard fired two shots in the direction of the fleeing man, when two others who were inside the store came out and fired three shots at the officer, one shot hitting its mark.

GENOA MEETING OPENS TODAY

Most Momentous Conference Since the Versailles Peace Deliberations.

RUSSIA'S PART

All Eyes Are Turned on Bolsheviki Delegates at the Conference.

Genoa, April 10.—Representatives of more than 40 nations, including Russia but minus the United States, here to-day prepared for the opening of the Genoa Economic Conference, regarded as the most momentous assembly since the Versailles peace deliberations.

All eyes are upon Russia, for it is the first time this great nation has participated in world affairs since the overthrow of Kerensky's provisional government in the spring of 1917. After more than four years of experimental government, Nikolai Lenine, Russian Premier, has abandoned much of what he previously considered essential to bolshevism and has consented to participate in a conference called by "capitalistic nations".

On the opening day's gathering will be political rather than economic; the United States has declined Italy's invitation to participate therein, The American people, Secretary Hughes said in declining the invitation, are desirous to assist Europe in recovering its economic life but feel that they cannot involve themselves in European politics.

Decision to call the Genoa conference was reached by the Allied Supreme Council during the winter. Early in January Rapidly diminishing European exchange, billions of dollars in unpaid debts, German Reparations, necessity of reconstructing devastated areas, the Russian situation and fear that United States would lend itself as a stabilizing influence constituted the pressure behind this decision.

Germany, represented in a passive capacity in nearly all European conferences since the armistice, is expected to play a more active part at Genoa. Many observers even go so far as to predict that Great Britain and Germany will dominate the assembly by working hand in hand for the salvation of their industries and through the resurrection of their markets in the east and south.

Briefly, the conference will seek to accomplish some means for the granting or extension of foreign credits to enable ruined enfeebled countries and will then attempt to set up machinery for securing such foreign capital that the fruits of its investment will not be lost.

The revolution calling the conference, referring to a possible lock-out in the Nova Scotia coal mines. "If we cannot be guaranteed a living wage, we will organize an army that will sweep from the Atlantic to the Pacific," he said.

TWO SWEPT TO DEATH WHEN HUGE DAM COLLAPSES

Principal C. N. Stalker and Pupil of Parry Sound School Are Swept Away in a Raging Torrent of Water.

Parry Sound, April 10—Two lost their lives and several others had narrow escapes from drowning when the dam at the Parry Sound lumber mill went out yesterday afternoon. Cecil N. Stalker, the young and popular Principal of the Victor School, and Donald Bruce, a boy of nine years, were washed away in the raging flood as the waters of the mill burst the gates which they were standing was burst by the force of the swollen river; Kathleen Bruce, the sister of the dead boy, leaped to safety as the dam went, while a boy named Fleming was clinging to a portion of the broken dam and was rescued.

Mr. Stalker and a number of others had gone this afternoon to watch the raging water as it surged over the dam. Swollen with the melting snow and fed by thousands of tributary torrents as it made its way to the lake, the river was a magnificent sight at this point. Suddenly, without warning, the dam, which seemed massive enough, but which was unable to cope with the force of the torrent, gave way. Mr. Stalker and Donald Bruce were swept down in the mass of entangled debris and the great flood of water that surged over the ruins of the dam. Their bodies have not yet been found although search parties have been working courageously since the catastrophe.

Principal Stalker came to Parry Sound last July. He was very popular with his pupils and the people of the town, and was considered a young man of great promise. His father is an invalid and there also survive one brother living in Toronto and two others living in Durham.

REX STOCK COMPANY'S PRESENTATION OF "SPENDERS" AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

The play selected for presentation by the popular Rex Stock Company at Griffin's To-night, Tuesday and Wednesday is "The Spenders" or "For the Wives" deferred from presentation by Rex last week on account of the illness of Miss Vachis the popular leading lady of the company, who has entirely recovered from her cold as will appear with the company to-night.

"The Spenders" will unquestionably prove the most popular play this talented company will present here this season, and so enthused is Mr. Beckrow with the prospects of the popularity of the play that he is arranging to send it on tour next season, the beautiful scenery which will serve for the play here being specially painted or use with the play when it is sent on tour.

The play will serve to reveal the dramatic abilities of the members of the company, and will be one that positively can't stop forget, for it is a play of extreme dramatic action, and suspense, all entwined in a love story of exciting and unusual charm.

New vaudeville specialities will be introduced between acts.

LORD ROBERT CECIL.

Mr. Wells preferred a "project of successive conferences, throwing off committees embodying their results in treaties and standing committees." As a "permanent part of the League," said Lord Robert, "I have no objection to successive conferences. I consider the Covenant is held an annual general conference of some fifty nations, which we call the Assembly. It throws off committees, it has promulgated treaties, and has set up several standing commissions. If it is desired by supplement these activities by another set of conferences, no one can object. Only I think it will be found that some kind of secretariat will be necessary in order to give continuity to their deliberations, for without continuity very little effective work can be done at conferences. It would seem to be a pity to create a new international secretariat when a very efficient body of the kind already exists at Geneva."

Lord Robert directly traversed Mr. Wells' assertion that the proceedings of the League are mere camouflage. "The mandatory system," he said, "is a real thing. It is not perfect, but it has secured for a considerable mass of uncivilised humanity a definite standard of good government to be enforced by the public opinion of the world, acting through an international Mandates Commission. The machinery is actually in operation, and as far as one can see is likely to work satisfactorily. At present it is provisional owing to diplomatic difficulties with the United States, but these are likely to be overcome, and in any case, the commission is formed, has met, has received reports of the administration of the various mandated territories, and has drawn up its criticism of these reports which will be due course be published. Allowing for minor imperfections and inobjectiveness, it is surely more powerful to criticise than the mandatory system as camouflage.

"In other respects the work of the League is working with reasonable smoothness and steadiness. I can not aware of a single case where it has broken down. Mr. Wells believes that by a 'project of successive conferences,' establishing a enforced process of international cooperation, a network of treaties covering the world could gradually built up. But what is to happen to international disputes in the meantime? The League has already had to deal with several, and it had been dealing with might have dealt with others. It is doubtless true that conference is not the main thing. If nations wish to go to war, no machinery will stop them; but that is rarely. If ever, the case. What has happened usually in the past is that the great majority of every people desired peace, a small and energetic minority were for war, and the old international organisation was an association that dispute drifted on until the warlike minority got the issues into a position where peace was impossible!"

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN HERE THURSDAY, MATINEE & NIGHT

The William H. Kibble production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" which will be seen at the Griffin Opera House, Thursday, April 13th, with an afternoon matinee at 4:15 and usual evening performance, caught the public fancy. The theatres where the offering has been made are said to have been crowded at every performance, for a play holding the interest over fifty years within which period not a single season has elapsed during which it was entirely absent from the theatre. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" still exhibits wonderful vitality. Scorned, ridiculed and rejected of the elect in the more important theatres a few years ago, it is now welcomed in the very houses of art, and thousands are weeping and laughing over its various incidents nightly. The scenes which are displayed could not easily be improved. The company numbers many persons, whom are well known to Hollisville theatregoers from former visits with various attractions, and the many sterling thespian bloodhounds are trained to participate in the drama.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A YOUTHFUL ANCIENT.

One Capers on Life at the Age of 102.

Let us introduce Commodore Marcus Aurelius Hitchcock, of Point Edward. For eighty-two years he, the smiling, invigorating, booming but benevolent Lake Huron, has divided his career between the callings of fisherman and yachtsman, in both of which he is a past master. He has caught in his time, starting his lifetime, a million dollars' worth of herring and whitefish. He holds the medal for life-saving. But, best of all, though four-score, he is full of the old-time energy that won him in his early days the watch and table championship of the Port Sarnia district, and to-day his health and vitality are so nearly equal to his years that no money could buy.

Mr. Hitchcock's chief claim to fame is that he is one of the best performers on ice skates that Canada can boast. In the old days, at Belle Isle, Detroit, policemen lined up the crowds on both sides of the river skating course, in order that at night view his backward, crossing on skates, taken at full speed and guilelessly skating in three jumps before coming to a stand. He does not attempt the famous leap nowadays, but every year he dons the blades and astonishes the onlookers by doing, almost to the last difficult, but no less artistic figure skating which added a cause for him in his younger days.

Several weeks ago the commodore delighted a crowd on St. Andrew's Arena, Sarnia, by giving an exhibition of figure skating, which, for a man of his years, was truly marvelous. Quick as a flash, he would carve his initials, or run words like "Joe" on the ice, without taking his feet from the smooth surface. Then he would appear to have been decidedly creditable for a youth of twenty. To finish up in grand style, he sketched, with his facile skates, the figure of a life-like fish.

The commodore is one of the veteran fishermen of the Great Lakes. He recalls that in the old days sturgeon were very plentiful and that it was no uncommon thing to catch 100 to 200 of them every night, each weighing from 50 to 175 pounds. At that time sturgeon had no market the they have to-day, and were not considered a delicacy. Nothing, unless an catch netted him nothing, unless an occasional dime from an Indian would jog away a 100-pounder for that price. The commodore is statistically inclined and estimates that during his fishing career he netted about 800,000 pounds of the sturgeon species.

Whenever he speaks of his fishing days, Mr. Hitchcock always refers to the faithful horse, which, for thirty-seven years, helped him haul up his boats from the water. The animal has been and died in the same stall at Point Edward, and, all the equine way, created a record of service similar to its owner's.

Mr. Hitchcock would devote more time to the sport of skating except that his wife fears he might fall and suffer a fracture, which would prevent him from going to his work as a fisherman, in which he still daily engages.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Nine Reasons Why Spinal Neglect is a crime

1. The backbone is the foundation of the human body.
2. It is composed of 33 bones, 24 of which are movable.
3. From between these joints radiate the nerves of the body.
4. When these joints are out of alignment they press upon the nerves and close the nerve canal at their point.
5. A nerve under pressure at the point where it leaves closes to that degree.
6. Chiropractic removes the pressure by an adjustment which restores the adjustment opens the way for health from every nerve.
7. If chiropractic means the simple to do all that it can do, remember that every person should get a month's examination to see if there is a bad spot.
8. To neglect the backbone invites disease, which is a crime when it is in violation of Nature's laws.
9. Don't be a criminal.

Dizziness Impairs Mental Capacity

MONDAY HEALTH TALK No. 67

By WM. P. REDICK, D.C. Ph. C.

Without in any sense losing his mental ability to think and exercise judgment, the victim of dizziness and impaired eliminative functions, is mentally incapacitated. He has a brain but he cannot use it. He suffers a loss of time. He suffers a period of genuine misery.

Dizziness may have any one of a number of causes, but the most common cause is due to an inactive liver. Bowel stasis ensues, the victim feels dull and feverish and on rising everything is black for an instant and there is dizziness. The dizziness, otherwise known as vertigo, is not commonly suffered. Victims of vertigo are in danger of falling whenever they attempt to walk. Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of dizziness, whether it be due to spinal wastes, or is the result of vertigo.

DIZZINESS WAS AFTER-EFFECT OF THE "FLU"

"After a very severe attack of influenza in 1918 I suffered severely with dizziness. After trying many methods without relief I turned to chiropractic. After the second adjustment there was a change for the better. After others I became entirely well. It is now three years since I have taken any adjustments and these three years have been spent under a heavy mental strain."—I am a Methodist preacher serving a charge of seven churches."—Levi J. C. GESTURES OF DOGS NEW OFFICER FOR M'KIM'S Noted Advertising Agency Announces William Findlay Will Join Staff.

The advertising agency of A. McKim, Limited, announces that Mr. William Findlay, business manager of The Toronto Globe, will join their organization on the first of May as their Executive Board, which now consists of Messrs. W. B. Somerset, C. H. Pearce and H. R. Stephenson.

The firm of A. McKim, Limited founded by the late Anson McKim 32 years ago, is the pioneer advertising agency in Canada. Its offices are located at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Halifax and London, England. In the development of general advertising methods more than a generation it has been in the forefront at all times, but at no time more than at the present. Through its complete knowledge of all phases of marketing in Canada, and its long experience with advertising problems of all kinds, the McKim agency numbers among its clients many of the leaders in canadian industry and trade.

The policy of A. McKim, Limited, always has been to keep pace in their own organization with developments in advertising as they occur, and to assist in building business for those who have commodities or service to sell. In pursuance of this policy, the addition of Mr. Findlay to the Executive Board has been made. He will bring added strength and experience to an organization already strong and widely experienced.

An outstanding figure among newspaper business managers not only in Canada but in the United States, Mr. Findlay became known as Vice-President and Manager of The Ottawa Free Press. The amalgamation of the business of that corporation with The Ottawa Journal was carried out by him with conspicuous success.

During the past three years, while also business manager of The Toronto Globe, the advertising and circulation of that Canadian National newspaper attained a new high-water mark.

WILLIAM FINDLAY

BEING TOO FUNNY

Oversupply of Humor Not a Thing to Be Desired.

According to Writer, If One Would Succeed in Life, Cultivate Bearing of Solemnity.

"Never make people laugh. If you would succeed in life you must be solemn, solemn as an owl. Look at the successful and ambitious member of parliament in quoted in Ralph Nevill's "Manners and Adventures." Michael Dane writes in the confidential edition of the London Mail. Is it so? Is it true that every young man who wants to make himself a great figure in the world must take to heart, and act upon.

Well, I read that instruction, I thought at once of a man whom I was privileged to know a few years ago. He was a journalist of considerable, though few realized the fact, there were in the heart of him some flaming enthusiasms, some determinations to right wrongs, and to make the world a better, saner, and cleaner place to live in. But his narrative of his life he had made the mistake of displaying himself as a funny man.

That man was the late Spencer Leigh Hughes. There will always be in my mind the memory of one talk I had with him when, putting aside the mask and mien of the jester, he spoke of the things which lay near his heart, and I realized the nature of the man who was usually so thoroughly disguised. He had vision and—what is still more rare—he had constructive mind. But he had shown himself to the world as a jester, and the world, which will never forgive a jester who turns from his setting to a serious affair, compelled him to remain a jester to the end.

The world has so deep, so insatiable a need for laughter that it believes it cannot spare any of its clowns. It is composed about with serious people, and it has a cranky belief that serious people are slow to be trusted with its serious work. But once a man has revealed his possession of a trace of the spirit of the clown it will not allow him thenceforward to appear as anything else.

You have only to look round the life of to-day to see how true this is. There is W. W. Jacobs. He began to write funny stories, and the world would have none of his stories from him. In the "Monkey's Paw" he produced a story which if not surpass Edgar Allan Poe in grimly tragic writing, but in the end does not want to write yarns about fat sailormen and impossible parsons.

Then there is the case of the late R. C. Rowles. The world would have none of him as a serious man as an admirable music hall comedian. Only a few were in the secret that he was an author of—and that he only went on the stage to earn money enough to finance a periodical with which he could air the fellowship of the Royal Geographical Society.

If you are born that way the world will quite soon let you know that it is not for being funny. But it is perfectly certain that it will forbid you to be anything else. Charlie made that that of the clown, and will forbid you ever to become the Hamlet Shakespeare is, created for his tragedies, not for his comedies. Hogarth is honored as an artist, but he is not honored as John Sebastian Bach, funniest of all musicians, who could sometimes write the odd moments he wrote solemn music.

The funny man may earn money at the moment. He never earns anything else.

A Terrier Decorated.

A terrier named Peter, belonging to Rev. W. Adams of Liverpool, has been awarded the medal of the National Canine Defense league. While on holiday at Borrowdale in the lake district Peter was attacked by a savage adjoining the hotel and startled the guests by barking violently. Mrs. Adams went to see him, and in searching for the cause Mrs. Adams discovered that Peter and two small children had fallen 50 feet down the hillside and was pinned by the neck which had fallen with him. His leg was fractured and there were many cuts wounds on his body. Mrs. Adams attended to the injured man until the arrival of the nearest doctor, who lived four miles away. Had Peter not given the alarm the young man would probably have died before he was discovered.—Manchester Guardian.

SPRING CLEANING.

Now that the snow has quite left the ground and the spring rains are getting in some of their fine cleansing work it would be a great idea to impress upon all citizens the necessity of a clean-up day, wherein all alleys and back yards would be unburdened of all accumulations which invite diseases. Spring herself with her gentle ways shows us the way in which Old Mother Nature works to give her children their yearly rejuvenation and the example might well be followed by the citizens at large.

Instead of grumbling at the necessity of spring cleaning there ought to be instant action on the part of every one to make it as great a success as it possibly can be made. A clean up and paint campaign would do us all a world of good and it might well be made a community enterprise.

It is happily becoming more and more the practice of self-respecting communities to publicly commit themselves to cleanliness, order and beauty and to arrest the natural process of decay. Not only for the sake of appearances, but in the interest of the general health, it is imperative that germ laden filth should not be allowed to remain exposed to the drying warmth of the sun and later blown about by every breeze in the form of dust.

There's no reason, however, why the cleaning up campaign should be limited to streets, lanes and back yards. There are probably few buildings in the city, whether residential or commercial, that would not be the better for repairs and painting, that have probably been deferred during the period of acute depression.

BRITAIN'S FINE RECOVERY.

We should all rejoice when Great Britain does well; for Britain's prosperity is ours. We are indissolubly linked together. But Britain is not prospering. That would be too much to expect after the terrible impact of the war. Yet she is emerging splendidly from her difficulties, thereby demonstrating her powers of recuperation, her reserve of strength, and her fine solidarity. She ended the fiscal year last month with a surplus of £45,595,246. This achievement was in the face of a loss of £188,729,000 from the excess profits tax, from customs £3,951,000, from excise £5,491,000 and from stamps £6,955,000. On the other hand, corporation profits tax increased by £16,866,000, property and income tax by £4721,000, estates duty by £4,62,000, motor vehicles by £2,300,000, telegraphs by £700,000, and land tax and house duty by £40,000. The total revenue was £1,124,879,873—an almost unthinkable sum. A people that could stand a draft of such proportions will pull through.

Britain's February exports exceeded her imports—a most unusual occurrence. There was a visible export balance of £2,378,000, as compared with an adverse debit of £16,450,000 a year ago. Such a result is as amazing as it is gratifying. It sows that British commerce has been restored to first place among the nations of the world, and not only may we feel proud of the sturdy mother country but be heartened to face with resolution our own problems of reconstruction. Such strength in financial resources, and such vitality in trade, are among the salient demonstrations of national vigor in all history. It emphasizes the fadeless of Germany's dream of conquest. It replaces Great Britain in her rightful eminence.

CHURCH BY WIRELESS

London Advertiser

A number of people in London can sit in their cozy homes every Sunday night and listen to a sermon preached away off in Pittsburg or New York. And the discovery of the thing is there don't have to fish around and see if they have a dime for collection. And when the preacher gets ready to hit them hard they can quit listening. And when the singing doesn't please them they can look out the window or read the paper. Going to church by wireless has its advantages.

Lloyd George is spoken of as the greatest figure in contemporary history. His war achievements are great his mastery of revolutionary tendencies in England won him world fame; his negotiations with Ireland's representatives were successful. The blame for their insperation cannot attach to him, but rather to those who oppose him. The justice of his greatness is not dimmed by his settlement of the Egyptian problem, nor by his policy in India. His stand as premier among the statesmen of the world is the one dominating influence in international diplomacy.

STILL NEED IMMIGRATION

Toronto Globe

All this points to the necessity for discrimination and system. We still need immigration. If nine million people, with the increase births, represent our capacity for employment, the natural advantages of Canada have been grossly exaggerated. The truth probably is we have still ample room for more, but that we must use all due precaution lest, while in our hopeful and thoughtless youth were neglected. When we receive an immigrant we must have at least a general knowledge of what he can do and what opportunities are open to him. We must preserve by keeping the public resources for the public use and curbing monopoly.

SPRING

Awake, O earth! Bring forth thy loveliness,
Clothe nature with resplendent, matchless robes
Of many shades and hues; with incense crowned
Perfume the air and thrill with music's charm
The universe to melody. And mail
Close not thine eyes nor seal thine heart to Spring,
With joy thy soul in harmony respond
To beauty pulsing everywhere,
And find the source divine from which does come
Eternal Spring, and from thine heart shall flow
Of joyous hope a never-ceasing Spring.

Saving Material

"How do you like my frock?" asked Eric's sister, when dressed for a dance.

"It's—er—quite simple," stammered the young man.

"Simple?" she laughed. "Do you know what it cost? Do you know that twenty golden sovereigns wouldn't cover it?"

"Perhaps not," said Eric; "but thirty might, well spread out."

"Oh! Are they for a pavilion?" said the man. "My mistake; I thought they were for the referee."

Eagerly Anne entered and, perversely inspired for the manager. The manager asked:

"Well, what can I do for you?"

"The sign in the window says you want a waitress and I'd like to have the job."

"Have you had any experience? Did you think you are able to carry, without accident, heavy trays of food, people moving all around you and sometimes jostling you. Can you be courteous under——"

"One, Mister," interrupted Anne, "I've been eatin' in cafeteria for the last three years. Ain't that experience enough?"

When Grandma Was a Girl

By DOROTHY WHITCOMB

(Copyright, 1921, by Dorothy Whitcomb.)

Grandmother Pendarvy was one of those sweet-faced, silvery haired old ladies who seem to have stepped straight out of the pages of some fine old-time story. Grandma ruled by love, but unquestionably, in the old home at Lynbrook.

Nobody would ever have dreamed of disobeying or thwarting Grandmother Pendarvy. Even Wingaby Pendarvy, her headed and impetuous as he was, had never done that.

That was why the quarrel between Mildred, the old lady's granddaughter, and her fiancé, Will Hudson, was made up so quickly.

"Cherished!" Did you say you and Will had quarreled, Mildred?" exclaimed the lady, grandmother that evening when she had succeeded in forcing an explanation of her grandchild's tearstained, face and dejected spirits. "How can a girl quarrel with the man she is engaged to marry?"

"Because," Mildred blurted out that he is false," sobbed Mildred, unhappily. "So—he—can't love me, or he'd never cared for me at all."

"He cared for you enough to offer you his hand and name, Mildred," replied her grandmother.

The old lady's cheeks had suddenly grown scarlet. "From the day when I accepted Mr. Pendarvy," she said, "my will was his will and his wishes were mine, and I placed the most implicit trust in him."

So the quarrel ended, because that evening when Will came back in a penitent mood, Grandma Pendarvy led him straight into Mildred's boudoir, and—Mildred never knew just her hand in Will's, and then wisely went out and left them together. And ten minutes later, when they appeared before her, as she sat in her chair, knitting, the faces of both were radiant.

A week before their marriage Grandmother Pendarvy, who had been rummaging in what she called her private store room, appeared before Mildred and Will, flushed and triumphant. In her arms she bore a heavy, old-fashioned writing desk.

"This is to be one of my wedding presents to you children," she said. "And don't turn up your noses at it either of you, because my mother bought enough of it to give it to me when I was engaged."

Mildred had often seen the little desk, but instinctively she had refrained from inspecting with it. She knew that grandmother valued it highly. When she opened it it was empty, and only the faint odor of dead rose leaves betrayed the fact that it had contained anything but dust.

"Will I see—what shall I see, Grandmother?" Will asked.

"Will you let him?" Grandma Pendarvy asked.

"Of course," Mildred said.

"And then a curiosity thing happened. The whole front of the desk fell down, revealing a single sheet of paper, covered with faded writing. Will looked at it and then snatched it up and began reading.

"Hal! I must read it," he exclaimed. "Look at this signature—it is that of my grandmother, Hermione Hurlbut. It may be some long-lost will."

But it was no will. It was a letter addressed to Grandmother Pendarvy, and it ran as follows:

"My Dearest Gwendolen Elizabeth:

"Your cruel words to me today, though they have sorely wounded me, cannot quench the passion for you that burns in my bosom. So, since you have said that this unhappy misunderstanding of ours must end our engagement, since you have forbid me to approach the shrine and altar of my devotion, I shall place the within your mother's writing desk, which you have given me, and then I shall depart and never, never, never, as long as I live, will I trouble you more.

"Until then, I remain, your unhappy lover,

"EBENEZER HURLBUT.

"Jan. 24, 1857."

Will Hurlbut folded up the paper and looked at Mildred. Her eyes were moist and her lips were quivering.

"It must have lain there unnoticed those fifty years and more," she said. "We must not let her know, now."

"No," answered Will, and tearing the paper into strips he let them flutter slowly out of the open window.

"Will," said Mildred, presently, "do you remember the date of your grandfather's marriage?"

Dear Sirs—

As we approach the end of the fifth year during which time we have continuously used the columns of the leading newspapers of Canada to advertise The Literary Digest to the Canadian public, we are pleased to say that the results of this publicity have been very satisfactory.

Of course, the "Digest" occupying as it does a unique position in the periodical world, by presenting the concensus of public opinion throughout the world on all the important subjects that interest mankind, appeals only to those men and women of intelligence who would keep abreast of current thought and action. For this reason it is necessary that we select only newspapers of high quality to carry our announcements. The papers we are using in Canada measure up fully to the required standard.

If one would reach the better class of Canadian readers one must do so through the journals constituting the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association.

Very sincerely yours,
THE LITERARY DIGEST,

George A. Dawe

Advertising Manager.

What more striking tribute to the power of Daily Newspaper Advertising could be had than this letter from the publishers of a WEEKLY PERIODICAL, which has gained its circulation through the daily press. We repeat their comment, based upon five years' experience:

"If one would reach the better class of Canadian readers one must do so through the journals constituting the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association."

He Married the Vanderbilts

Popular claims no nobler figure, and Methodism no stauncher ally than the sturdy old man who goes by the name Her to his clients in the Methodist Book Room, and with his genial figure on the gates of the National Exhibition, will probably be consulted "as an advisory capacity."

Wilfrid Briggs was born in Ulster and came to Canada with his parents when still a child went with the family to live in Liverpool. His first employment was with a white lead working office, and during his off hours he attended the Methodist Sunday school, local preacher, preaching every Sabbath from the time of his eighteen. When he was about twenty years of age he sailed away from England, selected by the British Conference to fill a place in Montreal and the district in the newer world beyond.

He called literally to Toronto, and secured himself a position with the Canada Methodists. At that time there was only one Methodist conference for all the Dominion, and the day the young minister found himself in Toronto the whole of Methodism in Canada could be seen in a single street, the small villages of Durham.

"If very well," said Mr. Wilfrid Briggs smiling at the memory, and he looked at all and sundry to make sure of the identification. He is short of stature, but he was not short of pluck, when he made his way to this office, he found all the rooms in use, so he settled at the door awaiting impatiently for a first sight of the ministerial brethren. Two days when they were very high gifts indeed, and the young Methodist pressed through the group of distinguished men and introduced himself. "Why, he's all hat, ain't he?" "But look at his coat tails." "And his hair is lanched," "for the next day, and the next, the young man was to be initiated down through the village to see what was happening in the place boy-fashion, in fact, playing circles. I wished them for a while, wishing that I might be as big a man as they, for I loved it. For some reasons one of the big boys was left out of the game, they wanted to go on with the game, and one of them said, "Let's go, I'm sure I suppose the young Englishman could play ball." and they came and fetched him. "Say," I said, "if there's anything I can't do it's baseball. Then they looked and said, do better, it's cricket,' and they said, 'If you play at it we'll teach you.' So I did, I went in with them, and Durham was the match, and after that I was the best known lad boy with the bats, and had them to my heart's content.

After a year at Durham, the doctor moved to Toronto. He was stationed in Hamilton, London, Montreal, Brantford, Belleville, and Toronto, but being the Metropolitan, Toronto, and Wilfrid Briggs' home was given the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

"For forty years I have been Book Steward, and I have enjoyed it fully as well as preaching," he said. "For forty-five years I have had a hand in seeing the publishing interests of the church become mighty, and with it I have become a power in the land. We established a large weekly paper, and also, do general printing and binding. And for years, we did the Government work for the Provincial Government, and do it still."

Dr. Briggs made himself master of the business of which he was head, and of the large number of men and women employed there, there are none who cannot do with their difficulties or triumphs, and relate them with "the old time glee."

At the Methodist general conference of 1910, Dr. Briggs, on account of his age, was by church law ineligible for re-election as Book Steward, and was made Book Steward Emeritus, to work with his successor in an advisory capacity.

"Did you know that I married Cornelius Vanderbilt?" asked Dr. Briggs, when recalling to mind the days of his editorship in Toronto. "Well I did, and it was the biggest wedding in Canada. The lady and her family came up from the Southern States, and took rooms at the old Tecumseh House in London, and came to the church where I preached. One morning the young lady's brother came to me and asked me to call on his mother, so I went with him to the hotel, and met the mother and sister. We talked for a while and then a man came in, well-dressed, he was, and fine looking, and we talked of the events of the day, and then I said to him: 'It is late, we're stepping the bounds of politeness, may I ask your name?'

"'Vanderbilt,' was the answer.

"Then he took me aside and said there was a little piece of business he wanted me to do for him. Pointing to the young lady, he said, 'I am passing through the doorway, is she going to marry that girl.'

"'You're getting a grand wife, I said.

"'I am that,' he replied, and then he asked me if I could keep a promise. 'I want you to marry us,' he said, 'but, don't write to me or tell any one what it was worth to you.'

"'And I've left it worth keeping quiet for,' I said."

Dr. Briggs lowered his voice.

"It was," he said, "I married Cornelius Vanderbilt over forty years ago, and far may not one bet, but himself and I, unless it be his wife, know what fee he gave me. And I'll tell you, all the fees I had received for marriages in my years rolled together wouldn't have equalled it."

AN EASTER PARTY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Entertains, symbolised by jaffodils, narcissi, pussy-willows, bunnies and chicks, offers an opportunity for giving a pretty evening party for young people. The invitations, written on colored paper, should be sent about a week in advance, and read: "Miss Ethel Brown requests the pleasure of your company at an Easter Party at her home on the evening of April the 18th. at 8 o'clock."

The home of the hostess is decorated with Easter flowers in hall and living room (artificial ones may be used for economy). Upon the arrival of all the guests, the following game is begun:

Colored Willow Contest: The players draw their chairs into a circle. Each one is given a pencil and a sheet of colored paper on which to write a number of words which is pasted a pussy willow twig to represent the body, it's ears with "Ears" and "Me" whenever those words occur in his conversation. The one who is sadly acted by getting in something. Other easily acted names of flowers are "Goldenrod," "Primrose," "Daisy" (Daisy Bell), Candy Tuft "Jonquil" (John and Quill), and "Hawthorn."

Refreshments follow in the dining room, where the table is decorated by a child's toy cart (as the centerpiece) in which is hitched, with ribbon reins, a stuffed yellow chicken or duck. In the cart are chocolates and candy eggs. The menu consists of:

Chicken Salad
Deviled Egg Sandwiches
Rabbit-Shaped Doughnuts
Coffee
Yellow-Frosted Cup Cakes topped with paper flowers

A real Jonquil lies at each place, as a favor. These the girls may put in their hair, and the young men in their button-holes.

THE MUSKOKA LAKES

Nature has been justly prodigal in the good gifts to Ontario and has blessed her with the riches of scenic beauty and natural attractions. One of the most famous is the wonderful Muskoka, which embodies the trinity of famous lakes, Muskoka, Rosseau and Joseph. It is a paradise of lake and stream, of forest and island where we stand in the heart of things, the woods around us are beautiful and dim" and mother earth stands ready to reveal her secrets to those who love her and seek her with loving heart. A new publication just issued telling you all about it, with splendid maps and list of hotels can be had free from Canadian National-Grand Trunk Agents, or on application to C. B. Horning, D. P. KING TO VISIT THE GRAVES ALONG BRITISH BATTLE LINE

London, April 8.—It is stated in Paris, Reuter's correspondent cables, that the time which the King is to make next month after his visit to Brussels, with the Queen, taking in the principal cemeteries along the battlefields of Belgium and France where British soldiers are buried, will probably begin at Ypres. Afterwards the King will follow the old battle front through Poperinghe, Mont des Cats, Armentieres, Lathe, Lezbethune, Vlmy, Arras, Thiepval and Peronne, down to Noyen, the furthest point to which the British line extended.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Black Moire

Black Moire is to be one of the best setting materials for the one piece costume this coming season. It is at its best when trimmed with black monkey fur.

Colors of Neckwear Very Splashy

Neckwear is made up in bold splash ing colors of linen rather than in sheer batiste and lace. The tendency for sports effects is probably causing this change.

Veils With Small Dots.

Are preferred at the moment to the larger meshed ones with the chenille dots. The mesh is usually tatty or hand colors with brown dots. Henna, and putty are also good.

Drop a little piece of Sunlight into the dish pan, stir into a suds—then see how beautiful—how clean it washes dishes, cutlery, pans, utensils, etc.

The Colville.

The Colville, its largest Alaskan ever employing into the Arctic Ocean on the Bering Sea course less than one-tenth of its own value, ran on a dangerously sliding ice hill, writes Robert E. Wilson, in St. Nicholas. The river boat was partially lifted to an eastern range of hills and virtually part way up the slope of the hill, so that if the stream's western bank were cut, the water would soon be let loose pressure to flow down into the bottom of the valley. The western side of the river is deep, where the current is eating into the bank year after year, but the eastern side shallows out into a broad, stony bar. Between the two lies a channel with how far the river has already traveled sideways. The explanation of the Colville's eccentric conduct is that after the river has left the channel it was reasonably behaved river does, there was still a current to be reckoned with, and in lifting the stream boldly part way up the side of the slope. Every time the Colville's nose began trying to get down to its old level again.

Toothache.

Decayed teeth a sign of toothache, and when they do, a small piece of cotton wool of gets old. Gas proving that this ailment is not a modern one due to civilization.

Use for Old Boot Soles.

Many devices have been suggested for the utilization of the worn boot soles, the chief being concerned with fuel production. But a periodical, the Chemist, proposes to use them for stimulating the growth of beans and peas. The soles are first heated at carbonising part of the leather into lamp black and distreating sulphate of ammonia from the residue. It sounds rather like putting one's foot in one's mouth; but even that is a way of making both ends meet.—London Chronicle.

Cheaper Rugs.

Because of the food shortage in Transcaucasia the people have had to sell many rugs and the rug market thus offers alluring possibilities.

AGNES' HEART DIDOES

By BYRON STAUFFER

The confession of Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., that her heart has been cutting up didoes in parliament does not cause altogether a shock. And that is altogether apart from the fact that the Right Honorable Mackenzie King is a bachelor.

I for one take her absolutely at her word when she declares that her heart flutters are from sheer awe and timidity. And in my humble opinion, the didoes and the consequent flutters of her dear heart credit. More, I will prophesy, that the trouble is but a transitory phase of the experience of an entered apprentice, as it were, and that it will gradually clear away. Leaving Agnes her sermons and aggressive self again.

If I may, I will maintain that Miss MacPhail's diagnosis of her pericardial ailment is incorrect. That the awesome spirit of precedent caused the tongues of the parliamentary staff they were accustomed to hear. In the life of course failed. Finally as old friend urged him to hark back to his best camp-meeting harangue, and give it just as he had delivered it at his prairie. Or somewhere; he won a signal triumph. Maybe that is what ails Agnes.

Right John Hall came from Ireland to Fifth avenue church, New York City; he threw all his old Irish fervor into his sermons, within a hundred peasant families and two or three Irish gentry households, into the church. Making his all-Irish congregation wonder how he could be so Irish. But on a September Saturday, having returned to from his holiday, he rose to select one of those discredited preachments. After the service the people thronged about the rostrum saying. "Doctor Hall, if mentioning has produced such wonderful sermons as he does to-day, we want to the Adirondacks."

In the words of the great Bacon, Boldness, Agnes, Boldness; and again the Boldness.

Mexico City, April 16.—Chemicals of the race track, Americans who followed the ponies in Mexico City and then failed to win enough money for fare home, are making competition hoss for their Mexican burger brethren.

During the day they frequent the main plazas of the city and waylay their more fortunate countrymen for handouts of food and drink. They will camp by night at the race track where a kind management allows them to visit the bar" free of charge but, handicapped by a lack of knowledge of Spanish, they are finding it very difficult to obtain, even if they look for it. There is no organized American charity in Mexico City to care for them.

Soccer Prospects for Season are Looking Excellent

SOCCER PLAYERS AT PRACTICE

Prospects Look Good for the Best Football Season Yet.

A good number of soccer players were out to practice on Stanley Park yesterday afternoon. The cadets present from the Grand Trunk, Tiger, G. W. V. A., 54th battery and Y. M. C. A. squads. Most of them have good football and will be in shape for the exhibition game on Friday between the G. T. R. and Tigers of England.

Preston, Lindsay and Brockville are about to play a team from Rockliffe.

A meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms at 7.30 p.m. for the purpose of electing officers and starting the City League. All interested in soccer are to be present. The prospects for football this season is better than ever.

SCRAP IRON

The Johnny Buff-Battling Harry Leonard bout, which was scheduled to be held at the Rex Palace in Philadelphia has been put back to April 21. Buff asked for a little more time to get into shape for the clever Quaker City lad.

George Ward and Mickey Walker, rival Elizabeth welterweight, contended to meet in a 15-round no decision contest by Joe McGuinness at the Fourth Regiment Armory of Jersey City, April 17.

Johnny Abrams, the New Orleans featherweight, and Frank Carbone to meet Billy Shade and Ryan Downey at Columbus, Ohio, in feature bouts.

Pete Herman, former bantamweight title-holder, has been asked to sign articles for a ten-round bout with Tommy Ryan at Louisville, Ky., on Derby day.

BUILDERS' EXCHANGE.

DECLARES FOR OPEN SHOP

Montreal, April 2.—At a meeting here yesterday afternoon of the board of directors of the Builders' Exchange, open shop was emphatically declared for. It was decided that neither the International nor the Catholic and National Unions should be recognized. Under this decision it is left open to any contracting firm member of the Builders' Exchange to make its own arrangement as to terms of employment, wages and working conditions and to bargain with employes as it sees fit.

SPORT STUFF

The soccer players are showing the way to the other sporting men of the city. On Saturday there was a regular mob out to practice and the first game, an exhibition affair, will be played on Good Friday. That's the spirit.

Joe Lally, the famous lacrosse expert, has this to say about the decay of the national game: "The youngsters of today are too darned lazy. They don't play lacrosse because it's too rough and tough. There are too many stick-tee experts, too much jazz dancing, too much that is soft and slushy in life today. It's the spirit of the times—laziness."

Holy Moses, Joe, you're tough on the real he-boys. We'll admit that the tango lizard never was and never will be any good as an athlete, but what about those boys who get out season after season, play baseball, hockey, rugby and basketball, four of the most strenuous games on the calendar. Don't condemn them along with the cake eaters and perfume sippers.

Still there's something in what the old-timer says about the fall of the great game. It's a shame the way it has deteriorated.

The ice is out of all the rinks now, so that he following little epistle is quite in order:—

"Who's the stranger, Mother dear?
Look! he knows us—ain't he queer?"
"Hush, my own, don't talk so wild,
He's your father, dearest child."
"He's my father? Not at all!
Father died away last fall."
"Father didn't die, you ruth,
Father joined a curling club."
But they've closed the club, so he Has no place to go, you see—
No place left for him to roam—
That is why he's coming home.
Kiss him—he won't bite you, child;
All these curling bugs look wild."

"CHEESE" TROPHY IS FORMALLY PLACED

Business Men of the City are Willing to Defend the Trophy.

Phil Brocket, who "hurled" the Business Men to victory on Wednesday evening last, in the battle with the Rotarian Indoor Baseball team, for the "Cheese" Trophy, officially placed the trophy in the window of the Walker Hardware store Saturday morning. The Rotarian shield, containing the names of those who won it from the Lions' team, has been discarded and a list of the names of the proud business men, placed on it. It is said, by some, that Cliff Walker, by whose window the trophy is on display, is a valued member of the Business Men's aggregation.

The Business Men are willing to defend it, in any competition from baseball to pie eating contests, and the question now is, "How long will it remain in the Walker Hardware window?"

Moral—If you expect a trophy to change hands soon, and stand up well, say it with "cheese".

NEW EFFORT LAUNCHED FOR PEACE IN IRELAND

Dublin, April 2.—Officials of the Roman Catholic Church are endeavoring to bring about a settlement between Michael Collins and Eamonn de Valera, it is learned from a highly trustworthy source, who is closely connected with the Republicans, and who says that Archbishop Byrne, of Dublin, made the first overture last week, and that since then Archbishop O'Donnell, coadjutor to Cardinal Logue, has also taken action in an effort to arrange a reconciliation. It is understood that the situation is viewed as far from hopeless.

LEONARD BETTER THAN GIBBONS

Lightweight Champion is Superior in Every Way to Mike.

A boring fan writes asking which is the more clever boxer, Mike Gibbons or Benny Leonard. Leonard seems to have the call. There was a time when Gibbons was held to be the marvel of the age. That was the period between his first bout with Willie Lewis and his affair with Packey MacFarland at Brighton Beach. Lately Mike's prestige has faded somewhat, partly because he has seen his best days and partly because he did not come up to expectations when put to severe tests.

Taking Gibbons at his best and Leonard as he is today the latter figures to be the better fighter. Leonard signs supreme in a class in which there are a number of fair performers. Gibbons belongs in a class that contains so little real ability that even he titleholder is a joke.

There has been no great middleweight since the death of Stanley Ketchel, yet Gibbons has not been able to win the title. Some critics concede that he is—or was—by far the best man in the division, and call him the uncrowned king, but they do Gibbons too much honor.

It is true that Gibbons did not have many chances to win the title, but that was entirely his own fault. He never made any serious attempt to force the various champions to meet him. He let Frank Klaus, George Chip and Al. McCoy go unchallenged, and when he finally got a bout with Champion Mike O'Dowd the latter won the popular decision.

If Gibbons was sure that he could beat Klaus, Chip and McCoy it is decidedly strange that he did not force them to meet him, as he could have done easily enough because the fans were with him. That he did not proves either that he was afraid or that he is not real smart.

Leonard evidently is much smarter than Gibbons. Benny never would have allowed an inferior fighter to hold the title without letting the whole world know that he was being cheated out of his rights. In the ring Leonard is as much smarter than Gibbons as he is in matchmaking. Leonard's brain works at top speed all the time. Gibbons forgets all he knows when gloves come his way too fast for his liking.

Mere Versatile Hitter

Leonard is a more versatile hitter than Gibbons. The latter has a better straight left than Leonard, but with all other blows Leonard is more accurate and forceful. Leonard's footwork is superior to that of Gibbons and his defense in general is better. Neither Leonard nor Gibbons shows to the best advantage against aggressive opponents who are willing to take a wallop to give one in return, but Leonard is not as weak in that respect as Gibbons.

Leonard is more graceful, more confident and more successful. He is by long odds the better man.

Although Leonard will be remembered much longer than Gibbons he will not go down in ring history as the best of the lightweight champions if he continues to sidestep Lew Tendler, the only dangerous contender to come to the front during his reign.

WILL PRESENT TROPHY.

On Tuesday evening (tomorrow), at 7.30 o'clock, the Rigsh trophy, emblematic of the winter championship in bowling for this city, will be presented to the Printers' team, who won the championship. The presentation will take place at the Y. M. C. A. and the prizes will also be presented to the winners in other teams.

PETERBORO' BASEBALL CLUB HANDLES OWN AFFAIRS

Peterboro' April 2.—The Peterboro' Central League Baseball Club has passed through a stormy period during the last few days a result of a number of changes in the local management. All efforts to bring the Peterboro' Amateur Athletic Association and the Central League Club together have been without result. Meetings were held on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, at which the following officers were elected: Honorary President, G. N. Gordon, M.P.; President, H. A. Cranfield; Vice-President, Roy Cherrett; Secretary, Walter Perks; Treasurer, L. H. Ingram; Executive Committee, Walter Ohs, Tommy Hollyman, J. E. Sullivan.

BISHOP OF ONTARIO PREACHES HERE

Peter could claim he would fall from grace, by denying his Saviour, even when warned, and chance to the Lord, afar off, as it would not look well to run away. The fact that he followed the Lord, afar off, proved that his denial was but a matter of time. When accused of the denial, Peter angrily repudiated the charge, but when Jesus looked at him, he went out with his guilty conscience, and wept bitterly.

So with us today. If religion will not work in our lives, then we are half hearted in our religion. Some of us attend church because we like the services, others like to be connected with the church, but not identified too closely with it, and others, who are more or less faithless say to themselves, "Well maybe there is something in this religion, and I had better at least attend services." Such examples of disciples always fall in the mire, and shall deny Christ, if not with their tongues, by their actions.

True discipleship means hard service. For instance, a true disciple must learn to forgive his or her enemies; not ignore but forgive. This is not easily done. It will be necessary also,

CONCERT AT SHELTER

The girls of the Bachman Class and the G. L. T. girls presented a concert at the Children's Shelter on Friday evening last, under the direction of Miss Peck, their teacher. Mr. Alec Easton presided at the piano, and the children all helped in the singing, with songs and recitations, much to the delight of the children at the Shelter. Miss Jean Gardiner, very ably presided as chairman for the evening.

LARGE CONGREGATION

There was a very large congregation present at the evening services held in Christ Church last night. Rev. W. G. Swayne the rector, had charge of the services, and Miss Eva Lavole sang. "He Was Despised," from Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary," in splendid voice.

DIED AT LINDSAY.

Rev. H. Foster, pastor of Holloway street Methodist Church, is at Lindsay attending the obsequies of his mother, Mrs. E. Foster, who passed away on Thursday evening last. Deceased was an aged lady and was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

A FINE X-RAY MACHINE.

The operation of a Victor X-ray machine, which Dr. McCreary, of this city, has installed in his office, was explained to an Intelligencer representative today. The machine is up-to-date in every respect and is a valuable acquisition to the doctor's business.

It is Not True

That people "begin wearing glasses too soon." Because when their eyes tell the optometrist finishes examining a pair of eyes he knows what their condition is; he knows what they need and what they don't need. He will not put glasses on that patient until they are necessary.

It is a Fact

That many who could at one time have had their eyes corrected sufficiently and comparatively quickly, defer attending their eyes examined until their ocular muscles are in such a chronic condition that the correction of their defect is much more tedious and difficult to use than would have been the case had proper advice been sought early.

The service of our Optometrist with his long years of experience and up-to-date education is a "safety first" proposition.

KITCHENER TUXIS BOYS HOLD FORTH

Mayor Hugh Rogers of the Boys' Council is Popular

At the Kitchener Y.M.C.A. Building a few evenings ago the annual father and son banquet of the Kitchener and Waterloo Tuxis Squares was held. Nearly a dozen churches were represented at the gathering, between two and three hundred being present. Following the banquet, which was all that could have been desired, a toast list was carried out.

Hugh Rogers, mayor of the Boys' Council for the Twin Cities, was the first speaker. Hugh's speech made one of prospect for the boys. Outside of one a happy time and the Sunday school dress there was given much practical advice to the boys who are looking forward to why, Hugh said, the success and popularity among the Tuxis boys. His response to the toast was that by I. T. Breithaupt, who spoke of the Y.M.C.A. and what opportunities they afforded to the boys of today.

Hugh Rogers, also referred to is well-known to Belleville, where he was born, being a son of the late Mrs. William Rogers, of Dundas street. Hugh always had a deep interest in boys' work and is evidently a valuable ally in Kitchener, as he was in Belleville.

RUSSIAN RELIEF FUND.

Will Belleville try to give another kitchen to the starving children of Russia?

We are confident that Belleville can and will equip a fully as many more if we put her name before these fatherless and motherless children in that afflicted land, as being a town of true hearted and charitable citizens, ready to relieve the needs of childhood, and stand between life and death there.

We must remember that it was some Canadian' pick up in official life, who got Trotsky from his prison in Halifax and allowed him to leave for Russia, at a time when the Americans and others were clamoring for him. Releasing Trotsky, helped to bring disaster upon those poor people and their little children.

MacLean's magazine covered this matter two years ago, and did everything possible to try and head that fiasco off, but Ottawa was deaf to material reasons allowed Trotsky to escape.

LITERARY FRAUDS

Italians Are Laughing Over Daring "Americata."

Over in Italy, they have a word for it. "Americata" is the said of social ethics, it is used to describe any departure from convention or propriety that shows unlimited cheek, and is generally successful in attaining its object. In criminology an "Americata" is a combination of the same qualities and outcome, with a little more finesse. Literary Italy is still laughing at the latest "Americata" of which it has been the victim, an "Americata" in which Americans can be, and generally will accept in name.

In August, 1921, the Italian press was requested to publish the following announcement: "The James Fenimore Morgan Foundation, which suspended its award of prizes for the period of the war, has re-opened its office in Paris, and will assign, within the next three months, the annual prize for the best production in Italian literature. The second, bearing last fixed the award at 16,000 lire, and invited authors to submit their manuscripts to a certain Berthier, whose address in Paris was available.

The news caused a flurry of excitement all down the banks of the Italian Parnassus. Fifty thousand lire was not to be sneezed at in these days of depression. The fact also that the prize was to be restricted to Italy improved chances and interested literary men to a high degree.

Late in November, a news item was offered to the Italian papers which stated that the J. F. Morgan prize of 50,000 lire had been awarded to the Venetian writer, Antonio Donadio Quattrini, "a man of the younger generation, whose talent offers a curious parallel with that of the famous Russian, Maxim Gorky. The appropriateness of the award is the more noteworthy from the fact that this young genius is the product of an illiterate school." He has attended neither elementary nor higher institutions of learning, and is a graduate only from the university of his own intelligence."

In a few days booksellers began to receive, C. O. D., books containing copies of a novel. Lo schiavo della bellezza ("The Slave of Beauty"), pp. 240, in 8vo., price 7 lire. On the cover was a green jacket with the announcement of the Morgan Prize award. The publishing house signed itself "Literary Publishing Company, Foste Rostatas, Milan."

It would show an extremely trustful disposition to suppose that such an event could long escape investigation from a host of disappointed aspirants to the "Morgan Prize." The "Literary Publishing Company" did not figure in the Business Directory of Milan. Nor, though for years M. Berthier in Paris, novelists turned to the "Slave of Beauty" in self-defense, was the work of an illiterate, who was quite ignorant of Italian. Arvian, but who had caught some notion of the formulae of Verona, Venice. The newspapers now took a hand in the matter. Reporters were sent on the trail of the "Morgan Prize" in Paris, in Milan, and in Venice.

M. Berthier was the first to make answer. He appeared at the door of a modest apartment in Paris to declare that he was an expressman who had been commissioned by an unknown man to forward a number of books to a certain lawyer, Palacologo Orimdi, in Venice. We give Berthier's original creation almost verbatim. One day a man who introduced himself as "J. B. de Lale) Morgan came to his office and left in his (Berthier's) care a cheque for 40,000 lire, a sum (so "Mr. Morgan" said) to be used for the needs of the deceased J. P. Morgan to the best work in Italian literature during the year 1921. The man further said Mr. Morgan was in Paris to supervise certain affairs of the "Morgan Foundation." There the attorney Berthier ordered promptly to forward a number of boxes to Venice, which he did, through M. Berthier. Orders came to be returned to Venice, and eventually was the receipt of another letter announcing the award of the prize and requesting that the cheque be forwarded to Antonio Donadio Quattrini, the winner.

Who, meanwhile, is Antonio Donadio Quattrini? That is something which is still unknown. Mr. Quattrini, in fact, is the pen name of the addressee mentioned in the correspondence. The real author of that novels, however, is evidenced by the fact that the newspapers have received many anonymous letters from him, threatening suits for slander, demanding libel actions, defending the qualities of the "Slave of Beauty." Indeed, it was the bellicosity of the 40,000 lire award, he has been sued by the Literary Publishing House, Milan," a society, called "Pyrotechnogy of Terror an Essay of Despotism and Suggestion," which has proposed a philosophy of "arvirism" and declared in its thesis that the author ought to use the same methods in advertising his produce that have been made familiar to the public by soap and coffee kings and by our manufacturers of shoeblacking.

While the Department of Justice in Rome and the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Antonio Donadio Quattrini, those booksellers who purchased "The Slave of Beauty" C. O. D. are tearing their hair with rage. The booksellers are buying the book in batches. The general impression is that the publication may be a bit shy on spelling, he has loads of talent in other ways.

C.E.F. OFFICERS HOLD BANQUET

Commemorate Vimy Ridge Battle by Festivities in Toronto Saturday.

Toronto, April 10.—The fifth anniversary of the taking of Vimy Ridge by the Canadian Forces in the Great War was celebrated in a striking manner by more than 1,200 officers of the C.E.F., all of whom had seen active service in France and Flanders, at a banquet at the King Edward Hotel, on Saturday evening. The guest of honor was His Excellency Lord Byng, Governor-General, and former Commander of the Canadians when they won immortal glory and fame in the great battle that opened on the evening of Easter Day, 1917. All the honorons, all the heartrending scenes, all the gallant and heroic deeds performed by officers and men alike, all the devilish resources adopted by the German in their stubborn resistance to the onslaught of the Canadians, which marked that gigantic struggle, were visualized anew, were discussed, in detail. Incidents were recalled, some special heroic deed of a comrade who fell was eagerly recited, culminating in a terrific shout of triumph. There were renewed sighs and sadness, most finally will each narrative, but at that the most enthusiastic of the big throng declared they lost lustily echoed the cheers that followed the storming of Vimy Ridge five years ago. Three things were but the prelude to what followed, for, with the arrival of Lord Byng, enthusiasm burst forth again, and found expression in cheer after cheer not only deafening, but almost shook the whole building. This demonstration started in the room and was continued on each floor, and reached the climax as His Excellency and the retinue of General staff entered the new Empire ball room on the top floor. The noise was deafening, for the cheers came in waves, and although the men were endeavoring to emulate the roar of the big guns and exploding shells that heralded the big attack, the party was so large that three rooms were required for the banquet, but these difficulties were of small moment, as after the dinner, all except the head tables were removed from the ball room and the whole company crowded into the limited space to renew the demonstration.

that the club was well fixed financially. In addition to a five-hundred dollar provincial bond set aside as a nest egg there was besides a substantial cash balance in the bank.

The report showed that most of the money spent during the year had been expended in the interests of service and charity. The item of Boys' Work was one of the heaviest on the list and the report also showed how the Rotarians have done their little bit of alleviating distress and want during the past year.

It was decided to hold over the return baseball game with the Lions for one week.

Popular Salvation Army Adjutant Was Almost a Nervous Wreck Before She Began Taking Tanlac—Gains Thirty Pounds.

"I was run down for two years and had thirty pounds in weight, but thanks to Tanlac, I have gained every pound I lost back and am in the best of health and spirits," said Mrs. Winnifred Bradigny, 24 Merrick St., Hamilton, Ont., and adjutant in the Salvation Army.

"It is easy to imagine how happy I am over what Tanlac has done for me when I state the simple fact that for over two years I was unable to get down town. I was so nervous I was almost a wreck and at times I suffered so I would go almost distracted. I underwent two different operations without getting relief and was thoroughly disheartened.

"Tanlac has changed everything for me and has been a blessing beyond measure. My advice to people who would be well, strong and happy is to take Tanlac. Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Corbyn's Drug Store.

First meeting, Armouries, Wednesday, April 12, 7.30 p.m. 10d

Railway News in Brief

Calgary—That the Canadian Pacific will be altogether out-and-out the Drumheller district in the course of the next few weeks was the statement made by D. C. Coleman, vice-president and general manager, Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Coleman spoke in quite an optimistic vein in reviewing present conditions and stated that freight traffic throughout the west showed an improvement compared with the corresponding period last year.

Sudbury—By April 15th between six and seven hundred men will be given employment on the Sudbury district of the Lake Superior Division of the C. P. R. Of these some two hundred and fifty will be employed at the crossing plant at Sudbury, which will re-open on April 15th. The balance will be employed on track maintenance and with the bridge and building department.

The April 3rd the C. P. R. started a large number of men at work replacing ties, rails and bridges in the summer considerable rock ballasting will be done.

Winnipeg—That there is plenty of storage room for all the Canadian Pacific tracks at the head of the lakes to take care of the grain blocked in the interior between now and the opening of navigation, is the view held about April 25 was the statement made by Canadian Pacific Railway officials.

The approximately 250,000 bushels per day of corner grains as well as wheat are being handled by the company. A percentage of wheat handled does not interfere the head of the lakes, but is absorbed by flour mills at Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat and Calgary.

Montreal—The annual report of the C.P.R. issued last week showed gross earnings for the year 1921 of $193,031,854, which were less than those of the previous year by $25,-119,424. Operating expenses were $147,620,119, net earnings amounted to $34,581,740, an increase for the year of $1,040,406. The number of passengers carried was 15,318,246, a decrease of 1,888,754. The average journey per passenger was 89.67 miles, an increase of 1.08 over last year and the average fare paid was 2.96 cents as compared with 2.86 in 1920. The number of tons of freight carried was 39,160,134, a loss as against 50,160,134 for the previous year. The year's average of freight multiplied by the number of miles it travelled was 11,121,326,276, while 12,900,610,000 was 1,779,283,724.

Vancouver—Mr. C. A. Cotterell, assistant general superintendent, British Columbia district, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, returned to the city from a tour of inspection of Southern British Columbia and over the main line from Field west.

He states that notwithstanding the fact that spring work is now late, there is a marked improvement in business activity throughout the interior. Shipments from the mines are very satisfactory, and there is quite an improvement in the pole and lumber business. Shipments from most of freight in British Columbia, shows a substantial increase for the first quarter of 1922 over the period last year.

As soon as weather conditions will permit, the railway will be putting on a strong force of men to take care of the season's track work, and should help to relieve unemployment situation materially.

Vancouver—After waging warfare ever since the first line was first erected, Canadian Pacific officials are said to have finally succeeded in last exterminated the thousands of rats that used to infest the Kitsilano boxhood, causing thousands of dollars damage to freight.

About six months ago the company brought all of its forces to bear on the rats and a specially-prepared poison, which was liberally distributed every runway that could be detected, carry being taken to see that dogs could not get at it. In connection with this, a wonderful rat trap, of apparatus that has been in service for the company at other places, was purchased for $15. The trap was placed in the place formerly occupied by the rats, and, attracted by the rodents, the cooperage room. There was room for a week or more but caught no rats.

The trap was left in the working property, but investigation showed that the rats had exterminated all the rats.

Vancouver officials of the company say they will be glad to give wholesalers and others who are interested in the trap through out destruction, the benefit of the method used.

AMERICAN OPTICAL CO. LOCATES CANADIAN PLANT HERE.

Large Industry Will Locate In Belleville

Through the Efforts of Local Authorities the American Optical Co. Will Place Plant Here Which Will Employ About 300 Men—Local Plant Will be the Canadian Headquarters for the Huge Firm.

NINE NEW INDUSTRIES IN ONE YEAR

Word has been received here, that the deputation from this city, consisting of Mayor Chas. Hanna, President H. F. Ketchaon of the Chamber of Commerce, Sec-Treas. J. O. Herity of the Chamber of Commerce, and ex-President Jamieson Bone, have landed another American industry for this city.

The delegation left on Sunday for Bostonbridge, Mass., where they negotiated with the American Optical Company of that city, with the above results.

The American Optical Company, has been founded over eighty years, is the largest plant of its kind in America, and one of the largest in the world. The firm have been negotiating for the Graham building, Front Street, and will occupy same for the manufacturing of the number of lines of goods, for the British Empire trade. Several hands are employed in the American factory.

A number of towns investigated for the site of their enterprise, including Toronto, Belleville was more than half of the Scottish farm selected, but after all their inducements were considered, Belleville was the favored city, they do a great deal of their business in Canada, and all kinds of persons, from the highest social grade are handled there. Surveying skilled labor at high wages. They ask no concessions, other than to locate on a site. All they wish is the co-operation of the city.

The gentlemen of this delegation, represented the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, are to be highly complimented on their untiring effort, and excellent success, in securing such industries for this city, which means will make it the best and better Belleville; and most assuredly brings into disrepute the unwarranted and ungracious remarks of any fellow who "do not know."

RUMOR OF FRENCH-BELGIAN TO LEOPOLD'S BETROTHAL

Brussels, April 11.—It is expected that the engagement of Prince Leopold, heir-apparent to the Belgian throne, to Princess Olagdys, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy, will be announced in June or July next, when the Italian royal pair repay the visit which has just been made to Rome by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, accompanied by Prince Leopold.

Some of the newspapers here declare the announcement is impending of the engagement of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy to Princess Marie Jose, daughter of the Belgian sovereigns, the former seventeen and the latter fifteen years of age. This report, however, is considered premature.

NON-UNION MINERS ARE JOINING STRIKERS

Strikers' Chiefs Say 50,000 Unattached Bituminous Miners Are Already Out—Federal Inquiry Has Been Instituted by United States Attorney-General.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.—Hasten ing Mr. Daugherty, Attorney-General of the United States, is investigating the nation-wide coal strike. Mr. Daugherty arrived here yesterday. The purpose of his visit was not revealed until to-night. Mr. Daugherty admitted that his investigation he will consider the pending cases against the miners and operators in Judge A. B. Anderson's court. He held a two-hour conference with Judge Anderson, late yesterday. Afterward the Attorney-General said he was not sure a dismissal of the anti-trust indictments against the miners and operators would be "advisable or practicable" at this time.

Approximately 50,000 non-union miners of the bituminous field have joined in the nation-wide strike, John L. Lewis, International president of the United Mine Workers of America, said to-day. "We are making progress in the non-union fields", he added. "The union men are all standing firm."

While no exact statement was made as to the number involved in the suspension, it was evident for Mr. Lewis' statement that union officials regard their former estimate of 600,000 as having been exceeded. It was said authoritatively that the union leaders believe that not less than 640,000 men are participating in the walk-out.

Mr. Lewis declined to apportion the distribution by states of the non-union strikers, further than to say 30,000 had been affiliated in Central Pennsylvania and several thousand in West Virginia. These are the states where the union has centred its attack on the non-union operators.

HOT WEATHER IN NEW YORK CITY

Temperature Records for Fifty-One Years Smashed in Gotham.

New York, April 11.—Temperature records for April 10 were smashed to smithereens yesterday. The mercury started out bright and early to climb and before it decided to quit at 1 p.m. it had wrecked one record of thirty five years' standing and another of fifty-one years.

Quicksilver was a burden, and use less, and waved as perspiring faces told the story of the heat of the day. At 8 in the morning the mercury registered 68 degrees. An hour later it was 70. It jumped to 75 at 10 o'clock and to 76 at 11 o'clock. At noon it broke a thirty-five year record as the warmest April 10 on record, when it registered to 79 degrees at 1 o'clock. At 3 it had increased the lead to 81, and at 4 o'clock it was one high mark of 82 degrees for the day. This broke all heat records for April 10 for fifty-one years.

PROV. INSPECTOR MAKES A HAUL

Bags Bootleggers on Montreal Trains Between Prescott and Belleville.

BOOTLEG METHODS

Provincial Police Here Are Actively Engaged Nabbing Elusive Rum-Runners.

Inspector E. E. Adams, of the Provincial Police here was instrumental in bagging two more bootleggers on Monday, while he was on his way home from Prescott, where he had spent the week-end. On the train from Montreal train at Prescott, the Inspector noticed a suspicious bag standing in the corner, at the end of the coach. A few well-timed full of suspicious looking baggage, so a sharp eye was kept upon it. No one seemed to claim it until the train drew near to Napanee depot, when a Chinaman, rising from his seat down the coach, put on his overcoat and took up a position beside the sack. At Napanee he stepped off with the sack, but before doing so the Inspector, placed him under arrest and notified License Inspector Kelley of their arrival. Mr. Kelley, Chief Taken to the police station and later, on appearing before the Magistrate, pleaded guilty, and was fined $200 and costs, amounting in all to $215. The ten bottles of liquor were confiscated. On four of the bottles were found the Commissioner's stamp and $3.85 marked on it. The other six bottles were gin. The liquor was valued at $60, and would probably retail at from $6 to $8 per bottle. At the less bottle the officers will be able to find out what it was worth. It was would quickly run at $7 per bottle. Therefore ten bottles would be worth $70.00. From 25 to 30 gallons of alcohol was found in one week's wages in Belleville. Bootlegging seems to be a very popular way of liquor on a train, so that if liquor is seized, the officers will be unable to find the owner. They usually go in pairs, one on a train, and the second on the next train following. Mr. Adams' visit to Belleville was his first one since the war from Napanee, as the second agent was apt to by his destination, one stop, in order to fool the officers. Provincial Constable Hughes, was on watch at Marysville, and when the Montreal to Montreal arrived, a passenger alighted with two heavy suitcases. He was immediately arrested, and when the cases were taken to Constable No. 2 was a citizen of Napanee.

Inspector Adams states that there has been a marked improvement in conditions in this district, and where the roads have dried up some, there is nothing to be seen stand ups committed. When asked how the arrests and quantities of liquor seized, during the January, February and March of this year, compared with the same three months of last year, the Inspector could not state, as he has had headquarters here for but some two months, and all information of that nature is forwarded to Toronto.

"What we want to get" said the Inspector "is not the men who takes to drink, but the trafficker, who charges exhibitant prices for 'bad' liquor, and makes a living by breaking the law."

CRUCIFIXION" IN ARMY RETAINED BY HOUSE

London, April 11.—An amendment to the army bill abolishing the "crucifixion" in the army was defeated in the House of Commons. Major E. Van Haward in introducing the measure said that crucifixion was degrading and offensive to discipline, but Sir Robert Sanders, Under-Secretary for War, opposed the amendment, saying that he didn't think it would be wise for the House of Commons to express an opinion on the men who had the responsibility of maintaining discipline. Eardley and Sir William Robertson, former Chief of Staff, favored the retention of the crucifixion, which consists of tying the offender to a cart wheel by his legs and arms.

CAPTURE GUNMAN WHO SHOT CHIEF

Ran From Hiding Place But Was Halted by a Fusillade.

Thamesville, Ont., April 11.—Zimmer Noak, the third member of the gang of Indians who robbed Bamberger's store here early Sunday morning, and at whose hands Chief Pickard was wounded in the leg, was captured yesterday afternoon in the Moravistown Reserve by High County Constable George Peters who was hiding in a house at the far end of the reserve, and when Constable Peters with two assistants approached the house Noak made a run across the fields. A dozen shots in rapid succession, two of which penetrated the body of the fleeing Indian, brought him to a stop. He confessed that he did the shooting.

Shortly before 4 o'clock Indian Constable Noah, of the reserve, phoned this place for help. Noak had learned of the man's hiding place, and an auto full of local citizens armed with revolvers and rifles, responded immediately. As they entered the reserve they met Peters, who had come by another direction, with his prisoner. Noah was taken to the County Jail at Chatham, where his trial will be held probably next Monday.

RLYS. BUDGET IS AWAITED

Statement Will be Made to the House Today by Minister.

Ottawa, April 11.—The "railway budget" will be presented to the House of Commons to-day by Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Railways and Canals. The statement which Mr. Kennedy will make is awaited with considerable interest, as it will explain the figures regarding the year's operations of the railways now owned or controlled by the people, and, it is anticipated, will give some inkling of the meaning which the Government attaches to the Drayton-Acworth report. A total deficit on the national roads exclusive of the Grand Trunk, of fifty six millions of dollars is in total, while the leases on Grand Trunk operations, it is anticipated, have added another ten millions to the total. Operative deficits during the year were cut from over thirty-seven millions to a little over sixteen millions on the national lines, exclusive of the Grand Trunk, while forty millions of approximately were absorbed by fixed charges on these lines.

Premier Lloyd George is Called Upon at Very Opening of the Genoa Conference to Head Rapture Between French and Russian Delegates—Mutual Confidence Essential to Restoration of Normal Business, Declares Italian Premier.

SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERYBODY.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

Genoa, April 11.—Consideration of the Russian question by the Economic Conference took place this morning with a meeting of the Russian Commission appointed yesterday by the Conference chairman, Premier Facta, of Italy. The clash between the Russians and the French at the opening was still the subject of excited comment to-day and Allied diplomats believe that the timely intervention of Lloyd George created a break in the conflict, any particularly pleased with the manner in which the British Premier handled the situation and declared that Mr. Lloyd George had applied "wiles which are brutal".

George Chicherin, head of the Russian Soviet delegation, issued a statement to-day declaring it useless to discuss the reconstruction of Europe without also discussing disarmament, unclassification of present conditions is impossible while the "unfortunate countries" continue vast expenditures for the maintenance of large armies, he declared.

"The hatreds and resentments of war must be forgotten here. There are, in fact, no victors and vanquished, victors and vanquished; but only men and nations striving in common for the restoration of a badly shaken continent."

"This conference must re-establish mutual confidence in order that normal business may be transacted."

With these words the keynote, the greatest conference ever held for the restoration of Europe's shattered business was opened by Premier Facta, of Italy, in his address of welcome this afternoon.

"A square deal for everybody must be the watchword of this conference. We must depart from the old caste system. There can be no distinctions between great powers if we are going to get anywhere in this conference."

This was the principle enunciated by Premier Lloyd George of England in his address of welcome to the delegates of the forty-seven nations of the world, in the great Palazzo San Giorgio, once one of the first international banks of the world, to-day the seat of the economic ego of the world on end. IRISH POLICE LEAVE BARRACKS

Garrison on the Fermanagh-Donegal Border Forced to Give Up.

Belleek, Fermanagh, Ireland, April 11.—The Belleek police barracks was evacuated yesterday by the garrison, consisting of an inspector and twenty men. This is the first place to give up by the six-county authorities. The barracks is situated in Belleek Town, on the Fermanagh-Donegal border. The former barracks in Belleek was a fort on the Donegal side, which is now occupied by Free State troops, who have received reinforcements of thirty men.

Armed women, to-day searched Donegal Special Constables for goods made in Belleek. They seized a quantity of cotton sheets and linen. Belleek pottery, newspapers they found.

Armed Republican soldiers, posted outside the Tiffert, Donegal court house to-day, refused admission to the Donegal County Court Judge when he arrived to open the Quarter Session. The soldiers told the judge that only Republican courts could be held. The judge then left.

The fire special constable arrested by the Irish Republican army at the Clones railway station on Feb. 13, when Commandant Fitzpatrick and four special constables were shot dead were released to-day.

HOUSE OF COMMONS DEBATES MOUNTED POLICE

Proposal to Have the Famous Force Function Only in Unorganized Territory is Voted Down Will Reduce the Force, Says Government.

Ottawa, April 10.—In a vote in which both the Liberal and Progressive camps were divided, the House of Commons to-day declined to accept the suggestion of James S. Woodsworth, radical Labor representative of Centre Winnipeg, and place itself on record as advocating that "the activities of the Canadian Mounted Police be confined to territories not included in any province of Canada." The Winnipeg member's proposal aroused some vigorous comment and a recapitulation of the issues of the Winnipeg strike of May and June, 1919. In the events of that strike, some members, for example H. C. Hocken, of West Toronto, recalled the strongest reason for maintaining the present distribution of the Mounted Police. Some members, too, like Hon. P. D. M. Bazier, of St. John, N.B., saw in the motion an attempt "to withdraw the force from the places where it could be used to maintain order and combat disorder, riot and revolution." Mr. Woodsworth asserted that the police had been used to look after suspected aliens during the war, personally knowledge of which was denied by others connected with industrial disputes."

He accused the police of "spying upon the movement of labor people throughout the country," and of "acting as secret service agents." He took it upon himself to say that the majority of the inhabitants of the Prairie Provinces looked upon the Mounted Police within the provincial boundaries, and said there should be no further centralization of the enforcement of law at Ottawa. In the last assertion he came into conflict with W. F. Nickle, K.C., of Kingston, who once more came to the front as an advocate of Federal enforcement of the Federal law. Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Militia, told the House it was the intention of the Government to reduce the strength of Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and as far as possible to confine its services to the unorganized territories.

Music and Drama

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

HERE THURSDAY

There has never been a time when a favorable prediction of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" on the stage by Mr. William H. Kibble will offer amusement to the people of Quebec, Ottawa, Brockville and Belleville, with the other points of call in and around, without performance.

The scenes which are large enough to fill the most spacious stage could not easily be improved, because in presenting the Child Story in quaint, the Rocky Pass in which George Harris proceeds, his family, the Shelby plantation, the levee on New Orleans, the slave traders' sale-rail shows, and the "Celestial City" are all most notable effects. Each picture of the play is a study of paint and canvas will permit and the stage perspective is so deep that the effect is exceptionally pleasing. The company is also wealthy in the reinforcement of Geo Collins, the eminent minstrel star, offers an excellent study of Uncle Tom.

"HAMMERED GOODS" COMING

Rennie Breux wrote "Damaged Goods" for the stage. It proved a success in sections in Europe and came to America. It was made into a book and then came the screening of the story with Richard Bennett leading, the company as in the stage play. Again the play in film came in contact with the Greedy family, in consequence of which its appearance has been delayed in some localities for weeks, months, or as in the case of Ontario for, 6 years.

But now it has been released in Ontario and Quebec on account of its indisputable value and because of the force with which it drives the tremendous moral lesson in a wonderful story of love and human folly.

Opportunity comes to Belleville with the engagement at the Regent this Thursday to Saturday, matinee daily. Acting under instructions from the Ontario board of censors no one under 14 will be admitted.

TO STOP FALLING HAIR

If you are losing your hair and fear baldness—don't worry. Use Parisian Sage daily for a week and you will surely be surprised to see how quickly it stops falling hair and itching scalp and removes every sign of dandruff—the hair destroyer.

"A New York woman says: I have used Parisian Sage only two weeks, but my hair has wonderfully increased in beauty, seems much heavier, and is entirely free of dandruff."

REX STOCK CO. IN STRONG DRAMA

"The Spenders" is Ably Presented by Very Clever Cast.

Something distinctly out of the ordinary is the dramatic society drama "The Spenders" which was presented here for the first time by the Rex Stock Company, at the Opera House, last night. Dealing as it does with an ambitious and selfish wife, whose one aim is to spend the money that her husband earns, it points a very complete and striking moral to all those that the players under Rex Stock Co. have ever presented a more vital play than "The Spenders."

The cast was perfect in every detail and the scenery was a marvel of perfection for stage comparison. "Rex" himself, cast though he was in an unusual role for him, acquitted himself very well and his portrayal of the harassed husband was a fine piece of work. Miss Zana Vaughn, who played the part of Mrs. Wade her part live and well deserved the rounds of applause which greeted her portrayal. Mrs. Yale was the most capable actress in the part of Philip Cartwright, the husband's lawyer friend and Florence Peters as the aunt Gretchen of the play was irresistible. The play had a number of tense moments and the situations developed in detail and have marred the whole continuity of the piece but under the capable hands of the Rex Players improved itself to be a vehicle of the highest class.

GERMAN GOVT. FORBIDS STRIKING

Technische Nothilfe Important Factor in Breaking Railroad Strike.

Berlin, April 11.—The right to strike is denied employees of the government, in an order issued by the German Minister of Transportation, who characterized the recent strike of engineers on the government railways as a "revolt of officials." A majority of high government officials and members of the Reichstag support this position.

Labor quarters, and particularly Communist circles take issue with the government, admitting that officials are bound "to obedience" to the state, but on the other hand are working men and women who must combat unfavorable wage and living conditions with weapons available. The strike is the most effective weapon within reach, they hold.

Use of emergency workers, like the Technische Nohilfe, to keep essential public utilities operating during the strikes, heretofore had been tacitly recognized by labor, which furnished members to the association, now is generally condemned by more radical labor and receives slight praise from conservative labor elements.

The Technische Nothilfe was an important factor in breaking the strike of the railroaders, it is argued, and therefore has shown itself not a good servant of the public but an enemy of organized labor.

AFRICAN EGOISM.

Some of Bantus Strange Notions Regarding Love.

A number of African natives once came to a letter-writer official. When they had indicated what he was required to read: "Sir,—We beg to ask you to give us your ears and eyes, for our thoughts."

The example of African "pidgin-English" was explained by a native who married his sister "because he knew in his heart of hearts" she would treat any room at Sekgoma's kraal kindly. "There is no love in the kindest and in the fondest and the people I am talking about do not care for love but for themselves."

Money counting still was a taste from a native who had been in the British service, and appealed to his "master" to "look at my present condition." He was beg, he wrote, "since I was in the mutiny, and I have not any shilling, please your majesty and master, my being reserve for good." Take Dear Father look! and hear that shop hands are having a footware in a strange country, please Mary! Mary! am not."

Another writer complained about "the bag in question." From the "straws which I was supplied by Railway Officer to be sleeping in" he declared, he never slept there once being to the station master are telling me the exact time of arrival the train due here or how many train will run."

"The vile manner" in which an engine-driver carried out advertising duties was the subject of another complaint.

"This driver," the letter read, "is not in favor of the policemen's lot, nor can he view the Minister's signals, but remains murmuring within himself. He then charged his wrongs with gravity of his ill-will to do so, until, certainly, police were instructed to settle complaints."

This writer added: "That I not been more active than sometimes the Trains would have run to point of derailment. I trust the T.M. will bring some warm instructions in the bosom of this Driver."

There is a certain amount of hesitation and reticence reflected in a report which stated that a driver "on most occasions" was detained by lying to "run on to another line on which a train was standing. The report is one which would certainly surprise a railway superintendent at home.

"Lastly," declared the complainant, is describing the scene, "Yesterday (Oc. tear service man, risk his life to get here, dash to the Station and drive it over, thinking to be billed. This driver is branding of his full blood drivin' that people may say oh, it is Dryer ——, he can drive perform oh ye praise him."

The author of another letter made full use of his vocabulary to express his contempt for a fellow native.

"As for you, a common lowcaste," he declared, "no fear of you ever a clepotomain, I know you have been destined to subsistance which the railway will soon find you for your games. You will soon entrap yourself."

Hedges, as he saved the way, the writer concluded: "You seems to forget that your father was a humble sleeper in our church, St. George's Cathedral in Re Lenox, and that you were only a piece-cat. First with a tail and Spear, to your illness and sickness for your father on his poor profession as Maul (the beadle — Ed.) and most ingratiful action in the world. You, dirty, foul world's fool, be more reasonable and make one house your comfortable home, behold you are a neighbor now."

In conclusion, the writer refers to his "friend" as an "Infidel, a spoil-way, a fiend conscience brute, a raw Fagan of the worst intensity, and a cruel beast of the Viper and Tigris breed."

Here is another "gem" recorded in "Up Against It in Nigeria" by "Lazz-Lazz":

"We natives of the country—and not desirous—has the pleasure to acquaint with you kind favor to inform you that we, though we are ignorant and illiterate before you but not in the point, we want your help now."

"With most profoundly, we have the honor respectfully to approach your very worship," a farther letter read; while another native correspondent in his letter subscribed himself "Your own sorrowman."

Dublin Castle's Doctor.

In Ireland, at a military dinner at the Viceregal Lodge, Dean Leslie, who has just written his memoirs, met Bob Williams, "who was attached" to the court, in what capacity I have no means of knowing, "except doctor," says Mr. Dean.

He was the originator of a very old chestnut which appeared from time to time. The Secretary for Ireland was then Lord Zetz, and at such war controller of the Zoo in Phœnix Park. He had gone up to London, and when there received a telegram from the keeper of the Zoo: "The emu has laid an egg, and in the absence of your lordship we have placed it under the biggest goose we could secure."

A Quiet Hint.

The district visitor was paying her annual call, and poor harassed Mrs. Heath, who had been left alone in the middle of a heavy day's washing, was thoroughly fed up. "Really, my good woman," droned her visitor, "what can reads do to papers to keep quality. Indeed, one half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives." "Well, m'm," replied Mrs. Heath, simply, "that don't your fault, is it?"

Spanish Evil Eye.

Belief in the evil eye is so common amongst the peasantry of Spain, that a lamb is considered a good safeguard, and small horns, tipped with silver, are frequently hung about the children's necks.

SALVATION ARMY DO GREAT WORK

The Army Helps Fallen Get Another Start in Life.

Harold Begbie has made a contribution to the work of The Salvation Army in his book "Broken Earthenware" that stands out as an expose of the inner workings of that organization. In London, England, in this book, the writer has attempted to set forth various pen pictures of the "Genesis" which the Army has been and he has shown what a tremendous influence for good the Army's Officers and Soldiers are in the quarters of the great metropolis regarding which very little is known in the

One is impressed with the signs the writer puts before the readers and immediately asks the question, "Are problems similar to these being solved in other portions of the world?"

Not long ago a visitor was making enquiries about conditions as found in the Salvation Army by a Social Officer to whom the enquiries were addressed referred, during the conversation, to a meeting that had been held a few nights previous. This meeting was not advertised at all, was not for the public at large, but rather took the form of a little "home coming" and was attended by a number of men who had come under the Army's influence during the past few years.

The purpose of this and its predecessor meetings, is to keep in touch with girls who have had the Army as friends. They are not obliged to attend. The matter of doing so rests entirely with them. But when they do attend their presence is evidently welcome and a good time is spent.

Following the recent meeting, the Social Officer of this interview asked the head of this department if Miss So-and-So had been present. He was told that she had. "How is she getting along?" he asked the woman Officer in charge, and he was told that she was getting along very nicely indeed.

To the writer, the information was given that this particular girl was only 4 years when she came into the arms of The Salvation Army. Nor was the writer more surprised that the Officer whom he had been given this report, "Terrible as that is," he said, "there have been cases even more surprising."

"I was informed by the Officer in charge," he said, "that there is a young woman here now who came to us at the age of 12."

"Broken Earthenware" may, appear to some to be somewhat between their Old London and it would be the surprise of many a Torontonian if it were possible to publish the details of the work which The Salvation Army is doing day in and day, out right here in Toronto.

It is only a short while ago that a young girl left her home in Western Ontario and came to the city. Friends or disappearance the parents appealed to The Salvation Army to find her. The case presented many difficulties. The description of the girl would have fitted any one of hundreds. These difficulties, however, were gradually overcome and eventually the girl was found living under revolting conditions.

She was made to see the distress she had caused, the stupidity of following along the lines she had taken and was returned to her home. Recent reports indicate that this temporarily broken bit of humanity has taken a new lease on life and is determined not so let go.

The secretaries of the Social Work which the Salvation Army performs makes publicity a difficult question. If the details of the prison work alone could be written, the story would be "stranger than fiction"by a good deal.

In Toronto there are three Officers whose duty it is to meet men on discharge and by a strong, loving hand of Christian fellowship, endeavour to "shepherd" them on their return to ordinary life. Many are advised—and assisted—to seek new surroundings in another town or district away from the pitfall of old habits and old associations. Many are accompanied to the train and with a hearty hand-shake and a cheery "God bless you," they start life afresh.

During the past year over fifteen thousand interviews or personal conversations were held with men in jails. Some of these resulted in the writing of letters to relatives and friends and no less than 2,222 letters were written. In this way, Salvation Army workers became the link between those in jail and their families. No record has been kept of the hundreds of friendly wives and mothers who have sought out the S. A. Officers have written letters of appreciation for services rendered by the one serving a prison term. Messages of love and cheer are thus conveyed from wife to husband or from children to father.

GREAT INCREASE IN DAIRYING

Propose to Grade and Standardize Dairy Products From Canada.

As the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner of the Dominion Department of Agriculture states, the development of the dairying industry in New Zealand during the last twenty years is of great significance to Canada. In 1904 that country exported 35,503,792 lbs. of butter and 9,001,920 lbs. of cheese. Seventeen years later it exported 73,304,192 lbs. of butter and 151,588,304 lbs. of cheese. This enormous increase of over a hundred per cent. in one instance and fifteen hundred per cent. in the other is attributable to management, industry, and climatic and pastoral conditions, and to the fact, in the case of cheese, that their product is better seasoned on landing than our own. The fact the Commissioner is inclined to attribute in a measure to the greater distance the cheese has to be carried, and to the care that is taken in temperature during transportation. What, over the same, it is plainly to Canada to adopt every measure that is calculated to bring about not only improvement but stability in the situation as far as she is concerned. One step in this direction, and a most beneficial step it it hoped it will prove, the proposed grading and standardization of dairy products sent from this country. Nothing of this nature emanate from the Department at Ottawa without consulting the interests concerned. Conferences are held to which representatives of dairy and allied associations are invited, as well as both Dominion and Provincial officials. At the most recent gathering of this kind held in Ottawa, upwards of sixty delegates were present and the consensus of opinion proved to be overwhelmingly in favor of grading. Addresses were delivered by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Miss Helen G. Campbell, with specialist of the Department, and Mr. A. Arscott, Dairy Commissioner for Manitoba. The question of the duration for all the phases took place, and it was understood that negotiations relating to Dairy Products shall would be formulated as regards the grading of exports and put in force as soon as a staff of thoroughly qualified graders could be got together. It is proposed that there be four grades each for butter and cheese, the butter being designated as specials, firsts, seconds, and off-grades, and the cheese as firsts, fines, fine, seconds and off-grades.

When "No" Is Good Sometimes Isn't It Better At All Times?
A great many people have learned to say "No" to tea or coffee at noon and at night—learned it at the cost of jumping nerves and disturbed digestion.
Thousands of others who passed through that stage have learned to say "No" to tea and coffee all the time, and have found a most satisfactory "Yes" in Postum.
Postum's full, rich flavor delights the taste. And there is no demand for it to be a stimulating drink, and it contains no element that can harm anybody. Even little children may share in the "good cheer" of a hot cup of Postum with any meal.
Whether or not the thein in tea or the caffeine in coffee has begun to serve warnings on you, you can profit by the experience of others and by the information Postum Cereal Co. can give you—and find charm without harm in Postum.
Suppose you make the test for ten days, with well-made Postum, and compare the "feel" with your former experience with tea and coffee.

HYDRO INVESTIGATION.

Investigation of Hydro-Electric enterprises and expenditure by a committee of the legislature would be less costly than investigation by a royal commission. And a committee investigation would be wider in scope and less trammeled than would a commission investigation. However, if Mr. Drury selects as commissioner the right kind of man and allows them plenty of latitude, there is no reason why they should not be able to bring out all the facts which it is desirable that the public should know. They will have it in their power to make the investigation worth while in a large degree.

Meanwhile it is well to make it plain that in ordering this investigation Mr. Drury is not guilty of less majesty toward Sir Adam Beck, as some of that gentleman's friends appear to feel. The chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission is a public servant, and his conduct is therefore subject to scrutiny as is that of any other public official. It is not believed that the most searching investigation will disclose anything to justify a suspicion with regard to Sir Adam's personal integrity. But there is no wide a difference between the claims which he has made in relation to the Hydro-Electric power work, and the statements made by others in criticism of the manner in which that work has been handled, that there have developed in the public mind doubts which only a public investigation can dispel or confirm. Another reason why the investigation should be held is that it may help in the solution of the problem of the future relations between the government and the H.-E. commission—a matter of no little importance.

On this subject Sir John Willison has some judicious remarks in his "month to month" article in the current number of the Canadian Magazine. He writes as follows:

No evidence has ever been produced to support an whisper against Sir Adam Beck's integrity. It is impossible to believe that any such evidence ever will be produced. It would be merely stupid to deny that the Hydro-Electric system has brought great advantages to Ontario or to question their devotion to the great project. But Sir Adam Beck is not a god and "public ownership" is not a religion. It is possible to oppose the principle and still be a good husband and a good father and a good citizen. That the Hydro-Electric system will ever be turned over to private control is beyond belief. But it is proper enough to consider how far the system may wisely be extended, how far the public credit may be pledged for the projects of the commission, and what authority, if any, the Government and the Legislature should exercise over the commission.

MARK OF ORIGIN.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association has issued a booklet setting forth the views of its members on matters connected with trade and commerce, as presented to the Canadian government, a few weeks ago by a deputation appointed for the purpose. The association declares that "these statements express the official views of the association on the various subjects mentioned." These particular subjects were eight in number, but we are now only concerned with one of them, the marking of country of origin on imported goods, upon which Mr. J. H. Rogers, of the firm of Rogers & Co., Limited, addressed the government officials who received the deputation. It was pointed out that the United States first instituted marking provisions in the Tariff Act of 1890. In 1909, amendment were made to that act, which is the law as it stands today. The Canadian act "seems to have been modelled on it." These marking provisions were never debated in the United State congress, and they were apparently accepted by all parties. Many other countries, the government is reminded, have marking regulations against imports which are more drastic than the United States provisions.

Though there is logic in the claim that Canadian product also should be marked, in order that the purchaser migh know just exactly the origin of the goods he is buying, the association asserts that it would be impossible to enforce a domestic marking act to apply to all commodities. Canadian exporting firms, however, have to conform to the provision of foreign marking acts, and it is not difficult for these exporting companies to observe such requirements. The deputation submitted "that any marking act should be applied along practical lines so as to avoid useless expense or injury to goods, and should not interfere with Canadian domestic production or production for export." It was also recommended that the government should waive the 10 per cent. penalty duty under the provision of the present act.

The present administration has postponed the operation of the marking act until the end of this session. It is anticipated that many amendments will be introduced before the lapse of that interval, and in cases where its application might cause real inconvenience, the act may be entirely suspended. But there is a widespread demand for such a measure.

WOMAN AND THE VOTE

London Morning Post

The gloomybread is losing its gilt, for women are finding out that women have to serve in courts of law. They are not rushing to the jury-boxes with the enthusiasm with which they rush to the Oxford street sales. The novelty is slow and boring, and there are no bargains, only speeches. And barristers are terrible, and judges, with exceptions, invariably dull. There are also butterflies, but only a wheel.

As for the votes, most women who have just got it are attaching precisely the same importance to it as those men who have it on generations. Sex equality, like self-determination, is admirable in theory, but disappointing and dangerous in practice. Neither tie in with a rough workaday world. Both doctrines were discovered by theorists, launched with virulence and followed by disillusionment and disturbance.

THE FREEMAN'S JOURNAL

Vancouver Columbian

The Freeman's Journal of Dublin has always been associated with the aspirations, at times unreasonable ones, of the Irish people for the independence of Ireland. Names of a score of Irish leaders have been suppressed, with its issues, for the last quarter of a century, and anyone who would have guessed a few years ago would be the wrecking of the Freeman's Journal by an Irish republican mob. This incident affords one more illustration of the difficulty of answering the Irish question. To apply the words of an illustrious poet: We may suppose that fewer admirers when the Freeman's Journal lies,

THE BLUE SKY TRAIL

Ole Lieut. Air Scout

There's a blue trail in the setting sun, along the azure sky,
Where rodling fields of fleecy clouds go gently sailing by,
While sunbeams paint in crimson hue,
each grotesque shape and form,
And rainbows bleed into the midst,
false harbingers of storm.

There's race of men, who laughing go along the danger trail,
Who battle in the realms of air, as the sea is done by sail.
Who battle in tumultuous storms and win through fog and snow;
Gloating their days and nights where the trails of men may go.

When evening shadows overspread and the twinkling stars burn,
I see of them will venture forth who love the Blue Sky Trail.
Ring Cheery Trail that I shall travel, till the wings drop off the plane,
Till the hinges are all broke, and
I work the stick in vain.

When I drop in a yellow flare, afraid, in the cemetery,
They shed no tear in mourning, and leave no bitter sigh,
Just gather up whatever remains, scraps
of limbs, or body or brain,
And take me with me on the golden trail,
where the God of sunset reigns.

When the clouds have a crimson hue and night is beginning to lower,
Drive me through the gateway, on the Blue Sky Trail, once more.
Then sprinkle me over the Western Front, the billowed fields of fame
Turn me loose, on the Blue Sky Trail, and tell them I "died game."

LEGAL DECISION IN UNIQUE CASE

Beaverton Farmer Retains Possession of Disputed Land Bordering Lake.

Toronto, April 10.—When the forgotten builders back in the misty ages piled rough stones at Stonehenge, for future generations to wonder at there may or may not have been some form of human life on the sandy shores of that lanid of water which is now known as Lake Simcoe. If that is it may, litigation over right of public access to the ancient monument at Stonehenge is cited by Justice Middleton of the Ontario Supreme Court in a judgment in which he determined the rights of a farmer whose land is bordered by Lake Simcoe.

Thomas Bott, of the township of Thorah, is the embattled farmer who entered on litigation for an injunction restraining the erection of an hotel house on lakeside property which he claims as his own, but which the town of Beaverton declared was dedicated as a public highway. The real question involved is the ownership of the strip of land in dispute.

The Stonehenge case in the English Courts twenty years ago, that a public highway must remain intact level from one public place to another. A cul de sac may be a public highway but the decision in the case of the Gimli Causeway case is the sole instance in which a pleasure resort has been held to be a good terminus for a highway, and in that case the road had been repaired by the public authority. In the Gimli's Causeway case the judges had a very similar case to the present Beaverton case, and they held that dedication of a public right as a place of recreation to wander about in.

The Daily Recipe

1 Plain Boiled Cauliflower Dressing

Pick over the greens and remove all spears of grass. Wash through as many waters as necessary. The last water should be perfectly clear. Cut off the tiny root and shake out the leaves. Put in a kettle with water to cover.

Boil 15 minutes and add salt. Boil 15 minutes longer and drain. Press out all the water possible. For two cups of cooked greens melt two tablespoons butter over a gentle heat and stir in 1 tablespoon flour and 1 teaspoon mace. Add 1 cup hot milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Heat the greens in this sauce and serve at once.

DON'T INFECT MOSQUITOES

Commenting on printed reports on mosquito control in such diverse countries as Spain and the Dutch East Indies, the U.S. Public Health Service calls attention to the fact that the government authorities who are trying to free a certain region in Spain of malaria refuse to allow any farmer from that disease to remain in the region over night lest they infect the malaria-bearing mosquitoes which feed only at night. They white people live in the region; and most of the sufferers, come from considerable distance and seem to have contracted malaria while working there in previous years. Their health is considered and they are provided with sufficient quinine to last them for two weeks and are told to go home at once and to report back at the end of that period for another two weeks supply.

The theory is of course, that the mosquitoes cannot find a malaria patient to bite they cannot acquire malaria germs and therefore cannot pass them on to well persons. In other words, if men do not infect mosquitoes, mosquitoes will not infect men.

Incidentally, the Service notes that the American minows, Gambusia affinis, are being imported into Spain and Italy to help in mosquito eradication.

WIFE "DANCING FOOL"; HUSBAND GETS DIVORCE

Detroit, April 11—Louis Bory was much too slow for his wife, Lottie, he told Judge Jeffries when he asked to be given a decree of divorce here yesterday on the ground of cruelty and desertion.

When he attempted care-maa tactics by locking her in the house she climbed out of the kitchen window and went to dances, he said, at always coming home unattended. He said he tried to believe all her protestations of innocence but he was grieved and humiliated when she continually told him he was too old and too slow for her.

"She must have been what they call a dancing fool," commented the Court.

"That's just what she was," agreed the husband.

Soccer Prospects for Season are Looking Excellent

SOCCER LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING

Eight Teams Have Entered and Big Season is Assured.

A representative meeting of football enthusiasts was held at the Chamber of Commerce last evening. Mr. Frank Walsh, who has been in the hospital for sometime, was in attendance, and gave a good report of the last year's work.

Mr. Downs of the G.W.V.A. presided and called the meeting to order.

Secretary's Report

On Tuesday evening, October 18th, 1921, a public meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms with the purpose of forming a Soccer League in this city.

Seven teams were entered in the League, representing Albert College, O.S.D., Taplin-Bakers, Tiger Tire, G. T. R., 58th Battery and Belleville Tigers.

A cup and set of medals, donated by the merchants of this city, was presented to the league as a trophy.

The first game of the league was played on Thursday, October 20th and in all 35 matches were scheduled under the auspices of the league. Tiger Tires being the successful team, were presented with the cup and medals by Mr. J. O. Herlity, at the Chamber of Commerce, December 7th, 1921.

While taking into regard the conditions under which the league was formed, together with the interests of the season, the executive are to be congratulated on the manner in which the league was handled, and in preparing the game a sound footing for the coming season. We have had our difficulties and ajustain amount of wrangling, but these were soon overcome, and we have everything to hope for our league going forward this year on an honest and straight forward basis.

One thing, at least, can be said before you is withstand the bulwark of criticism and that is the financial standing of your league.

The league was initiated without a nickle of money being received from any individuals or organizations. The money was raised, which not one cent was taken to our receipts. Three matches received the total sum of one dollar and eighty cents—our highest gate receipt was 19 dollars—yet after paying for printing, advertising, expenses, etc., we have one of the most solvent bodies connected with the B.A.A.

An endeavor was made to link our league with Toronto but on receiving the necessary information we found that this was more than our financial standing could bear. To affiliate with this body, while desirable, would entail with it all, besides to play matches here would enforce a guarantee of at least $150 to cover expenses of the visiting team. Here was a disorder beyond the league's possibilities and consequently no action was taken in the matter.

An effort is now in progress to arrange a district league with places nearer at hand and this will probably come into being by the first of next month.

Election of Officers

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon- President—Mayor Hanna,
President—Mr. Wm. Harvey.
Vice-President—Mr. Norman Maker.
Secretary—Mr. Frank Walsh.
Treasurer—Mr. W. E. Scott, B.A., of Dominion Bank.

Committee to be composed of two delegates from each team entered.

The following teams are in the league's schedule for the coming season:

O.S.D., Albert College, G.W.V.A., Knights of Columbus, Sons of England, Tiger Tires, U-Get-Em Club, and G.T.R.

Constitution of rules was put for ward and adopted. Each team entering the league for the Merchants' Cup and Medals must forward their application before the 1st of May, together with a registration fee of $5 and $5 guarantee (the latter is returnable if arrangements are fulfilled) to Frank Walsh, Secretary, 320 Coleman Street.

All players must apply to Secretary for form of registration, and the membership fee is 10 cents.

Referees were appointed for the coming season—Mr. J. O. Trustech, Mr. Charlie Thompson and Mr. J. Childs.

A deputation comprising Mr. Downs and Mr. F. Walsh was appointed to interview Mayor Hanna with a view to getting the grounds in repair.

Any further bodies intending to compete this year will please apply to the Secretary for the full information.

A meeting of the executive will be held at the Y.M.C.A. next Friday evening, at 7.30. Teams please send two delegates.

TWISTING 'EM UP HARD ON PITCHER

Throwing Curves is Hard on Box Men, Says Walter Johnson.

Walter Johnson doesn't seem to quite agree with Joe McGinnity that a man pitching every fifth should never have a sore arm. Writing about his experience as a pitcher, Johnson takes this opposite view:

The curve ball is the toughest ball for the pitcher. It is unquestionably the hardest of all types, unless it is spitball.

I never used the spitball to any great extent. Once year, when every pitcher was using it, I learned how to throw it. I did so simply to keep up with the times, rather than the thought of using it.

Occasionally in a pinch with two strikes on the batter, I would throw him a spitball. His guess probably more than any deceptive break I got on the ball, made it rather effective.

One season I threw perhaps spitballs all year, so I am not competent to speak on just what effect its constant use has on the arm. However, the fact that most spitball pitchers have it is a hard delivery on the arm.

Since the spitball is now passed only a very few pitchers being permitted to use it, a comparison between the two is of no particular moment.

I do know that the curve is very tring on the arm, from my own experience in the days when I used it. This ball almost entirely I would finish a game almost as fresh as I started.

Later, in games in which I frequently used a curve, my arm would feel as if it were dead, and I would be tired as some fellow who had been using a pick and shovel all day.

A catcher can be of great assistance to a pitcher in his selection of stuff. Some catchers seem to think every delivery should be a curve. A pitcher hates to be constantly disagreeing with his receiver, and very often pitches contrary to his desire.

When Gabby Street was catching me, it was easy going. He was very complimentary, to me and would always say:

"Why use a curve, Walter, when they can't see your fast one?"

JABEZ WHITE PASSES

London, April 10.—Jabez white of Birmingham, the once welterweight champion boxer, died recently at Birmingham, at the age of 45. He had been in failing health for some time, but hopes had been entertained of his ultimate recovery. White commenced boxing as a professional when only sixteen years of age, and reached the finals of two open competitions at the Central Hall, Holborn. Later he carried off most of his notable triumphs at the Olympic Club, Bermingham, where he met and defeated Harvey Checketts, Dave Wallace, Mike Sears and Billy Newell.

White made two trips to the United States, where he was defeated by Jimmy Britt and Joe Gans in championship bouts. White's last battle was at Birmingham, where he attempted a "come-back" after many year's absence from the ring. On this occasion he was outpointed by Bill Johnson of Smethwick. When at his best White was a difficult man to beat, and for several years he was regarded as one of the cleverest of the British lightweights.

PETITION TO LANDIS ON BEHALF OF BABE RUTH

New York, April 10.—Dred-in-the-wool Yankee fans today started circulation of a petition to former Judge K. M. Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, asking the reinstatement of Babe Ruth in the American League team's lineup that he may play in the opening game of the season. Mr. Hill, who is sponsoring the petition, said tonight he had obtained 2,000 signatures in a few hours and expected to have fully 20,000 before he presented it to Commissioner Landis.

Mr. Hill also declared that it is the opinion of a majority of fans that Ruth's suspension until May 20, imposed by Landis, which he characterized as a "barnstorming" tour last fall, should be lifted that the public might see Ruth again, which, he said, was the attempt to make another home run record. "We do not censure Judge Landis for his decision," Mr. Hill says, "but we think he should consider the public and take steps to right the wrong done."

SPORT STUFF

The recent challenge of Strangler Lewis for a mixed style, or go-as-you-please contest with Jack Dempsey, Dempsey to use the weapons of his profession and Lewis to confine himself to wrestling grips and tricks, makes interesting reading and furnishes food for argument, discussion and debate. The idea itself is ridiculous. No state commission would stand for it. A wrestler would have Dempsey helpless before he started. Dempsey would have none at all if the wrestler were to get his clutches on him. But Dempsey is a pretty husky boy and when he was used to riding the rods and brakebeams his game was poison to the bobcat and whoever tried to get fresh with him. He was a rough-and-tumble battler worthy of the name. It was this prosperity that attracted attention to him and first gave him the idea of taking up fighting as a business. He might welcome a chance to go back to the old style, for he sure does love to fight. These mixed contests have been held before. During the hectic Nevada days when James J. Jeffries was training to be trimmed by Jack Johnson, Farmer Burns, wrestler, and Billy Papke, middleweight, put on one of these bouts. Burns tossed Papke and the boxer did not get up. But that was after Papke had posed several times as a door mat for the late Stanley Ketchel. An imposing looking fighter was Mr. Papke, but he felt more comfortable sitting in the ring than standing on his feet. Another mixed bout in San Francisco was between a jiu jitsu expert and a third rate boxer. The jiu jitsu man wanted the boxer that he might accidentally kill him. That made the boxer angry and he hit the jiu jitsu exponent on the chin. Subsequent proceedings interested the jiu jitsu man not at all. He did not come to until early the next morning.

"All the Boys Want a Ride on My New C.C.M."

TOMMY STEVENS has one big kick—

All the boys want to ride his new C. C. M. bicycle.

Tommy says, "The fellows pester the life out of me. Before one of them has finished a ride, some other fellow is

Coaxing for a Turn

They all seem to like my new C. C. M. a lot better than their own bikes."

Aside from this one kick, Tommy is tickled to death with his new bicycle.

He admits he can hardly blame the fellows for wanting to ride it. It runs so much easier. And when the boys ask him why, Tommy tells them about the

C.C.M. Triplex Hanger

It reduces friction. And there's a freedom from those mean "tight and loose" spots often developed by other hangers.

Tommy says, "It makes a C. C. M. bicycle run so smooth and easy you'd almost think you were riding down grade. And I can feel the Triplex fairly sizzle with power and pull away like mad when I hit her up!"

Boys! Girls! Have you ridden a C. C. M. Bicycle with the C. C. M. Triplex Hanger? Get your father to go to the dealer's with you and see one.

The New Models Are Beauties

The last word in bicycle style and smartness. Wonderfully smooth enamelling that fairly sparkles. And the "bright as sunshine" nickelling is done over copper so it can't rust.

All C. C. M. Bicycles have the Ball Bearings Positive Drive. Coaster Brake — the kind that coasts farther and has no clumsy side arm.

The C. C. M. is "A Real Bicycle for a Real Boy."

And there's a special one that the boy won't outgrow. Equally good for a lad of nine as a youth of twenty. Step into a C.C.M. dealer's and ask to see the C. C. M. 18-in. Carved Bar Model.

THERE are over 100 Bicycle Service Stations in Canada ready to examine C.C.M. parts and giving C. C. M. service at reasonable cost. Look for the above sign.

ROBBING HEN ROOSTS

Hen thieves are active near Port Hope, where last Friday night they stole forty hens from Mr. Fred Iceton and thirty-five from Mr. Harold Reesor, after entering the chicken house the following morning. Mr. Reesor found a valuable gold watch which some of the thieves had dropped in his hurried get-away. On Saturday Mr. Reesor turned the watch over to Mr. Harry Reynolds for identification and it was then learned that it belonged to Mr. J. W. Walker, Bloomsgrove avenue.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

A very destructive fire occurred on the farm of Mr. M. B. Hamilton, Ameliasburg, Prince Edward County, on Saturday afternoon last. The men had been engaged in threshing, clover seed, a few minutes after they had left for supper they discovered the barn in flames and ablaze. Through the heroic work of the threshers and neighbors all the livestock was saved, but the barn 128 x 72, the stable 30 x 30, the grain mill, a clover mill, a large new silo, the corn sentter, the grain grinder and a Chalmer car 1921, were completely destroyed by fire. Two hundred bushels of oats, 150 of which were purchased just a few days before; a quantity of alsike and timothy, two wagons, a buggy and a plough were also burned. The loss is estimated at $12,000 with insurance of only $5,000. The fire started from a hot box on the clover mill.

NEW SCHOOL DESKS

John Gets His Last Chance

By WINIFRED DUNBAR

©1921, Western Newspaper Union.

The telephone was flagging discordantly and Cleave was conscious of an impertinent of classics as he took down the receiver.

"Yes, wife's accident ..." he heard a voice saying. "Thrown from the buggy ... badly hurt ... unconscious ... and crave leave ... come home at once."

Closing the receiver up and not starting possibly in the papers upon his desk, Cleave felt himself decadent. He had not expected to see Mary again for ten years. They had been married two years, and had no child. If one had come things might have been different—they might not have quarreled so perpetually.

But she had loved him before their marriage, though! Cleave, as he sat at his desk. Then she had striven to trust to make him happy! And he, too, had tried hard to be good to her, for she was very lovable and sweet. But at last they had both given up in despair. They would always remain together the words she had said to him that night, three months before.

If can forgive you, John, and love you, but the memory of these two unhappy years must always be with me. It can never be quite the same again."

And after that everything had gone to pieces. Things had gone from bad to worse. And finally they had decided that Mary should go back to her mother, to spend the summer with her. There was to be no scandal. Mary was soon on her way to the station when the accident happened.

Suddenly there swept over him a fuller realization than had ever before come to him of his selfishness. If he could only have one chance more!

An hour's run and he was treading the streets of the country village in which he lived. He saw his house. An automobile was standing before the door. He rushed in. The doctor and a nurse, hastily summoned, were in the hall. When the doctor had finished speaking, and the nurse had sped up the stairs, he turned to him.

"Your wife has had a very serious accident, Cleave," he said. "She was thrown out of the buggy when the horse swerved, and sustained a fracture of the skull. There is no immediate danger. I am happy to say. She may recover consciousness at any time. But we fear some brain injury."

All through that afternoon John Cleave sat at his wife's bedside, staring into the wide-open eyes that saw nothing. She lay in a stupor.

It was not until the third afternoon that consciousness returned.

It was about three o'clock in the afternoon when she stirred and spoke. She smiled at him, and the smile was like that which she had worn upon their wedding morning.

"Dearest—where am I?" she asked. "At home," said John, thrilling at the faint clasp of her fingers. "At home, never to go away again."

"She spoke to you, you say?" inquired the doctor of John that evening. "She knew you and spoke and seemed rational?"

"Absolutely rational," answered John Cleave, and turned away. He went into his room and on his knees thanked God for the chance that was to be his. His prayer was answered.

"How long have we been married, John?" Mary asked next day. "It seems such a long time, somehow, and yet I know that it can't really be an entire year as that calendar on the wall seems to show."

John looked at the calendar. It was as old one of the preceding year.

"It is June," said Mary, "and we were married in June. Is it a whole year, dearest?"

John dared not tell her that it was two years.

"Dearest," she whispered, presently. "Put your arms round me and let me tell you something. Do you know, all the time I was lying here this morning, I have been thinking and thinking. I have been to you, and how unhappy I have made you. I want you to forgive me, John. And I believe you can forgive me, because the memories of the first year of our marriage have been so dear."

"It is you who must forgive me, dearest," said John, humbly.

That night the doctor explained the situation to him.

"Your wife," he said, "is on the high road to recovery. Her mind is as clear as it has ever been. The brain trouble which I anticipated amounts simply to—shock. The shock of the past year has slipped out of her memory. Has she told you anything that could account for that?"

"Yes," answered John, humbly, and the doctor shot a keen glance at him.

"Then that is the explanation," he said. "After mind and treatment she wishes to forget the episode, whatever it was. It is necessary for her to forget in order that she may get well. Are you prepared to help her go through with the—comedy—for one year?"

"Indeed, I am," said Cleave, "especially since you think it is for the best."

"You have a very charming wife, Mr. Cleave," he added. "Guard her and care for her tenderly! Is that hurry its end."

And John, kneeling at Mary's bedside, thanked God that his chance had come, and renewed his vows, hereafter more to be honored than before.

With New Days Have Come New Methods

More ethical methods of course—of greater importance to the public, more thorough and scientific methods of visual diagnosis.

With a more intelligent public realization of the intimate relation between general physical disorder and visual defect, there arose a positive need for the Optometrist to apply himself to higher optical education, if he were to merit consideration by the better classes.

That our Optical Service is definitely attested by the steadily growing demand is based upon it.

North and South America are absent from this conference.

Only the appalling economic and financial situation of Europe have brought the enemies, Communists and capitalists together.

For the first time in five years Communist Russia was eye to eye with the capitalist Western world across a conference table.

Emphasizing the democratic character and the basic sanity of all nations the blondes of Scandinavia and other superior races sat down with the swarthy Albanians, and the latter were given the honor of honor at the head of the voting list because the name of their country begins with the first letter of the alphabet.

HOW GROUPS LINED UP IN INDEPENDENT VOTING

Ottawa, April 11.—The division list, showing how each of the members in the House of Commons voted on the Woolworth resolution to abolish the Royal Canadian Mounted Police from the organized Provinces of the Dominion, discloses an interesting division among the parties in the "free and fair" vote. The Labor group, consisting of Messrs. Woodsworth and Irvine, and the Conservatives were the only groups presenting a solid front on the resolution. By party standing the vote was as follows:

Liberals—Yes, 13; nay, 56. Progressives—Yes, 31, nay, 18. Conservatives—Yes, none; nay 34. Labor—Yes, 2; nay, nil. Independent—Yes, 1. Total—Yes, 47; nays, 108.

$30,000,000 MARKS PRINTED LAST WEEK

Berlin, April 11.—The Reichsbank printing presses broke all records during the last week, printing 4,500,000,000 marks of new paper money in circulation. This makes nearly 140,000,000,000 paper marks outstanding. It is believed here the only reason the mark has not gone down 30,000 or 40,000 to the dollar is the hope placed in Genoa. With the prices of most of the necessities of life astronomical, and rising by leaps and bounds, the Government will have to act quickly if the mark is not to meet the fate of the Austrian krone and Berlin follow Vienna to ruin.

POSTAGE STAMP SOLD FOR 200,000 FRANCS

Paris, April 11.—A one-cent postage stamp recently sold for 200,000 francs here. It was from the collection of M. Perrant de la Renatiere which was placed on sale and was a British Guiana stamp issued in 1856. The price set a world's record for a single stamp. Six U. S. stamps issued in 1846 sold for an average of 84,000 francs each.

GERMANY IS MAKING BID FOR BUSINESS

Vienna, April 11.—Germany's bid for business is illustrated by the fact that the Austrian railway administration announces it is sending locomotives and other rolling stock there for repairs. Although the state owns hundreds of railway repair shops the Minister of Railways says the work can be done cheaper in Germany.

Monocle Is Losing Hold
That It Took on the Army
When Empire Was Young

One of the decaying institutions is the monocle; or, is it becoming one of the lost arts? Eyeglasses and "specs" are multiplying, but the monocle has seen its day. It played a shining part on some quite respectable faces in English society and in some social families of American society. It was popular there time and that its popularity waned. Fashion's decrees always come that way.

Several explanations have been given as to why the monocle was. Sir Horace Rumbold says that the fashion of wearing it was introduced at the Congress of Vienna—and grew, which reason he may Europe back in the last century. He told that it was a Dutch contrivance—which is the diplomatic language for "trade" — one Jonkheer Breda, who, was the first man to wear a monocle, and he showed this brand new fad to the diplomats and their followers assembled in Vienna. After that introduction the fad spread to all parts of Europe, but took its strongest grip in England.

Another authority has said that the monocle made its first conquest in British army circles. An order had been issued that army officers should not wear eyeglasses or spectacles, these being considered evidence of defective eyes. A number of officers then took to wearing a monocle because they did have defective vision, and as a monocle was neither "eyeglasses" nor "spectacles" they got around the order. It is the thought to lend the wearer an air of distinction, and other officers whose eyes were all right took up the monocle on that account, their popularity in the army being at its zenith—which prompted so many officers and enlisted men to leave the service a short cane, which came to be called "a swagger stick." And from military circles the monocle extended its influence to civilians and came to be "quite the thing, don't you know."

Toward the end of the first quarter of the nineteenth century the fad of wearing a monocle had become so popular that a writer of a book on the care of the eyes and the prevention of their defects inveighed against it. The name of the writer was Dr. Richard Forbes Hill. He published this book, the title of which was "Common Sense Hints Respecting to the monocle he wrote: "A single glass in the eye must, little-often used by trinket-fanciers for fashion's sake, 'from' that it does not the least defect in their sight and are not aware of the disadvantageous consequences of such irritation."

So They Say.

"The test of a man's education is what he chooses to do when he is not obliged to do anything." — Mr. Arthur Brisbane.

"North country men believe that a large part of the children are not nearly as the virtues are to be found in the north."—Bishop Boddon.

"Everybody has a hunch there are so many more women than men. You can't blame them for making a fuss about a thing."—Miss Lena Ashwell.

"The trend of the time in this world is for a man to go home and work."—Mr. Alex. Richardson, M.P.

"If people will only give up the dreadful carping spirit and habit of finding fault everything in God's earth and, instead, work to help to get things right, it would be a better world, not only for the man to-day, but also for those who will come after them."—Hon. Sir Francis Lloyd.

Minister returning to a suspect (whispered in fare): "Conductor, do you know drunk men on these cars?"

Conductor (in a whisper): "It will be all right, sir, if you don't get too many."

BOBBED HAIR HERE TO STAY

Local Girls Are Having Hair Cut in Great Numbers.

MEN APPROVE

Many Styles of the "Bob" Are in Evidence Now.

Is bobbed hair as popular among the fashionables, and younger women, as it has been since it came into vogue, or is it now dying out, (the style), by growing process?

Even yet, wherever young ladies are gathered together, there is a working majority, for the bobbed hair party it seems, at one form or another. The forms too, are rather limited, and a discussion on one subject by an amateur of the opposite sex, is very liable to "show up" the leader of the discussion.

Everyone has noticed the outstanding modifications, however. Primarily, you see the natural curl, where the tresses have been evenly trimmed around, and the remainder well combed down, making a pleasing, "stream line" effect. Then, when the hair is inclined to be curly, (and in other exceptional cases), a fluffy bring-over style. Again there is the "pin swipe" part, and the "patent leather" brush back plan for fringe and other slight alterations, too noticeable to mention.

The opinions of the young men vary greatly on the question of the new style. Some believe this style will be shortlived. Others believe it is here to stay, and they like it better. "Why" explained one bright-eyed youth, "that bobbed hair just sends an electrical thrill through me." Of course confact is necessary, as in all cases of electrocution, the shock or head being the best conductor. Then, of course the young man pays that weekly visit to "bob", and they retire to the radio phone room to hear a concert from Hamburg or Toronto, there will be no shock, "the grandmother used to make" for the young man to bend piece and receiver; for the unconstrollable thrill of loveliness will readily make sure.

Local tonsorial artists are much in demand for this popular and pleasant work, and are being rather rushed now on to perform the operation. Some of their customers are among the small children, but a goodly proportion are of grown age. The girls are becoming quite accustomed to the practice now too, as evidenced by a number who left a local tonsorial parlor recently. She was on the waiting list, and a young man who was there before, removed "out at turn" for the chair. She did not speak out of turn, however, when she informed him that it was after her came first. It bobbed hair remains in style there promises to be a rush for barber business, and who knows, may be women barbers will be the next move.

COMMITTEES FORMED

Japan Has Officially Declined to Preside Over Any Commission.

Genoa, April 12.—Prime Minister David George of Great Britain is expected to propose at the earliest opportunity, probably at to-morrows sitting of the commission number one of the economic conference, a pact or undertaking that no nation shall attack another. Thus abolishing the possibility of war for the duration of the pact, the Reuters' correspondent today says he has learned.

The Economic Conference's Commission on Russia is presided over by Premier Facta of Italy; the Commission on Finance is headed by a British delegate; the Commission on Economics by a French representative, and the Commission on Transport by a Belgian delegate.

Japan declined to preside over any commission, on the ground of being so distant from Europe that she prefers that the work of the commissions be directed by Europeans. The various commissions today decided that when dealing with questions affecting countries not represented on the personnel of the commissions, representatives of those countries will be invited to participate.

The Prince reached Tokio this afternoon on a special from Yokohama, and was driven in an open carriage, escorted by cavalry, to the Imperial Palace, where he was received by the Empress. He was lustily cheered all along the route by great crowds.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Belfast, April 12.—The Peace Conference between the leaders of the Republicans and the Free State will open in Dublin to-morrow afternoon, it was announced today.

Sir R. Brooke, commanding the Fermanagh special police force, crossed into Free State territory at Blacklion, near Belcoo, and conferred with the rival leader. The interview was harmonious and they agreed to withdraw their forces a short distance from the border line to avoid a clash.

Any infringement of the pact will be severely punished.

A drastic order against arms carrying has issued here to-day. The order reads:

"No person will be eligible to have or carry firearms for any purpose whatsoever unless he is or becomes a member of the Crown forces, including the special constabulary, and only so long as he remains a member of these forces."

This means the cancellation of all private permits to carry arms.

EASTER RAILWAY RUSH STARTS

Already the Easter business on the railroads has begun. Many tickets have been purchased at uptown ticket offices, principally by students of the various colleges. Those who reside out of the city, and who work here, have not as yet made the rush for tickets, however, but are expected to do so on Thursday and Saturday. The majority of tickets sold are for different points in Ontario, and very few are crossing the line for their vacation.

An Early Morning Division Shows the Government Ahead With a Majority of 20 Votes—Premier Drury Prognosticates Severe Changes in Hydro Policy After the New Royal Commission Brings in Report.

NEW BODY IS COMPOSED OF EXPERTS

Toronto, April 12—At 1.20 this morning the Legislature, by a vote of 53 to 33, adopted a motion of confidence in the Drury Government, moved by Hon. Manning Doherty, as an amendment to a resolution by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson calling for an inquiry into charges of "inefficiency and dishonesty" levelled by Hon. Dougal Carmichael against the Hydro Commission and its engineers. Mr. Doherty's amendment simply declared confidence in the Government's ability to provide for a full and impartial inquiry without specifying the type of investigation.

The only holder from the Government side was W. H. Casselman. The following Liberals voted for the Doherty motion: Clarke, Macdonald, Mavanlock, Magsau, Hell and Bragg. Twelve members were paired.

Premier Drury had registered a former objection to the terms of the Ferguson resolution as out of order, but Mr. Ferguson's motion had admitted that, technically, it probably was the latter and pointedly whether the Government had already appointed a Royal Commission to investigate Chippawa. He was assured that one had been named, but set out to make his argument on behalf of his resolution. He recalled the Hamilton Power Commission of Mr. Rowell, reflected his attitude toward the Hydro development, and his opinion of the man at the head of the work, Sir Adam Beck. The Premier had said then that the matter was premature for the House to intervene in the House to investigate. Then the Liberal leader had in his address in the House created a considerable stir.

"So we have the Prime Minister for the second time affirming his belief in the democratic principle that the people's representatives should be the ones to ask for an accounting of public expenditures," he said. "The Premier has thrown that principle, and not one was surprised that the Prime Minister should assume that attitude, because it is the only logical attitude in dealing with the public money."

Then came Col. Carmichael's announcement of his resignation and his charge of "inefficiency or dishonesty" against the Hydro Commission and its engineers. The Premier had supported Col. Carmichael in that statement, and once again he had asked for a committee of the House to investigate. Mr. Ferguson said that so firmly had Mr.

LIONS HEAR CLUB OFFICIAL

Ernest E. Linger, of Hamilton, Speaks to Club Work Today.

Mr. Ernest E. Linger, of Hamilton, District Governor of the Lions Clubs of this district, was the guest and speaker at the weekly luncheon of the club, held today in the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Linger addressed the local Lions on the good policies and the good work accomplished by the various clubs throughout Canada and the United States. The plans are under way now, for the big international convention to be held at Hot Springs, Ark., in June next. The first Lions club was organized in Chicago in June 1917, and now there are 420 clubs in Canada and the United States. This is a splendid record for any club to establish in 5 years, and yet the other clubs are now under process of organization. The organization is growing rapidly, and Ontario is being organized very systematically.

The speaker emphasized the excellent constitution of the Lion's Club, whose motto has been "We serve" and he "Service to their country and fellow men, so that this world may be a better place in which to live." Mr. Linger also emphasized the need of such organizations in any community, where there is every opportunity for exercise almost at every turn.

President R. D. Fenton, presided at the luncheon, and Club Secretary Dr. Crunk were chosen as representatives of the Lions' Club during Baby Welfare Week.

COAL STRIKE IS SPREADING IN THE AMERICAN FIELDS

Non-Union Strongholds in Bituminous Fields Are Being Invaded by the United Mine Workers—Strikers Gaining More Ground Than Was Anticipated.

New York, April 12.—A Rapid spread of the coal strike into non-union strongholds was admitted yesterday at headquarters of the Bituminous Operators' Association. The "enemy is gaining ground much faster than we anticipated," said the president of a prominent coal company.

According to the bituminous operators, executives for the United Mine Workers of America have practically stripped the Westmoreland and Fayette County fields since the strike was called April 1. Philip Murray, vice-president of the Mine Workers' International corroborated the reports of rapid recruiting in the "open" districts, West Virginia and East Kentucky districts.

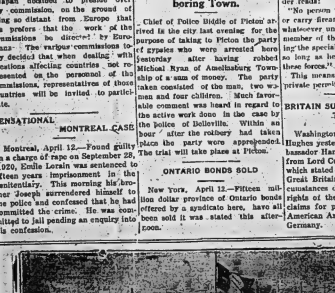

"All the close of last week fifty per cent of the non-union men had joined the strike," he said. "To-day, according to reports from our organizers in the fields, we are fast approaching the 75 per cent mark."

Mr. Murray asserted that the ranks of the strikers is both bituminous and anthracite fields had been swelled by nearly 100,000 since the walkout and the proclection of non-union mines put by several million tons weekly.

LANDRU'S BARBER GOES ON STRIKE

Paris, April 12.—M. Rapiloo, the barber of Versailles prison, who trimmed the beard of Henri D. Landru, the "Bluebeard" convicted and executed for killing 10 women and a boy and cut the hair of the famous prisoner, has gone on a strike.

The barber had demanded an increase in wages which the prison authorities declined to grant. He had obtained a good deal of publicity by reason of his services to Landru, and expects now that he is in business for himself, that many customers will seek him to obtain first-hand information of the celebrated murderer.

MINISTER OF RAILWAYS WILL CARRY OUT MEIGHEN'S PLAN

National Railway Policy Formulated by Ex-Premier to be Basis of Liberal Government's Plan — Hon. Mr. Kennedy Shows Position of Canada's Roads.

Ottawa, April 12.—Principles enunciated by the Borden and Meighen Governments and legislation by the present Parliament of the Dominion in the session of 1919, will be the guide and basis of action of the present Government of Canada in its reorganization of the National Railways. This was avowed in the House today by which Hon. W. C. Kennedy, Minister of Railways, delivered in the Commons Tuesday in connection with the rail way estimates for the present fiscal year to the attention of the Committee of Supply. The first step of the Government will be taken under the provisions of the act incorporating the Canadian National Railway Company, which was passed in 1919, but which could not be made fully operative until the country had attained complete control of the old Grand Trunk System. That step will be, in the words of the minister of Railways, "the establishment of a single representative Board of Directors for the unified control and co-ordinated operation of the Government's railway lines now controlled by two separate boards and two different managements." The two separate boards to which Mr. Kennedy alluded are the Canadian Northern Railway directorate, headed by President Beatty, and the board in charge of the operations of the Canadian Northern, Intercolonial and National Transcontinental Railways, and the Grand Trunk directorate, headed by Sir Joseph Flavelle, which replaced the former Duff directorate and which was installed to operate the old Grand Trunk system, pending the completion of arrangements for its incorporation in the unified national system. "It is the intention of the Government," Mr. Kennedy added, "that the board in the exercise of its several duties and functions shall be free from interference, political or otherwise."

VALOR OF THE BRITISH

DARING ASSAULT OF SNODGRASS KOGA NOW RECALLED.

Grim Fortress Which Guarded Communications Deep Underground Is Now Being Restored to Its Former Strength by American Engineers.

More Interesting to Us.

(New York Herald.)—Long before the fall of Snodgrass Koga the fortress was famous for its defenses and the manner in which they were attacked. Around only on the plains of Abraham, they may well exist about or sights to witness again in imagination the triumph of Montcalm and the fatal if Abercrombie. Yet Ticonderoga was a terrible if glorious tragedy.

July 8, 1758, at the precedent of advancing without artillery preparation on an impregnable position, sending up wave after wave of infantry to certain slaughter in hopeless and blinding valor, the morning had brought the general end of personal peril. In these and many other respects, Ticonderoga is a very modern battle.

It is a section of extraordinary interest locally, at the junction of Lake Champlain and Lake George, between the Adirondack and Green Mountains, and commanding the approaches to the St. Lawrence and the Hudson rivers by a grim, gray pile, the Fort Ticonderoga of French Canada, long one of the greatest and most classic historical monuments in the New World.

The American owners of the site hoped to refurbish some of the glories of the Revolutionary days, but the fortress figured in a minor role in that struggle, whereas in the Seven Years War it was the scene of one of the most desperate engagements ever fought in the Western Hemisphere. To the impartial student of history the restoration will enclose up visions of kilted Scots with claymores and bloodcurdling Englanders with bayonets struggling in the shafts of felled trees before the forest a breast afternoon till thousands of dead and dying were left impaled on sharpened branches before a smoking hill.

In 1757, Bourlamaque, builder of Carillon, had to burn his works and see before Lord Jeffrey Amherst, in the next generation all was rebuilt and enlarged, only to be abandoned in time and royal despoilers after the Revolutionary War.

After reaching almost complete decay in the last century, the fort was suddenly remembered. Stephen H. P. Pell, owner of the site, undertook painstaking researches and monumental labors and is about to present the result to the United States. In many ways Great Britain and Canada have as great an interest in the restoration which enrich the place, so that it may become something sacred to all these nations.

The completion of Fort Carillon, in 1757, signalized the purpose of France to defend New France by attacking, and if need be, New York. But that the attempt by entrusting an army of 15,000 men to Maj.-Gen. Abercrombie and Lord George Howe. Put that Abercrombie was a fat, old incompetent, but the general's pull was too strong and the Premier knew that Howe was a great man. While Abercrombie whooped about, Howe welded Highlanders, Royal Americans and New England rangers into one spirited army of which he was the veritable soul. For the first time in history, Old Countrymen and Colonials gathered together in harmony. They were determined to destroy Carillon, screen up the Richelieu and capture Montreal in one campaign.

Of course, Abercrombie knew he would have started Montcalm into making a fatal sortie in about one week. Or he could have dominated Ticonderoga with his guns, but he was not the way of a Braddock or an Abercrombie. The assault began. It was an uncounted series of charges, for the abattis stopped them short. Highlanders with broadswords reached at the infuriated branches, "shicking to heaven in terrible anger." The redcoats advanced standing, firing at the rate of one bullet-hidden foe. The New Englanders broke many times but kept returning to the attack for four hours.

Where all showed so much valor it would be invidious to praise any, but a party of Highlanders once reached the wall, climbed it and leaped into the fort—only to be bayoneted to the French ramparts. Late in the afternoon Abercrombie appeared and ordered a final assault. While the Indians and frontiersmen looked on grimly at this immense folly, the spirit of Howe swept ahead and his men made their last assault. Not to dwell on the horror of that scene of slaughter, the survivors of the attacking columns were taken with a panic at night fell and they did not regain self-control until again crossing Lake George.

For the victory of Ticonderoga, better known to the French as Carillon, Montcalm held a great service of thanksgiving and struck a monument which — so suddenly variable are the fortunes of war — fell to the British. Lord Howe, in the memory of Lord Howe and the 1944 who fell that day, the people of Massachusetts by erected in Westminster Abbey a memorial tablet and the people of England called the defeated general "Mr. Nabby Crumby."

Pitt never ceased to regret the blunder of letting Abercrombie's army face such a terrible task.

The actual work of reconstruction has been done by the heads of an English architect, Alfred C. Bossom, resident in New York. The British Government has donated one half bearing the name of George III. to replace the guns originally facing Lake George.

Women, on an average, have heads broader in proportion to their length and darker eyes and hair than men.

FAMOUS SOCIAL DANCING DRAMA WITHHELD FOR SIX-YEARS NOW ON TOUR IN OST-

"Damaged Goods", the great French drama from the pen of a gifted French playwright, Eugene Brieux, now comes to the people of Belleville after being withheld for nearly six years.

Controversy, first around the stage play and caused the suppression of many parts of Canada, deepened will greater intensity upon the more pretentious presentation in the Triple photoplay which was written from the play and the book. Ontario and Quebec censors have had the shearing of the picture until quite recently when the retold almost in unison to permit the tremendous moral drama to reach the people.

Wholly on the ground of the new work the picture will do be enlightened if those who need enlightenment and a lead the untaught away from terrible social dangers, was the decision of release given in the two foremost provinces of the Dominion.

The Canadian company owning the rights of "Damaged Goods" immediately made arrangements for the show of the picture and is now touring the cities of Ontario, believing that liberal and acknowledged leadership of a great moral work it from the chair of all those plays which have sounded a "rush in" on the colonial creative of the finest dramatic stage.

Richard Bennett, in the part of Jeorge Dupont, leads the same cast that made the play a pronounced success, in a picture that works its way to a climax in a thrilling series of events.

It comes to Belleville at the Regent theatre, where it will be exhibited tomorrow to Saturday, inclusive day with the active support and co-operation of every organization which is active in the work of protecting home and community.

Acting under instructions of the Ontario Board of Censors, no person will be admitted under 16 years of age

CANADA'S BOUNDARY.

Division Line Caused Much Quarreling in the Making.

From 1791 down to 1843, Uncle Sam and John Bull had quarreled about the line fence. They had tried to fix the boundary between Canada and the United States, but had failed. But in 1842 they got together again and hammered out, and sat haggled over every square inch from the Atlantic to the Pacific. And in that year did come. The Surveyor-General of the Topographical Surveys Branch of the Department of the Interior, of both countries, sent out his survey party. At the mouth of St. Croix river these surveyors built a monument. Through the woods from this monument they cut an 18-foot gap in the line. They turned and twisted in every direction but what might be called a fairly straight line parallel to the St. Lawrence. At the northernmost angle of this gap the Woods Indians again and ran to the Pacific. On the most prominent point of every hill a stone monument was built. These monuments form the boundary between Uncle Sam and Jack Canuck.

Between the provinces a similar line is run and similar monuments built. Like the International Line, a copper plug is put in the rock, or a cement-filled pipe with a copper top is buried in the earth immediately in front of the monument. On each province appoints a surveyor, who selects his party and outfits them. The Dominion provincial lines, like the International lines, and of the boundary lines are inspected upon completion and every number of years are retraced and the monuments rebuilt or repaired. The Dominion Government survey party consists of a chief, two assistants, and a leveller, with two cooks, an instrument man, a couple of rodmen, a flagman, a packer, and a head from four to a dozen axemen and packers, selected by the chief.

In 1843 Lord Sydenham had township lines run in Upper Canada. Upper and Lower Canada rapidly increasing in population. Sydenham grouped the townships into counties to give them representation, and that was were our counties created. The boundaries of the counties are determined by the township, villages, towns and cities in them. The township and populated centres are grouped in such a way that the majority will contain sufficient population in order to be represented by a member in Parliament. This is how Eastern and Northern counties, with their sparsely populated and colored inhabitants, have smaller populations, are given more, while Southwestern Ontario counties are so small because of denser populations.

Prince Edward Island have not married lately in our country and Ireland has not had a boundary fight for years, so that our population has increased. Nor has Prince Edward Island so much for Rep. by Pop. that some Province has to lose a Member in order to be a share not to carry it out. At election the County of Prince Edward Government passes a redistribution Bill and other Bills are put into two electoral districts. Now they bind us with another boundary.

The boundary of our town is a pretty sharp fellow. He has an eye on every prospect and he keeps pushing to the outskirts and reared houses. He would like to make Belleville their taxes to the town instead of to the township. The people object to having to pay the higher taxes of the town, and look forward with fear to losing their taxes. A few more factory lights and there will be a branch of the water main is taken out that way, a hydrant is stuck there, a police of the road, and a sidewalk is promised. Now we can extend our boundary to include it all, and the town can build a new town hall. The people of course would have their boundaries extended. There is no like or monument. Belleville has grown and more property holders' names increase on the list of taxpayers.

My neighbor wants to know how far his lot goes out towards the street. He wants to put up a fence to keep people from trespassing on his lawn. His wife wants a fence between us so my kids won't play all over her flower beds. He wants to put a high fence around his back yard so that a great deal of room and fences. The old corner marks have disappeared. My neighbor brings up a surveyor who looks through a theodolite at a picket and a picket on each corner. He unreels a chain and measures the lot, draws a few marks on paper, charges my neighbor ten dollars and goes. Then my neighbor adds to the burden of life and confines my walks to my own small lawn, by building his fence.

Canada, and in fact all countries, have these all classes of boundary lines—international, interprovincial, intercounty, intertownship, intermunicipal and inter-private property.

Doleful Humorist.

Stephen Leacock, during his recent visit to Montreal, appeared at a popular seaside resort on the Canadian coast. Before the lecture was a large one, but the audience was conspicuously small. Mr. Leacock thus began his address: "It has been my fate, ladies and gentlemen, to make my appearance in B——; neither the one nor the other of you have ever seen me I remember them, and I am sure, ladies and gentlemen, that I shall remember to-night, that the population of the city has shrunk at least one-third!"

Not So Bad.

They always said at every long grace at the boarding house. All bowed their heads. But one evening the new boarder remained erect. This annoyed the landlady. "Absent," I suppose," she rapped out. "No," said the new boarder, "boil on the neck."

JAPAN'S REGENT TO GREET PRINCE

Prince Hirohito Will Meet Prince of Wales on His Arrival.

Tokio, April 12—Tokio, with its cherry trees in full bloom, was supplying the finishing touches to its festive attire today, preparatory to welcome Edward, Prince-of Wales, who is due tomorrow for a week's visit to the capital and a tour of Japan until May 5, as guest of the Japanese nation.

When the battleship Renown steams into Yokohama, with its royal passenger, one of the most exalted of the throne of welcomers will be Prince Hirohito, Regent of Japan, whose visit to London last year brought about the exchanges of courtesies culminating in Prince Edward's visit to the Orient.

The seven days the British royal visitor will spend in Tokio will be absorbed largely by court and official visits, as well as by numerous state banquets. There will be short periods however, in which the Prince may see the interesting sights of the city. The program seems to have planned in such a way that it will allow the visitor, to see as much as possible of the ancient customs and life of Japan.

With this in view, a visit has been arranged to the Meiji shrine, where the prince will see the people's loyalty to the memory of the greatest Japanese of modern times. At a special performance to be given in one of the leading theatres, he will see a gorgeous spectacle of old Japan, while in the royal garden he will be introduced to the curious blend of art and nature—landscape in miniature.

British subjects living in the Orient who desire to record their future rulers have not been overlooked. He will be "at home" to one entire afternoon to the British Embassy, where all Britons will be welcome. It also is planned to have him attend special Easter services in the English church.

His week in Tokio ended, the prince will start on his journey to Kyoto, ancient capital of the Empire that still retains most of its old world atmosphere.

Our Oldest Art Society

The Ontario Society of Artists, which celebrates its fiftieth anniversary this year, is the oldest organization of its kind in Canada. As a result of its activities, the provincial societies are the parents and provincial societies the children, but by the case of art into the hands of the people. R.S.A. might claim to be the father of the Royal Canadian Academy, which, after a long and precarious existence, is now on a firm basis, and is still some years after the article of Ontario had organized. There are still a few members of the Confederation, but all of them have been dead for so long that their connection with it remains. The O. S. A. had the advantages of coming into existence just at the time when the national spirit was flaming high in this country, and a direct result of the Federation of British North America. Began in reaction for the first time that artists could not go on forever imitating the English schools. They had to find their subjects in Canada, and learn how to paint them. Hence the beauties of their own land.

The O. S. A. democratic society noble patrons count for something, but it was the enthusiasm and devotion with gratitude the two Governors-General by raising the annual exhibition of painting in Canada. Lord Dufferin was the first to take an active part in the sort of man to play at encouraging the Canadian artists, and Lord Lorne, Alexander, and "Seeing the Brighter Side of Life" by Mrs. Crosby. Music on the phonograph was followed by a delicious treat of oranges and bon-bons and a vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Babbit.

The Program consisted of a paper by Mrs. Fred Meiner a good reading and discussion on," The Rural School Play Ground" led by Mrs. Babbit, an excellent paper on "Success with Fowl" given by Mrs. Fred Shenk, Mrs. Alex Anderson, and "Seeing the Brighter Side of Life" by Mrs. Crosby. Music on the phonograph was followed by a delicious treat of oranges and bon-bons and a vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Babbit.

Our next meeting will be held at Redenersvill Church, April 27th at 2 o'clock P.M., when we have Mrs. Ralph on the Mt. View Institute and the County Executive, who will furnish the programe. Every one is Welcome.

VETERAN PREACHER IS HEARD

An Oakville Methodist is Proud Possessor of Wonderful Record.

Oakville, Ont., April 10.—The oldest Methodist preacher in America, Rev. Thomas Marmont Jeffers, of Oakville, Ont., in the oldest Methodist church east of the Rockies, celebrated February 15, 1812, he is more than a year ahead of Rev. Dr. Abram Pitcher, Burlington, hailed as the grand patriarch of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, who was born June 5, 1813.

Rev. Mr. Jeffers, a contrarian is the oldest Methodist preacher in Canada, Rev. Dr. Pitcher in the States. Probably other denominations have older clergymen, but the Methodist Church have a pension roll which enables a minister either to be laid off in the full service of their preachers. Since 1871, Mr. Jeffers has been receiving from the church a sum, which is based on years of service, amounting to-day to $1,200 annually. Perhaps it is this pension which has enabled him to survive the rigors of the sunny Canadian winters, for, Mr. Jeffers has been a resident of Oakville, on the beach. Hiding the bush in Western Ontario, for many years, and while he was labouring forests, became lost and impoverished by wild animals. His first salaries which did not allow of a respectable living, were considered "protracted meetings" in log kitchens, and during the early days, he was forced out of the ministry when the circuit of Methodist lands left no place for the older men. From 1874, he led a quiet life in the Oakville and Trafalgar township. Of retired Hunt-ester and West Toronto blood, he is fond of fresh weather, and to witness that evangelistic fervor which made him famous. His wife is a daughter is the wife of Dr. Warren, of the Toronto General Hospital, Canada under the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Romance of Duval's Hoard.

Full of wild romance is the tale of Duval's hoard on the Rock of Percé, on the Bay of Gaspé, in the Gaspé Peninsula, Province of Quebec. So many people have come to believe in the treasure supposed to be buried there by the old pirate that one of the province has passed an act forbidding any one to dig for it without the Government permission.

The rock is one of the natural wonders of the great North American continent. Rising sheer from the sea, it seems terrific convulsion of nature has severed it from the adjacent mountain and left it standing five hundred feet high, with a little more than a mile base. At one time two caverns pierced the base on the land side, but the face of them has collapsed and left only the larger, through which the sea rushes in a stormy weather.

The story tells that Duval, the French pirate, was hard pressed by the British, so he collected his treasure and sailed for the rock. A Micmac Indian who was with the party betrayed him by his way upward through an opening in the cliff, which is still there, and, reaching the top, threw down a light that was seen by those on the beach and fell. He pulled up two British prisoners, who had been left on the beach containing the treasure stood by below. With muskets they guarded every foot of the point so high on the rock that no one could reach it.

For two generations the ruins remained. Then some one knew that back of the cliff until at last they discovered a passage. Two men and two men in Perce whose grandfathers saw the ruins, now know what happened to the two prisoners and the chests of treasure.

"Marian Keith."

The author of "Duncan Polite," "Silver Maple," and "Little Miss Melody," and a number of other books, Miss Mary Agnes Fitzgibbon Keith, Canadian home life, is not generally known to the literary world by the pen-name of "Marian Keith." In Orillia, Ontario, where Miss Keith has attended High School, they knew her as Mary Fitzgibbon, Mrs. Fitzgibbon later as Miss Miller, the school teacher, and Mary of the manse. Mary Miller is better known as Mrs. MacGregor, wife of Rev. Dr. MacGregor, one of Canada's Presbyterian Church, and as active as the minister himself in the Young People's Society, the Missionary Society, the Sunday School and other church related activities of a thriving church in the Simcoe district town.

At a recent meeting of the Young People's Society at which Mrs. MacGregor always attends, they were a number of questions asked, and she was devised to help everyone get acquainted with each other. Each person was required to rise and announce his or her name, then tell something else and hear.

There were long names and short ones, but they were all fairly easy to remember. Finally it came to the turn of the minister's wife. There was a gasp of astonishment, and then much merriment, when she arose and, in slow, emphatic syllables, announced:

"Mary Esther Elizabeth Miller—Marian—Keith MacGregor."

CATTLE MARKETS

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, April 11.—Receipts of stock receipts at the Union Yards for to-day's market were 1,245 cattle, 1,245 hogs, 245 sheep, 245 calves.

Trade was slow on the Toronto cattle market for the opening day of April, with about 1,200 head. During the forenoon only a few sales were made, and the offering was light enough to admit of a good clearance. The afternoon was nearly steady, although quotations did not change much from the close of last week. Prices were irregular on the week's trade.

A few light shippers sold at $6 per cwt., and a few at $5.75, but the bulk went at $5.50 per hundred. The offering of heavy cattle was light, and the demand for them was not any too good. Choice heavy steers sold at $5.50 to $5.75, and a few at $5.75 per cwt. Good cattle sold at $5 to $5.25, and the bulk sold up to $5.10. In addition to the above, there were 213 cattle shipped to packers, were billed through from the country. Of this number 100 were sold at $5.25 per cwt. Cattle sold at $4.75 to $5.10 and $4.50. The bulk of the sales were at $5 to $5.10. Good cattle sold at $4 and the bulk at $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt.

Choice calves were scarce, and the demand proved from fair to good. Several fair sales of choice animals were made at $8 per cwt., and the bulk sold at $7.50 to $8. Medium calves sold at $6 to $7, and heavy lambs sold all the way from $5 to $6. Choice lambs sold at $9 per cwt., and the bulk at $8.50 to $9.

Receipts of hogs were slightly heavy. Selects sold at $13.75 and $14, and fats at $13.50 per cwt.

FASHION NOTES OF INTEREST

Lace veils and lace-draped hats are much in evidence.

Lace blouses are among the smartest of the dressy models shown for spring.

Platinum, steel and all of the darker metals, among which are gun metal, graphite, are strong.

One lovely boudoir garment recently seen was of black velvet, cut quite straight and equipped with kimono sleeves.

Bloomer frocks for young girls in the juvenile class are in vogue.

For cold weather wear this year some very practical little models are coming to the fore.

The little hip-length, loosely cut fur coats continue to be popular, regardless of the fact that many novel styles in full-length garments are being shown this season.

The comment has been made that the hats must be worn far down on the head, especially the sailor and picture types that are tilted on the head to one side, almost to the exclusion of an eye and an ear.

Her ornaments of one sort and another are distinctly approved by Dame Fashion this season, and among the new novelties are little tassels made of strings of very tiny seed pearls. The ends are often tipped with semi-precious stones in vivid color.

Human Bones of Vast Age.

Bones sufficient in number to form several skeletons and estimated to be at least 50,000 years old, have been discovered by a group of American research workers, headed by Prof. George Grant McCurdy of Yale museum, who have been investigating the cliffs not far from Angoulene, France, for several months.

During the winter these will be classified and distributed among Yale and other American museums, while a complete skeleton specimen will be kept at the Les Quins museum, established by Dr. Henri Martin, owner of the properties in which the excavations have been made.

Hundreds of bones of animals of the same period also have been uncovered, most of which bear marks of flint spears and scrapers, which were found in abundance throughout the region. One cleaning the relics as belonging to the Middle Stone age.

THE NEW INDUSTRY.

It is with a feeling of civic pride that The Intelligencer takes pleasure in congratulating those members of the deputation which induced the American Optical Co. to instal their Canadian plant and exporting plant right here in Belleville. The most inspiring feature of the whole thing is the fact that the officials of the new industry have asked no special favors or grants. They simply ask for "A fair field and no favor" and they guarantee to do their part to bringing industrial prosperity to this city.

The same company so far as can be learned is one of the most important in the United States in its particular line, having been established some 80 years. It is their intention to make the Belleville plant their chief exporting point for Great Britain and other British possessions and it is the intention of the company to employ some 300 men at the beginning and to gradually instal more machinery and man power. With this industry going at full strength and employing a percentage of about 99 per cent. of local labor, there is every indication of good times ahead for the city of Belleville.

This is the ninth new industry that has been induced to locate here by the superior natural advantages offered by the city, and it speaks well for the activity of those who are behind the "bigger and better Belleville" movement.

FOOD FOR THE MOTOR.

There were sixty-nine thousand motor vehicles in Canada in 1914. That figure had been increased to over four hundred thousand last year. These vehicles, if placed upon a highway, would form a procession 1,760 miles long. In other words, the last car would be entering Winnipeg when the last one was just leaving Halifax.

It is well-be realized that these cars consume an enormous amount of gasoline. A conservative estimate places the quantity of "gas" consumed in Canada last year at nine million gallons, which would cost something like two and a half million dollars. The Council of Scientific and Industrial Research at Ottawa has found that a suitable alcohol substitute for gasoline can be made from the waste product of Canada's paper mills. As a result of further experiments, it is believed that there will be an extensive movement to have cheap industrial alcohol take the place of the more expensive gasoline, although there are differences in the explosive qualities of gasoline and alcohol that at present make gasoline the more desirable fuel.

FOR INDUSTRIAL RESEARCH.

From a national standpoint governmental expenditure with the object of improving the quality or increasing the quantity of any class of production, is at all times advisable. This has been recognized by Governments in the past in connection with agriculture, technical education, and reforestration, says the Montreal Herald.

From an industrial standpoint, the method by which the greatest assistance can be rendered by the Government to manufacturers is the establishment of an Industrial Research Bureau, with facilities for conducting experiments which must of necessity be carried on for the development of manufacturing.

Probably no single factor was more conducive to the rapid expansion of Germany industrially, than was the assistance rendered by the German Government in this manner. In recent years an attempt has been made along such lines by the Honorary Advisory Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, but as the services of those connected with the Council were given voluntarily, and as no facilities were placed at their disposal for experiments, their accomplishments, while valuable, were necessarily limited.

While we realize that at the present time, new expenditures should be incurred only for pressing necessities or where they will result in benefits fully justifying the outlay, we believe that the good results which will accrue from an appropriation necessary to provide accommodation, equipment, and staff, for a Bureau of Standards and Research at Ottawa, would, in a short time, increase the national wealth out of all proportion to the expenditure entailed.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

Louis Benjamin, not unknown in fame as Toronto medium, has seen Sherwood Small, the Islington Exworld theatrical man, twice in astral visions. Apparently he has not yet solved the mystery of the auto's disappearance, but he is willing to keep on trying.

Louis Benjamin is the medium through whom was conducted the material out of which Dr. Albert Durant Watson of Toronto made his book "The Twentieth Plane," which at one time attracted pride-spread interest. The book, it will be remembered, was made up largely of messages from various people who formerly lived on this earth but who are now inhabitants of the Twentieth Plane, wherever that may be.

FARMERS ALWAYS HAVE JOBS
High River Times

We never hear of farmers being in the ranks at the unemployed. On account of very fallows farmers in certain districts have been forced to seek for assistance in providing seed grain and feed, sometimes at the cost of which is paid back when the cycle of good years comes round; but on farms as a whole, we employ almost all the year around, and the occupants of farms have homes and shelter for themselves and families without paying rent for the same.

It is very evident that the people of Red Deer, as a whole, are allowing themselves to be the victims of a mental depression that is quite uncalled for, and altogether unreasonable. APRIL MORNING

Once more in naked beauty
The world is growing green;
Along the winding river
The plumy willows lean.

Beyond the sweeping meadows
The looming mountains rise,
Like battlements of dreamland
Against the brooding skies.

In every wooded valley
The buds are breaking through,
Although the heart is all things
No langnor ever knew.

The golden-wings and bluebirds
Call to their heavenly choirs;
The pines are bland and dritted
With smoke of brushwood fires.

And in my sister's garden,
Where little breezes run,
The golden daffodilies
Are blowing in the sun.

Hhw. Roy, Made a Fortune

By MALCOLM BROWN

(Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I want a boy—a bit, blundering, greenhearted boy who will work for me. Can't put it in a casual discussion on their friends with a confounded city circumstance.

It was Roy Bacon whom Cecile referred to, and her words were repeated at dinner to Roy himself, who flushed like a bashful school girl and then turned pale. Cecile Bacon!

The sensible, sympathetic little lady had enthralled Roy just after his indulgent uncle had nearly spoiled him. He had recently, however, tried to forget Cecile and her message from a position with a local brokerage house.

Roy was not at inserting the routine of the office. The rapid jargon of the stock exchange nearly drove him out of his mind.

"I shall inform Uncle Gib that he may put you at work with a shovel or running a street car, but I can't stand the wear and tear of this wild investment business!" Roy told himself.

About one o'clock the next afternoon, Roy received a telegram that sends the ghastly mistake of his life.

He caught up the receiver of the phone on his desk.

"Barton, Black, & Co.—take order. Buy for Bacon."

Buss-s-s! came an interruption. Then a line. Then a snap, and then the wonderful voice.

"United Utilities at 3.65."

Roy handed the order to one of the office brokers and forgot all about it.

"Manager wants you," came the shout from the office boy, and for the moment Roy reached his desk in the morning.

"Sell an order from Burton-Black yesterday afternoon?" he demanded.

"I did, sir," acquiesced Roy. "It was a big one, too—2,000 United Utilities at 3.65."

"Nothing of the sort," shouted the manager. "They ordered ten gold 5's, Common stock."

"Look here! thundered the manager, holding out a telegram reading 'United Utilities, 65.' Raided late yesterday, a drop of 40 points in an hour, and we were closed out with $200.00 worth!"

"Then—then," stammered Roy, fairly appalled "the message got mixed—crossed wires!"

The firm stood at cost for Mr. Bacon. Proud and just, without a word Uncle Gib drew out a check, pocketed his unlucky child, and said sourly to his nephew:

"Now—then, you come home with me!"

Roy felt dreadfully distressed. His first business experience had been a costly one. But Uncle Gib had watched Roy's efforts to his uncle, intimating that he had better visit a country farm for a week or two.

Then—then—stammered Roy, fairly appalled "the message got mixed—crossed wires!"

The firm stood at cost for Mr. Bacon. Proud and just, without a word Uncle Gib drew out a check, pocketed his unlucky child, and said sourly to his nephew:

"Now—then, you come home with me!"

Roy felt dreadfully distressed. His first business experience had been a costly one. But Uncle Gib had watched Roy's efforts to his uncle, intimating that he had better visit a country farm for a week or two.

Then—then—stammered and solemn came Roy's message by telephone and Cecile—that's confidence.

"Yes?" said the British voice. "This is Cecile—that is, Miss Merrick—Roy, but I have made a mistake—a dreadful surprising. Before I go away, I wanted to say to you that I thank you for being the kindest, best little boy in the world. I love you and always shall. Good-by," and then dropping the receiver, he seized his satchel and rushed from the house as if he expected it to fall upon his for his rash declaration.

It was a pretty miserable journey to Brandon. It was a long, wearisome day that sent one, worse the second, miserable the third.

Then Roy called his cousin, as he remembered, and glum from a solitary tramp one evening, "Here's a rush telegram from the city."

Roy tore open the envelope and read: "Sell 2,000 shares on the market—Uncle Gib."

If the signature had been "Oliver Bacon or R. B." Roy would have been chilled at the familiar old "Uncle Gib" gave the brief order of—buy.

He ran up the steps of the old home and when he entered he was greeted by Uncle Gib with a hearty handshake.

"Yes," Roy replied, "I did, uncle, old man." "Boy, boy, you did it! Yesterday United Utilities went up to 120, and you've made a small fortune!"

Whenever he thought of his impulsive declaration to Cecile, however, he got almost scared. He kept pretty close around home, but as he ventured forth at first came face to face with the very subject of his thoughts.

His blunder he now felt dreadfully embarrassed. Miss Bitle woman that she was, sweetly and naturally she would be the cause of sending back to a message that Roy had sent to her sister Nella over the telephone.

"Your sister?" gasped Roy. "Oh, my!"

"Do not feel distressed, Mr. Bacon," said Cecile, "for Nella ran to father, and he told mother, and she—and father spoke to me, and—" and here Cecile grew confused and dropped her eyes.

"What—did father—oh, my!—What did he say?" asked Roy. But Merrick ain't inquired Roy hopelessly in a lost voice.

"He only smiled," reported Cecile in a low tone.

"And—and what did you do, Miss Merrick?" pursued Roy.

"I—why, I hoped that dear old treasure, and told him he was the best father in the world!" replied Cecile hastily, and Roy knew that he was the happiest man in the world.

FACING INSANITY AT 50.

By BYRON STAUFFER

That headline, "All Jazzed at Fifty," gave many of us middle-aged chaps a sort of moment of comfort. Until we reached the body of the news item we were silly enough to flatter ourselves with the pleasing illusion that what the Chicago lawyer really meant was that all men were still insane at fifty, and that the half-hundredth mile stone of life marked the real beginning of sanity. Alas! reading closer, we see only too clearly that we have been consigned not only to the chimney corner, but to the asylum!

And all this after recalling as many insane actions of ours throughout every decade—which we have been quite sure we would not repeat—but when we later ourselves on having finally escaped the aberrant follies of youth, here we are told that we face the embarrass of delage!

Still, it will be worth while for us, my half-century-old pals, to assert ourselves once, and to make every effort to keep up the deception as long as ever we can.

First, let us think intently of the maladies who succeeded in fooling contemporaries long after the fifty mark; Gladstone, for instance. Why, he was much the youngest-looking within twenty days of his fifty-sixth birthday. Then he still had twenty-five years of party leadership, including thirteen as prime minister. Indeed, in the light of this it seems almost as though both appear as if the fortunes of the British empire has been in the hands of insane men, during the greater part of that century.

Beaconsfield first reached the premiership at sixty-four; Salisbury at sixty-six. Peel at fifty-five; Lord George at nearly fifty-four.

Canada, too, seem to lean towards leaders past fifty. Sir John A. Macdonald won his last campaign at seventy-six, and Sir Wilfred Laurier held office till seventy. Then think of Lord Strathcona, man of big business interests right up to his death at ninety-four; J. H. Booth, Canada's business man of ninety-six; John Catto, personally conducting affairs at eighty-nine; James Pearson, loyalty, most fishing grounds at seventy-six. That list is too long to complete, but dwell on these cases when this "All Jazzed at Fifty" ghost haunts you. When Dr. William Briggs was called on for a speech at Toronto Methodist Conference on completing his fiftieth year in the ministry—and this was some ten years ago—he enlivened the gathering by this rythme:

"I keep up the habit of still being lazy;
I cultivate leisure without being crazy;
I cherish all songs that the poets have sung,
And prove every day that Doc Osler is crazy!"

Then you can keep down suspicion by adding certain paragraphs of tendencies of old age. One is taking short steps. Old age tends towards lengthening stride. Then, don't like a banana gobbler. Walk slowly if you must, but stride!

Also avoid false starts. For instance when you dive into your pocket for the door key, don't fumble in the vest pocket, only to find the key before inserting it into the keyhole, be sure you throw up right-side-up; then hold it upright. Briefly, when you pick up a pat to write, make no false flourishes before starting the first word. And, for goodness' sake remember

When Will There Be A Disarmament of Dining Tables?

Suppose everybody would recognize the fact that there's no gain but much loss in keeping up hobnobbing with the stomach!

Suppose the ancient aggravation of improper food on indignant digestive organs should be settled with guarantees of sensible diet and tranquil digestion!

The saving would be beyond all possibility of counting.

Yet millions go on declaring war on the stomach and accepting war in return—loading up on starchy, heavy, unbalanced food at breakfast or lunch—and wondering why comfort, happiness and efficiency are out of reach.

Grape-Nuts makes a friend of the taste and an ally of the stomach.

There's a charm and satisfaction to this delicious food which prompts appetite to say, "There's a meal" and digestion to answer, "Thank goodness, here's peace at last!"

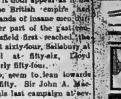

Grape-Nuts is the perfected nutriment of wheat and malted barley—sweet, crisp, and wonderfully nourishing. It digests quickly, and provides the necessary elements, including the vital mineral salts, for body, nerve and brain.

Order Grape-Nuts from your grocer today, and let a delighted taste pass a treaty of peace along to an enthusiastic digestion and assimilation.

The Village of Hopeville

By MARVIN ST. JOHNS
(Copyright, 1922, Newspaper Union.)

"We've missed it!" We're nothing half so much sentiment now!"

Frank Brown of the board of trustees of the most picturesque, but unprogressive, of Hopeville, spoke. "It was made the railroad has missed Hopeville. Darius Dawes, member of the same board of trustees, finally questioned, "but I'm not sure that it's interesting to do itself much good to subsidize villages without."

The members of the community he had just begun to "boost" had not been backward in accusing him of lukewarm interest in their welfare. Young Hopeville was forging ahead, and he always predicted great things of many Rapsville. Never a village of greater location and environment, he declared. Hopeville will forge to the front," was his optimistic slogan, "when our values will go up, and land that came into his own."

When the new railroad was talked of old residents in bound to have access and town lots as to values. Hopes rose high, then they were confounded and disappointed, for the railroad made a detour, and Byron, quite a few miles dis eight miles distant, was made the terminus of the new branch line railway.

"What I'd settled there as I intended to ten years ago!" grumbled Darius, and disagreeable Jared, Byron. "There's some go to Byron. I don't raise it they encourage a village that encourages nothing bring in the factory, hey?" they?"

"I don't care, want the dollars that way," insisted Dawes.

Dawes had a strong personal reason for being disgruntled with Hopeville. He was a man of some means and his son and Bradley had married a Hopeville girl. The old man had talked with the latter much, and had generally admired his "cheerfulness" and "solidity." Neither, when Bradley had married, would be without her parents had not her a small farm just out of town. Taken the wedded pair settled there. "What had will rue the day he disregarded my advice!" the elder Brown had said and day to Darius.

"Oh, nonsense!" retorted his neighbor. "Bradley is a good boy. The young pair have hard scratch- ing, perhaps, but they're happy and contented as two birds in a nest."

"Hmmph!" commented the ironmaster, and when his way soliloquized quietly and incisively.

So Byron got the railroad and what went with it, both good and bad. There was a good deal of grumbling among the old residents of Hopeville when a lookout post as a swaggering, "foreign" conductor on the caboose of the old man Brown provoked. Then he began to furnish his presence. Byron "boom" was a [illegible] of Hopeville and prosperity. Factor, I don't [illegible] hand. Every year Darius Dawes had insisted that the representative residents of the place meet at the town hall to celebrate the founding of the village.

They could hear the distant echo of an engine whistle across the valley as they and in the town hall on the present occasion.

They never had anything stronger than cider, sparkling water at these celebration functions.

"Hopeville—her splendid past and her glorious future," was the toast given.

"Hmmph!" grumbled Brown. "I think Darius will have to take a back seat then, then."

But Phillip Dawes arose, looking dignified and prouder than he had ever appeared.

"Something the matter with the water, friends?" smiled Darius. "It's the fact of it. It is Hopeville water, which not for years, but for all. Over- looked, you have drank of the source of the celebrated Lithia-Magnesium water, specially recommended by physicians the last requirement this most essential district needed to make it Hopeville."

"Say, what are you driving at, sir, now?" inquired Brown bluntly.

"Just this," explained Dawes, "a prospectors found the first that the new railroad would open up a popular coming resort somewhere along its line. Well, gentlemen, for two months we have been negotiating with wealthy owners in the city. The deal is closed, a big hotel at the head of the lake, and people will come to Hopeville for their season, their loads of them."

Voices arose in eager demands for more detailed information, and every bold-faced would go up! The town values would quadruple their holdings! The 'cash per harvest was coming or last!

"But what about the horrible taste, water?" queried Brown, with a wry face.

"Pronounced by chemists the most peculiarly beverages in the world," boomed Dawes proudly, "a taste all its own, sir!" Then the promoters hinted that they offered $10,000 cash for the spring it came from.

"And where is that?"

"Under a forgotten corner of that town, neglected farm your boy lives and over in the ravine." Now, Neighbor Brown, as all the town is happy over the grand proceeds prosperity ahead of us, suppose you go down to the ravines farm and congratulate your son-in-law, Bradley, and his wife on their share in the general good luck?"

And then it was that the name of the popular Dawes became a household word in Hopeville for all time to come.

ROMAN MEAL

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Light gray is a close rival of, beige, says Paris.

Bright coral or tomato is a favored color in both velvet and crepe for new evening frocks in Paris.

Honeymoons are the beginning of wisdom—and often the end of romance.

Besides millinery, gilets and big length blouses in bright colors do much to enhance the spring color scheme.

One New York store is employing a returned soldier to give art embroidery lessons in its fancy work department.

As the lighter colored costumes appear on Paris streets more suede shoes in matching color are replacing the uniform black patent leather.

Tell a man his heart is in the right place and you imply that there may be something wrong with his head.

White homespun skirts are very smart at Miami and navy blue is gaining in favor for costumes, fallie being a popular material.

The Lady Amphill and the Lady Elizabeth Dawson have succeeded the Dowager Countess of Minto and the Lady Bertha Dawkins as ladies-in-waiting to the Queen.

There are two things needed in these days: first for rich men to find out how poor men live; and second for poor men to know how rich men work.

Reddish brown shade of shoe leather of last spring is also in evidence again, but this year, it is less worn with silk hosiery than it is with light beige.

The London Daily Mail declares that while most men cross-channel air passengers seem stricken almost speechless, the women seem quite unperturbed and content as usual.

Last season every woman was buying a risk-shaped hatpin, and this season the fad of the hour is for a diamond arrow, or a diamond and opal, perhaps, one of each, says New York.

Soon after her return from the honeymoon Princess Mary is to give sitting for her portrait in oils by Mr. Oswald Birley, which is to be the wedding gift from the tenants on the Harewood estate.

U. S. SHOES PREFERRED IN BR. COLUMBIA

Washington, April 11.—A report made by the Department of Commerce from Frederick M. Ryder, U. S. consul General at Vancouver B. C., says: "The better grades of shoes offered for sale in British Columbia are principally of United States manufacture and the cheaper grades are shipped from eastern Canada, and a limited quantity of a heavier quality than those the cheaper grades are shipped from eastern Canada, and a limited quantity of a heavier quality than those United States manufacturers are are made locally. In spite of a heavy duty on imported footwear there is very little difference in the retail price of the Canadian and United States footwear is ,preferred, owing to better wear, advanced styles and workmanship."

"She left me without cause after two days of married life, "is Hollrock's claim.

Tips to Housewives

How To Save Linens

Because towels, napkins, tablecloths sheets and pillow cases usually show the first signs of wear along the fold creases, it is wise to change the fold of the household linen from time to time.

To Part Sticking Glasses

Use water glass sticking within another, can be loosened by filling the inner one with cold water, and placing the outer one in warm water.

Kitchen Scissors.

A useful tool and a valuable help in a well-conducted kitchen, always hanging in a convenient place. It can be used for cutting into cakes meats, celery, grapefruit, etc.

Bandages From Men's Collars

Excellent small bandages can be made from men's collars that have become frayed and unwearable. Remove the outer sides and wash the collar until all the starch is removed. When rinsed apart, each collar contains several thicknesses of good quality linen.

Suggestions For Tatting

If tatting is tossed over a very rough turkish towel the picots are liable to matter, and indeed the best work of picking or pulling them out is avoided. When making tatting, try having the picots at the upper side, for, which are to be sewed to the cloth longer than the common picot; the work can then be held directly under them, and if it is basted can be sewed on with the same stitching or pulling that helps the material.

THE RUNNER ON YOUR LIVING ROOM TABLE

Above the four edges will long stitch of self-color wool.

Bunched cheesecloth is another fabric worthy of consideration—especially if the housewife buys gumpas of the same color as the room behind the table expanse edges.

Whole poplin, damask, China silk or rajah silk in same deep color harmonizes well for dressy occasions at the windows, any of these materials may be used, with excellent taste, for table runners.

And now comes the question of shape and size. "Do living-room table runners hang over the ends of the table any more?" asked a Column Reader in a personal letter to me, not long ago. Yes, they do, but not as deeply as used to be the fashion. They need not necessarily hang over the sides—they may be quite narrow and come only to the edge of the table at each end, or they may extend to fit the surface of the table—an excellent shape to choose in cases where the polished surface of the table must be marred. Again, the cloth may be little more than a mat, not reaching to the edge of the table by any side.

Above all remember that the table runner or mat should never be so long or so wide as to spoil the eye of a person entering the room; nor so inharmonious with the other colors in the room that it "jars" on the nerves of the beholder.

TWO INDOOR BALL GAMES

Shoe Clerks Defeat U-Go-I-Go and Tigers Win From Veterans.

Two more indoor baseball games were down Thursday last night at the Y. M. C. A. bowling alleys, the scheduled when the Shoe Clerks defeated the U-Go-I-Go Club by the score of 6 to 5, and the Tigers won from the fast organization of the Great War Veterans by the score of 16 to 5.

The first game was a very good exhibition in which both teams having improved considerable since the league opened. The shoe clerks showed more pep than their opponents, and were much more formidable on the setting. The Shoe Clerks were fast on the bases, and rather myst fied the Ironmen who were inclined to throw the ball around.

The second game was much more one sided, the Tigers being at no time in danger. Three pitchers appeared in the field, and when it came to hitting the ball, they were right in there batting. The Veterans although they had some good players on their line-up, seemed to lack work, and could not handle the fast game they were continually called upon to handle.

The line-up for the first game:

GANS AND JAMAICA KID DRAW IN TEN-ROUND BOUT

Detroit, April 11.—"Panama" Joe Gans of New York and Jamaica Kid of Norfolk boxed ten rounds to a draw here tonight. Gans was the more clever and outboxed his heavier opponent, but this was offset by some effective blows. The Norfolk negro had an advantage in weight, tipping the beam at 174, while Gans weighed 150.

In the second Gans ran into a left hook to the body and was floored for the count of two. Jamaica did not appear anxious to attack and Gans was soon as strong as ever.

Gans had Jamaica weak in the seventh but refrained from doing any further damage.

DIAMOND DUST

THEN COLLINS SHOWED 'EM.

New York, April 12.—Eddie Collins, of Chicago Americans, proved to everybody except baseman, is "slipping," says John McGraw, of the Giants.

During the White Sox-Giants game at the Polo Grounds yesterday McGraw engaged Kid Gleason, Sox manager, in conversation.

"Now," said the kid in the course of the tete-a-tete, "there's Collins He's the class."

"Yes, yes," mused McGraw, "but he's slipping."

"Why?" queried Gleason.

"Well, he's beginning to get a double chin. It's a sure sign. They don't cover the ground or hit as well when they get that way."

At this juncture Eddie made a long drive and speared a line drive back of second with one hand, and —Gleason laughed.

NEW STADIUM FOR THE YANKEES

New York, April 12.—Construction of the $2,000,000 New York American League baseball stadium in the Bronx will be started this month. Approval by Mayor Hylan of a petition of the club owners for the closing of two streets running through the site, removed the last obstacle in the way of the commencement of work on the project.

Jacob Ruppert, president of the club, had been working a year to obtain the consent of the Astor Estate, which owns the grounds, to the street closing.

The Yankees will play all this season's games at the Polo Grounds, the home of the Giants, but will open the season in 1923 in their own park, according to Colonel Ruppert. The new stadium will accommodate 80,000 persons.

BABE RUTH'S FAME CROSSES THE OCEAN

Well-Known Slugger is Featured in Many French Publications.

Paris, April 12.—The fame of the great Babe Ruth has at last crossed the ocean and French publications have recently been filled with the narrative of the superslugger's exploits.

He of the 59 home runs is not being exalted in France for the number of fences he has driven the ball over but the deed he has made in the bankroll of the club owners.

"The swing of his bat is terrible but the swish of his pen is dreadful," says that staid weekly, referring to the signing of the reported "$250,000 for Five Years' Contract."

"The virtuoso of the honky tonk is also an ace in the business end of it," the Paris Midi comments.

"Five hundred dollars each, and for hitting a baseball—half as far as I could hit a golf ball," Taniffin an unsuspecting golfer, told the reporter.

"Besides the money which he earns from baseball, he runs Ruth Ruth, a sporting goods store, and has also several families in affluence," says Comoedia, a theatrical paper.

Babe Ruth, who has come on for ever knocking the covers off baseball, doffing his cap in a bored way each time he knocks a home run or makes a circuit trip of the diamond, yet he would have never been heard of in France, had he not signed for the reported sum of $100,000 a year.

DOES GOLF HELP BATTERS

Babe Ruth is a Deadly Devotee of the Golf Links.

Chicago, April 12.—Golf kills the baseball batting average, according to baseball fans, and just the same it helps the New York Americans, thinks he may be side this year to equal, or even surpass, the run record of 59 by reason of the alertness of vision gained on the golf links.

Carl Mays is also expects to raise his batting average from .342, having reached that ratio from .239 since he took to the links especially on Sunday contests. Other high average batsmen agree that, while the golf stroke is different from that with the baseball bat, especially in that the baseball is moving rapidly in an uncertain line and the golf sphere is at a stationary ball less than two inches in diameter with a small club head as an elongated shaft, it trains the eye to a greater keenness to meet the wiles of the expert pitcher.

In golf the player must stand still and, although he twists the body and rotates his hips, his eye must be fixed on the ball and that his head cannot be moved during the upward and downward swing if he hopes to get a long, true shot. In addition to the immobility of stance and head, the richly timed golf shot must be played with all the rest of the body, the arms relaxed between these two pivots. Even the grip must not be too tight, but the fingers play a snap in the wrists at the impact of the club with the ball.

In baseball, the swing is at a rapidly moving, consideratly larger ball with a bat that has a longer hitting surface and the stance is thicker than a golf club, although having a rounded face. Many batters step into the ball and regain the last fraction of power with all their body as well as their arms. There is little of the rather slow and deliberate starting of golf, but the forward stroke in some ways resembles the well-timed sweep of the golf club, according to men who have played both games.

Lack of practice appears to be the main reason why Ruth and other star batters do not play par golf, but they do not play a "duffer" game of golf.

Although he has played golf regularly only two years, Babe Ruth has driven 250 yards many times, and says he declared he sent a golf ball 325 yards which is better than the average of such players as Francis Ouimet and Evans. In fact the record is barely more than 400 yards. On the diamond Ruth's longest hit was 507 feet or 169 yards.

Carl Mays, the star pitcher of the New York Americans who has been playing golf only a little more than a year has made a mid-iron shot of 230 yards. He accomplished the shot last winter on his home course at Springfield, Mo.

Waltz Hoyt, another Yankee pitcher, drive a longer golf ball than any other baseball player, his friends says. Ty Cobb, premier batter of America for several seasons is rather versatile at golf, although he hits a fairly long ball on the links and is accurate at approaching.

As regards the score the baseball golfers do not do badly, for Ruth boasts a score of 76, unofficial on a golf course and a number of rounds in 89. His average was about 90, eighteen holes, he said.

Mays memory of his scores places his lowest at 73, which would be par on many courses, although his average is considerably higher.

"The home run swing does not bother my golf stroke," said Ruth, "except insofar as it keeps me off the golf links by its obsession during the baseball season."

BRITISH COMMONS

REFUSES TO BE GAGGED

London, April 12.—The House of Commons yesterday spent a couple of lively hours discussing whether there was any occasion to curtail the length of speeches. The suggestion was put forward that time recorders, showing the length of speeches, should be set up, in the hope that their moral influence would be sufficient to curtail unnecessary loquacity. The House, however, would not entertain the idea for a minute, and rejected the suggestion on a free vote by 139 to 21.

Youthful legionaires who forced Governor Zanella of Fiume to quit the office he wrested from D'Annunzio.

OUR PORCUPINE

It Differs Entirely From the European Hedgehog.

The name Hedgehog and Porcupine have been so often interchanged and intermingled that many people do not know that they really belong to two very distinct and separate types of animals. In fact the only feature which the two have in common is their prickly spines and even these are very different.

The hedgehog is a European animal and is not found in Canada at all, while the porcupine is a North American creature and is not found in England. The hedgehog is only about the size of a large rat, while the porcupine averages about two inches in length and is many times larger in every way. The hedgehog is an insectivore or insect-eating animal with sharp, conical teeth, while the porcupine belongs to the rodents or gnawers like squirrels and beavers and has chisel-shaped teeth.

The hedgehog is covered with short, prickly spines which are not detachable. When touched, he rolls himself up into a compact ball by means of powerful muscles immediately underneath the skin. The skin and spines of defence. The porcupine has matted quills which come out very easily when touched. On being disturbed, he does not roll up but merely erects his spines. He cannot shoot or throw his spines as is commonly but erroneously supposed, but in self-defending himself he often turns his tail rapidly with his tail and as the loose quills readily stick wherever they strike, this was probably the origgave rise to the idea that he shoots his spines.

The hedgehog prefers to be abroad in moist, wet weather, which makes England a peculiarly happy home for him. In dry, hot weather he prefers the damp coolness of his burrow. The young hedgehogs are very precocious and are quite able to take care of themselves from birth except in the matter of protection. Their spines are undeveloped at first, being only small colorless hairs which soon, however, become hard and prickly. He is a perfectly harmless little creature and is beneficial in that he lives in a manner of insects. His flesh is edible and indeed is said to be considered quite a delicacy.

The porcupine, too, is edible and is valued on account of the fact that he is the only animal of the forest which is easy to capture and can be killed for food. Consequently it is an unwritten law of the north woods that no person shall kill a porcupine unless in need. Once a man lost in the cold heart of the woods has owed the strength and hope which carried him finally back to life and civilization to a lucky meeting with one of these stupid blundering beasts. For the porcupine is both stupid and unwitting and it is a real proof of the efficacy of his spiny armor that very few animals can kill him, the bear being one of the few who can do so on occasion. This brute manages by keeping carefully out of the range of the prickly, active tail and deftly rolling him over so as to get at his unprotected throat and stomach. However, even a very clever bear and one well trained to such discomforts of the hunt as bee stings is not likely to pass through any dealings with Mr. Porcupine without suffering agonies from, at least a few of the barbed shafts buried in his tender nose.

A young dog or any unsophisticated young creature of the woods is certain to receive such a dose on his first encounter with the strange snuffling animal that he is not likely to ever meddle with him again. The quills of the porcupine are covered with tiny barbs which make their extraction almost more painful than the only alternative of leaving them in until they gradually force their portuous way through the soft flesh and out at the other side.

The porcupine is short-sighted and has a poor sense of smell and a very short-legged and very slow and awkward in his movements. His food is entirely vegetable matter, principally the bark and green leaves of trees. He is perfectly harmless and inoffensive and has only to be observed to confirm his quiet, shuffling existence in peace.

The porcupine and the hedgehog are both quite remarkable, strange creatures in their own way and differ as distinctly from each other that it seems more than just odd that their names should be so often interchanged.

Prairie Dogs.

Prairie dogs seem to have some kind of forekowledge of the weather, if observers at the New York Zoological Park are right. Now and then the large members of the colony loosen the earth round their mounds with their forefeet, then shovel the soil upward with their hind feet. Other members start inside the burrow, throwing out earth to aid in the digging. When a hole has been built, the animals stamp the earth down with their feet—and amazing sight. As these operations invariably take place before a storm, the obvious purpose is to build a dam that will keep the water from running in to the burrow.

Tommy Know.

The teacher had been talking to the class about Moses and "The Promised Land."

"Tommy," she said, "Why did cities in the Promised Land have walls around them?"

Tommy's hand shot up, and when asked for the answer, he said: "I guess it was the milk and honey from running out."

He had to know at once, because he was going to bring it in the House that afternoon—and that was twelve or one o'clock. It was pleasing to the visitors to see how heartily the old people partook of the good things presented to them, and much appreciation from room a generous helping of candy and an orange. The object of the gather ing was to cheer the Home, a receipted bill for the stationary tab, a very beautiful set of dishes 76 pieces one of Simon's best check patterns and 1 dozen silver teaspoons the initial B carried on the handle. The donation was received by Mrs. Ponton. The President Mrs. McMullen called the gathering to order. The note stated was "shall we disband." The reply "we cannot with so much work started." It was carried unanimously that we carry on for the Aged Home.

Mrs. Mikel thanked the War Workers on behalf of the W. C. A. for their generous donation and co-operation in the work for the Home. About 50 people took tea and a very pleasant and pleasant matron good-night, thanking her for her kindness. We feel the old people have a very comfortable, bright and beautiful Home.

SWEDISH WORKMEN ARE UNEMPLOYED

This State of Affairs is Caused by German Competition.

Stockholm, April 12—Severe German competition is causing a continued increase in the number of unemployed in Sweden. Nearly all the Swedish workers ordinarily employed in the saw mills were out of work on February 1 and over 25 per cent. of those usually employed in the iron and steel industry.

Of the 60,000 registered in the diff. ferent engineering trades 45 per cent. were unemployed.

German manufacturers are able to undersell Swedish prices by 20 to 30 per cent. owing to the decline in the value of the mark.

Seventy per cent. of the miners in coal exporting districts are at work, but in other sections of the coal regions only 25 per cent. are employed.

Among the industrious industries are the paper manufacturers, who employ 65 per cent. of their staffs and the textile trades, with 70 per cent. ...

Fishing Is Not Much Excitement Landing Salmon

There are more ways of catching fish than by using a net or a rod and line.

In British Columbia the salmon ascend rivers in such multitudes that the water is literally packed with them. They are scooped out for the canning factories by means of a great wheel rather like that of a water mill, except that in place of flat paddles it is provided with a number of shallow boxes.

As the wheel is driven round by an engine the boxes go in the water in turn, and each contains one or a fish, which is carried to the top of the wheel and then turned out on to a wooden slide, down which it rolls right into the canning factory.

It seems hard to believe that fish can be so plentiful, yet that is how the majority of the salmon are taken that eventually find their way into tins.

In the Far East a liquid made from the juice of a plant is poured into the waters of a river. In a few moments fish of all kinds and of all sizes come to the top, and begin to thrash about on the surface, where they are speared by the natives. Fortunately, the effects of the liquid last only a short time; the fish are merely stunned, not poisoned, either, and the rivers would soon be completely cleaned out.

The Chinaman fishes with trained cormorants, which dive into the water and seize their prey, but are prevented from swallowing it by rings placed round their necks.

The Polynesians catch their fish by actually driving them ashore. All the inhabitants of a village go out in boats to the mouth of a shallow bay, then they drop overboard and start splashing towards the beach, keeping close together and making as much noise as possible. Some fish escape through the living fence of legs and bodies, but hundreds are driven right on to the sand.

The Robin's Nest.

It is a fact that a robin's nest will last for several years after the birds have left it. Yet with every hard rain the mud with which the nest is reinforced gets more soaking, and we are likely to wonder why it does not crumble like ordinary mud. Mr. George Gilbert explains the circumstance by calling our attention to the eagle-worm, the robin's principal food.

After its nimbly crawl the worm goes down and eases its cast behind. You see the little casts, or bits of mud, along the edges of paths or on the lawn in the fawn and wonder what they are. Examine one and you will find that separately it is earth so finely pulverized that it has no feeling of dirtiness. It has been ground in that finest of mills, the intestines of a mole-worm, and is an excellent fertilizer.

Somewhat richer in lower soil and cast on the surface, it is more than pulverized earth. It has in the secretory fluid of the worm that makes it slimy and sticky. Some fish get plenty of this natural plaster, gets plenty of it on his beak and feet, and builds his nest with it. Thus the worm furnishes the robin with not only the chief part of his nest diet but also the chief substance of his nest.

It is likely that mud wasps use the worm's plaster to form their nests, for it appears to have the same feel as the mud from a robin's nest. The robin collects his plaster when the dew has made it soft, after a shower when it is easy to work. The mud wasp gets her supply when the ground is dry. She nips off what she wants and carries it to the nearest water, where it kneads it and tumbles to her nest to mould it into a cell, in which she deposits her eggs and the spiders she slays with her fatal sting.

Justice Fisher Nature Lover.

Hon. Justice R. G. Fisher, K.C., recently appointed to the Supreme Court Bench, though widely known as a brilliant lawyer, has also a reputation as a lover of quiet country life. His country place, "Pinehurst," on the north bank of the Thames, near London, is one of the most beautiful spots in a district that is beginning to be famed for its charming country places. Mr. Fisher and his family for a number of years have always lived there from the spring time to the autumn. During the winter their home was at 481 Queen's Avenue, London, "Pinehurst" besides being known as a beautiful spot, is also famous for its generous pure-bred stock of which Jersey cattle are the chief breed.

Love of country life is innate in Justice Fisher, who was born in Hyde Park, a rustic village near London, and was brought up on the farm of his father, James Fisher, a Justice of the Peace and former member of the famous London Farm in Middlesex.

Justice Fisher received his education at Hellmuth College and private schools and later joined Tim Meredithe in the firm of Meredith and Fisher, with which he always maintained his connection. He always took an active interest in politics, and in 1913 contested the Federal by-election in East Middlesex, against the majority of the opposing party in two, which at one time was considered a safe constituency for the Conservative party.

The wife of Justice Fisher is the daughter of W. E. Hodgins of Toronto, and a niece of Col. T. B. Hobbs, of London.

TEMPTATION WAS STRONG

Ogdensburg, N. Y., April—The sight of a partially filled bottles of Canadian whiskey and beer floating on the surface of Lake Champlain recently was more than a crowd of people at Hopkins Point could stand. Many jumped into rowboats while others did not hesitate in wetting their feet in an attempt to salvage some of the liquor which was being destroyed by customs officers, reports from here state.

Customs officers who had broken and thrown into the Lake 2,000 bottles of liquor which had been seized, were compelled to use force to keep the crowd back when it was discovered that many of the bottles did not sink immediately.

NO APPEAL IN G. T. R. MATTER

London, April 12.—No appeal to the Grand Trunk Railway matter has been entered for the next term of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, consequently it will be impossible for the appeal to be heard before July. The Grand Trunk Railway shareholders decided last September to appeal to the Privy Council against the award of the Board of Arbitration regarding the value of the Grand Trunk lines, and leave to make such appeal was granted on December 31. The object of the question was to the effect that the common and preference stocks of the Grand Trunk were valueless.

WORLD FAMOUS GEMS

Only Slightly Known Fabled to Private Owners.

Stories of fatal gems are familiar to everybody, and when the famous Blue Hope diamond was secured by an American family everybody wondered at their temerity. One death has already been recorded in the family of the McLeans, that of a youth killed accidentally after every precaution had been taken to preserve his life.

Only recently the largest diamond in the world which had for a time disappeared turned up in a London store in thought. China. This marvelous stone, weighing 162 1/2 carats and measuring more than an inch in width and having a depth in proportion, was once in the possession of Gaby Deslys, and has a mysterious and romantic history.

The jewel is centuries old and is said to have been worn in the jeweled turban of famous court beauties, shone in the eye in the forehead of a goddess in a temple in Egypt, and to have played a part in the wars of the ancient world.

Whatever its mysterious past, the next chapter will be written in ancient Peking. The purchaser of the stone made one visit to the store, inspected the jewel and bought it at once. The diamond was then valued at $50,000 and would have sold for $175,000 if the color had been perfect and the shape, which was slightly square, round.

Within the past month, the gem collection of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, has received a remarkable addition which was worn by a Vizier of Morocco hundreds of years ago. Suspended from the necklace are 18 pendants, in size vertical rows, each row except the middle one containing four pendants. The middle row has only three. In the top row the pendants are of gold, enamelled in red, blue and green, and set with large square stones surrounded with smaller ones, alternately of diamonds and sapphires. The pendants in the third row are smaller. They hold garnets and diamonds. The fourth row is made up of small crescent set with combinations of the stones already mentioned. From the centre of the necklace hangs a pear-shaped ruby—red—shaped bits of gold containing aquamarines.

The stones are roughly shaped and pointed in the manner used by several jewelry, the settings following the somewhat irregular outlines of the uncut stones. Moreover, all the larger aquamarines which form the central stones show the marks of having been pierced, evidently to be strung together as beads, and it is believed that they must have belonged to a much older piece of jewelry. It would be interesting to trace the former tragic history of this wonderful necklace.

Undoubtedly a museum is a safer place for such historic pieces of jewelry than private hands, for it has become almost tradition that the possessors of famous gems like Buccasiani-fear and burning dread of vexatious visitors, "the evil eye" and "the delight of ownership, and no wonder, for history records that misery, death, revolutions, destruction of kingdoms have hovered over the unfortunate owners.

The population of the province of British Columbia in the 1921 census has been announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as 523,368, an increase since the last census of 7,034.

ATTY.-GEN. MAY RESIGN AS RESULT OF LENNOX CHARGES

Will Raney Quit As Result of Lennox Charges?

Attorney-General of this Province Tells the Legislature Last Night if He Fails to Get Dropping of Indictment of Member for North York in Respect to the Enforcement of the Liquor Law He Will Relinquish Office.

HURLS CHALLENGE AT LENNOX

Toronto, April 13.—At the close of an address that, delivered in four installments, occupied the time of the Legislature for nearly five hours, in which T. Herbert Lennox, K.C., gave the administration of the Ontario Temperance Act under Hon. W. E. Raney much a rating ever as it never had before, the Attorney-General last evening rose to enter his defence. It was apparent before he had spoken for more than that while he may compress his reply into less than four or five hours Mr. Raney has felt the barbs of the North York member too keenly to be content with anything but an effective "answer." He has for over an hour and a half and in that time hardly got started upon the line he had prepared to make to the Lennox charges which, for the assistance of the Attorney-General, were summarized and laid in writing by the York member at the close of his address.

If it can be recalled that in opening his address Mr. Lennox declared that if his charges against the department of the Attorney-General were not substantiated then he would no longer be a member of the House. Mr. Raney met him on the same ground, by announcing that if it should happen that the members indictment were true he would resign. He challenged Mr. Lennox to say if he would resign if the House was satisfied that the Attorney-General had disproved the charges. Mr. Lennox agreed promptly and Mr. Raney came back at once with the declaration that if the York member did so the Government would put a candidate into the riding against him upon that issue.

Leading of Lennox for K.C.

As to specific charges, Mr. Raney paid particular attention to the statement of Mr. Lennox that the Attorney-General had refused to let a large quantity of seized liquor go to the United States, but had been willing to have it go to British Columbia to "debauch the people of that province." Replying, Mr. Raney read from a memorandum from James Hales, chairman of the Liquor Board, which left no doubt that the sending of the seized liquor to British Columbia had been arranged after conferences between representatives of the owners and Mr. Hales and apparently not objected to by the officials of the Attorney-General made much of the Lennox to the exact wording of his

STRIKING MINERS RECONSIDER WAGE CONTRACT DEMANDS

Hopeful Sign of Strike Settlement is Seen — The Gillen Board Formed to Investigate Canadian Mining Troubles Has Ceased to Exist.

New York, April 13—Anthracite producers last night saw a tendency on the part of the union leaders to soften their demands when, before the anthracite and operators' sub-committee on wage contract negotiations, they asked permission to reconsider their demand number 1.

This demand, stipulates that the new contract agreed upon in settlement of the pending strike shall extend for two years; prohibits the making of individual agreements and provides for the establishment of uniform wage rates for operators of mechanical loaders.

Operators reported they had balked at not less than three of the demands asserting that they were not ready to consider effective mechanical loaders were in use. With their consent, discussion of the demands was temporarily abandoned, to permit district presidents to consult their men on whether they should continue at once in the negotiations toward settlement of the strike.

Under the strike of the 19 provisions which the strikers have insisted their next contract must contain have been taken up by the operators. With none of these points settled, and 16 more to be considered, both sides predicted that night that several weeks will elapse before the foundation is laid for a new contract upon which work may be resumed in the Anthracite region.

Ottawa, April 13.—The Gillen Board, appointed by the Minister of Labor a few days ago to conduct a further inquiry into the Nova Scotia coal mining troubles, has ceased to exist, and in its place a new board of conciliation and investigation has been provided for by Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, which was passed by Hon. Mr. Murdock, who then proceeded under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act to provide another board to carry on the work.

COURT FREES FATTY ARBUCKLE

Jury Out Five Minutes Before Returning Not Guilty Verdict.

COURT SCENE

Prisoner and Wife Burst into Tears at Completion of Trial.

San Francisco, Cal., April 13.—(Friday)—Arbuckle, film comedian, was acquitted late yesterday afternoon of causing the death of Virginia Rappe. The jury took but five minutes for the task. The jurors, eight men and four women, retired to deliberate on their verdict at 4.55 o'clock. At 5.13 they gave notice that they had reached their verdict and were ready to return to court.

The face of Arbuckle's wife, Minta Durfee Arbuckle, grew almost as white as the bandage on her head that was clenching that of her mother's. She closed her eyes and waited. When the clerk handed the verdict to the judge, Mrs. Arbuckle took a long breath, so audibly that the sound reached all over. She released her face to the ceiling as though she was saying a prayer.

"Court is dismissed."

Attorney Brennan, tears streaming down his face, rushed over to the weeping wife of Arbuckle and kissed her. Everybody seemed to be weeping or shaking hands or hugging. Arbuckle was shaking hands with the jurors and crying. The rest was a picture of confusion.

RUSSIANS BALK AT CONFERENCE

LENINE EXPECTED

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

London, April 13.—The Russians at Genoa will give financial guarantees demanded in the program prepared by Allied experts, but flatly refuse to accept the proposed guarantees mixed tribunals to fix responsibility, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph. They declare the Tribunals arbitrary infringement of Russian sovereignty.

Nikolai Lenine, Soviet Premier, will come to Genoa to assist Geo. Chicherin as the head of the Russian delegation when the negotiations at the economic conference has reached the proper stage, says newspaper Secolo, which adds that an agreement is being prepared for Premier Poincare of France at the Villa Pargio and that it is expected shortly.

The necessity of bringing about equilibrium in national budgets in the European situation is to be established, formed the most important subject of discussion at the meeting today of the ambassadors and experts at which Sir Robert Stevenson Horne, the chairman, proposed an International conference of the great banks of issuing currency, including the United States Federal Reserve Banks.

The conference was intended to make the London experts' report the basis of its deliberations and to appoint an editor subcommittee to examine any change, with a second sub-committee to study credits, the commission finally intended to take labors to the question of currency.

Dr. Andreas Hermes, the German Minister of Finance, will head the commission by alluding to the question of reparations. He declared that Germany would participate in the London report and were in accord on many points, but wished to emphasize that Germany would find considerable difficulty in establishing equilibrium in her budget, while, policed to support effectively gigantic commercial treaty, he promised will bring in practical suggestions later.

Mrs. Col. O'Flynn, President of the Ladies' Council, gave a talk to the girls relative to the workings of the Girl Guides.

Mrs. W. G. Mikel also gave an address relative to the rules of the Association and their mottoes. The three promises which "members have to make were explained by Mrs. Mikel in a manner that could not be mistaken. The three promises are as follows:—

1—To be loyal to God and King.

2nd—To do a helpful act every day.

3rd—To keep Guide laws.

In addition to the above three promises, there are some laws to be observed, one of the chief being the law of honor. Every member is placed upon her honor to carry out the laws as far as possible.

At a meeting to be held in two weeks' time the organization will have been completed.

In reply to an enquiry as to the formation of the Girl Guides in Belleville, Mrs. Mikel stated that the Boy Scouts of the city were responsible for the present organization being formed as they desired it to be connected with their work. Many girls have already joined the organization and others will no doubt be added to the number.

EARLY MORNING RUNS FOR FIREMEN

Two Alarms Sounded Within Three Hours—Slight Damage Results.

Between the hours of one and four o'clock this morning the city fire brigade had two runs to different parts of the city. The first alarm was sent in 12.45 to Mr. Herbert Chown's on Grove street. Some wood being piled up against the chimney, filling the house with smoke, which alarmed the members of the household. No damage resulted.

The second alarm was at 3.35 to Mr. George Ashley's residence on Great St. James street. In some way cause a blaze started between two partitions and had gained considerable headway when discovered. The blaze was soon extinguished but not before some damage had resulted. The loss is covered by insurance.

PRINCE OF WALES AND DUKE OF YORK ENGAGED?

The Name of Lady Mary Cambridge is Coupled With the Heir to Britain's Throne—Is a First Cousin of the Prince.

London, April 13.—Soon after the return of the Prince of Wales from his journeys around India and Japan, his betrothal to Lady Mary Cambridge will be officially announced, according to reliable information today. About the same time announcement will also be made of the engagement of the Duke of York to Lady Rachel Cavendish.

In view of the fact that the English royal family never publicity announces reports preceding it, it is impossible to obtain confirmation of the news from them.

Rumors have already married both the Princes to different eligible girls, mainly because there was no secret romance when, over-any special attentions have been pressed by their Royal Highnesses to any particular lady.

That Lady Mary Cambridge and Lady Rachel Cavendish are now be-lieved to be the future wives of the two oldest sons of the King and Queen comes as surprise here. Both Queen Mary and the bridesmaids at the wedding of Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles at the end of February.

WHAT TO WEAR AT EASTER SUNDAY

Intelligencer Reporter Compiles Information on the Latest Spring Styles.

NEWEST FASHIONS

Belleville Merchants Have Everything in Nifty Outfits for Easter.

Local merchants are well prepared to meet the Easter crush. Unless be such like year, as evidenced by one look at the various beautiful windows along front street. Everything looks ol promising for a bumper Easter trade on Saturday, but the dull, damp and cool weather we have experienced since, has rather dampened the ardor of the Easter shoppers.

This second to be the opinion of the various merchants in various lines, when called upon this morning by The Intelligencer scribe.

"We are all set for the rush, however," said one merchant, hopefully, "and I believe it will come to, if it turns out fine now, and continues fine all day Saturday."

Fawn velour coats, are all the rage and will be worn this Spring, with tricotine and botany serge skirts. The dresses are also of tricotine and botany serge, and are trimmed with silk, military braid. The newest blouses are of tricotine and georgette crepe, and are made with a view to exhibiting the fair sex; stripes and dots being the very latest vogue.

Hats galore. Fur mey are also being shown principally in fawn shades. The heavy homespun cloth is also used in the tailor fitted hats, and the larger cities here, for suiting, but has not gained a foothold here as yet. In Belleville, the herring bone stripe in dark clothes, and the heavy overcheck in grey cloths for summer, are the leading fancy materials.

Of course it would not be a perfect tour without calling upon our friends the milliners; and on saliing in, it was clearly evident that the weather was not affecting the Spring hat business in this department of the Easter clothing circuit, then in any way. Those in charge, however, had time to inform The Intelligencer that color predominated this Spring in the fancy hats, the favorite shades being ardine rage, but later on, sailors of all kinds will be the hat. Anything in the flower line, in shades of periwinkle, jade green, and red are very reasonable.

Veils are being worn very extensively, and flowers are profusely used in trimming the "chapeaux". Huge bows of colored ribbon, and silk much used in trimming this spring.

The various shoe stores have adorned their respective windows with their best shoe wear for the coming Easter brown shade to the fore, in Oxford style, on a modified English last and heel, are much in evidence in pumps. This encouraging fact is indeed true in all stores; the prices having been reduced if more or less on all articles of clothing.

Music and Drama

A GREAT PICTURE!!!

"COMES ACROSS"

"Damaged Goods," a characterization of the stage play used with such great success by Richard Bennett a few years back, is the feature attraction at the Regent tonight, matinee daily. When Richard Bennett presented "Damaged Goods" in New York and later on the road theatre-goers were astounded. In these days, the world was not ready to admit the existence of a dread disease that menaced society—today, social organizations not only are fighting it but openly discussing it so powerful an ally as "Damaged Goods," Mr. Bennett himself heads a strong cast in the picture version, which is released after being withheld for 7 years. "Damaged Goods" was written by Eugene Brieux, one of the leaders of the French school of realists.

Brieux is an artist and has an art let's dislike for the sensational. Probably this accounts for the absence of that calculated to attract those who desire to see something sensational and offensive to people of good taste. The producers have succeeded in putting in their picturization the refinement of Brieux's writings.

"Damaged Goods" is a picture that fathers and mothers should bring their older children to see. The moral contained in it is as unmistakable as the charm with which Brieux tells his story.

A 2 reel Century comedy, the 3rd chapter of the "50,000 miles tour with the Prince of Wales," and a 2 reel Western drama will be exhibited or the same program.

SAM HARDY LEADING PLAYER IN FINE FILM COMEDY AT GRIFFINT

Sam Hardy, who plays the title role in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," the screen adaptation of George M Cohan's famous play, a Cosmopolitan production on Paramount and which will be shown at Griffin's To-morrow (Good Friday) matinee and night, and Saturday, is a well known actor.

Mr. Hardy is thirty-five years old and was born in New Haven, Conn. He appeared in many musical comedies and plays including "Princess Pat" the Ziegfeld "Follies," "The Rivers Girl," "La La Lucille" and "Stop Thief."

The interpretation of J. Rufus Wallingford, the smart and confident con man by Mr. Hardy is a screen master piece. His presence on the screen breathes the part, and no other actor in the country could have portrayed the character with such natural ease and enthusiasm.

"Sam Hardy in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" in this picture, and the audience recognizes his fitness for the part as soon as he appears on the screen. Frank Borzage directed the production. Norman Kerry, Derk Kenyon and Diana Allen are prominent members of the cast.

A 3 reel Patch comedy, the latest chapter of "Winners of the West" and a Kinogram news reel will be exhibited on the same program.

WANTS AN ARISTOCRACY OF BRAINS TO REPLACE ARISTOCRACY OF BIRTH

London, April 12.—An endeavor to substitute "an aristocracy of brains" for an aristocracy of birth is embodied in a bill for the reconstruction of the House of Lords which Colonel Claude Lowther, yesterday obtained the permission of the House of Commons to present. This was Col. Lowther's statement in making application for the privilege of presenting the measure, which provides for a reduction in the number of members of the Upper House from 730 to 300, apart from princes of the blood. It also contains a provision for the creation of peers "for life" with hereditable titles and privileges.

LABOR MEMBER'S RESOLUTION WILL START LIVELY DEBATE

Ottawa, April 12.—Sharp debate is likely to arise in Commons over a resolution placed on the order paper by William Irvine (Labor, Calgary East): "That in the opinion of this House, a defect of a Government were sure should not be considered as a sufficient reason for the resignation of the Government unless followed by a vote of lack of confidence."

GENOA SUPERB, SAY DELEGATES

With Its Palaces and Art Galleries Genoa is Wonderful.

Rome, April 12.—It is difficult to imagine a city better adapted to princely hospitality than Genoa, where the Great Economic Conference began last Monday for it contains the superb palaces built mostly during the sixteenth century to satisfy the sense of luxury, the appreciation of art and beauty of the merchant princes of Genoa.

There are no palaces in Italy, perhaps in the whole world, so magnificent in themselves and that form such a suitable background for the masterpieces of art, the Van Dycks, the Rubens and the delightful pictures of the Venetian School that adorn their walls.

The Royal Palace where the conference is held, in addition to its sumptuous furniture, its glorious marble staircase and balconies, has a beautiful garden with grassy lawns and walks shaded by a variety of trees and shrubs.

The members of the different delegations aggregate at least 2,000 persons, who are lodged in Genoa's palaces and in the lovely villas that surround the town. When one realizes that all this beauty is bathed in sunshine of the Italian spring, it is difficult to imagine a better preparation for the comfort and pleasure of Italy's guests.

In addition Italy has exerted herself to provide for the convenience of life enjoyed by those who attend the conference. The road along the Ligurian Riviera has been relaid for a distance of about 12 miles. Additional telephone lines have been set up for the service of the delegation and newspaper correspondents. Finally, a sightseeing motor-bus has been prepared for delegates and reporters.

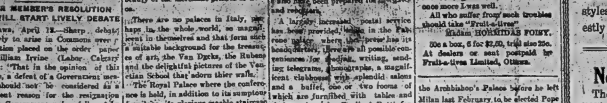

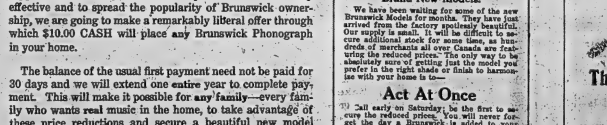

Another important social service has been provided those in the Palazzo Negro, where they never has its beaux, for in every room all possible conveniences for dictating, writing, sending telegrams, photographs, a magnificent clubroom with splendid cuisine, a buffet, and two rooms of which are furnished with tables and chairs ordered by Cardinal Ratti for the Archbishop's Palace before he left Milan last February to be elected Pope Pius XI.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Each of Special Interest to Every Citizen of the City of Belleville.

PLANTING

Having tested seed and found it good, we may proceed to sow it. At this season of the year seeds should be sown in the gardener's "flat", placed in the kitchen, bathed or greenhouse. A standard greenhouse flat is shallow box, measuring about four-feet inches by twenty-three inches by three inches.

These boxes are made of half-inch lumber. We purposely leave cracks in the bottom, which permits surplus water to run away. This is to prevent a water logged condition with the consequent exclusion of air.

On the bottom of the flat place some broken flower pots or coarse soil to the depth of three-quarters of an inch. As a matter of fact the coarse material that will pack closest with the sieve when putting the flat in what is placed in the bottom of the other. Then fill the flat to within a half-inch of the top with sifted soil, containing a fair proportion of sand. Level, press down firmly, and sow seeds broadcast. Cover the seeds by sifting a little soil over them. It is important that we do not cover too deeply. Three or four times the diameter of the seed is usually sufficient depth.

Some good growers like the seedlings in rows, claiming that they may be more easily handled, when thus planted. We have found difficulty when planted after either system, and we are certain that each plant has more room to develop when sown broadcast.

When covered press again gently, and water with a fine spray. It is important that the flat should not be left when planted and complete, or there is sure to be trouble with the watering.

It will be noticed that no manure is used in the flat. As has been pointed out, the seedling is not dependent for its food on the soil at first. Manure favors the growth of fungi, that great enemy of seedlings. Sunlight is not necessary and may be a positive injury at the start.

SEEDING

Someone has said that a seed is a plant packed for shipment. We sometimes, however, fail to see the plant in the seed. To realize the presence of that plant in the seed is fundamental. Beside the germ we have a little food placed directly around it, which supplies the unborn plant with food until it acquires power of taking nourishment for itself from the soil and air. Then wrapped around all is a tough membrane, fitting closely, which furnishes protection to the precious contents within. This little plant and its food supply may be regarded as the internal requirements of seeds for germination. No seed can germinate without these.

Then there are certain external requirements, all of which are necessary for germination, and for the best development of the plant later on. These requirements are: heat, moisture and oxygen. Heat is supplied either by the sun or artificially; moisture by bringing the seed in contact with damp soil; oxygen by the air which filters between the soil grains.

It is well to remember that there is a temperature best suited to every seed for germination, above or below which we may go until we reach that point beyond which the seed absolutely refuses to grow. As we get farther from the best temperature, however, it is only reasonable to suppose that we start the young plant off in its struggle for existence, under poorer circumstances than we would if correct temperatures were observed. For example:—If sweet corn requires a soil temperature of 41 degrees, there is not much gained by planting corn in a soil which registers 35. True, it may not be killed, but the seed simply remains there in the soil until it warms up to germination temperature.

The moisture requirement should be ample, but not overdone. Move seeds fall from overwatered under plates, or in the kitchen, then from underwatering. Moist conditions are essential, but the watering of the seed flat, whenever one thinks of it, is ruinous.

Oxygen supplied by the air must be present. Puddled conditions of the soil exclude air. If entirely excluded there can be no germination.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tums Sets Certain Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach ache, inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

This distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The result? Its entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it blend and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This envelopes the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. And it is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

Bisurated, such as bisurated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

THE KAWARTHA LAKES

The Kawartha Lakes are among the most popular of Ontario's summer playgrounds. The region was long a favored one with the Indians who gave it its musical name, signifying "Bright Waters and Happy Lands." The Kawartha chain of lakes are six hundred feet above the level of lake Ontario. The climatic conditions are most agreeable and healthful. Every form of outdoor recreation may be indulged in, sailing, canoeing and motor-boating, bathing and fishing. Black bass, muskinonge and salmon trout are caught in the large lakes, while there is good "fishing" for speckled trout in the smaller lakes in the district. The region is easy of access, being within 135 miles of Toronto or 90 miles of Peterboro. Full information regarding the district may be obtained from the publication issued by the Grand Trunk with good map is now available, and may be had free on application to any Grand Trunk Agent, or C. THE RESPONSIBILITY OF LABOR.

It was inevitable that many leaders of organized labor would endeavor to maintain wages at the war level. For some years it has been the general policy to hold every advance gained by strike or concession, and at the termination of agreements to force further advances. But war wages were not determined by economic conditions and there never was any prospect that in time of peace wages could be held at the level that was necessary to secure war production.

In Great Britain it is freely admitted by leaders of labor that the long coal strike of twelve months ago was a calamitous mistake. The resources of the unions are exhausted and the exports of British industries disastrously reduced. In the great coal strike just launched in the United States the miners themselves must sustain heavy losses and the acute commercial depression which prevails will be greatly aggravated. The evidence is conflicting that it is sufficient to pass judgment between the miners and the operators. What does seem clear is that the time is not favorable for shorter hours or higher wages. Those who adventure upon courses which add to the vast number of people now unemployed in the United States take a great responsibility. If the strike is prolonged a multitude of other workers must suffer as severely as the miners. So, the masses of the people who are powerless to intervene must sustain great inconveniences and losses.

If either party to the conflict is unyielding the Government of the country is practically helpless. Too often, indeed, Government intervention serves no good purpose. No Government ever interferes in behalf of employers. There is no political advantage to be had save in assisting the unions to achieve a partial or complete victory. Where it is clear beyond all question that a strike is justified Governments can hardly stand aside, but where there is any doubt interference is unwise and mischievous. Apparently the Harding-Administration is less willing than was that of Mr. Wilson to be the arbiter in industrial conflicts. In Great Britain, too, the Government seems to have become more reluctant to put pressure upon either employers or workers. The plain meaning, perhaps, is that ministers see more clearly that if they interfere between warring groups every industrial quarrel becomes a political issue. They incur the anger of the losers, and they get little gratitude from those whose interests they have protected.

CHEMICAL WARFARE.

In an article written by Webb Miller, staff correspondent for the United Press, he reports an authority on chemical warfare as follows:—

"The whole question of disarmament has been radically changed and rendered uncertain by the progress in the use of chemicals in warfare." Such is the opinion of Doctor Albert Rane, an authority on chemicals and a student of the use of chemicals in war.

"Dr. Rane points out that at present there is no known method of determining or limiting the ability of a nation to do harm to its neighbors or enemies by means of chemicals or poison gas. Even though its warships were scrapped and cannons and ammunition destroyed, a nation can have in its laboratories and chemical factories the means of making a terrible war with liquid fire, poison gas and deadly chemicals distributed by airplanes such as are used in ordinary commercial work.

"The Great War has demonstrated the existence of a vast unknown factor of which the power cannot be measured. How can nations conceive disarmament effectively when one of the important factors is unmeasurable? Nobody can know the limits of the influence of chemistry and aviation on the future warfare."

"Dr. Rane emphasized the fact that almost any nation, were it so willed, could secretly prepare the means for a chemical war in its laboratories in peace time under the guise of peaceful activities.

"As an instance of the speed with which chemical manufacture can be developed, Rane cites the manufacture of the terrific explosive yperite in France. In March, 1918, the total production in France was about 580 pounds, but seven months later the factories were producing over 1,000,000 pounds.

"The French scientist believes it is nearly impossible to effectively guard against any nation developing the means of chemical warfare in peace time.

"He declares that the chance discovery of some chemist in an obscure University might possibly modify the whole art of war-making."

LENINE AND "JIGGS"

(Winnipeg Tribune)

"The extension of this graceful tribute to Nicholas Lenine and his entourage is one of the curiosities of modern history, and the spectacle of the tempo exerted through civilization under the friendly surveillance of the international secret police, has given it elements of humor in real life, transcending the doings of Jiggs in high society which adorn the Sunic supplements.

"NEW ONTARIO NEGLECTED

Galt Reporter—

That New Ontario feels aggrieved over the neglect of her interests in Queen's Park is natural. That part of the Province has for years, by all Governments, been treated as a poor relation. All-round development has not been conspicuous up there, partly because of the fact that it has been divorced as to range. But the city of Toronto is not to blame. She has complained to the Provincial authorities gratuitous to avail into metropolitan practices to swell into something better in the matter of population than Montreal. If she forgets New Ontario in her various shuffles it is just a sign that she is a little too self-centred to suit communities with similar aspirations.

NO IDLER'S INSURANCE

Port Williams Review-Journal—

In a young country like Canada, the need for unemployment insurance is not the same as in old industrial countries like England. When British troopers are closed it is hard for the Powers to find other jobs. But in this country it is rather a matter of finding something else to do. Canada has millions of idle acres waiting for natural resources. The man who is out of a job in a factory need not starve. In fact Canada's greatest need is for men on the land, in the mines and in the lumber camps. A system of unemployment insurance which would encourage idleness on the part of industrial workers would aid in the development of those fundamental industries which mean so much to this country.

The Poets' Corner

TRIBUTE TO SIR JOHN EATON

When death sets all a man believes
A man to many dear;
A Merchant, Prince, whose kindly heart,
And open hand of cheer,
Enriched in manifold ways the lives
Of laborers far and near.

When such as Sir John Eaton die.
(Alas, too few are they!)
What message from the Great Beyond
To those who toiling stay.
Who seek by honest, humble toil
A living day by day?

'Tis not "Hope for better things
Will come to those who toil!"
The Eaton spirit of good will
Which prompted bounties royal
Still lives, and other men will move
To share their means the spoil.

A happier day will dawn on earth
When men of merchant fame,
Leaders of workers share their wealth
With those who form the main,
Leaving behind, to those who mourn,
An honored, well-loved name.

One snappy day recently Johnny's mother sent him to the store to get half a dozen eggs. On his return he handed her a paper bag containing six articles, which, though egg-shape, were certainly never laid by a hen.

"Well, ma," said Johnny, the streets were awful slippery so I thought I'd better get lemons instead."—Boston Transcript.

Brothers

A Congressman, the story goes, years ago was far from home and got short of cash. He had a Masonic charm on his watch chain, and noticed that a fellow-traveller in the smoker wore a similar emblem. He sat down by him and said confidentially: "Brother, I am up against it. Lend me $100 till I get home?" The casual travel companion glanced at the charm, looked him over, finally handed him the hundred, which was promptly returned when the Congressman got home. Recently the two men met at a gathering of Masons and recalled the incident. "Say," said the man who lent the money, "when you met me on that train I wasn't a Mason at all. I had found the charm and put it on my chain. You thought I was a Mason, however, and I was ashamed to have you think I wasn't a Mason then." "Just between us," was the Congressman's reply, "so wasn't I, but I was wearing my father's watch."—Outlook.

It's the Valleys in Paint That Make it Poor

The Valleys are the thin streaks
The Hills are the thick streaks

PAINT streaks are caused by the brush marks. No matter how much it is brushed, if the paint is cheap the brush marks are bound to show.

Good paint levels up to a smooth surface. Cheap paint dries with hills and valleys that are alternately strong and weak.

Just as a chain is only as strong as its weakest link, so is a film of paint only as good as its thinnest places—its valleys.

Most paints are made of only three things. Lowe Brothers High Standard is made of six—three more ingredients that exhaustive laboratory and practical tests have shown to be necessary to make good paint.

Add to this the fact that these ingredients are more finely ground, and you can understand why High Standard will always smooth out to a uniformly thick surface. Which is also the reason it lasts longer, and looks better as long as it lasts.

Come in and see the sample panels and ask for literature.

A cross section of a cheap paint film looks like this.

High Standard goes on smooth and stays smooth. That's why it looks better and lasts longer.

Efficient Housekeeping

AN OLD FASHIONED "BOILED DINNER"

At this season of the year—the transition period between cold and warm weather—the appetite is apt to be jaded unless two rules are followed: 1. Serve lighter meals rather than the heavy red-blooded meals, eating more often. 2. Serve foods attractively, to tempt the appetite.

Today I am going to suggest a menu to illustrate the first rule; and next Monday I shall publish an article on The Simple Garnishing of Food, which will help the housekeeper to observe the second rule.

"Boiled Dinner"

Coffee

Apple Sauce Topped with Meringue

Boiled Dinner: Put four pounds of corned beef over the fire to boil in water to cover. Do this at 7 o'clock in the morning if you have dinner at noon. At the same time put six beets on to boil, in a separate pot, but after one hour take them out and put them into the pot which contains the corned beef. Cut a small head of cabbage in quarters and let it cook in cold water for one hour; at ten o'clock put the cabbage into a clean cheese cloth bag and add it to the meat pot, but at 11:30 o'clock take it out to drain in a colander. Peel and slice a few turnips and a few carrots and put these into the kettle at 11 o'clock and let boil until 12. The potatoes, too, should go into the kettle with the corned beef in time to be done for a twelve-thirty dinner. A few minutes before serving, reheat the cabbage by rolling it back into the pot with the other vegetables. Serve in a large tureen or vegetable dish.

To Make the Meringue for the Apple Sauce Beat one egg-white stiff, sweeten it with a little granulated sugar, and stiffen it by stirring beating it in a few teaspoons of any kind of jelly, jam or canned or cooked fruit left from the apple sauce, and serve. This meringue is excellent to serve on any fruit or pudding; it gives the appearance of whipped cream and the housekeeper, mother, especially should use it often to thrifty advantage. Stewed prunes or sliced oranges are delicious to make them more attractive to her children.

Steamed Gingerbread Pudding is an other fine one to serve. To make it, first together 1 cup of molasses, 1 cup of hot water, 1 cup of chopped seedless raisins, 1 teaspoon of soda, a little ground clove, ground cinnamon and ground allspice (about ¼ teaspoon of each) and beat the mixture well. Stir this mixture well, then add 2½ cups of flour. Turn all into two baking powder cans (or regular steamable molds), fit on the cover, tying it on with string (right around the can from top to bottom) and place can in a kettle of boiling water to let the water boil up around them for three hours, then turn the puddings out on a platter and serve hot with hard sauce, or with a foamy sauce.

Query, Answer: Why not have a Shortbread Salad for your party refreshments? To make it, mix equal parts of parboiled sweetbreads, cut in one-half inch cubes, and finely cut celery. Moisten with cream or mayonnaise dressing. Serve Waldorf Mousse for your next course, and hot coffee. For a card party, it is always appropriate to have little cakes cut in the shape of hearts, diamonds, spades and clubs. The sandwiches, too, might be served in these shapes. One woman I know served her cake in the shape of dice, using black raisins, pressed into the white frosting, for the dots.

The Daily Recipe

Chicken Patties

5 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon mustard
1¼ teaspoons salt

1 tablespoon green pepper

WORLD SHORTAGE OF MEATS

It is estimated that the world requires fifty billion pounds of meat annually and that while the population increased by 85,000,000 (that is from 510,000,000 to 595,000,000) between the years 1901 to 1914, cattle, sheep and hogs combined only increased 40,000,000 (that is, from 1,065,000,000 to 1,105,000,000). This, of course, indicates that there is not only a shortage of meats in the world now, but that as the years go by it must become greater and greater. Consequently the price of meat must rise. The chief factor in the decrease in the number of domestic animals, according to the Agricultural Gazette of Canada, is the high price of feed. Other factors are the high cost of labor, the scarcity of pasture land, the poor quality of the animals being fed, the general economic progress of man as the increase in population and the advance of civilization, the diminishing wealth of lands from fertile to poor, unfertile lands and from level to hilly lands, the relative decline in the output of animal products. This decline may be offset by an extension in the stock production sufficient to meet practically the increase demand. Any such increase in production in Canada at the present time is hindered by the fact that the cost of feeds is greatly raised in order to provide for the total domestic demand, not alone consumption, feeding

FOOTBALL GAME GOOD FRIDAY

Grand Trunks and Sons of England Will Open the Season.

Weather permitting football will commence on Good Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. on the Pine Street Grounds, with an enthusiastic game between the G.T.R. and the Sons of England. The teams will line up as follows.

G.T.R.—Gorman, goal; Johnson, and Gridley, backs; Grant, Taylor and Summers, halves; Hickie, Birney, Robinson, Lankaid and Chaisty, forwards.

S.O.E.—Peters, goal; Fulker and Walsh, backs; Cross, Maher and Gill, halves; Skates, Dalton, Page, Fulker and Jenkinson, forwards.

The Sons of England have a good team out. Some of them played last year with 3rd Taylor's Tigers, while others are with the Tiger Tots and should make the railroaders hustle to win.

ARE THERE ANY ONE PUNCH MEN?

Since the Days of Bob Fitzsimmons There Have Been Few.

Bobby Barrell, the much-touted lightweight from Philadelphia, is said to be able to fatten the opponents with one wallop. If Bobby can do that he will soon become a tremendous sensation. There is not another fighter in the ring at the present time who can call himself a one-punch knocker out. Even Dempsey is not a one-punch finisher.

One punch finishers never have been plentiful, but there were a few of them back in Horrid, her days. Bob Fitzsimmons was the greatest of them all. When Fitz decided that it was time to deliver the coup de grace he took great pride in doing the trick with one blow. If it became necessary to strike again Fitz was greatly chagrined. He felt that he was losing his punch and becoming a bungler.

Fitzsimmons was one of the very few fighters who could tell a round or more in advance just when he would finish his opponent. He was a great hidder, and while facing second raters he frequently pulled his punches and made them think they were winning. Then he would suddenly launch the thunderbolt that sent them to sleep.

When Fitz met the giant Jim Dunkhorst in Brooklyn he ran around the ring all through the first round, while the 300-pound giant lumbered after him under the impression that Fitz was badly frightened. When Fitz finally became tired of the joke he turned and sank his left wrist deep into the fat man's midriff. Dunkhorst collapsed like a load of anvils falling off a roof.

One Punch Finishes

It was a wallop of that kind that won the title from Corbett at Carson City. Fitz waited patiently round after round for an opening to his liking. Finally it came, and only one application of his terrible left was necessary to finish Corbett.

It took only one crack on the chin to put Peter Maher down and out, and time left handed Dries to the stomach made the rugged Sharkey take to the canvas in San Francisco. The blow was called foul by the referee, but there never was any doubt that it was fatal.

Joe Gans was another famous one punch finisher. Gans won the lightweight title with one wallop from Frank Erne. When Joe got his crown down it was seldom that the latter regained his feet before the ten count. Other old time lightweights who could finish an opponent artistically were Dal Hawkins, George McFadden and Jack Blackburn.

Benny Leonard, rated as the best killer among the little ones to-day, has nothing on Gans, finishing ability. Leonard never puts his opponents down for the full count. In nearly every case the referee has interfered before Benny could finish them.

Other of the present set of runners who frequently win by stopping their opponents are hitters of the Leonard type. They do not possess the ability to rock a man to sleep with one punch, but they are clever enough to keep on hitting their opponents until the referee steps in and stops the slaughter.

BUSINESS MEN RETAIN TROPHY

Lions Again Fail to Lift the Much-Sought Cheese Trophy.

The Lions' indoor Baseball Team made a second unsuccessful attempt to lift the "Cheese" trophy last night, when they met the present holders of the trophy, the Business Men, and went down by a 5-4 decision, in the time of 22-2. The busy Business Men, won the "tin ware" from the Reds in a week ago, and were challenged to this game by the Lions.

The Lions had difficulty in securing a team, and it was necessary to play 2 or 3 men who are not connected with the ball team, but who being true Lions, would not see their brothers "stuck." Phil Brockel did the heaving for the Lions, but was not up to his usual good standard. He was wild at times, and didn't have the old time steam. "Doc." O'Callaghan, first sacker, was about the best and peppiest worker they had, although Finkle at 3rd, did some nice work in the field. Brockel, Zufelt and Burgess were the hitting aces.

The busy men were right out to hold what they had gained so hard to win, and were all "on their toes". Stillwell pitched a nice game and Bob Lasley, his catcher was an insulter of morals to his team mates. In his excellent exhibition behind the bat. He held them up well. Blackford at first, and Ralph Morden at third played nice games in the field. The Business Men specialized at the bat, all getting to Phil rather strongly.

The teams—

K. OF C. ATHLETIC CLUB DOING GREAT WORK

Tennis Courts are Being Built on St. Michael's Property.

Under the leadership of President F. G. Cushing, the Knights of Columbus Athletic Club is going ahead in a great manner. Their latest step in boosting athletic work among their members is the establishment of a tennis court on the property just south of St. Michael's church on Church street. The courts are of the very latest design, and are constructed of clay. There are accommodations for four sets at one time.

The team will organize an outdoor baseball team to enter the City League. They are also considering the advisability of building a baseball diamond on the St. Michael's picnic grounds. They are, however, waiting for action on the part of the B.A.A.A. before they attempt anything themselves.

If the Yankees were the only New York team Brooklyn had to play the old pennant race would look pretty soft to the Superbas.

"Gavvy" Cravath has done a Rip Van Winkle in Minneapolis by returning to the Millers after having spent years and years with the Phillies.

The circus season in Madison Square Garden, New York, will be followed by Nick Altrock and the Senators at the Polo Grounds.

Perhaps the South American heavyweight will explain to Fred Fulton that Firpo is neither the name of a new drink nor a new soap.

Racetrack promoters in Maryland pay a $5,000-per-day license fee, plus 15 per cent. of the gross receipts. And the horses do all the work.

Of all things! College football practice butts in on the sporting page right at the blow-off of baseball, golf, tennis, track, rowing, etc.

So far Pitcher Chaplin, of the Red Sox, hasn't playfully slammed a customer, fits at Mid'am makes.

Twelve amateur boxing tournaments will be held in New York during the next two months. There will be silver mugs for the winners and battered noses for the losers.

Paris wants a Jack Dempsey-Strangler Lewis bout, while American promoters want to stage a Dempsey-Willis matinee. What's a four heavyweight champion to do?

College football players who have entered professional baseball will be pleased to learn that the ghost walks on the 1st and 15th of each month during the season.

Wids publicity was given the stories of the large salaries paid Rath and Hornsby, but that hasn't induced the Reds to stage Eddie Rousch to a bushel of kale.

CLOSE CALL FOR Y.M.C.A. TEAM

Win From Young Merchants Team by Small Margin.

Catching the Crack Team of Bowlers when they were anything but at their best, the Young Merchants very nearly administered a drubbing to them. Beaten in two out of three strings the "Y" Five were saved only by the lead they piled up in the second game. It was not good bowling on the part of either team but there was considerable interest shown by the rail birds in attendance.

G. T. R.—H. Hurley, A. Meagher, A. Armstrong, V. Welr, Schreiber, C. Young.

SOCCER MEETING POSTPONED

The meeting of the executive of the Belleville Soccer League, which was called for Friday night at the Y.M.C.A. rooms, has been cancelled owing to the fact that the Secretary of the league, Mr. Frank Walsher, underwent an operation at the hospital this morning. Mr. Walshe received word that the players created in the selling of the leather works and as result, it has been found necessary to amputate his right finger of the left hand.

The meeting will be held early next week, and will be announced.

PARTOOK OF THE ANTIDOTE

A resident of Thurlow township yesterday obtained from a physician a prescription to obtain a quantity of alcohol to be used as a lotion. After procuring the alcohol the purchaser, instead of using it outwardly, used it on the inside, with the result that he became intoxicated and was apprehended by the police. At the police court this morning the case was investigated, with the result that a fine of $100 and costs was imposed for drinking in a public place and a fine of $10 and costs for being intoxicated. During the course of the proceedings the magistrate remarked that he was not altogether in favor of double-header charges being laid in similar circumstances.

HOW YOU CAN REMOVE EVERY TRACE OF HAIR

(Toilet Talks)

A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 3 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

DON'T BE BALD

At the first sign of failing hair don't wait another day but go to your druggist and get a bottle of Parisian Sage, the one really efficient hair saver.

Parisian Sage is a scientific preparation that supplies hair needs. It is guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching scalp, remove all dandruff and stimulate new hair to grow, or nothing to pay. It is easy to use, and the first application makes the hair and scalp look and feel 100% better.

If you want to save your hair begin using Parisian Sage tonight. It's not expensive and McKeown's Drug Store sells it with guarantee of money refunded if not satisfactory.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots—How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as the ordinary kind is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

With New Days Have Come New Methods

More ethical methods of course—of greater importance to the public, more thorough and scientific methods of visual diagnosis.

With a more intelligent public realization of the intimate relation between general physical discomfort and Optical Defects there arose a positive need for the Optometrist to apply himself to higher optical education; if he were to merit consideration by the better classes.

That our Optical Service is now appreciated is definitely attested by the steadily growing demands made upon it.

IMPORTANT WORK OF CHILD CLINICS

Do Great Work in Reducing Infant Mortality in Cities.

Records of Infant Mortality, show in a startling way, the depletion of the ranks of our future citizens. Added to the depletion caused by the tremendous sacrifice of our men, of life and health, during the war—the gives rise to serious thought. The economic loss to our country, demonstrated to our legislators and councillors, the need for official as well as voluntary co-operation in waging a more profitable war against disease, and for the cause of Health, on which is based the success, prosperity and happiness of the people.

As a result, life-saving and health-saving measures have been inaugurated with zeal and enthusiasm on the parts of both Health Officers and voluntary organizations.

Health Clinics are being opened up in all parts of the country. It is recognized that the earlier and more regular the supervision of the child's physical condition, the fewer will be the defects and troubles later in life.

The Child Welfare Clinics to be held in St. Thomas' Parish Hall, Bridge St., E., during the first week in May, will be the first of the kind opened in Belleville. Three will be held in session during the weeks that follow.

POLICE USE TEAR GAS

Regina, Man., April 12.—Tear gas was used by the police for the first time, routed several suspects from an apartment which had been besieged twelve hours.

The war material was brought into use when police, not caring to risk bullets which the besieged had threatened to send into the first one breaking open the door, could find no way to induce them to leave.

When the seven—five men and two women—finally stampeded out coughing and sneezing, they were found to be unarmed. A few minutes before they had been laughing at the detectives, chancellor, tyrant threats the tear gas, daring them to come in.

The suspects were wanted in connection with the robbery of Mrs. Jeanette Landers and sister, Miss. Wanda Blair, of $6,000 in jewelry last Sunday morning.

BACK TO WORK AGAIN—

quite a lot of us obtained wonderful results from using Zam-Buk. Worlds of misery were relieved by Zam-Buk. A doctor has often wonderful benefits in the worst cases, as proof as any testimonial could be. Cuts, wounds, sores and scalds that "resist" become inflamed or poisoned when antiseptic Zam-Buk is applied promptly.

"I was back on work in a week (month, in fact) from the accident," writes Mr. Hughes, 508, Beverley St., Winnipeg. "My hand caught in a revolving belt, and three fingers were badly mangled. After one week's use of Zam-Buk the wounds were all healed. Even worst sores soon began to heal."

Mr. C. Oakley, of Saskatoon, Sask., says:—"Down at the sleepyard I cut my leg badly. A doctor sewed up the wound and attended me for five weeks. It had gone on. So when I got round to try Zam-Buk. In two week I dollars' worth healed the limb splendidly."

Zam-Buk is specially valuable in cases of piles, eczema, ulcers, bad legs, etc. Rubby herbal. It's a most wonderful skin remedy.

COMMISSIONERS WILL INVESTIGATE POWER DEVELOPMENT

Drury Govt. Appoints Commission For Hydro Probe

Empowered by Sweeping Orders-in-Council to Enquire Into All Matters of Expenditure and Administration of the Hydro-Electric Commission — Five Members of the New Commission Are Selected.

PROMINENT CITIZENS ARE SELECTED

Walter Dymond, Gregory, Toronto, barrister.

Michael J. Haney, Fort Credit, contractor.

Lloyd Harris, Brantford, gentleman.

James Allan Ross, Toronto, manufacturer.

Robert Alexander Ross, Montreal, engineer.

The foregoing five gentlemen, whose names were submitted to the Legislature by Premier Drury yesterday last, before the House rose for the Easter recess, will compose the Royal Commission to investigate and report upon the Chippewa development scheme. The Commission was sent to the House was limited to the reading of the names, but the terms of the recommendation made by Mr. Drury to Council show that the Government is asking the Commission to probe and investigate that is at present authorized to accept. Since the Premier first began to speak from the Throne speech on the assumption of the Hydro situation, the burden of his observations had been the insufficiency of the Hydro engineers and the lack of frankness shown by the Commission in presenting estimates and other information to the Government. The statement of Hon. Doug. Hall Carmichael, Minister without portfolio, further accentuated the issue. The Drury Government, however, has traveled a long way since then, for while it still asks for an investigation into Hydro estimates and expenditures, it is apparently passing the very fee a probe into the engineering design and other technical features of the big scheme.

The mystery is deepening.

And that's not all. The Government has delegated to the Commission authority to investigate any other Hydro development as its own wishes will and gives it a roving commission to delve into not only constructions, but also day-to-day administration of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the Hydro municipalities, for the orders-in-Council gives power "to inquire into" not only "matters of expenditure and administration" by the said Commission."

In other words, the Government has appointed a commission to investigate not only Chippewa construction and other works, but the Hydro-Electric Commission itself.

Legislation to This Effect May Be Introduced In the Legislature at an Early Date.

Toronto, April 15.—Although it is denied that the attitude of the Toronto Board of Police Commissioners in the Small case has anything to do with it, there is a move on at the Parliament Buildings to change the law respecting the appointment of Police Commissioners.

At the present time Police Boards are made up of the Mayor, County Judge and Police Magistrate, by virtue of their offices. From the ranks of Labor has come the move for the election of Police Commissioners, and legislation may be introduced at any time.

This order is issued as a protection against potato canker, frogh which Canada is as yet free. VIOLET TAG DAY GOES OVER BIG Ladies and School Girls Conduct Big Sales Campaign Today.

With Belden clouds hovering overhead this morning, the ladies in charge of the Violet Tag Day, were naturally fearing that rain or snow might not be the success it should be, and the success everyone would like to see it in every respect. The encouraging report, however, that the weather was clearing, and that it had almost cleared up in Toronto, the ladies immediately began their day drive.

It announced in Thursday's issue of the Intelligencer, the proceeds of the Tag Day are to go to the Belleville General Hospital, and as this hospital is a county, as well as a city hospital, permission was secured from the Mayor to send a car to Trenton where baggage bobgoats and other floral forms of display will also be in evidence, the car being sent to Point Anne Shannonville, Corbyville and Foxboro, and Miss Potts has also conducted a car to Stirling.

An Intelligencer representative while hurrying along Front St. this morning met Mayor Bridge St. by a young lady who had a fine supply and assortment of violets, the quickly assumed the mission and handled the sale like a veteran, despite the fact as she acknowledged, it was also be her first sale. And such is the case on all streets of the city. The girls have their appointed corners or districts and it will be almost impossible to "get by."

Ontario Labor Party Holds Annual Convention at Hamilton.

URGE MINIMUM RATE

Government Asked to Provide Work or Full Maintenance.

Hamilton, Ont., April 14.—Matters of importance of labor men in Ontario were dealt with to-day, when the Ontario Labor Party held its annual convention at the Sons of England Hall. There were less than fifty delegates present, a rather slim attendance. Hamilton and Toronto had the largest representation, and there were not many delegates present from outside points.

J. W. Dunphy, Toronto, president of the body, opened the proceedings with a brief report, in which he referred to the success of the labor movement in succeeding in electing representatives to the Legislature, referring to the recent difficulties with the Hon. Mr. Murdock, Minister of Labor, in connection with the Toronto Bonds miners' strike. He said: "It can at least be said that labor representatives, through the working-class vote, compelled the Government to repudiate the policy of one of its Ministers, who demanded that labor be responsible in its fight with capital, but that capital is to be allowed to trample on the rights of the workers because of a time-honored policy aimed to defeat labor's interests."

He went on to say that a political Labor party was necessary to consolidate the forces of labor at election times. The sooner the trade unionist realized he was a class in society, and that such is the case on all sides, the quicker he would benefit, the president declared.

ILLEGAL FISHING A DEAR PASTIME

Considerable interest was manifested in the police court proceedings today presided over by Magistrate Masson, when nine parties were summoned to answer a charge of illegal fishing in Jones Creek. Sidney township, a short distance west of the city limits. It was alleged that the accused were spearing fish chiefly pike, and the charge was laid by a fishery inspector.

In nearly all the cases the accused were farmers. Two or three told the magistrate that this was the first time they were caught and they had been fishing for quite a few years. The men seemed to be quite peeved over this fact. Many of them, too, wanted to know who gave information but this was not disclosed. The nominal fine of $5.00 and costs was imposed in each case, every one pleading guilty.

TRENTON MAN ASPHYXIATED

Alfred Wesley, Machinist, Succumbs at Peterboro Gas Works, Wednesday

Alfred Mesley, employed at the gas works as a machinist and well-known in Peterboro through his affiliation with the Trades and Labor Council and his ready support of every movement for the common welfare, was asphyxiated Wednesday last while at work in the gas purifier. His body was found by Robert Morrison, assistant fireman about 11 a.m. Mr. Mesley was last seen around the plant about nine o'clock. His disappearance was not noted, however, for sometime and the employees were not uneasy as Mr. Mesley is making repairs in all parts of the plant was often not seen for hours. Mr. Morrison, however, after he had finished his lunch at 11 o'clock, resolved he would make a thorough search for him. He found the body on the floor of the purifier with head lying part way over the open pit.

Beside the body were the tools Mr. Mesley had been using in repairing a valve in connection with the purifying process. When conditions became unsafely low putting packing in to close up the open space, it is presumed by the employees that in attempting to do this accident may be discovered the leak in the valve and started in to repair it.

He was seen going into the building between eight and nine o'clock so that he may have lain in an unconscious condition of the floor for somewhere in the purifier is in a separate building at the rear of the main building on the 2 end floor and it is here that the main repairs are being made or being done.

Mr. Mesley was born in Trenton and came here. He had resided in the city upwards of twenty years, living in the East City part of this town. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Gordon Watt, and Marjory at home and one son William, 13 years old. Deceased was connected with the Masonic Lodge and was a Methodist in religious faith. He was also a labor citizen, serving as President of the Trades and Labour Council in 1921. Public morals and a worthy cause received his full support and in this connection it is recalled that he was greatly interested in the Old Home week planned to be held here this year but finally abandoned.

HARDING ADOPTS WATERWAY PLAN

Will Make Scheme for St. Lawrence Canalization Administrative Measure.

Toledo, O., April 14.—President Harding will make the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway project an Administration measure within the next 30 days, George E. Hardy of Toledo, Chamber of Commerce waterways Committee and spokesman for the Republican organization announced in an address to 8 state delegates.

"The president realizes that he has an opportunity here to render a great service to the people that even was rendered by President Roosevelt in sponsoring the building of the Panama Canal," Mr. Hardy said.

He said Congress will approve the project either in July or August, or in December of January, and prophesied completion of the construction by 1930.

"When the waterway is a reality rates for water transportation east-ward from Toledo will be as low as with those from New York and other eastern seaports," Mr. Hardy declared.

IMPRESSIONS OF AMERICAN TRIP

Local Delegations Return From Southbridge After Closing Big Deal.

MACHINES SOON.

New Industry Will Use Mineral Products of Hastings County.

Messrs. H. F. Ketchenson and Jamieson Bone, members of the delegation from the Belleville City Council and Chamber of Commerce, who were successful in securing the American Optical Co., of South Bridge, Mass., to locate in this city, from a field of at least six competitions; arrived here on Wednesday afternoon last. Mayor Chas. Emma and Mr. F. O. Henry, have not yet arrived home having gone on to investigate at least twelve other industrial prospects.

When interviewed by The Intelligencer, Mr. Bone stated that the deal was negotiated after a full day's deliberations with the Vice-President of the Company, Mr. A. B. Wills; the-President being away, and by the Wills Brothers. The company had sent two delegations to Belleville, and they had been very favorably impressed, not only by the appearance of the city, but also by the shipping facilities, a point of vital importance. The Graham building also suited them as they could wish to build a factory until they have been under operation for at least two years. The company, which is a closed corporation, and has no stock for sale, expect to secure a charter from this city, in anything reasonable that they require.

The American Plant.

The plant at Southbridge, Mass., is set in about fifty-acres of land, which is kept just like a park. They grow all their own vegetables, supply their electric, and partly steam. The costs and statistical department of the offices alone employ more than 100 employees, and altogether they employ some 3,000 hall of which are girls. A recreation hall, in which the girl employes may dance, play the piano, and have a general social time greatly impressed the delegation. A matron is in charge of this hall. For the men, they have tennis and baseball grounds. They do their own printing, and publish their own weekly paper.

Machinery Shipped

The machinery for the Belleville branch of the American Optical Co., will be on the road en route to this city in two days. In the manufacture of the lenses, gold filled, and other optical parts, the Company will employ about 100 men, and will be produced in North Hastings county, and it is their intention to open up one or more shops in the north part of the Canadian branch, but the American headquarters as well. Some of these parts are now shipped from North Hastings to Southbridge.

Belleville men will be employed, and as regards boarding, there are only two experienced men who the company will send here. This splendid achievement is the deliverance in the direct result of missionary work spread over a period of from two to three years, and we are sure we reap the benefits, as the company is very rich, with great possibilities.

It is necessary to spend money, in order to get results, as demonstrated by the City Council of other cities.

Impressions of the Trip

Mr. Bone states that the land about Southbridge, which is near Boston, is quite hilly with much gravel, and not nearly so well adapted to farming as the land surrounding this city. At Portland and Boston on Monday the delegation fairly sweltered in the remarkable temperature of 86 degrees

UNSIGHTLY PIMPLES AND FACE ERUPTIONS

One of the surest signs that the blood is out of order is the pimples, unsightly eruptions and eczema that appear frequently with the change from the long indoor life of winter has had its effect upon the blood, and that a tonic medicine is needed to put it right. Indeed, there are few people who do not need a tonic at this season. Bad blood does not merely show itself in disfiguring eruptions. To this are due countless day attacks of rheumatism and lumbago; the sharp stab-bing pains of sciatica and neuralgia; the appetite and it distinct to avoid exertion. You cannot get rid of these troubles by the use of purgative medicines—you need a tonic, and a tonic only, and among all medicines there is none can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for their tonic, blood-improving, nerve-restoring powers. Music and Drama

ROSE OF WASHINGTON SQUARE TO BE SHOWN NEXT WEEK

Rose of Washington Square, the star Frohman Company's presentation of Hardin Fiskwards and Myers latest musical comedy success is sailing along on the high waves of popularity and will be seen here at Griffin's next Thursday night, April 20th. It is a peppy show, full of rhythm, melody and merriment, played by a company of even excellence and enhanced by a chorus of youth, beauty and charm.

Arthur Blackaller, whose portrayal of the eccentric, poverty stricken North Carolina mountaineer who blossoms into a millionaire overnight, is the outstanding piece of comedy acting on the American stage to-day! Mr. Blackaller has all the artistry of Frank Bacon and then some. He keeps his audience guessing constantly—no comment on the point of a tear by a deft touch of pathos—the next laughing lobally at some irresistable piece of comedy.

Rose of Washington is a clean show. It supplies two and a half hours o' rare entertainment without resorting to suggestiveness, lewdness or double entendre. The eagerness of theatre-goers everywhere to see this unusual musical comedy is reflected in the demand for seats, which is resulting in capacity audiences nightly.

The entire original cast, chorus and production will be seen here.

"WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS" PLEASES KINGSTON AUDIENCE

The Kingston Standard in reviewing the opening performance of "What Every Woman Wants" by the Rex Stock Company, who are to present this comedy at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday speaks of the performance in the following terms:

The Rex Stock Company appeared at the Grand last night before one of the largest audiences that it has appeared before in some time and presented one of their funniest and best productions in "What Every Woman Wants". This story, perhaps the most amusing that the Rex Company has stared in Kingston since it played "Fair and Warmer" set the entire house in a whirl and kept the faces of the audience wreathed in smiles with an occasional laugh during the entire performance.

THE BEST AND BRAVEST PLAY

Judging from the large audiences at the Regent Theatre on Thursday and Friday, Eugene Brieux's great drama "Damaged Goods" has aroused much interest among Belleville theatregoers, as it has everywhere.

Brieux is generally considered as being in the front rank of writers in the school of French realists and "Damaged Goods" is his best known work. Some years ago, no less a star than Richard Bennett introduced "Damaged Goods" to New York. It at once scored a tremendous hit, not only because of the unconventional story it tells, but because of the wholesome truth it contains. At the conclusion of his New York engagement, Mr. Bennett toured the country and everywhere was well received. "Damaged Goods" being endorsed by nearly all the societies fighting against the social evil.

MONEY TALKS IN FINE BIG WALLINGFORD PHOTOPLAY

That money talks we all know, but that it comes in handiest when Rufus Wallingford begins to talk about it, is demonstrated in the Cosmopolitan production for Paramount art, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," a screen version of the popular play by George M. Cohan which was exhibited to a large audience at Griffin's yesterday.

How J. Rufus Wallingford and his associate in buncombe, "Blackie" Daw, make a fortune for themselves and the long-suffering folk on one borne town of Battlesburg, is an entrancing story which is well adapted for the screen. The details of their schemes present enough complications to make the picture interesting from first to last, and it is filled with amusing surprises for the audience and the two adventurers.

THE COAL STRIKE

MAY LAST MONTHS! NOBODY KNOWS!

Furthermore—Nobody knows what its termination may bring forth. Prices may be lower then, and they may not. Every coal dealer sincerely hopes, just as much as the consumer.

If the strike lasts a long time there may be a coal shortage in the fall.

In order to take care of those who feel like protecting themselves by taking in their coal now, we have made provision by stocking up with a limited quantity of fresh mined NUT, STOVE and EGG SCRANTON COAL.

We do not urge anyone to put in their coal now. In the absence of any positive information we cannot advise one way or the other. We can only point out the conditions as they exist and the possibilities. Every consumer must use his own judgment. Several of our customers have already ordered their coal delivered. As long as our stock lasts we shall be pleased to take orders at $16.50 delivered. First come—first served.

EXAMINATIONS AT BUSINESS COLLEGE

Students Conclude Easter Exams in All Schools on Thursday.

Examinations were concluded at the Ontario Business College on the various subjects on Thursday last, and the students have made a grand finish before the Easter vacation. There is a large attendance of pupils there, several coming from Quebec province, some from the West Indies, Trinidad and the United States. There is one student attending the college at the present time, who is the sixth brother to attend. Test examinations are held weekly at the Business College, and if a student fails he reviews his work and rewrites the examination the next week. One student, a graduate of McGill University received a position before book-keeping examination, getting 100 marks out of a possible 100. Many others are also received from old graduates who are doing well, and speak very highly of the excellent training they received.

Three books, "The Canadian Accountant", "Joint Stock Company Book-keeping" and "Commercial Notes, Drafts and Cheques", written by the late J. W. Johnston, founder of the College and Mr. Moore, and revised one year ago by the present principal, Mr. T. L. Moore, have been sold to every English-speaking country but South Africa. They are used by business collegers, Universities, accountants and business men the world over. They are now in their 18th edition.

Mr. Moore is ably assisted by four capable and efficient teachers, who pride themselves on thorough work and twentieth century efficiency.

The students are taught book-keeping in a very practical manner, those being bank, wholesale house and purchasing house, correctly represented and managed by senior students. In this manner, an excellent grasp of business methods is gained by the students and they are well fitted for their future life, in business, offices, principally. Many graduates have become teachers in other business colleges, and several are now principals of colleges.

Similar examinations have also been written off at all the colleges in the city.

John D. Rockfeller, Jr., is accompanied by detectives even when he goes to church on Sunday. His bodyguard is here seen walking just behind him.

School Girls' Nerves

"I give my children Nerve Food during examinations and am sure it helps them," writes a Vancouver lady.

AFTER the long school term the children's nerves are keyed up to the highest pitch. The fear and worry of examinations are often the last straw which brings the nervous breakdown.

It is usually the naturally nervous child who has the greatest ambition, and by denying his or herself the requisite amount of outdoor exercise comes up to the examinations with too little energy and vitality left.

Fortunately the child's system quickly responds to such restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The blood is enriched, the nerve cells are replenished and health and vigor is soon restored.

Mr. S. F. Flarity, Warton, Ont., writes:

"My daughter, eleven years of age, was in a run-down condition and suffered from a nervousness which showed a tendency toward St. Vitus' dance. I got a few boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for her, and by the time she had taken three boxes there was a big change in her. She is much stronger, and her system in general is built up. She has recovered from her nervous weakness, and you could not detect a trace of it now."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is in a class by itself as the most popular of nerve restoratives. 50c a box, at dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

CHRIST IS RISEN

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above."—Col. III:1.

The greatest fact in universal history is the Resurrection of Christ. The answer to the fruitless quest of the first disciples of Jesus that first Easter morning was, "Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, He is risen. Come and see the place where the Lord lay." He was the first to rise and, in that sense, "the first fruits of them that slept" and "the first born from the dead." He was verily dead. Now He is verily alive. With wonder the loved disciples beheld the empty tomb, and went forth to re-echo the joyful news "He is risen"—"the Lord is risen indeed." And thus became witnesses to the greatest miracle of the ages. This is the premising truth of the Christian religion—Christ is risen from the dead.

Christ who lived has risen from the dead; what follows must be true as an inevitable result — the members of His body have risen with Him. But when will power be realized in our experience until we have learned the other half of the truth, that makes "the golden circle which joins the head to the doctrine and life of the Christian—how they died with Him, and how also they lived with Him can rise with Him. "For if we have been planted with Him in the likeness of His death, we shall be raised with Him in the likeness of His resurrection." This should be to us a doctrine to live by. It should be a fact in our Christian experience. The lesson for Easter, therefore, is of some value to us in so far as we can make it practical in our daily life by dying daily to sin and living daily unto God; and this can be done more realized by sincerely considering the dealing and keeping the spirit in view, without endeavor to attain. Over will be a high aim in the public ambition when we can say with the apostle Paul—"that I may know the power of His resurrection, and the fellowship of His sufferings, becoming conformed unto His death: if by any means I may attain unto the resurrection from the dead." What, then, is the true meaning of Easter to us?

The Meaning of Easter.

The preacher has a full-orbed gospel to proclaim. If it were merely that Jesus, who was said to be the Son of God, had died, and that for our sins, had was buried in the tomb by Joseph of Arimathea—and nothing more than that, what a pathetical gospel to come from Heaven. The disciples of the Christ are left with the gloom of the tomb hanging over them. The story of Calvary is full of darkness and blackness forever. But Christ is risen. He is proclaimed to be the Son of God with power by His rising from the dead. The paralyzed hope made dark by the cross has been revived and heightened by the light and glory of that first Easter morn. This is the gospel he proclaim, "Go tell my disciples that I am risen. This is the power and glory of the Christian ministry, to preach a risen Christ.

This is the true basis for the Christian faith—a fundamental fact—that Christ rose again, according to the scriptures. Doctrines, types and parables will never be a solid basis for our faith—they merely appeal to the intellect and imagination. We must have what will satisfy the heart and soul—something abiding and unchanging. The daily, sacrificial and the great day of atonement were divinely appointed and observed for centuries by God's chosen people, but did not satisfy God nor man, they had their day and ceased to be.

"Dead all the days of Moses
On Jewish altars slain,
Can give the guilty conscience
Peace, or wash away the stain."

But Christ risen is the true basis for faith. We believe that Jesus died and rose again. Our faith in Him and rose again for our justification. We were in the prison while He was in the tomb. But our punishment was not cancelled until He had paid the uttermost farthing. But when all was paid He could not be holden; He came forth to set His people free. This is the heritage of faith.

The believer rises with Christ in His resurrection. He came to "preach deliverance to the captives and the opening of prison to them that are bound." Jesus at the raising of Lazarus said, "Loose him and let him go." Are we doing our part in setting the captives free? Have we risen with Christ to stand on resurrection ground? It should be our daily aim and experience. We never help to set others free ourselves. The question needs to be changed today—from "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" to "Why are the living among the dead?" You are the living among the dead? You are saying, we fear, are living among the ungodly elements of the world when they ought to be on a high plain of Christian living. We need to raise the standard of Christ high—then depth that there may be fewer failures in the ranks. We have been loose and liberal at the expense of our high calling. Glorious principles and principles have been forgotten or neglected for the sake of material gain or pleasures that are worldly, sensual and devilish. This is true even of Baptist churches. We are afraid that some have found their way into the fold and fellowship of redeemed and baptized believers and they have never even died with Christ. Brethren, we must learn to die with our blessed Lord before we can live with Him. To be true, we must die unto sin once, and reckon the old man—our carnal nature—dead unto sin; then rise in Christ to live a new and thenceforth walk in newness of life. This is the only true meaning of Easter (resurrection) that is practicable for us today (I. Cor. xv:14). And this leads me to my next thought —What is the true motive for Easter?

The Motive for Easter.

"If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God." We cannot find the motive for Easter in the empty tomb. We must find it where Christ is, at the right hand of God.

Back of motive is desire. What do we desire for Easter? Is it flowers? Is it that parish, or mere emblems of life instead of life itself? Beautiful as these things are, they are not enough. What is far better: Do you feel the throb of the new life, the hidden life, in your soul today? Do you desire to live and shine for Jesus? Is there not some noble purpose in your heart responding to the impulse? Have you a larger horizon since you learned the meaning of the Easter message—"Christ is risen!" Then your motive will be a motto for life: "For me to live is Christ." In this you find your supreme desire and highest motive. Dear friend, rest not until you can have the blessed assurance "I in heaven but Thee! and there is none on earth that I desire beside Thee."

This motive finds its expression in witnessing for Christ. And we can find Scripture for Him by first having real fellowship with Him. Let His talk to us by the way until "our hearts burn within us." As the first disciples, our eyes may be "holden" that we do not know Him, lest we too bid Him tarry He may give us a real vision of Himself, and we shall be "eye witnesses of His majesty." Then we can truly witness and say, "We have seen the risen Christ ourselves, our own eyes have beheld Him."

"I have been alone with Jesus,
I tell me out of sight beside
I have seen the face of Jesus,
And my soul is satisfied."

Witness for Him by the silent life, that speaks in deeds, so you can be "a living epistle known and read of all men." This is the divine motive and intention in leaving us here—that we may be witness-bearers for the risen Christ. Each one should hear the "go ye" or "Go tell" from the Risen One for himself and herself. "I will be with thee" and the "power" will be fulfilled in the experience of each obedient disciple.

Aim at the high ideal in the motto, "To live is Christ." Let Christ live, live Christ in this life down here. Live the loving, living, all-powerful Christ in your daily life. Not to live only let Him rule your life, but be your life. Live in Him, with Him and for Him. Let Him live and His affections will be set on spiritual things, on the things above where Christ lives now. His love will rise to the One who has gone on high, who "has led captivity captive" today! Surely the love in loving Christ he will desire to possess His righteousness which He has made available for us, which He has made by the blood of His Christ; he will long for this satisfying peace which passeth all understanding, and further, he prays for the joy of the Holy Ghost to fill his soul. The true believer desires and longs and prays for the gifts of Christ. He loves Christ and he has set his affections on these things which Christ has to bestow. The power of his intellect in making these spiritual things his own will be employed in this way. He will set his mind on these things and think of them so long and so intently and earnestly that he will find them molding his life and character and becoming the chief qualities of his life. O the power of thought! "Think on these things."

We see that the meaning of Easter is life, full of power and blessing for the present and the future. Have we risen with Christ? Is it springtime in our souls today? Surely the winter is past, for the singing of birds is heard in the land. If you have felt the power of the Christ's risen life in soul, and you feel it now, then the true motive for Easter is how best to express your life in union with the Christ by word, and deed and life. And feeling, too, that this is only the beginning of a larger life for you see that you keep before you the high ideal—the perfect and glorified life. In the meantime, we have yet to attain in the perfecting of our life by the earnest seeking of the things that are above through the effort of mind, heart and will, that we may be ready for the manifestation of the sons of God at the appearing of Christ. This is the lesson for Easter-tide.

"In bough top and in briar,
Spring's hidden fire,
Calls up with free delight
All things to life and light.

"Again earth feels the thrill
From hill to hill,
And youth must have its will.

"New strivings and new hopes—
Buds and new leaves
Like flowers on genial slopes.

"The sky is warm and wide—
For it is Easter-tide."

VETERANS FORM COMMITTEES IN N. BRUNSWICK

Report on Pensions and Insurance Will Soon be Ready.

A considerable amount of interest is manifest in the scheme of organization of the select parliamentary committee on pensions, soldiers' and re-establishment, which has been announced. Instead of having the whole committee receive the evidence relating to all questions under its jurisdiction, it has been divided into three groups, each of which will deal with a separate phase of re-establishment and draft their conclusions for the consideration of the whole body. If this plan is as successful in practice as it is in theory the committee's task will be greatly facilitated.

Pensions, soldiers' civil re-establishment and insurance, and soldiers' land settlement are the three general divisions of the work. A fourth sub-committee composed of the chairman, vice-chairman and two other members, will deal with all correspondence and allocate the work to the three general committees.

The members of these sub-committees are as follows:—

Pensions—J. F. Carroll; J. J. Denis, Dr. Matthew McKay, K. C. Chisholm, T. J. Humphreys, W. Ross, Georgi Black, J. A. Clark, J. L. Brown, and J. A. Wallace.

Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment and Insurance—Dr. A. W. Chisholm, A. Stork, F. J. Pelletier, W. C. Raymond, Major A. Arthurs, Miss A. Macphail and Dr. Murray MacLaren.

Soldiers' Land Settlement—Speakman; C. C. Ferrer, O. Turgeon, W. Forrester, E. A. Munro, Andrew Knox, D. Sutherland, A. E. Arsenault, R. Ross, A. B. Hudgen and E. W. Hutchinson.

General—Herbert Marler (chairman of the select committees), Dr. A. W. Chisholm, (vice-chairman); A. Speakman, J. A. Arthurs.

The first general session of the re-establishment committee was held on Tuesday morning, but the real work of will not commence until after the Easter recess of parliament. The House will reconvene on April 18th.

G.W.V.A. STRONG IN N. BRUNSWICK

Splendid Organization and Branch Meetings Held There Recently.

The province of New Brunswick is in so well headed the remainder of Canada for organizing a strong revival of interest in the G. W. V. A. The Dominion president, R. B. Maxwell, who returned to Ottawa on Tuesday after a brief tour of the province, stated that existing branches were steadily increasing in membership, and other branches which had fallen into a state of inactivity were being revived. There is generally an appreciation of the national work of the association, both among ex-service men and civilians. Mr. Maxwell visited St. Stephen where the branch is putting the finishing touches to a fine new club house and also planting the erection of a war memorial; Woodstock where he found expanding membership, a good bank account and tentative plans for securing suitable quarters for the club; Fredericton where the branch is on a sound footing with good officers and public support; John where the branch, encouraged by a splendid club house has done much good work among the returned; Moncton where he found the branch in a flourishing condition, and Sackville where the members paraded 200 strong, to welcome him at the interior station, and where he also met the officers of the New Castle branch which is undergoing complete reorganization. The Sackville branch reorganization is also in progress. Speaking at public gatherings in each place Mr. Maxwell was greeted by splendid audiences composed both of veterans and civilians, and received the assurance of support reported to Mr. Maxwell as being in relatively the same position as those visited.

TWO PREMIERS AT ... ONTARIO CONVENTION

The Ontario Provincial convention of the G. W. V. A. is to be especially favored at their convention which opens in Ottawa on April the 20th had continuing the 21st and 22nd. Hon. E. C. Drury, premier of the province, have both accepted invitations to address the opening meeting. The Dominion president of the association, R. B. Maxwell, and the provincial president Col. E. D. O'Flynn, will deliver addresses of welcome.

It is perhaps a coincidence that the first provincial convention for Ontario was held in Ottawa just five years ago. There were 27 delegates present, all of whom had been returned to Canada as unfit for further active service.

PAYMENTS AT PAR ... TO IMPERIALS

The Pensions and post-war pay adjustments to ex-Imperial soldiers and dependents with pre-war domicile in Canada will continue to be payable at par as a result of prompt action taken by the Dominion command, C. W. V. Act, Mr. H. A. Bruce, M.P., was advised by officers of the association that no provision had been made in the federal estimates for the amount involved in adjusting these payments to full value in Canadian funds. The matter was at once referred to the attention of the minister with the request that per payments be continued until the special parliamentary committee on pensions and re-establishment had an opportunity of making a further recommendation. This request was concurred in. On April the 10th the Minister of Finance, Hon. W. S. Fielding re-affirmed the decision to answer in a question in the House of Commons.

THE 'LADIES' AUXILIARIES

Mrs. W. R. Morris, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G. W. V. A. branches are Amigari, Fort Erie, Sudbury, Kitchener, Richmond Hill and Aurora. In the Western provinces there are very few branches without auxiliaries.

The work accomplished by the women's organizations has been described as one of the vitalizing factors of the G. W. V. A. branches, and this emphasizes this point in her recent report when she stated: "Cordial relations between G. W. V. A. branches and the women's auxiliaries must increase the usefulness of both bodies. The women of the auxiliaries are learning at first hand of the efforts being made by the G. W. V. A. to help all veterans and feel bonded in being asked to assist in this work."

MILK AND TUBERCULOSIS.

The Hamilton Board of Health is anxious to have a bylaw passed making the pasteurization of all milk sold to Hamilton consumers compulsory. In view of the facts known to the facts known to the medical authorities, it is not difficult to account for the Board's anxiety. If the public could only be brought to a proper appreciation of conditions, it would be just as prudent in its demands for the enforcement of this simple, but effective precaution against an extremely dangerous disease. The relationship between an infected milk supply and tuberculosis is too well attested for dispute. A recent writer, quoting from the Canadian Veterinary Record, instanced the case of five children who had contracted the disease from the milk of an infected cow. This occurred in Illinois, but it is just as likely to happen anywhere else where laxity is displayed in the testing of cattle and in the treatment of raw milk. In the case referred to a farmer had had his cows tested for tuberculosis, one animal reacting to the test. The pitiful story proceeds: "Instead of destroying her, the farmer declared the test undependable, removed the ear tag and sold her to his hired man for wages. Of seven children in the man's family, five have contracted pronounced cases of tuberculosis. The other two did not drink this cow's milk. A pig and cat also contracted the disease after drinking the milk."

Canada is evidently much ahead of the United States in respect of the pasteurization of milk, judging by statistics just made public by the U. S. Department of agriculture. The report states that "in 1915 more than 70 per cent. of the cities of 75,000 to 100,000 had no pasteurized milk, but during the last year all of them had some part of the supply pasteurized. The increase in pasteurization in small cities is particularly striking. Take, for example, those from 10,000 to 25,000 population. In 1915 about 40 per cent. had pasteurized milk, but in 1921 nearly 61 per cent. had it. Even in cities below 10,000 pasteurization is becoming more common."

It should not be a matter of percentages at all, but the aim in the towns and cities of Canada should be to secure complete pasteurization of the whole supply. The prejudice which exists in the minds of some against the sterilization process is declared by experts to be unfounded. Proper pasteurization is said to leave the nutritive and chemical properties of milk unaffected, while destroying all harmful bacteria.

GAS WARFARE.

A Brigadier-General Amos A. Fries, who happens to be the chief of the chemical warfare service of the United States army, at the present time, is reported to have stated recently that "gas as used in war, was the most humane weapon yet devised," and that "confinively gas, on the whole, causes no permanent disabilities."

Well, by virtue of his position and probable advanced technical knowledge on the subject, he ought to know. But—! We wonder what the men who have really experienced the ghastly horrors of gas-warfare will think of his opinion. Probably the General could supply—with an air of advanced knowledge of the subject—high-sounding phrases and technical terms to prove his statements, but we again wonder if he was present on the Ypres front on that horrible April day in 1915, when the Canadians were thrown into the breach caused by the brave French troops having been caught unawares by this dread weapon? If he was with the Canadians on their march into the line on that day and met French soldiers by the hundred staggering blindly along the shell-swept road with their tongues hanging from their mouths, and clutching their throats with their hands, gasping for breath? If he saw them dropping dead in their tracks, by the score, and if he, with his comrades, marched bravely into this unknown horror, echoing the words over and over again, "My God! What can it be?" Can this scientific general be blind that he has failed to see the physical wrecks around us—men who are merely shadows of this "humane' war weapon? Why are opinions from such men inflicted on a poor suffering public in this manner? And coming from such a source! Where ignorance is bliss tis folly to be wise.

A CAUSE FOR GLOOM

New York Globe

An archaeologist who is of a philosophic turn of mind must become very gloomy as he contemplates the highly organized civilization of ancient times and reflects on the trifling advance measured in human terms, of the past few thousand years.

LIFE'S FIRST LESSON

London Daily Chronicle

The first lesson we have to learn in life is that all things are comparative.

Affairs have an awkward knack of going wrong. It is true, but, on the other hand, a great many things must go right or else we should not notice it troubled. To get the best out of existence we have got to measure one happening against another, and not to jump to conclusions from the observance of an isolated fact.

THE FLIM-FLAM GAME

Brooklyn Eagle

One of the curious slips made at the hearings of the aliens was the information given out by miners and operators that the trouble is expected to last two months. It is the work did they arrive at this conclusion? The answer is simply that the surplus coal stored on hand will be sufficiently diminished in two months to make peace more profitable than war to miners and operators. The public, of course, will then pay for the losses involved.

WOMEN POLICE

London Daily News

The work of the women police, indeed by the rather restricted tests to which it has been subjected, has been so valuable that in not very far distant future no civilized community will probably be without this special force. The need for immediate retrenchment is urgent, and the Government's refusal to continue the experiment is not surprising; but we think that the economy effected will be shown in the result to be short-sighted. It costs more to maintain numbers of women police than to maintain a small force of women to keep them out of prison.

WHERE MY DEAR MOTHER LIES

Killarney, my Killarney, your beauty's surely rare!
Such lakes and fens and heathery glens are only over there!
Full oft in boyhood days I roamed along thy rippling rills;
Full oft have watched at eventide the sunset from thy hills.
Fond memories of those bygone days come crowding to my mind—
The scenes, the hours, the sad goodbyes, and friends I left behind.
But dearer far than all these scenes beneath the Irish skies
Is that little mound adown the vale where my dear mother lies.

The Wrong Suggestion

The colored minister of a small southern church decided to hold a home-talent entertainment to raise funds for the church. Members who had talent were asked to take part. One old darkey, who claimed to be a clarinet player, was slighted. He went to the minister.

"Parson, why do you all leave me out ob de show?"

"Why, Sam, what can you do?"

"I kin play de clarinet."

The minister assured Sam that he would be on the program. After several numbers the minister announced a solo by a clarinet player, Brother Sam Brown.

Sam bowed and began to play. For five minutes he evolved one simple harsh wail and over. The audience became impatient. One large negro could stand the monotony no longer. He rose and demanded, "Whut you call dat?"

There was silence. The minister asked: "Who am so rude as to call dat clarinet player a fool?" There was no response. The minister repeated his inquiry. No reply. "For de third and last time, who called dat clarinet player a fool?" angrily asked the minister.

Another negro rose and said: "Pardon, sir, am making a mistake. De question am not 'Who called dat clarinet player a fool?' but it am, 'Who called dat fool a clarinet player?'"—Judge.

PRINCE OF WALES VIEWS MEMORIAL

H. R. H. Visits Magnificent Building and Park of Emperor Meiji.

Tokio, April 13.—A visit to Japan's magnificent memorial building and park, dedicated to her beloved Emperor Meiji, is included on the program of the official visit to Japan of Prince of Wales during the week he will spend in Tokio. So says one of Prince Regent Hirohito and the Imperial government.

Although Emperor Meiji died just a decade ago, his mausoleum and the beautiful memorial park surrounding it has taken a place in the hearts of the Japanese that is not rivalled by the reverence America holds for her Arlington Cemetery or England for her Westminster Abbey.

This may be traced to the fact that the Meiji Shrine, unlike the national memorials of most other countries, is a product of the present generation. The million of yen to construct it were raised by popular subscription and the tremendous amount of labor entailed was given by the young men of the nation.

The buildings are of pure Shinto architecture.

The massive pillars and cross beams of the Torii, at the entrance to the shrine, were cut in the Alishan Mountains of Formosa and brought to Tokio.

Scores of giant trees, married and twisted by centuries were taken bodily with tons of their native earth, from the high-road between Kamakura and Kyoto and transplanted in Meiji park. Volunteer workers and freely given funds accomplished this almost Herculean task.

Although the park was first opened to the public less than a year ago, millions of pilgrims from all parts of the empire have come here to pay their tribute of homage and respect.

Memorial to Early Explorer Takes form of Primitive Fort

"KOOTENAY HOUSE," RESTORED HUDSON BAY POST AT INVERMERE, B.C.

Victory to the tourist region about Lake Windermere in southern British Columbia, will find a reminder there not early days. The Hudson's Bay Company is building a replica of their first post in this region. It was known as "Kootenay House" and was built by the intrepid astronomer and surveyor, David Thompson, in 1808 on the shores of lovely Lake Windermere.

David Thompson, a pupil at the Hudson's Bay Company's college, was raised to the Hudson Bay Company for the services of his grandfather. The company sent him to Canada where he soon exhibited great powers. He left Hayes River with a party, in 1797, for with three companions, two of them Indians, made their way from Hudson's Bay to Lake Athabasca. On his return to York Fort he was informed that the company would make no more explorations and that he was not part of a job. S He did not allow this discourage him, but set off immediately with two Indians for Grand Portage where he obtained an appointment as astronomer for the North West Company whose headquarters were at that point.

All astronomer he visited the company's various posts and while in the Lake-of-the-Woods region in Manitoba, located the source of the Mississippi River. Many years were spent in surveying the western wilds, travelling by dog team and canoe. Then, early in 1807-08 was spent at Kootenay House with his "little family." He left behind him a son and children, as he termed. In October, 1810 he set out to trace the Columbia River from its source to its mouth and was the first white man to do this, arriving at Astoria, Oregon, in July, 1811. The trip was accomplished despite great perils. Thompson died at the age of 87, poor and unappreciated by those whose wilderness he broke to the tourist region about Lake Windermere.

Make the Rinso liquid first

Do not put Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first for best results.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth disides you will have a clear amber coloured liquid; put it in the tub of cool or lukewarm water and you have enough for a batch of clothes. Soak one hour, two hours or overnight, and rinse.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. As an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headaches and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY PRICE."

Grand Trunks Win City Basketball Championship

G. T. R. WIN FOOTBALL GAME

Grand Trunks Defeat Some of England to Opening Fixture.

A good crowd was present to see the exhibition game between the G.T.R. and the R.O.S., which the G.T.R. won by 1 to 0. The Englishmen won the toss and chose the advantage of the slight breeze. Kicking off the Hickins got away on the wing to the other end but was smartly pulled up by Gill and the ball travelled to the other end, but Johnson relieved. The Trunks got away again but was pulled for offside and Fuller put Jenkinson in possession to make a good run Mid-field play followed, both teams being evenly matched. Blimey and Lancaster pressed but Peters saved. End to end play followed and Gormley pulled down a nice drive from Maker. The railroaders forced a couple of corners but they were cleared, and the R.O.S. were soon at the other end attacking, and Robinson gave a corner which eventually was cleared. Both sides were now showing good combination but the defence was good. Neither keep seemed to be able to score. Shannon put in a couple of nice shots for the railroaders but Peters cleared. Page and Maker now got away but Taylor and Griffiths broke up the attack and, passing to Grant, he gave to Hickins, but his centre was cleared. Half time came with no score.

After the interval, both teams went on, to win and after some nice play between Summers, Lancaster and Blimey, the latter scored with a hard drive, getting the goalie little chance. The R.O.S. not to be denied, were soon at the other end, Scales getting in a good shot which just went over the bar. From the goal kick the Trunks went to the other end, but Cross and Baker relieved, but the railroaders were soon back again and Barry robbed Lancaster when near goal. The R.O.S. forced a corner which was headed away and Robinson put Blimey away, who went between the backs to score the second goal. The R.O.S. now pressed and Fuller drifted in front a scramble. They were pressing when the whistle blew, leaving the Trunks winners of a good class game. The referee was Mr. Thompson who handled the game with every satisfaction. The line-up:

G.T.R.—Goal, Gorman; backs, Griffiths and Johnson; halves, Summers, Taylor and Grant; forwards, Hickins, Robinson, Lancaster, Hickin and Gussley.

R.O.S.—Goal, Peters; backs, Fuller and, Baker; halves, Cross, Barry and Gill; forwards, Slater, Scales, Page, Fuller and Jenkinson.

PARS SHOW DISAPPROVAL

GOLF SEASON OPENS THIS MONTH

London, April 15.—There is every evidence that the 1922 golfing season will be no less interesting than that of last year, when teams of United States amateurs and professionals made organized attempts to annex our championships.

"Jock" Hutchinson, of Chicago, who won at St. Andrew's last year, is expected to return to this country in the near future in order to defend his title in the open championship, even if Royal St. George's, Sandwich, in June, Hutchinson, it is expected, will be accompanied by Walter Hagen, holder of the United States professional golfers' championship, and Jim Barnes, and no doubt a dozen other prominent golfers from the States will follow later. The American contingent hope to compete in the One Thousand Guinea Tournament at Gleneagles, in which last year Hutchinson reached the final, but was defeated by beaten by Mitchell.

The first golfing event of real importance this year will be decided this month at St. Andrews, when a miniature professional championship for a prize of £200 will be played over 36 holes. Following this comes the British Ladies Championship at Princes, Sandwich, in May. Miss Marion Hollins, the reigning American Champion, some time ago announced her intention of taking part in the championship or the third year in succession. A survey of the Princess course was made recently, and as a result of this survey the claim is put forth that this course is in all probability, the longest one in the world. The actual measurement showed that, from the very back tees the outward half of the course measured 3,389 yards, and the homeward nine holes measured 3,286 yards, or just 15 yards over four miles for the entire course.

Following the Ladies' Championship, the next event of importance in the Amateur Championship at Prest wick, scheduled for the early part of June. William Hunter, the present holder will, it is hoped, be able to defend his title. Four of the most distinguished of British golfers—Harry Vardon, of South Herts; Ted. Ray, Oxhey; Abe, Mitchell, of North Foreland and James Bradbeer, of Porter's Park, will take part in matches over the Porter's Park at Radlett on May 21.

TWO MORE GAMES OF INDOOR BALL

K.V.A. Oust Intell. and Grand Trunks Defeat K. of C. Nine.

Two snappy, and very exciting games of baseball were played last Thursday evening at the Armouries, in which the K. V. A. scored a win over the Intell by the score of 33 to 13, and the G. T. R. won from the F. of C. by 24 to 12.

The Intell team was weak in the field, the players hanging onto the ball too long. The K. V. A. pitcher was fast, striking out many batsmen in the pitcher department. Hutchinson alternated with Anderson and several other changes were made but it made no difference in strengthening the Intell aggregation.

The game between the G. T. R. and the K. of C. was a close game as the score shows, although the G. T. R. were not at any time in danger of losing. Smith, the pitcher for the G. T. R. was very fast, striking many men out. Their fielders, also were very strong, always getting the ball and snapping it to first base. The K. of C. pitcher did not strike out many men.

The hat was passed amongst the fans to defray the expenses of lights, and the sum of $3.25 was received.

The line-up for the teams were as follows:

K. V. A.—Hinds, 1st b; Badgely, 2nd b; Frechette, r.f; Arnott, c.f; Anderson, 2nd b; Vandervoort, s.s; Wheeler, c; Myers, l.f; Leslie, p.

Intell.—Anderson, p; B. Scott, 1st b; L. Mason, c; Brown, lf; Hutchinson, 2nd b; Dragrott, s.s; J. Mason, r.f; McLeod, 3rd b; R. Scott, c.f.

G. T. R.—Meagher, 3rd b; V. Weir, c; Smith, p; Mills, c; Young, 1st b; Myles, 2nd b; A. Weir, c.f; Ford, r.f; Minette, l.f.

K. of C.—Garvin, b; Doran ss; Harris, c.f; Herter, p; H. Whalen, 1st b; Hart, 2nd b; J. Barrett, rf; D. Whalen, 3rd b; Fennel, l.f;

SPORT STUFF

Philadelphia baseball fans have an exciting season ahead. Both teams hope to get out of last place.

Stanley Coveleskie, Cleveland's star pitcher, says he is through experimenting. This year he intends to stick to the fast ball and spitter. Now, if he will run out of saliva, American league batters will be satisfied.

"Goose" Goslin, highly touted Washington recruit, broke training and was suspended before the season was opened. All of which seems to prove that he has been properly nicknamed.

Wonder if the fact that the Cleveland club took Umpire Chill south had anything to do with the frost the spring training trip has proved to be!

Kai Sang, who had a big season on the turf in 1921, is conceded more than a Chinaman's chance to win the Louisville derby.

Ty Cobb says he intends to keep his veteran pitchers south until a few days before the opening of the season. He will then come north. No one should be more familiar with these southern railroad schedules than Mr. Cobb.

A star college athlete is in danger of being declared ineligible because he is too far advanced in his studies. Once again proving there are exceptions to every rule.

Max Flack, Chicago outfielder, was hit by a pitched ball recently, rendered unconscious and suffered a fractured skull. Yet some Chicago critics have accused Flack of lacking brains.

GRAND TRUNKS CITY CHAMPS

Grand Trunk Basketball Team Defeat J. A. C. for City Championship.

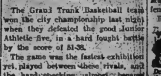

The Grand Trunk Basketball team won the city championship last night when they defeated the good Junior Athletic five, in a hard fought battle by the score of 31-25.

The game was the fastest exhibition yet, played between these rivals, and the hard-checking almost became classed as rough at some stages of the game. The Grand Trunks had the edge on the J.A.C. although the J.A.C. also worked fine combination. The rail-roaders were evenly matched, one and all, and were "on" when it came to shooting, especially Weir who made many points for his team. The line-up:

Grand Trunks—Hurley, r.f.; Meagher, l.f.; Armstrong, c.; Weir and Schwaker, defence; Young, spare.

J.A.C.—Cole, r.f.; Marshall, l.f.; Masters, c.; Allen and Yeomans, defence; Bibell, spare.

Referee—Vern Ferris.

Railwaymen present declared that it was impossible for their companies to carry out such a request if the Legislature saw fit to make it law. One

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

DECORATING YOUR OWN VASES

With the coming of Spring and Summer the housewife who likes her home to be bright and cheerful looks, naturally turns her thoughts to her supply of vases with which Nature's gay blooms. Some of her supply, perhaps, was broken last year; some of them may have proved inadequate in size and coloring for the flowers oftenest available for home decoration; or again, some of them may not have looked artistic enough to be placed in the living or dining room.

I believe this last matter is to prove the most serious in the average home. For, a really tasteful vase is usually such an expensive ornament that few of us possess more than one of this variety—if, indeed we possess even that one!

So today I am going to tell you of a way that we can all have artistic vases with a very slight outlay of expense. And that way is—to make them ourselves! This sounds like magic, yet a clever woman in this line has done it most successfully as follows:

Buy a few tubes of artists' oil paint, and a few small stiff-bristled brushes to apply it with. Good colors to use at first are grey, old-rose and delft blue.

Next, collect all the cheap glass vases you have on hand, or the inexpensive which you have found unsatisfactory in color, and experiment on the one you care for the least. Squeeze a little of the old-rose paint onto a palette (or any smooth-surfaced board) dip the brush in this, and paint the entire glass or china vase. This old-rose coat of paint must dry thoroughly before you apply paint of a contrasting color. When it is quite dry, squeeze some of the gray oil paint from its tube and simply "drag" this gray paint onto the vase, over the old-rose shade. The gray should be "dragged on" in streaks, not at all evenly—in fact, the more uneven the streaks, the better. Do not attempt to cover all the pink paint. In some places, apply the gray thinly so that the pink shows through it slightly; in other places apply it thickly.

The blue paint, used exactly as the old-rose, with grey put on over it in streaks as described above, gives equally beautiful results. Or one may use yellow for a foundation paint on the vase and then "drag on" brown paint over the yellow. Select your own color combinations. It is a good plan to have a piece of flat window glass handy on which to paint the various color combinations on before putting them on a vase. (Or an old piece of broken china may be used for this testing work.)

And the best part of it all is that painting like this is an invalid who spends her life in a wheel chair and who keeps herself happy with similar delightful occupations. Some day I am going to tell you about things she makes, in the hope that other invalids, as well as well people, may also enjoy making them.

Tomorrow—Some Useful Recipes.

SOME USEF UL RECIPES

Spread thinly with butter, then cut the slices in one-third inch cubes, put these cubes in a buttered pan, and bake them until a delicate brown.

Grapefruit-Nut Salad for a Guest Meal: Cut 1 large grapefruit into small pieces, discarding all the thin core part, and mix with this pulp 1 cup of walnut-meats which have been chopped not too finely. Make a boiled salad dressing and pour over it. Especially dainty.

Meat Cakes: Put 1 or 2 pounds of cooked beef through the meat grinder. Now mix together 2-3 cup of vinegar, 1 tablespoon of sugar, 1 teaspoon of mustard, and 1 raw egg; turn this into a saucepan and when it has boiled, stir the chopped meat into it. Let cool, and then make into cakes. Cook in heat when served very cool on lettuce leaves.

Old Fashioned "Snow Balls": This is a delicious guest dessert. Cream ½ cup of butter, add 1 cup of sugar, the well-beaten whites of 4 eggs, ½ cup of sweet milk, and 2 cups of flour sifted with 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Fill buttered cups about half full with this mixture, place them in a steamer, and steam 20 minutes covered tightly. When done, remove the snow-balls from the cups and roll them quickly in powered sugar. They must be served hot, do not put them on to steam until dinner is ready.) Serve with the sauce given below. (If you have no regular steamer, you can steam the little cups in a pan filled half-full of boiling water.)

Creamy Sauce: ¼ cup of butter creamed with ½ cup of powdered sugar; beat until light and fluffy. Then add slowly ½ cup of sweet milk, and ¼ teaspoon of vanilla. Beat well and serve on the hot snow balls—or on any hot pudding.

OTTAWA HOUSE MAY DEBATE QUESTION OF REDISTRIBUTION

Ottawa, April 12.—It is likely that the House of Commons will debate the advisability of redistribution this session. J. T. Shaw (Progressive Calgary West), has placed a resolution on the order paper: "That in the opinion of this house, a redistribution measure should be introduced during the present session of Parliament."

Mr. Shaw's resolution will probably bring on an interesting debate in view of the Prime Minister's recent announcement, that redistribution could hardly be dealt with this session. The resolution will not come before the House until after the Easter recess.

APPOINT GEN. IRONSIDE COMMANDANT AT CAMBERLEY

London, April 12.—Major-General Sir, William Edmund Ironside, K. C. B., who commanded the Canadian Brigade for a period in the great war and later became chief of staff in connection with allied operations in Russia has been appointed Commandant of the Royal Staff College of Camberley, General Ironside was commander-in-Chief of the allied troops at Archangel, Northern Russia, from October, 1918, to October, 1919. During the South African war he was a distinguished British officer, and in the war of 1914-18 he added greatly to his military standing.

LONG ROAD TO PROSPERITY

Odessa's 60 Factories Must Be Financed by Foreign Capital.

Odessa, April 13.—This once rich port on the Ukraine is struggling to regain some of its former prosperity but it looks like a long, hard road for its 60 factories must first be rebuilt and financed by foreign capital. Just now there is none to be had.

How difficult will be Odessa's climb back to business may be gathered from the fact that, of 80,000 workmen employed about her port and in her industries before the big war, but 10,000 now have any sort of work. All are Soviet employees.

The chief production of the 60 factories in operation is in leather, agricultural machinery, cotton bags, nails, cloth, varnish, shoes, glass and very poor matches.

The cost of production is constantly varying with the exchange, the price of food and labor and at the present time no fair comparisons could be made with imported goods.

The cost of labor so far has been negligible due to the forced nationalization of factories and mobilization of the workmen but it is steadily increasing as the men are free to find work. Those employed on piece work earn daily about 300,000 rubles, or 60 cents, whereas the regular wage scale is 100,000 rubles, or 20 cents. But these figures are unreliable, as workers often get permission to do outside work, and receive a little food in addition or else their thefts of goods are winked at.

It requires a minimum of 200,000 rubles daily or about 20 cents to live on one person. Rent is free. A pair of boots costs $10 to $15; a poor suit of clothes twice as much.

It may be said that the working man has lost vastly in a material sense by the revolution. Today his cry is for bread and bread only. If it is an advantage, the working men now partly control this city, once one of the richest and most comfortable ones of all Europe and, perhaps, destined to be again, in the years to come when all its 60 old factories are rebuilt and reorganized through private capital. This capital must come from abroad. In pre-war days 60 per cent. of the industries were owned by French, German, Austrian and English firms and directed by them.

The prosperity of these industries depended on production of wheat, sugar, and hemp in the rich black earth hinterland of the Ukraine. When that hinterland is restocked with cattle, grain, agricultural machines, horses and cows and intelligent farmers, in the next couple of years, then, Odessa will again raise its head, repaint and repair its handsome buildings and homes and again be called Russia's Chicago.

RAILROADS REDUCE STAFF OWING TO COAL STRIKE

Bridgeburg, April 13.—The railroads at Bridgeburg have made a decision in their staffs here, owing to the coal strike and the consequent decrease in traffic. Coal is still coming in over the pinch as yet is not being seriously felt by the railroads in procuring their own fuel.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Paris is wearing the little nose veil again.

Hair braids, transparent straws and Georgette are the materials much used this spring for dress hats.

Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles and Viscount Lascelles will visit Easter at Windsor with the King and Queen.

Silk net, dyed any one of the new spring colors and embroidered with tiny white flowerets, is used for charming all-over blouses that tie in the back, says New York.

The trouble with most marriages is that husbands and wives so often substitute German butter for French politeness, after the wedding—and then, all the star-dust gets brushed off romance.

New York reports that lavender wicker furniture for the verandah is one of this season's fads and many seats, as well as the separate pieces, have bands or inserts of black decorated with gay little flowers.

Alencon laces are in large demand, as people are now becoming tired of the great variety of popular priced Spanish types. Cream color is considered preferable to deal white as it is softer in effect.

French women are wearing many hats of tinseled fabrics, and among the smart models is silver cloth draped in novel ways for toques with trims of glycerine ostrich, also silver bid and allowed to hang from the side brim.

Nowadays, if we like needlework, we make a flanket blouse of white canvas, and work a cross-stitch design on it in red and green and blue, to create a gypsy frock with a running design of vivid sindex worked in coarse stitchery, during in color combinations.

CANADIAN DECLARES SEMENOFF ALL RIGHT

New York, April 13.—On the eve of his deportation hearing before the Senate Labor Committee, scheduled for tomorrow, General Gregory Semenoff, anti-Bolshevist Cossack leader was unfavorably compared with Francisco Villa on the one hand, and on the other Francisco Villa seen like an amateur."

J. S. Atkinson, former assistant Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross in Siberia, gave the Cossack a clean bill of health.

In a statement issued today, Colonel Marsh, Adjutant of the Siberian Veterans, said that Semenoff "realizes Francisco Villa seen like an amateur."

EBER MAY MEET WILSHIRE

Hamilton, April 12.—Toronto promoters have made Bobby Eber a tempting offer to meet Carley Wilshire at Toronto on April 23.

DECREASED DELINQUENCY

The annual report of Judge Mott, covering the work of the juvenile Court has been issued, showing that 2,384 occurrences or cases came before the court during the year 1921, occasioning 3,603 interviews with persons concerned in the cases. The report comments on the decrease in the number of delinquents coming before the the courts, there being 1,709 delinquent children in 1920, as compared with 1,063 in 1921.

The Daily Recipe

Crumb Griddle Cakes.

One pint of hot milk and this same of hot water, two heaping cups of fine dry crumbs, half a cupful of prepared flour, one teaspoonful of molasses and one of melted butter; two eggs; one tablespoon of salt. Soak the crumbs in the milk and water and stir over the fire until they are smoking hot, then set them aside to cool. They should be just lukewarm when you add in the butter, molasses and salt, the eggs whipped light, finally the flour. Try a spoonful on a hot griddle, and should it stick add a little more flour. But do not get them stiff. They should be as tender as almost to melt in the mouth.

BOUND OVER!

There be more lawyers in the rural districts than in the towns and cities. This may appear to be an extravagant statement, but it is not so exceptional as you think. There's Ole Jeah Tregle: he knows more law than Chief Justice Meredith. I'll put it this way: His knows a whole lot of law that Chief Justice Meredith never heard tell of. There's a great lawyer on every cross roads—the woods is full of them. Our courts would go plumb out jails would be empty. Ongoode Hall converted into a gymnasium or a picture palace and the town's lawyers would starve to death were it not for the legal rights who glimmer at the woods. The city lawyer owes all or most of his prosperity to the honeyshedded sow of Coke upon Littleton who dwelleth in the fields.

We have seen many more ice storms this season than usual, and this greatest of the kind that ever occurred in the memory of the oldest inhabitant made a skating rink of the whole land about a month ago. A great tree that stood on the Dan Sevenpiper and Eli Duckunder line, but chiefly on the Duckunder side of the fence, split with the great weight of ice a nd vast crotch broke off and fell into the Sevenpiper domain. There has ever been more or less hard feelings about that line and Ole Dan always contended that the tree that stood a-been on his side o the fence. Ole Dan is a mighty lawyer and he jakes great with in his theory of what he calls the Visitations of God. If there's a big flood, tender stand, and a tree floats down the crick and stands on your property, the tree's yours, for the flood was a Visitation of God and the Privy Council'll maintain your right. Ole Dan he regarded that ice storm as a Visitation of God, and when the great tree split and half of it fell into his premises he regarded it as an act of Divine Justice and proceeded to cut her up for fire-wood.

Steve Belden keeps bachelor's hall amid the dusty splendor of the old Belden home—one of the finest homes in Gumbo. He is rich and indolent, a student and a great reader, and he doesn't do a tap except potter around his gardens and orchards or tinker with his Ford. The world outside his dining room windows was beautiful as he sat by his fire looking out on the last handiwork of the Ice King, when his hall door bell tinkled. He swung it wide and there stood the prettiest girl he had ever seen. It was Orphie Sevenpiper. It had cost her a great struggle to come to this great house and call on the lone bachelor. Her cheeks burned and her beautiful eyes, always bright, shone like stars. She stood with one foot on the sill to keep her knees from rapping together like castanets. She had stage fright. The speech which she had rehearsed for the occasion fled her and for all she could say was: "How d'ye do—I hope you are well."

Steve grinned. "I am very well, than you. Won't you come in?"

The girl hesitated and looked at him doubtfully—imploringly.

"You had best come in," said Steve kindly. "This kind of chilly with all this ice abroad."

She entered like a fox venturing into a barn where she had not been before, but she wouldn't sit down. Like the gentleman he is, Steve remained standing.

"I know you," she said—"to look at, but I guess you don't know me. I'm Orphie—Orphie Sevenpiper."

A wave of respect and admiration swept over Steve.

"I know you by reputation," he said simply, and Orphie knew that that reputation was good, 'twas all love had, poor little girl.

"I live with Dan," she said. "Dan's my father or my uncle, an' I'm the only friend he's got. An' old time on the Duckunder side of the fence had to go and fall over into our place an' Dan he up 'n' cut her up for fire-wood, claimin' it was the Visitation of God."

"I see—go on, little girl."

"Well, Dan says that Eli Duckunder sin' claims that the firewood's his'n an' they had some words."

"I don't doubt that."

"Eli says that Dan, intilood to cut him up for kindlin' 'cept of he'd wood, an Eli he—for Orphie began to cry. "he had my pore Ole Dan 'rested."

Steve took her gently and reverently by the shoulders and put her down in a great chair.

"Go on, little girl—and cry as much as you want to."

She had a nice little refreshing cry and proceeded:

"Squire Scollicker see that Dan has to hev a five hundred dollar bail bond to keep the pieces or he won't let him out o' the cooler."

"And—?"

"An' I come to you, Mist' Belden, to see if you'd go for five hundred dollars?"

Steve might have told her that the loaded him in million dollars and more too, as she sat there looking up at him with her handsome eyes dim with tears. Steve is a gentleman to his finger tips. He asked kindly:

"You want me to go on his bond?"

"Please, Mist' Belden."

Twenty minutes after that the two of them were tooting off to Gumbo in Steve's Ford. She is a regular old clivert jumper. There was ice everywhere, and she skied and bobbed, and scooted and skidded, but she got there all right. There was dinnsky and woodsen for Steve and Orphie demeaned herself in front of the town hall. Steve held his head high—his fine head with its graying hair, and Orphie, sheltered by her champion, rose to the occasion and looked lovely. She glanced disdainfully at the Duckunders and passed the Spolpins as if they were dirt. Half an hour after that Ole Dan was bound over to keep the peace in his own surety for five hundred dollars and Steve Belden's bond for another five hundred.

"I'm goin, to take this to the Privy Council," says Ole Dan. "It was the Visitation of God!"

"That remains—to be precise, last Friday evening—Steve stood with Orphie in her quaint little dwelling adjoining the Sevenpiper chateau. Their world was in confusion and uproar, for a south wind was thawing the ice from the trees and fences and tarn roofs in glittering cataracts. But the beating of their own hearts was all the sound they heard.

"Oh, Mist' Belden——" Orphie began.

"Don't call me Mister Belden," he said. "call me Steve."

"But—I don't like to."

"But you must—you must—darling —you must call me Steve for ever more and always."

"Oh, Steve, dear, do you think it was the Visitation of God?"

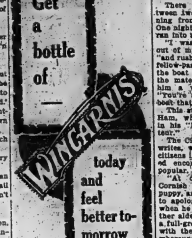

He took her in his arms.

"Yes, little sweetheart, I'm very, very,re ry sure it was!"

The Khan.

The Wigwam, Rushdale Farm, Rockton, Ont.

The editor sat in his office whence all but ben him had fled, and he wished that every last dead beat was in his grave—stone dead. His mind then reverted far away to the time when he should die, and his royal editorial soul go scooting to my, my, when he'd roam the fields of paradise and rail o'er Jasper seas and all things glorious would combine his every sense to please. He thought how they'd look across the great gulf dark and drear, that yawn between his happy soul and those who swindled here, and when for water they would call, and in agony they caper, he'd shout to them: "Just quench your thirst with the due that's on your paper."

Nova Scotia's Loss.

Nova Scotia has made distinguished contributions to Canadian public life, as seen in the names of Howe, Johnstone, Tupper, Thompson, Laurier, Borden, and others. The province has been fortunate, too, in its historians and biographers, and among these must be placed Sir Joseph Gordon Bourinot, who died at Halifax last Thursday. Longley was a prominent politician for many years, having been a member of the Nova Scotia Government from 1886 to 1905, mostly as Attorney-General. He was an attractive after-dinner speaker, with something of a grand manner, as well as a delicate sense of humor.

Judge Longley's excursions into literature form an important part of the country's intellectual growth, back in 1849 in his beloved Nova Scotia, his life overlapped that of the great leaders, whom he knew personally, and whose words he preserved for posterity. He lived through the stormy Confederation period. Now, in his old age, he strangely enough, was the biographer for the "Fathers of Canada" series of the two great political antagonists, Joseph Howe and Sir Charles Tupper. He wrote of Howe with something like affection, and of Tupper, a political opponent, with judicial spirit. His fine sentence in the Tupper biography is significant of his mental attitude.

"The old man has departed, the last man on the list of the Fathers of Confederation, one of the greatest and strongest men of his time, whose labors for forty-five years have been unsurpassed by any man in Canada, who had a personality which will not be forgotten."

More Red on the Map.

Wrangel Island, one of the most important islands in the Arctic region, has been claimed for Great Britain by a party of three Americans, a Canadian and four Eskimos. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, organizer of the expedition. Mr. Stefansson and the Seventh Star had been planted on the island, September 1st last.

Stefansson, a British subject, said his fifth and latest Arctic expedition, made up of Allen Crawford, son of a Toronto University professor; E. L. Knight, McMinnville, Ore.; Frederick Maurer, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, and Milton Galle, of New Braunfels, Texas, with four Eskimos, was sent by him into the northern seas for the express purpose of claiming Wrangel Island for the Empire.

Wrangel Island is about the size of Jamaica, lying 100 miles off the coast of Siberia and 400 miles west of Behring Straits. Strategically the island dominates Northwestern Siberia.

Jones and Brown.

"Now, Jones and Brown, are agreed that you what so divide this ground?"

"Yes, sir."

"But you can't agree on how the lines are to be run?"

"No, sir."

"Very well; Jones, you go out to the ground and run a line dividing it the way you think it should be divided."

"Yes, sir," responded the exultant Jones.

"And Brown."

"Yes, sir."

"To-morrow you can go and take your choice of the two lots as Jones divided it."

"That's good easy," Sippanly said the culprit. "I've got it right here in my big pocket."

Sippanly sat six months in jail. Have you got that in your big pocket, Hoss?" came the ready amendment to the sentence.

Here is a story told of Hon. Harry Emmerson. An attorney called him and received a cheque for $15,000 from Premier Foster. He showed the cheque to Mr. Ham, and the latter asked if he might tear a small piece off the corner. When the colloquy ended, Mr. Ham said with: "Well, if the whole bit of paper is worth $15,000, that piece of it must surely be worth a few thousands—and I need the money."

Emigration Howlers.

Here are letters recently discovered at the Salvation Army emigration offices.

An official, unaware of the sex of the correspondent, sent a satisfactory reply to a widower. He replied: "Sir, I am glad to see that you are a better letter, and regret to say that it was not me who died; it was their mother."

To the question, "Date of husband's death," we received the reply, "Two years — whereabouts not known."

The Government forms include a question as to linguistic ability, and a homely soul declared that her "accurrences is in this vessel" were other than English. "One tin trunk and a suit case."

Japanese Politeness.

The average Japanese is so excessively polite that it is difficult to get him even to make a helpful criticism. It is related of the late Sir Herbert Tree that he made a careful study of Japanese trees with a view to producing "The Darling of the Gods." However, when it was being played an authority on Japan wrote pointing out that though Sir Herbert Tree had got the right flower, and contorted the branches and bloggers had to the correct clusters, he should not have made them all come out in the same season. Sir Herbert retorted that the Japanese Ambassador had approved of the staging of the garden scene. The author replied that the Japanese Ambassador was a man of great courtesy. Another instance of Japanese punctiliousness is cited by a correspondent. "I possess professor stayed with an family — because I

Dear Sirs:-

As we approach the end of the fifth year during which time we have continuously used the columns of the leading newspapers of Canada to advertise The Literary Digest to the Canadian public, we are pleased to say that the results of this publicity have been very satisfactory.

Of course, the "Digest" occupying as it does a unique position in the periodical world, by presenting the concensus of public opinion throughout the world on all the important subjects that interest mankind, appeals only to those men and women of intelligence who would keep abreast of current thought and action. For this reason it is necessary that we place our newspapers of high quality to carry our announcements. The papers we are using in Canada measure up fully to the required standard.

If one would reach the better class of Canadian readers one must do so through the journals constituting the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association.

Very sincerely yours,
THE LITERARY DIGEST.

George A. Dame
Advertising Manager.

What more striking tribute to the power of Daily Newspaper Advertising could be had than this letter from the publishers of a WEEKLY PERIODICAL which has gained its circulation through the daily press. We repeat their comment, based upon five years' experience:

"If one would reach the better class of Canadian readers one must do so through the journals constituting the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association."

Mere Youth a Counterfeiter

William J. Flynn, former chief of the United States Secret Service, has recently told the story of the most remarkable counterfeiter ever produced in the United States, perhaps the most remarkable in the history of crime besides of his youth, the means he employed to utter the counterfeit paper and the success that attended his career. The name of this wonderful youth is Henry Russell Wilkin, and he is now in prison, nearing the end of a long sentence, though he is only 23 years old. He came of respectable parents and was a bright boy, but lacking in application. At the age of fifteen he announced that he was through with schools and intended to go to work. He was rather clever with his pencil and impressed the Ringling circus people with his skill in designing advertising layouts. At the age of seventeen he was placed in charge of the advertising work of the Hood Milk Company in Boston. He had a little studio and was earning perhaps $25 or $30 a week. One morning he read an account of a milkman finding a packet of one dollar bills which he presented at a bank where he learned that they were counterfeit. It seems that this chance item made a deep impression on Wilkin, for according to Mr. Flynn a few days later he was absent from work, did not get out to master the art. He studied chemistry, papermaking, engraving, printing, dying or photography, and in the secret counterfeiter must know little of these things. His general education was not equal to that of a boy who had spent a couple of years in high school, for after school hours he would be made himself within a couple of years the most accomplished counterfeiter the Secret Service ever had to deal with. He did it by reading in the public library. Working by day he devoted his evenings to the study of technical works on engraving. His bad a vacation every month and forgot nothing that he had read. Then he bought engraving tools and by private lessons as clever as any expert in the Government service. He took up a course of chemistry dealing with papermaking, and read all the library had or tell him.

He read volumes on dyeing and printing. By an acquaintance with a well-known Boston printer who permitted him to visit his plant at night he learned the various processes. All this work, with hard study, according to Mr. Flynn, was accomplished within the period of one year. Wilkin's counterfeiting course was a series of three visits to the Massachusetts plant where the paper is made for the Government. This paper is a carefully guarded as gold in the mint. Every scrap of it is accounted for. There is never a surplus. It is a special paper, and the formula of its manufacture is a secret. Visitors are shown through the plant in care of a guide, and three times Wilkin was a visitor. He saw no more than the others with him saw, and for practical imitative purposes one might say this was nothing at all. But everything he did see was photographed in his brain. He devoted himself for one year to the study of papermaking. Then he concluded that he was ready for business and removing to New York got a job with an advertising firm. In his spare time he set up his little plant and began work on a one-dollar bill.

From first to last he never used a camera, which fact makes him unique among skillful counterfeiters, for all the others photograph the banknote they are to imitate and work from that. The chief defect with his first bills was that they looked too new. The plates were perfect, the ingredients fine, and the weight of the paper was correct. But the bills were too stiff. Within a year, however, he had won a chemical solution that aged the bills, and then he started out to circulate them. Within three years he disposed of 5,000 counterfeits and not one of them was questioned, though hundreds of them passed through the banks. Then he began the manufacture of fives and disposed of 6,000 of them. Only twice was he challenged. In both cases the shopkeeper who refused one spurious bill accepted a second spurious bill that Wilkin with admirable nerve offered him. He began to make ten-dollar bills, and they were a good imitation as the others.

In the meantime, of course, some of the bills, perhaps an insignificant percentage of them, had been pronounced counterfeit by the banks and had been sent to the Secret Service. Detectives went to the paper-making plant and were told by the manufacturer that the paper was genuine. So it was concluded that it had been stolen, and for six months the mill was watched with no result. From all over the country the bills came back, and the detectives were at their wits' end. All they could do was ward everybody that there were counterfeit bills in circulation, and read to the scene when a new counterfeit was discovered. It was a little oversight on the part of Wilkin when he was working in Santa Cruz, a small town on the Pacific coast, that led to his capture. He went into a drug store, bought a fountain pen, received the change for a ten-dollar bill, and went out. The shopkeeper began to think. He was struck by the fact that the purchaser did not even try the pen or ask for ink, which is the obvious thing for possessor of a pen to do. He concluded that he wanted the change, not the pen. So he ran to a bank with the bill. The teller pronounced it genuine. Another teller said it was a counterfeit. He notified the police and Wilkin was arrested at the station. He had plenty of bogus money in his pockets and made a confession.

DOPE FOR ROSE PESTS

How to Deal With Some Persistent Rose Enemies, Insect

A Remedy at Hand for Every Assault—No Cold Weather Dope for the Mornings' Generous Cows Need a Good Grain Ration.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture.)

Spraying with water under pressure with a fine spray is a good preventive for many insect pests that infest rose bushes. This, however, is often times not full effective, but only a help.

Tobacco and Soap Solutions Effective.

Strong tobacco or soap solutions applied in the same way are effective if the water are good remedies. Three ounces of whale oil soap dissolved in a gallon of water will make a good solution for green aphids, red spider and thrip. A solution of tobacco and thrip. A solution of tobacco water can be used by placing tobacco leaf stems or raw tobacco leaves in a pail, 1½ qts. of powdered lime and boiling soft water, cover up, and allow to cool. Strain and spray it on the plants as required.

Another good formula is made by mixing one part slightly sour milk with four parts water. The milk must be mixed (churned) together thoroughly with the water in order to get the water and mix thoroughly. This must be used quickly, as it does not keep long.

The following preparations sold at most seed stores are also good. Sulphu-tobacco soap and Black Leaf 40. Slug shot, powdered hellebore is also sold at some drug stores. Full directions for use are on the packages. I find it an improvement to add a little water to Bordeaux mixture.

These remedies are for aphis, thrip and red spider mainly.

Dealing With the Slug.

Another pest that infests rose bushes is what is known as the rose slug, a slimy green caterpillar, about one inch long, that eats the leaves and also eats into the flower. Destroying the bushes when the leaves are damp (not the wet) with dry hellebore from an old baking powder tin having a perforated lid, will help to keep down these pests; or an ounce of hellebore powder may be mixed with a gallon of water and sprayed on the plants. These are all very effective remedies for pests on rose bushes. Care must be taken, however, not only to be particular in mixing the ingredients, but also to apply thoroughly all parts of the plant, more especially to the under side of the leaves for the white thrip and red spider, and start early in the season before the pests appear. Prevention is better than cure.

When to Spray.

In applying any of these solutions, any spraying necessary in chilly weather should be done in the morning. During the very hot weather, spraying may be done in the evening. If spraying is done in chilly weather it induces mildew. The remedy for downy or powdery mildew is to dust the plants with flowers of sulphur or spray with a solution made by mixing one ounce of potassium sulphide in three gallons of water. An application of any of these remedies should be made every week or ten days from early in the season until the end of summer. The potassium sulphide is also a good remedy for mildew. The spindle fungus disease that attacks the leaves of roses causing black spots or diseased leaves caused by black spot or mildew should be gathered and burned.—The late Wm. Hunt, O. A. College, Guelph.

Generous Cows Need Good Grain Ration.

With the pastoring season at an end, every dairy cow owner should begin to plan his winter feeding. Cows often suffer more for lack of feed when they are turned out in the spring because the pasture is not up to the mark. In short, therefore, the feeding of silage and hay should begin. It never pays to scrimp on roughage. Let the cows have as much as they will eat up clean all the time. That is what a cow is for—to convert roughage into milk.

A good grain mixture should contain at least three different feeds, one of which is rather high in protein. A good grain mixture for cows of medium production is ground corn or barley four parts, oats or bran two parts, linseed meal one part.

The grain feed should vary with the milk production. The cow that is milking heavily is the one to receive the liberal grain allowance. As a rule to follow with reference to amount of feed, is to give one pound of grain to each three pounds of milk produced by a liberal cow. Increase and one pound of grain to each three and one-half pounds of milk by a Holstein.

Cultivate the soil at the earliest possible date at which the land is in proper condition.

A cow with a litter of 12, purchased at Marchmont & Sons, Andover, England, on October 4, 1919, has since had litters of 14, 12, 13 and 19, making a total of 71 in 33 months.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON

New Rockland, P.Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered with it during the winter. Sleeping was quite impossible for I could not get enough for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells every night, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

"In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and in a few days, the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have no wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about "Fruit-a-tives" for I know how they must suffer.

Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as winter came on but it has not, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives".

AN INTELLIGENT DOG.

Scientists Are Interested In This German Mastiff.

Attention has just been directed in Berlin to the mental development of certain animals by an astonishing description by Theodore Zell of the talent for acting possessed by a German mastiff named Tom, which he owns. At the same time, a book by Herr Zell on "Our Domestic Animals" may serve to stimulate afresh interest in the life of German science.

Tom, however, is not so enlightened as was his famous predecessor, Rolf, an Airedale, belonging to a Mannheim attorney, for Rolf learned to read and spell and was able to express himself in well formed sentences, which he signaled with a pawn in a code of his own something like the Morse code. Neither is Tom so well informed as were the famous educated horses, which stamped out words with their hoofs and solved mathematical riddles like extracting the fourth root of a number. But Tom evidently has genius and represents a new type, with variations to histrionic gifts and sense of humor.

Tom might be called the first pacifist among dogs, so unwilling is he to passionate interference when he sees some animal being beaten and he is cause of his extreme dislike to quarrels.

Most interesting is his behavior. Herr Zell writes, when he has an opportunity to hide away in his large jaws some article, such as a stocking which Zell's daughter is knitting or some similar object essential to her needwork. Evidently Tom imagines that he hides it without her knowledge, for when she begins, with exaggerated industry, to search for the object with eyes, wherewith is particularly stupid expression, as if in an effort to show he has not the slightest idea of where it might be found! If Herr Zell happens to be near, Tom will wait for a moment when Fraulein Zell is not looking and then he will spit his prize into enough so his master can see what he has in his mouth, meanwhile showing a glint of joy out of the corners of his eyes. Whereupon he will close his mouth again and immediately resume his former stupid countenance.

Only when Fraulein Zell asks Tom point blank, "Tom, do you know where my stocking can be?" will the game end.

Tom feels himself responsible for keeping the peace wherever he goes. If two persons get into a controversy and their voices rise, Tom will spring between them growling and his teeth flashing.

That especially angers him is to see a driver flogging a horse. When this happens, he immediately runs to the horse's side to prevent more blows falling on the animal. If the driver stops whipping his horse, Tom does nothing, but if the whip falls again, he attacks the driver and throws him to the ground. On the other hand, if he sees some driver trying to start a heavily laden cart, he will take hold of the harness with his teeth and throw all his weight into the work of getting the cart going.

In Herr Zell's house, Tom is not permitted to lie on the sofa, but one exception was made to this rule at a time when Tom was seriously ill. Constantly afterward, he would be caught taking a nap on the same sofa, and then, if he was found, he would look up with a mean groaning and breathing so heavily that an unlatched outdoor door can be heard below.

Dr. Zell is well known abroad, having written several books on the mental development of animals.

"Ho! What's he worried about, biting his nails?"

"Oh, he had his wife just had a scrap because he got mixed up and paid 2 cents too much for a pound o' chops, when she sent him to bring round a pound o' tripe to bring the chops home."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Concrete Road between Longueuil and Beauharnois, Province of Quebec. Completed in June, 1921.

1921 CONCRETE PAVING YARDAGE shows 70% increase over 1920

THAT which has real merit cannot fail to gain adherents in proportion as it becomes known. The true quality of a roadway material does not show up the year the road is built—it makes itself apparent in the high or low maintenance cost which Time alone can reveal. The remarkably low maintenance cost of Concrete is now boasted of by communities that have given this material the test of time; with the result that each year more communities find it expedient to build permanent highways of concrete

The best possible proof of the increasing popularity of Concrete is found in the figures of Total Yardage year by year in Canada. The following table gives this illuminating information.

DUELS BECOME A SPORT IN HUNGARIANS

NOW THEY ARE REGARDED BY HUNGARIANS.

Almost Every Week Some Made Against Those Rights in Defence of a Man's Socalled Honor. They Remain Popular, and Leading Politicians Take Part In Scores of the Combats.

Minister of Justice Tomcsany of Hungary has fought three duels within a month. Now there is a little imprisonment for dueling and a heavier charge if a duellist kills his opponent. In many cases, and quite rightly, the administrator of laws should be so active a duellist himself. But the law of the land, if Tomcsany refused to fight he could not remain in political life. Dueling is epidemic in Hungary, and almost all the chief ones are political. After every sitting of the Parliament there are five or six duels. Dueling is becoming the biggest item in the body, and a party leader can hardly expect to get through the session without fighting a dozen duels. Some time ago Count Bethlen and Mr. Tomcsany, Count Bathiany and Mr. Rakovsky, fought duels within thirty days apiece this year.

The slightest remark in the Parliament which could possibly reflect upon some other member results in a challenge. Often two Berthlens, the leader of the Legitimists, was twice duelled upon by Count Andrassy in one day. The New York World's Budapest correspondent says frequently seen political duels, as well as the less classic ones, that are getting to be more common than they used to be. For that reason the duelling column in the Budapest papers, which is published daily under the heading 'Affairs of honor' is the first part of the paper everybody looks for, next to that at the breakfast table. The general public is interested in every successful litter and fatal duels are greeted on the street by their friends with comments on the blood or bad swordsmanship. For nearly all duels are fought with swords. When occasionally a duel is fought with pistols, old duelling pistols widely have no sights are used. Or they use the sabre in the open country.

The World correspondent witnessed one of Minister Tomcsany's duels. It took place in a fencing hall where most of these duels are fought. The combatants were first in separate rooms, where they stripped to light and remove shoes, their only protection being bandages about the forearm, below. This protection is not always given, but in political duels it almost always is. The seconds measure the distance while the doctors prepared bandages, compresses, sponges, etc. The combatants stood back to back four yards apart and at the word swung around and began slashing at each other according to the rules of sabre fighting. As both men were pounded sabre fighters, there was blood for three minutes of hard fighting. Then Tomcsany got in a how across his opponent's upper arm, immediately the doctors stopped the fight, closed the wound, and said the duel could not go on as one side was incapacitated. This, incidentally, they always do as soon as blood is seriously drawn.

All sometimes happens, as the Tomcsany duel has seen, that two duellists have been equally matched they have fought to exhaustion after hours of action without drawing blood. These political duels are unnecessary, even childish, and can be avoided if one wishes. The distinguished Count Appony, for instance, has been a member of the Hungarian Parliament fifty years, and has fought a dual fought. He has always kept his head and never has made a remark which could be stretched into an insult. This was courtesy, however, not due to fear of a duel. It is difficult to keep out of a duel in Hungary. What with the narrowed interests that have come about since the war, and the troubles over the succession, there are so many deals on no one can keep count of them. They occur over the most trivial matters. One evening recently an English officer in mufti was sitting in a cabaret, and the Hungarian next to him kept jiggling his chair. The former asked politely enough if his neighbor could not change his position a little. A slight altercation arose but passed off quietly. So the Englishman was surprised to be challenged to a duel the next day. He wanted to laugh it off, but the seconds of the other man insisted, so he had to accept. Otherwise he could hardly have remained there. He chose the pistols and the duel was arranged. At the word "Fire" he shot into the ground. Seeing this the Hungarian fired his remaining two shots into the ground, and the affair was quite satisfactorily settled.

Elephants.

Stories of how an elephant occasionally spoils a circus are not uncommon, but one rarely hears of an escape of destruction like that which occurred in the Malay peninsula. A herd of wild elephants broke into a railway station, pulling down the stationmaster's kitchen and bathroom. They did the same to the clerk's quarters and then tackled the station while the office force looked on from trees. One elephant took off an automatic weighing machine as a souvenir of the raid, but finding it heavy, threw it down on the track. One of the elephants trumpeted the recall and they all went back to the jungle, except one who fell in a well and had to be got out by human aid, but was not detained. By the time help arrived after a general telegraphic alarm the huge beasts had entirely disappeared.

In a wild state the horse lives to be from 35 to 40 years old, while the domestic horse is old at 25 years.

SOVIET RUSSIA STILL TRADING

Clothes Are Smuggled Into the Country for Gold, and Diamonds.

Warsaw, April 13.—Poland and Soviet Russia are doing some trading despite their difficulty in arranging a trade convention.

For months Poland has been sending into Russia, by wagon and by packs on horseback great amounts of cloth and some food supplies, most of the business being carried on at night, away from the beaten path where either Soviet guards or Polish soldiers are on watch.

In return the smugglers have been receiving some of the old Russian gold rubles, which penaants had buried, hides, furs and in some instances diamonds.

Dress material and bright colored shawls which the Russian peasant women wear over their heads on Sunday when they go to church are in great demand than at any time since Russia's troubles began and, according to travellers, bring a fancy price over those goods are landed on the other side.

A Soviet Russian trade commission has been in Warsaw some time arranging purchases from the Poles and it was announced recently that the first consignment of goods purchased officially by the Soviets would leave soon fog Moscow.

This consignment is made up chiefly of clothing materials manufactured in Lodz. The goods will be insured against theft, the insurance company furnishing armed guards to convoy the freight cars all the way from Warsaw to the Soviet capital.

Despite the famine in Russia the government has permitted caviar to be sent out of the country because of the high price it brings. There has been but little genuine Russian caviar on the world markets since the great war began.

In December last Russia exported to foreign countries through Latvia alone more than 130,000 pounds of caviar, some of which was sent to the United States. Other exports included hemp, flax, leaf, tobacco, furs, untanned hides, kerosene and bristles.

Poison We Aid Rat.

Few people know that in its original state tapioca is a deadly poison. The root of the manioc plant, from which it is prepared, is full of poisonous juice when freshly dug. The root is grated and subjected to great pressure, which eliminates every trace of the poison, and ultimately gives us the familiar tapioca of commerce.

There is no need to worry about the chances of being poisoned at this time you take a helping of tapioca pudding, for the natives have been preparing farina for centuries for their own consumption, and know exactly how to make the poison root perfectly safe. Farina consists of the grains of similar size and appearance to the tapioca of commerce, and both are products of the same root.

Tapioca, however, is the purest product of the poison root. Farinha has a little woody fibre in it which gives it a peculiar flavor, and its hard, dry grains contain no gluten and very little starch, and crumble like earthy matter when mixed with water. Yet this product of the poison root is the staple food of the poorer classes in countries where manioc grows.

Cosmos at the Zoo.

On the last day of every year it is part of the duties of the curators of the London Zoological Society to make a valuation of their charges. The total number of animals on the last day of 1921 was found to be just over 3,000, a slight increase on the number for the last day of the previous year. The value of all the animals exhibited in the Regent's Park menageries totals approximately £20,000. This figure does not represent the full value of the exhibit to the society, many of which are irreplaceable, but is an estimate of the sum it would expect to receive if forced to sell its collection—an circumstance which is, fortunately, very likely to arise. The rhinoceros shares with the hippopotamus the distinction of being the most valuable animals, each being worth £1,000.

Is Friday Unlucky?

A great many people believe implicitly that Friday is a day of misfortune, and they can always give plenty of facts to support their belief. The following list shows, however, that Friday's are often lucky as they are unlucky:

Shakespeare was born on a Friday. America was discovered on a Friday. Washington was born on a Friday. The Battle of Waterloo was fought on a Friday. Napoleon was born on a Friday. The Jeke Rotter of Schiller was born on a Friday.—Tit-Bits.

IN LAWLESS KLONDIKE.

The Man Who Brought to Establish Law.

In the quiet evening of his life, the man mainly responsible for making Alaska and the Klondike safe for the law-abiding element in the stirring days of '98 is cobbling shoes in South Vancouver.

Mr. J. Palmer, now in his 74th year, repairs boots, tends his chicken-run, cultivates little garden, and conducts himself like any other semi-retired old man to-day. But it was different at the time of the gold rush to the northern country. He was a powerful factor for good in the life of the blazing community of Skagway.

To Mr. Palmer is largely due the wiping out of the unbelievable development of gambling, tenderloins, banditti and highway robbers who terrorized the banner of the law enforcement officer, Smith, who, for a period, dubbed law and order.

For some time so great was "Soapy's" power that no man dared complain openly, and only a few of the bolder spirits expressed themselves privately. Palmer was one of these.

Gathering a few chosen stalwarts around him, the Skagway secretly organized a vigilance committee, of which he became chairman. The total number of members was the one aim of this organization, and it was early recognized the only way to clean up the town was to dispose of the leader, "Soapy" Smith. It was decided to do this legally, if possible.

"Soapy" and his band seized his saloon-store combined by selling soap at the front door. Also on the streets of the northern town, came originally from Texas where he was known as a "bad man." Selling soap was not bringing wealth fast enough, so he opened the most notorious saloon in the north, though he tried to give it a semblance of respectability by tacking up signs that neither gambling nor drinking were permitted.

But slugging and violent robbery were carried on without let-up or hindrance. Usually the victims were afraid to complain, if they made too violent resistance, they mysteriously disappeared. No questions were asked in those hectic days. And so "Soapy" and his gang waxed fat.

One day a young man named Jack Stewart, on his way from the Yukon to his home in Canada, was slugged and robbed of his pouch containing $6,000 in gold in Smith's saloon. Stewart, who knew of the Vigilantes, sought out Mr. Palmer, told his story, and within a short time war on the gangsters had been declared. The Vigilantes dropped unexpectedly on Smith's saloon, armed to the teeth, and ordered the robbers to surrender the stolen gold.

Apparently cowed, the gang made little resistance later, however, Smith, who was as reckless as he was dangerous, decided he would "clean up" the Vigilance single-handed. He marched to the end of Sylvester Wharf, where a meeting was being held, and frightened the entire audience, including him. The loner guard, Frank Reid, a surveyor who laid out Skagway, showed pluck, but after several shots had been exchanged, he fell mortally wounded, hit in the groin.

Lying on the ground in dying agony, Reid took one more shot at "Soapy." The ball struck him, and glanced and pierced the heart. Smith dropped like a log, but fighted desperately down his throat as he gulped in agony.

With their leader dead, the other members of the gang were quickly hunted out of town, and after a comparative peace settled in the north. To-day the grave of "Soapy" Smith is one of the sights which no tourist misses seeing. Very few of the members of the Vigilantes are known, no record having been kept, but vengeance fall upon them. But as it all happened a quarter of a century ago, Mr. Palmer feels confident that nothing will happen to him as a result of his revealing the part that he played in the drama of the north.

An Englishman by birth, Palmer came to San Francisco in 1888, going to the Klondike on the first rush. He stayed there eleven years, but failed to win a fortune.

In his early youth, when a boy-apprentice in Liverpool, he was duty to deliver mail to Charles Dickens.

Officer Gets Medal.

Gen. D. C. Draper, O.C. of the Fifth Montreal Brigade, has received a handsome gold medal from the citizens of Montreal, which is a token for saving them from the hands of the enemy. Gen. Draper has done more than three years after the close of the war, it shows that the work of the Canadian troops is not forgotten.

Family Affection.

"They kept company for a long time before they were married, didn't they?"

"Yes; and they've kept company most of the time since, and her relatives seem to live with them."

Improved Radio Service.

A complete radio receiving station, making use of the weak induction coil, in place of the usual plain frame aerial, has been successfully invented by a French company, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The new device of the coil, a tuner and an amplifier. The first mentioned has three coils of wire. The two inner ones revolve independently, one within the other, while the outer one is fixed. The three are supplied with the necessary switches, and the two inner ones are also provided with knobs for use in handling them. Good results are obtained with the set, especially in eliminating stations using the same wave lengths.

Verdict—After 300 Years.

The recent Bottomley vs. Bigland case was settled, contrary to expectations, inside an hour. Compare this with another case which has just been settled. It lasted four centuries.

The case was started in the sixteenth century in Italy, and involved an amount reaching the huge sum of $150,000,000,000.

After defeating the French at Marfetta early in the fifteenth century, Charles V. gave to his chief Master of the Horse, Hector Fieramosca Brothers, iron mines, water courses, and great tracts of wood in

EASTER SUNDAY FITTINGLY OBSERVED IN CITY CHURCHES

Easter Sunday Is Celebrated In Local Churches

Ideal Weather on Sunday Helped to Crowd Churches for the Special Easter Services — Appropriate Themes Under Discussion by Clergymen — Services Were of the Most Inspiring Kind and Were appreciated by all Congregations.

SPECIAL MUSIC FEATURED SERVICES

Sunday's weather was perfect for church going and in consequence large congregations were present at the Easter services in the various churches of the city. Thanks are approbriate to Jupiter Pluvius who delayed the Pluteus whilst the music furnished by the choirs was all that could have been desired.

Bridge Street

A most beautiful service was held in Bridge St. Methodist Church, Sunday in which solos were sung by Miss Foston, assisted by the choir and Miss Stevens, assisted by the choir. The choir rendered several numbers which were very beautiful.

Rev. Dr. Clarke took the 31st Psalm. The sermon which was given by Rev. Dr. Clarke was taken from John 8:19 and 'and know me.'

He told the congregation that Loyalty had a beautiful ipse pissima dicit as having Christ. He is described as having beautiful curly hair, the colour of ripe cornstalk, which falls down upon His shoulders. His profile leaves nothing to be desired, and His eyes are full of love and sympathy. His face has not a wrinkle on it. Isaiah saw Christ as the most beautiful and powerful of Christ's followers always. Be-

But if they do not know Him they would not.

HOLLOWAY STREET.

Services held in the church were of an impressive character. In the morning the members of the W. M. S. Mission Circle and the Mission Band occupied the centre of the church. The altar was appropriately decorated with ferns and flowers. The special and generous donations of the late Mr. W. M. Ostrom were used in the service for the first time. Forty members of the Junior Epworth League took part in the choir. The church also sang "I think when I read that Sweet Story of Old." The pastor's remarks were in regard to the practical uses of immortality, presenting the vision that could hold life to its highest and best. There was only one power to redeem life—faith in the risen Lord. The choir, under the able leadership of Miss Strethel Walton, rendered selections which were of a helpful nature and fitted in with the spirit of the services.

JOHN STREET.

Both morning and evening services at John Street Presbyterian church were conducted by Rev. D. C. Ramsay, the pastor, on Sunday. The

CARS CRASH AT BAD CORNER

McLaughlin Roadster Turned Over on Side, But Occupants Uninjured.

An accident which might easily have had more serious results occurred at the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge streets on Saturday evening about 7 p.m., when two cars collided.

A Ford car driven and owned by Jacob B. Hanley of Shannonville was travelling south on Pinnacle St. and a McLaughlin roadster, owned and driven by Edward Clark, Front St. purveyor, was travelling east on Bridge St. and the two came together with a crash at the corner.

The Ford struck the rear of the McLaughlin roadster, completely wrecking the rear end and turning it over on its side. The force of the impact threw Mr. Clarke through the top of his car, Mr. Hanley was not injured, but both men naturally suffered from the shock. Neither car was badly damaged.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY SIGN ANOTHER AGREEMENT

Brest-Litovsk Agreement is Nullified by the New Treaty Made on Sunday at Rapallo—Lloyd George Will Lay Plans Before Conference at Genoa.

Genoa, April 17.—Treaty between Germany and Russia was signed at Rapallo on sunday, the signatories being Foreign Minister Chicherin for Russia and Dr. Walter Rathenau for Germany. The treaty nullifies the Brest Litovsk treaty," re-establishes full diplomatic relations on an equality basis and mutually cancels all war claims.

Easter Sunday was not a day of rest at Genoa, but was devoted largely by both sides to mustering and lining up their forces of statecraft and diplomacy in readiness for the battle over Russia which is promised for Tuesday. Secretarial reports of the ultimatum delivered to the Russians by Great Britain, France, that they must recognize all of Russia's pre-war debts or be barred from further negotiations, were finally handed to-day by Sir. Edward Grigg, secretary to Lloyd George.

Premier Lloyd George has announced that his aim at the Genoa conference is to bring into being a pact among the 31 nations represented, agreeing not to invade one another's territories. It would be similar to the four-power pact negotiated at Washington.

Britian is against a pact plus military sanctions, it is claimed, because sanctions belong to the order of ideas that an ordonnez is being made to put away forever, and guarantees would mean a new grouping of the powers. The military holiday idea is not practical.

In response to questions, the spokesman for the British, said that Mr. Lloyd George's plan resembled President Harding's idea for an association of nations, which it was hoped would bring disarmament or a big reduction of armament in its wake.

HEROIC ACTION BY POLICEMAN

Man Was Fleeing From Arrest and Plunged Into Hamilton Bay.

Hamilton, Ont., April 17.—Attempting to escape from Constable Digby Sharpe late yesterday afternoon, following a light on Bay Street North, Alex. Valnicisk jumped in the bay water of Hamilton Bay and, would have drowned only for the heroic action of the police officer, who jumped in and saved him. Both men had to be taken home on the result of their duckling and were in an exhausted condition.

Valnicisk was in a fight with Fred Boosmans, 493 Bay Street North and Constable Sharpe was called to the scene. As he appeared both men made off and Valnicisk in his flight ran down to the Bay and, without hesitation, jumped in with the goal on. He immediately was seized with cramps and was drowning when Constable Sharpe hastily plunged in after the drowning man, who was crying for help and after a gallant struggle, succeeded in bringing him to shore. The officer was completely overcome and had to be taken home. Had it not been for his courage, the foreigner would have perished, as there was no one to offer assistance and he was about to go down for the last time. Valnicisk and Boosmans will face a charge of being disorderly.

LOCAL MEMBER SPEAKS ON D.S.A.

H. K. Denyes, M.P.P. for East Hastings, Voices Opinions of Cheesemen.

PRAISES DISTRICT.

Dairymen of This District Vote Against Enforcing the Act.

H. K. Denyes, M.P.P., the member for East Hastings was the seconder of the Canadian Resolution on the Dairy Standard Act and the following is his address on the subject to the Legislature:

Mr. Speaker,—

My name appears as seconder of the resolution which the member for Dundas has so well discussed. I just wish to say I discover with the member for Dundas when he says he comes from the best county in the Province of Ontario. It must be that he has not seen Hastings County, or he would not make such a statement.

Thirty is not much to add in regard to this resolution, as the ground has been so well covered. However, I would say that the Minister of Agriculture is sincere in pressing that the Dairy Standards Act be put in force immediately, but there are also reasons that it be left optional.

In 1916 the Act was passed but left on the Statute Book until last Session, when it was amended and came into force on January 1st, 1922.

When the Dairy Standards Act was first passed a delegation opposed to its enforcement came from my district and waited upon the Honorable the Prime Minister, who said he was glad to hear the other side to the question and also said that he would not enforce it.

Mr. Speaker, I come from a dairy district, and from the very heart of the cheese industry of Ontario. We have there the first cheese factories which were built in Canada, and when we wanted cheese makers for these factories we had to go to New York State to get them as we could not find makers in this country.

(Hon. member for North Perth, Mr. Hay interrupts with the statement that he has always understood that he had the first cheese factory and that his uncle was the first cheese

PRINCE'S STAFF LOSE EQUIPMENT

Fierce Fire Destroys the Famous Imperial Hotel at Tokio.

Tokio, April 17.—Fire yesterday completely destroyed the older portion of the famous Imperial Hotel and damaged the temporary annex to the hotel. Three hundred persons, mostly members of the staff of the Prince of Wales and visitors who came to Tokio from various parts of Japan in connection with the visit of the Prince, were rendered homeless. Their effects were partly destroyed. One person is known to have been killed.

When the fire broke out, at ten minutes after three o'clock, in the allotment occupied by the Prince of Wales, the Prince was just entering the Shinjuku Gardens, where addresses were presented to him by the Regent, the Empress and some 3,000 invited guests for a garden party. Consequently he knew nothing of the disaster until his return to the city.

The flames swept rapidly through the hotel building under the force of a strong wind that was blowing, and the hotel was quickly enveloped. This annex was considerably damaged, and a new hotel which is under construction at a cost of seven million yen was endangered.

IS ARTHUR GRIFFITH IN HANDS OF REPUBLICANS?

London Papers Are Inclined to Believe So, Although No Proof is Forthcoming—More Bombs Thrown in the City of Belfast Today.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Belfast, April 17.—A bomb was thrown into the yard of St. Matthew Roman Catholic Church here to-day but no one was injured. At Clough County, Antrim, an unidentified man who had been a police patrol in the school building was pursued and killed.

In his speech at Naas, County Kildare, yesterday, Michael Collins charged the opponents of the Free State with getting Sinn Feiners into the onward march of the nation and declared that De Valera had adopted "methods of anarchy" because the people were not willing to allow him to decide the treaty question for them.

Speaking here last night at a celebration of the Easter Rebellion, De Valera reiterated his hostility to the treaty and told his audience they could have a stable government and peace only behind the volunteers who stood the fire for the Republic.

The Daily Express this morning announces that Griffith was captured by insurgents following his speech which they had attempted to prevent at Sligo. The Express has no proof for its allegation, but it is known that armoured cars and troops were required in order to enable Griffith to make his scheduled speech. He left Dublin Saturday night for Sligo, in company with Acting Chairman Figgis, of the Constitution-Drafting Committee, and Sean Mac Entee, Dail Eireann delegate to the Cavan, after orders had been issued by the new executive of the Republican Army that he was not to be permitted to speak.

Golden Horn City Is Visited by Local Tourists

Mr. D. Sinclair Gives His Impressions of the City of Constantinople — Tragic Condition of Russian Refugees Who Are Quarter-ed There — Sees the Sultan of Turkey Escorted by Glittering Retinue on the Way to Public Prayer.

WORK OF NEAR EAST RELIEF

The Daily Intelligencer takes pleasure in reproducing the following letter from Mr. D. V. Sinclair, it is the fifth of a series which Mr. Intelligencer has arranged to publish on the European trip of Mr. Sinclair and family.

Agean Sea, May 30, 1922.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.—

After writing my last letter I quite decided I would remain ashore for some time and so passed over our visit to Venice, Florence, Rome, Naples and even historic Athens but now we have spent two full days in Constantinople I know you would be interested in many of the things that came to my attention as the result of the awful war. I always felt that Canada of all the British Empire felt the result of the war less acutely than any other country engaged in the same and now that I have seen something of conditions in far away land of Turkey, I can only say that we know little of the price some people are paying as a result of the awful conflict.

Before going ashore in Constantinople the passengers on the Empress of France were presented with very interesting little booklets and on the first page the word—

"Philos" means greets you in the name of those One Hundred Orphan Wards of the Near East Relief, children from all lands and hope lies in the one word—America."

This would be sad enough and would appeal to most of us sufficiently but add to this the fact that as near as can be estimated by the British Authorities, over one hundred and eighty thousand Armenians have sought refuge in Constantinople to escape starvation in their own land. Imagine if you can what that means to a city like that of the Golden Horn, a city that never knew as we know it Canada, how to keep out, the helping hand to those about them who were in need but rather as a people have shocked humanity by the treatment of the Christian Armenians and yet in this booklet I read repeating the same words—"and a second part of the monies so collected go to charities." While I do not understand just what this may mean, I was informed that the city contributes to the good work of looking after the starving people while her borders and extends a helping hand to those beyond.

As we landed on the great docks we noticed a number of great carts to take our carriages we found time to up on the street pompey and make the impression, for the happiest looking blackhaired lady I have ever met, and she sent them off with a wave of the hand and "Au Revoir."

The Intelligencer Newsboys Welcome You. We were all very interested in their happy faces and hearty cheer and motioning to a very pretty little fellow, who was allowed to hold their copies, he came on carriage and to our surprise, spoke with us in very good English. When I was there I had the chance with me, I am delighted to state that John Street Presbyterian Sunday school in Belville, has made two scholarships in all richness and other boys and girls like them.

Now I am going to give you some facts and figures from the Near East Relief Booklet.

They reference to Constantinople being a city of 1,200,000 souls, lacking the elementary skill of combining more war efficiency than any other city in the world. Constantinople Orphan Children's Assembly is one of thousands and said orphans than 250,000 refugees more liberty in one terrible year of suffering humanity, coming from Russia, Asia Minor, Caucasus and the Mediterranean, these stores of misery beg for work which a triangled commerce cannot yield, seek refuge where there is none and for which there is no food or clothing. The crowds stores of a great city of 1,200,000 uplifting situation every soldier and is being sustained, the monthly expenditures in Constantinople being as follows:

From gates princes, Moslem and non-Moslem—$60,000.00 from the Near East Relief and outside sources—$97,000.00; total $157,000.00

"It is noteworthy that more than one half of this amount is raised by the war-stricken races themselves. Daily throughout the year the Near East Relief gives one half support to ten thousand orphans, one half support to ten thousand children and adults, carries three hundred and twenty patients in hospitals and gives clinical treatment to over one hundred children. It gives out six thousand five hundred loaves of bread daily and one ton of other foods and 600 War Widows are given daily work which enables them to support 2,500 dependents. Of the large expenditure made last year, the sum of $318,000 was contributed by the Nationalities thus helped.

"The Near East Relief functioning under charter of the United States Government has during the past six years administered over sixty millions of dollars in this connection with and in so doing supports 40,000 children outside of orphanages and 40,000 having extended relief to hundreds of thousands of Refugees."

We had the pleasure of meeting a Miss Wood from Sarnia, Ontario, and well known to some Belleville people, who is doing a fine work here in connection with the Canadian Hospital Work for the Near East.

Now let me relate some personal experiences. There came to our ship on our arrival in Constantinople a number of native Turks, some Greeks and not a few Russians who opened a regular Bazaar on the main deck and for two days sold their wares. The whole thing was interesting but it is of the Russian refugees about whom I wish to write to me this feature has seemed very pathetic. Here were men and women whose very action was itself and whose speech at once told your that they had seen better days. These people did not tell you who they were but as a bit of wood carving was being handed to you, the very hand told its own story and you guessed properly that you were making your purchase from a member of the former Russian Aristocracy. Or your purchase may have been some simple little domestic animals, cut out of the wood from cigar boxes and you learn afterwards that the man who served you as you had never been served before, was a former commander of a once celebrated Russian Regiment, or perhaps a member of the last Czar's body guard.

A near relative of the great Count Tolstoi was said to be among those who offered here valuables for sale. But I would not have you think these things I have named were, the only things offered for sale. We saw dolls made by Hindu and other girls, some very strange but true to native costumes and next to these a lady in heavy costume was offering for sale the family jewels at prices few could hope to purchase, for these were real and were chiefly being sold in order that the family might obtain food. Many small pieces were offered at all kinds of prices, one such pin that really sparkled at $35.00 to a necklace which also sparkled some, at $3,500. A silver tea-pot was sold for $100 and the purchaser was satisfied that he got a real bargain. There were all kinds of personal ornaments, rings, watches, with real jewels set in the case, in one instance, a presentation made to the Czar of General Kuropatkin, beautiful necklaces, in fact I never saw such a display, but what I really liked was the wonderful display of Russian Fur Garments. Many of these had been worn and some pieces had listings reported that there was no room for doubt as to whom these had belonged. We saw beautiful sables, minks, foxes, black, white, grey and red fox, Persian coats that made every young lady want one. Stone Martins wonderful to look at, or of grander fair and in some case a lady was seen wearing a coat of beautiful coat but you do not wonder why it is offered, so that she can get out-fares to sell her good one. This whole scene made one feel that there was unfortunate times yet to Canada could not know, what misery the war had brought to these people. I had a conversation with a former Russian officer, a tall, handsome man, one who spoke English very well. He thinks that for a time, no, will for ever cause me to think very kindly of the Russian people, but I was very much making due allowance for those men like Lenine and Trotsky, who for the time being have brought such an upheaval in Russia, but out of it all will be the providence of God, come a new and greater Russia, one that will find her real place among the nations of the world. I would like to add only this; this officer very kindly made Russia like to me, and I am glad to say that the great city of Constantinople city is one of a million and a half people, situated on the Sea or Marmora, Bosphorus Straits and the Golden Horn, so called because of its shape, the world at one time paid tribute to Turkey and so the beautiful harbor became in reality the world's port or receiving basin for Constantinople.

Now as your readers may be wondering how it is possible to see so much of a great city in the short space of two days, I will tell you briefly how it is done. Here nearly eight hundred people left our ship in two relays to be met by seventy guides and placed in carriages, three persons to each carriage with a guide for every three or four carriages. This means that a guide has from nine to twelve people to instruct and one of the most familiar things we would hear would be this way you go Mr. 60."

The city is also divided into sections so that only a few of our people are visiting the one place at the same time, every driver having his special routes which he followed and we in turn would come each place visited from our ship which was the same as the drivers. In the matter of guides we have been most fortunate and the Cook's Tours, of which this is the 126th, employ only well educated men who speak English very much as we do. If Constantinople half our guides were students from the Robert College, while in Rome many of the guides were most educated for the Priesthood.

Before reaching this great city we were told by those who had been here before that we would see more sea gulls, more pidgeons, and more dogs than any place else in the world, but to our surprise we only saw eleven dogs during our drive at the city, and we saw fewer gulls and pidgeons than in many other places we have visited. The great roar of cannon during the war is said to have driven the birds from the city and they are only returning now, while the dog nuisance has been done away with since the British occupation of the city. Dogs used to be the city scavengers, there being over 30,000 dogs at one time but were highly protected by law, any person kicking a dog on the street being sent to prison.

Constantinople is different from all other cities we have visited, its very location suggesting to the visitor that here is the one place where Europe and Asia meet and have done so for thousands of years. The population is therefore very mixed, less than half being Turks, the rest being from almost all the nations of the world. We found it the cleanest city to get about in, for besides having a thousand British soldiers, some of whom were to be seen at every corner and many people speak a little English, due no doubt, to the work of the Robert College, which is the pride and hope of the Near East.

Now while we visited many places of interest I will refer to only four, The Mosque of St. Sofia, the Sultan's Palace, the Great Basellica Cistern and the Grand Bazaar, and of these I must write briefly.

The Mosque of St. Sofia is visited by every one, almost certainly as a church that has played a great part in the world's history, it is interesting. Built or founded by Emperor Justinian in 509 A.D., and it is said that ten thousand people were employed in its building, during the many years of its erection and is said to have cost over $6,000,000.00. Apart from the grand dome which is 184 feet high and 105 feet in diameter, the church has little to attract the sightseer but once inside it becomes more interesting. As we entered we were given big slippers to cover our boots, for no one is allowed to wear in street shoes. Once inside, the great dome becomes the admiration and you stand in wonder, trying to figure out what supports this great dome, the construction being very different from all others we have seen. It really seems to be unsupported but after a walk through the great aisle, the guide points out the great arches which the dome rests on. The whole floor was covered with rich carpets, and I would say would be at least 30 to 50 feet in size. We saw men in every part of the building, some at the entrance to the prayer, to the most sacred parts of the Mosque. We have been told that there are many Islamic features, we were pointed out and could see the Christian Cross, the emblems of the cross would be sculptured through the covering, these over these many years.

But I must away to the Palace of the Sultan. It was Friday the Mohammedan day of rest, when Sultan Vahdy proceeds from the palace in the private mosque for prayers. All that is left of Turkey's military is drawn up to take part in this parade. Mounted lancers on the finest horses, men with guns, a few infantry, some men from the navy, the body guards, palace police and firemen all turn out to protect the Sultan.

Special positions of advantage were reserved for our ship's party and in the official letter circulated we had been passed through the crowd on great silver trays in order that we might smoke the Sultan's good health, and after some little delay the Sultan's Cavalcade, the load call was heard from the top of the single minarete above the mosque and the Sultan and staff appeared in a fine carriage driven through the palace gate. The band played, the people cheered, and His Majesty drove by within not more than fifty feet from any of us and made a most interesting picture. I was only say the sultan is a fine looking man of about sixty years of age, is said to be well educated and for a possessor of only one wife, a strange invention in this land of Turkish harems.

And now as to the Basilica Cistern. This is really a wonderful place reached by a descent of several flights of stairs. It once supplied the city with water during the great seige. This cistern is 336 ft. in length and is supported by hundreds of columns, each 29 feet high and crowned with Corinthian Capitals. The whole place is very brilliantly lighted and as these lights reflect on the water a most wonderful effect is represented. Small boats are employed here to row the visitors to various parts of this subterranean lake and as you leave you feel you have seen something different. Sunday spent in sailing through the many thousands islands of the Aegean sea, past ancient Troy, the island of Patmos where St. John had his revelation, all this and much more I would like to write, but perhaps your readers may be tired of trips to follow so I close with kind regards to all Belleville Friends, and remain,

Respectfully yours,

THE COAL STRIKE

MAY LAST MONTHS!
NOBODY KNOWS!

Furthermore—Nobody knows what its termination may bring forth. Prices may be lower—then, and they may not. Every coal dealer knows it hopes, just as much as the consumer.

If the strike lasts a long time there will be a good demand in the fall.

In order to take care of those who may feel like protecting themselves by taking in their coal now, we have made provision by stocking up with a limited quantity of fresh mined NUT, STOVE and EGG—SCRANTON COAL.

We do not urge anyone to put in their coal now, in the absence of any positive information we cannot advise one way or the other. We can only point out the conditions as they exist and the possibilities. Every consumer must use his own judgment. Several of our customers have already ordered their coal delivered.

As long as our stock lasts we shall be pleased to take orders at $15.50 delivered. First come—first served.

IRON-BOUND MINDS

By BYRON STAUFFER

"When we were boys, iron-bound school readers were the fad of a year. Under the cover was a metal clasp, holding the entire back of the book in a vise-like grip.

"It wasn't much of a success. The volume was too stiff and unbending; it wouldn't stay open on the desk. The Department of Education soon asked the publishers to return to the looser thread binding.

"Take the personalities which are too tightly bound. They are unyielding, unadjustable, fearful of thought changeable. They are the opposite to what Abbe Siegys calls loose, unstitched minds. Of course, a man should have some unyielding features; principles to which he is firmly attached. But these are mainly moral.

"I betcha that iron-bound school fad of 1890, an old book-seller in an Ontario town included in his prayer-meeting prayer the earnest hope that the Lord would "make these people sound and steadfast as the iron-bound books I sell in my store." Now, of course, that petition was creditable so far as it referred to firmness in theological actual sin. But in more optimistic, he might better have prayed that they would be as flexible as the cotton-stitched books his competitor was selling. As an advertisement, however, that prayer was a humper.

"Tightly bound people rarely develop with the years; their memory is altogether too good. Not so many years ago, I stayed overnight with a stern old Scot who had but two volumes at hand; the life of the Honorable Georges Brown and the sermons of Dr. Nyrman Macleod. Nothing that could not be squared with Gourdie theology. "Mon, I've heard nothing worth the listening to since Norman's day" in view of the fact that he had just heard me an hour before, I was duly humbled. I failed like Dr. James L. Gordon did when the pastor of a small church in a Saskatchewan town where the Doctor had lectured the night before, said, "You've had William Jennings Bryan in your church in Winnipeg, I understand." Dr. Gordon confirmed it. "And Quesnelle and Father Vaughan, and Dr. J. A. MacConnell?" "Yes," nodded the Doctor. "Well, there you are," lamented the parson; "you city people get the cream of these lectures and we country folks have to be satisfied with the skimmed milk."

"Well, the old Scot at whose house I stayed had too good a memory. When I referred to his own excellent pastor, he shocked me by whispering "says, and he's taken forty-five thousand dollars from these poor people. Now, what do you think o' that?" When it developed from my parishioner queries, that the $45,000 was 20 years' salary at $1,500 per year, I felt like thrashing the old grouch on the spot. "And mind ye," he added, unabashed at my mild rebuke at his bald dissimulation, "in fooly half of those years, the Doctor took two weeks' pay he never earned." He had reference, of course, to the annual vacation. "But never without an earnest protest, true me!" he declared with a brave show of virtue.

"They said that James Gordon Bennett of the New York Tribune searched his files of twenty years back to make sure that the day's editorials published with the past policy of the paper. Mr. Wren Bennett twitted Dana of the Sun for changing front on the question of Negro suffrage, the latter answered by printing these words of Ralph Waldo Emerson at the head of his editorial column. "I wish to say what I to-day feel and think, with the proviso that to-morrow, perhaps, I shall contradict it all".

"When we studied parliamentary law at college, we came to the motion to reconsider, and were told that such a motion could only be made by one who had voted for the measure adopted. Then a youth from Bruce declared that in that case he couldn't see how a motion to reconsider could ever be made. "For," said he, "only a sucker would ever be fool enough to acknowledge that he had been wrong!"

Let us not be overmuch afraid of inconsistency.

MOONSHINE LIQUOR IMPAIRS STANDING

This Trade is Threatening Erin's Stand in the United Kingdom.

Dublin, April 17.—The making of moonshine liquor in Ireland has assumed alarming proportions and threatens to impair Erin's standing in the British Isles as the most temperate of the group.

The traffic in illicit liquor or "poteen" is described by the Catholic Total Abstinance Society as a by-product of the conflict in Ireland, and its rapid growth during the past three years was confined by many of the bishops in their recent Lenten pastorals. Even the Dail Eireann, in spite of the many weighty political questions confronting it, has taken note of the situation and appointed a Commission of Inquiry to examine the excesses which one bishop declares "are gravely demoralizing the masses of the people."

Ireland's drink bill for 1921 amounted to 30,000,000 pounds, of which nearly half went to the British Exchequer in taxation. Formidable as this figure may appear, however, comparative statistics for the United Kingdom show that the drink record of Ireland was lower by a comfortable margin than of England, Wales or Scotland. Per capital of the population, Ireland consumed £9 14s. in drink last year as compared with £8 17s. for England and Wales and £7 10s. 6d. for Scotland. But these estimates are based solely on the liquor that pays tax; therefore the patient computers of drink statistics are endeavoring to ascertain Erin's standing with the addition of her bootleg fraternity.

DELEGATES ATTEND HAWAII CONFERENCE.

Discuss Town Planning and Housing Problem at International Cities.

London, April 16.—(By Canadian Press)—The most remarkable gathering to discuss town planning and housing problems that ever took place in the world was that of the International Garden cities and Town Planning Association in this city recently. At least it was so characterized by Lord Robert Cecil in proposing a toast to the guests at a luncheon given in honor of the visitors, and it was generally agreed that Lord Robert had not exaggerated.

Delegates from thirty-six countries attended the conference even Hawaii and the Baltic Republic of Latvia being represented. The various Dominions of the British Empire sent delegates, and the Canadian contingent included representatives, of Quebec, Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia. Among the countries directly interested in the conference were Japan, Palestine, China and the new Irish Free State. Belgium with sixty delegates, had the largest representation outside of Great Britain.

Ebenezer Howard, President of the Association, in welcoming the visitors, made special reference to Belgium, which he complimented on the way it had met the re-planning and rebuilding in the areas devasted by war. He also referred to France as having done excellent work in the devasted districts. President Howard said that in the great Overseas Dominions the town planning and garden cities movement was growing stronger every day.

One of the speakers at the conference was Senator R. Tiack, Vice-President of the International Garden Cities and Town Planning Association, and President of the Housing Association of Regium. He recalled that two years ago there wer but a dozen countries in the Association, now there are sixty-four. "In Belgium" he said "they were erecting palaces or tri-umphal arches, but only houses for working people. They were going back to simplicity and nature".

Arthur Blackaller, who portrays the character has scored one of the greatest successes of recent years. To miss seeing him in this play at Griffin's next Thursday, April 20 is to miss the best piece of character acting in the play, is a character not unlike "Lightnin' Bill Jones." "AS A MAN THINKETH"

Spring, season of optimism, is upon us. The winter was changed with famine, unemployment, and unrest—altogether a winter that will be remembered in most countries of the world. But as long as man reacts to the season of flowing sap, of unfolding buds, and the awakening of vegetation, so long will he brush away such memories, and luxuriate in the promise of the new season. Some of the more energetic of tillers of the soil, in Canada, have already been abroad in the fields, and the dappled greys have turned a few long furrows. In a short time this spring occupation of the farmers will be general, and the world with the bearing of great acreages sowed to the end that famine that keep mankind, and the domestic animal-kind, strong and vigorous throughout all seasons.

The memo of the Limitation of Armament Conference have long since retired to the chief of the capital cities of the world. Another international discussion is now in conference. And, meanwhile, humanity waits for this day when production shall take on its wonted proportions, and markets absorb the marketable surplus. We have, this long while, read again and again, the measured sentences of leaders who have asserted that the tide of business had ebbed to its full, and that the flow towards prosperity had begun. But, somehow, we do not respond in kind; and everywhere is heard the plaint of the average citizen that work is hard to find, and the necessities of life difficult to obtain.

A kindly spirit will pervade the world this spring season. Humanity begins to believe that the worst has gone by, and that better days lie ahead. And, after all, is it not true that once a sufficiently large number of people begin to think optimistically, the better condition is an inevitable result? "As a man thinketh" is a declaration and a promise that still produces results in kind. A shaking out of a universal lethargy, and a little leavening of the ready tendency to hate one's neighbor, will serve to accelerate the tide. It is time for the deep burial of old animosities. It is time for the cultivation of tolerance. And for these changes there is no season that approaches to the period of re-birth known as "Spring."

"SELF MASTERY".

A great deal of publicity has been given in newspapers lately to the work of M. Coue, a French professor of auto-suggestion, having his school at Nancy, France. M. Coue has just completed a series of lectures and demonstrations in London, England, and though great claims have been made by his disciples for the success of his method of treatment, the professor deprecates very strongly any attempt to attribute special powers to himself. "There is absolutely nothing miraculous about his system," he declares. According to one of his admirers, he is never tired of reiterating that you will be well only if you obey Nature's laws; you must eat slowly, you must not overeat or overdrink, you must practice thinking cheerfully and, healthfully, you must feel confident that you are capable of accomplishing perfectly well whatever it is your duty to do, and then you will be well, because you will deserve to be."

The formula used by M. Coue in his treatments consists of the two French words, "Ca Passe," "it's going." This is repeated over and over again, while the thought is concentrated upon the particular seat of the trouble, and, it is said, wonderful cures have resulted. It seems very simple, and is surely harmless enough. Another formula, which is represented as being most helpful to physical and mental progress, is that of repeating, every night before going to bed and every morning on awakening twenty times over: "Day by day, in all respects, I grow better and better." The words "in all respects," it is explained, are applicable to "everything."

The London Times, in commenting editorially on this form of healing, remarks: As the Germans did not pass the last ridges in front of Verdun because their French defenders believed that they would not, so in many cases the infirmities to which the human flesh is heir do pass away if only the spirit within the flesh can bring itself to believe that they will. The theory is no new discovery. What may be thought of M. Coue's auto-suggestion theories, there can be no finding fault with his definition of an altruist as one "qui trouve sans le chercher ce que l'egoiste cherche sans le trouver"—(one who finds without seeking what the egoist seeks without finding). A little auto-assertion and self-mastery, coupled with this unselfish pursuit of happiness may not be a bad thing in these strenuous days.

PEACE IN COAL FIELDS

Halifax Chronicle.

There is nothing so important to the Province of the moment as the establishing of conditions favorable to the attainment of peace in the coal fields, and if the spirit of good-will and common sense is allowed to operate unmolested there should not be any great difficulty in concluding a settlement which will be advantageous to all who are engaged in the prosecution of this great natural industry, and of enormous benefit to all the business interests of the Province. It is a time to get together and to get to work.

KEEP OFF THE SPONGE

Brockville Recorder and Times

At this time of the year, when private lawns and Court House Green are in a more or less spongy state, they can be seriously damaged and marred by persons taking "short cuts" across them. This destruction on the part of many pedestrians is perhaps due more to thoughtlessness than to consideration on selfishness.

The Poets' Corner

THE ARMY OF THE DEAD.

(Sassoon, who is No. 3 American)

I dreamed that overhead
I saw, sunlit and grey
The Army of the Dead.

Marching upon its way,
So, silent and peaceful they
Who have no creed.
That scarcely could one guess
Which men in war had been:
Yet
No mark or hurt they bore,
Nor smoke nor bloody stain;
Nor suffered any more
Winter, hunger or pain;
Nor any lust of hate
Now lingered in their eyes
Who have fulfilled their days,
Have lost all enmities.

A new and greater pride,
So unspoiled that all pride of race
That long marched side by side,
Who once fought face to face,
That ghostly army's plan
Knows but one purpose, one road
All nations there are man.
That be one King is God.

No longer on their ears
The bugle's summons falls;
Beyond the tangled spheres
The Archangel's trumpet calls;
And by that trumpet led
Far up the startled sky
The Army of the Dead
Goes by, and still goes by.

Look upward, standing mute;
Salute!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Belleville, April 16.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir—To day we commemorate the death of one of the noblest and best men that lived during the past century, Abraham Lincoln. We always revere the lives of our own great statesmen as memory recalls their name back to us from time to time, after they have passed to the great Beyond. But to day we are paying tribute to one, though he did not belong to us, yet one whom the whole world delights to honor and revere. Instead of writing a short sketch of his life as most have read, I am writing some of Lincoln's sayings that I think are worthy of note.

"Men ought to be mighty good to women, for nature gave them the big end of the log to lift, and mighty little strength to do it with."

"Intemperance is one of the greatest, if not the greatest of all evils among mankind."

"I do not think of a man who is not wiser to-day than he was yesterday."

"Let us have our faith in God and go forward without fear, and with manly hearts."

"You must make common people, or he would not have made so many of them."

"I am profitably engaged reading the Bible. Take all this book upon reason that you can, and the balance of faith and you will live and die a better man."

"In regard to the great Book I have only to say that it is the best gift which God has given man."

"We cannot escape History." "Let peace father any thing but life is right." "I have not willingly planted a thorn in any man's bosom."

"All that I am or all that I hope to be I owe to my angel Mother."

"I want it said of me by those who know me best that I have always plucked the thistle and planted a flower in its place where ever a flower or thistle grew."

One cannot write about Lincoln without mention of his Mother. In closing, I wish to add a few lines touching upon them both.

Over a century ago, in a log-cabin in South Western Indiana, a mother lay dying. She know that her last hour was fast on its way and asked for her seven-year-old boy. She pressed him close to her and whispered.

"Be somebody Abe." The mother was Nancy Hanks. And the boy did somebody. For he was Abraham Lincoln and became President of the United States."

Throughout the years of struggle and later, when honors came fast upon him, Lincoln often remarked that those last words of his angel mother came to lead him on.

It matters little who you are or what you do, so long as you decide to be somebody and carry, through your determination with honor.

The main thing is to be somebody. "The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here," said the immortal Lincoln at Gettysburg. Yet it will never forget what they did here." What we say is easily forgotten. But what we do remains as a monument to what we were.

Jest to be something, worth while. Just-be somebody.

PADRE CLAYTON HAS RETURNED

His Work Among Returned Soldiers Will Not be Forgotten.

Ottawa, Ont., April 15.— / By Canadian Press.—Rev. F. B. Clayton has returned to England but his work among Canadian soldiers in connection with the Y.M.C.A. movement will be a standing remembrance of the padre's visit to the Dominion.

Padre Clayton has also witnessed the organization of Toc H groups in New York and Philadelphia, in addition to the five already organized in Canada.

"Miss Ike" Quentin Roosevelt, and Alan Seeger, the idols of American school, were to American members what Gilbert Talbot was to England or young Drummond to Montreal, "is one description of the movement.

The idea is plainly capable of adaptation in a free and easy style, and Padre Tubby Clayton is the certified exponent of Toc H. He is an all round fellow who meets all regular intervals for a simple meal. They must be non-commissioned officers. They are charged not to try and grow fat but to be careful that they do not grow lopsided. The meal ended, they stand for a full minute in silence, and think of their best pal over there, or someone they've heard of. Then they settle down to business. Such as we have, we are there to give it, must seldom be eagerly which would not be even slowly spoken upon us. We are there to give as each can, his measure of personal service.

However, numerous as are societies in Canada, there is not one other which aims at transmitting to the younger world the spiritual and social significance of the great tragedy to which Canada made such a notable contribution in heroism and sacrifice. Toc H is not an organization, but an organism. It is founded by returned men, but not by returned men only. Talbot, home in the Tyree Ballent was known to thousands of Canadians, and dearly loved by many. It is now nearly another English thing seeking to found branches in Canada. It is a method of introduction into their circle of men, arrived at by picking a bunch of the best all round and establishing an atmosphere of mut-

Canadian Daily Newspapers Association,

TORONTO, Ont.

Dear Sirs:—

Having been consistent users of daily newspaper space in our advertising for many years it affords us pleasure to say that we have found the results very gratifying.

In our opinion two of the main points of effectiveness in daily newspaper advertising lie in its directness and the means it affords of launching a selling campaign with the least possible delay.

The advertising of musical products in the main must be addressed to a public with the widest diversity of taste. In reaching this public with maximum selling force we have at all times found satisfaction in the employment of the daily press.

Canada is fortunate indeed in being served by daily newspapers which are clean, wholesome and progressive.

Yours very truly,

CANADIAN MANAGER.

A.E.L/ O.I.C

This company has found the daily newspaper a constant, practical force in distribution, and a swift-striking ally in taking timely advantage of a notable event in local music. No other advertising in the world can be changed when how and as quickly as such a business house requires. No other can reach people of diverse tastes through the one which all men have in common, hunger for the news of the day.

THE DREAMERS

By VINCENT G. PERRY.

The dreamers sat side by side on the old log, and ever the sun, over the lake. The noise was of ripples punctuated by the splash of fish nearby kissing the wet line of the beach, made the only sound. Then one of the brothers, with a thick black face a line that widened as the sunlight passed, widened and widened, grew colossal. Fascinated, the dreamers watched until the great halo was in its widest magnificence, and slowly outlined and gazed beyond the face, the head, the shoulders of the daughter—slowly, slowly, there they rode the mighty waves in all of a conqueror.

"Someday I am going to be like Caesar," said brother the dreamer, as going to spring up out of the beach-grassed and swiftly take a place of prominence in the world of men.

"Me, I will travel on and on, seeking till I know not, then can, me, I shall have achieved greatness."

They smiled. Ha, yes, how droll.

"I will be like these waves," he said, "I will go very gently, gently, gently, until it's started the things in my way, over or carry with me the power of Nature. I am the second born, like Esau, but then I will come back, always I will be reckoned last, out.

It was many years later. Jack Tennyson, millionaire banker, left his office behind heavy and aching. His brother had passed away a bachelor was Jack. Despite his remarkable achievements and his world-wide fame as one of the cleverest and coolest financier on Wall street he still faced every day harrowed, still instilled at a time; but come sure Jack knew that—to Wall-street he was a man of power, a man with an iron constitution.

It was his pain like Jack "the tired business man," fond of entertainment and inventive, but the "get-together" spirit had no attraction for him that night.

"Frightening but a musical show," he said his chauffeur, after he had given up the "Follies" setting. "I don't know where these melodramas would be without delight."

Then that the car drew up at Jack's house. Dancer playing "The Bubble Dance." The chime could apply for thing above, but the glaring lithographic poster put in front of the theater proclaimed its attraction without doubt. Jack went in without flinching. He was certain his chauffeur declined an invitation to accompany him—that in itself was sufficient guarantee that the show was a poor one, but Jack was the help of his own thinking, and he never had any "help" himself.

The house was well filled. The orchestra were all occupied, but those of the boxes were empty. Jack's seat was near the front. The curtain went up on the first act before the millionaire had a chance to study the types around him.

The scene was a beach. The water in the background was a poor sculpt and the old log had the pale painted upon it looked natural enough. Then appeared at the head of the curved a bikini line. It was some time before the audience could grasp that it was intended for smoke, but when lights appeared and the form of a pooty painted like freckles attached itself to the thin smoke line the riddle was solved.

Then the pair began to speak. The girl spoke first. Her voice was low and sweet; there was nothing of the forced melodrama in her tone. She was just a child, barely fourteen, Jack decided. His mind was more on the truth across than on the words she was speaking when the boy began his boyhood ideal—they were dreamers, dreaming of the future. Such a feeling, such a passion of it was.

But Jack could not become bored by the play. The plot was rapped in the bright little across protraying the child's part kept him through in the play he held his interest.

It was between the third and fourth acts that Jack came to his decision. His life had been such a lonely, barren sort of thing, why couldn't he do something worth while now? he asked himself. Here was his chance to spend some of his millions on the other, here was his chance to give the little child-dreamer the means of realizing some of her dreams.

Lenore Ressiky sank in the chair before her, dropped her head and gave a sigh of relief. The play was over, and she was glad of it, for her part was a hard one and she had exerted her every effort in portraying it. Her mind seemed worn out. The actress gave the card but a fleeting glance. Cards meant only one thing in her life—stage johnnies, and experience had skinned her of that type long ago.

"So was prosperous, rich looking," her maid whispered. "And he was persistent."

Lenore glanced up. It took almost a minute before she connected the name's comment with the card; then she picked the shiny bit of cardboard up once more.

"Jack Tennyson," she read aloud, and then as she turned the card over read the pencilled note on the back. "An old middle-aged man who can perhaps help you. Administer who does and treat to make love to you."

QUICK DINNER FOR THE BUSINESS GIRL COOK

"Please tell me through your column of some quick dinners which could be prepared after business hours," writes a reader of this column signs herself "Business Girl Bride." There are hundreds of women, both married and unmarried, who must return from work to go to a kitchen and cook dinner. I am sure an article on this subject would be appreciated by others beside my self."

The following menus are for dishes which can be prepared in one half hour, or less, on my kind of range that has an oven and top. But with the aid of a fireless cooker the business girl could, of course, have much greater scope in her cooking; for she could put into the "fireless" can roots as requires long cooking before starting to fuss with them in the morning and thus be saved the nuisance of cooking after business hours, as well as gaining wider food-variety.

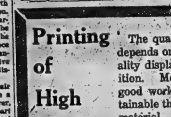

I will be glad to send "directions for making a fireless cooker" to any reader who sends me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cornstarch Pudding

The meat balls will take about 20 minutes to fry. The potatoes will take the full half-hour—and they had best be boiled in their jackets if the business-girl cook is late. Cornstarch pudding is one of the quickest desserts that can be made, as it simply needs to boil up for a few minutes before being served.

Much of the crop is grown in the interior and brought to Trebizond by camel trains. Shelled filberts and some are sold here at about three cents a pound, competing successfully with all other food products. The nuts are used as both vegetables and dessert.

Then I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after using a few boxes I felt much better. CARL MAYS TO BE STORMY PETREL

Has Been a Source of Trouble Since He Started the Game.

Carl Mays continues to be the storm-center of the American League. His latest escapade involves the throwing of the ball over the grandstand in an exhibition game in the south.

Peeved, because Manager Huggins saw fit to remove him from the box because the Brooklyn club was hitting his offerings all over the field, Mays s la his fashion threw the ball over the grand stand.

Fortunately, major league clubs help plenty so baseballs in games of the action of Mays did not break up the ball game, as he probably hoped to accomplish.

Manager Huggins, in order to maintain discipline, fined Mays $200 for his child-like tactics.

Whereupon Mays threatened to quit the team. Some of his teammates implored him not to do so. Now he says he will stay with the club until the first pay day, and if the $200 is missing from his check he is through.

For a number of years Mays has been the American League in constant turmoil.

On July 14, 1915, Mays quit the Boston club in the middle of a game at Chicago. Disgusted with the way the club was going Mays said he was through with baseball unless sold to a club in the race.

He was later sold to the New York club, President Johnson then stepped in and said the New York club took the case to court and got a permanent injunction restraining President Johnson from interfering with the pitching of Mays for the New York club.

It was a long drawn out court affair that split the American League into factions. Five clubs remained loyal to President Johnson. They protested New York, Chicago and Boston from ousting him from the presidency, as was their intent.

Mays later was unfortunate enough to kill Ray Chapman of the Cleveland club with a pitched ball. It was always, by the players, that Mays was in the habit of throwing the "bean ball." At one time it looked as if the American League would go on strike over the accident.

These are just a few of the high spots in a score of affairs in which Mays has played the central figure.

The Mays case is turning out to be a complete vindication for the attitude taken by President Johnson when asked Mays should play with Boston or quit baseball when he jumped the league.

The New York club which went the limit in Mays's behalf, is feeling the pangs of retribution.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS BUYS 2 LBS. BREAD OR SEAT IN OPERA

Odessa, April 17—It costs 25 cents the price of two pounds of bread, for an entire logs at the Odessa opera. The musicians wear gloves while playing their instruments to keep them the germ from freezing in the heatless halls but the music is exceptionally good.

Long lines of servants people wait in line daily before fod stations and many are to be seen lying in the street too weak from hunger to solicit food yet the opera house is well patronized. The bill at a performance witnessed by the correspondent was "The Hugenots". The voices were good and the costumes—hangovers from more prosperous days—were as good as many seen in American opera houses.

Several performances are given each week in a varied repertoire of Italian, German, Russian or purely local Ukraine operas.

MIKE McTIGUE ORDERED TO CARRY OUT CONTRACTS

Montreal, April 13.—The bout between Mike McTigue of New York and Halifax, claimant of the Canadian middleweight boxing title, and Mike O'Dowd, scheduled to take place here next Monday, has been postponed for 14 days unless the men fight under the promotion of Tommy Conway, local fight impresario. Mr. Conway appeared before the Montreal Boxing Commission to-day and claimed that McTigue has broken contracts entered into with him earlier in the season. These contracts covered a series of ten-round bouts with Angie Ratner, Johnny Howard, Mike O'Dowd, Lou Bernah, Roddy MacDonald and Soldier Bartfield.

The commission thereupon decided that if Conway could sign up any of the above within a period of fourteen days to fight here with McTigue, the later must meet them before he will be allowed to meet any boxer in this city. After the fourteen days has expired, the contract, if assigned by any of them, shall be deemed to be null and void, and McTigue will be free to box whom he wishes in Montreal.

BOUQUETS FOR FREDDY GOYER

So much has been written and said about Freddy Goyer during the ivory months that the baseball fans have been very anxious to see the former Belleville pitcher in action. They stood around and watched him work out for a short time yesterday afternoon and now they are not wondering that Belleville was sorry to lose him. He will be a big drawing card around the Inter-County circuit this summer. He is a willing worker, makes no fuss and is anxious to deliver the goods.—Guelph Herald.

But although time has dealt kindly with the monarch, the correspondent during a recent visit to the tiny village of Santa Maria del Tule, Oaxaca, noticed that the wrinkles of age are beginning to show. There is no immediate cause for worry, however, as the heavy casualties.

"GREAT TREE OF TULE" SHOWS SIGNS OF WEAR

Cortes and His Spanish Soldiers Slept Under This Tree.

Mexico City, April 71.—The "Great Tree of Tule" in the state of Oaxaca, after some 800 years of recorded existence, is beginning to show signs of wear and tear. This great cypress with a trunk so huge that 30 persons with outstretched arms can scarcely span it, is known to have been a fair sized tree when Columbus discovered America, and history recounts that Cortes and his Spanish soldiers slept beneath its branches four centuries ago when enroute to Honduras following their conquest of Mexico.

a son some 50 yards away from the parental bosque that is showing healthy signs of maintaining the family honor in the matter of robustness. Mijo (son) as the Indians have named it, already is so large that 12 persons are needed to span it and Mijo is only a couple of hundred years old. The Great Tree of Tule rises about 175 feet, and is said to be one of the largest specimens in the world. The spread of its branches is almost 150 feet. It stands in the courtyard of a tiny church and is the only bid for popular interest made by the village of Santa Maria del Tule, whose population reveres the tree almost as much as one of its saints.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TAKEN UP TO RESTORE "EL VISCO"

SWEDISH SCHOOL CHILDREN READ LESSONS FROM SCREEN

Stockholm, April 17—Swedish school children are beginning to read their lessons from the movie screen. The use of educational films is becoming more and more a part of the lower grade curriculum, even in the most remote districts, and leading educators are making elaborate plans to extend the scope of "film classes."

In the city of Gevale, northern Sweden, the children are said by visiting American professors to know more about Manhatan Island than young students in western parts of the United States who never have visited the metropolis.

One of the most prominent champions of films as a means of study is Prince William, second son of King Gustaf, who has taken complete motion picture outfits with him on his trips of exploration through Central American and South Africa.

These boys have not had an opportunity of displaying their wares here as yet, Ferris having been stationed boys only last October. He pitched city league ball in Sault Ste. Marie last season. Williams is a stranger to Belleville.

VOTERS REGISTER IS VERY STALE

Canmon De Valera Claims Forthcoming Irish Elections are Valid.

Dublin, April 17.—Eanmon de Valera will challenge the validity of the forthcoming Irish elections on the ground that the register now in use is defective. Both at the Dail sessions and in correspondence with President Griffin he has contended that the register is stale, including many names that ought to be removed and omitting many others that ought to be included.

His correspondence has demanded the immediate preparation of an up-to-date register but the demand was rejected on the ground that it would be certain to delay the elections which the Free Staters desire to hold at the earliest possible date. It is admitted that owing to the conditions of conflict that prevailed in Ireland last year the ordinary work of revising the register was not uniformly performed.

According to Mr. De Valera the errors affect tens of thousands of names. In the few districts where revision was undertaken the net changes made amount roughly to about 16 per cent.

The defect now concerns two classes in whom Mr. De Valera is specially interested. These are the young men who have come of age in the qualifying period and who are not, under the existing register, entitled to vote, and women under the age of 30, who reached that age during the qualifying period, but are not yet on the register. The Republicans attach importance to the women's vote, which they believe to be favorable to them.

With New Days Have Come New Methods

More ethical methods of course—of greater importance to the public, more thorough and scientific methods of visual diagnosis.

With a more intelligent public realization of the intimate relation between general physical disorders and visual defects there arose a positive need for the Optometrist to apply himself to higher optical education, if he were to merit consideration by the better classes.

That our Optical Service is now appreciated is definitely attested by the steadily growing demands made upon it.

ARABIC NUMERALS UNIVERSALLY USED

So Says the Times' Scientific Expert Who Has Studied This Matter

London, April 17.—Language, the master-key to thought and the vehicle of communication, remains under the ban of Babel; while Arabic numerals, measurements of latitude and longitude, mathematical signs, chemical formulae and even the metric system have progressed to such an extent that they are now used by all nations. The Times' scientific expert, urging the necessity of a universal tongue,

Esperanto or Ido, or some modification of them, seem to hold the balance of advantages in the choice for universal language. In addition to this, although Latin and English have received sufficient support to be ranked as official candidates. Scientific men, he says, form the group most anxious to see a world agreement on some auxiliary language and are not inclined to care what one is chosen.

"Were it possible to acquire a second language in addition to the natal tongue to convey ideas," the Times' expert says, "one of the greatest barriers to the progress of science would be broken down."

Of the languages contending for world recognition, he says that a difficult and irregular grammar is one of the chief objections to Latin, while English has a "chaotic" spelling, with a difficult and various pronunciation, he says, the choice of one from among the many living languages would excite intense and destructive jealousy.

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR WELFARE WEEK

The first week in May, Child Welfare Week, will see many mothers pushing baby carriages, with little toddlers trudging along at their sides, making their way to one central point —the Parish Hall of St. Thomas' Church on Bridge street. Every afternoon from Monday to Friday, this will be the busiest and most interesting corner in all Belleville. Upstairs in the large Hall the exhibits will be on view to all their keep. Competitions and definite aims will be there to explain the exhibits and give short talks on subjects that are every day of interest to parents. They will also answer questions.

The different ladies' organizations will take turns in providing tea and music.

Posters made by the school children will be on the exhibition.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, an additional attraction downstairs in the basement, a Child Welfare Clinic will be held.

EASTER SUNDAY IN LOCAL CHURCHES

Observance of the Lord's Supper was observed at the morning service, and in the evening a special Easter service with special music was given.

The evening sermon was given on the text; "Victory Over Death," taken from the portion of the scriptures found in First Corinthians, 15th chapter, verses 54 to 58. The pastor, Rev. Wallace Hamilton, preached on that subject at the Easter season some people were prone to boast over the glorious death of Christ on the cross. Others accept the history of the happening and, believing it, cease to ponder further upon its vast significance. While it is not particularly advisable to doubtingly refer to this great event, yet all of us should earnestly think over it, and try to appreciate just what a wonderful effect it has had on the history of the world.

As Christ died His body, consisting of flesh and blood, was the "book of Calvary, His disciples, who were His friends, passed upon Him; they spat upon Him, covered Him with filth and His face, His enemies taunted Him, and called upon Him to show His power. He had come down from the cross. The neutral onlookers possibly murmured, "There goes another man to death he was foolish enough to try and be good." Probably they did not know that the death which they were witnessing was the supreme fact of all human history; the fact which caused His disciples to go forth and spread His gospel throughout the world; and the fact that has been the greatest influence for good, for kind thought, good deed, and, in fact, everything beautiful that has entered into the world. Anyone who believes in the fineness of the manhood of Jesus, can find no place for hate, but is filled with narrowness in their lives.

Some claim that the death of Christ was a scientific impossibility. Such statements, considered by the closest and greatest students of history as having the highest claim to truth, stamp as this to say of the death of Christ, having witnessed it and studied the events of His death carefully: "Whatever the details of the fact may be, here is the fact of fact, that Jesus took the sting of death in the face and laugh at it."

Truly no big thing has occurred in the last 1900 years, which does not date back to the death of Christ. All noble thoughts and uplifting motives, all that is wonderful and beautiful, even itself to the Man yonder, who went to death and to the grave. There He conquered the terrors of death, but also is the sting of death. The greatest sorrow of death is the fact that the loved one has terminated here on earth, was not as pure as it should have been, and that there is some part which it is necessary to cover up. If there is no stain, there is no lasting sorrow.

When the Saviour's life was all but gone, and with His final effort He cried out, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit," He proved conclusively that He was conqueror over death, and that it was the power of His death that banker in the Dominion) The Hon. speaks member and I will have to confess reluctan that and we will do this in the near future.

LOCAL MEMBER SPEAKS ON D. S. A.

I attended the large and representative Dairymen's Annual District Meeting here Belleville at which Mr. Publow and Mr. Stonehouse gave addresses, at the close of which the chairman asked for a vote, the result being almost unanimous against the enforcement of the Dairy Standard Act. Evidently the report had been sent to the Department not bearing the facts as to the result of the vote later, I was invited to attend a meeting of the Dairymen of the Belleville District, at the Chamber of Commerce Building there, again, they discussed the Dairy Standards Act and decided to send a delegation to wait upon the Minister, and I was asked to accompany them, which I did. This delegation of about one hundred dairymen from the bay of Quinte District represented about 130 companies, an 10,000 producers. (This delegation waited upon the Government and believe the D. S. A. optional, given their various reasons for doing so.

In the Eastern dairymen, there are thousands of dollars worth of feed in winter their herds and with the pose selling, of obtaining very low price this year, consequently they do not feel that they can afford any extra expense, which will be incurred in enforcing this Act. Some of the factories will have to purchase necessary equipment, implying bollers, etc.

It has been stated by the Minist that if we do not enforce the D. S. A. we might as well bring all the meat inspectors that we already have. I believe the machinery we have had in the past has practically been useless so far as Dairy Industry, although there may have been some operators that about have been scrupped.

It has been stated that there may b many tuberculer cows in the country and consequently the by-product should be pasteurized to prevent the spread of tuberculosis in hogs.

Mr. Speaker, I am afraid that we are becoming more interested in the health of the hog than in humans. We must not forget that great quantity of milk is consumed raw before it is delivered to towns and villages to be consumed by the people, from infants to grandparents. Yet, we know not to the extent the dairy herds of this Province are affected by disease.

I believe this Province should vote a large sum of money to assist in stamping out this disease of tuberculosis from our herds, might be co-operated with the Dominion and Provincial Govern ment in order to protect the owner of such cattle from sustaining a great loss.

Human beings should be protected especially young children who are much be more liable to contract disease. Th Chief Veterinary Inspector for th Province of Ontario has recently, that by eradicating tuberculosis in cattle would be a great step in stamping on the great white plague.

Mr. Speaker, I trust that even a this late hour, the Minister will give the reasonable consideration

MANY LOST ARTICLES AT SCOTLAND YARD

Anything From Umbrella to Beautiful Furs Are Found Here.

London, April 18.—(By Canadian Press)—Scotland Yard, naturally, is a clearing house for lost articles, and a city of this size it may easily be understood that the lost article feature of the metropolitan policeman's duties is somewhat extensive. However, it is not the large number of things lost that is of special interest, but the apparent indifference of many of the owners as to whether they get them back or not. Most of the losses occur in public vehicles. Umbrellas, of course, leads the list, a fair average years gatherings of these useful, if despised articles being 23,000.

Everything found in a public vehicle and not claimed within three months is returned to the driver who handles it, if on a final appeal by the police being the three months' period the owner is not forthcoming. If the goods are claimed, the driver gets 12 1-2 per cent of the value thereof. Jewelry, jewelry, upon which he gets 15 percent up to the value of £10, after which the percentage dwindles. Also he notifies, notify the public through advertisements in the newspapers, yet but mon than 300 articles were distributed among the drivers of vehicles because there were no claimants for them.

Among the lost articles which have been in the cubicards of the police for almost three months are an ostrich feather fan and a beautiful stole, worth £100. These are certainly worth claiming if the owners are still in London which may be doubtful.

One of the "lost" things picked up by the police not long ago was an African tree bear, which is said to have been in a lavical. However the owner turned up the next day and recovered his pet.

SHOOTING TRAGEDY HAS BEEN REVIVED

Russian Princess Who Shot Paris Millinaire, Dies in an Asylum.

Geneva, April 17.—A tragedy that thrilled the nobility of Europe and America fifteen years ago has been recalled with the death in an asylum near here of Princess Vera Iana Leontieff, a Russian Nihilist. The Russian princess, who was known to the Bolshevists as a counter revolutionary activities, shot and killed under dramatic circumstances a Paris millionaire named Count Ca Mollet, whom she had mistaken for M. Durovo, then Russian Minister of the Interior, who was responsible for the thousands of Russian political prisoners who died in Siberia.

M. Muller was dashing alone at a hotel in Interlaken when Princess Leontieff, who was only 20, approached of his table and fired several shots. Her innocent victim fell lifeless to the floor. On the examination following Thank God, I've rid Russia of the greatest murderer on earth." The princess was arrested and the real object of her vengeance, M. Durnovo, and left for Berlin two days before.

She was sentenced to four years penal servitude and 20 years expulsion from Switzerland. During her imprisonment she unfortunately, became insane insane, and was removed to the asylum at Munsingen, near Berne, where she died.

trader in the Dominion.) The Hon orable member and I will have to co pare notes on that and we will do thi in the near future.

I attended the large and representa tive Dairymen's Annual District Meet ing here Belleville at which Mr. Pal ow and Mr. Stonehouse gave a dresses, at the close of which th chairman said for a vote of thanks being almost unanimous against th enforcement of the Dairy Standard Act. Evidently the report had been sent to the Department not bearing the facts as to the result of the vote taken. I was invited to attend a meet ing of the Dairymen of the Belleville District, at the Chamber of Commerce building; there, again, they discusse the Dairy Standards Act and decide to send a delegation to walk upon the Minister, and I was asked to accom pany them, which I did. This delega tion of about one hundred dairymen from the Bay of Quinte District rep resented about 120 companies, an 10,000 producers. (This delegatio came, to ask the Government to stil leave the D. S. A. optional, givin their various reasons for doing so.

The cream dairymen have brought thousands of dollars worth of feed t winter their herds and with the pos sibility of obtaining very low price this year, consequently they do not feel that they can afford any extra ex pense, which will be incurred by fol lowing this Act. Some of the factori will have to purchase necessary equip ment, including boilers, etc.

It has been stated by the Minist that if we do not enforce the D. S. A we might as well scrap all the mach inery that we already have. I believ the machinery we have had in the pa has rendered a great service to th Dairy Industry, although there ma have been some operators that shoul have been scrapped.

It has been stated that there may b many tuberculer cows in the country and consequently the by-product should be pasteurized to prevent the spread of tuberculosis in hogs.

Mr. Speaker, I am afraid that w are becoming more interested in the health of the hog than in human. W must not forget that great quantities of milk unpasteurized are being deliv ered to towns and villages to be con sumed by the people, from infants t grown-ups. Yet, we know only to a extent the dairy herds of this Pro vince are affected by disease.

I believe the Province should vote a large sum of money to assist in stamp ing out this disease of tuberculosis. There might be co-operation between the Dominion and Provincial Govern ments in order to protect the owner of such cattle from sustaining an great loss.

Human beings should be protected especially young children who woul be more liable to contract disease. Th Chief Veterinary Inspector for th Dominion stated recently, that b eradicating tuberculosis in cattle w would be a great step in stamping ou the great white plague.

Mr. Speaker, I trust that even th this late hour, the Minister will giv the resolution consideration

MANY LOST ARTICLES AT SCOTLAND YARD

Anything From Umbrella to Beautiful Furs Are Found Here.

London, April 15.—(By Canadia Press)—Scotland Yard, naturally, is clearing house for lost articles, and a city of this size it may easily be sur mised that the lost article feature o the metropolitan policeman's business is somewhat extensive. However, it i not the large number of things lo that is of special interest, but the ap parent indifference of many of the own ers as to whether they get them bac or not. Most of the losses occur in pub lic vehicles. Umbrellas, of course, lea the list, a fair average years gatherin five of these useful, if despised article being $3,000.

Everything found in a public vehicl and not claimed within three month is returned to the driver who handle it is, if on a first appeal by the poli to him the three months expire, th owner is not forthcoming. If the good are claimed, the driver gets 12 1-2 per cent of the value thereof, except i jewelry, upon which he gets 15 percen up to the value of £10, after which th percentage dwindles down. The police notify the public through advertise ments in the newspapers, yet last mon 5,500 articles were distributed among the drivers of vehicles because ther were no claimants for them.

Among the lost articles which have been in the cubbords of the police for almost three months are an ostrich feather fan and a beautiful stole, worth £100. These are certainly worth claim ing if the owners are still in London which may be doubtful.

One of the "lost" things picked up by the police not long ago was an Afri can tree bear, which its owner left be hind in a hurry. However the owner turned up the next day and recovered his pet.

SHOOTING TRAGEDY HAS BEEN REVIVED

Russian Princess Who Shot Paris Millionaire, Dies in an Asylum.

Geneva, April 17.—A tragedy that attracted the attention of Europe and America fifteen years ago has been recalled with the death in an asylum near Berne of Princess Catherina Leontieff, a Russian Nihilist. The Russian princess, who was known as two beautiful girls for her revolutionary activities, shot and killed under dramatic circumstances a Paris millionaire named Prince Sapieha, by whom she had mistaken for M. Durnovo, then Russian Minister of the Interior, who was alleged to have sent hundreds of Russian political prisoners to death in Siberia.

M. Muller was lunching alone at a hotel in Interlaken when Princess Leontieff, who was also lunching there, of his table and fired several shots. Her innocent victim fell lifeless to the floor, the Princess exclaiming: "Thank God, I've rid Russia of the greatest murderer on earth." The princess was unaware that the real object of her vengeance, M. Durnovo, had left for Berlin two days before.

She was sentenced to four years penal servitude and 20 years expulsion from Switzerland. After two years in prison, the unfortunate woman became insane, and was removed to an asylum at Munsingen, near Berne, where she died.

RUSSIAN PACT WITH GERMANY MAY DISRUPT CONFERENCE

Genoa Conference Greatly Startled by Russ-German Pact

A Veritable Bombshell is the Treaty of Rapallo, Signed by Teuton and Soviet Representatives — Does the Treaty Violate the Edict of the Cannes Supreme Council, Which Authorized the Present Conference?—Allies Are Drafting Strong Note to Russia and Germany.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press, Limited

Genoa, April 18.—The organizers of the conference to-day are dazedly attempting to grope their way out of the debris and confusion caused by the explosion of the German-Russian bombshell secret signing of a formal peace treaty. The judicial experts of the powers met this morning to consider whether the new pact violates the stipulation of the Treaty of Versailles re conflicts with the resolution of the Supreme Council at Cannes on which the present conference is founded.

A Havas despatch from Genoa this afternoon says the Allies are drafting a note to Germany and Russians, notifying them it will be impossible for the Germans and Russians to continue participation in the sessions of the Russian Affairs Commission of the conference if they persist in maintaining the Russo-German treaty.

To-day's London newspapers condemn in the strongest language the secret between Russia and Germany and declare it is a deadly blow at the conference, at the Versailles Treaty, and the peace of Europe. The Times says it is an open defiance and a studied insult to the Entente Powers.

With the resources and the manpower of Russia under her control, the newspaper says Germany would be able at her pleasure to pronounce the Treaty of Versailles a scrap of paper and visit Western Europe again with the farmore inseparable from her under surrection as a militarist state. It finally urges the Allies to take up the challenge and leave Germany and Bolshevists they are not to be defied with impunity.

Russia clasped hands with Germany in an agreement the two nations struck at Rapallo yesterday it is disclosed officially. "Clears the slate of all debts", is the basis of the union of the two nations which are here on the defensive—it is the Russian idea of the solution of her debts to other nations.

Simultaneously, it can be stated, Russia is negotiating a similar agreement with Czecho-Slovakia—the leaders of the Little Entente, and a Balkan stronghold. "Clean the slate of all debts" is the new Russian cry in the

WESTERN STATES FACING TORNADOES AND FLOODS

Swollen Rivers Are Flooding the Country, While Raging Tornadoes Continue to Spread Destruction and Ruin in Their Wake—Casualty List is Very High.

Chicago, April 18.—Illinois, already severely distressed by floods, breaking levees and streams on wild and destructive rampage, faced new perils yesterday when additional rain fell, accompanied by driving wind.

Seven persons were killed and Thirty-five injured by a tornado that almost wiped out the village of Irving-ton and those adjacent across the Centralia.

Peoria and East Peoria, already suffered from floods, were visited by a slashing rainstorm to-day, which swelled the rivers, already out of bounds.

Dikes are breaking in East Peoria and several plants are out of business with their engine rooms right feet under water. A number of summer cottages were inundated by the rising flood to-day and the roadbed of the railways is being attacked by the waters.

At Beardstown, which had been the principal sufferer, additional heavy rain threw refugees to still higher spots and merchants worked feverishly to save their stocks. The flood situation is regarded as serious at Beardstown and there is also danger of typhoid. Heavy wind and rain storms swept over western Kansas and western Missouri during the night, doing much damage. Spoor and sleet fell in Nebraska. In Indiana a severe cyclone swept over Warren county killing one farmer and leaving a path of destruction practically all of Indiana had a heavy rainfall today, and streams are bursting their banks for many miles. Many districts in Illinois and Indiana are isolated, as far as transportation is concerned, roadways and car lines being under several feet of water and bridges torn out.

YOUTHS FINED FOR LOITERING

Twelve Pay for Congregating on the Streets and in Doorways.

Twelve youths, ranging in age from 14 to 19 years were this morning, before Magistrate Masson, charged with a breach of a city bylaw, which prohibits the loitering upon the public streets of the city. The accused were all found loitering about Front street on the evening of Sunday the 9th Sept. Boyd and police officers Vanneer and Bouin gave evidence as to the accused being in groups and standing on the street corners and in doorways of stores. It was shown in the evidence that two or three of the boys did not move when requested to do so by the officers.

Magistrate Masson in giving judgment in the cases, stated that boiley ing about the street would have to be stopped. Under the bylaw the penalty was from $1 to $50. Under the circumstances the minimum fine of $1 would be imposed in each case. The costs were $3.50, or in default one week in jail. All fines were paid.

MOTOR CAR GYPSIES VISIT CITY TODAY

Modern Band of Wanderers Travel in Luxurious Motor Cars.

A band of gypsies were seen in the city this morning. There are five cars loads of them. The cars were McLaughlins and Baby Grand Chevrolets. This morning they were parked in front of the Armouries on Bridge-street, near Pinnacle street. They started away about noon down Pinnacle street and were last seen on the Kingston road. Three of the cars stopped in front of the Post Office, on account of one of the cars having engine trouble, and was taken to a garage. The women were dressed in very lightly-colored clothing with red and yellow as the dominating colors.

FOR NEW POST IN THE MILITIA

Sir Edward Morrison About to Be Made Adjutant-General.

Ottawa, April 18.—It is understood that further important changes in the personnel of the higher officers in the Militia Department will shortly be announced. Besides the recent retirement of Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Burstall and Lieutenant-General Sir Willoughby Gwatkin, it is believed that the position of Master-General of the Ordnance, now held by Major-General Sir Edward Morrison, will be abolished, and that officer will be made Adjutant-General, thus retaining a seat in the Militia Council.

The present Adjutant-General, Major-General J. H. Elmsley, will be appointed to the active command of the Military District, with headquarters at Kingston, which also embraces Ottawa in its scope, and is regarded as one of the most important commands in Canada. It is understood that General Elmsley prefers the more active work of a command to an administrative position in Ottawa. The vacancy in Kingston is due to appointment of Brigadier-General King to the London command. The latter command was held by Major-General Henri Panet, who has been appointed to the Toronto command, rendered vacant by the acceptance of control of the provincial police by Major-General Victor Williams.

USED A SHOTGUN

Domestic Quarrel Leads to Terrible Tragedy in Kitchener Yesterday.

Kitchener, Ont., April 18.—A terrible tragedy took place at 2.45 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 155 Benton Street, when Henry H. Meyer, a well-known machinist, shot and killed his wife with a double-barrelled shot gun and then turned the weapon on himself, causing a serious wound in the chest. The woman died almost instantly and her husband was hurried to the hospital, where he was operated on and is reported to be in a critical condition.

The shooting took place, it is believed, following a heated argument between the couple over the action of Mrs. Meyer, who was determined to leave the premises and had hired a dray man, Ben Warren, 111 Strange Street, to remove her belongings. Warren was in the house and was an eye-witness to the tragedy.

Meyer objected to the action of his wife in engaging a draymad to remove the furniture belonging to her, and when his wife persisted in her determination to leave the premises he went up to his room and secured his shot gun. He came down stairs several steps and while she was facing him in the hallway, fired the shot penetrating her chest. She rushed through the dining room to the kitchen where she collapsed and died a few minutes later.

SPEAKS ON UNEMPLOYMENT

London, April 18.—General Brahwell Booth of Salvation Army to-day states that the British Government ought to do more than it is doing to relieve the unemployment situation, particularly in the way of emigration. Only one per cent. of the hundred thousand sent to Canada failed to make good he said.

TRANSPLANT DYING MAN'S EYES TO BLIND BOY WHO NOW SEES

Remarkable Operation on Youth of Hornell, N.Y., is Reported to be a Complete Success, and Boy Will Leave Hospital in Three Weeks.

Hornell, N.Y., April 18.—A blind boy has been made to see with eyes transplanted from a dying man. That was the information given here last night, when it was declared that the remarkable operation on John Eichberger, 19, of this city is about to prove a complete success. Members of the Eichberger family and the family physician are responsible for the report.

About four years ago, young Eichberger was struck in the face by a baseball and the sight of one eye was badly that in a short while the sight suddenly left it. Soon after the sight of the other eye started to go, apparently in sympathy with the other optic. Last August, Eichberger was taken to the Mount Sinai Hospital, where an operation was performed. It was only partly successful, the young man being able to distinguish light and the success which attended some of the subsequent operations was declared to be complete.

Eichberger is expected to be discharged from the hospital in three weeks.

TUNEFUL MUSICAL COMEDY AT GRIFFIN'S THURSDAY

It is not often that the author of a musical comedy makes the leading female role so appealing he has to plaster the name of his play and call it after the heroine, but that is just what Thos. Hardin did in writing the book "Rose of Washington Square" which will be seen at Griffin's this Thursday night April 20th.

Mr. Hardin cogitally called the big musical success "Everybody's Sweetheart" but when the show opened in Washington previous to its metropolitan engagement it became "Rose of Washington Square" which is the name for Cynthia Hickman in the play.

Theatre-goers everywhere are evidencing the same enthusiasm that obtained in New York and the production is playing to capacity audiences nightly. It has a charm all its own, quite as distinctive as the season's three sensational musical hits "Irene," "Sally" or "Mary" but in a different setting. Mr. Hardin has gone to the North Carolina mountains for his inspiration and the first act shows the exterior of a poverty stricken mountaineer's home near Asheville, N.C., a rugged but beautiful scene.

The unusually clever and sensible lyrics are by Hugo Myers and the tuneful rollicking score by Leo Edwards. "Rose" is all a musical comedy should be. "Rose of Washington Square" is to be presented at the Princess Theatre, Toronto, week of May 1st.

NATIONAL TREASURY USED STORED FURS

Soviet Treasury Sell Stored Furs to Pay Their Debts.

Moscow, April 17.—A huge quantity of new Russian furs, stored in a warehouse near the Kremlin and regarded by the Soviet government as part of its national treasury, is expected to be placed on the market early next fall.

The immense stock, consisting largely of astrachan, sable and ermine, is the largest single supply of furs in Russia, and will be held in reserve until the Soviets have re-established their world trade sufficiently to obtain a good market.

While this supply is not for sale, the national treasury continues to operate a retail store which, for and other of the steeper skins are sold. The public has unshaken confidence in this branch of the government, for it has found the furs to be in good condition, well tanned and reasonable in price. A monkey skin large enough for a man's overcoat could be had last winter for about $20, and other furs were in proportion. A few hundred miles from Moscow, however, the prices are 20 percent lower as money is scarcer.

Many of the skins selling at high prices in Central Europe or the United States have no special value in Russia. One of these sable masters. A fair, prime one is worth $60 or $70, but could be had last winter for about $20. While skins, will sell for $40 or $50. While silver fox is relatively rare here, it may be had for approximately the same price as sable, which sells for about $7. All these skins bring five times as much as soon as they cross the frontier.

JOHN D. PRINCE MAKES HIT BY VERSATILITY

Copenhagen, April 18.—John Dyneley Prince, America's new Minister to Denmark, has made a hit with the Danish people by his versatility.

Soon after his arrival here the Copenhagen newspaper men swooped down on him for an interview, having previously brushed up on their English, but Dr. Prince took them off their feet by speaking fluent Danish. Before the interview was over they learned that the new minister, formerly a professor at Columbia University, had some 20 languages at his fingers' end.

Soon afterward Dr. Prince delivered a lecture on Oriental music, and here again his versatility found even wider scope. He illustrated these ancient musical technicalities by playing various oriental instruments with exactness.

MRS. MARY A. SPENCER.

Mrs. Mary A. Spencer, aged 76, died at her home on Tuesday last, after being ill for three days. Mrs. Spencer was a native of Belleville, and was born on the farm now owned by Frederick Hamilton. She was married to Mr. Spencer 56 years ago, and lived on the farm for 40 years. Mr. Spencer died 16 years ago. Mrs. Spencer was a member of the Methodist church. She is survived by one son, Albert, of Belleville, and one daughter, Mrs. Jessie Hall, of Belleville. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the late residence, 32 Dundas street, to the Belleville cemetery.

"Just think of it, at seventy-five year of age to be made well and strong again and gain fifteen pounds in weight, but this is exactly what I did after taking Tanlac. Not only that, I feel years younger," said Mrs. Mary A. Spencer, East St., life-long resident of Watertown, N. Y.

"For over a year I was in a terribly run-down condition and I was so nervous and restless that many a night I would hear the clock strike every hour. I was able to eat very little and lost strength right along, finally becoming so weak I could hardly walk from one room to the other.

"On account of my age I thought my declining health was natural, but Tanlac has proved that I was mistaken. I can do all my own housework now, I sleep all night long, wake up on the morning feeling refreshed and just feel fine all the day long. Tanlac can't be praised too much."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ogden's Drug Store.

BURNING BROWN COAL

Valuable deposits of brown coal and lignite are found in various parts of the world, and a great deal of scientific attention is being given to the problem of utilizing them to the best advantage. In do other country have the problems of economical fuel consumption been more successfully studied than in Great Britain, and it is only natural that British engineering firms should have recently devised special boilers and furnaces for the efficient burning of brown coal. A trial installation in which the usual arrangements for burning ordinary coal were ingeniously modified, was set up recently in a British factory, and exhaustively tested with very promising results. The object of the apparatus is to improve or raise the grade of the coal before it is actually fed on to the grate. The fuel passes through a special apparatus for a period of 45 minutes, during which it is exposed to hot gases which drive off the greater part of the moisture and the carbon dioxide. The result is a fuel of a much greater steam producing value than the original coal.

DELIGHTFUL PLAY BY REX STOCK CO.

'What Every Woman Wants' Well Presented by This Popular Company.

Without any exception the play "What Every Woman Wants", presented to a crowded house at Griffin's by the Rex Stock Co., last night is the best vehicle that the popular company has put shown. It is full of comic situations and the audience was kept in a continual roar of laughter by the delightful lines and various climaxes.

As the worried husband Rex Sinclair gave a performance that would be difficult to equal. His gestures and way of saying his lines make him a delightful actor to listen to in any role but as Oliver West, the artist he has a part that suits him to the proverbial "T".

Zana Vaughn portrayed the part of Gertrude West, the jealous wife of the handsome artist and her ravings at the slightest suspicion that her husband was playing her false, were chuck full of comedy. Miss Vaughn deserves credit for the very able portrayal she gave last night.

The character parts were as usual with the Rex Stock Co., extremely well played. In Wm. Yule and Florence Winters the company has a pair of character players that would do credit to any aggregation no matter how large. Hazel Williams was her usual clever elf in an unusual role for her, and acquitted herself remarkably well. The rest of the cast combined to make the week's presentation one of the finest entertainments that have visited the city for a long time.

TRAVEL TOPICS

Contributed by
I. E. B.

While going about the country I see and hear so many things—one is the great dirrest about the O. T. A. and it is all in what you can call the working class. One man said—"I have to go home at night tired and nothing cheerful to think about. Now if I could only drop in somewhere and get a glass of beer or wine and have a chat with a friend I would feel better and in getting home feel more cheerful." I did not say a word. I felt what is the good, he is one of those that have had when they could get it, and will just have to fight on without it for the sake of those who' come after. Then at lunch the waiter said, "I'm are not feeling well, now if you took a glass of ale". There are some old timers at the house where we stop and the younger members of the party said, "No, use water, you will have to come to it." I just felt sad. This trip on the train was something the same. A lady friend (a doctor's wife) said: "What do you think of this T. A. Do you think it is as bad as they say?" I knew she was a true temperance woman and I said: "No, I do not see it, one thing I do know, I do not like the open bar or the bar in the home. What I way to see is the tree cut down at the root and plenty of salt put on it." "Well do you believe it ever will be?" she asked "I said not me, but I hope time will see it."

Five weeks later, I stepped off the train and over to the customs office and found the officer would not be there so my trunks were over to Windsor and I to Detroit, the next morning. The quickest way was to go back, get my baggage and have it brought over on the ferry. The customs officers were very busy but not so busy but they could be nice to women travelling alone and they explained why they were so considerate, you see, the officer said, that the new immigration act trey passed last year is giving us a lot of trouble. "Please, I said, what was the act?" It amounts to this. We have allowed every country so many immigrants, and already they are all up to the mark but Germany, and Canada is giving us trouble to, by trying to come in at Halifax. "Why, I said, should so many Canadians went in? Well, she said, you are having hard times. A lot of them went over when you were having good times and now they want back and we don't want them." I insisted, "They are all your own and certainly are rolling stones." Then the night before I was asked at the customs office in Toronto, how was everything in Belleville. I said fine (I always feel that way when in other cities) "What are you doing about the T. A.?" I said, "temperance in all things." "Yes, he said, "that is what Mackenzie King said in his speech the other day." In the meantime he said all the deputations are going to Montreal, no one to Toronto. "Believe me thousands, said one of the other members of the party,

"whiskey going to win out?" I was asked. I said no—wrong never did, nor will it.

H.R.H. WILL SEE GAME OF DAKYU

This Game is Called Japanese Polo and is Very Ancient.

Tokio, April 18.—Lovers of almost any popular sport enjoyed in the Occident would find no appeal in Japanese polo or "dakyu", as it is called here, for the game seems to be a combination of golf, lacrosse, billiards, bowling, horsemanship and even football, as it entails considerable risk to the players.

A special exhibition of this game will be played in honor of the Prince of Wales during his visit here, and as the future British ruler is a lover of all sports, particularly horsemanship, he is expected to display keen interest in the contest.

How the game originated is not known, but it has been played since ancient times, and still is reserved largely for young noblemen and officers of the military staff, who are practically the only ones able to acquire an equestrian standard high enough to make the sport exciting.

The contest is held on a regulation course 60 by 20 yards, bounded up at one end by a high fence. In the middle of the field is a small pocket into which the balls have to be thrown. On either side of this pocket are movable discs, which mark the score by being moved up and down. The last two discs are marked with a circle, and it is not until one of these is disappeared that the game is decided.

A number of red and white balls, one of each color for each correspond with the discs, are thrown in before the game begins. Then the players, eight in red and eight in white, all dressed in old-style native costumes, with saddles and accoutrements to match, ride in alternately in stately procession, salute the distinguished guests and begin the game.

Each player carries a short bamboo wand with a small net attached to the end, and his object is to stoop and capture a ball in this very cumbersome rig to the color of his team. He then rides furiously toward the goal, where he attempts to pitch the ball into the cup from the net.

During the throwing of the first three or four balls there is no serious opposition on either side, but when they have been thinned out somewhat and side finds itself losing ground, the battle becomes fast and furious. Both losing side begins riding and dashing at its opponents from all sides, calling to each, dieting from behind and balking them in every way possible.

The crisis is reached when nothing remains but the last two round balls, by which the game is decided. Here the horsemanship and skill of the players is developed to the fullest and it is described as no mean feat to secure and carry a ball in a little net through a crowd of mounted players, yelling, galloping and interfering with all their energy. Even when the ball is safely in the net and the goal is pushed, the last shot has to be made with eight hors all dashing forward, straining every muscle to prevent it going into the cup.

When one side has scored, the game is called on the players ride from the field, saluting the dignitaries as before.

PROCLAIM MARTIAL LAW IN SYRIAN CAPITAL

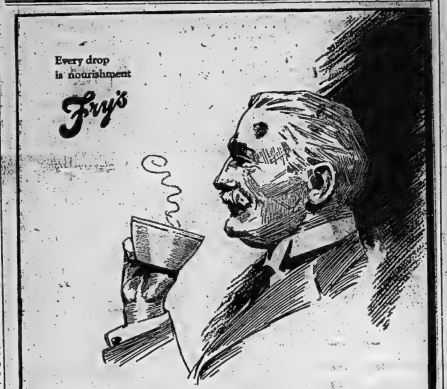

London, April 17.—A despatch to the Central News from Cairo says that martial law was proclaimed in Damascus following the murder last week of Assad Bey, Minister of the Interior of Lebanon, and disturbances following the murder. Several persons have been killed and many wounded in the Syrian hinterland, according to telegrams received today from Cairo, which add that the disturbances are becoming more violent.

RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA.

If the delegates of the soviet Russian government went to Genoa with the expectation either of scaring or cajoling the representatives of other European governments into compliance with Russian demands, they must be disillusioned by this time. From the opening speech by Lloyd George the Russian delegates might have sensed the attitude of the conference towards soviet Russia. And what has transpired since serves to show that, while the other European nations are willing to resume commercial relations with Russia, they will do so only under certain prescribed conditions.

Those conditions have been set forth clearly. The Russian soviet government must undertake to pay its debts and to treat foreign traders justly. In prescribing these conditions the conference explains that it has no desire to dictate to the Russian soviet government. It merely states the conditions under which relations with Russia can be resumed. If the government at Moscow doesn't like those conditions it need not consent to them.

But it will probably be found that the government at Moscow is even more eager for a resumption of relations with the "capitalistic" countries than they are. Probably it will consent.

THE MINERAL INDUSTRY.

The production of minerals in Canada in the year 1921, as set out in a preliminary report of the Bureau of Statistics, was affected by the general conditions of trade, and both in quantity and value the declines were considerable. This was not due to local more than general conditions. The after-the-war boom was dying in the late months of 1920 and the process continued into 1921. The result was that the total mineral production, which was $237,422,000 in 1920, was only $172,327,000 in 1921. The decline in value applied to all sections of the country if not to all materials. Ontario, which since the development of mining activity in the northern regions has been the great producer among the provinces, is well in the lead, being credited with almost a third of the total. The figures for the year are given as follows:—

Ontario	$54,806,000
British Columbia	34,776,000
Nova Scotia	32,569,000
Alberta	28,927,000
Quebec	14,679,000
Manitoba	2,075,000
Yukon	1,928,000
New Brunswick	1,777,000
Saskatchewan	1,086,000

British Columbia, Alberta and Nova Scotia are large coal producers, Alberta being in the lead with 5,854,000 tons, compared with Nova Scotia's 5,734,000 tons and British Columbia's 2,840,000 tons, out of a total for all Canada of 14,942,000 tons. Coal continues to hold chief place in value in the list, the natural articles showing more than $1,000,000 being:

Coal	$72,773,000
Gold	21,327,000
Silver	9,185,000
Copper	7,459,000
Nickel	6,752,000
Natural gas	4,902,000
Asbestos	4,807,000
Lead	3,855,000
Zinc	2,758,000
Gypsum	1,725,000
Salt	1,641,000

Ontario was the chief gold producer, with 707,470 fine ounces, valued at $16,322,000. The output would have been greater but for power shortage in the Porcupine country. The Yukon is losing its prominence in this total, its output in 1921 being but slightly over a million and a half dollars, most of it got by dredging. Besides gold, there was an increased production last year of lead and zinc, the latter all in British Columbia. If the recovery of business comes during the present year the prospects are that the mineral production will be largely increased, particularly in coal; nickel, copper and asbestos, which have all suffered from the trade slowness and in all there have been developed facilities for greater output at a minimum cost.

POLITICS AND GOLF

Victoria Times:

Premier Martin says that when he undertook the leadership of the Saskatchewan Government in 1917 he understood, as did the people clean when he went government. He may stand on his record—there are no complaints. But with more time on his hands his golf handicap ought to be reduced.

A SECOND PITT

Ottawa Journal:

Nor is it likely that a second attack, at this time from the Opposition, will be any more successful. It may see extreme need, and it may reduce the Government's majority, but the chances of its succeeding are remote. Certainly, more than any British Prime Minister since Pitt, Lloyd George holds the Commons in the palm of his hand.

THE FOREIGN ELEMENT

Victoria Colonist:

Posterity will not ignore the memory of the present Government or any Government which is instrumental in flooding the country with foreigners, many of whom may prove a social and political menace to the next generation. It is constructive, no underlining elements that are wanted in the building up of the population of Canada. The unmunn honour of the country's development does not lie in pumping in immigrants from all quarters of the globe, but, on the contrary, in a happy and contented people who all can find work and who are patriotic, and, therefore, who are willing, honest and well, to labor for the development of the Dominion.

APRIL'S ORDER

Said little Madam Flower
To the mighty Weather Man:
"I'd like to have you send me
As promptly as you can
A billion yaks of blustery sky,
A bevy of gentle showers
(And please omit the Winter frost
That bites the little flowers).

"I want a lot of sunshine,
I can sprinkle all around,
It makes the people happy
And fans the growing ground.
Where I shall start a million seeds—
The garden kind, you know—
And Summertime will bring them up
The way they ought to go.

"I've thirty April children
That I'll pay you with this year,
They're not exactly perfect,
But much admired, I hear,
Although they're temperamental,
they
Are pleasing as a rule,
And out of thirty children there
Is only one April fool."

A Laugh or Two

Waiting

I've been looking for my husband or the last two hours, said an agitated womanin a calm one.

Don't get excited, madam, replied he latter. I've been waiting for a usband for the last twenty years.—pare Moments.

So Silly

Mother—I do wish, Constance, you ould dress more sensibly. What ost people think?

Constance—But, mother, dear, I hould look so silly if I dressed sensibly.

Not So Sure

An elderly man was persuaded by one of his sons to go with him to oxing exhibition.

The son paid for two $3 seats.

"Now, dad," said the son joyfully, "You'll see more excitement for your ft than you've seen in your life before."

The old man grunted.

"I've got my doubts about that," he said gloomily. "They dollars you d I paid for my marriage license."

Too Late

He entered a restaurant and ordered two soft-boiled eggs. As he opened the second new-laid egg he noticed some writing on the shell. Of course, he read what the thing had to say. It ran like this:

"I am a farmer's daughter, seventeen years of age, blonde hair and brown eyes, height and weight just about right and complexion the same. If this should meet the eye of some young man who desires to wed a merry but industrious country girl, let him communicate with"—and then followed the merry country girl's name and address.

Well, the young man was so pleased that as soon as he had eaten his egg he rushed off and telegraphed to the girl. He got his answer that evening. She wired—

"You are too late. Was married six years ago and am now the mother of six."

THE KHAN, IN TORONTO TELEGRAM

GREAT HUNTING, O WOLVES!

Man is a mighty hunter. And what doth he hunt? He hunts man!

When Christopher Columbus discovered America, he stumbled on the greatest game preserves in the universe. It was stocked with the gamest kind of game that ever danced for scalps. Of course there was some other kind of game, a few bullalos and bears, and unconsidered trifles like wolves, panthers, red squirrels, ground hogs, et cetera. But the chief game was men, and for centuries the hunt was on. To-day the crack of the sportsman's rifle can be heard only in inaccessible hills and remote corners of the continent; for the Indian is as extinct as the buffalo—as much a rarity as the wild pigeon, or Bob Boy!

Man wonder at the appalling spectacle of a whole continent being ensnared in fire-running—by the milder form of the sport—bootlegging. Man is a mighty hunter, and he must hunt, and there is no hunt like a man hunt. Just at the time when the last Apache dropped with a bullet through the heart in the shade of the Dragon mountains where libs a wolf he turned at bay, the authorities declared prohibition in the Benighted States.

This inaugurated a hunting season which promises to last as long as that once instituted by Columbus and his men.

The instinct to hunt is strong in most of us. If they can't get anything better, they will go running for chipmunks and cottontails. But a man's real, O Boy!

It cost the Benighted States more money for twelve months to hunt white men, so-called, than it cost forty ten years of Indian wars when they were hunting red men.

The province of Ontario is a reserve and is protected by the most drastic ordinances, bound and stretched with barbed wire. But there be poachers—bootleggers—thousands of them. They are as thick as hair on a dog. Every second truck that passes you on the highway is loaded with booze. Every second valise, bag, turkey and grip seen in the street is plugged full of the stuff that, according to the old nursery song, we should touch not, taste not, handle! The Government is supposed to have a monopoly of the trade—all kinds of trade. According to the B. N. A., I think it is, they have authority to make men drink. They have made a lot of old fools, but they have not produced many quaits; $200., $300., make it $500., two years in jail and costs and six months and yet there be no quails. Sompin' queer about this.

How can you account for it? I know a man who is what is called rumrunning who are certainly not doing it for profit? What makes them do it? It is the old instinctive hunting instinct. They must hunt and be hunted. A couple of generations and there were what were called "rumrunners." These men made a business of killing wolves for the bounty. There are more whisky detectives to the square inch in Ontario to-day than there were wolves to the square mile seventy years ago. To take a truck load of booze to any point in the compass is an adventure which appeals to thousands. There is the element of danger in it. There is the thrill when the wild night rides. There is the code of signs and signals, and there is the chase, the hunt. There is nothing else to hunt. The noble red man is gone; the toothsome black squirrel is extinct; the refreshing raccoon is no more, and the mighty hunters turn to the new hunting field with joy.

It is only an incident in life. All life is a man hunt. The hunt for wealth, for power, for position is a man hunt. A heresy hunt is a man hunt. Heresies in commerce, politics, religion, sport are hunted and there is always a man on the end of the hunt.

Talking of heresies reminds me of this bye B. N. A. We used to take our religion straight, even as our fathers took their whiskey. Then there came the higher critics, who claimed largely that "those things are an allegory." We used to take our law as it took our religion and we made wry faces and said nothing. But now the higher critics are after the Statement. Bible B. N. A. They are pointing the finger of scorn at the Balaam's Ass story about Separate schools, and they question that equal story called Provincial Rights. I don't ee what this world is coming to. Be there no honest men left, Sir?

There's a man hunt on in Quebec; there's a man hunt on in Ontario; there's a man hunt on in Manitoba; there's a man hunt on in every home and hamlet from the gulf of Mexico to the Arctic bay and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Society cannot exist without man hunting. It is the life of religion. The history of the first four centuries of the Christian era is the story of the most tremendous man hunt in the history of the universe. Then the hunted took after the hunters, and ever since the hunters have been hunted and the hunted have been hunters. It's a great sport. It has fox hunting and lion hunting and elephant hunting fooled. If you want a thrill, get after someone.

Our hunting grounds are wide and many. You can take out a license to carry a gun or you can poach. And do you know there are men who would rather poach than do it legitimately.

Every prohibitory law declares a close season. And there be millions of people who never hunt only in the close season!

SEMENOFF GETS

PART OF HIS BAIL

New York, April 18.—Russian friends of General Semenoff, former Ataman of the Siberian Cossacks, now in Leather street jail, waiting for a $25,000 bail bond, this morning had raised $15,000 in cash and said they expected to have the remainder before nightfall. Practically every bonding company which is represented in New York has refused to write the general's bond, his attorneys said.

John Kirkland Clark, chief of the Semenoff legal staff, left for Washington today, and said he would endeavor to arrange for the general to appear before the senate committee which is investigating charges of atrocities.

The Boy Who Started to Town With a Hundred Dollars

The advice they gave him for getting on in the world was simple and familiar enough: "Keep what you have, and build on it. Be careful what you do and it will grow into more."

It's a safe rule—with money or health, but a good many overlook the one with health, until they have lost what they had. Then it's hard to get a new supply.

Postum is a splendid help in saving health from the very common losses through the drug elements of tea and coffee—whose effects on the nervous system any doctor can tell you.

Thousands of people who think it wise to be as careful of their health as they are of their dollars are users of Postum. They find this famous cereal beverage a delightful drink with any meal, and it's free from any disturbing element.

You can begin with Postum today, with an order to your grocer. The road to health is a good road, for anybody to follow. "Save what you have, and build on it," is sound policy for everybody.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

Efficient Housekeeping

Conducted by Laura A. Kirkland

ANSWERED LETTERS

Anxious Housekeeper: "I am bothered by cockroaches coming in with my fruit and vegetables. I am very careful about food and all precautions, but to no avail. Could you tell me something that will exterminate them?"

Answer: Anise, red or black, helps. Use small bit of camphor. Maybe traps of sugar and vinegar, or other things to suggest those of food and pour it into crevices suspected as rat roads. If they climb up post or pillar, put a striped bandage around it. Find the nest, if possible, and destroy it with boiling water, or gasoline, kerosene, with a little camphor added to it, will also kill them. But take care not to use hot kerosene or gasoline near fire or flame, for there is danger of fire. Gum camphor, tied in net and hung in closets or pantries helps to drive these little pests away.

Bride-Beginner: "We have just been given a present of one of the old-fashioned rowing tables—the kind that looks like a settle when the top is pushed up. My husband wants to sell it in addition, but we first want to clean it. It is made of pine which has never been painted, but covered with grease stains which will not come off. Can you help me? We want this relic to stand with its modern-stained settle in the living room, near our cozy fire in the evening, with a piece of velour (green) draped over it. We haven't much furniture yet, but this will help so much!"

Answer: You should use the following fluid to soak them in for at least an hour before washing them: mix equal quantities of turpentine, kerosene and lime water; shake this mixture well together, then soak the overalls in it. This fluid is fine, too, for boys' clothes or any soiled garment not woolen.

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered diatoce and water, apply to hairy surface about 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

PILES
Zam-Buk
A GRAND REMEDY

MRS. C. Hanson, of the Commercial Hotel, Poplar, B.C.

"Used Zam-Buk with great success: "I found Zam-Buk a grand remedy for piles. I had suffered for years, and the burning, smarting pains were so intense that at times I could scarcely walk, and I was severely confined by loss of blood.

"I underwent a surgical operation by The Sacred Heart Hospital, Spokane, but while it relieved me for a time, the trouble soon returned.

"I learned, too, that poulticing and so-called 'pile cures' did no good, but I found Zam-Buk immediately soothing. It gave wonderful relief! When, as I kept on the treatment, the piles began to disappear, I became happier and different woman. I used six boxes of this herbal Zam-Buk in all, but the cheerless and painful disease was thoroughly overcome.

MY PILES WENT 2 YEARS AGO and I haven't had the trouble since."

Use Zam-Buk for soothing away any soreness, irritation or smarting pain. It is instantly effective. Whether the trouble be piles, itching eczema, or an obstinate wound, sore, ulcer, burn or scald, Zam-Buk heals disease germs, and grows new healthy skin in a wonderful way.

Sport Gossip From Many Fields

FEW REALLY GOOD SECONDS

Ring Generals of Ability Are Scarcer Than First Class Boxers.

Many a good fighter has been defeated as a result of poor handling by his seconds. If Tom O'Rourke had been better advised on his recent bout with Harry Greb he might have won that battle and to-day be in line for a match with Jack Dempsey and a fortune, win or lose. Many years ago there were almost as many famous seconds as fighters. Most of the veterans have passed on and to-day there are few if any as capable as Billy Delaney, Parson Davies, Billy Madden, Charley Harris, Charley Barrows, Joe Choynski and Charley Mitchell.

Tom O'Rourke, probably the best of all, is the only one of the veterans still on deck. O'Rourke now is member of the New York Boxing Commission, no longer handles fighters, but he has not forgotten anything about the game.

Scotty Monteith, who developed Johnny Dundee, is an excellent second. Monteith and Dundee were together for about years before they agreed to disagree. For a time there was much hard feeling between the two. Monteith took Mel Coogan and coached him into a victory over the little Italian. Coogan beat him with the greatest of ease, much to the surprise of ring followers, who did not think that Coogan figured.

Helps the Referee

Jimmy Dunn, who developed Johnny Kilbane and made him featherweight champion, is an able trainer and second. During a bout he is cool and observant, overlooking nothing that might be of help to his principal. Johnny Wilson and his private referee put something over on Dunn when Dempsey met Wilson at Cleveland, but Dunn did all that a man could be expected to do. Each time that Dempsey floored the champion Dunn counted off the seconds at the top of his voice for the benefit of the referee. Three times Dunn counted Wilson out, but the referee refused to be guided by his idea of time.

Dan Morgan is another good ring general and second. A talkative, excitable person, he is cool and quiet enough when the ring sounds for action. He does not worry his man with too much advice. What instruction he issues are short and to the point.

Manny Seamon, who always is in Benny Leonard's corner when the lightweight champion does the gloves enjoys a great reputation as a trainer and second despite his youth. Billy Gibson, who manages the champion and also acts as chief second, is too excitable to be of much use in the corner. At times "Gib" becomes so excited that he loses the power of speech.

Jack Kearns, who manages Jack Dempsey, is not a good second for the same reason that Gibson fails in that capacity. At critical times Jack becomes so worried over what might happen to his meal ticket that he is incapable of acting with the cool judgment necessary.

Francois Deschamps, the manager of Georges Carpentier, was said to be a wonderful second. Columns were written of his ability to win fights for Carpentier by exercising a mysterious talent he was said to possess. According to yarns he was able to throw a spell over the opposing boxer as a serpent is supposed to charm a bird. None of this was observed when Francois arrived in the U. S. He turn out to be merely an excitable little fellow, who was of no apparent help to the man he handled.

Officers of the Peterboro Baseball club have signed an agreement with the Peterboro A. A. A. for the use of Riverside Park by the Canadian Ontario League team. The ball situation is now back to normal.

WEISSMULLER GATHERS IN TWO MORE RECORDS

Culver, Ind., April 17.—Two more world's swimming records were added to his collection here yesterday by Johnny Weissmuller, of the Illinois A. C. In the 200-metre distance Weissmuller lowered his former record by two and one-fifth seconds, when he went the distance in two minutes and 16 seconds. Later he swam the 100 yards in 52 2-5 seconds, a new world's record for a 40-yard pool, but one-fifth of a second slower than his record in a 75-foot pool.

EXCELSIORS WIN FROM K. OF C. TEAM

The game last night at the Y.M.C.A. Alleys, was between the Excelsiors and the K. of C. teams, and the result was a win for the Excelsiors. The members of the K. of C. team were rather off color, as were some of the members of the winning team. Mr. George T. Woodley of the Excelsiors rolled a sickly game, making a total of 563 for the three strings and 211 in a single game. Blute for the K. of C. was high with a score of 428 for three strings and Barrett had the best single score, namely 185. The players and scores were as follows:

READY FOR BURMAN

New York, April 17.—After all that has been said about bantam boys ringing out on Joe Burman, the Chicago fighter, along comes Terry McHugh, the Allentown, Pa., Jap, and says Burman, for safety's sake, is steering clear of him. The charge is put forward by Jimmy Rothwell and Al Lippe who are looking out for McHugh's interests. Rothwell insists McHugh will make 118 pounds for a match.

KILBANE WILLING IF PAID ENOUGH

Paris, April 17.—Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland, world's champion featherweight boxer announced last night to a group of French sportsmen that he was willing to meet Eugene Criqui, French featherweight champion, at any time. Their enthusiasm over the proposed meeting vanished, however, when Kilbane reminded the sportsmen that boxing was his profession, and that for the last bout the equivalent of 700,000 francs, an amount nearly double the total gate receipts of the biggest recent French bouts.

LEE BEATS MONTREAL

New York, April 17.—Danny Lee of New York received the judge's decision in a twelve-round bout last night with Young Montreal of Providence, R. I., at the Commonwealth Sporting Club. The men are bantamweights.

SPORT STUFF

Some rules and regulations for boxers that the Athletic Commission didn't promulgate:—

An boxers are warned of the danger of stopping punches with their chins.

Boxers are requested to take the outpourings of their press-agents with several grains of salt.

Boxers are not required to notice challenges from dangerous opponents when they can pick up easy money fighting clubs.

Fighters are advised not to let managers know the extent of their real bank roll. The manager might not advance any more cash-money.

Boxers while performing in the ring needn't trouble to count the house. The commission will attend to that.

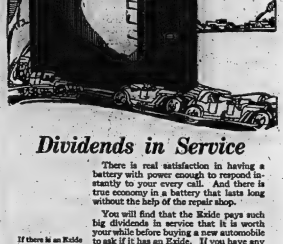

Fighters should refrain, while fighting, from smiling at ringside friends. A punch on the chin has wiped out many a smile.

Don't get a swelled head. They're easier to hit.

Preliminary fighters are requested not to stay up all night counting their sums. Late hours make for poor physical condition.

How Babe Ruth must yearn for a chance to test out the recruit pitchers now performing in the opening series in the big leagues. Thirty-five long days must elapse before the Bambino can step up to the plate, and gaze upon the visages of thousands of anxious fans desirous of seeing him clop the horsehide over the right-field wall.

CALOMEL IS GREATEST MEDICINE IN WORLD FOR PEOPLE WHO ARE NOT WELL

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT ACTS UPON THE LIVER

People who suffer from Indigestion, Rheumatism, Headaches, Biliousness, Constipation and Kidney Pains will find almost instant relief by taking one Tanaled Calomel Tablet, before meals or two at bedtime. The secret of the success of this medicine is due to the fact that it is the only medicine that act upon the liver. No salts, acidlitz or castor oil are necessary after taking Tanaled Calomel, for it is self-eliminating. When the liver fails to excrete bile into the intestines they become filled with waste and the whole system becomes poisoned, causes all kinds of sickness. If you do not feel well get a small box of Tanated Calomel from the druggist and you will feel fine in a day or so. It is sold at McKeown's Drug Store.

A REAL HAIR SAVER

If your hair is falling out, prematurely gray, brittle, lifeless and full of dandruff, quick action must be taken to save it.

Get from any drug or toilet counter to-day a bottle of Parisian Sage and use as directed—there's nothing else so simple, safe and effective.

"Before going to bed I rub a little Parisian Sage into my scalp," says a woman whose luxurious, soft and fluffy hair is greatly admired. "It keeps away all dandruff—my hair is never dry, faded or scraggy, but retains its natural color and beauty."

Parisian Sage is inexpensive, and money refunded if not satisfactory. McKeown's Drug Store sells lots of it.

ARE WE AS A NATION TO BE BALD, TOOTHLESS AND BLIND?

We're told that baldness is certainly increasing. A splendid beginning has been made in dental hygiene. But defective vision prevails alarmingly.

The Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry recently reported that more than half of our industrial workers are suffering from defective eyesight. Now we are told the same ailment affects one-quarter of our school kids.

This visual weakness is only in part due to intensive reading and study, though these, of course, aggravate it.

Our Optometrist makes a most searching examination and is reasonable in his fee.

No better service anywhere!

EASTER AT HOME PROVES SUCCESS

A most enjoyable Easter At Home was held last night in Bennett's Academy, under the auspices of the Iroquois Club, when upwards of one hundred couples enjoyed themselves, tripping the light fantastic to the excellent music supplied by Jack Strathlee's orchestra of Toronto.

A dainty luncheon was served after the tenth dance, which constituted the half of the excellent program of one sleps, for twelve and waltzes.

The following were the patronesses of the At Home: Mrs. (Dr.) G. S. Cook, Mrs. G. T. Dolan, Mrs. E. W. Dickens, Mrs. P. W. D. Wiggins, Mrs. H. L. Chown, Mrs. C. F. Wallbridge, Mrs. J. R. Cook, and Mrs. J. W. B. Bolton.

The stewards were H. L. Chown, W. R. Bolton, P. W. D. Wiggins, H. A. Bonnie, and W. V. Hogan.

The officers of the Iroquois Club are J. A. Diamond, Pres.; R. C. Crook, Treas.; and Mr. F. Scantlebury, Hon. Sec.

The above mentioned officers of the club are to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the program was carried out. A number from out of town attended the function.

HUSBAND AND BRIDE CAN'T GET HOMES

Soviet Marriage and Divorce Bureau and Housing Bureau Disagree.

Kiev, April 18.—Team work between the Soviet bureau of marriage and divorce and the bureau of housing is not as good as it might be in Kiev.

In the past many young husbands have found it impossible to obtain living quarters with their brides, as no one can move without permission from the housing bureau, and this department invariably frowns upon such applications.

While these young men have complained, they have not been the object of much concern, for Soviet Russia has many problems of far greater magnitude in the offing. But cold and hunger have not completely banished all traces of sympathies, as was demonstrated recently when the hearts of the populace went out to a young man and woman who procured a divorce and walked jauntily over to the housing bureau to get a moving permit.

"Nothing doing", was the glad cry the clerk's reply.

Thinking he was misunderstood, the professor made it clear that he was divorced and exhibited documents to prove it. Still the clerk remained obdurate and was supported by his superiors, even to the head of the bureau.

The professor spent many long hours pleading with the authorities, whose reply was a supply of excuses for not issuing the permit finally were his patience down and to this day he and his ex-wife are fighting their battle within the same four walls.

TRAINMEN DANCE A SUCCESS

Many in Attendance From City and Outside Points.

The forty-second annual assembly of Chalmers Lodge No. 64, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen of the city, was held last evening at Johnston's Academy and was attended by over 100 couples. The affair was successful in all of its details and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Grant's orchestra of this city furnished the music for the program of dances.

At midnight luncheon was served after which dancing was endulged until the wee small hours of the morning.

The committee in charge did all in their power to make their guests welcome. The comittee was composed of J. T. Clarke, Chairman; F. E. Kerr, Secretary; T. Hiddlestone, J. B. Mc-Cerfield, G. Darrah, H. Brown, W. J. Nichols, A. G. Dann, H. A. Hogan and A. H. Moon.

TOBACCO STAVE OFF HUNGER

RUSS. WOMEN SMOKE TOBACCO

Moscow, April 18.—Russian women have found that tobacco staves off hunger, hence the number of women who smoke cigarettes has increased materially since the Soviets came into power. Women of all ages and classes smoke in their rooms, in the train, in the restaurants and shops, and it is not uncommon to see them smoking on the streets.

All through the dark days of the revolution, often when food was not to be had at any price, there was plenty of cigarette tobacco offered at by-a-quarel privileges.

"Listen, Mother"

"HERE is a letter from Beasie, and she says she is feeling fine again after using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"I knew it was just what she needed to build up her system after baby's coming.

"She says she is sorry she did not take your advice long ago instead of worrying along as a semi-invalid for so many weeks."

"What else does she say?"

"I will read you the rest. She says: 'My nerves got so upset that I could not sleep or eat. Digestion was bad and I had palpitation of the heart. Baby got cross and irritable, and at times I got terribly discouraged.'

"When I got mother's letter urging me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was about ready to give up, and decided to give the Nerve Food a trial on the strength of what it had done for her.

"I cannot begin to tell you how thankful I am for that advice for I am now well and happy, baby is doing fine and I know that the credit is entirely due to the use of the Nerve Food."

PROPAGANDA ALARMS SWEDEN

Riksdag Will Have to Accept Treaty As It Stands.

Stockholm, April 18—Conservative elements here are alarmed over the extensive and well organized propaganda campaign being made on behalf of the new commercial treaty between Sweden and Soviet Russia, which is before the Riksdag with a fair chance of ratification.

The treaty provides admittance of Russian of a like representative of Sweden. The representatives are to be purely for trade protection and extension and both will agree to abstain from propaganda.

A particular clause of the treaty which conservatives view with alarm provides that commercial delegates from Russia also shall be admitted to Sweden as well as nationals of Russia having commercial business in the country. This, the anti-Bolshevik group fear, will permit an uninterrupted flow of Communist propaganda and Bolshevik emissaries to and through Sweden, which in time, they believe, will undermine the nation's political system.

Minister of Commerce Svensson has told members of the Riksdag that parliament will either have to accept the treaty as it stands or reject it, as the cabinet has signed the document and cannot accept any amendments.

GENOA CONFERENCE GREATLY STARTLED

face of the French demand for the word of flesh, Russia is endeavoring to round up a series of private agreements on the no debts basis and thus choke the French idea.

The explosive power of this agreement, which resulted to-night in a series of hurried and hushed meetings of the lawlting powers, the Little Entente and a separate conclave of the Russians, despite the assurance in the clause. This gives Germany, if no other nations exact a larger indemnity for confiscated property, equal gains with the rest.

Now this question of confiscated property is with the third question one of the most difficult of unsurmountable note. The allies want the property returned. The Russians present counter-claims, but are willing to reimburse property owners who has lost their property with new concessions. Russia's position on the debts was outlined at follow by Christian Rakowsky, the Soviet spokesman: "We refuse categorically our war loans, which we consider subvention given the allies for a cause by which we retained nothing. We recognize the other debts as a basis for reciprocity." The facts obtained from authentic sources are these: Russia will be unable to pay her debts for many years; Lloyd George knows it and seeks a way out. These private agreements themselves are merely a wedge to resuming trade relations. This was expressed by one in close touch with Mr. Lloyd George: "The Russian problem is a matter of years. Nothing can be done here to solve it, but much can be accomplished towards Russia's recovery through economic reconstruction. Genoa will not solve the Russian debt problem—that's sure.

THE COAL STRIKE

MAY LAST MONTHS! NOBODY KNOWS!

Furthermore—Nobody knows what its termination may bring forth. Prices may go sky-high, and they may not. Every coal dealer sincerely hopes, but we all know as the consumer.

If the strike lasts long with there may be a real coal famine on the fall.

In order to take care of those who don't feel the pinch of high prices by taking in their coal now, we have made provision for storing, with a limited quantity, of fresh mined NUT, STOVE and EGG of SCRANTON COAL.

We do not urge anyone to put in their coal now, in the absence of any positive information we cannot arrive on the future, but we do urge only point out the conditions as they exist and the possibilities, and every consumer must use his own judgment. Several of our customers have already ordered their coal delivered.

As long as stock lasts, we shall be pleased to take orders at $15.50 delivered. Ton, nine-inch, screened.

EDITOR IS NEW PRESIDENT OF EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Joseph C. Elliott, Head of the Kingston British Whig, is Honored—School Trustees Will Fight Teachers' Unions They Decide at Annual Convention.

Toronto, April 19.—In the election last night of Joseph C. Elliott, the Editor of the Kingston British Whig, to the Presidency of the Ontario Educational Association, a unique distinction was conferred on Canadian journalism in general and a prominent Canadian journalist in particular.

Mr. Elliott has been a member of the Board of Education of Kingston for nearly thirty years, and a member of the executive committee of the Ontario Educational Association for 15 years. He is Vice-President of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario and a past President of the Canadian Press Association.

His fellow Ontario school trustees, in attendance at yesterday's opening session of the Fifty-First Easter Convention of the Ontario Educational Association, in Convocation Hall, voted down by an overwhelming majority the proposed formation of an arbitration board to mediate in salary dispute between Ontario school teachers and Boards of Education.

The action taken was of far-reaching importance, in that it amounted to a declaration of war by trustees representative of practically every county and district in the province against the three powerful Ontario Teachers' Federations, and a refusal by the trustees to grant the teachers the right to "collective bargaining."

It made the group of moderates to secure ratification of its arbitration principle enforced by a joint committee of trustees and teachers, were swamped in a storm of indignant protest from trustees who declared that teachers had no right to organize for their economic betterment. Extremists amongst the trustees went so far as to say that they "would have none of these federations; let them go their own way and we will go ours."

STREET FOREMAN ASKED TO RESIGN

Motion by That Effect Passes Council After a Heated Debate.

COUNCIL WRATHY

Some Aldermen Claim Employee Has Been Shabbily Dealt With.

A rather lengthy and somewhat heated discussion took place at the City Council last night in regard to a motion introduced asking for the resignation of Mr. John Henderson, as the present city street foreman for the past few years. The result of the debate was the adoption of the motion which was as follows:

Moved by Alderman Thompson, seconded by Ald. French—In view of the fact that Mr. Henderson, City Foreman, has refused to comply with the request of this Council, that his resignation be asked for to take effect June 1st, and that applicants be advertised for to fill the position of City Foreman, stating qualifications and salary expected.

Ald. Fetterson stated that it was difficult for the street foreman at times to go to the city building and get an order for articles wanted, especially if he should be at the extreme end of the city and need something.

Ald. French—Mr. Henderson said he would resign before he would ask for orders.

Ald. Ostrom thought that Mr. Henderson, who was present, might be heard in the matter.

Ald. Thompson—I object to that. In no case has the street foreman refused to get the necessary orders, and disobeys an order of the Council.

Mayor Hanna—Other managers of the city affairs have received goods without orders.

Ald. McCreary—It might tangle things up if an order had to be given for every little item. There was far more important matters than this. It was a drastic motion, he said, and he could not support it.

Ald. Ostrom—This system of orders was an idea of the Council and he would upbraid the principle. It interferes no hardship, and does not take much time. If it takes time it is the city's time.

Ald. Robinson—What is the use of the Council passing laws and have them broken by officials. Mr. Henderson threatened to resign if he was compelled to get all orders. He (the speaker), could not see how the Council could give way in this matter.

Ald. Donohoe said this matter affected his department, namely that of Public Works. This was a bad time of the year to talk about the dismissal of the street foreman, who knows what the work is and is efficient.

Ald. Foster—It was time we had a change in the street foremanship. The City could have saved money in the past if it had an efficient city foreman. The present incumbent of the office had stated in Committee he would not abide with the Council's action in regard to getting orders for everything in the way of materials.

Ald. Greenleaf—The matter might be modified in some way.

Mr. Henderson said that he could not come to the city building for every order that was necessary.

Upon a vote being taken the motion was adopted.

Mr. Henderson—I would like to go to-night, and have an order on the Treasurer for the pay due. I will continue on but won't rather quit now.

BAD FIRE IN CONVENT

Notre Dame Was the Oldest Teaching Institution in Province.

Montreal, April 19.—Notre Dame Convent in the east end of the city, the oldest teaching institution in the province, founded by Rev. Sister Margerite Bourgeois, recently canonized, in 1690, was totally destroyed by fire last night, with a property loss of $70,000, partially covered by insurance.

The Church of Enfant Jesus, built in 1726, located on the same site, from the new wing of the convent was threatened by fire, but the efforts of the firemen and the fact that the church had a tiled roof, prevented the flames from catching.

NEW IDEAS FOR SCHOOLS

Belleville High School Principal Makes Novel Suggestion at Convention.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

Toronto, April 19.—It is possible that in school affairs autocracy has held away longer than in any other administration, large or small," D. S. MacLaurin of Belleville stated before the High School principals section of the Ontario Teachers' Association to-day. By the way of securing a democratic school administration the speaker suggested the establishment of an Advisory Council of teachers and pupils for inside school administration and an Advisory Council of teachers and members of the Board of Education for outside administration. Pupils' councils would act as a control thing most separately but should have a few joint meetings. They should be limited in time or in number and should be solely advisory in capacity.

ARBITRATION COURT OPENED TODAY

Murney Estate vs. City Involved Proceedings for Damages.

The Board of Arbitration in reference to the claim of the executors of the Murney Estate for damages against the city, opened proceedings at the court house this afternoon. Judge Wills is the arbitrator for the estate, and Col. Wallace for the city, and Col. Lazier, Master in Chancery, is the third party. The claim against the city is for $5,000 damages, alleged to have been incurred by reason of the city cutting down the grade on Murney's Hill. Considerable evidence is likely to be submitted in the case.

MAYOR HANNA SPEAKS ON AMERICAN TRIP

Tells Council Detailed Report Will be Given by Commissioner.

At the Council meeting on Monday evening Mayor Hanna referred to the deputation from the city which visited Southbridge, Mass., for the purpose of securing an industry for the city, but they were unsuccessful in securing the optical works was known by reports which appeared in the city papers. Other places were visited and a report will be prepared and presented to the Council by Mr. Hardy, the city's Industrial Commissioner. The Mayor said he considered the expenses of the trip reasonable, money well spent, as results will show. Mr. Hardy was still away, and was looking after prospective industries with a view to securing them for this city. His Worship said conditions in the United States were much worse than in Canada.

Winnipeg, April 19.—Registration in rural constituencies of Manitoba for the forthcoming provincial election will commence May 5, according to the return of Premier Norris from the east, nominations to take place June 15. Today Hon. Edward Brown, acting premier, stated that all arrangements for the election were complete, but the date will not be announced until it has been considered by the Cabinet. The latter will not meet until the Premier returns from Ottawa, presumably the end of this week.

MORE TROUBLE IN BELFAST

Hospitals Have Large Casualty Lists Since the Recent Riots.

REBELS ARRESTED

Despatch Says Two High Sinn Fein Officers Were Taken.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Belfast, April 19.—Shooting was renewed in Ballymacarrett district this morning. John Smith, a young man, was killed and William Johnston was fatally wounded.

The hospitals have large casualty lists as a result of the recent shootings, but even these do not indicate the full number of injured, as many cases are being treated in the homes of the victims.

The police barracks at Manor Hamilton, an important centre in County Leitrim, have been captured by the Free State troops, an auto returning from Sligo was seized, and the occupants, all of whom were armed, were made prisoners. A second car was disabled by gunfire and the occupants threw their rifles into the road.

London, April 19.—A despatch to the Central News from Dublin says a message received from Beggars' Bush is to the effect that Brigade Commandant Lieut. and Vice-Commandant Crowley, while engaged in army organization at Kenmare, County Kerry, were arrested by the regular troops and imprisoned in the barracks. They are now on a hunger strike.

Military activities continued through out this afternoon in the Marrowbone district, in Belfast. The military replaced regular police force, and were having great difficulty in locating the gunmen. The police early today raided a house in Dorset Street and arrested ten men, including the proprietor and his two sons, with two rifles, 97 rounds of ammunition and an 18-pound shell. All the men were remanded under charges of violating the Firearms' Act and of looting liquor.

ASSESSMENT BILL LOST IN COMMITTEE

Contentious Legislation Finally Disposed of in the House Today.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, April 19.—The bill introduced by H. P. Hill, M.L.A., West Ottawa, which would have exempted the dividends of corporations and manufacturing concerns from income assessment by the municipalities of the Province was killed by the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature to-day, after long discussion and the Assessment Act in this regard will remain unchanged.

"From all parts of Ontario protests were presented to the Municipal Committee of the Legislature this morning against the proposed assessment bill. The support of the bill, however, was almost as widespread.

The most contentious clause was that which provides that persons shall not be assessed on dividends from shares in stock of a corporation which is subject to business assessment.

Conference Puts the Case Up to the Supreme Body, Who Will Shortly Issue Judgment on the Whole Matter—French Commissioner Says Discussion of Germany's Case Before Plenary Session Will Prove Mortal Blow to Conference.

ALLIES PROTEST TO GERMANY.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Paris, April 19.—The Reparations Commission is to be asked to consider whether the Russo-German treaty signed at Rapallo on Sunday violates the Treaty of Versailles in respect to the German owned property in Russia. This property, under the Versailles pact, is pledged to the Commission for the payment of reparations.

Dr. Walter Rathenau, the German Foreign Minister, conferred with Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, and Foreign Minister Chicherin of Russia this morning regarding the barring of the German from the Russian Commission of the Conference. The Germans will probably submit a formal reply to-night to the Allied note on this subject.

The expected Germans demand for discussion of her case before the Supreme Council of the conference will prove a mortal blow to the conference, it is declared in a French communique issued here to-day, dealing with the Russo-German treaty.

The French Government will await the action of the Reparations Commission before taking up the question of relations with the Allies. It is held, however, that there is a distinct violation of the Versailles Treaty and that what is called the Genoa Conference takes the Allies cannot tolerate the pact. The recourse of the Allies against the pact is the Hague and that against other violations of the Peace Treaty.

Premier Poincare, it is reported, has taken the initiative in an invitation to the Allies to consult together with a view to making joint representation to the Berlin Government protesting against the Rapallo Treaty.

Genoa, April 19.—At the meetings of the leaders of the allied powers and states of the Little Entente, Premier Lloyd George had in the assurance to impose some penalty on Germany for her action. In this he was supported by the entente British delegation, which had held a special meeting before the ministers went to Premier Facta's villa.

Mr. Lloyd George said that the Germans' action was serious and an abnormal unintelligible breach of the spirit in which all the powers had come to Genoa, and Germany had definitely undertaken to work in loyal co-operation with the other powers.

FARMS MAKE EXCESS LABOR

Men Go to The Country Daily and Few Complaints Heard.

Mr. Lorne Green of the, Ontario Government Employment Bureau, has an encouraging report of the unemployment situation "when seen" this morning by The Intelligencer. Mr. Green states that:

Farmers in Prince Edward and Hastings County are absorbing quite a number of experienced farm workers these days. Yesterday morning a small detachment arrived from the old country, who were readily placed in good positions during the day, and it is expected that more will arrive each week.

Few complaints are received from men engaged through this office for work on Farms, and also from the farmers who hire them, said Mr. Green. "Of course, there are 'particular' employing farmers, just like merchants and manufacturers of Belleville, but from the few complaints we receive from farmers, as well as from the men sent to farms, we consider the farmer as a reasonable employer.

Domestic help is very scarce throughout Ontario and Mr. Green feels confident he could place twenty-five overseas women in the first three weeks in the city, in one day, if same were available.

ARRANGING TO FUND FOREIGN DEBT TO U. S.

Washington, D. C. April 19.—The Foreign Debt Funding Commission was formally begun the task which Congress has sanctioned, of converting the present obligations of foreign powers due to the United States, amounting to $11,000,000,000, into long term obligations.

HON. W. E. RANEY MAKES REPLY TO THE LENNOX CHARGES

Attorney-General Claims He is Not Personally Responsible for Employment of Thugs and Criminals as Operatives for the Enforcement of the O.T.A.

Hon. W. E. Raney yesterday finished his reply to the charges against the Ontario Temperance Act administration, made in the House a week ago, by T. Herbert Lennox, a member for North York. The Attorney General's peroration, in which he asked the House to say whether he had effectively answered the York member, left no doubt in the minds of the members that he was well satisfied with his two and a half hour effort, that if he had been Judge as well as Defence counsel North York would be minus its member in the near future.

The speech, however, after digesting Mr. Raney's speech, will have their doubts. The Attorney-General may have satisfied the House that personally he could not be held responsible for the employment of disreputable characters, but he met with indifferent success in his attempts to establish the fact that Mr. Lennox was wrong in charging that "thugs and criminals" had been employed in the enforcement of the Act. As a matter of fact the Alpinwood affair as unqualified contradiction to only two or three of the charges made in that of the cases cited, where special officers were found to be "convicted thugs and crimjnals" Mr. Raney blandly overlooked the proven facts to find surer footing upon the assertion that the department, as soon as the character of the character of men employed, had dropped them from the service.

But even this defence could not be entered in at least two cases, that of the man named Partridge, who, he admitted, was kept on the Government pay roll after assaulting, while under the influence of liquor, the Crown Attorney at Port Francis, and the case of the notorious McCutcheon now in jail, who was reengaged by the department in connection with the Ontario Temperance Act administration, following his conviction in Guelph for an assault upon a girl in a

A RECORD CASTING

The largest iron casting ever made in Great Britain and one of the largest ever produced in any country was successfully turned out in a British factory. It weighed about 110 tons and the mold was built in a 10 foot pit. Seven hours were occupied in melting the metal, and the casting was poured in just under five minutes. Three weeks were occupied in cooling the casting. Owing to its enormous size and weight the casting had to be delivered by road by traction engines being used for hauling it.

HUNDREDS CREMATED IN GREAT BRITAIN

This Form of Burial is Increasing Fast in England.

London, April 12.—Cremation is increasing in Great Britain, according to figures given out at the annual meeting of the Cremation Society of England. For the first time in its history of over 50 years, the meeting was presided over by a woman, Mrs. Spencer Graves.

Last year 1922 cremations took place at the 14 crematoria in the country, that of Golder's Green, in London, heading the list with 893. Among those cremated last year were judges, bishops, surgeons, peeresses, members of parliament, journalists, artists, soldiers, sailors and eminent women social workers.

The cremation of the late Duchess of Connaught by her specific instructions was an innovation in royal obsequies but the reform has always had strong supporters among English nobility. The Duke of Bedford, son of one of the founders of the society, has erected a crematory for the sole use of his ducal house.

The present cost of cremation in England is roughly $30. Urns to hold the ashes are rarely used, the general practice being to scatter the ashes in the so-called "Gardens of Rest" adjoining the crematoria.

NEW SILVER STRIKE IS MADE ON KENO HILL

Dawson, Y.T., April 12.—An important new silver strike has been made at Keno Hill, arrivals from that promising field report. The new find is on Bricken Gulch, and on the Crocess Claim, and the vein averages three to six feet in width with ore yields amazing five hundred ounces to the ton on an average. As much as six thousand ounces have been taken from a ton of ore, the biggest of any found on the hill. The claim is near the foot of the hill, while the original claims are on top. The Yukon Gold Company has shipped 2,500 tons of ore to Mayo Landing so far this winter, and driven several hundred feet of new tunnel

PIG CLUBS IN HASTINGS

Clubs Are Pushing the Modern Type by Ingenious Schemes.

Pig clubs are popular among the boys and girls of Hastings county, according to Agricultural Representative Atkin. A newly organized club at West Huntingdon now has 10 members, 20 boys and 10 girls, and another at Marmora has 15 members. This work, which is not confined to any one county is promoted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the Dominion Department of Agriculture, and the Dominion Packers. Each club is self-contained, elects its own officers and runs its own affairs.

Each member must raise two or more pigs of bacon type to certain weight, and show them at the Pig Champ Fair in the fall. If a member needs money to purchase pigs, the local banks advances him a loan. If he needs advice, the representative is there for the purpose. Besides showing at the Club's Fair, he may show at Stirling Fall Fair, at which arrangements have been made for special classes and prizes. Prizes are also awarded for clubs, subject car lots to the Union Stock Yards. Pig Club members are thus trained in selecting, feeding, handling and marketing swine, and learn to take an intelligent interest in the questions. As all the pigs are of bacon type and are practically all of the same breed, Yorkshire, the formation of a club is a direct stepping on only to specialization in the bacon hog, but toward community breeding, both of which steps take an important if the overseas bacon market is to be retained and the industry put on a safer basis. Among the membership is counted the "debtors" and child interested in have completed themselves honor any members. The prize lists are expected as a consequence to be subs[illegible]

THE COAL STRIKE

Our indifference to the coal strike in progress in the United States is wholly unjustified, points out the Ottawa Journal. In the ups and downs of anthracite prices we are more concerned than are the Americans themselves. We are absolutely dependent on the United States for our chief domestic fuel, and shall be for all time to come unless the Research Council succeeds in making a satisfactory substitute from the low grade Alberta lignite and at a figure which will permit distribution throughout Ontario at least. We should all pray for the triumph of such efforts. In the meantime, it should interest us very vitally to know that if the strikers win, our hard coal is likely to cost us twelve a ton. The mine operators make that assertion very positively, and support it by the usual array of statistical data.

As likely as not, this announcement will be met by a flat denial by the miners, and they, too, will quote chapter and verse. That is one of the difficulties in this whole controversy it practically impossible to ascertain the absolute truth. Two things, however, are beyond doubt: First, that there are either too many miners in the coalfields, or the business of mining is carried on most uneconomically; for while wages are unquestionably high, the work proceeds so irregularly that the men in the pits realize rather low sum for the whole year. That should be curable, and it would be cured if there were one-quarter of the legislative attention applied to the mining industry that controls the railways. Second, no matter which way the decision goes the consumer will still be the real sufferer. If the miners lose, the producers will hold up the price of coal to pay the cost of the strike. If the miners win, and it usually means $3 more per ton at the mines, the extra cost may be about $6 before it reaches the ultimate user.

A STATE OF INSURRECTION.

Easter day passed without the dreaded Easter insurrection in Ireland. But the situation there is not far different from armed insurrection. De Valera is now openly inciting his followers to violence. In his Easter message to "the young men and women of Ireland" he says, "Ireland is yours; take it." And indeed the armed forces of the insurgent republican army have been doing just this for some days past. In Dublin, in Sligo and elsewhere they have been "taking" such bits of Ireland as they deem it worth while to take—public buildings, barracks, hotels and private residences which are useful as strategic points of vantage in the struggle which they anticipate and for which they are evidently preparing. Messrs. Griffith and Collins have been making speeches strongly condemnatory of De Valera and his methods; but the situation would seem to call for action rather than speechifying. The provisional government is timid and weak in action, and its timidity has evidently stimulated the activities of the insurgent republicans. If it had acted vigorously two weeks ago it could probably have crushed the insurrectionary movement which has gathered head.

What chance is there of a full and fair expression of public opinion in a general election under present conditions in the Irish Free State? Every polling booth would be likely to be a scene of terrorism. The pacification of the country should precede a general election and if the provisional government cannot restore peace and order it should ask the British government to come to its aid.

MR. MURDOCK'S STAND.

—Hamilton Spectator

Mr. Murdock's first stand will strengthen the hands of those who are seeking an honorable and satisfactory way out of the impasse. His denunciation of the tactics recommended by the United Mine Workers' Secretary is one of the most scathing indictments that have ever been uttered by a Labor Minister.

KINDNESS FOR THE CELESTIAL

—London Free Press

There are certain restrictions now on the entrance of Chinese into Canada, while there is a gentleman's agreement with Japan, yet, despite this the Oriental population is rapidly increasing. Canada and Canadians have nothing but the kindliest feelings towards the Oriental. However, it is a pure matter of self-preservation that British Columbians view the matter as they would if the Eastern Canada look at the problem.

PARTY V. PATRONAGE

—Brantford Expositor

In the old days the distribution of patronage was relied upon to strengthen the party allegiance, and now that it is gone the members are dependent upon the electors entirely, rather than the electors upon the members. This is exactly as it should be. No public office should be the gift of any public man, nor should it be used to reward party service.

The Poets' Corner

A SONG OF EASTER

Sing, children, sing!
And the lily censers swing;
Sing that life and joy are waking,
and that death no more is king.
Sing the happy, happy tumult of the slowly brightening spring;
Sing, little children, sing!

Sing, children, sing!
Whist! wild hs taken wing.
Till the air with the sweet tidings till the frosty echoes ring!
Along the caves the icicles no longer,
glittering sting;
And the crocus in the garden lifts its bright face to the sun;
And in the meadows softly the brooks
begin to run;
And the golden catkins swing
In the warm airs of the spring;
Sing, little children, sing!

Sing, little children, sing! -
The lilies white you bring
In the joyous Easter morning for hope off her breast doth fling,
So may we cast our fetters off in God's eternal spring.
So may we find release at last from sorrow and from pain,
And may we find our childhood's calm,
delicious dews again.
Sweet are your eyes, O little ones, that look with smiling grace,
Without a shade of doubt or fear into the Future's face!
Sing, sing in happy chorus, with joyful voices tell
That death is life, and God is good,
and all things shall be well;
That bitter days shall come
In warmth and light and peace—
That winter yields to spring,—
Sing, little children, sing!

A Laugh or Two

The Double Hewter

A speaker at the Stewart's College Sub, Edinburgh, annual dinner the other day told a story about a young man, who was asked at a dinner party by one of the guests if he liked "Omar Khayyam." "Not ver much," he replied. "I prefer cream do nenths." On the way home a friend remarked to him: "That was rather a bad less pa you made about Omar Chayyam. It's pot a drink; it's a beese."

COUSIN JEFF'S VISIT

By BYRON STAUFFER

Cousin Jeff of Judah P.O. has been visiting us over the longer holidays. As a matter of fact, which is Jeff's favorite slang, I have just returned from seeing him off at the train. That is in itself a sign that Cousin Jeff has made good with me, for only my choicest friends ever induce me to accompany them down to that cold Front Street country. But Jeff had captured the innermost citadel of this rock-bound heart, and I actually hugged his mature old grip right into the oldest Grand Trunk car — the one that goes to Judah P.O.

Jeff has never really been reckoned as belonging to our family. His folks rather slipped a cog or two a couple of generations ago by a marriage below the line, as it were. Since then, in the occasional revising of the family tree, his people have sagged down to the lower and quiet boughs several yards away from the main trunk where my own place is.

By the pink-toed prophet, as Cappy Ricks would say, I find it is Jeff who roosts on the centre limb, with me way out in the offing.

Well, anyhow, all that I have known of Cousin Jeff is that he early in the game secured the sinecure of township clerk in a very rural municipality. Way up in a country anywhere from eighty to two hundred miles northeast by southwest from this metropolis.

But last Wednesday soon, in comes Jeff, carrying his goatskin coat, and asking me what's what generally. Caught me with the goods, as it were, just before lunch at that. Didn't leave the slightest ground for any misunderstanding as to his motives nor intentions. Came, not to attend my alliance convention, nor to hear Campbell Morgan, nor to get instructions on meeting the Danish bacon competition, but primarily and solely to visit his cousins and incidentally to escape the turmoil of his manifold duties at home.

Turmoil be blowed! thought I couldn't the rustic realize that of all weeks this was my busiest?

But his very next remark won me completely, for he released a very intelligent, and-I should say, discerning remark about my Star articles, and I mixed the glasses and steamrollered his path and mine out to the house. And what a delightful dinner we had! Jeff, I found, had a most acute literary taste. He reeled off thirteen titles of my articles without taking his breath, and in everything proved himself a most intelligent, correct-minded fellow.

Well, anyhow, before the night passed, I learned that Cousin Jeff is not only township clerk and justice of the peace, but postmaster of Judah P.O., township treasurer, school trustee, justice of the peace, coal-master, game warden and Sunday School superintendent. As township clerk he is also specially issuer of marriage licenses. Also of dog, deer and fishing licenses. Auto licenses and chauffeur's license. Life, auto and accident insurance. By the time he had taken off his celluloid collar and Number Nines, preparatory to turning in, I found that I had several more lessons to take in filling a busy, with toil.

Well, anyhow, next morning it developed that Jeff was not quite so single-eyed in his motives for coming to town as he had let on. He announced after breakfast that he probably wouldn't show up again until after he had to see Mr. Raney about a Sheep Killed by Dogs problem, consult Mr. Biggs about the new highway passing through Judah P.O., ask the Registrar-General about the renewal of a marriage license signed by he bigamouse, (that's the way he pronounced it), get some advice as to the open season for bullfrogs, see some party leaders about the possibility of his getting the job of his, and go to the Mechanics' Book Room for some Sunday School helps. Way, he made my daily progress look like the mere odds and ends of a holiday.

Well, at six, when I saw him start from the street, carrying his backward—wasn't he fat!—hand carving a great potted plant for my mama, as he calls all friends, except his father, I supposed came a big box of candy! Say, you people, he's the whole cheese, and then some! So I've drawn the family tree, with Cousin Jeff of Judah P.O. resting right in the mouse of the tall grassmore, and his five kiddies farted up where the tree hits the sky.

"Inside Stuff"

Look at a watch. The case, exquisitely engraved or sparkling with diamonds, does not add a penny's worth of accuracy. It's the "inside stuff" — the homely steel and brass, made to a standard—which makes a watch "accurate to a second."

It is not the color or freakish tread that makes you proud of your tires. It is the mileage your tires give and the trouble they save.

It's the "inside stuff"—the incredible toughness and durability of the rubber — the strength of cord and fabric—the care and knowledge, ripened by experience, in manufacturing—which give you a perfect product.

It is this "inside stuff" that has made DOMINION TIRES the tires by which all tires are judged.

To-day DOMINION TIRE prices average at least one-third less than pre-war prices and give 50% greater mileage. Your dealer will sell you a 30 x 3½ Dominion U-Tread for $13.25— or a 30 x 3½ "Nobby Tread" for $16.50.

LONGER SKIRT IS MAKING HEADWAY

Designers Achieving Purposes by Flowings, Flounings, Panels, Ruffles and Things.

SOME HAVE TRAILING TRAINS

Arrangement is Combined With the Waistline Effect—Some Have Panels That Count Upon Having the New Waiting Mode.

Harbingers of the spring season proved "quite" or from all directions from New York, and the exhibit of the Metropolitan Fabric, while right here in the City of New York, serves to indicate what the "other New Yorks" are being treated to. Fashion exhibits that are typical of America in character. Only the best of America's fashion creators are represented in the display, which is to travel far and to take ship-loads of fashion to the Pacific coast, crossing the spring.

While the dresses designed for the exhibit have yet to make their way to the "Golden Gate" region—not to say Honolulu—the afternoon and evening gowns are trooping downward as one mortals pass. And it is interesting to see how variously the different designers achieve their purposes by draping and flounces, flounces, panels and ruffles and underskirts and things.

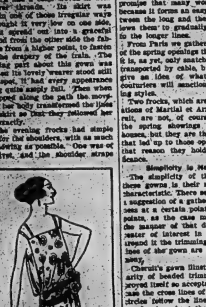

For those women who will not accept the frankly long skirt (either because it is not becoming to them or because they want to remain practical in appearance) there are many models featuring tricks to make them look long, while in other portions of their attire they indicate to be short and "with it." The style will continue to be very full, and those who would be in the vogue yet be parties to the reigning fashion decree, will find that when a long style is once around in its beautiful acceptance of the long skirt, but having the effect of length, they seem many of them—be-cause of the fullness.

One evening gown at the National Metropolitan Fashion show was made of the new flowing skirt, but draped about the figure in classic lines, with great fullness at the back to place over the shoulders. On the left side of the skirt the drapings are caught and held in place with a fan, almost to the knee, while on the opposite side, the line of the draping starts downward until it barely escapes the floor.

Made of Metal Cloth.

Another of these very brilliant models was made of silver cloth and fabric shade of metal cloth—that is, the fabric had a color woven in with the silver threads. Its skirt was draped in one of those irregular ways that "just fell" on one side, where it spread out into a graceful style, and from the other side the skirt came from a higher point, to fasten under the drapery of the train. The trailing part about this gown was the part that its lovely wearer stood still to show off, and every appearance of being quite simply full. Then when she stepped along the path the movement of her body transformed the lines of the skirt so that they followed her every motion.

If the evening frocks had simple lines for the skirts, with an occasional panel showing or possible. One was of red velvet, and the shoulder straps were of rhinestones. The bodice was cut very low in front and in back ship-shape.

Red is Leading Color

Of bright colors, red has first place in Paris, there are even entire dresses of red crepes, such as the one with a hint of violet in it, used by Reuna, and Jenny also uses an immense quantity of red, altho more for hats, trimmings and some of the blouses, than for entire dresses; and Paton features rouge drapeau or flag red.

New Lingerie

In using gorgettes for lingerie, usually two colors are placed one over the other, giving a two-toned effect; French blue over magenta gives a charming shade, as does the palest green over rose. Night gowns and negligees of this type are pointed in scallops at the bottom and the two layers of georgette are joined only at the neck and armholes, then scalloped. One soon gorgette finished in a running stitch of wool yarn a shade darker than the georgette. Ribbon run in the same fashion is dyed and finished this same way in chenille. Printed voile over plain satin gives a veritable soap bubble effect.

STOCKHOLM CENTRE OF BOLSHEVIK PROPAGANDA OUTSIDE OF RUSSIA

Stockholm, April 17.—This city has become the most important centre for Bolshevik propaganda outside of Russia, according to several leading newspapers, which attribute the increasing and alarm manifested in many Swedish quarters over what is termed the "tolerant attitude" of the present Socialist cabinet toward Bolshevist penetration.

Soviet delegations occupy commodious apartments in the most fashionable quarters of the city, says the Svenska Dagbladet, describing the situation. It is here that the "red threads" connecting Russia until the newspaper adds, explaining that Bolshevist travelling agents are constantly going and coming from Moscow.

Anti-Bolshevists express the fear that red propaganda will be given a still firmer hold on Sweden through the signing of the commercial treaty between Soviet Russia and Sweden.

ROD AND GUN FOR MAY

Sportsmen and lovers of the great out of doors will not want to miss the May number of ROD AND GUN IN CANADA, which contains a wealth of attractive features. There are other stories, including "The Imp of the Trail" by E. Wilson and "An Angler's Dream" by I. Todd. A trio of top-notched articles will also be found. C. B. Nash contributes an interesting, illustrated article, "Hunting the Rocky Mountain Goat," while Bonarguard tells how it is well up to the usual high standard of all his work. The magazine also contains the first announcement of the new photographic department, which will doubtless prove a popular feature. ROUNDING OUT A LOW-COST MEAL WITH A DELICIOUS DESSERT

"Desserts are such a nuisance to inexperienced cooks," I have heard women say, or soon suit and the plain cook. "My family has to be content with the same desserts, because desserts are too expensive." And every time I hear one of these remarks I ask the speaker why she doesn't argue in this wise—that one can serve a platter dinner if one has an elaborate dessert. A delicious and popular dessert "rounds out" a plain meal and leaves the family contented. The housekeeper has learned that cabbage, carrots and onions in her store-room, for instance, need not ask herself double duty if her family will be satisfied with these vegetables—if the dessert is a favorite one.

The following dinner menu illustrates my point; without the dessert, this menu would be very unattractive.

Corned Beef
Potatoes Cabbage
Coffee Steamed Chocolate Pudding with Creamy Sauce

Or take such a dinner menu as this one:

Cold Roast of Beef
Fried Potatoes Beets
Coffee Lemon Meringue Pie

What would the menu be without the Lemon Meringue Pie? The pie just "saves it." It will be the first factor to spread a delicious dessert.

Yes, it pays for the housekeeper to master the art of making delectable desserts. The following dinner desserts are all good ones, sure to be popular with almost any family:

Chocolate Marlinge Pie, Indian Pudding, Bread Pudding with Hard Sauce, Cottage Pudding with liquid lemon sauce, Lemon Pudding and Lemon Meringue Pie.

I have recently given recipes in this department of these desserts except Chocolate Marlinge Pudding; Indian Pudding—1 cup sugar, 1 cup meal, 1 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 4½ with the quantities of

The Daily Recipe

2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Few grains cayenne
1 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon table sauce
2 cups cooked rice

Put ingredients, except cream, in glass jar and shake thoroughly. Add cream and serve with salad.

TWO MAY DIE TOGETHER ON SCAFFOLD IN TORONTO

Toronto April 18.—Three weeks from today Fred L. Davis and David Harris will die unless the law intervenes. A petition for the lives of these four-handed people has been forwarded to Ottawa on behalf of Harris who shot his partner on Queen street west last December; Harris is an American and the Toronto Armenians are trying to save his life from the gallows. It is not thought that Ottawa will interfere in Harris's sentence. The life of Davis is uncertain. Neither Davis is mentally deranged has not been announced.

If Ottawa does not commute the sentence Toronto will have another double hanging. The last one—and the first—was when "Nosey" Hottrus and Wm. McFadden, slayers of Druggist Sabine were executed last August.

ANOTHER BRITISH TRADE SHIP

Some time ago arrangements were completed for the building of a special vessel to act as a floating exhibition of British manufactures. For various reasons the voyage of this ship has been postponed for a year or two. Meanwhile a large British liner has been acquired for the purpose of being converted into a trade ship. The cabins will be used for the accommodation of the representatives while the large saloon portions of the vessel will be adapted for exhibition purposes.

MARS RECEIVES MUCH ATTENTION

Venus Will Receive More Attention as Mars is Dying.

Stockholm, April 18.—The planet Mars—an old dying world—is receiving altogether too much attention from earthly scientists these days and nights, while the up-and-coming young planet Venus is just waiting for a chance to know us better.

This is the conclusion of Professor Svante Arrhenius, Nobel Prize winner and one of Europe's foremost scientists and astronomers, who lectured here on the prospect of wireless-ing from the heavens the secrets of some of our celestial neighbors, and especially Mars, when that planet swings into closest proximity to the earth two years hence.

If scientists and long distance radio men really want to communicate with some celestial neighbor, Professor Arrhenius said, they will not find Mars very cordial, for the old fellow—dying or dead—is covered with hard frozen sand and is so dry that all early life could have died. Perhaps a few sea weeds still exist, he said, but it is highly improbable that even low animal life could find enough to sustain it. He described as "fantastic" the belief that "secluded canals observed on the planet indicate the work of engineers and attributed them to earthquake fissures.

"Everything on Venus is dripping wet," he continued. "The planet is covered by constant clouds 10 miles thick, precluding any rays from the sun penetrating to the bottom of the atmosphere." Life on the planet of love is also well advanced, living organisms, he thought, might be found at the poles' regions where the temperature was slightly lower than other parts of the planet.

"When the earth is extinguished," he concluded, "it will be Venus, queen of the Heavens," that will take over the role as carrier of culture."

SMITH'S AIRPLANE HAD NO DEFECTS

London, April 18.—The cause of Thursday's airplane tragedy when Captain Sir Ross Smith and Lieut. Bennett were killed, probably will never be known. The machine at the inquest held Saturday, noon failed to elicit from the expert witnesses more information than the cause was without defect.

The coroner said the secret of how the plane got into the fatal spin had gone with the two men who had lost their lives, but that it was proved that there was no defect in the machine.

J.A.C. AND SCOUTS ARE THE LOSERS

Two Snappy Games of Baseball at the Armouries Last Night.

One of the most exciting games of baseball of the season was played in the Armouries last night in which the J. A. C. were trimmed by the Tiger Four in the tune of 19 to 8. The Boy Scouts also lost to the Shoe Clerks, by the equal score of 13 to 11. Records were broken and another one cracked in the J. A. C. and Tiger Four games.

The Boy Scouts and Shoe Clerks played the first game. This was the game which needed to be very exciting during the game a strange incident happened. One of the Scouts smashed the ball to the wall from which it bounced into Storey's hands and from his hands it bounced to another member of the team who caught the man out. The Scouts seemed to be unable to hit McAlpine, who pitched for the Shoe Clerks, and were also weak in the field. Redfern made the only home run. Sam Curry pitched a fairly good game although he didn't have much steam. H. Bankard is left field playing a good game making catches of all classes. Curry batted alternated with J. Hibbard on 3rd. h. as the sixth inning.

The second game was the most exciting of the two. The J. A. C. seemed to have it all there way up to the seventh inning when the Tigers Four began to wake. The Tigers then began to hit un hard knocking the old pill up into the field. Cole, Lock Tennant, plays as catcher in the eighth, and went batting, doing very good work although he made two or three errors thrown. The J. A. C. put up a good game but at the finish got worn out. Hibbard pitched for the J. A. C. while in left Hibbard relieved Curry. This is usual the form Langdon was good on the second for the Tiger Four.

The line-ups for the teams were:-

Shoe Clerks—Hadley, 1.f; Storey, c.; Mc-Whinney, 2nd; Donahoe, c.; Mc-Alpine, p; McKay, c.f.; Hill, r.f.

Boy Scouts—Scouts, 1nd; J. H. Bankard, 1.f; Curry, p; Redfern, c; R. Myler, 1st b; H. Bankard, r.f.; Fleischhauer, 2nd; Hibbard, c.f. b.

Tiger Tire—G. Clapper, 3rd b; K. Hay, s.s; McKenzie, c.f.; F. Platt, 2nd b; F. Gower, c; E. Gower, 1.f; Crandall, r.f; G. Langdon, p; G. Platt, 1st b.

J. A. C.—Hershey, c.f.; Allen, 3rd b; Eckert, p; Hargreaves, 2nd b; Armstrong, s.s; Maidens, 1st b; M. arshal, r.f; Yeomans, c; Manley, 1.f.

OLD TIME RIVALS WILL FIGHT IT OUT

Lions and Rotarians in Exhibition Fixture at Armouries Tonight.

All roads will lead to the Armouries to-night, when one of the big indoor baseball fixtures of the season will be pulled off. The attraction this evening is an exhibition game between the Lions and the Rotarians, well known baseballically and reputed to be the most formidable rivals within the city gates.

The Lions, although sufficiently famed, to be allowed their freedom about the city, still retain that, thirsty looking whole feather (the magnificent "King of the Jungle," which is their emblem; and it is rumored that they will never rest, until they have taken a full out of the Cogged Wheeled Outfit.

Be that as it may, we cannot vouch for its correctness, as Dame Rumor is sometimes rather fickle. Some thing seems to whisper, however, that their will be doings at the Armouries at any rate, so it will be wise to call around that way to-night.

The proceeds will go towards a fund, to carry on the Boy's Work. Game called at 8 p.m.

JUNIOR LEAGUE WILL MEET TONIGHT

League Schedule Will be Drawn Up at This Meeting.

The boys of the City are now seeing opportunities to get out on the back lot and limber up the old arm for the great summer pastime. Plans of the junior league are rapidly taking shape and seven teams have entered the series. To-night at the Y. M. C. A., a meeting will be held to draw up a schedule and complete other matters pertaining to the league. It is essential that every team be represented at this meeting. The B. A. A. A. will have representatives present to aid the boys in organization. The following teams will please have representatives present:- Quinte Quad, Ontarios, Excelsiors, White Sox, Lock Works, Maple Leaves and Grand Trunk.

BASEBALL IN KINGSTON

Kingston, April 19.—Prospects for high-class baseball in Kingston during this summer are very slim. This is due to financial conditions, and not to the lack of splendid material available. The long period of industrial depression has been a bad factor, but the inability of the Ponies Club to obtain good receipts to cover the expenses of running a good team is the main cause. If there was a good diamond enclosed by a fence the club would be able to extract sufficient at the gate to maintain a good team and cover expenses, but the Kingston fans have been accustomed to getting their entertainment at their own price, and these voluntary contributions are too meagre to base any organization upon. There are good sports in Kingston, but little over 5 per cent. of those who go to the games will contribute 25 cents, whereas a 50 cent charge should be made.

STANDING OF INDOOR LEAGUE

Grand Trunks and Tiger Tire Team Lead Group "A"—Shoe Clerks "B".

The following is the standing of the indoor Baseball League, as a result of last night's double header at the Armouries.

The Grand Trunks and the Tiger Tire nines are a tie for first place in "A" group with three wins each to their credit, and no losses. The last chance held out by the spendy J. A. C. organizers, vanished last evening when they lost, 19 to 8, game to the Tiger Tire, after it was thought by the fans, that they had the game on ice. When these two league leaders meet on Tuesday night, April 25th either team is due for the fall, and elimination. They have not as yet clashed.

The Shoe Clerks are away out in front in "B" group, they also won 3 games and lost none.

After last night the standing of the teams were as follows:-

Group "A"	Won.	Lost
G. T. R.	2	0
Tiger Tire	2	0
J. A. C.	1	2

THREE CHAMPIONS TO DEFEND TITLES

Michigan City, Ind, April 18.—Days on which Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion; Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Jack Britton, welterweight champion, are to defend their titles in matches here were announced tonight by Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter for the local post of the American Legion.

Fitzsimmons exhibited contracts signed by the champions, and said that Leonard would box here July 4, Britton on August 8, and Dempsey would appear on Labor Day. Leonard is to get $40,000. His opponent's name will be announced late this week. The money and opponents of Dempsey and Britton will be fixed later.

EXPECTS TO MATCH DEMPSEY

London, April 18.—The Cyrils at Palace Arena, which seats 100,000 persons, has been engaged by a syndicate which hopes to stage two bouts during the stay in England of Jack Dempsey, champion heavyweight George McDonald, fight promoter, is proposing that Dempsey undertake to finish Joe Beckett, British heavyweight champion, in six rounds, and Jack Blumenfield in four. Seat prices will range from six shillings to five pounds sterling.

"Babe" Herman and "Pepper" Martin have been matched at last. For months the managers of these two featherweights have been conferring in an effort to reach an agreement. It was not until yesterday afternoon that signatures were affixed for the pair to go fifteen rounds in Madison Square Garden, New York, on May 2.

Harry Greb will not box Gene Tunney in a New Jersey ring, notwithstanding reports circulated recently to the effect that Greb and Tunney had been signed to meet in a twenty-round bout at Boiye's Thirty Acres, Jersey City.

Charlie White, the Chicago lightweight says that under no circumstances will he consent to meet Benny Leonard or Floyd Fitzsimons arena in Michigan City, Ind., on July 4. The western battler serves notice that if he is to meet the lightweight champion at all it will have to be some place where they give decisions, and where they will insist on Leonard making the required 138 pound at 2 o'clock on the day of the contest.

QUIET IN POLICE CIRCLES

Everything in police circles was exceptionally quiet today. The cells last night were unoccupied and there was no business for the Magistrate this morning.

Farmers report that due to the heavy rain on Monday the plowing in the Thurlow district will be delayed for about one week. Many farmers had expected to get out in the fields on Monday morning, but they will have to wait until it gets drier. In most places the men expected that the ground would have been in good condition for plowing on Monday.

CHARGE OF ASSAULT.

The case of Alexander vs. Andrew Chris and Savva Nicholof, a charge of assault, was tried yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Masson. Mr. Alexander claims he was assaulted by the defendants. At the conclusion of the taking of evidence a fine of $5 and costs was imposed upon the two men.

EASTER CONCERT WELL PRESENTED

Mrs. Lugrin-Fahey and Local Soloists Excel Before Large Audience.

Every one who attended the Easter Concert in Bridge St. Methodist church last night, (and the spacious auditorium was well filled), must certainly have enjoyed the splendid programme presented.

The concert, which was given under the direction of Mr. Vincent P. Hunt, Organist of Bridge St. Church, consisted of The Sacred Cantata, "The Holy City," by Alfred R. Gaul. The motet, "Hear My Prayer" for soprano soloist and chorus, by Mendelssohn, and a miscellaneous program.

Mr. Hunt directed. Miss Laura La Velo, organist of the Baptist church, presided at the organ, and Miss Wynda Palmer, was the pianist. Miss Hattie Bedingfield, Canadian soprano, Mrs. Winnifred Lugrin-Fahey, was the chief soloist and in the rendition of the cantata, "Holy City," the following soloists also took part. Miss Anna Pooley, soprano, Mrs. C. E. McGillivray, contralto, Mr. Fletcher Staples, tenor and Mr. James Booth, baritone. Forty voices constituted the chorus.

The programme commenced with the presentation of "Hear My Prayer" after which Mr. Hunt played an organ solo, (a) "Good Friday Music from Parsifal" and (b) "March from Tannhauser," both by Wagner.

Mrs. Lorie-Fahey then rendered four songs, (a) "Early Morning," by Graben Hoffman, (b) "Down Vaxzhall Way," by Herbert Oliver, (c) "Long, Long Ago," by Bayley, and (d) "The Answer," by Hamilton Aidie. Mrs. Fahey was requested to sing a fifth number, in response to a most hearty encore.

The Cantata, "The Holy City," followed, in two parts, "The Contemplation" and "The Adoration," after which Mrs. Fahey rendered, "Inflammatere," by Rossini, assisted by the chorus. This number concluded the programme.

Mrs. Fahey, who has been heard in Belleville before, has a charming style of music lovers here, with her powerful, soprano voice. Although powerful in voice, Mrs. Fahey is able to shade down very artistically with excellent expression and enunciation. The other soloist, also held up their position of the program in an excellent manner, and clearly demonstrated to their audience, as indeed the whole chorus did, that their finished work was the direct product of hard work, and much practice, under the able directorship of Mr. Hunt.

In playing the introductions to part I and II of "The Holy City," Miss La Velo at the organ, and Miss Palmer at the piano, made a very favorable impression. Both instruments were as one.

Mr. Hunt's organ solo was also well received, the solo selected calling upon him to demonstrate his prowess as a musician. From the delicate, smooth shading of the "Good Friday Music," to the lilting loveliness of the triumphant "March from Tannhauser," he carried his audience, and completely won them over.

FOREMAN ASKED TO RESIGN

Under the order of unfinished business Ald. McCreary again referred to the matter stating that Mr. Hendershot had been unfairly dealt with.

Ald. Donohoe—I do not know where I was compelled Mr. Hendershot as he is so well versed with the conditions of the streets.

Ald. Foster—He is not the proper man. Tendyman goes as they should be treated and the city will get the work done.

Ald. McCreary—There is more than a principle involved in this matter and I know it. Last January, before the municipal elections, the position of street foreman was virtually promised to another man. There was a combination of elements in this matter and we were treating a good servant shabbily.

Ald. Foster—We have done something in this matter this year that the Council of last year would not do.

This concluded the debate and as a result the position will no doubt be filled by some other person at the time specified in the motion.

Enquiries.

Ald. McCreary asked if the committee had decided anything in regard to the opening of the C.T.R. crossing on Frank street.

Ald. Donohoe—Will report at next meeting.

Mayor Hanna asked Ald. Greenleaf if he had anything definite in regard to the proposed improvement to the entrance to Victoria Park.

Ald. Greenleaf—I have had plans prepared.

Ald. Patterson—Is the Assessor going to bump the assessment again this year, my assessment has been increased $1,000 this year. We have no other court of revision this year as last year.

Mayor Hanna—I do not know anything about the matter.

Ald. Greenleaf—I will ask if it is permissable for me to make some changes in the walks of Victoria Park.

Ald. Robinson—Bring it up in Committee.

Ald. Donohoe—We are putting some stone on the market square on the responsibility of the Public Works Committee. If it costs too much it will have to be charged to the Market and City Property Committee.

Motions

Moved by Ald. Donohue, seconded by Ald. French—That work be proceeded with on all covered concrete sidewalks for which bylaws have been passed and for which petitions have been filed and found sufficiently signed.—Carried.

Ald. Donohue moved, seconded by Ald. Patterson—That the Public Works Department get prices and obtain a supply of sand and gravel for use on sidewalks.—Carried.

Ald. Donohue—The idea is to plant sidewalks to give employment to the unemployed. The most important walks will be constructed. The motion was adopted.

ARE WE AS A NATION TO BE BALD, TOOTHLESS AND BLIND?

"We're told that baldness is certainly increasing. A splendid beginning has been made in dental hygiene. But defective vision prevails alarmingly.

The Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry recently reported that more than half of our industrial workers are suffering from poor eye sight. Now we are told the same ailment affects one-quarter of our school kids.

This visual weakness is only in part due to intensive reading and study, though these, of course, aggravate it.

RAIN STOPS EARLY SEEDING

Summary of Reports by Representatives of Dept. of Agriculture.

Frequent showers have been delaying seeding operations, as it has been hard to get on the land in many cases. On well drained fields, however, considerable advance has been made with Spring work.

In Kent, the chief is about township of the Province, both fall and clover have shown a remarkable improvement during the past week, owing to warm rains followed by sunshine. Excess also speaks favorably of the prospect assurance of fall wheat.

Kent reports that a large number of tobacco beds have been prepared and seed sown, although rainy weather has been curtailing operations. One market gardener in that county already has 2,000 pots of early cabbage in the field.

Speaking of the tobacco situation Essex says: "The Co-operative Tobacco Co., which holds a total of over 6,000,000 lbs., reports sales in England recently of Burley at 30c. per lb. and upward. The tobacco market is apparently very slowly developing a stronger tone."

Peel says that considerable baled hay is being shipped week by to Eastern Ontario at price ranging from $18 to $20 a ton f.o.b., while alfalfa is selling loose at from $17 to $20 a ton.

Bruce says that considerable alfalfa and sweet clover seed is available in that county, the former selling at $25 and the latter at $8 a bushel.

Peterboro states that most of the cattle held over for sale in that county in last fall have already been shipped out.

Bruce calls attention to the following peculiar relationship said to exist between feeding sweet clover to cattle and deborning: Several complaints have reached this office from farmers who have been feeding sweet clover cuttings during the past year. They complain that when they dehorn their cattle they find great difficulty in checking blood flow and several instances have been noted where the animals have bled to death. There does not see to be any remedy known towards checking this flow.

Grenville fears that too any cattle may be turned on the fields before the grass gets a sufficient start, owing to the scarcity of feed.

Frontenac reports some cheap veal, the prices ranging from $4 to $4 each, some of the better appearing bringing from $5 to $6.

Peterboro says that the milk supply is increasing, and that farmers are buying extra cows to be ready for the opening of the cheese factories and other counties most of the factories are already making cheese.

Rent question giving lambs as selling at 16c. a lb.

Essex says that enquiries are rushing into this office regarding the marketing of wool.

Peri states: "A sale of farm chunks imported from Saskatchewan, was held in this county a few days ago. A number of the animals showed Belgian and Percheron breeding, while others were evidently Clydesales and crosses. The highest price paid was $180 for handy weight Percheron mares, and the average, on the terms of the sale, was about $150."

Berkshire says known to be good breeders are selling at from $40 to $50 for breeding purposes in Prescott and Russell. Some local breeders are thinking of crossing Berkshires with Yorkshires for bacon purposes.

Frontenac says that the demand for labor is brisk, with hardly enough experienced men to meet the demand.

On all the commissions she had been given the same treatment and status as the other powers; there was no discrimination.

Despite this, Dr. Simons concluded, at a secret treaty dealing with the very questions which the commission, of which Germany was a member, was then discussing. The grievance which everybody felt was against Germany, not against Russia, for Germany had been behind the back of the other powers.

Mr. Lloyd George then submitted a draft of a protest to Germany, which was accepted after discussion, without material modifications.

The representatives of the powers which convened the Genoa Conference, together with the Little Entente, decided to-night, after an all-day discussion to continue the economic conference regardless of the attitude of Germany and Russia.

France Insists On Punishment For Germany

Unless Treaty of Rapallo is Abrogated Pres. Poincare Says: Energetic Measures and Penalties Must be Taken Against the Hunnish Germans Are Now Seeking a Compromise With the Entente Powers—Experts Trying to Formulate a Unanimous Policy to Absorb Russo-German Treaty.

DISCUSS HUGE INTERNATIONAL LOAN

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer and Canadian Press, United

Paris, April 20—Instructions sent by Premier Poincare to the French ambassadors in the capitals of the Allies and which are approved by the Cabinet are to insist that energetic measures must be taken and penalties applied to Germany if the Russo-German treaty is not abrogated regardless of what the Genoa conference may decide.

Genoa, April 20—Prime Minister Lloyd George to-day had a conference with the British delegation and reported to accept the condition of the Allies not to participate in further discussions of Russian affairs as a result of having signed the Russo-German treaty at Rapallo on Sunday.

The Allied delegates and experts have not yet been able to find a formula satisfactory to all parties with the Russo-German treaty although efforts are being made to find "the minimum or formula" as Foreign Minister Schanzer described it. The German delegation has described this as the stamp of conference approval and removing the cause of hard feeling.

The plain language of Premier Lloyd George to the German statesmen yesterday over the treaty incident, when he demanded that the Germans submit their pact with Russia or accept the alternative of remaining segregated from the sub-commission No. 2, on which they were notified yesterday, which at one time threatened to disrupt the economic conference was believed to have cleared the political atmosphere, but as neither the German reply to the allies, nor the Russian reply regarding acceptance of the conditions for the reinstatement of Russia was forthcoming, the situation is still considered critical.

Some of the Britons described the Germans as "embarassed as to how to find a way out of the difficulty. Meantime, the work of the conference is blocked. The neutral states have officially insisted that the agenda of the conference be discussed in the commissions and not in private conversations among the chief delegates, for this the leaders reject that preliminary meetings are advisable in order to expedite the labors of the conference.

MAJOR ASHTON GIVES ADDRESS

Commissioner of Soldier's Settlement Board Addresses Class at Armouries.

Major J. Ashton, Commissioner of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, Ottawa addressed the Soldiers' Wives Class at the Armouries this morning. Major Ashton's advice, coming from a man who has experienced the hard knocks of pioneering, western Canadian farming, who has swung an axe, and wielded a shovel in his earlier days, was listened to attentively by the members of the class, who are also workers.

The speaker stated that the Soldiers' Settlement Board had loaned money to veterans on 21,000 farms in Canada. They have also assisted those veterans who have settled on the Government Homesteads in Western Canada, in the purchase of stock, and the erection of buildings, saving them rates of interest from 8 to 10%.

Major Ashton, 11 years ago, came to Canada from England and traked 200 miles from the end of the railroad and there homesteaded. In order to settle upon a homestead, the nearest Ocean was 35 miles distant, and the farmers were very specialized. Now conditions have changed. Real hardships were suffered as outlined by the speaker, and the difficulties of marketing a home were overcome. The farmer and his wife, however, will own their farm in a few years, and the opportunity for prosperity in agricultural life is there, if only they will work and keep at it day by day. Truly it is uphill work, and there is no royal road to success. Everything worth while is worth waiting for, and getting is worth while waiting and working for. The part played by the working class in farm life is equally as necessary to success of the farm, as that played by the farmer himself is absolutely essential. The work is much the same as successful farming, hours and hours of monotonous routine, and few minutes of extreme excitement. It is the day by day and week by week attitude to the endeavours that contribute to the success or undertakings in agricultural life. The Home Industry and Co-operative is important in the department of farm, and this department comes under the jurisdiction of the farmers' wife mostly. The farm garden, the chickens, cows, and vegetable garden are the progressive farmer.

In closing the speaker voiced the wishes of himself and his colleagues, which he wished the class a successful, prosperous and happy 1922.

Inexperienced adults over 18 are to receive $10 per week for the first 6 months; and $10 per month for the next 6 months. Young girls under 18 years of age will receive as a minimum $7 for the first 6 months, $8 for the next 6 months, $9 for the third and $10 for the fourth year. In cities between 4,000 and 10,000, $10 per week is the minimum wage for experienced adults over 18, and in towns between 1000 and 4000 it will be $9, while all towns below 1000 and rural districts $8 per week. Included as salesforce are cashiers, parcellers, messengers and other employees working with the sales force. Milliners, dressmakers, office or factory workers are not included.

A letter accompanies each order which asks for the name and address of operators of the merchants, as the Board has been approved by representative merchants of the province. Live merchants of Belleville are interested in what act satisfied with the Act.

Merchants' Opinions

The merchants of Belleville do not take kindly to the new measure. They would not object so strongly, were the times good, and business brisk, but at present now that business is so dull. As one merchant pointed out, "Too much government interference is not good for either business or those engaged in business." The result of such interference shall be disorganization and distress so prevalent in Great Britain at the present time from exactly the same cause where Public opinion objects to such oppression.

Several local merchants could

HUGE WOMEN'S CONVENTION MEETS

Baltimore, April 20.—Responding to the call of the National League of Women Voters, women from all parts of the United States, together with representatives of Canada and South and Central America and States assembled here to-day in conference on the subjects of special concern to women. Education, child welfare, women in industry, prevention of trafic in women and children, relations and international friendliness, were among the items of business to be discussed.

STRICT LAW ON FIREARMS

Applicant Must Convince Officers That He Should Have Revolver.

Anyone in Belleville, who are desirous of carrying a revolver, will have a mighty difficult proposition to get a permit from the police who are authorized to issue such permits that they need to carry a weapon.

Chief of Police A. Kidd, when approached by a reporter on the subject, stated that he had not issued permits to individuals during the year. Large sums of money to and from the banks, are allowed to carry a revolver. There is no necessity for keeping the firearms very careful as to who they issue same. The applicant must be of very good standing in the community, and must show a sufficient cause and need for carrying a shooter.

Last year for three or four months, everyone possessing firearms of any kind (except shotguns) had to secure a permit for keeping the firearms even in their homes.

Chief Kidd states that quite a number of citizens had applications for permits. Their skill is protection, but they never state whether it is against burglars or personal enemies, as a result of his very careful discretion in this matter, Chief Kidd has had no possible whatever with "firearm cases."

Those officers authorized to issue permits are the Mayor of the R.C.M.P., the Superintendent of the Provincial Police, the District Magistrate, the Sheriff, or Chief Constable of any city, town, or incorporated district. The permit is good for 12 months only.

STRANGE ACTION CAUSES ARREST

Peterborough Police Found Belleville Man Dodging About City Lawns.

Peterboro, April 19.—The curious behaviour of James Montgomery on Charlotte street, Rubridge and other streets, this morning at 2 a.m. and again at 3 a.m., this morning aroused the interest of Detective George Cook and Officer Harrison. The latter was on parole in that district, and Montgomery was taken into custody. For two hours with C. Harrison, was the detective watched him dodging about lawns and hiding behind trees. When searched by the police $246 in cash was found upon him and two $50 bonds or Victory Bonds.

Montgomery gave as an explanation of his late hours that he had come to Peterborough from Belleville, where he said his home was, on a visit. He had brought the money for spending. A warrant was on the charge of vag. as he had not known where to go, and he had walked the streets. He was remanded for eight days.

The remarks of money Montgomery had on his person was considered unusual, and the fact that he had a pistol of his statements. He looked about 40 years of age and was wearing a bright green woolen muffler and white overcoat.

The police were patrolling the west end, because of complaints of men loitering about the streets in that section. No robberies that might have upon the city were reported to the police to-day.

WILL ORGANIZE RELIEF FUND

Publicity Agent for Department of Immigration Arrives in City.

HOLDS MEETING

Representative Citizens of Belleville Are Interested in Russian Fund.

For the purpose of organizing a local committee of the Save the Children Fund, Russian Famine Relief, Mr. Fred James, Publicity Agent of the Department of Immigration and Colonization, Ottawa, who has been loaned to the Central Committee of the Fund by the Dominion Government, is in the city. This afternoon he met a number of well known local men in the office of Mayor C. A. Hanna, under the chairmanship of His Worship, and briefly outlined the aims and objects of the fund. He explained that none of the money subscribed in Canada is sent out of the country, but is spent solely by the Dominion on foodstuffs, which are sent direct to Riga, Russia, and from there to the famine area in the Valley of the Volga, where of the 13,000,000 starving persons, approximately 7,000,000 are children. Of these 1,000,000 children, whom will die unless immediate relief is forthcoming.

The Canadian George Burn, former General Manager of the Bank of Ottawa and the Vice-President of the Canadian Bankers' Association, received for the fund from all sources in Canada about $300,000, which is completely finished. As a result of the lowering of the bill, access to the estate is shut off and the estate is declared insolvent. Mr. Holgate has appealed.

Mr. John Elliott, manager of the Standard Bank has agreed to act as local treasurer of the fund. Belleville has already subscribed nearly $700, which is being sent by Mr. Elliott to Ottawa. Five hundred dollars of this amount was paid by the proceeds of a play given in the famine district bearing the name of the City of Belleville and to be taken care of by children until the end of next August.

Similar local committees have been formed in municipalities throughout Canada.

LATE NEWS FROM THE TELEGRAPH

STEAMER IN DISTRESS

Halifax, April 20—The steamer Leyland Line steamer Ozonian, bound from Portland, Maine, to Liverpool and Avonmouth Dock, is reported about a hundred miles southeast of Halifax, and the Winnifredian, of the same line is proceeding to her assistance, according to a wireless message received here this morning.

NO STRIKE IN HAMILTON

Hamilton, April 20.—There will be no strike of employees of the street railway system as the men have offered to work for forty-eight cents per hour and receive an hour less than they were getting, and the Transmission Company has agreed on the compromise. The men had been offered 47 cents.

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM.

Regina, April 20.—An amendment to the constitution is the solution of the problem of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association as to the Wheat Board problem, now that the decision of a compulsory Wheat Board is beyond the powers of parliament.

FRANCE PREPARES

Paris, April 20.—LeClair says today that the German Government has sent twelve thousand "shock troops" into Ruhr, and announces its readiness for resistance in Upper Silesia. Meanwhile the Russian Red armies are threatening the Polish and Roumanian frontiers. "There is no time to lose if we want to avoid war," he adds.

MURNEY ESTATE ARBITRATION

Was This Estate Damaged by Lowering of Murney Hill?

The arbitration deliberations over the alleged damages incurred by the Murney estate, West Bridge street, by the lowering of the Murney hill, began Wednesday afternoon at the Court House. The arbitrators are, Judge Wills for the estate, ex-Ald. C. Wallace for the city, and Col. S. S. Lazier the third arbitrator chosen. Mr. S. Masson represented the city and Wm. Carnew, K.C., the estate.

Mr. Masson explained that under direction of the City Council, and the Board of Works, the work of lowering the hill was finished on August 18th, 1919, and nearly a year afterwards the paving operations were commenced, and completed on May 6th, 1921. The law states that any claims for damages must be made in writing within one year from the time the injury is sustained. Further, the damages must be estimated when the injury is done. The bill was lowered by the independent order of the City Council and under the direction of the Board of Works and in accordance with the paving contract.

Mr. Carnew stated that long ago the municipality first commenced the work, a notice was served by the owners of the Murney homestead on the municipality that the claim for damages would be claimed if the hill was lowered.

It was impossible to know at any one time just what the city would do with the Murney Hill, until it was completely finished. As a result of the lowering of the hill, access to the estate is shut off and the estate is declared insolvent. Mr. Holgate has appealed. The resultant damages are estimated by the estate owners at $5,000.

Witness Examined

Mr. Henry Holgate, civil engineer of Montreal, was the first and only witness examined at this hearing this afternoon. Mr. J. Waller Evans, engineer for Mr. Holgate inspected the estate on Wednesday morning, and based the results of his inspection upon the plans and profile submitted by Mr. Evans. Mr. Holgate has been in Belleville for 35 years, but is not familiar with Belleville property and val ues.

He thought that the lowering of the hill was a decided advantage to the municipality and railway, but as a result there is no access to the roadway for the estate from Bridge street, the most suitable frontage for any considerable property. The only access is now from Isabella street. There is a seven feet drop existing from the city line to the northern side of the

FIERCE RIOTING IN IRELAND

Belfast and Dublin Are in Continual State of Uproar.

MORE DEATHS

Three Have Been Eight People Killed Since Last Tuesday.

London, April 20—Following a day of comparative calm, Belfast became an inferno with the falling darkness last night. Early in the evening crowds assembled at Ballymacarret to avenge the murder of the Scott boys. Three houses were set afire. The fire lines and military fired into the crowds and general shooting started.

In the continuous bombardment, two women and one man were killed, and four adults and two children dangerously wounded.

Tram car service was partially suspended. Several other dwellings were set afire during the night. The fire brigade responses are taxed to their utmost. Last disturbances received were lated just before midnight, and fired order had been partially restored.

Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, and the Cabinet met Ministers of Henry Wilson, were in secret session last night.

Belfast, April 20—Sniping was resumed this morning in the Short Strand, the scene of last night's fierce riot and ambulance men were soon busy.

Mary Keehan who was shot yesterday died to-day and police succeeded in identifying the bullet wounds received Thursday, bringing the death roll since Tuesday to eight.

Dublin, April 20—Dublin still was the worst Dublin has experienced since the outbreak of the Irish Republican movement. Residents were kept awake by the continuous rifle and machine gun fire and noise of military having nothing to do but fire at places attacked by the rebel soldiers. The headquarters of the Provisional Government in the College of Science was attacked from the front and rear, but despite terrific firing an entry was not effected. The City Hall and Telephone Exchange were also heavily assailed.

DRIVING BELT CAUSES LAW SUIT

Judgment in a Division Court Case for the Plaintiff.

Before His Honor Judge Deroche a division court case was tried which is of considerable interest to the farmers of the greater portion of the day. The Canuck Kitchen Cabinet Company of this city brought the case in respect from the Brown & Sword Company, the price of a large driving belt valued at $145.

The defendants who are tenants of the plaintiff company's factory on Station street, refused to pay the bill in question, was involved in the issue of the premises which was disputed by the plaintiff. The case was heard, evidence and argument heard a verdict for the plaintiff company for $147 and costs. The case was tried by Mr. Payne for the plaintiff and Mr. Cameron for the defendant.

PRICES ON DOWN GRADE.

Ottawa, April 20—Prices are again on the down grade. Reports to the Labor Department of March show appreciable decreases in cloth, the wholesale price index number stood the family budget of seventeen staple foods. The greatest decrease are in dairy products.

SEVERAL PEOPLE KILLED AND SCORES INJURED IN STORM

Chicago Swept by Sixty-Mile Wind, With Snow and Colder Weather—Trees Uprooted and Buildings Unroofed by Violent Wind Storm.

Chicago, April 20—Several persons were killed and scores injured by a sixty-mile wind that swept Chicago yesterday and uprooted trees, unroofed many buildings and destroyed hundreds of windows and signs. Snow flurries and freezing temperatures followed in the wake of the gales, which lashed Lake Michigan into fury and caused storm warnings to be sent broadcast to mariners.

In the downtown district all building acted as giant resonators, shooting the gale into the streets with such force that pedestrians were swept from their feet.

A mounted policeman was blown from his horse. On one downtown corner seven wagons were overturned in less than two hours. Many automobile tops were ripped from machines.

Last night the fire department was busy in many outlying sections clear-

OTTAWA RIVER IN FLOOD INUNDATES LARGE AREAS

One Death by Drowning is Reported — Districts as Far Up River as Aylmer Are Under Water—Water Has Risen Very High.

Ottawa, Ont., April 20.—The first fatality in the flooded district of Ottawa to the Capital was reported yesterday, when Alfred Isarin, aged two years and nine months, fell from the back door-step of his home at Ottawa Point into about two feet of water and was drowned.

The water of the Ottawa river had risen to the highest point to about 15 metres and have flooded the water-front on the Quebec side of the river at various points, causing great havoc and ruin. Reports of districts under water came from as far up the river as Aylmer,

"THE BRIDE'S PLAY" CHARMING LOVE PICTURE

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, heartburn, burning gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as many believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food not assimilated, causing disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and many do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids for a week and get from any druggist a few cents worth of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter cup of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless in the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

"ROSE OF WASHINGTON SQUARE" AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

The Astor Producing Company's production of Hardin, Edwards and Myers outstanding musical comedy triumph 'Rose of Washington Square' underlined for presentation at Griffin's Theatre, for one night only. Fashion has taken up "Rose of Washington Square." It is the last word in up-to-date fashionable. There are "Rose" sweaters, hats, veils, stockings, silks, chiffons, shoes,—in fact everything which goes to make the toilet and dress of the fair sex.

Manuel Ledger, who produced "Rose" for the Astor Producing Company, has devised a new school for musical play producing, the keynote of which is to attain the ultimate style of production above everything else. And second, and contrary to the usual rule followed in musical comedy producing, that, the book—the play itself—is the real basic factor of success. Often the book is considered the least important factor—at least some musical comedy products would lead an audience to believe the producers' only need of a book was an excuse to introduce musical numbers.

"The Rose of Washington Square" is slated for presentation at the Princess Theatre, Toronto, week of May 1st.

Acid Stomach Causes Indigestion

Create Gas, Sweetness and Pain. How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, heartburn, burning gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as many believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food not assimilated, causing disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and many do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids for a week and get from any druggist a few cents worth of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter cup of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless in the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

At its height a wind velocity of 53 miles an hour was recorded.

FRENCH EMIGRATION TO THE DOMINION

London, April 19.—As for large migration, Britain would be affected by financial assistance could be given, says the annual report for 1921, of the Society for Overseas Settlement of British Women. "Under the present conditions," the report continues, "the cost of the journey is prohibitive to a majority of women, thousands of whom would be willing to go to the Dominions to fill the work most required of them."

DOMINION COAL COMPANY SAYS FIGURES ARE WRONG

Montreal, Que., April 19.—The British Empire Steel Corporation issued the following statement this morning: "Statements in a Canadian press despatch from Ottawa last night, made by J. B. McLachlan, district leader of the United Mine Workers, at a public meeting at Glace Bay on the 14th, giving particulars on the cost of mining coal at the collieries of the Dominion Coal Company, being figures alleged to have been obtained from private coal sheets of the company in an unorthodox manner" from its face, are denied by the Dominion Coal Company. The figures given in this despatch are incorrect in every particular, and false, figures and alleged origin of the "information" given out by Mr. MacLachlan are without foundation in fact."

HARDY ANNUALS FOR CUT BLOOM

Flowers for Bouquets and Table Use Are Commented On.

The main requisite in any flower for cutting to use in bouquets or table decoration is that they have some lasting quality combined with rigidity in the stems so that they will hold up without drooping. Rigidity or firmness in the stems can hardly be claimed for the nasturtiums, but what could be more decorative than a blue bowl filled with a bunch of this gorgeous flower? The vivid orange yellow and crimson moulted and spotted flower of this really green plant and light green leaves give a richness of coloring hardly attained by any other, the qualifying our selection of the season together with this description we mention only twelve best annuals regarding the merits of each. Nasturtiums, sweet peas, dianthus or Indian pinks scabious, asters, salpiglossis, antirrhinums, nycandhis, chrysanthemums or marguerites, gaillardis, cosmos and petunias.

Every one will agree to the value o the sweet peas, their delicacy of colour with wonderful variety of tints their agreeable perfume, freedom of blooming and the long stems which bear the flowers, make them most desirable for cut flowers.

It comes to a special liking for the dianthus or Indian pinks, as they are frequently termed. They embrace a great range of color from pure white to blackish crimson and deep maroon. There is a sprightliness and charm about the flowers in their varied markings and their stiffish stems that makes them very useful for bouquets

The antirrhinum has grown to be quite a necessary flower for the professional florist and indispensable in the house garden. An old time favorite, the snapdragon, has a varied range of pleasing colors—is easily grown and always useful for cutting till cold weather sets in.

No praise is necessary to the popular aster. Their freedom of flowering makes them of value, as they stand liberal cutting with impunity, and the shape of the blooms with their great variety in size and coloring excels any other annual for this purpose.

The scabious or mourningbride is an attractive and charming flower, borne on long stems. The blossoms in their varied colors and delicacy make it a delightful bouquet flower.

No more useful and attractive flower exists for decorative purposes than the now popular marguerites of Paris daisy. It throws strong stems from the base of the plant and has large flowers with a small yellow centre that make attractive pictures on the table or in the border. There are late and early varieties in several colors. They could be plentifully grown in every garden for cutting purposes alone.

The objection to the cosmos has been its late flowering habit, but of late years an early blooming type has been introduced and this objection does not apply now to this exceedingly showy plant. The long-stemmed, ray-like flowers of a delicate rosy pink make attractive house bouquets. An ordinary bouquet neatly arranged of various flowers assumes an added grace by the interspersing of a few cosmos flowers placed above the level of the main cluster of blossoms.

The charm of lightness of airy grace is characteristic of the use of the annual gypsophila when mixed among its sister flowers in hand bouquets or of larger ones for table decorations. Like its perennial relation its use lends a charm to bunches of flowers no other plant possesses and is well nam-

THANK YOU!

Belleville, April 17, 1922.

Editor Intell, City.

Dear Sir,—Please permit me through your columns to congratulate the enterprising President of the Horticultural Society, Mr. Blackburn, on his excellent and timely advice re planting of seeds. I have waded through many periodicals re same but for brevity and common sense he has them all beat. May we have many more such notes.

Yours respectively,

W. J. GIVINS.

ed in its pleasing common name of Baby's Breath.

A strong contrast but an effective one is presented by the gaillardia or blanket flower to the gypsophila. This miniature showy sunflower, with its vivid and well-marked bands, deep crimson color around the centre of the bright yellow-rayed petals, makes it one of the showiest annual and perennial plants that grace our garden borders. Added to its attractive coloring is its profuse, blooming habit so cutting no matter how liberal, can restrain. Akin to the decorative character of the gaillardia, but possessing a great variety of colors in its bell-like blossoms is the pretty and charming salpiglossis. It has all the colors of the rainbow, red, yellow, blue, pink, etc., in many shades all intricately netted and veined. Having long stems with petunia-like blooms the salpiglossis are particularly convenient for cutting. While other flowers may present stronger claims for cut flowers than the petunia when we recall its deep, rich velvety colors, its large and open blossoms a bowl or vase filled with a mass of petunia is as charming a picture as any one would want to have on their parlor or dining-room tables.

The foregoing useful annuals present no difficulties in cultivation. I do not mention any particular variety as there are so many varieties or strains belonging to each of those that the would be growers may select from any reputable seedsman's catalogues the varieties they believe they would prefer.

PLACE PERUVIAN GOLD OUT AT INTEREST

Lima, Peru, April 20.—Millions of dollars in Peruvian gold, lying idle in government depositories here as a currency reserve, will be placed at interest in New York and London under legislation adopted by the Peruvian Congress to establish a federal reserve bank and revise the country's monetary system.

The reserve bank act, patterned after similar legislation in the United States, provides for an elastic currency which can not be tampered with. Notes of the bank will be payable in gold in Paris, and in gold drafts in New York and London. The institution's reservoir of credit will be available for any Peruvian bank in an emergency, thus permitting private financial institutions to extend greater commercial accommodations from their gold resources.

Hiram W. Cumberland, American financial representative of the Peruvian government, will be a permanent member of the new bank's board of directors.

LANDIS WAS PREPARING TO CREATE JOB FOR ANSON

New York, April 19.—Pop Anson's death in 1921 has caused baseball veterans here to turn back the pages of time to the years when a major baseball club was more like a crowd of mischievous schoolboys, who spent their time on and off the field teasing a good-natured taskmaster.

Anson's demise also brought to light the fact that Commissioner K. M. Landis was preparing to create some position in his refuge for the "daddy of baseball," and that he had discussed the proposal with Manager John J. McGraw, of the New York Nationals, during the training season in the South.

In revealing this information, McGraw told how Anson had declined offers at leagues and clubs to design rate a day to celebrate him, and to fill his empty purse with the gate receipts, for many unfortunate years had swallowed the funds the veteran accumulated in his prime. "He was too proud to accept it," McGraw explained.

HOW TO RID THE ARMS OF OBJECTIONABLE HAIRS

(Aids to Beauty)

A simple method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths, and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.

See, Mama, There is Your Medicine

"YES, dear, that is the medicine which made mama well and I am sure neither of us shall ever forget it."

"Are you going to buy some?"

"No, darling, I do not need any more. You know how well I sleep now; those terrible headaches do not bother me any more and we are able to take our nice long walks every day."

"You never used to walk, did you?"

"Not for a long time. My nerves were so bad that I could not do anything, and I am afraid I was often very cross and irritable with you and daddy, but, thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, that day has gone by and I know what it is to be well and happy."

"Why don't all the sick people use your medicine?"

"For many of them would if they only knew of the good it would do them. I have taken lots of it, friends and they nearly all have been benefited just as I was."

Clear brain splendid circulation, ruddy complexion, sound, restful sleep, good digestion, greater strength of mind and body and better health are the results of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

The DUKE OF YORK.

The Duke of York, as the envoy and interpreter of the British Empire, is sure of a hearty welcome to Canada, if he decides to make the trip. The second son of the King has already been on a visit to the Dominion, and left a very favorable impression with those who met him, although it was an entirely unofficial affair. The heart of Canada is devoted to the person of King George, and the throne of Great Britain is regarded as the enduring symbol of the principles of equity, justice, and liberty. When the Prince of Wales came to Canada he scored a great success and was able to truly claim as a very appropriate epithet, "Our Will Visit." And the Duke of York, on his father's business, the King will be able to retrace his own footsteps in his son's, remembering the happy days which he, himself spent in the same surroundings.

The Duke's father and grandfather and elder brother Shaw will keep as much closely to see the Canadian people as the Canadians were delighted to see them, and the Duke will continue the tradition. Royal visits are not the same as some people suppose more pleasure than pain; but convey rather continuous and strenuous travel and expending of nerve energy. The Duke of York will have a chance to see and study Canadians at close range, and he will be provided also with an opportunity of analyzing this section of the far-flung British Empire. The British Royal family are democratic to a degree, and their progress in that direction has in no wise lessened their popularity. The bond with this Dominion will be strengthened and better, if possible, by the visit of the Duke of York.

ONTARIO LIBRARIES.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Library Association is being held this week in Toronto, with many visitors from all parts of the province. According to the Ontario Library Review, published quarterly by the public libraries branch of the provincial department of education, last year showed an "unprecedented increase" in patronage over the previous year totalling eight million mark. There is no doubt that a large percentage of the public is taking an interest in books and that the libraries are increasing their usefulness to the community. It is stated in this official report that the reading of "classed" books in 1921 was greater than the reading of books of all kinds fifteen years ago. The reading of fiction "has increased something less in proportion to that of other books." The matter of reading fiction is one which is often commented upon and deprecated; but it is better to read fiction than nothing at all. The habit of reading, once acquired, will soon lead on to the selection of more solid material than the lighter works of fiction, and imaginative presentations referred to in the Library Review are often overlooked. The time element in reading, for instance, on which subject it is said: "One might read three works of fiction to one serious work, and yet spend less than half of his reading time on the fiction." This is very large. The number of books borrowed from the public library is and their classification do not tell all the tale.

The important thing is that "the number of readers as compared with non-readers is steadily increasing," and librarians are agreed that "there is a gradually growing tendency towards a better class of reading." Another factor which is bearing on the popularity of fiction in the public libraries is that these institutions are used by many patrons only for the lighter forms of reading, works of a permanent nature, serious books which require time and study for their profitable perusal, being purchased and preserved in their own private libraries. Books read within the library, too, are as a rule not fiction. The use of reference books and of periodicals, often of a technical nature, is not recorded, and this class of literature would go far to offset fiction statistics.

Ontario public libraries, as a whole, have increased their annual expenditure for books one hundred per cent. in the last two years. At the convention in Toronto many practical problems pertaining to librarianship are being discussed, and much benefit should accrue. This is the twenty-second annual meeting of the association.

Police Magistrate Marks went into a store the other day to buy a box of collars. "The price has gone up since I bought my last collars, say eight years ago," said Mr. Clark facetiously. "Quite true," was the answer. "Your own prices also have gone up. Ten years ago a fellow could get royally drunk for a dollar and costs. Now you soak him $40 or $50 and costs. FIRES AND FORESTS

Kingston Standard

Mr. W. F. Nickle, M.P.P., was quite right in stating that reforestration is one of the most important subjects which the provincial legislature can deal with. This is proved, if it need further proof, by a statement recently made by Mr. Robson Black, the expert forester of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. He says that fire has destroyed ten trees in Canada for one cut and that while one fire in Ontario last year destroyed enough white pine to keep a big mill running for 56 years. It is time it was stood that the Quebec government intends to devote great attention to reforestration, to have trees planted for every one cut down. Ontario should not lag behind that province, and should make a determined stand to prevent forest fires.

BEING A MAN

"To live, as gently as I can;
To feel, no matter where, a man;
To take what comes of good or ill
And cling to faith and honor still;
To pay my debts and let that stand
The record of my brain and hand;
And then, should failure come to me,
Still work and hope for victory.

"To have no secret place wherein
To stoop; unsoop to shame or sin;
To live undaunted, undismayed
In whatso my every deed is known;
To live unashamed, unafraid
Of any step that I have made;
To feel without reproach or dread
Exactly what men think I am.

"To leave some simple mark behind
To keep my having lived in mind;
If rumly to spell I have power
To be an honest, generous foe,
To play the game part, nor shirk
That greatest factor's are not mine
This, I believe, is to be a man
For my philosophy and creed."

At Southern railway stations it is the custom of dealers to sell chicken patties and other delicacies to passengers. A passenger who had enjoyed a patty and wanted to get out of the window to buy another, asked of the dusky salesman: "Where do you get your chickens?" The darky rolled his eyes. "You-all 'com de No'th, ain't you, sah?" he queried. "Yes", was the reply. "Well, sah, dey's from ask that!" "Caze, sah! No gen'l'un from de South ever asks a nigger whar he gits his chickens."

The leading negroes of a Georgia town started a bank and invited persons of their race to become depositors. "Yah ain't got no money in dis here bank," said the cashier, after looking over the books. "Yes, I has," replied the negro, "I put ten dollars in here six months or so." Tony's Definition

It was a foreign class composed of Slavs and one Italian. This unbalanced race distribution resulted in the little Italian boy being at the mercy of the others, and they were certainly aware of it. The teacher was examining this group in the use of words. After a few more or less successful answers she came to the word "disguise", and, when the small little Italian's turn came, "Now," she said, "I want to know the meaning of disguise Tony, you give me a sentence with disguise in it." Tony gazed at the grinning faces of his classmates, who had so very long before him, and then replied with: "I hate dose guys."

"'Do you want a narrow man's comb?' said the attendant.

"The stylist gave a disgusted laugh.

"'No,' he said, 'I want a comb for a stout man with rubber teeth.'"

Simply brush it through the hair, and in a few days all the gray hair will be restored to its natural color—brown, black or auburn—and will stay that way until you put on more. Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer is not only odorless but it is a hair tonic, and will not interfere with curling or waving. It will make the hair soft and fluffy, and will stop dandruff and itching of the scalp. Don't wear that gray hair another day. Don't look old before your time. Don't be ashamed of gray hair. YOUTH WILL BE SERVED

Astonishing Records of Youngsters Now in the Athletic Game.

Youth is certainly being served these days.

The unending array of young athletes that are bursting into bloom in all parts of the country indicates great things for athletics in the future. If the youthful Weissmuller, Hoosier Johnson, Coliett, Wainwright, Riggin Rothrock and others are able to accomplish record achievements at the present time, what will they be able to do with a little more strength and experience that a few years and more to bring?

Johnny Weissmuller, the Chicago boy is only 17 years old, yet he is already the greatest swimmer that ever touched the water. He has already made 18 or more world records in the free, backstroke and styles, and this is his first season out. Before he is 20 this young wonder should add to his already astonishing record up to 30 million. Swimmers as a rule, improve up to the age of 30 so the possibilities of this oldest youth are unlimited.

Last year Ben Hoosier, a 17-year-old high school boy from Southern California, defeated Pat McDonald for the national cross-country championship with an astonishing lower of about 40 feet. Wait till he grows up.

Young Vincent Richards, who has been performing wonders on the tennis at several years, is not twenty years old yet. About a week ago he defeated R. Lindley Murray and Bill Tilden in successive days for the indoor championship. Richards has defeated Tilden in the world's championship on two previous occasions. He should improve with age and strength.

Recently Miss Gloria Collett, an 18 year-old girl, has created a sensation on the links. She was but 17 when she defeated Miss Cecil Leitch, the famous English lady, and this month she won the north and south championship. She forms a large field of the best women golfers in the country. Miss Edith Cummings, who was runner-up, is likewise the same age.

Bobby Jones requires no comment. He has been a big wonder for years and is still around 20.

There is an abundance of youthful material in the water. There is the famous little Miss Eileen Riggin, who walked over to Jantzenp and won the fancy diving championship of the world at the age of 14, and Miss Helen Wainwright, who finished but one position behind, and who is but a few months older. Miss Wainwright has developed, it is reported, a style that will stun spectators at the Olympiad. It's Tuesday, and it is predicted that she will soon outshine even the champion, Miss Rabella Bleibtrey, who is but 20.

There are many others in different branches of sport. Young Francis Hagerty, a 17-year-old Brooklyn school boy ran the hundred indoors in 10.1; Ralph Hills, of Princeton, is 18 and put the shot 47 feet; Joe Yeomans, a 17-year-old amateur skater is not yet 20 years old; Ben Rosenwald, the nine-year-old Jewish chess wonder and a flock of kid ball players too numerous to mention.

O.A.B. CHAMPIONSHIPS OPENS TODAY

The Classes Range From Bantam Weights to Heavyweights.

Toronto, April 20.—Everything is in readiness for the Ontario amateur boxing championships which will be staged here to-night and will continue to-morrow night. The contests will be held in the spacious Arena Gardens under the auspices of the Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the classes run from bantamweight, (108 pounds and under) to heavyweights (175 pounds and over). These contests generally provide interesting sport for the fight fans and this year the entries promise one of the best cards in the history of the event.

In the well-known amateur boxers from Toronto and vicinity have been in their entries and the forms filled out the secretary of the Ontario branch of the Athletic Union from all parts of Ontario indicate that amateur boxing is making steady progress throughout the province. Up until a few years ago the contestants for the championships were mostly from Toronto and vicinity but with the encouragement given the sport by the Athletic Union the interest has become truly provincial. This has proved very gratifying to the officials in charge of the bouts and to the members of the Ontario Athletic Commission, who, while they have legislation enabling them to control all professional boxing, are largely interested in the progress of the amateur organization because it is from its ranks that the majority of the professional fighters graduate.

This year the commission is taking a more active part in the championships and is co-operating in every possible way with the amateur body to ensure success for the contests. It is very likely that J. F. McGarry, a member of the commission, will officiate as one of the judges in the bouts while the other will be Major McGowan of Toronto, who has had wide experience in both amateur and professional boxing. The third man in the ring will be Leo Marsh, Toronto, who has gained a big reputation in Eastern Canada as a mitt-slinger referee, and has refereed contests in which the most prominent boxers on the American continent have taken part.

It is unfortunate that the Canadian championships are being held on the same date at Calgary, but circumstances in making accommodation for the bouts were unforseen, with the result that the western contests will be confined chiefly to districts west of Ontario, will probably several entries from contiguous points in the United States. But while the clashing of dates will prove rather disappointing to the Canadian championships it will mean that many boxers who would have taken part in the contests will confine their efforts to the provincial championships and thus give added interest to the tournament. Apart from the dates it is questionable if there would have been a large representation from Eastern Canada as the question of expense is a big item, and as it would require about $200 to send a boxer to the western fights the burden on the various athletic clubs would prevent participation to any great extent.

ROTARY NINE AGAIN VICTORS

Lions Lose Out to Trophy Holders in Benefit

The Rotarians upheld their reputation as indoor baseball performers last evening, when they defeated, once more, the Lions aggregation in a nine inning affray, by the close score of 26-25. This was a benefit game for the boys work at Lake Moira this summer. The score does not indicate the play, however, as the Rotarians got in their best "digs" early, and piled up a nice bunch of tallies. They couldn't stand prosperity however, and began to slow down their play, until the ever alert Lions almost pulled the game from the flying embers barehanded. The Cosgrave Wheel nine got 9 runs in the first inning, and held a nice lead till the fifth inning, when they changed box men. Rev. "Doug" Ramsay relieving Charlie Keenlyside, the regular hearer. Then the tide began to ebb for the leaders, not because of inferior pitching, but apparently loser Ramsay had no heavier walloping with the willow on the part of the Cubs. The result was that the Lions pulled up within a ran of making an extra inning out of the battle, and threw a scare into their opponents, who made the last "put out" in the nick of time, and heaved a sigh of relief.

"Doc" O'Callaghan pitched for the Cubs in the absence of the regular hearer, Phil Brockel. "Doc" did tolerably well too, but seemed strange in the new position, and didn't field as usual. The Cubs trotted out 3 new men last night, Dick Fenton on the Brown at short, and McLean in the gardens. Fenton was a decided asset to the team, playing his position like a veteran and administering the odd "egg crate wallop" to the old pill. The Lions had two weak brothers in the infield, which cost them more than one run.

The Rotary battery had signals a everything last night, and worked well. "Father" Hyman, at first base, was one of their most useful and agile performers for a big man, but the whole team work better together, and are a stronger outfit (on the whole) than the team which last night represented the Cubs.

The teams in batting order were:-

Rotarians—W. Adams, c.f.; O. Scott (sub) lb; Lovell, r.; Symons, r.f.; Rev. Ramsay, 3rd b; C. Keeber, p; P. Allen, s.s; V. Hyman, 1st b; Wilson, l.f.

Lions—Doyle, 3rd b; Burgess, c; "Doc" O'Callaghan, pa E. Finkle, l.f.; Fenton, l.f. b; G. Sinclair, 2nd b; Brown, right fa.; McLean, r.f.; Dickens, left fa.

Umpire on bases—J.Williams; at the plate—Walt Gerow.

SCRAP IRON

DESCHAMPS VS. FLEMING

Montreal, April 19.—Louis Cyrier, manager of Oscar Deschamps, has announced that Deschamps has signed a contract to box Frank Fleming for the lightweight championship Canada on April 27. The bout will be held at Mount Royal Arena, and today Deschamps will post his forfeit for appearance and weight. Deschamps is confident that he will make the 135 pounds before the bout.

MAKES ZBYSZKO HUSTLE

Little Rock, Ark. April 19.—Charles Saintrop, one of the claimants of the middleweight wrestling championship, gave Stanislaus Zbyszko, former heavyweight champion, an hour-and-five minutes' tussle here last night before the big Pole pinned him. Saintrop recently defeated Zbyszko in a handicap match, and they were re-matched for a straight finish contest. Saintrop was injured when Zbyszko took the single fall last night and was unable to continue.

SPORT STU F

Connie Mack, twenty-one years major league manager and six years pennant winner under the big tent, was asked to pick the best baseball celebrities of all time, and these were his selections: Buck Ewing, catcher; Christy Mathewson and Rube Waddell, pitchers; George Sisler, first base; Eddie Collins, second base; Hans Wagner, shortstop; Jimmy Collins, third base; Fred Clarke, left field; Tris Speaker, center field; Ty Cobb, right field. It will be noted that Mack, though he has seen them all for 20 years, rather favors the moderns.

The Crystal Palace arena in London, which seats 130,000 persons, has been engaged by a syndicate which hopes to stage two bouts during the stay in England of Jack Dempsey, champion heavyweight, who arrived yesterday. George McDonald, fight promoter, is proposing that Dempsey undertake to finish Joe Beckett, British heavyweight champion, in six rounds, and Jack Bloomfield in four, both in the same ring, while another promoter wants him to take on Beckett, Wells and Cook one after another on the same night. What a fine Roman holiday!

FIRPO BOUT POSTPONED

New York, April 19.—Postponement of the Jack Herman-Louis Firpo match, scheduled for Jersey City on Tuesday night, was announced today when the South American boxer granted Herman's request for more time in which to train.

The exact dates will be determined when a site is selected. The bout will be an open-air one.

A DOUBLE CHARGE.

There is a likelihood that at the sitting of the high court to be held at Kingston during the month of June, Richard Bryant will be charged with the county jail on the charge of murdering Constable Richard Beard, of Napanee, will also be called upon to answer to the charge of shooting Detective James Cotter, of Kingston. There is a feeling that he will also have other charges to face. It is expected that Bryant will be tried on the charge of murder in mid the September sitting of the court.

GRIFFITH PROMISES PROTECTION TO SOUTH

This Causes Considerable Speculation as Provisions Are Not Known.

Dublin, April 20.—The promises of protection made to the Ulster Unionists by Arthur Griffith are the subject to considerable speculation here, for it is not definitely known what provisions the new Irish Free State constitution will make for carrying them out. The possibility of a secession of the Irish parliament has been discussed, as well as the powers such a chamber would have, therefore the public is anxiously awaiting some authentic announcement to clear up the hazy situation by political leaders from time to time.

Some importance has been attached to a public utterance by Mr. Darrell Figgis who was acting chairman of the committee formed to draft the constitution. He stated that the question of a second chamber had been tackled and answered "satisfactorily and strikingly" and in a way to be accepted by any country in the world before.

Mr. Figgis said that there were men in Ireland of eminent worth and service, judgment and wisdom, who because of their qualities would be elected to the upper through the ordeal, but who ought, nevertheless, to be called into the national service. They would be chosen if the people had an opportunity of choosing them. They would never be chosen by any one of the undeveloped political machines, he declared.

ARE WE A NATION TO BE BALD, TOOTHLESS AND BLIND?

We're told that baldness is certainly increasing. A splendid ingredient has been made in dental hygiene. But defective vision prevails.

The Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry recently reported that more than half of our industrial workers are suffering from 'poor eyesight. Now we are told the same ailment affects one-quarter of our school kids.

This visual weakness is only in part due to intensive reading and study, though these, of course, aggravate it.

Our Optometrist makes a most searching examination and is reasonable in his fee.

No better service anywhere!

MURNEY ESTATE ARBITRATION

payment. In order to treat approaches at least two acts of concrete steps would be necessary at an appointment with the bank.

The frontage of the estate is 364 feet. Proper drainage would be the first essential before laying the steps, and said steps would encroach on a portion of the land, to an extent of 15 feet. If steps were cut into the land and dwellings erected it would be necessary to have a driveway off Bellecourt, which would be a menace to the property, so Block A on the plans.

On the examination by Mr. Mason, Wilkes admitted that he did not know anything of the condition of the property when Mr. Wilcox made his bill, and that his evidence was given in accordance with the plans which accompanied the bill. Wilcox testified that the bill was lowered five feet at the deepest point, while Mr. Mason stated that it was barely two feet deep at the deepest point.

Despite the fact that the estate is taxed for the $25,000 insurance money it passes it, witness stated that he believed the pavement had not increased the value of the property to that extent. It should be exempt from taxation for such pavement.

Mr. Mason also pointed out that the soil on this estate was sandy, and would not require drainage. The clay earth would be necessary to provide earth thrown in on the water mains, counsel for the city explained.

The arbitrators have been adjourned to view the property, and the next hearing will be on April 25th at 3 p.m.

Five counsel will be allowed each side, it was decided.

Robert Haab Is New President of Republic.

Robert Haab, President of the Swiss Confederation for 1922, is 58 years of age. He is young in energy and in appearance. Tall and spare, with alert brown eyes, closely clipped dark mustache and smoothly-brushed hair, growing gray at the temples, he has, though born of a family of Zurich doctors and lawyers, many of the characteristics of mannerism and speech associated with the French-speaking part of Switzerland.

Mr. Haab's Parliamentary career began in 1911, but long before that date—from his early days as President of the Commune of Wesikofen in his native town, as Judge of the Zurich Cantonal Court and as a member of the Zurich State Council, which he directed in turn the Departments of Justice, Police and, of Public Economy. His principal work, however, has been connected with railway matters. Having studied technical questions, in 1911 he was made chief of the Federal Railways' Legal Department. Here he had to draw up the preparatory work for the second gallery of the Simplon Tunnel, which was completed lately.

He devoted himself to the Federal Railways until the end of 1919, when he was sent as Swiss Minister to Berlin. While there he was selected as candidate to the Federal Council in behalf of Zurich and elected by a large majority.

The Department of Posts and Railways was immediately placed under his charge—at a time when the situation had become particularly difficult.

The Purist Natural Light.

The scientists tell us that the firefly's light is the purest in nature; almost all other sources of illumination give off a mixed form of energy that is only in part illuminating, so that the rest is lost.

"But," says Mr. W. Prichard Eckler, Harper's Magazine, "the firefly gives forth light and nothing else. An ordinary gas flame, for instance, contains but 5 per cent. of light rays, the starlight itself but 10 per cent. pure. It is no wonder, then, that when a child has discovered that when a firefly crawls over a book in the dark you can read the fine print, provided he is accommodating and you read rapidly. The phosphorescence of the insect from a photogenic plate of fatty substances supplied with oxygen through the tracheal branches, which carry a rich blood supply. What is the cold cause, at the insect's will, a rapid oxidation of the substances. It is to-day for the firefly that this combustion is practically perfect, and 95 per cent. of heat waves!

There are two theories to explain the reason for this luminosity. One finds the explanation to be an effort on the part of the insect to offer a defense against birds and other insect-eating foes. The theory is that the light will not eat fireflies, and after one has caught and tasted one it will warn them up. The firefly, as he flits about over the meadows and through the trees, may well be protecting himself by his light," Wilcox has testified that "the bill was lowered five feet at the deepest point, while Mr. Mason stated that it was barely two feet deep at the deepest point.

Despite the fact that the estate is taxed for the $25,000 insurance money it passes it, witness stated that he believed the pavement had not increased the value of the property to that extent. It should be exempt from taxation for such pavement.

Mr. Mason also pointed out that the soil on this estate was sandy, and would not require drainage. The clay earth would be necessary to provide earth thrown in on the water mains, counsel for the city explained.

CHILD WELFARE

An interesting conversation was overheard in the market last Saturday morning. As I was waiting in line, several ladies evidently old acquaintances who had not met for some time. They were all mothers, and I could not help but hear something of their animated talk. They talked about their foster girls, and one of them was not quite satisfied with her new hat. She did not like the feather and wondered if she could get it altered on such a busy day as Saturday. They were just about to say "good-bye" when one of them proposed to remark something about Child Welfare, a topic of great interest in Belleville at the present time.

"Oh, I say", exclaimed Mrs. X. "There is going to be a clinic held here in connection with the county Child Welfare Work, but I'm blessed if I know what a clinic is. I feel so ashamed when I keep people talking about how much help, mothers have got in other cities by bringing their babies to the clinic, and here I am, and don't even know what a clinic means". "Well whisper," said Mrs. Y. "I have been in Oshawa for two weeks and I know a good deal about it. They have two full time community nurses and a school nurse there, and at least two clinics are held every week. I went to one of these last Thursday afternoon and it was a revelation to me."

"Well, tell me about it", said Mrs. X. "Say Belleville is not going to be behind the times if it is any good."

"Good! I should say it is," exclaimed Mrs. Y. "There were thirty babies there with their mothers and several children of ages ranging from 3 to 9 years. A doctor and nurse were present conducting the clinic. First of all the babies were weighed by the nurse to see how much they had gained during the week, and then in a separate little room the doctor gave them a complete physical examination. In every case he told the mother whether her child's weight was correct, and if her child's weight was defects, such as diseased tonsils or teeth, or if there was any trouble that needed correction in the eyes or ears, and many other things. He then pointed out to the mother and she was advised to take the child to her doctor and have the defects put right. Several prospective mothers came to enquire what they should eat and wear during the time when 'wee' wind, kind of exercise they should take during the months preceding their confinement. It was surprising how interested they all were in getting the doctor's advice".

"One of the things he specially urged was that any pregnant woman should put herself under a doctor's care for several months before the baby was born. By doing so, they can be sure that their health is kept good and if any danger signals appear the doctor will be able to take action before they become serious."

"Land's sakes alive!" said Mrs. X. "I think all of it." Two thousand eight hundred and seventy-one still-births in Ontario last year as shown by statistics, and 92 still-births in Belleville in 1921."

"Isn't it terrible," said Mrs. X.

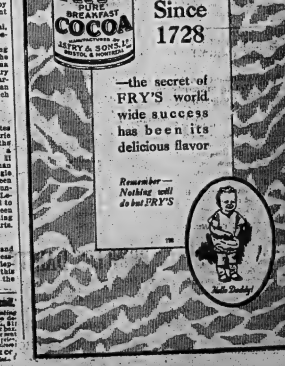

"Yes, and to think that many of these deaths of babies is due to lack of knowledge on the part of the mother is what seems worst of all," said Mrs. Y.

"Well, now, I know what activities is," said Mrs. X; and when it is held in Belleville you'll find me there with my little girl, for I've had a complaint for some time back that she has adenoids."

"That's the right spirit", said Mrs. Y. "Come yourself and tell all your friends to come too. I assure you you will find it both interesting and profitable."

MUCH GRAIN STORED AT HEAD OF LAKES

Elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William Are Overflowing

Port William, Ont., April 19.—Elevator staffs are standing by ready to tap the huge grain bins when the advance fleet opens navigation. When the seven steamers tie up in the early hours of Wednesday morning it will be to find a record accumulation of grain. Not only is every elevator full as the saying of it will allow, but the railway yards are crammed with cars from the West, unable to unload, as the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Government storage tracks alone are over 2,000 cars. The Canadian National has 300 on hand. These, besides the 45,000,000 bushels held in the elevators, there are 8,250,000 bushels standing in the yards.

There is enough grain stored in Port William and Port Arthur to feed Canada for a year and have enough to spare to plant a good sized crop. Commencing Wednesday, the movement of this great accumulation to eastern ports for exports will commence, and within a week will be in full swing.

ARTIFICIAL DAYLIGHT

One of the most interesting problems in illumination is to provide an artificial source of light which will exactly reproduce ordinary daylight. Quite a source of light is invaluable in the textile industry and for the matching of fabrics and yarns. The ideal artificial daylight desired result is to filter the light of an electric or other lamp through artificially produced artificial "corn" in which all the light is reflected on which passes through the colors are painted. All the light used comes from this reflector and is modified by the colours to give a very exact imitation of daylight. The improved form of this "artificial daylight" apparatus has just been patented. The reflector consists of two layers of material perforated with holes so that a certain number of spots of the colours are exposed. Radial strips of another colour are placed over the perforated layers, the whole arrangement being mechanically strong and giving the correct areas of the various colours to provide artificial daylight.

Germany Replies To the Allied Note on Rapallo

Accepts Condition Which Will Bar Her From Further Participation in Discussion of the Russian Question Claims That Allies Knew Long Ago That Negotiation of Pact Was in Progress—Russia Also Makes Reply to the Ultimatum.

LLOYD GEORGE IS CONFIDENT

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

Genoa, April 21.—The German reply to the Allied ultimatum which will be presented to Premier Facta to-day, embodies the contention that Germany should be barred from participating in further discussions of the Russian question by conference. In begin with acknowledging with "satisfaction" the protest received, which is considered undeserved and regrets that the nations "now sitting at the negotiations regarding the pact were in progress."

It gives recognition debate and elaborate financial help the Russians made in their reply submitted to the Genoa conference, but declares that Germany was not one war debts, wire, counter claims and reparations, but the industrial property to foreign countries, newspaper reports and indirect attacks upon the German leader, Premier Lloyd George, cited in proof of the assertion that Germany is trying to make a boycott, but rather to shake hands with all, clear up misunderstandings," he said, but "is absolutely sincere." Peace is in the Heaven, and this conference at Genoa will live and is going strong. The public may be said to be divided into two categories, those who want to see the conference succeed, and those who want to see it go down in defeat, and the latter will not see their desire realized. We are working through very difficulties quite successfully."

The chief obstacle to the fruition of Lloyd George's hopes is the spirit which now prevails in the countries of the German-Russian combination has no little support among the neutrals, and it is certain that those conferences are going to work together. This keeps the allies close together, and from up Premier Facta's reply to the note also, with this political almost before, self-denying projects for the common good have been adopted.

Some of the delegates say to-night that Mr. Lloyd George is not really so optimistic as he appeared, and that he is trying to counteract the pessimistic accounts of the conference which in the last few days have gone all over the world. As they see it, the British Premier made a heroic effort

Labor Leader Says Bituminous Coal Deadlock Will be Broken.

New York, April 21.—A break in the deadlock between bituminous coal operators and miners, and a peaceful settlement of the "strike within a few weeks," was forecasted here to-night by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Government intervention to prevent a shortage of fuel for the nation will not become necessary, Mr. Gompers declared.

"When it is demonstrated that the miners are standing firm, and are prepared to hold out," he asserted, "the operators will agree to confer with them and a new wage agreement will be the result."

BUSY SESSION IN POLICE COURT

Speeder Fined, Coal Thief Sentenced and Intoxicated Duo Pay.

To come to Belleville as represent atives of a large Toronto business house, close a large contract with a local citizen, then celebrate the signing of the contract by "communion with the liquid spirits," and finishing up in police court this morning, was the unfortunate, and unpleasant experience of two well-dressed and respectable-looking gentlemen.

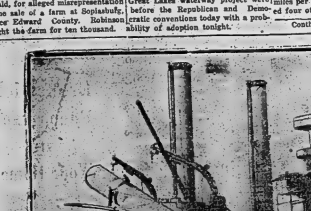

Arriving here on Thursday, they completed their business, and along with their customer, had a few rounds of good hard liquor in a legitimate place. Their host then escorted them to their hotel, and bade them goodnight. Evidently, however, they took a walk afterwards as Bridge St. East, and were taken care of by P. C. Evans. At this morning's session of police court they were amessed $10 and costs, or $17 in all, by Magistrate S. Mason.

Fined for Speeding.

Charged with driving his Studebaker tandem at an excessive rate on Front St., on April 12th, about 3 p. m., en route to the G.T.R. depot, a local taxi driver was found guilty and fined $1 and costs, amounting in all to $8.

P. C. Evans, who laid the charge, testified that he took the number of the car in front of the Kingsley hotel, as he was on duty. It would be travelling at a rate between 20 and 35 miles per hour, he thought, and passed four other motor cars.

Two Thousand Persons Blown to Pieces When Ammunition Dump in Large Southern Serbia City Explodes—News Despatches Say Thirty Thousand Have Been Rendered Homeless by Terrible Holocaust—Those Killed Virtually Buried Alive—People Flee to Woods and Mountains.

THE ENTIRE CITY IS IN RUINS

London, April 21.—Monastir, not Salonica, as was first reported in a despatch from Athens, was the scene of the explosion yesterday in which 2,000 persons were reported to have been blown to pieces, according to latest despatches reaching here last night.

Details of the explosion in Monastir reveal that fire which swept the city following the blast has made 30,000 persons homeless.

Thousands of tons of munitions left over from the world war mysteriously blew up and latest reports say that 1,000 soldiers, mostly Greeks, were virtually buried alive.

Two hundred soldiers are reported to have been killed or wounded in a church which was destroyed when a shell, tossed from the scene of the explosion, landed on the steeple.

All the leading cities of Greece are deeply saddened at the unexpected news from Monastir.

Belgrade, April 21.—Four hundred carloads of ammunition and high explosives stored near the railroad station at Monastir, Southern Serbia, exploded on Tuesday at noon, killing several hundred persons, wounding thousands and virtually destroying the heart of the city, according to the city's population was rendered homeless.

The victims were mostly children and soldiers. A church in which the children were worshipping, collapsed under the detonation. All the barracks in which 1,500 soldiers were having lunch was destroyed.

Immediately after the explosion, fire broke out in various parts of the city. The panic-stricken inhabitants fled to the nearby woods and mountains, from which they watched their homes burn. All telegraphic and telephone communication from Monastir with the outside world was cut off. The first news of its disaster reached Belgrade from refugees who managed to reach Prilep, 30 miles to the northwest of Monastir. Several Serbian relief units were immediately organized and started for Monastir.

COUNTY POLICE IN FIGHT WITH INDIANS OF BRANT

Eviction of Squatter Starts Trouble and Officers Forced to Use Clubs in the Battle That Ensued—Indians Claim County Police Have No Right to Molest Them.

Brantford, Ont., April 21.—A particularly serious row was staged by the police county officers and special auxiliaries and a party of Indians on a farm at Medina, in the Indian reserve, yesterday. The trouble started when High County Constable F. Kerr, in charge of a party of police, arrived at the Joe Hall farm at Medina, with an order from the sheriff's office in Brantford to evict an Indian squatter, named Howard Vyse, who had taken possession of a farmhouse and farm sold by the Dominion Government to Joe Hill. Constable Kerr had with him County Constable Wilson Kerr, and Special Officers Douglas Barr and Thos. Tyrrell.

The officers arrived at the Hill farm in due course and commenced at once to cart Vyse's household furniture out of the house and on to the road which runs past the house. A number of Indians, men and women, gathered and soon took a hand in the proceedings, and when Vyse's household effects were all on the road, they picked up the furniture and carried it back into the house. The officers then proceeded to throw the furniture out again, and the Indians again carried it back into the house. This went on for some time, the officers throwing the furniture out and the Indians carrying it back.

Finally the officers were forced to retreat as they did not desire to use their firearms. The Indians remained in charge of the house. It grew out of the trouble by a report that many of the Indians out on the reserve have been receiving advice from an American solicitor in New York. Treaty makers have held meetings, urged them to resist the taxation that they are not British subjects, but allies of the Crown and as such the county police have no jurisdiction over them.

"THE BRIDE'S PLAY" FILLED WITH CHARM

Marion Davies Warm in Praise of Her Role in Latest Paramount Picture

More than any other of the splendid pictures she has made, Marion Davies, Cosmopolitan star, likes "The Bride's Play," a Paramount picture which will be seen at Griffin's tonight and Saturday, matinee and night. Miss Davies plays the part of a prankish Irish girl, bubbling over with good humor, but always ready to listen to the troubles of the villagers and to help them solve their difficulties.

The picture, while modern in its setting, carries the audience back to mediaeval days in the portraying of a romantic incident that took place centuries before. In this mediaeval story, Miss Davies again is seen as the fair-haired heroine at "The Bride's Play."

The regular actress finds this picture the most sympathetic of her career. "I veritably lived the role of Aileen Norreit and also that of Enid," she said, when the production was completed.

Framed in a setting of ancient legend, romance and folklore, "The Bride's Play," is rich in magnificence of background, pageantry and color. The production was directed by George W. Terwilliger from a scenario by Mildred Considine. In the cast with Miss Davies are Wyndham Standing, Carlton Miller, Jack O'Brien, Thea Talbot, Richard Cummings, Julia Hurley and Eleanor Middleton.

An amusing 2-reel Christie comedy, the latest chapter in "Winners of the West" serial, and Pathe News, will be exhibited on the same program.

MUSICAL COMEDY PRESENTED HERE

"The Rose of Washington Square" Makes a Hit With Audience.

"The Rose of Washington Square" attracted a full house to Griffin's last night, and proved very enjoyable to the applause indicated. It was found to be a bright, very humorous musical comedy, with a constant plot and a freedom from vulgarity to which some of the advance posters did not do justice.

In Ensley Hickman, played by Arthur Blachaller, the audience saw a very rare stage figure in the person of a bowed and pabbed old man who was now to be pitied, now to be laughed at. The prima donna, Miss Ione O'Donnell, as "Honey Bunch" scored a big success, particularly in her vielli numbers. All the other members of the cast played consistently. They were many melodies throughout the play that won a place in the mem ory.

BRITAIN'S DEBTORS.

During recent months a great deal has been said and written about what Britain owes the United States. Not much has been said about what the world owes Britain. Yet, according to figures just made public, the little old United Kingdom is the great creditor nation. Against the £561,000,000 that Britain owes the United States, stands the fact that the world owes Britain £1,947,000,000, as follows:

Russia	£561,400,000
France	557,000,000
Italy	476,900,000
Belgium	103,400,000
Serbia	22,100,000
Other nations	82,900,000
Dominions	144,000,000

Truly the Old Motherland stands as a marvel among the nations.

RADIO AND DISCOVERY.

About nine years ago a relief expedition in the Antarctic regions stumbled upon a little island on which they found the frozen bodies of five men who had preceded them into that far corner of the world. The little party of explorers who had thus paid the ultimate penalty for their daring effort to push back the limits of human knowledge were Captain Robert F. Scott and four English explorers who accompanied him. They had established their object, that of reaching the South Pole; but through lack of communication with the outside world and the main portion of their own party, they had to pay their lives for their success; moreover, just how close they came to achieving whose attainment had cost them so dearly would have been lost also.

It is safe to say that the experience of Scott will not be repeated. The pioneer or hunter can take with him wherever he goes an absolutely certain means of intercourse with the world of his situation and obtaining help before it is too late. Adventurers in the African jungles will never be compelled to repeat the experience of David Livingstone, who was lost for five years before Henry M. Stanley went in search for him and found him, too late, however, to save his life.

It is not in this aspect of discovery, nevertheless, that radio will serve its great purpose. Little of the world's territory remains to be won after the fashion of Columbus or Peary or Livingstone. Nearly every corner of the globe has, to some extent, been penetrated. Furthermore, by the curious psychology of explorers of the above type makes it unlikely that they will ever take kindly to radio as part of their travelling equipment. Mr. Herbert Lang, of the American Museum of Natural History, himself an explorer of long experience, was questioned the other day on this point, and his answer was sharp and concise.

"The hunter or explorer does not want to keep in communication with the outside world. He wants to get away from it. When he travels in absolutely unknown country there is no information the wireless can give him. And as to safety—no man ever started on this sort of quest with the least consideration as to whether he would ever come back. That part of it doesn't interest him.

But, as indicated before, the function of the old-time explorer has passed away, and with him, perhaps, the more romantic phase of exploration. What remains to be done is to consolidate those discoveries, make exact geographical charts of the discovered territory so as to open it safely for further investigation that its hidden resources, such as minerals and oils, may be placed at the disposal of mankind. And in this work no single factor will be of greater importance than the radio.

TOO MANY BACHELORS

Brandon Sun

There are in the United States thirteen millions adult males without wives, which is startling. At any high prices have discouraged matrimony and some blame unemployment, but most want to accuse the boys of dependence of women, who will not accept a marriage proposal until they are beyond the marriageable age and started on the sad road to years of lonely spinsterhood—although it is not called that now. Whoever is to blame, the fact are disturbing the political economists everywhere.

DOCTOR GENOA

Winnipeg Tribune

Genoa may be like a doctor called in at the moment when he has an unparalleled opportunity to increase his practice and enhance his reputation by looking wise and doing little or nothing. Still, for their economic wounds and sores, some of the countries in Europe are in need of healing unguents, and some of them in even greater need of stringent antiseptics, and if Genoa can apply these they are indicated, nobody will quarrel with the Conference's receiving all the credit that a grateful world can bestow.

His footfalls on the long-neglected floor;

What echoing stair now bears those footfalls dear?
What eager air his baby cry repeats
What door stands he before, so still and sad?
To big to me, that door—so small to God!

DESPITE THE LAW COUNT RESIGNS

Brother of Akiko Ito Resigns from the House of Peers.

Tokio, April 21.—Refusing to recognize the modern Japanese law which relieves the head of a family of responsibility for the conduct of its members, Count Yanagiwara, brother of Princess Akiko Ito, whose romantic divorce case startled the empire has resigned from the House of Peers and gone into retirement.

The little princess, already divorced, created a sensation last year when she suddenly married Mr. Ito, the son-in-law of Kyushu, although she was known to love a young literary man named Miyazaki whom she met at the home of Mr. Ito before her second marriage. Thinking his sister would now settle down, Count Yanagiwara, who keenly resented the first divorce, began to take an active interest in affairs of state. He represented Japan abroad on several occasions and was regarded as one of the leaders of his party in the upper house of parliament.

But the temperamental poetess soon showed that she was still the same girl in her rich surroundings. Society and political circles were startled last October when she suddenly left the magnificent residence of her husband while the latter was on a business tour, and went to live with Miyazaki, whom some she was found several weeks later.

Everyone of her brother and his powerful friends to induce her to return home proved fruitless, whereupon the count and his wife left Japan for Europe, where it is said that Akiko be trained to divorce in order to permit a legal marriage to Miyazaki. Count Yanagiwara, however, declined to interfere on the ground that it would have a bad effect on the clan and the imperial families, and in desperation Count Yanagiwara and his wife arranged a round-the-world trip, hoping that the shattering of the tiel from the home of her lover and the keeping of her whereabouts secret for the past seven months.

In resigning from the House of Peers, Count Yanagiwara authorized the statement that he had been "misidentified with questions pertaining to a strictly discipline among government officials and that he had been ments in general, and adding that he felt a personal responsibility for the acts of his former brother-in-law could not be treated by the modern law making the individual and not the family the social unit.

H.R.H. TO TAKE TRIP ON INLAND SEA

This Sea Is One of Far East's Beautiful Sights.

Tokio, April 21.—One of the most beautiful sights of the Far East, a trip through the Inland Sea, is reserved for Edward, Prince of Wales, when he leaves here for Kobe to continue his tour of the principal cities of the Japanese government.

The Inland Sea, so-called because it lies almost entirely between Honshu, the main island of the Japanese Empire, and the southerly islands of Kyushu and Shikoku, is 240 miles long from east to west and varies in breadth from eight to 40 miles. It is interspersed with magnificent rocks of various shapes and sizes while the coast is highly indented. Passengers aboard the steamer from Kobe to Moji steamer are filled with wonder over the fascinating views which present themselves in ever-changing variety.

One of the three beautiful scenes of Japan is the "Sacred Island" of Miyajima, thickly wooded with pine, cypress, cherry and maple trees.

According to tradition, Miyajima has been a sacred spot for more than 16 centuries, until the restoration in 1868 births and deaths were forbidden on the island. Sacred deer still wander about, tame enough to feed from one's hand.

The Itukushima Shrine, the principal shrine of the island, founded in 1614, is built on the beach, with a mountain rising straight up behind it. When the tide flows, the magnificent buildings are surrounded by the blue sea and look like air-castles floating upon the waves.

A favorite motive in Japanese art is the great red Torii, or "Sacred Shinto Gateway" which stands in the sea. This gateway is 45 feet in height and 75 feet in length at its top and consists of two great trunks of camphor wood. Other features of interest are the Senjokaku, "Hall of One Thousand Mats", built by Hideyoshi in 1587 and the Buddhist Temple gateway—the Nitemon, or Gate of Two Kings, near the top of Mount Misen, the highest point on the island. From this peak one can enjoy a magnificent panorama of the Inland Sea. The long stretches of beach, and small pine-frinzed islets, as well as the pine-clad islands and islets, apparently floating on the sea have already acquired a world-wide reputation.

CONDITION SERIOUS IN THE CAUCASUS

Starvation, Overcrowding and Attacks by Wolves Came Great Distress.

London, April 21.—Advices received here from the American Near East Relief organization at Tiflis depict terrible conditions in the Caucasus, where starvation, overcrowding in the towns, severe weather and attacks by wolves are causing great distress.

The central government is making efforts to secure food supplies from Persia and Turkestan, and several small shipments have arrived from Persia, but the difficulty is to find a medium of exchange which the Persians will accept.

Migrations of starving peasants from the villages owing to the exhaustion of food stocks are causing some amusement in the towns. Fifteen hundred of these have arrived at Alexandropol, where the Near East relief organization is already feeding 5,000 refugees and 20,000 orphans.

Severe temperatures and heavy snowfalls are threatening to delay the spring farming. The snow is now six to nine feet deep in the mountain districts, where the villagers are terrified by incursions of wolves. Two soldiers on outpost duty near Erivan declined were eaten by wolves after a desperate fight. Near Alexandropol five peasants lost their lives when a band of wolves attacked their village.

TRAIN THE CHILD REDUCE CRIME

Neglected Children Invariably Become a Burden to the State.

Smashing plate glass windows in Parry Sound was recently the afternoon's work of a person named Stephen Swoliuk. Since that occurred this eccentric individual has been given the extraordinary sentence of six years' imprisonment by a kindly judge who showed pity for Stephen and granted Stephen's request that a long term be imposed. This is a deplorable case—that of a man who might have been of some use in the world without being a burden to society. Examination by a doctor showed that the window smasher is not insane, but of low mentality. He is unable to read or write, even in his own language. Ten chances to one he was never much at school, nevbe given any attention when young, never had a physical or mental examination, never was trained for any special occupation. On the folly of such an upbringing' What an expense he is now to the community, to the state that pays the bill, and the other fellow have to support by paying taxes. And the worst feature it is all a fine! There are thousands of young children to-day in this great Province of Ontario being allowed to grow up in just the same haphazard way—no helpful home environment, no supervision by a Public Health nurse, no periodical examination of their mental and physical condition. And many of these neglected children of to-day may be the future members of society of to-morrow, just like Stephen Zowiuk, who smashed scores of plate glass windows in Parry Sound so that he could be sent to jail.

To combat infant mortality and decrease the physical and mental ilness of the coming generation is a twentieth century problem and must be tackled in a scientific manner.

Last year there were 74,811 babies born in Ontario and of these 7,604 died before reaching the age of one. This is more than one death in every ten born. Think of it! In New Zealand the infant mortality is less than one in twenty. Are we going to take a second place to New Zealand in this great question of infant and child welfare.

ANTI-CHRISTIAN MOVEMENT SPREADS ALL OVER CHINA

Amoy, China, April 21.—An anti-Christian movement said to have started with the formation of twenty such organizations in Pekin Universities, is spreading rapidly over China. Christian leaders and the consular authorities express alarm at the extent of the movement, which is reported to be backed by Communist agitators.

HER LOVE FOR A CHILD

By BYRON STAUFFER.

What is the most powerful moral factor in the wide world?

A mother's love for her child.

That is the one instinct thing that perpetuates our civilization. Not the book, not a theory, not a prophet. Those may elevate the character of women, and therefore shape the details of our code. But the one preserving power of our human society is mother love. That is Africa maternal affection prevents downright deterioration.

Like the ben takes alarm at the hawk's shadow across the barnyard, so mothers by very instinct know the evil which will destroy their offspring. And for this ben mother spreads her wings for the protection of her little brood, so a woman will throw the shield of her love for her born between her child and the adversary which seeks its moral death.

Let a cute-free thoughtless maiden become a wife and mother, and that woman, ex-office, an agent of the society for the prevention of vice. That is God's invention for the maintenance of human decency.

When the stork visites a cottage, a young wife becomes possessed of an eagle's eye and a doe's ear.

As soon as the little toddler takes to the sidewalk, his manner becomes that of a keen policeman for the block, constantly on guard against profanity and obscenity.

That is why women have hated the saloon. Also why mother never sleeps till the last youth or maiden has come in at night.

No new theory of a woman's work or sphere dare to interfere with her overwhelming instinct against the attacks of evil from without. Nothing that takes the mother from her child against the love child's moral dangers dare have a place on the daily program. When Johnny comes home from school, he has the right to find mother there. More criminals are made between four and six p.m. than between any other two hours in the day. That is why the widow pension plan should be enlarged so as to do away with the necessity of widowed mothers doing outside work after school hours.

The supreme danger of the human race is the passing of mother love. That is why we must see to it that the ideals of our young people are not perverted by setting up an abnormal type of social leaders as copies for them to follow.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

A "TIME BUDGET" PAYS

One of the best short-cuts to house-ay points:

keeping that have been discovered, in my time budget. This time budget, or working schedule, is made out by the housekeeper and covers her working day from the time she rises in the morning to the time she washes the dinner dishes at night. Every hour is accounted for. The following one is a recent example. In the Saturday morning letter of a bride who lives in a city apartment:

7:00 A. M. get up and start breakfast; 7:30 John and I have breakfast together; 8:00 I wave John off, then begin my attention in order; 8:10 go to the telephone and order from butcher and grocer; 8:45 wash breakfast dishes; 9:00 put the bedroom to rights; 9:30 start baking, doing bread, two pies and two cakes (to last over Sunday); 11:30 start lunch for John; go into the living room and rest a moment, reading the newspaper (to keep up with John mentally); 12:15 put lunch on the table and John (who is home at that time) and I have lunch together; 1:45 take the luncheon dishes and put the dinner in the fireless cooker; 2:00 start to a matinee with John (we always go on Saturday afternoon); 6:00 return home and put the dinner on the table, from the fireless cooker; 7:30 wash out the dinner dishes and sit down with John in the living room to read."

That little bride does scientific housekeeping. She does not putter at work and daily thought it, forgetting that she ranks she has intended to do, till weeks while she works and plays with the days. She has her clever husband all laid out, and she knows exactly how. How different is this record which was written at my request by another newly-wed who had never used budget system; I suggested that she take pencil and paper and write down truthfully as much as she could remember of what she had done the week before, and this is what she wrote:

"Somehow, but a fine illustration of

A NEW ELECTRIC LAMP HOLDER

It is probable that users of electric light give very little attention to the design of the ordinary lamp holder; and even the making of that important [illegible] have been inclined to take it as a matter of course. In any case there has been very little change in the design since the early days of the electrical industry. Nevertheless, there are many points in which the design might be improved, and there ought to be a welcome for a radically new form recently introduced by a British firm. A great feature of this holder is that it can be put together without a screw-driver. The ordinary type,

AVIATORS SUFFER SEVERE ACCIDENT

Cable Reports Say Portuguese Machine is Damaged Beyond Repair.

Pernambuco, Brazil, April 20.—No official news had been received here to-day concerning the progress of the Portuguese aviators, who landed at St. Paul Rocks last night. Latest reports from the French cable station at Fernando Noronha, off the coast of Brazil, says the damage to the hydroplane in which the aviators were attempting a trans-Atlantic flight was beyond repair. The aviators themselves, who are on board the Portuguese cruiser Republica, have sent no direct reports.

The aviators are still at St. Paul Rocks, according to word reaching here to-day. Reports from the Republica said the plane was damaged while mooring, owing to a rough sea.

OVERHEATING IN FACTORIES

The commonest evil in air conditioning in factories, says the U. S. Public Health Service, in a recent report, is the slight but highly objectionable overheating which obtains in ordinary under-ventilated workrooms where there is no marked overcrowding the thermometer, by common overhead or window the air. This evil can commonly be controlled by watching the thermometer, by common sense regulation of the artificial heat supply and the use of windows before and during the shift.

Real hazards of high degree cannot be summed up so simply. In cool weather, says the report they can be adequately controlled by properly designed and operated systems of fan ventilation; but in summer time, although they can be mitigated by ventilating systems that produce vigorous air movement, they cannot be fully controlled except at prohibitive expense and must therefore, in general, be accepted as an unavoidable incident, of the employment. The effect, however, may be minimized by short spells or work alternating with rest periods.

Saved Him

The Eminent English counsel, Sir Edward Clarke, K.C., who recently celebrated his eighty-first birthday, can claim that, acting in accordance with humanitarian scruples, he was never, in the course of half a century at the Bar, instrumental in securing the death penalty against a prisoner. He tells of a young barrister who came home from the circuit and boasted that he had saved a man's life. "You defended him on a charge of murder, I suppose", suggested Sir Edward. "No," was the answer, "I prosecuted him".

THE TRAGIC OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

An Apropos Fabric

Taffeta is an egoless fabric, smart alike for the women of middle age, the elderly, and the very young, but it seems particularly suited to frocks for the young girl, possessing as it does a sort of springiness fresh.

Black Satins

is used to make charming home frocks this season, with colored sailor plique work forming the trimming, or perhaps, a heavy wool embroidery giving a decorative touch.

Elizabethan Gloves

Ornamental gloves, reminiscent of the golden age of Queen Elizabeth, are appearing in Paris. Embroidered gauntlets have serrated edges, or are finished with a fringe of fur, usually feather, or a silken fringe. A fanciful design in beige kid has bracelets of thin, black stitch, while in glove of the more practical order appliques of leather in a contrasting color may be introduced. For beige, for instance, may have the cuffs stamped in an open design, thru which a glimpse of black or white or even bright red kid is seen." In one design a pair of soft suede gloves has gauntlet studded with small flat, round steel beads.

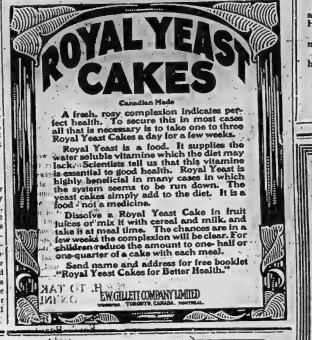

PLAYGROUNDS OF ONTARIO

Within the confines that man shall earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, also endowed him with a capacity for play, the further provided him with playgrounds wherein he might exercise that natural instinct. The Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways have issued a booklet that provides an introduction to some of Nature's finest playgrounds, set down in the pretty summer climate. The air is pure and bracing, laden with the scent of the pine. A very brief sojourn in these delightful altitudes brings sure relief to those afflicted with hay fever. To all—old and young, the strong, the weak—this beautiful land, where summer lingers long with its cool nights and halcyon days, brings rest and renewed vigor. A handsomely illustrated booklet entitled "Playgrounds of Ontario," may be had for the asking by applying to—Jay Grand Trunk Agent, of C. E. Horning, D.P.A., Toronto, Ont.

EXPLOSIONS TAKES TOLL

Athens, April 23.—Galoubi advises a report great loss of life as a result of the explosion of war materials stored near Saloniki railway station barracks. Women and children are believed buried in the ruins of the church on which shells fell and eighteen hundred soldiers are reported buried in the ruins of wrecked barracks.

A fresh, rosy complexion indicates perfect health. To secure this in most cases all that is necessary is to take one to three Royal Yeast Cakes a day for a few weeks.

Royal Yeast is a food. It supplies the water and vitamins which the diet may lack. Scientists tell us that this vitamine is essential to good health. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in many cases in which the system seems to be run down. The yeast cakes simply add to the diet. It is a food not a medicine.

Dissolve a Royal Yeast Cake in fruit juices or in milk with cereal and milk, and take it at meal time. The chances are in a few weeks the complexion will be clear. For children reduce the amount to one- half or one-quarter of a cake with each meal.

Send name and address for free booklet "Royal Yeast Cakes for Better Health."

The Daily Recipe

Rusks

A cupful of light dough is reserved from your ordinary bread mixture, and one well-beaten egg, a tablespoonful of softened butter and large tablespoonfuls of sugar are added, with perhaps a very little more flour, to enable you to knead it easily. Make the sweetened dough into a ball, place in a greased bowl and let rise, punching it down with the finger tips when it becomes very light. An hour before the rusks are needed make the dough into balls the size of large marbles, place in greased pans, and when very light bake about ten minutes. After the rusks are finished and before they become sufficiently brown brush them with a mixture of one tablespoonful of sugar, one of cream of rich milk and a few drops of vanilla; then return them to the oven to glaze.

Children of Wealthy Poorly Nourished

The Journal of American Medical Association, Nov. 12th, 1921, under association with Hoover in Stimulating American food to starve Austrians, shows that 40% of children of well-to-do American homes would, if in Austria, be forced to eat State relief because they are below size and under-nourished.

Do not starve six whole pints of good milk, rich in lime and growing materials, by using cereals, fruits, starchy foods, and then wonder why children have adenoids, decayed teeth, poor eyesight, flabby flesh, poor color and pale blood. Healthy children are the result of proper feeding. Scientific investigation has proved beyond human doubt that Vitamines are essential to normal growth and development. Vitamines are to be found in the best food products, whether animal or vegetable. Vitamines are found in the yolk of eggs, in cream, butter, fish oils, in lean meat, in fruits, vegetables and cereals. Nothing is known to destroy vitamines. Vitamines are not found in refined foods. Vitamines are found in Ontario Dairy Products. Ontario Dairy Products are rich in vitamines. Ontario Dairy Products are the best foods to prevent rickets, to build sound teeth, to correct deficiencies in growing children. At all Grocers.

MOLLA WANTS TO SHOW 'EM

New York, April 20.— Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, U. S. women tennis champion, will send the world's championship on the courts of the famous Wimbledon Club in England again this summer. She sails on May 10 with her heart set on this accomplishment of two tennis history-making feats—complete and convincing demonstration that she is supereior to Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis star, and the winning of the title of the world's best woman tennis player.

As Mlle. Lenglen has indicated her intention to again compete for world's honors at Wimbledon, Mrs. Mallory may secure double satisfaction in one match.

TENNIS MEETING

A meeting of those interested in tennis during the coming season, was held at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. The attendance was small, however, and no active organization took place. It was decided that those present launch a membership campaign immediately and find out whether or not they may use the same grounds as they used last year, and get the grounds into shape, providing they are permitted to use same. The lawn in front of the Armouries was used last year, there being two courts there.

Another meeting will be held in about two weeks time.

ARE WE AS A NATION TO BE BALD, TOOTHLESS AND BLIND?

We're told that baldness is certainly increasing. A splendid beginning has been made in dental hygiene. But defective vision prevails alarmingly.

The Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry recently reported that more than half of our industrial workers are defective in their eyesight. Now, we are told the same ailment affects one-quarter of our school kids.

This visual weakness is only in part due to fatigue, to reading and study, though these, of course, aggravate it.

Our Optometrist makes a most searching examination and is reasonable in his fee.

CALLED BY DEATH

WILLIAM HERBERT COOK

At his family hour this, Friday morning, Mr. William Herbert Cook, who was familiarly known as Bert Cook, passed away at his late home, 5th Concession of Thurlow Township, Honeywells Corners. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. Mr. Cook was one of Thurlow's best known residents and was greatly esteemed by all who knew him. On the year 1866 he was born in Thurlow, where he had resided all his life. He was the third son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Cook. He seemed always took an active part in municipal matters, also in political affairs, being a staunch Conservative. In religion he was a member of the Methodist church, being an active official of the church. He was a member of the Orange Society and the Royal Black Knights, and past Grand Master. BUSY SESSION IN POLICE COURT

A witness who was with the constable at the time, testified that he believed the car was travelling 35 miles an hour, and that there were a few other vehicles on the street at the time.

The accused swore that he left his stand at 2.30 p.m., railroad time, according to his speedometer, with a fare who wished to catch the 2.50 Toronto train. At Victoria Avenue on Front St. he drove into heavy traffic, and travelled in low gear to the Dingley Hotel, when he again put the engine in high gear. At the corner of Station and Front Streets accused admitted that his speedometer registered 18 miles per hour.

The evidence of the witnesses was too strong, however, and a conviction was registered.

STEAL COAL.

Charged with stealing a quantity of coal from a railway car on the Pinnacle street siding, two citizens pleaded guilty. The first one was given one week in jail with hard labor, and the second prisoner was ordered to make restitution of $17.50, for 1½ tons of coal stolen, and again appear one week from today for sentence.

The arrest was made by Provincial Officer Hughes at 4 a.m. this morning, when he found the men scooping coal into a sugar sack with their hands. They were working in separate cars, but the coal both in instances was the property of The Allen Coal Co.

Accused No. 1 explained that he had been out of work since August last, out of funds, and that this was his first appearance in court on any charge. Magistrate Masson at first suggested suspended sentence, but Crown Attorney Carnew thought the coal merchants should be protected, and a suspended sentence might encourage similar nightly pilgrimages.

Accused No. 2 admitted having stolen 1½ tons, and offered to make restitution. There is a suspicion that this is not the first time this man has taken coal. His case was adjourned for one week.

Mr. Percy Allen, of the Allen Coal Co., stated that there is a shortage of about 1½ tons to each carload which they have to pay the miner for. He was not anxious to see any one punished, but desired that they be given protection. In reckoning the amount of restitution, Crown Attorney Carnew reminded Mr. Allen to deduct the delivering charge, and a smile passed around the otherwise sombre court room.

GERMANY REPLIES TO THE ALLIED NOTE

to save from failure the conference which was created. He needs more help than he has been receiving up to this time.

It was reported yesterday morning that Chancellor Wirth had sought to have the Russians agree to renounce the treaty. This the Germans denied, and the Russians said they would under no condition accept such a proposal.

In the Russian reply, it is understood, will be none of the counter-proposals the Germans, but rather an effort to tear down the allied case for Russia's payment of her debts when she becomes able to do so. It probably means the inauguration of at least a week of discussion before real progress can be made with the Soviet delegation, which intends to fight to have other nations make a treaty like that with Germany.

ATTEMPT MADE TO BURN CHURCH

Sydenham Street Church, Kingston, Set on Fire Early in Morning.

A most dastardly attempt to burn down Sydenham Street methodist Church Kingston was made early Thursday morning, when a fire-bug entered the basement, through a side window and set fire to pile of lumber. Fortunately, however, the smoke was smelt by Mr. P. A. Moffat, the sexton, who resides on the church grounds, and he extinguished the blaze with the use of a hose in the cellar. A large pile of lumber had been burned, and the walls under the main hallway had become scorched and charred, while the church was for a time filled with smoke. The attempt was apparently the work of some interested intention of destroying the edifice, and had it not been for Mr. Moffatt's action the church would now be a mass of smouldering ruins.

BARN BURNED BY LIGHTNING

Twenty-Three Head of Cattle Cremated and Implements Destroyed.

During the big storm on Monday night last Mr. Percy McTaggart's barn about a mile north of Thomasburg was cured struck by lightning and destroyed, together with all the contents, including twenty-three head of cattle and a lot of implements. The horses were saved by a neighbor, Mr. Good, who saw the flames and arrived on the scene just in time to get them out. Mr. McTaggart and his family were asleep when the barn was struck and knew nothing about it until aroused by Mr. Good.

The loss is a very severe one, especially at this time of the year, since the stock had been practically wintered. The stock and barn were partially in-

EXAMINING FABRICS BY X RAYS

X rays have been employed in recent for many other purposes than that of examining the human body. Recently they have been employed in the examination of metals and of manufactured articles for the detection of flaws. One of the latest and most interesting applications is in the testing of the fibres of the cotton used in the manufacture of pneumatic motor tires. In order to give a distinct X ray photograph the fibres must be soaked in very dense materials which absorb the X rays, this treatment is apt to damage the fabric and is therefore undesirable. The X ray examination shows the extent to which the warp and the weft stretch, and it also reveals the changes in structure and in strength which a canvas undergoes when soaked in rubber solution. The value of this highly scientific treatment it is possible to determine how the canvas should be woven to remain square and strong.

HARDING WINS IN HOUSE; ON QUESTION OF U. S. NAVY

Washington, April 20.—The Administration won a complete and overwhelming victory in the House to-day for the adequate navy.

On a formal roll-call, the Vare amendment for 1,000 planes utilized adopted in Committee of the Whole Saturday, was carried by a vote of 165 to 145.

Following this action, the House passed the Naval bill, by a vote of 177 to 10, the measure by the House the bill now carries appropriations totalling $251,000,000, about $17,000,000 more than recommended by the Appliations Committee. The measure now goes to the Senate, where it is expected some further increase will be made.

NO FURTHER POSTPONEMENT

LIKELY OF IRISH ELECTIONS

Dublin, April 20.—It was officially stated tonight that a revision of the registered lists will be impossible before the general election is called. This is taken to mean that there will be no further postponement of the elections.

Railway News in Brief

Moose Jaw.—Work will be commenced in the near future on the new Dominion Express company building which will be immediately west of the Canadian Pacific office building and north of the present express and baggage shed.

It is expected that within the next few weeks the old station will be torn down and the work of excavating for the subway approach on the tracks will be continued.

Winnipeg.—Among the travellers on the Canadian Pacific eastbound train which passed through Winnipeg a few days ago was Hilda Dorothy Kilmett, nine years old, on her way from her home in Worcestershire, England. She travelled quite unaccompanied and sailed from St. John on the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm to attend school in England. Children travelling on steamers other than Pacific trains and liners are specially looked after by officials and stewardesses.

Galt.—A new modern joint station for the Lake Erie and Northern and Grand River Railways is assured for Galt in the immediate future.

W. W. Kirkwood, General Manager of the two lines, was in Montreal last week and as a result of his trip he has now received the signed subscription vouchers for the money necessary for the new station.

The location of course will be in the vicinity of the present temporary accommodation on Main street. It is anticipated that the work will be in readiness soon and contracts for the new building let immediately.

Smiths Falls.—During the past ten weeks instructions in first aid, accupancy, treatment of accidents has been given to the employees of the C.P.R. here, and also to the wives and daughters of employees and the ladies of the town in general. The instruction was given by the company's first aid instructor for the C.P.R., Andrew Ashburner, Montreal. The people deeply appreciated the privilege extended by the management in thus allowing their wives the services of their instructor. Dr. Gray was assisted by the genera services of the C.P.R. First Aid department in holding examinations of the classes.

Dr. Gray expressed great satisfaction with the general knowledge displayed by the students.

Ottawa.—There are in Canada at least 37,000 square miles of marshy bogs, with deposits from five to ten feet deep, and it is estimated that each square mile contains on an average the equivalent of 40,000 tons of coal. The Council for Scientific and Industrial Research of Ottawa after considering the problem of making Canada's fuel consumption less dependent upon the United States, induced the Dominion and Provincial Governments to finance jointly a peat commission, which would study the question of commercial development work at the Alfred peat bog, on the Montreal-Toronto line of the C.P.R. The product was sent to Ottawa for use in connection with coal, and it is expected that a flourishing peat industry will eventually be founded.

Winnipeg.—Western Canada recently welcomed the first consignment of its 1922 array of settlers from Europe and the United States, when 200 persons—men, women and children—arrived at the Canadian Pacific docks. The reports of immigration officials state that the influx for the season definitely is to be large.

All these settlers will go on the land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The new arrivals, for the most part, are farmers, familiar with affairs or money, or both, and their intention is to go direct to the prairies and not to migrate to the cities.

Manitoba's share of these 'Mayflower' settlers is a large group of Icelanders who expect to locate on farms. Farmers' groups composed both Danes and Swedes, most entirely. Additional parties were booked for Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

A party of 50 immigrants arrived from Rotterdam, Holland, who was accompanied by 9 cars of effects. All are bound for the Vare-myren provinces. Hazel Dell, Saskatchewan, Rosser, Manitoba, and by the cars, one went to Melrose, Saskatchewan, one to Cypress Hills, and one to Cudworth, Saskatchewan.

Passengers from the steamship Tunisian, numbering 178, arrived in Winnipeg over the Canadian Pacific Railway.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS TO MAKE KNOWN TERMS

New York, April 20.—The lines of controversy in the anthracite strike situation will come clearly defined within the next few days, anthracite operators stated here yesterday, when they will make known the terms upon which they will offer to settle with the strikers.

S. D. Warriner, spokesman for the operators, reiterated previous assertions that the miners' demands would be met with the statement that the pre-strike scale be lowered.

LACHINE CANAL OPENS FOR COMING SEASON

Montreal, April 21.—The Lachine Canal was officially opened for the season yesterday morning when the Canadian Government steamer, Lady Grey, passed up, carrying the Mayor of Soulanges Canal, where the channel is still blocked by ice. Here accumulations of ice over 20 feet in thickness have to be removed.

How History Repeats Itself

Modern scientific research has revealed that many present-day healing methods were actually in existence thousands of years ago. For instance, sun-bath the world-famed skin healer of to-day, had its counterpart in the secret healing balms of Imperial Rome. These were used by the fighting gladiators for dressing wounds and sores.

Like the precious balms of long ago, sun-bak is composed exclusively of rare herbal juices and extracts, but is scientifically blended and concentrated into a marvellously powerful healing oil.

Applied in the cut, wound or sore, sun-bak relieves pain, checks inflammation and inflammation. Powerfully infected, sun-bak disinfects and destroys the inner tissues of poison and disease germs. Half-ounce bottles of sun-bak healing balm grow new skin as by magic.

Lastly, sun-bak is important sun-bak to the skin. Its rich, oily base feeds the skin and mineral drugs total in most obvious ways. Sun-bak is a beautifier of complexion, as well as a healer of wounds, sores and skin troubles.

For cuts, burns, scalds, sprains, sores and wounds; for pimples, blackheads, itching eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, ringworm, painful corns, sun-bak is unique; can take the place of handkerchief—set it by cut, box of tissue into sun-to-day.

Handy, individual-to-carry sun-bak is sold by druggists in 25c and 50c sizes and mineral drugs total in most obvious ways. Sun-bak is a beautifier of complexion, as well as a healer of wounds, sores and skin troubles.

Genoa Parley Now Considering Russia's Case

Actual Work of Reconstruction was Started on Today by Experts Representing Every Nation With Exception of Germany — Allies Are Now Considering Replies of Germany and Russia to Rapallo Note.

TCHITCHERIN SHOCKS ITALIAN REDS

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer — Canadian Press, Limited.

Genoa, April 22.—Actual work on the plan for the reconstruction of Russia was started today by experts representing the Soviet Government, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia and Holland.

George Chicherin, the Russian delegate to the Genoa Conference, gave the Italian socialists and communists a shock today by declaring King Victor Emmanuel on the king's visit here, and accepting His Majesty's invitation to luncheon on board the Italian dreadnought Conte di Cavour.

Genoa, April 22.—A session of the All-Russian Executive Committee has been called for May 5 to discuss the results of decrees for the creation of the Red Army in the event of the Genoa Conference ending in a deadlock, it was learned.

Genoa, April 22.—The economic conference made a great step forward today when the elimination of the Rapallo-German treaty conference, March 27, and Soviet Russia's presentation of counter-proposals to the Allied conditions concerning Russian debts and confiscated property, were announced. The Soviet's very definite hope that the Russian counter-proposals would open have never been held with such favorable results. real and tangible for the reconstruction of Europe, including Russia, proved.

The demands of the powers which have been accepted, including the territorial claims, based on military interests, recognition of war debts, to the Ottoman Empire, with the understanding that they will be considerably scaled down; recognition of debts and financial obligations due to foreign nationals and the right of foreigners to have confiscated property returned to them or to be given proper consideration for it.

The preliminary session of the advisory of the Soviet Government contributed to the optimism that the conference already has accomplished much, as the powers by which Soviet Russia will be permitted to enter into the concert of nations.

Both the Germans and the Russians today submitted their replies to the Allied memorandum. The German reply accepts the allied proposal that the Germans take no further part in the negotiations between the allies and the Russians, but the reply does not modify the effectiveness of the Rapallo-German treaty.

The effect of the two replies is to confine the German and Russian delegations

HUGE LIQUOR SEIZURE MADE

Provincial Police Take 200 Cases of Whiskey From Boat.

VALUED AT $7,853.

Largest Seizure of Liquor Ever Made in City of Belleville.

Inspector J. R. Adams of the Provincial Police here, with his officers arrested a whole load of liquor at the wharf here this morning, and as a result, the largest seizure of liquor ever made in this city since the birth of the Ontario Temperance Act, has been registered.

The boat, which is a large, 30 horse power gasoline launch, about 12 feet wide and 40 feet long is now at anchor at the wharf, while the Provincial officers are busily engaged unloading the precious cargo with a motor truck. Unloading operations were commenced about 10.30 a.m. The cargo consists of 200 cases of whisky and over, Bourbon whiskey, weighing in all 9600 lbs, or nearly 5 tons, and is worth $7853. It was largely packed in the front and rear cabin of the launch.

The boat is the property of Mr. G. H. Wood-ward, of 1 Bellevue Ave., Toronto, who is in charge of it, and who is accompanied by Mr. Charles Walker, 124 Front St. Toronto, who has no name but is number 15 T.H.C. is finished in brown and white, with the name Bellevue II. on it.

When approached by the Intelligencer representative, the owner, Mr. Woodward, seemed quite calm and composed. He had just arisen from having a nap in the cabin. He said he had no fear of the outcome of the affair as he had broken no Canadian laws. He was merely transporting the liquor to Detroit, where it was ll to be shipped to Mexico City.

"If the administration of the O. T. A. have plenty of money to spend in this manner of enforcing laws, why I should worry," exclaimed the owner.

The seizure was made, it seems to be that while there were clearings for Oswego for the cargo, yet the consignment was billed for Mexico City and as war not cleared from customs. Another report left Toronto with 700 cases.

The liquor was loaded from a railway car, on Friday, but is now in charge of the Provincial Police, 223 Church St.

LOCAL MARKET WELL ATTENDED

Much Farm Produce Offered for Sale Fair Prices.

That our country friends at the present time are not very well supplied with money to buy with, could was apparent to-day by their attendance upon the market. Fresh dairy butter was quite plentiful and sold readily at 40c. per pound. A few basket lots were secured at a slightly lower figure.

Eggs were also exceedingly plentiful and reasonable in price, namely from 25c. to 27c. per dozen. The former price held was for basket lots.

Dressed fowls can be called a luxury judging from the price obtained for same. Chickens sold from $1.50 to $2 per pair, according to size and quality. Ducks for the price asked was 35c. per pound.

Garden products such as lettuce, green onions, spinach and other greens were readily disposed of. Lettuce sold at 5c. per bunch or 4 for 25c. Green onions, Spinach, sold at 50c. per peck.

NO CHANGE

Wage Contract Negotiations Committee Ends Meeting in Another Deadlock.

New York, April 22.—Anthracite operators, who had "announced that they would submit to the miners the terms upon which they would sign an agreement covering the strike, submitted themselves with a simple reiteration of their general demand that wages come down.

At the close of a session of the joint sub-committee on wage contract negotiations, yesterday, D. D. Warriner, spokesman for the operators, said:

"We informed representatives of the anthracite miners, with whom we have been in conference since March 31, that it was our belief that the present wage and other demands which would result in an increase in the price of coal could not be granted. On the contrary, our attitude was that there must be a substantial reduction in wages.

Developments since these negotiations began have only served to confirm the opinion already expressed by the producers of anthracite that the present wage scale is not even approximation of production has served to stimulate sales.

RECOVER TWO HUNDRED BODIES FROM MONASTIR RUINS

Rescue Work in the Explosion Area is Being Carried on Under Great Difficulty—Many of the Houses of City Collapse Under Impact.

Monastir, April 22.—Salvage work in the section of the city wrecked by Tuesday's explosion is being carried on with the greatest difficulty. Fear of water is hampering the task of putting out the numerous fires, while gas fumes are hindering the soldiers and gendarmes who are searching for victims. Two hundred bodies have been recovered and there is little likelihood that any more persons will be rescued alive, as the cries of the wounded amid the wreckage, which were heard throughout yesterday have now died out altogether.

It is still impossible to estimate the total number of persons killed, but several hundred of them were wounded, many of them hopelessly, and a large number of houses have been removed to the United States Hospital, which, somewhat removed from the scene of the explosion, escaped with slight damage.

Most of the houses of the city, flimsy affairs of wood and terra cotta collapsed under the terrific impact of the explosions, burying their occupants in a mass of debris. The raised arches covers many square blocks. The only structures which resisted the explosions were those which showed reinforced concrete, which are built of solid masonary,

THE TORTURE OF INDIGESTION

Thousands Made Miserable By This Trouble

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Relieves It

Think of Indigestion and what it means to you! Sour, bitter, bad taste in the mouth; Bad Breath; Dizziness; Nausea; Pain after eating; Heartburn; Headache; Biliousness; Constipation; Coated Tongue; Lack of Appetite; Poor Digestion; Wind in the stomach; Sleeplessness and Depression.

When food enters the stomach, the nerves and muscles of the stomach, liver and intestines all contract in order to digest the food. The nerves and muscles are controlled by the nerves in the brain. If the nerves are weak, or if the digestive juices are not present in sufficient quantity, indigestion results.

Nerve tonics are of little value in curing indigestion, because they do not increase the flow of digestive juices. Medicines containing pepsin, pepsin, bismuth, soda, etc., give relief by neutralizing the acid in the stomach, but they do not cure indigestion.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the only medicine in the world that strengthens the stomach muscles and promotes an abundance of digestive juices—enough to completely digest every meal.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" does this because it keeps the kidneys active, the bowels regular and the blood pure, which improves pure Gastric Juice.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" will correct your indigestion or Dyspepsia and enable you to enjoy every meal. Try it.

Music and Drama

GORGEOUS SCENES IN PICTURE

Many gorgeous scenes render "The Brides' Play," a new Paramount-Cosmopolitan picture starring Marion Davies, which opened at Griffin's Theatre last night, a delight to the big audience that gave it a cordial welcome. Miss Davies, who has a dual role of considerable dramatic strength, looks one of her charm, grace or beauty of features in changing from a Spanish to the early part of the story to a blonde in the last scene. Wyndham Standing plays opposite Miss Davies and lends a capable support-ing cast.

NEXT—PRESENT COMEDY

DRAMA AT GRIFFIN'S MONDAY

"The Women Pays"—sounds a bit heavy what? But in fact it is not, it is the name of the play by the "ever-loving" Rex Stock Company. Though the subject is a great one, and some of the scenes very tense, the comedy, predominates.

The two comedy parts are in no less able hands than that of "Cold Hill" Tale and Florence Winters. Bill plays the part of a young shipping clerk, who finds the power of the Pierpont Morgan and Company to change, but somehow they never seem to work out. Florence plays the part of the wife, who firmly believes the world is losing a good man by not seeing her husbands great possibilities.

Rex appears as the successful man of the world who married a poor girl, and feels that he has a right to be "Paid for Her" by showering her with all his worldly goods. It is quite different rule for Rex, he has done anything like this since coming here, but from press reports of other cities, he is very good in the part.

Xena plays the part of the poor girl, with high ideals about honor and marriage. She has a chance to do some very fine acting, and at the same time be very beautiful in several new creations that have just arrived from the East.

Rex has arranged a new and beautiful scenic background for this play, and announces that new vaudeville specialties will be introduced between acts.

BELLEVILLE BABIES MUST BE SAVED

Thirty-Six Babies Under One Year Died Here Last Year.

These remarks are pointedly directed to you. You, the person readily these lines at the present moment, I want to talk to you and I want you to feel that what you read will apply to you and no other.

Let us get to the point then—What are you doing to improve health conditions in this City of Belleville?

Listen to this—Do you know that 7,504 babies died in Ontario last year before reaching one year of age?

Do you know that a large number of these deaths could have been prevented if these infants and their mothers had been given proper care and attention?

Do you know that in this City of Belleville 238 babies were born during 1921, and 36 of these babies died before reaching one year of age? You could hardly believe that could you? and yet these are the actual figures.

Cannot something be done, you will ask, to prevent this dreadful sacrifice of infant life? It can be done and it will be done when mothers know how to look after their health during pregnancy, and how to look after the health of their babies right from the day they are born.

The Child Welfare Week in Belleville, which starts April 30th has for its object the supplying of information and practical advice the care and feeding of infants, the health of the mother and child and the health of the mother before the child is born.

Whatever influences or causes interfere with the healthy growth of children must be removed. Children often die through the lack of knowledge of health principles, and many mothers die because they do not know what to do to preserve and maintain their health. The Child Welfare Week will provide an opportunity.

DIGESTIVE TROUBLES CAUSE MUCH DISTRESS

Age Nearly Always Due to Thin, Watery Blood.

Doctors think that because your stomach is chalky, upset, you are the victim of serious malady. One of the most common is indigestion, dyspepsia, of thin, watery blood. In fact it has become generally recognized that healthy activity of the stomach is impossible unless the blood is rich and pure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been used valuable in cases of indigestion where dyspepsia and stomach weakness that because they make rich blood, clear and nerve tonic. The rich-ed blood following their use not only imparts a healthy digestion, but tones color to the cheeks and lips, and frees virus in the tissues. One important point to remember is that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain no harmful drugs or opiates and are thus especially suitable for the treatment of ills in cases of this kind says: "For a long time I was a sufferer from indigestion, which seemed to carry with it a complication of other troubles. Every meal brought misery with it. A the eating was followed by severe pains in the stomach, causing at times nausea and vomiting, and at other times an accumulation of gas that caused severe palpitation of the heart and a smothering sensation. The result was that my general health was seriously affected and the least exertion would tire me out. I had taken much medicine, but did not get more than temporary relief until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I took for a considerable time, with the result that I now enjoy every meal and am no longer distressed after enjoying better than ever. I cheerfully recommend these pills to similarly suffering."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IRELAND HAS TWO COURTS

Both Recognized by the Government, but Decisions Do Not Coincide.

Dublin, April 22.—Existence in Ireland of two sets of judicial tribunals—the Republican courts and the old courts of the King—has resulted in some queer legal anomalies, as both courts now recognized by the government as valid, and their decisions do not always coincide.

One of the most notable of these "double action" cases concerned a book-maker who entered suit in King's Court against a man who refused to pay his seasonal losses, said to exceed his winnings with the same bookmaker by 20 times. The defendant pleaded the Gaming Acts prohibiting legal proceedings to collect gambling debts, from his case, and the bookmaker added counsel fees to his other losses.

Hardly was the case decided in King's Court when the defendant entered suit against the bookmaker in a Republican court, demanding judgment for the amount of his winnings. The astonished book-maker, realizing that he could not afford to jeopardize trade by taking refuge under the Gaming Acts as his client had done, found that the question before the court was merely whether the losses claimed in the action had been won. When due proof of this was submitted, judgment was again entered against the book-maker.

THE PRESENT CRISIS

A SERMON FOR THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"Lord, what will Thou have me to do?"—Acts 22:10.

The subject of this sermon is suggested by a book, "The Shame of the Church," written by Rev. Andrew Murray. He tells of the results of the great Keswick Conference held a few years ago in Edinburgh. They were able to solve nearly every problem of the mission fields, except the greatest—they could only discuss it: How to arouse the Church to the world's need. The great mass of church members are not alive to the claims of the Master. There is too much contrast between the spirit and methods of the early Church and present day Christianity. We fail to recognize the authority of Christ over His Church. Think of His last words to His followers: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." That is the first word: "Ye shall be My witnesses." The second word is, "Ye shall receive power when the Holy Spirit is come upon you." The third and last word of the Master is "Tarry ye, until ye be endued with power from on high." And this is the greatest need of the present day, and the only way in which a true revival can begin in God's people. Then think of the great need as presented by one of the leaders at the Mission Conference: "Three times more men." "Four times more money." And then followed the usual impetus of five, viz.: "Seven times more prayer," etc. Why this great demand? Because of the needy fields all over the world. The fields are white to harvest. Pray ye, therefore the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers into His harvest field.

Now let us apply our text. How did Paul meet the demand of the Master in his day? By obedience to his Lord. "I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision." Obedience marks greatness. We must have the right spirit and attitude before God can use us. And we can if we will follow Paul. "Lord, what will Thou have me to do?" How did this come to Paul? By his great vision on the Damascus road. We, too, need a vision of Christ and His claims upon us brought home to us with force, before we shall be led to do what we ought, to be and do. Think of the power of such a vision, and how it would affect us as it did Paul. It certainly would affect our thinking, as in Paul's case. What a new conception of sin. And we need that today. We think too lightly of sin. A true vision of Christ reveals the awfulness of sin. And, over against sin what a revelation of God's love. This is why Paul gloried in the cross of Christ. "He loved me and gave Himself for me." What a great conception Paul had of God's love in Jesus Christ. "Who can separate us from God's love?".

Then, a true vision of Christ will affect our work, both in quality and quantity. Paul was always abounding in the work of the Lord. We can never think of Paul being idle. The vision of Christ inspired him to spend and be spent. He seemed to be planning work so as to redeem the time. What an inspiring example Paul has been to all who follow Christ and especially those who labor with their hands that they might not be chargeable to any.

The vision of Christ also affects our character. It gave Paul a great aim and purpose in life. We are not moved by the fact of Christ's death as Paul was. When Paul learned what the Lord Jesus expected of him he made the full surrender of his life and became the slave of Christ.

This is the secret of Paul's influence and power among the Church of Christ. He surrendered everything to Christ. Think of his high ideal for life. "For me to live is Christ." And this is what the vision of Christ did for Paul. We may have it too. Tennyson expresses the same idea of his faith and ardent zeal for life in his poem of "Melin and the Gleam." We recall the closing couplet:

After it, follow it,
Follow the gleam.

In view of the present crisis, the great need of a revival, what does our Lord expect of us? We must make sure of a personal prayer—"Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" Christ expects everyone who knows His love to win others.

Are we doing our Master's will? We must discover the cause of our neglect. Is it lack of faith and love? Is it our selfishness? Do we not care if souls perish? If the millions who do not know of Jesus may never learn of His love if we do not care to do our part. What can we do? Much depends upon every one of His followers. The measure of His surrender for our salvation should be the measure of our surrender to Christ, and His service.

Ye are not your own. Ye are bought with a price. Therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit which are His."

The Holy Spirit.

Creator Spirit, by whose aid
The world's foundations first were laid,
Come, visit every waiting mind;
Come, pour Thy joys on human kind:
From sin and sorrow set us free,
And make Thy temples worthy Thee.

O Source of uncreated heat,
The Father's promised Paraclete,
Thrice holy Fount, thrice holy Fire,
Our hearts with heavenly love inspire:
Come; and Thy sacred unction bring,
To sanctify us while we sing.

Plenteous of grace, descend from high,
Rich in Thy sevenfold energy:
Thou Strength of His almighty hand
Whose power doth heaven and earth command.

Give us Thyself, that we may see
The Father and the Son by Thee.

Immortal honor, endless fame,
Attend the Almighty Father's name;
The Saviour Son be glorified,
Who for lost man's redemption died:
And equal honor, Holy Ghost,
Eternal Paraclete, to Thee!

TWO LABORERS DIE IN SLIDE NEAR CHIPPAWA POWER PLANT

St. Catherines, Ont., April 20.—Louis Madel, Fort Colborne, and E. Dovonick, Toronto, Polish laborers, were crushed to death in a rock slide near the Chippawa power plant, 11 miles from this city yesterday morning. The men were working with six others in a ditch, laying pipe, when rocks and earth 30 feet above commenced to slide. Five of the eight men were saved by backing against the ditch, while the others attempted to get away, one receiving sustaining injuries.

Both men were dead when taken from the debris. The bodies were brought to this city and Coroner Greenwood has called an inquest for Monday next.

RUSS. REFUGEES FLOCK TO BERLIN

Each Have Their Own Customs and Insist on Following Them.

Berlin, April 22.—Hordes of Russian refugees are flocking here on every train. The Arrivals have settled themselves in a section of the city which they occupy almost to the exclusion of other nationalities, and have opened their own restaurants, clubs, saloons and theatres. Some of the Russians are wealthy, but most of them are penniless.

The police have found them a problem as they insist upon their own customs, and have little commerce with the Germans. The greatest difficulty is found in compelling the immigrants to observe the one o'clock closing regulations. They follow the Russian custom of beginning dinner after midnight and continuing their eating and drinking until daylight.

To several of these restaurants former wealthy Russians are working as waiters, cooks, or tenertainers. A prince and his wife, a baron, and another of their countrymen constitute the orchestra in one small eating place. They are bankrupted by the revolution and must work or starve.

Profiteers who made fortunes out of the Polish wedding frequent the cafes in this quarter, where they have become conspicuous figures in the night life because of their lavish expenditures.

The German newspapers complain that the great influx of easterners has shown little concern for the financial status of the refugees, have suddenly become intensely interested in the new arrivals, particularly from Poland and Russia, fearing an epidemic of typhus and cholera. German Red Cross physicians have warned the government that unless closer border control can be maintained an epidemic in the spring is certain. The German Red Cross has also notified the government that there is danger of the Russians carrying the plague to America unless greatest precautions are taken for scores are seeking admission to the United States.

Money Market and Construction Costs

Both Favorable to 1922 Highway Development

The Centre Expansion Joint is a development of recent years and a feature of great promise

THERE is real encouragement for those municipalities about to enter on a programme of road building, in the present labour and material prices and in the improved condition of the money market.

Highway improvement can now be undertaken at a reasonable cost; recent tenders for such work having shown much lower prices than those obtained a year ago.

This, in conjunction with the lowered cost of borrowing, indicates less reason for delay in the building of permanent highways of concrete

Conditions now favor the building of those Concrete roads which modern truck haulage and increased motor traffic call for.

Labor is down—materials have declined; and keeping step with these important factors, the cost of borrowing has been reduced to a point where the paving program need no longer be held up because of the cost of financing the work.

All who are interested in the subject of Highway Construction may obtain from us, on application, our interesting literature which fully explains the manifold advantages of Concrete.

It's the little they cost to maintain that makes concrete pavements economical

SUSPECTS ARSON.

The Ontario Fire Fighter, the official organ of the Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters, the first number of which has just made its appearance, contains an editorial on Fire Prevention, in which it is stated: "It is most natural to cite Ontario, as we are in closer touch with affairs here than elsewhere, and what do we find? That the average citizen does not realize—simply not through any great fault of his own, though—that our fire loss for 1921 amounted to $5.28 per capita. Think what this means in a province the size of Ontario! We are numbered as the fourth greatest offender in Canada with fires, with a total fire loss of $15,444,817. It hardly seems possible, but these are the facts, and that is what counts today. Ontario has burnt up in 1921 goods, assets and natural products to the amount stated previously. How long are the citizens of Ontario going to stand this waste—for it is nothing else? And, in keeping well on the safe side, we feel that we are perfectly safe in saying that 75 per cent. of these fires could have been prevented if the proper precautions had been taken."

There is no denying the seriousness of the position. In spite of the continual preachment of caution and intensive campaigns designed to arouse the citizens to a sense of danger, the whole country of being one of the most careless in the world in respect to its fire losses, the evil continues, and even increases. The provincial fire marshal, Mr. E. P. Heaton, declares that "from a fire-waste viewpoint the year 1921 was one of the most disastrous in Ontario that the province has ever experienced." There were 9,313 fires last year, involving a loss of $15,444,817, as compared with 9,296 fires in 1920, with a loss of $11,771,718. In 1919 the loss was only $10,514,232 This astounding scale leads the fire marshal to suspect "the value of the fire prevention work that has been under wide propaganda during the last few years."

The Financial Post, in a review of the fire losses of the year, from the point of view of the insurance companies, is very outspoken in its suspicions. "In scores of cases," remarks the financial paper, "fires broke out where heavy stocks of merchandise still remained, much of it unsaleable at all, the whole of it calling for losses in the liquidation. Fire proved a very direct and simple liquidator; with the insurance company a the dispenser of cash in place of dead stocks. The exchange suited the assured remarkably well; the fire company had to grin and bear it' in most cases; for it is a very difficult matter to prove arson." The fire insurance companies, it is stated, contemplate the appointment of a skilled legal prosecutor, to represent certain districts and appear for a group of companies at fire inquests, "with the idea that convictions for arson might be more frequent." All honest policy-holders would welcome such a move, whatever class of fire insurance is taken out, for it is obvious that the rates of premiums depend upon the hazard involved, and it is not pleasant to think that a big percentage of these premiums might be paid out to criminals who are, apparently, finding it too easy "to get away with it."

PRESERVING THE FORESTS.

Great Britain has awakened up to the necessity of reforestation, and regards any restriction of tree planting as falseeconomy. Britain owns a state forest under a forest author ity. All authorities in Great Britain have agreed to a great extension of enterprise in forestry. Hundreds of thousands o acres of uncultivated land are available for this purpose, and they are to be used for the cultivation of spruce, pine and larch The American Forestry Association is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary this spring. In the United States it is unanimously agreed that never before was forest conservation so necessary The resources of the country are being used faster than they are being replaced, and the situation is therefore serious. Nebraska was the first Arbor Day state, and has followed up it pioneer promise by the planting of 700,000 acres of trees. Ten cessee, Kansas, Ohio and North Dakota have all followed suit Memorial tree planting has received an impetus from the world war, in honor of famous men and soldiers who fell. Rotary clubs have helped along the good work. Arbor day and bird day have been amalgamated in some places. But there can be little dispute or doubt with the assertion that the preservation of the forests so that a timber crop shall be assured in perpetuity is absolutely essential.

Commendable interest is shown in the question of reforestation throughout the Dominion. It is admitted that the problem is a serious one, as the question involves much time and thought as well as expense. An expert lumberman has given it as his opinion that in order to produce four hundred million feet of lumber it would be necessary to cut down the pine of 115,000 acres. If this reduction was made yearly in the area of standing timber it would be taken care of by reforestation schemes to overtake it. The Laurentide plateau is calculated to grow annually 216,000,000 feet board measure. There is much land in Canada that will never provide a living for the tiller of the soil and which is highly suitable for the production of a valuable timber crop. Nature performs wonders in regard to reforestation. Nature backed up by scientific effort should be able to produce results far exceeding the anticipation of the most sanguine. It is generally agreed that the preservation of the forests is of paramount importance.

THE KHAN, IN TORONTO TELEGRAM

Beggars on Horseback.

Our old sayings are the concrete wisdom of the ages. At a time not so very distant when our people could neither read nor write they furnished them with an education so liberal and so complete that we have to go back a few centuries before we really bump into it really good man.

Old sayings are not so much in vogue nowadays, but they do play. We refer to slogans and catch phrases. He who coins a slogan can mint it with money. He can get what he needs. There is a bunch of propagandists in your neighborhood you can make a big with them with a single slogan. Indeed, the slogan maker is a recognized article. You can hardly call him a statesman or a leader, but you can see why a sloganist should not be in the same class with the maker of books with a philosophy and ever-ready ideas into the Society of Authors. If one of your friends is preoccupied and taciturn, at his life seems like a hard grinding, if he has a wild and far-away look in his eye the chances are he is looking up a slogan and if he gets a good one you don't have to work any more. Men have followed rams' horns over hill and plain, have crumbling walls and angry rivers. Men have followed the bagpipes to ever-lasting glory, and beats have stumbled through the dark and dank forests to the sounds of bullhorn and tom-toms, but none of these instruments is in it with the slogan. Give me a slogan and you can disband the band. The beauty of it is that almost any darn fool can make a slogan. All you need is a pair of good lungs and no stones in your gallbuer. Many a mighty wall defied the blowing that was laughed at solid shot shuddered, quaked and collapsed before a slogan.

There was a boy who went to school with me who was born with a cane, and great things were expected of him. His cousin was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, and much was expected of him also. There was a little ragged urchin with an old tin pail—Jacky Partridge's old Jack Duckunder's boy, and he was born with a slogan. The other day Jacky Duckfinder, J.P., met the party who was born with a cane to Bursbah for eighteen months for stealing the common service from the Church of the Holy Angels, and on the same day he committed for trial the party who was born with a spoon in his mouth, for being accused of selling cocaine to the girls in the basket factory.

There is none of our wise sayings so familiar and so true as "putting a beggar on horseback. Mark the horse. You notice that our forbears did not put a beggar on a throne. The beggar would have felt incongruous, and ill at ease—he wouldn't have enjoyed it. Our fathers put him on a horse! I cannot explain it, but there is something thrilling about the touch of a horse when a man first bestrides one. You may climb to the top of the loftiest, tower or the highest mountain peak, but you will never have the same wild feeling of exhilaration as came over you when you first leaped on the vibrant back of a horse. A child came out from your city the other day and I picked him up and placed him on one of my colts. The boy shrieked, he whooped, with the wild delirium of it. For ten thousand of his forbears before yours came crying out of the savage centuries to greet him!

The beggar on horseback is the most sombre, ominous and at the same time picturesque figure in history. The bloody French revolution was a beggar on horseback. There is a beggar on horseback in Russia to-day; there is a beggar on horseback in your old Ireland, and there is a beggar on horseback right here in dear old Ontario!

I have, you will recognize, a definition for Mr. J. J. Morrison. Understand me. I admire the man, not his methods. I couldn't have been induced to put my hard-earned savings into any of his Farmer Co-operative enterprises—I'm too fond of the things. I would go a long ways to get a front seat and hear him shoot off his mouth. He is unique in that he is not a hypocrite and 0 Jay Jay, for this be all thy sins forgiven thee! He is honest and genuine and there still be people in this land who admire these qualities.

The other day before a great audience he frankly preached class consciousness. Jay Jay is not (facies) cynically, but he is cynically and morally and spiritually, and he came out flat-footed and told his farmer bearers that they were a class and the dominate class at that, and, moreover, they would never get anywhere unless they exercised their power as a class. He instanced the Law Society and the College of Physicians and surgeons, and the trade unions, and the combines and mergers, and he pointed out that each of them obtained advantages and special privileges through class legislation.

His common old soul with the bald head was right, but he could have told his hearers another one. Why didn't he tell his hearers that the Law Society has been known to furnish the Tax farmers never furnished a beggar on horseback? The College of Physicians and Surgeons has put a thousand beggars on horseback in my time. I saw Miss Muldoon ride his horse up the staircase of the Grand Central Hotel, Winnipeg, on one occasion. But that was nothing. I've seen more than one beggar on horseback ride into the pulpit!

The farmers never furnished a beggar on horseback till quite recently. When Queen's Park and Ottawa and if you want to see what is called a holy show take a look at Parliament Hill.

When the history of the age was written the name of J. J. Morrison will not be included with the Beggars on Horseback.

That common old soul with the bald head refused a mount!

INSISTS NEW YORK IS IN SWITZERLAND

Geneva, April 21.—A peasant handed in a telegram of a few words at a branch telegraph office for his wife in New York and planned a trans-on the counter for payment. The clerk asked whether the wire was really meant to be sent to New York, and proceeded to make the calculation. When the comparatively large sum required was announced to the peasant he protested loudly and insisted that New York was in Switzerland.

And so it was found to be, but it took long and patient search through a large ancient volume to discover that there is a New York in Switzerland, a little Alpine hamlet of 50 inhabitants not far from Lucerne.

ORIGINATE STRANGE ELECTION BEHAVIOR

Husky Cabbage Heavers Employed by Ambitious Candidates.

Budapest, April 22.—A new occupation, open only to young huskies not afraid to flirt at the drop of a cabbage, has come into being here as a result of intensive campaigning for the coming elections.

Candidates opposing the government have met with such pronounced hostility that they now employ as many stalwart young men as their campaign funds will permit to act as bouncers, body guards, spotters and athletes for the speakers.

Opposition candidates decided to buy protection after dozens of their meetings had been broken up by bands of the notorious "Awakening Hungarians"; who acquired remarkable skill at hearing calabazs and soft tomatoes, ill-smelling bombs and occasionally bricks during fits of political enthusiasm.

The bouncers are stationed at various points through the hall and gallaries and on the speaker's platform. Those in the audience attempt to quell disturbances at the source, but should a stray vegetable break loose and head for the stage, there is always some of the hired help ready to jump in front of the speaker for an instant.

On the rare occasions when there are no disturbances, the brakies act as claquers. In many of the gatherings this is said to require almost as much courage as speaking, for an outburst of applause from any section of the house is sure to bring a collection of missiles.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The quilted satin is a favored trimming on the newest black capes.

Grey crepe is again being shown in some of smartest spring frocks.

Motre evening frocks cut on simplest classic lines are to be smart this coming season.

A favored new engagement ring is a perfectly matched ruby, emerald or sapphire set horizontally with a diamond.

Rickrack is again a favorite trimming for summer frocks and a new touch is a stitch of black inserted at its corners.

Collars of beige or white organdie and lace are much shown with the complete frocks that have hitherto been somewhat trying so collarless were they.

It may not be absolutely true that women are more fickle than men, but certainly have more chance to show it.

A striking brunette at dinner in a noted Atlantic City hotel wore white tulle with side panels embroidered in lipstick red roses and her small white hat had ostrich feathers of the same shade bunched on either side in the effect so favored of fashion.

One of the loveliest of the evening frocks in the purple shades was seen at Atlantic City where a deep violet georgette had three rows of velvet, violets beneath the sleeveless arms and a garland of the same flowers caught the full draped skirt below the hips.

Pastiddous males who wouldn't go seen driving a used car, who turn up their noses at second-hand clothing shops, who prefer to buy sealed handkerchiefs, will gather around a triply divorced lady like bees about honeycomb.

Dotted organdie are to be especially good and a smart Atlantic City shop had a most effective model in lime yellow with the black spots with string-like sash of black organdie finished at the sides with huge rose of the organdie edged with black and the bateau faced with black ended in two bows on shoulder and a hat to match completed the costume.

DESPONDENT MINER COMMITS SUICIDE

Sault Ste. SIR MONTAGU ALLAN'S CASE POSTPONED TILL APRIL 28

Montreal April 20.—The preliminary hearing of the charges preferred against Sir H. Montagu Allan and D. C. Macarow by an officer of the Department of Finance, who accuses these two officials of the now extinct Merchants Bank of submitting false statements to the Federal Government concerning that institution's financial standing, was again postponed this morning until April 28. Sir Montagu, accompanied by his counsel, F. E. Meredith, K.C., met Judge Cusson in the latter's private room, and after a few minutes' discussion the date for the next hearing was decided upon. The same procedure occurred in the case of D. C. Macarow, who appeared with his counsel, N. K. Laflamme, K.C., after Sir Montagu had left.

Children's Stockings that stand the wear

THERE is no need to tell Canadian Mothers anything about quality of materials in Mercury Hosiery for children—the name "Mercury" is recognized as the mark of quality.

But we do want to emphasize their wearing quality. They are reinforced where wear comes most—dyed with fast, non-running colors—knitted so that washings do not change the shape. Reinforced parts carry all the extra strains. Mercury Hosiery stands the wear.

Ask your dealer to show you "Mercury" Children's Hosiery.

MIX half a package of Rinso in a little cool water, until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water; put it into your washing tub, or machine, adding sufficient cool or lukewarm water.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

CORRECT EQUIPMENT FOR CHAFING DISH COOKERY

"Please write an article on just what equipment one should have to offer refreshments made in the chafing dish," writes a reader of this column, who signs herself "Sixteen."

I have a boy friend who is always taking me to the movies or entering me in some other way, and I would like to learn chafing cookery so that I could offer him refreshments, now and then, My fathers says he will buy me what I should have. We have electricity in our home, so I suppose it ought to be an electrial chafing dish. Kindly help me."

I received many letters of this sort, both from young girls and from brides of informal and dainty entertaining can be had (daily) with a chafing dish. I might also say "motor-cycle-enthusiast," furniture is nothing so becoming to the young woman as the role of chafing dish hostess—a frilly apron tied about her waist, and the trays of dainty equipment before her. Here is the list of things she will need:

An electrical chafing dish with a small nickel tray of its own, to stand on; a right of the hostess containing one wooden spoon to stir with; the regulation silver spoon, larger, for serving; salt and pepper shakers; a fork and spoon which may be used for testing the flavor—used only once before being washed—and small dainty saucers and pitchers which hold whatever ingredients necessary to the dish which is being cooked.

Whatever work of preparation that can be done beforehand in the kitchen—dicing or grating cheese, slicing hard-cooked eggs, etcetera—should most certainly be done so that the cooking may proceed expeditiously and without bother in the presence of the guest.

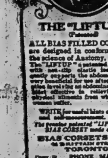

On a dolley in the centre of the table may be piled the plates, surrounded by cups and saucers (if cocoa or coffee is to be served), sugar bowl and whatever table silver will be needed. Napkins may lie on a side table within easy reach. An electric toaster is a great asset in chafing dish cookery, as so many of the typical dishes are to be served either on crackers or toast, and while the hostess is cooking, the guest may, informally, be invited to do the toasting. The sliced bread for toasting, or crackers, may be brought on a pretty plate at another part of the table.

There are several rules of chafing dish cookery which should accompany this list of equipment. The primary one is that there should be an absence of noise, or the reason dolleys should lie under everything but the chafing dish itself—a rule which grew out of a common-sense desire to avoid fire in the days when alcohol chafing dishes held supreme sway. If the hostess sits at her work, she should have a very low chair with a bassock on it, as it is difficult to stir with ease with one's elbows below the level of the chafing-dish top.

An expert at this form of cookery never measures her seasonings (for this reason salt and pepper shakers are used), but if a teaspoonful of some unusual seasoning is required and the hostess does not wish to measure it out before the eyes of the guest, she may measure it previously and put it in a pretty china dish or cup on the tray holding the ingredients.

MAY WITHDRAW

CANADIAN TEAM

Montreal, April 21.—The Dominion Lawn Tennis Association favors the withdrawal of Canada from the Davis Cup competition this year, it is indicated by a letter received to-day by W. H. Larrabeke, Secretary of the Quebec Lawn Tennis Association.

The letter asked for the opinion of the Provincial body as to the advisability of withdrawal, and it is understood that all Provincial associations are being consulted with reference to the Davis Cup play. The Dominion association based its stand on the improbability that a team could be turned into condition by the end of May, and the fact that much time and money would be expended in sending a team to France to play in Paris on June 12. The Quebec association will, it is stated, advocate the sending of a team in any case.

If Canada defaults, France will play Denmark, it appears. Canada's announcement of entry or defalation must be in the hands of the United States Association by April 24.

NOTICE

On Saturday, April 22nd, there will be a Baseball practice at the Fair Grounds at 2.30 for the Intermediate Team.

Any other ball players interested in a fast Intermediate team, will be made welcome at this practice. 21-23

TWO MORE INDOOR GAMES

Veterans Win From K. of C. and U-Go-I-Go Nine Defeat Intelligencer.

There was a great contrast between the two games of indoor Baseball played last night at the Armouries, when another double header was run off in this history. The first game, between the G. W. V. A. and the K. of C. was a very closely contested affray, and was anybody's game right up to the last man out. The final score was 9 to 8 for the Veterans.

These teams are very evenly matched, and the result was a see saw exhibition from start to finish.

Cummings who pitched for the Vets was right on last night handing them out in good fashion, and has several strikeouts to his credit. Hurley, for the opposition also pitched his usual steady game, and held the batsmen down very well. "Acky" Ketcheson, Veteran's 1st baseman, pounded out a home run in the 6th inning, touching the plate just as the ball in the nick of time. Both teams gave their respective pitchers good support, although a couple of errors by the K. of C. infield in the closing stages of the game were rather costly. The G. W. V. A. team had only 2 outfielders, playing 8 men to 9. Only six innings were played.

G. W. V. A.—Pearson,2nd b; Newton, c; Bowyer, 3rd b; Ketcheson, 1st b; Manley, rf; Cummings, p; Hinsley, lf; Newberry ss.

K. of C.—Doran, 2nd b; Dewey, lf; D. Whalen, 3rd b; D. Barrett, 1st b; Garvin, cf; Hurley, p; H. Whalen, cf; Hart, rf; Harris, ss.

Ken Colling, umpire at the plate Pat Callaghan on bases.

The second game between the Intelligencer and the U-Go-I-Go nine was a bursteia in nine long scenes, the final score being 25-6 for the U-Go-I-Go aggregation. The U-Go-I-Go sluggers, pounded out the old pill at will, knocking it for a row of Maryland, apple sauce trees.

Two pitchers were used against the onslaught, Lesser starting, and Anderson continuing from the second inning. The boys from the club got a baker's dozen in the second inning, and then had the game on ice. Long fielding everywhere, and inability to hit were the Intell's weaknesses and it might be mentioned that these defects are sufficient to lose any ball game.

Knott, the twirler for the club boys had excellent control, and only a few scattered hits were registered against him. Anderson pitched a nice game, despite the fact that his support was poor, and he had an uphill fight from the start.

The teams in batting order.

U-Go-I-Go—A. Knott, 2nd b; Robinson, c; Blain, rf; W. Knott, p; Baldrey, ss; Callaghan, 3rd b; Stork, c; Chappelle, cf; McDonald, lf.

Intelligencer—Anderson, p; W. Scott, ss; McLeod, 3rd b; L. Mason, 2nd b; Hutchinson, 1st b; J. Mason, 2nd b; Brown, cf; R. Scott, lf; Lesser rf.

Umpire at plate L. Barrett, on bases J. McKenna.

JOE LYNCH GETS A DRAW

Just about a week ago, as we recall, came despatches to the effect that Tris Speaker was favoring a weak ankle and probably would be lost to the Indians for several weeks of the early season. On Friday he made a couple of doubles, drove in the winning runs and speared six flies in the outfield. If he could do that with a bad ankle, why not break both his legs and give him a chance to show something worth while?

Everybody may be kidding the Athletics about their chance for the old flag, but Connie Mack is giving all the raspberry artists the merry ha, ha. Something to this effect:

"Turn over, boys, you're on your back,"

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. W. F. Harris, Bruce Hemesley and family wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for their kindness shown during their recent bereavement, also for the floral tributes received.

ARE WE AS A NATION TO BE BALD, TOOTHLESS AND HAIR?

We're told that baldness is certainly increasing. A splendid beginning has been made in dental hygiene. But defective vision prevails alarmingly.

The Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry recently reported that more than half of our industrial workers are suffering from poor eyesight. Now we are told the same billions of dollars quarter of our school kids.

This visual weakness is only in part due to intensive reading and study, though these, of course, aggravate it.

Our Optometrist makes a most searching examination and is reasonable in his fee.

No better service anywhere!

IN MEMORIAM

LUPENSETTE—In loving memory of Angeline Lupensette, who died in Belleville on April the 22nd, 1918—10 years ago today.

Ten years have passed since that sad day,
When our dear one was called away;
When God called him home, that was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still.
Sadly remembered by his wife and three children, Elizabeth, Joseph and John.

SPEAKS HIGHLY OF THIS HOME MADE COUGH REMEDY

Says It Acts With Unusual Speed—Loosens the Mucus—Relieves the Irritation and Has Given Many Costs Next to Nothing—For a Big Supply.

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough and sneeze, and hawk and breathe heavy, it doesn't take me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time.

It's no secret—anyone can make a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifling sum.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength—so this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it.

But now you've got a real medicine—mind you—the first spoonful you take acts directly on the membrane of the throat and nose, the tickling ceases almost instantly—the inflammation begins to disappear—up comes the stubborn mucus and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that originated you is gone.

Its really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the membranes of the throat so that in one reason it is so helpful to thousands of Catarrh sufferers.

LAW ON GAMBLING IS TALKED OVER

Money Paid by Cheque on Bets Recoverable by Law.

London, April 22.—(By Canadian Press)—So many disputes have arisen over the betting laws and so many cases have been tried in the courts since the famous decision of the House of Lords last fall to the effect that money paid by cheques in respect of betting transactions is legally recoverable by the loser, a recent lecture on "The Law of Gambling" attracted a great deal of interest and caused to make some crooked paths straight. The lecturer, Ward Coleridge, K.C., is a prominent member of the London bar, and Justice Eve, who presided, characterized man's propensity to bet on a horse race as "a harmless, fundamental instinct in human nature." Mr. Coleridge cleverly condensed 300 years' enactments and legal rulings as to wagers into four tabloids as the present standing of the law. These are:—

1. The loser who pays the winner of a wager in cash cannot recover.

2. The loser who pays the winner by cheque can recover from the winner.

3. If the loser gives his agent a cheque to recoup him for a payment which the agent has made to the winner on behalf of the loser the loser cannot recover the amount of the cheque from the agent.

4. Any bona-fide holder for value of a cheque given him for a wagering debt can recover from the drawer, but if he has "got had notice that the cheque is in consideration of a wagering transaction he cannot recover.

Mr. Coleridge began his lecture with references to the restrictive legislation instated in various directions in the reign of Henry VIII., which, though tightened in a staggering extent by Queen Anne in 1710, were still insufficient to stamp out the wagering habits of George II. added to the betting restrictions, and subsequent legislation right down to the present century with its crop of famous cases and contradictory judgments, has been pointed the same way.

Mr. Coleridge made reference to Sutter vs. Briggs, on which the House of Lords gave the decision with regard to the recovery of betting money paid by cheque. This case was since cited by Justice Astbury in another betting transaction which was being tried in court. It was James Sutter, a commission agent, who took the case to the House of Lords in an appeal against a judgment whereby he was ordered to repay S. R. Briggs, a Harringay £50 lost on a bet paid by cheque.

Justice Eve, in responding to a vote of thanks for presiding at Mr. Coleridge's lecture, said: "Many of the undesirable aspects of wagering are due to the way it is hedged about by the charsomans and the cost-bearer will say their little wager, and it would be much better if they were allowed freedom to do so and to pay up if they lose."

REPORT OF NOVA SCOTIA DEPARTMENT OF MINES

Halifax, N.S., April 22.—The Nova Scotia government derives a total of $1,695,317 from the mines of the province last year, according to the annual report of the Department of Mines just issued. The royalty received by the government on the coal production was $586,395. The royalty on the gold production last year was only $417. The balance of the revenue was derived from rentals of the mines, and prospectors' license fees.

The Nova Scotia coal production last year was 5,573,230 tons, compared with 5,497,320 in 1920. The pig iron output was 159,611 tons, compared with 260,566 in 1920 and the steel ingot production was 302,602 tons, compared with 260,000 tons. The crude syn-sum output was 198,594 tons, compared with 174,200 tons. The report gives statistics of the output of thirty three different mineral products.

participation in the conference here, said Poincare, to close the circle which recently threatened to disrupt the conference.

While, the Soviet reply apparently accepts practically all the allied demands, the details of working out the plan and the amounts the Russians may expect in loans to restore their country admittedly present a difficult problem, without any certainty that it can be solved, and thus complete the preliminaries necessary for full recognition.

"What is the Most Economical Life Insurance Policy?"

"THE most economical life insurance policy is, of course, the 'Ordinary Life' policy. You simply pay for protection of your family in the event of your death."

"What is the most economical ordinary life policy?"

"The most economical ordinary life policy in the long run is the profit-participating policy. The profits reduce the cost."

"How much difference in the premium do these profits make?"

"Policyholders in the Mutual Life of Canada who at the age of 35 bought straight-life insurance in 1881 have paid for their protection over a period of forty years, an average of $15 per thousand instead of $20.45.

"The Mutual Life of Canada holds a wide range of profitable long-term Government bonds, municipal bonds and debentures, Government guaranteed railway bonds, first mortgages, etc., etc. These investments yielded an average rate of 6.50% in 1921. Mutual policyholders are thus assured of good profits throughout the terms of these securities, many of which cover long periods of years."

"How are the profits applied?"

"At the option of the policyholder they are applied either to the reduction of premiums or to the purchase of additional insurance, or else paid in cash at fixed periods."

"Do profits apply to other Mutual policies?"

"Certainly. The ten, fifteen, twenty or twenty-five year policies, the endowment policies—all the standard plans except term policies are issued under the profit-sharing plan, unless the insured wants a non-participating policy."

"What are considered to be the leading Canadian mutual life insurance companies?"

"There is only one, but it has over 80,000 policyholders and is regarded as one of the strongest institutions of the Dominion—The Mutual Life of Canada."

VOL. LV. NO. 87. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, APRIL 24, 1922. PRICE TWO CENTS

LLOYD GEORGE SAVES GENOA PARLEY FROM DISRUPTION

Genoa Conference Saved Again By Lloyd George

Genius of the British Premier Has Again Asserted Itself and the Conference Has Once More Settled Itself to the Task of Re-adjusting the Economic Life of Europe — Much Depends Upon French Note.

NO REPLY FROM GERMANY

Genoa, April 24—Once in at to-day the struggling Genoa Conference has been alternating between fears and hopes, and punctuated by political crises which threatened to destroy it, set itself grimly to the task of readjusting the economic life of Europe. The statement by the German delegates that they would not reply to the Allies' second note, because they did not wish to endanger the success of the Conference was received with frankly uttered words of relief.

The French delegation announced to day that it was willing to subscribe to the proposed pact under which the various nations would agree to refrain from agression, provided it was backed by proper guarantees.

Lloyd George, strongly supported by Premier Facta, of Italy, again saved the conference from going to pieces late Saturday afternoon.

Becoming impatient at the continual effort to crises and attempts to hamper the progress of the conference," he is to do with girls' feet. We are putting British Empire threatened to tell the world the reasons and who is responsible for the breaking-up of the conference.

Twenty-four hours after Genoa had spoken, of the tocks Friday the conference met another red Saturday morning and for a short time there was much confusion that there was a general report that the conference would go to pieces before night.

M. Barthou, acting under the instructions of the Paris press and Government, where nationalism has run riot since the Rapallo treaty, sent a note to the conference saying that France was not satisfied with the German answer, and spoke of the "mendacious assertions" of the Germans.

The note came as a complete surprise to the majority at the conference.

The tension was relieved by a laugh caused by statements from the Russians that the French populace was close to past opinions of the Rapallo treaty —not those at present.

Premier Facta used all his efforts to prevent a clash between Barthou and Lloyd George. Finally Lloyd George said:

"I want to get on with the conference, not always discussing crises."

He added that if the trouble continued, he would be compelled to explain to the people of the British Empire and the world the real reasons for the continual delays and who were responsible.

The big and little entente met in the afternoon to consider Barthou's note. Barthou explained France's attitude to Lloyd George. He vigorously protested against the alternative Lloyd George offered the Germans of staying off the committee.

HAMILTON TRACTION STRIKE AVERTED BY LAST MINUTE VOTE

Men Have Agreed to Accept a Cut in Their Wages—Majority of 502 Out of 700 Employees Vote to Compromise.

Hamilton, April 24.—By a majority unions were standing four-square in of 58 votes, the serious strike of 700 the fight, the majority prevailed. Figemployees of the Dominion Power ures given out by representatives of the Transmission Company, which threatened to throw 35,000 local industrial operatives out of work, deprive Beamsville, Grimsby and Oakville of a water supply, tie up suburban radial lines throughout this district and leave Hamilton without a street car service, has been averted.

When the ballots of the members of the three unions involved were counted yesterday morning it was found that the men employed on the suburban radial lines and the steam and electrical engineers employed in the power houses voted almost solidly for refusing to accept the company's offer.

The street railwaymen on the other hand, piled up the majority for acceptance of the offer, and as the three men showed that only 22 employees of the suburban lines and the power house voted in favor of accepting the company's offer.

Acceptance of the company's offer means that the men have consented to take considerably less than was recommended for them by the majority report of the Board of Conciliation. About two months ago the company enforced a general wage reduction of about 4 per cent. Acceptance of the company's offer provides for the employees of the power houses taking wage reductions averaging 6 percent., and the crews of the suburban radial lines and the street railwaymen taking a cut averaging 8 per cent.

MANY ENGINEERS LOCKED OUT

60,000 Men Will be Affected by Order of Employers' Federation.

London, April 24.—The Engineering Employers' Federation have instructed their members to put the lock-out notice into operation, which means that 60,000 men will be idle in a week's time in addition to the 25,000 members of the Amalgamated Engineering Union already out.

Long statements issued to-day by both sides to the dispute show that while there was no difficulty about the principle involved in memorandum of agreement submitted by employers, a quarrel arose over the meaning of the phrase, "material changes," which the employers claimed they were entitled to introduce into workshop practice, pending negotiations.

The unions demanded to know what "material changes" meant and the employers replied that that was a matter for them to decide, and that the representatives of the unions could discuss it with the management after the changes have been introduced.

The employers' statement protests against the suggestion that they want to force the unions to come to terms and declare that they are still desirous of an amicable agreement.

Grand Valley, Ont., April 24.—Flight Captain H. L. Holland, of the Militia Department, Ottawa was killed and Flying Officer Owen, also of Ottawa, was injured when the large military airship in which they were travelling fouled a tree and crashed to the ground. The tragedy occurred at Waldeman, on the Toronto branch of the C.P.R., eight miles from Orangeville and two and a half miles from Grand Valley. Flight Captain Holland, who is in charge of the Ottawa aerodrome, left the Federal capital on Friday with his companion and flew to Camp Borden in a two-seater D.H. Four machine with a Rolls-Royce engine. Between there and four o'clock Sunday afternoon they left Camp Borden for London, where they purposed taking photographs for the Government. They had reached Waldeman about seven o'clock when the motor pump stopped and the airman proceeded to have it repaired. It was their intention to return to Camp Borden after having been delayed by the accident. On the takeoff the plane hit the bough of a tree, about sixty feet in the air, took a nose dive and crashed to the ground.

Flight Captain Holland became unconscious while he was being carried to the nearest house, which was immediately occupied by Flying Lieutenant Owen, although painfully injured, endeavored to extract the body of his companion from the burning debris, but was unsuccessful and the unfortunate officer was burned to death. SPEAKS ON CHILD WELFARE

Public Health Nurse Gives Interesting Address to Belleville Rotarians.

Child welfare was the big topic of discussion at Monday's meeting of the Rotary Club at the Quinte Hotel. Miss Hosier, the public health nurse stationed in the city gave an interesting outline of the work and the importance of its application to the farms and cities of Canada.

The speaker stressed the importance of child welfare work in the pre-school period. She told of the many defects and ailments to which children are liable and under over susceptible. In many cases proper care and inspection would immediately remedy any defects. Neglect of these minor ills led to painful and often serious consequences, said Miss Hosier.

Speaking on the work in Belleville Miss Hosier stressed the necessity of co-operation and help of the parents of the city. She also made a special plea to the merchants of the city to decorate their windows for the Child Welfare week which will get under way next week.

RETURNS FROM BUSINESS TOUR

Secretary of Local Chamber of Commerce Arrived Home Saturday.

Mr. J. O. Hertzy, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, arrived home late Saturday night from a business tour of Massachusetts, Vermont, New York State, and city and New Jersey.

Mr. Hertzy reports that the business men across the line are generally optimistic and the recovery, of unemployment in a most time is quite rapid, but not so rapid in the iron and metal trades.

Spring is very well advanced in Southern New York and northern New Jersey, the fruit trees being out in bloom and the grass growing gradually beginning to come out. As has been the case here in Ontario, there has been quite a few landfalls in those states, with the result that the flat lands are flooded, and the rivers running high. The Hudson river at Albany is overflowing the streets.

After the celebration at Southbridge, Mass., where the Belleville delegation were successful in securing the location of a branch of the American Optical Co. for this city, Mr. Hertzy accompanied Mayor Hanna to New York where a number of important business calls throughout the states mentioned. While running home through New York City, a tremendous, snow storm was encountered, the snow laying on the city streets to a depth of six inches.

PISTOLS POINTED AT COLLINS BY I.R.A. SOLDIERS AT KILLARNEY

Stormy Meeting When Provisional Government Leader Tries to Make a Speech—Reports Say Irish Factions Have Drawn Up Military Agreement.

Dublin, April 24.—The condition of peace. The strike has no fears for Ireland at the present time has made everyone who loved his country pause. Michael Collins so spoke at Killarney, Saturday in the face of open by veiled threats by members of the Irish Republican army that he had better not do so. He continued:

"Ireland is ours. We mean to have it for the Irish, to develop and restore her again to a position among the nations. We'll not tolerate anarchy from the outside and we must not have disruption from within. We will not allow anyone to deprive us of the freedom and security we have won."

Reports from Killarney say, that while Mr. Collins spoke a score or so of revolvers were pointed at him. None of them were discharged, however.

With the general strike for fifteen hours, scheduled for 2 o'clock on Monday, as a protest to actions by the military, there are no signs of the mailmens, as they are going everywhere who loved his country. It is admitted, however, that the mailmen's will suffer if the strike is entirely successful. It is generally admitted that the loyal faction of the army is much better off in the way of supplies than the O'Connor followers.

London.—An agreement has been signed between the military leaders of the Republican and Free State forces in Ireland, says a despatch to the London Gazette from Dublin, which will constitute the basis for peaceful arrangements in connection with the future policy of both sides and profoundly influence events in Southern Ireland for a time.

The correspondent says he understands that hostilities between the two factions will end, though the political issue between the two parties is not affected.

Music and Drama

MALLY REID IN "THE HELL DIGGERS" AT REGENT

Wallace Reid motored almost the length of California to make the exterior scenes of his new Paramount picture, "The Hell Diggers," the story and scenario of which are by Byron Morgan, and which is the Eastern distribution of the August to-night to Wednesday, matinee daily.

Mr. Reid appears as Teddy Darman, construction superintendent of the Continental Gold Dredging Company, operating the enormous dredges called "Hell Diggers." This is one of those red-blooded roles such as he played in "The Valley of the Giants" and it is said to give him a fine opportunity for the display of those typical characteristics in acting which have made him so popular—his thorough humanness, undiluterate Americanism and vigorous young manhood.

There is plenty of excitement in the story, and the author has made careful study at first of the local conditions and the work of the dredging companies. So that aside from the story interest the picture will be an object lesson in the modern pursuit of wealth, as contrasted with the primitive methods of mining the ore. A "reel" Chester "Snooks" Monkey comedy, the latest chapter of the daring adventure play "Fighting Fate," and Pathe Review will be exhibited on the same program.

REX STOCK COMPANY AT GRIFFITH'S TONIGHT IN "THE PRICE SHE PAID"

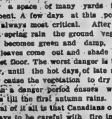

The Rex Stock Company are appearing at Griffith's to-night to Wednesday in "The Price She Paid," a feature human interest drama brimful of comedy. The comedy characters in the play are in the capable hands of William Yale and Florence Waters. Bill plays the part of a young ship-jumping chap who has Mona in love, he he could only get some of the Captain's of industry to listen to them; and Miss Waters plays the part of his admiring young wife.

Her appears as the successful man of the world, a role different from anything he has so far played here, and the part gives him ample scope to show his versatility.

In the role of the Butterfly wife, who has ideas of her own about home and marriage Zada Vaudh has a role which gives her an opportunity for some fine acting, besides look very beautiful in several new creations direct from New York.

SPRING AND SUMMER FOREST FIRES

There are usually two periods of fire-hazard in the Canadian forests. In early spring just after the snow disappears, and in late summer, when the vegetation has begun to get dry. Exceptional seasons vary these periods but the two classes of "spring fires" and "summer fires" remain. Many people understand why the dry hot period of late summer is likely to be favourable to the starting of forest fires but they think that, after the heavy snowfall of winter, the woods ought to be safe till early summer at least. A little reflection, however, will show why the early spring period is particularly dangerous. In early spring there is often a short period of hot, bright days. The leaves have not yet come out and the sun shines down through the leafless branches directly on the forest floor. The snow disappears as if by magic and the dead twigs and last year's leaves become dry as tinder. If a glowing match or cigarette stub is dropped among this material the forest floor is almost over a space of many yards in a moment. A few days at this period are always most critical. After the first spring rain the ground vegetation becomes green and damp, and the leaves come out and shade the forest floor. The worst danger is then over, until the hot days of late summer cause the vegetation to dry out, when a danger period ensues which lasts till the first autumn rains. The moral of it all is that Canadians ought always to be careful with fire in the forest and, doubly careful during these danger periods.

PRECEDENT FOR ANTIGONISH CASE

Tell Dr. Prince Story of Mariner's Experience With Apparition.

Halifax, April 22.—One of the stories of the "Unknown" which were told during the recent Antigonish County manifestations at Caledonia Mills and while Dr. Franklin Prince of New York, of the American Society of Psychical Research was conducting his investigations into the mysteries, was that which concerned Captain George A. Hatfield, well-known deep-sea mariner of Parrsboro N.S.

In the spring of 1876 Captain Hatfield left Cienfuegos, Cuba, in the barque J. T. Smith, bound for Boston with a load of sugar. On the night of April 20, with the weather clear and the wind favorable, Captain Hatfield returned, leaving the mate in charge of the ship. He had been sleeping for some time when he was suddenly awakened by what seemed to be a man shaking him by the right shoulder and telling him to keep the vessel off one quarter of a point. Aroused from his slumber the Captain saw a man disappearing through the cabin door. Thinking it was the mate he went on deck and questioned him, but the mate expressing much surprise, assured him that he had not been in the cabin.

By this time a thunderstorm had suddenly burst upon the ship and still from a favorable quarter. Captain Hatfield went below and was soon asleep. The same messenger as before awoke him and he was able to distinguish, before the visitor disappeared on deck, that it was a man in a gray suit and wore a white straw hat. When the Captain went again on deck no sign could be seen of the stranger.

Captain Hatfield went below sleep and to waking, this time, fell asleep. Again he was wakened by the apparition. It was then about midnight and the storm had abated. The skipper determined to head the thrice given message and had his vessel's course changer one quarter of a point and gave order for a sharp lookout as the Florida coast was being near ed.

On the following day at noon the lookout sighted what he thought to be a lighthouse. Captain Hatfield thought that none should be near and ran for the object. It was soon seen to be a schooner waterlogged and sinking and on closer approach was found to be the American schooner D. Talbot. A boat was sent to her and Captain Amesbury of the distracted vessel, his wife and young son and several of a crew were taken off. Within a short time the disabled schooner sank.

When Captain Hatfield told of his dream Captain and Mrs. Amesbury, the latter confidently stated that she believed the apparition to have been that of her father. As a memento of the rescue Captain Hatfield carries a valuable gold watch with the following inscription:

"Presented by the President of the United States to Captain George A. Hatfield, of the British barque J. T. Smith, Parrsboro, N.S., for humanity and courage in the rescue of the crew of the sinking American schooner D. Talbot, April 21, 1876."

"ANGEL OF SIBERIA BUYS WAR REFUGE

Miss Brandstrom Buys This Home for Human War Wrecks.

Stockholm, April 24.—A refuge of rest and physical rehabilitation where the human wrecks of German war prisoners from Russia and Siberia may be treated and salvaged is being purchased by Miss Elsa Brandstrom, born in thoroughly Central Europe and Russia as "the Angel of Siberia."

Miss Brandstrom is negotiating for a village in southern Germany which she proposes to turn into a human reclamation camp for the derelicts that once proudly marched under Hindenburg and other Teutonic military leaders against the Russians and were captured and sent to Siberian concentration camps.

They remained in Siberia till long after the world war was over and there are still thousands of them left, free to return home if they could. But they have neither the means nor the physical strength to do so.

Miss Brandstrom is a young Swedish Red Cross nurse, the daughter of the late General Edvard Brandstrom, for many years Swedish Minister to Russia under the Czar's regime. Leaving her comfortable home in Stockholm and the aristocratic social set in which she had been brought up, she led a small Red Cross expedition into Western Siberia and has succeeded in repatriating thousands of German and Austrian war prisoners.

But she found that when the former soldiers reached their homes they were unable to assume their former places in society. They were wrecks that had to be altered to.

So she has collected a considerable fund and hopes to purchase a village and have it ready for occupancy this autumn.

As to the war prisoners still wandering about North and Siberia, many of them will never be found, and none of them will ever be able to get back without outside aid. Miss Brandstrom proposes to continue rounding up these waifs and bring them to her haven of rest.

RUSSIA SIGNS VOLUNTARY TREATIES

Seventy-Five Voluntary Treaties Have Already Been Signed.

Moscow, April 21.—Soviet Russia, despite its isolation, has signed 75 commissionary treaties, agreements and concessions with foreign powers since the revolution of 1917, it is announced by an official state publication recounting the progress made by the Bolsheviki toward world recognition. This list does not include three completed conventions, such as treaty of Brest-Litovsk, which were concluded under duress.

The treaties are arranged in three groups, the first of which were concluded with the so-called independent Soviet republics, the second with states bordering on Russia, and the third with states of Western Russia, including England and France.

The only agreement between Soviet Russia and the United States is the note signed last August with the American Relief Administration for the feeding of Russia's starving millions in the famine districts.

Twenty-one treaties are embraced in the first group between the Soviet and Armenia, Azerbai jan, Bukhara, Georgia, Ukraine, White Russia and the Far Eastern Republic." In general, according to the official publication, these alliances provide for the unification of various departments of the several governments with Russia.

Treaties between the Soviets and the border states comprise 21 agreements concluded with Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, Turkey, Afghanistan, Mongolia and Persia. The most important of these, the publication declares, is the treaty with Persia, which provides that Russia may send armed forces into Persian territory should a hostile nation at any time attempt to attack the Soviet from that quarter.

Repatriation of military and civil prisoners and re-establishment of trade are dealt with almost exclusively in the third group. Trade agreements have been concluded between Soviet Russia and England, France, Germany, Sweden, Norway and Italy, as well as agreements of one kind or another with Austria, Belgium and Hungary.

Get the Cream of the Trade

"What lovely styles! How do you manage to get all them, delightful novelties?" said the new customer as she looked around her.

"I got tired of seeing my customers boarding the trains to buy elsewhere, just because I didn't have some novelty that was being advertised."

"Whenever a new style makes a decided hit, the wholesaler or manufacturer's salesman calls me on Long Distance, and tells me about it, and I order a few."

"I haven't seen prettier veils, smarter stockings or gloves, georgette-crêpes or ginghams anywhere. And I see you have the new music, too. How perfectly splendid. They leave me no excuse at all for going up to town to buy."

That's just one of the many things Long Distance does for small-town merchants, enabling Dry Goods, Hardware, Grocery, Paint and Shoe Stores to obtain new styles promptly and enter to the progressive people in their town — the cream of the trade.

ON the floor of the dark touring car he found the dagger—a long, thin-bladed dagger—an ornament rather than a weapon—with an odd, fanciful hilt. There were stains upon the polished steel. And into his mind came the thought of the girl with the silver dagger in her hat. It was Phillip Severn who found the folded slip of paper in the false bottom of the lacquered jewel box, and that was the beginning of everything.

Here is a serial in Mr. Parrish's best style, adventure treading on the heels of adventure through a thrilling maze of mystery to an entirely satisfactory conclusion.

Letters of French Heroes

One of the most touching documents to come out of the war has recently been published in France. It is called "The Last Letters," and is a collection of letters written home by French soldiers just before they met their death. Several hundred of these letters were brought before a committee and several score of the most moving were selected. These have been issued in book form with an introduction by Marshal Foch, who writes, "The sacrifice of all these soldiers who fell in defence of France was all the more sublime in that it was made voluntarily. The last letters give us a touching fashion the idealistic and pure spirit in which the sacrifice was made. They are one more monument to the imperishable story of the French soldier." We can see that we do not understand what the marshal means by the word "voluntarily." So far as the writers of the particular letters are concerned they may have died cheerfully or proudly, but surely they had no choice but to go where they were ordered and meet death where it came to them. The French soldiers were glorious, but they were not volunteers.

The letters are for the most part very brief, and most of them were hay written in a few moments snatched before an advance, and are accompanied by notes as to the author and the circumstances of his death. Most of them were written in the knowledge that they would not be posted unless the writer had been killed. They begin and end abruptly, many of these letters. "Dear Mother, If this letter is handed to you it will mean I am no longer alive," or a note to be sent to his family will state that he has been killed. Please tell mother." One lieutenant wrote, "Dear Mother, remember that you must not cry. Remember, above all, that I am a Frenchman and that the death I die is the most glorious of deaths. You must be proud of me, for I shall have done my duty. I wish to die facing the enemy, not down in a trench." This letter strikes us as the letter of a young soldier who had been influenced by romantic fiction, but since the French are more like that than the British—

One that rings true is in the form of a will which a private soldier wrote to his mother, and addressed before going to his death:

"I forgive all those who have done me harm, and thank all those who have done me good. Please ask forgiveness from all my family for whatever pain I may have caused them. I do not wish that my death be the end of my line. I wish her to marry somebody who will love her as I have loved her. I wish that my body or the fragments of my body be taken to the little cemetery of Jardres and buried near those who were dear to me and that the flowers which I tried above other flowers be planted on my grave. But perhaps I shall fall between the lines where rats and crows will fight for my remains, in which case I shall be buried in the common pit. It is my wish that those who think kindly of me now and then think of me as one who desired to live and who died in this war which destroys me in the flower of health and strength, before I knew life."

There is one letter from an American:

"This evening I go to the front, bald-headed row, so to speak. If you receive these items you will know that never again will you see your youngest son. I am praying to die in a way that will make you proud. Though many leagues separate us, brother dear, I see you plainly. I hear your laughter; I feel your great love for me. Well, let us hope that 14 years to come this letter will amuse us."

One young Frenchman wrote to his parents: "I am going to be killed, for I am a soldier. That is my whole fortune." Another said: "If by misfortune you will find on my Croix de Guerre, the only precious thing that you will inherit from me." Another had written: "The chaplain has told me that I am going to die, and I have no doubt as to the salvation of those who fall doing their duty, for whom then is paradise, if not for them?" Another wrote recently: "It is not very gay to die when one is 32 years old, but I shall have done my duty."

The French spirit spoke with its innate courtesy and its unconquerable gayety in a letter found on the body of a soldier whose house some French soldiers had barricaded themselves in resist the Germans in advance. A shell struck it, killing every one of them. The German officer who prayed had framed the following letter:

"Dear Sir and Madam; Dear Allies. We are fifteen brave French soldiers barricaded in your house. We have entered it in a hurry and have been obliged to cause some damage. We greatly regret it, but our own sakes, but we could not act otherwise. Before dying for France and for Belgium we beg you to accept our re-expressions of regret, and salute you."

DO WOMEN WORK AS HARD AS MEN?

Yes. And They Must Keep Well and Strong

Two Interesting Letters

Toronto, Ontario.—"When my husband was called back to England in 1914 I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to strengthen me so I could work. I had a trouble that used to make me weak, but I am able to do my work now and am perfectly well after two years' medicine. I still get it at the chemist's and I strongly recommend it to anybody I hear of suffering as I did. You may publish this if you wish."—Mrs. E. Hoskinowen, 339 Tonge St., Toronto, Ontario.

I Did Not Feel Like Working

"I was in a general run-down condition with a weak back and a tired feeling so that I did not feel like working. My mother was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and recommended it to me, and I have taken it and my back is better and I am now able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my neighbors and you may use this my letter."—Mrs. Josephine Gagnon, Box 57, Carbon, Alberta.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity of periods, that forewarn more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial.

UNPUBLISHED TERMS OF THE RUSSO-GERMAN TREATY

London, April 22.—According to a despatch in the Daily Mail Copenhagen correspondent, unpublished clauses in the Russo-German treaty provides among other things that Germany will maintain 4,000 Russian prisoners now in Germany to return to Russia as slaves as long as that country shall prohibit unions of Czarist officers and supress all counter-revolutionary organizations in Germany. That Germany shall not allow armaments to pass from Germany into Poland, Roumania or the Baltic States. Russia on her part, according to the despatch, shall grant the Krupps a concession in Ekaterinoslav and other materials in a number of factories in Russia.

PLAN A NEW INDUSTRY

SILK PRODUCTION IN ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

Five Hundred Mulberry Trees Suited to Requirements of the Silk Worm Were Planted in Middlesex County Last Fall on Early Attempts Met With Success In a Small Way.

The silk industry dates back to Si Ling-Chi, Empress of China, twenty centuries before the birth of Christ. This queen was said to have been walking in her garden and noticed a wild silk worm winding itself in a mulberry web. The threads of the web were unwound and delicately woven into fabrics. For centuries it remained a closely guarded secret in China and silk was literally worth its weight in gold.

About 1600 A.D. King Lavon, of Armenia, sent two Ministers to China by way of Persia. They posed as missionaries and after living among the Chinese for two years they were successful in hiding some seeds of the silk tree and some eggs of the silk worm in hollow walking canes. They then returned to their own country and soon the industry was established in Armenia. From Armenia silk culture was introduced into Syria, Persia, India, and other oriental countries.

About 1247 the first mulberry tree was planted in France. It was stated to have been brought in 1310, near the town of Montmellart. For five centuries little progress was made but in the reign of Henry IV. liberal grants were made to the industry and since it has become one of the chief industries of France. According to records the silk industry was carried on in Southern States before the Civil War.

Owing to a wonderful discovery made by Dr. Yves Delage, a native of Armenia, the industry is being revived on a large scale and has also spread to Canada. Dr. Oulgian is a native of a town that has been engaged in the industry for over seven hundred years. He has discovered that by a certain process of feeding, the silk worm spends one-third less time in the cocoon, and silk worms may be reared in the open, producing 1,800 yards of silk to the cocoon.

By experimenting a tree has been discovered to be adapted to the climate of Canada. It bears no seed or fruit, being grown solely for the leaf, and is the result of very careful grafting of mulberry cuttings on orange orange roots.

In the cultivation of the silk-house are 4,000,000 eggs of the silk moth, which are kept in cold storage, retaining life indefinitely, until needed, when they are placed to the heat of an ordinary summer day (75 to 85 degrees.) in three days they begin to hatch. They are fed for four or four days longer until all the worms are out. When the hatching is over the worms are spread on trays, three inches deep and fifteen feet square, lined with the large leaves of the new mulberry tree.

The first thing the worm develops is a voracious appetite. The worms eat for five days and nights, without cessation, and then sleep from 24 to 24 hours. Waking from their first nap they shed their skins, and continue to eat, sleeping after feeding and shedding for 17 days. During the last stage of the larvae they feeding passes away and the worm eats continuously for 10 days, it is his feeding that the worm is made to produce the colored silken.

On the twenty-fifth day of its short life, the worm starts to spin in the cocoon. The liquid silk is given off through the glands which cross the lenses of the body, with an opening on each side of the mouth, the worm turns the two little streams of liquid silk into the fiber which we know as silk. It is covered by its own body. Now the industry has advanced so that the cocoons are all colors and no dyes are required, the fiber being ready to reel for the goods. After the worm has sealed himself in the cocoon, carbon bi-sulphide is passed through the cocoons which have been killed with pain, the largest and best cocoons being kept for production of moths. The cocoons are placed in the open and the ends of the strand from each adheres to the next. The worm uses the first spindles to be spun later into the silk of commerce. The cocoons with the moths that are saved to lay the eggs are pierced, and the moths escape to reproduce themselves and they live but a few days. The moth lays about 300 eggs.

The Ontario and Quebec trees are very hardy and withstand severe frosts. These silk trees can also be used as shade trees in cities, as they will easily grow from 20 to 30 feet high if not pruned. Along the Nile there are splendid dustbreaks as the leaves are used by the silk worm.

Silk has been grown in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces for the last twenty years, but the industry is now on a commercial basis. Mr. Oates, of Toronto, has had several growers engaged in the industry for four years, but they were using the ordinary silk worm and securing only one crop of cocoons per year. Recognizing what may be accomplished by Dr. Delage's discovery, he has ordered 200,000 of the Armenian silk trees.

The labor required for the silk industry is principally that of the boys and girls, as the only actual work is the picking of the leaves and carrying them in to the silk worms. The women do the rest, by manufacturing the leaf into silk, doing it up in a neat little packages and sowing the seed for another crop. When the silk worms have completed spinning their cocoons, the twigs which contain these are taken from the racks and shelves, and the cocoons fall to the floor. They are then shoveled into bags and the supplies for a $4,000 crop may be harvested by one man in a day.

LET US TALK HEALTH

By BYRON STAUFFER.

I shall leave the room until you have done talking about all your sick friends and relatives. I haven't any time to waste on how George Williams had his gizzard photographed three times before they found a growth of how they carved out a piece of his third rib. P gler in the surgeon's ability to perform these miracles, but decline to allow laymen to discuss them at length.

I go on the principle, proclaimed by Mark Twain, that the less a man knows about his insides the better. The first time that you heard that you owned an appendix, what did you do? Held your right side all evening, giving it occasional pauch to encourage the imaginary pain that you sure signified appendicitis. Pay your treat in physician, healey osteopath, chiropractor or castor oil, as may suite your taste. And let it go at that.

A proud mother called me to tiptoe into the living room to listen to her five-year-old and the visiting girl play housekeeping. The latter was the lady caller and she came in with a polite ring at the door. The tiny hostess made her sit in the easy chair and started the conversation by asking, "And how is all your cross Mrs. Jones?" "Oho, pretty well, Mrs. Brown," answered the James lady, promptly entering into the spirit of flicenesy that's goin' round." "Isn't it dreful!" lamented Mrs. Brown. "I've had to sacrifice all week and I just has to keep Allie and Benny from school for fear they'd give them to the teacher." "Yes, I guess we had a worse time as you, Mrs. Brown," replied Mrs. Jones, "for I never closed my eyes for three nights and I'd only had time here with camfornated oil." After viewing with each other with a few more similar remarks, the ladies, Mrs. Jones announced with true adult earnestness that she had to go and, as she gravely shook hands, she added: "Tell your mother would, after such a confab, "I've had such a lovely time." Of course you come to think of it, what a large part of social conversation among women—certain sorts of women at the chit-chat about sickness and disease occupies! Rarely health; always sickness. If only they would sometimes vary it by discussing how fare they ought to walk in the park, or at what temperature a room should be kept, or ventilation or diet. But, no, there must be prolonged explanations as to the five symptoms; the struggle against the persistent for, the solemn statement of the doctor, the orders and visits, the agony of succeeding days and the slow recovery.

My friend Dan Dawkins decides how many years he will survive by the number of street lights in a block or each total of stations he passes, from Toronto to Stafford. Or he will add up the ages his grandparents and parents reached, divide by six and arrive at his own expectancy. The date of his death is constantly a matter of solicitious speculation. So it was with keener that he discovered a card peeping out from the edge of the top of the manuel reading, "Dr. Dawkins expires 12 Oct., 1923." He looked again; there was absolutely no mistake about it; it was as plain as ink, "expires" in small black type, the date in taller, duller characters. He rushed for the card, but in doing so he moved the mantel slightly and down dropped the fine pasteboard behind the fireplace.

Worried him? Well, I should say it did! All morning he fretted between resistance at the fore. Then, upwelling room, Deacon Dredge came in and Dan just couldn't refrain from asking the deacon

THE STATE OF IRELAND.

Notwithstanding many exciting rumors, the predicted Easter trouble in Ireland did not occur and no serious disorders were reported. Nevertheless, the situation seems to have become acute, according to the statements of Michael Collins, the head of the Provisional Government, which describe the issue as one between ordered government and anarchy. Put in that way, it is not possible to believe that the people will not rally to his support.

The Easter message of de Valera was calculated to have a disturbing effect on the public mind. How far this has turned out to be so it is too soon to judge. It is quite time, though, to condemn the conduct of de Valera as that of a fanatic who has no love of country, if, indeed, he has a country. It is significant that Mr. Collins held his Sligo demonstration in peace and was greeted with enthusiasm en route. There are not wanting signs to show that the provisional government possesses the confidence of the great majority of the people and with time this will be amply proved.

"COMPLETE RESTORATION"

Premier Lloyd George speaks most confidently of the outcome of the Genoa conference. "I was confident before I came here," he told press representatives, "and my confidence has grown, despite all the difficulties which have arisen. I have no hesitation in saying that this conference will end in complete restoration of the harmony of Europe." Having saved the conference from disruption at the hands of Germany and Russia, the Premier is entitled to exult; yet there are some who believe his jubilation to be a little artificial, and that he is not really so optimistic as he appears to be. Yet, after all, is there not ample cause for taking a hopeful view? Germany is a past mistress in the art of bluff and her treaty with Russia, in existing circumstances, is largely in the nature of bluff. We regret to say that the economic arrangement concluded between the two countries is but a part of the story; it is reported from Rome that a secret offensive and defensive military alliance has already been signed between Germany and Russia.

If the Russo-German agreement really has military significance, the allies still hold the whip hand. Without the help of the allied countries both Germany and Russia are impotent. Germany is virtually bankrupt as it is, and could be squeezed still harder if she proves refractory. As for Russia, she is absolutely prostrate and cannot be set upon her feet by a bankrupt and avaricious country. The treaty of Versailles is the allies' safeguard. In the meantime the German reply to the allied note is reported to be "conciliatory," and Russia agrees to recognize her pre-war debts, admitting, moreover, that "foreign financial help is absolutely essential to reconstruction in Russia." There would, therefore, seem to be ample justification for Premier Lloyd George's optimism.

PROGRESS IN AVIATION.

Recent fatalities in aviation, including the death of the intrepid Sir Ross Smith, who achieved a successful flight from London to Australia, have caused considerable comment on the perils of the air. The undoubtedly young science has certainly claimed many victims, as every new effort of human endeavor must in its initial stages. But the ratio is not so large as the great hazards might indicate. Statistics from the Texas channel of Government flying fields show that out of 1,500 finished fliers graduated and sent to the western front during the war only 106 lost their lives, most of them in doing "stunts" or acrobatics which military aviators are required to learn. This record is remarkable, in view of the risks by which all flights are beset.

The airplane engine is rapidly nearing a point where it is as dependable as the tides. The Portuguese aviators who are attempting a flight from Portugal to Brazil covered 2,400 miles of the trans-Atlantic voyage without mishap, against prevailing winds, showing the remarkable perfection of their machine, which was finally damaged at St. Paul Rocks through bad landing facilities, a few hundred miles short of their goal. With the development of landing stations and signal devices ocean voyages may easily be made comparatively safe.

PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN

Calgary Albertan

There are three or four very good reasons for delaying a referendum on the liquor question. The first is that we have had votes on this question fairly regularly. We had a vote not long ago conducted by the Dominion, which, although upon quite a different question, fairly represented the wishes of the people on the question that would be submitted.

KU KLU BEWARE!

The Ku Klux Klan threatens to come across the Niagara River, kidnap the negro Bullock, who is fighting extradition in Hamilton and take him back to punishment. If the Ku Klux Klan sets foot in this country it will have to be a very neat organization if it gets away with its own members not including any baggage it may try to pick up after crossing the line.

"SQUANDERMANIA"

Ottawa Journal

The most amazing thing about the whole matter is that the squandermania and taxing spree of the Provincial Government do not stir the public to greater indignation. While it is the people and not the corporations who pay the taxes, Mr. Smith is perfectly justified in concluding that since the tax bills are not sent o the people direct he has a fair chance of getting away with increasing that almost double the volume of taxes in three years. Mr. Smith in the legislature did not even trouble himself to explain where the increases were to come from, so little does he think the public cares.

"APRIL BOY"

April in the Country
Is a lark;
Breeze skim and hedgehogs grim
All catch her pace,

April in the City
Is a lad;
Mischief-loving, smutty-cheeked,
No Galahad!

Yet I love this City April!
Love his slender, tinkling laughter
And the tears that trickle after;
Feet and darling as a sparrow,
Build, unsparing as an arrow;
Arrogant as any Kaiser,
Pulling pout at hoops, the poorest
Rebel and crowns splendidly.
Lillies, golden hearted, slender
Weeds, all wet and gleaming,
Setting bachelors a-dreaming;
Pansies, wee companions facing
Smiling in the strangest places!

How I love you, City April!
Love your very cruelty,
Poking fun at life and me;
Love each glancing mood and whim,
Boyish chuckle, slender limb;
All your windy, braggart ways
Real your sudden painless days;
Love your restless, fragrant nights,
And your sudden, painful days;
Love the steaming streets,
Till the million marching feet
Beat a dancing, glancing measure
Sweet as June, this April tune!

Smell the season's divers scents,
Dazzling and circus scents;
New buds in the park, Spring-sweet,
Steam and rain and asphalt street;
Everywhere I look I see
April bloom and witchery,
All your wonder, all your joy,
Caught from Eden, April Boy!

Muddy feet and eyes like flowers,
Wit with swift, impertinent showers,
Everywhere you go that Boy is,
Sweet, ironic, wild as Joy is!

No more question than a comet,
No more purpose than a toy,
Like a flare of flower lightning,
Puckish, Pauline, Pacific April Boy!

A Laugh or Two

Poor Hubby

A bad tempered woman was being cross-examined. Her husband, obviously the weaker vessel, listened sheepishly.

The opposing counsel pressed a certain question rather urgently, and she said angrily: "You needn't try to catch me. You tried that once before."

The barrister said: "Madam, I have not the slightest desire to catch you, and your husband looks as if he were sorry he did!"

"I am very sorry that I did not get acquainted with you until I had become a widower," said a gallant suitor to his second wife, with whom he does not live very happily.

"What do you mean by that?" asked the partner of his joys.

"Nothing, except that I had much rather that you had been my first wife," replied the fond husband, carelessly.

Why do you wish that I had been your first wife?"

Because some other woman would be my present wife."

Young woman (holding out her hand): "Will you please tell me how to pronounce the name of the stone in this ring? Is it turkoise or turkwoise?"

Jeweller (after inspecting it): "The correct pronunciation is 'glass'."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—In a recent issue of The Mail and Empire I noticed an item stating that the municipality of Swift Current had spent, enough to have placed on it, a tax rate of 36 mills. This Mail and Empire labels "monstrous," which I think is the proper term to apply in this case. In this connection I think I am warranted in predicting that unless the Belleville Council adopts a policy of judicious economy in connection with Municipal affairs very soon, we will eventually have to strike tax rates that should be a disgrace to any civilized community. In fact I feel that this is our condition today and the signs at present indicate that we will grow worse in this direction. We are, apparently, floating on a similar "current" as is being navigated by the place above mentioned, but perhaps not quite so "swift." Nevertheless we are gradually getting there, much more rapidly than good business methods require. Three and a half months of the present year have gone by and no movement has yet been made in the direction of real retrenchment worthy of the name by our city council, as a body, this year, excepting that in two or three minor instances, tenders were asked for, resulting in the cost of the service in each case being considerably reduced, and if the same principles were applied in other directions a large amount of money could be saved to the ratepayers.

Alderman Ostrom claimed that our civic officials were very efficient servants and that therefore their salaries should not be cut down, not even to the extent of the war bonuses being cut off notwithstanding the fact that the cost of living has been very materially reduced. I concede that the corporation officials are, speaking generally, quite efficient, and this being the case, why not show it by the city's expense, by offering places to get pointers for the purpose of making them more proficient? One of these officials has been lauded to the skies for efficiency and for being the most expert official the city has ever engaged for the office he fills. Then why should the city throw away money in order to help a man to become efficient who is already enjoying this status to a very high degree? I understand that both the officials who have been sent away at the city's expense are doing their work in a very satisfactory manner, so what more is required?

BRITISH INDUSTRIAL ADVANCES

A a recent trade exhibition in Great Britain there were several proofs that British production is successfully attending into fields where other countries once claimed something like a monopoly. (There was a wonderful exhibit, for example, of chemicals and dyes in addition to an excellent range of chemicals for medicinal and research purposes. Many of these products are the results of co-operation on the part of British chemical manufacturers. Evidence was also given that British firms are able to supply the film industry with everything required for the making of pictures, including the latest up-to-date projector lenses. One exhibitor in fact showed what was claimed to be the largest commercial lense yet produced.

Gentlemen:-

In considering our advertising media, we have made a careful analysis of each class, and after several years of continuous effort, we have demonstrated to our satisfaction that for Canadian merchandising the daily newspapers are the basic media through which to educate the users of a product that is sold to the masses.

We feel that the daily newspaper is just as essential to our merchandising as is our sales force and our direct dealer work, for through it we are enabled to tell our story to those whom we desire to reach, at a smaller per capita cost than is possible through any other media, and by mass selling, it has enabled us to reduce our prices.

Manufacturing the highest standard of quality and backing it with our entire organization for performance, we feel that the daily newspaper has been only secondary to these factors in its importance in gaining for Champion Dependable Spark Plugs the enviable position of market domination.

Needless to say, we expect to continue to place daily newspapers first on our lists of media.

Yours very truly,

CHAMPION SPARK PLUG CO. of Canada Limited,
L. B. Sissell
Vice-President & General Manager.

High testimony, this, from the makers of Champion Spark Plugs. They say that Daily Newspaper Advertising has been second only to the factors of organization and management in securing for them domination of the Canadian market for Champion Spark Plugs.

What more convincing testimony could there be to the all powerful influence of Daily Newspaper Advertising?

BLOUSE HAS CALL!

Fancyitian Shown Suits Means Demand for Waists.

Colored Batiste, Dimity and Gingham Are Used—They Pin Tucks Are Featured.

With the marked favoritism which is being shown the separate blouse this season and for spring, blouse manufacturers specializing in cotton waists are anticipating a big business, many a fashion writer.

Among the fabrics stressed is colored batiste, bisque of this heather blending the soft colleen and the color of white. The contrast of the rose or sky blue blouse proper with the white collar and cuffs is most appealing. Some of the collars feature hand-drawn work and hand stitching, while the bodice sections are both plain and tucked.

With color a prime factor in spring fashionists it is only fitting that gingham should be offered in pretty clear shades. Colored dimities are also in high favor, and in this collection are accorded varied treatment. Some front effects are well liked, while others are entirely tailored. Plaited edges are employed in the collar, cuff and bodice effects of dark red and reputation is observed in sheerly tailored waists, while the neutral shades blend in this manner in most attractive.

Gingham, in a medium size chosen for a blouse of this type, is also treated in a most attractive manner with stunty. The plaid is sewed in such close opposition to the black and white and red and white green and white and black and white.

The gingham forms edgings for collars and cuffs, and also serves as a finish for yoke, descending and other sections of the blouse. An all-dimity blouse, now in white, has collar and cuffs of interesting color, showing pinstripes of lavender, with finest of pin tucks being seen for the persons.

In the silk numbers which this season is showing radium silks and pongee are the materials stressed, and it is recognized that pongee is for particularly high favor with buyers. The introduction of or shell edge is noteworthy, and adds a "good touch" to many models. The rather numerous shades are quite cosmopolitan, the most new effected through the black touches.

WHAT CAN BE COOKED WITH BUTTERMILK?

Now and then I receive a letter from one of my readers asking what can be cooked with buttermilk. The following recipes may prove of use to these interested:

Buttermilk Muffins: 1 pint buttermilk, 3 cups coarse whole wheat flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg. Beat the egg until light, then combine it with the buttermilk and beat slowly into the dry ingredients. Pour into hot, well greased gem rings and bake slowly for 40 minutes.

Buttermilk Corn Cakes: ½ cup buttermilk, ½ cup dark molasses, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 2 teaspoons soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon of ginger, and flour to make thick batter. Bake in buttered buttermilk, molasses, sugar, melted butter, ginger and soda and beat until well mixed, then add flour to make consistency of thick batter. Drop by spoonfuls into the bottom of oiled muffin rings and bake in a hot oven.

Apple Pie Pudding: 2 cups sour milk, 2 eggs, ½ cup buttermilk, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind of ½ lemon, 1-2 cup of sugar, 2 teaspoons of corn starch. Beat the yolks of the eggs with the sugar, add the buttermilk, the lemon and the cornstarch. Pour this mixture into a baking dish and set in the oven in a pan of hot water. When set, cover with a meringue made of the whites of the two eggs and 4 tablespoons of sugar beaten together until thick. Let brown in oven. Then remove from the hot water and cool before serving.

Buttermilk Chocolate Cake: 2 eggs, 1-2 cup butter, 1½ cup sugar, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, ½ cup buttermilk, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 cup flour, 1½ teaspoon baking powder and a few drops of vanilla. Cream the butter and sugar together and add the yolks of the eggs; next add the melted chocolate and the flavoring. Dissolve the soda in the buttermilk and stir this into the first mixture, alternately with the flour. Last, add the stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in a loaf cake pan, or in two layer cake tins. Put cold icing together with a cream, chocolate, or marshmallow filling.

Buttermilk Griddle Cakes: 1 pint buttermilk, 1 cup sweet milk, 1 cup bread crumbs, ½ cup flour, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons sugar. Soak the bread crumbs in the buttermilk for a few hours, then beat until smooth. Add the egg yolks to all the other ingredients mentioned except the egg whites and add this mixture to the bread crumbs; mix well and lastly, add the egg whites stiffly beaten. A little flour may be added if the batter is too thin; or a little sweet milk, if the batter is too thick (it is apt to vary in consistency owing to the great quantity of bread crumbs used, some cooks packing them down solidly and some too loosely.) Bake on a hot, oiled griddle.

TRY N. Y. WOMAN FOR MURDER

This is Sequel of Tragedy Which Cost Three Lives.

New York, April 24.—Trial of another woman for murder in Brooklyn was set for to-day as a sequel to a tragedy that already has cost three lives.

It is the case of Mrs. Lillian Raisen, wife of Dr. Abraham Glickstein, a Brooklyn physician, to death in his office last December. It follows close in the heels of the trial of Miss Olivia M. P. Stone, graduate nurse, who recently was acquitted of a charge of murdering Ellis G. Kinbrad, former corporation counsel of Cincinnati, in Brooklyn last fall.

Indeed, the cases have points of similarity.

In both cases, the defendants here told a tale of betrayal at the hand of the man they killed. In both cases a defense of insanity was made or indicated. In both cases a triangle is related.

A cellmate of Miss Stone's in the Raymond Street jail, Mrs. Raisen followed closely every move in the Kinkead case, and at night the two women would sit up late chatting over details of the trial.

Another point at which the exact parallel trails came shortly after the acquittal of Miss Stone, when Mrs. Anna Glickstein, the physicians' widow, hanged to her death from a window in her home.

"Any woman can commit murder now," Mrs. Glickstein said before she killed herself, "especially a woman like Mrs. Raisen. She will be 'freed' too. All she will have to do is to say she was insane."

As dramatic as the suicide of the widow was the death of the physician's aged mother, Mrs. Lena Glickstein. Gazing on the bier of her beloved son, she fell dead across the coffin.

The shooting itself occurred in the doctor's office.

Three patients were waiting to see him, among them Mrs. Raisen, heavily veiled. She was called into the office, remained a few moments and left hurriedly. When other patients opened the doctor's door, Glickstein was found dead. Mrs. Raisen had fired the shot which killed her victim through her muff.

Then after police had hunted in vain for two days for the slayer, she gave herself up to the district attorney. She pleaded that Glickstein, before her marriage had wronged her, and had forced her to submit to two operations, which he, himself, performed.

The defendant is expected to plead insanity. She has been examined by three commissioners of alienists, whose reports will be read.

STARVATION THREATENS

Peasants Are Abandoning Everything and Flocking to the Cities.

Odessa, April 24.—Fear of starvation in the Ukraine, once regarded as the richest farming country in the world, has become so acute that thousands of peasants are abandoning everything they possess and flocking to the cities, where they hope to eke out an existence until all danger of complete famine by the Soviets has passed.

Hope for better crops this summer seems to have been lost. Merchants here who formerly sold agricultural machinery in the Ukraine are making no efforts to dispose of their stock. There will be no crops to speak of this year, and next season it will be worse," they say.

The Ukraine, commonly called the "granary of Europe" produced nearly 6,000,000 tons of wheat and cereals in pre-war years. Its annual yield of potatoes averaged 6,000,000 tons. In 1914 it marketed 27,000,000 head of horned cattle, 8,100,000 horses and 6,000,000 pigs. It also exported coal, iron and manganese, dairy products and blooded horses.

The Ukraine, twice as large as the British Isles and with a pre-war population of 40,000,000, is now experiencing a desolate waste, according to the refugees. The only reason it has held together until now, they say, is because of the rich stores of grain accumulated in the days of prosperity, which were shielded from the Soviet commissars on the plea that they must be used for seed. Now that these are exhausted, the rich, black earth of the Ukraine must lie idle and worthless.

Included among those who face starvation are half a million German colonists, descendants of Germans who settled in the country more than 10 years ago by invitation of Catharine the Great. In the German colony of Gros Liebenthal, near Odessa, one city of 10,000 population is said already to be in the grip of famine. In this section some 20,000 acres of grain was sown annually before war. To-day there is not a sheaf of wheat to be seen. In another section, where 80,000 acres formerly were sown, there is now 100 acres under cultivation.

MR. GRAHAM'S ESTIMATES—INCLUDE SUMMER CAMPS

Ottawa, April 21.—Militia training camps on about the same scale as last year are provided for in the main estimates of the department which have not yet passed the House and will not now come up until after the railway estimates. To-day meantime, no definite instructions can be given district commanders. Inquiry at the department to-day brought the information that dates for the camps have not been "arranged, pending the money vote."

The Daily Recipe

Kisses

Beat the whites of 4 eggs until very stiff. Add gradually 2-3 of a cup of fine granulated sugar and continue beating until mixture will hold its shape; fold in remaining sugar, shape with silver spoon on wet board or cookie tin covered with paper. Bake for 30 or 35 minutes in very slow oven. Remove from paper. This gives 36 kisses.

If 2 teaspoons are dropped in paper and after baked, the center part is taken out and the shells returned over to dry a little more, they may be filled with whipped cream or ice cream.

Jackson, Mich., April 20.—"If I'm not home by 10.30 to-night I'll be dead."

This was the note found by Mrs. Grace Willier, several hours after her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Hargott, 108 North Dwight street, disappeared Monday. No trace has been found of the daughter.

Mrs. Hargott, who is only 18 years of age, is the mother of two children. It is said that she had domestic difficulties.

COMPARISON OF IMMIGRATION FACTS

Statistics Compiled by Secretary of Provincial Department of Immigrations.

Halifax, N.S., April 22.—Last year 24,338 immigrants arrived in Nova Scotia, as compared with 3,186 in 1920, according to the annual report of W. B. McCoy, secretary of the Provincial Department of Industries and Immigration. Of the arrivals in 1921, 1,093 came from Europe, and Atlantic, and 277 from the United States.

The total immigration for the Maritime Provinces last year is given as 3,567, compared with 6,365 in 1921, a decrease of 43 per cent.

The last census", the report says, "showed that Nova Scotia had a population of 523,837, compared with 492,-338 in 1911, the increase being 31,499. Allowing for natural increase and immigration Nova Scotia lost a considerable per centage of her inhabitants during the intervening years."

In the ten year period 1910-1920 over 120,000 immigrants arrived in the Maritime Provinces, with the intention of settling, but evidently they did not remain.

FRENCH YOUTHS TAKE TO BOXING

Success of Eugenie Beaudoin Encourages Flatic Sport in Quebec.

Montreal, April 22.—A Development of import and interest in Canadian sport during the past year or so, has been the steady progress and unprecedented place in amateur boxing of the French-Canadian athlete. Ten years ago boxing was almost unknown in Quebec, the favorite sport being wrestling. The success of Eugene Brosseau of Montreal appears to have turned the eyes of the Habitant youths to the opportunities presented in amateur boxing on this continent. Brosseau won both Canadian and United States champion at various weights up to middle weight. The high water mark reached by French-Canadian scrappers came recently when Habitant representatives practically swept the board at the Quebec Provincial boxing championships. The classical winner was George Blais, 108 pounds, who is known quite well in Ottawa and Toronto. He is a protege of Brosseau's and a contemporary of the latter's fighter, The Montreal game in Montreal, which was under a cloud because of a number of poor bouts staged here, is expected to take on a fresh lease of life now that it is to be handled by a civic commission, which will work in conjunction with Toronto and New York.

JESS WILLARD WON'T COME BACK

Big Ex-Champion Says He Never Liked the Boxing Game.

Jess Willard has put the quietus on any talk of his attempting a comeback. He has also given his own true, stand-or-estimate of his own fighting ability and his dislike for the game, in a letter to a friend in Chicago. Jess was an honest fighter while he was champion, and while he was working up to the championship. He was irresponsible in his early days, and he made mistakes. But he never really liked the game, and his own thoughts about fighting and himself make an interesting bit of reading. Here's his letter:

"I never could fight, never wanted to become a boxer and never cared for the sport. I always felt that I wasn't built for a fighter, despite my height, reach and weight.

"God made me a giant. I never received an education, never had money and my folks. Good bless them, never had any money. I knew that I was a big fellow, powerfully strong, and I just sat down and figured that a man as big as I ought to be able to earn his own living.

"I never liked boxing, in fact hated it as I never hated a thing previously, but there was money in it, and I needed the money and decided I'd go after it.

"I never really knew how to fight. In the fights I engaged in I never could do anything to other fellow in the way of real damage. Harming the other fellow seemed to me to be cruel and so long as the other fellow did not harm me very much I couldn't see any reason why I should hurt him.

"I never hurt any of my opponents before the eighth round, because any one of them was able to hurt me much before the eighth round, and when they did hurt me I got mad and just swung on 'em and settled matters as quickly as I could."

"WEE" DICK KERR TAKES LONG LEAP

Chicago, April 17.—"Wee" Dick Kerr, White Sox holdout pitcher, today cast his fortunes with semi-professional baseball in Chicago, Kerr started the first seven innings for the Chicagos of the Midwest League against the Firemen, and by his action automatically barred himself from the big leagues, and answered the questions as to his appearance in a White Sox uniform this season.

Kerr informed a Tribune representative he had met Clesson on Saturday morning after his arrival from his home, in an effort to adjust the salary differences. Gleason, on Comiskey's instructions, stood pat and refused to concede his salary demands, and Kerr notified him that he had an appointment with George Carlson, owner of the Chicagos, to sign a contract.

Following the conference with Gleason, Kerr met Carlson and afiked his "John Hancock" to a three-year contract at a reported consideration of $17,500. Kerr also stated that his contract contains a clause providing for paying his expenses through a radio school.

Messrs. Cook and Symons, members of the winning team, were a tie in honors for the high single score, namely, 232 each, while Mr. Walsh was high man for the three-string, namely 611. E. JACK DEMPSEY'S ARRIVAL PUZZLES ENGLISH PRESS

London, April 17.—The English press seems to be much puzzled by the arrival of Jack Dempsey, with his manager, trainer, secretary, and an army of newspaper correspondents. The universal query is "who's he goin to lick?" The consensus of opinion is that there is nobody here able to stand up to him. The suggestion has been made that Dempsey take on Beckett, Bombardier Wells and Cook in succession, bouts on the same night. Even this says one journal pessimist, would be in the nature of a holiday for Dempsey. British boxing at present is certainly below zero. Dempsey insists he is here solely for a holiday, but the theory is generally held that he and Carpentier are negotiating for a return match in London or Paris as a purely business proposition. The English press is inclined to with-hold approval of this scheme on the ground that the men are known to be unevenly matched.

PINKY MITCHELL IS LIKELY TO MEET BENNY LEONARD

Chicago, April 20.—"Pinky" Mitchell, Milwaukee lightweight, is under consideration as an opponent for Benny Leonard in the world's lightweight championship bout at Michigan City, Indiana, on July 4. Promoter Fitzsimmons announced today. Fitzsimmons will meet Billy Mitchell, manager of the Milwaukee boxer, here to-morrow. The match is to be closed at that time. Mitchell was matched to meet Leonard in Milwaukee on New Year's Day, but the contest was postponed after the ninth when Mitchell was stricken with a muscle affliction of the shoulder.

DEMPSEY V. BRENNAN IS NEW YORK RUMOR

New York, April 20.—One of the best known boxing men in the East today stated that none other than Bill Brennan of Chicago would be Jack Dempsey's next opponent in the United States.

"Who else but Brennan is there for the champion just now?" demanded the knowing one. The cards are not rigid, for a skilled heavyweight bout this summer, and Bill gave Jack a large score in their last meeting. Granting that Brennan can't beat any other man, it must be admitted he is the one battler who knows how to box the champion.

"You can wager Dempsey and Brennan will go to it once more and the date will be next July 4 at Michigan City, Ind. Floyd Fitzsimmons will put on the set."

Some fans suggest that all applicants for a try at Dempsey should first be sent against Billy Miske, and if they can survive a match with the veteran St. Paul boxer, they will be worth considering. Miske's comeback performances is making an impression.

SPORTSTUFF

Molla and Suzanne meet again at the end of May. Suz will carry a powder puff and flock of hankies into action, as she expects to break into tears, win, lose or draw. That dear French temperament must be catered to. Suz and Molla like each other like a pair of wildcats. They intend to put the accent on the "love" in their tennis engagement.

NOT BASEBALL WEATHER

Oshawa, April 21.—Oshawa Central Leaguers had their baseball bat, ball and outfit up to the park on Saturday afternoon for their initial work-out, but a nasty, blustery south-east blizzard blew up, covering the diamond with snow, and Manager Booth hung up the "wet ground" sign. THE PRICE OF DIAMONDS RISE

Odessa, April 24.—The price of diamonds is soaring so rapidly here and on Moscow that German jewellers who have made sales buying the collections from impoverished Russian nobility are now back in Russia selling their wares at double the prices they asked in Germany.

The diamond market owes its rise to the scramble of traders and merchants to get rid of their rubles. Never sure of the value paper money will have from day to day, they liberally invest holes of Soviet currency in precious stones. Good diamonds sell for about 1200 a carat and lowest inferior quality bring from 325 to 100 a carat.

The recent heavy trade in these goods has resulted in many false diamonds being offered on the market. Levantine traders operating from the Black Sea ports are said to be responsible for bringing these imitations to Russia.

DELIGHTFUL SERVICE

The large congregation at the Tabernacle was delighted with the special music on Sunday evening. The selections by Dr. Hallman, the male quartette, composed of Dr. Hallman, Messrs. Sillman, La Voie and Simpson were out of the ordinary. Dr. Hallman's clear tenor voice was heard to great advantage in his solo.

A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening. The object of the meeting is to consider some matters relative to the proposed new King George School in Coleman Ward.

I.B.S.A. MAN PREACHES

Sunday night at the City Hall, Mr. Clifford Roberts, travelling representative of the International Bible Students Association was listened to with rapt attention by about 200 of a congregation as he lectured upon the question, "Why Does God Permit Evil?" The speaker said in part: "It is only when with the telescope of God's Word we see the ultimate outcome of evil that we can recognize its permission has been in the nature of a creative process. It is then that we understand that man has been under the severe schoolmaster of experience, learning to appreciate the sinfulness of sin and its direful results."

CHEQUE ARTIST AT HASTINGS

At the village of Hastings on Saturday last a young man by the name of Pickle, who was employed by a farmer by the neighborhood, worked the old game but ever new, of passing worthless cheques. His mode of operating was to call on business men, making a small purchase and offering a cheque for a larger amount, and obtaining the difference in cash. Cheques were all drawn on the Bank of Toronto, Havelock.

MISSIONARY SERVICES

Sunday was Womens' Missionary Society day at Bridge Street Methodist Church and the preacher of the day was Rev. Mr. Wilkinson. Large congregations were present at both services and the discourses were interesting with the occasion. The Rev. gentleman gave a graphic description of his work in China where he has been engaged in missionary work for some time. The collections in aid of the Missionary cause were liberal. Under the direction of Prof. Hunt special music was furnished by the choir.

ROBE WITHOUT A TICKET

ARE WE AS A NATION TO BE BALD, TOOTHLESS AND BLIND?

We're told that baldness is certainly increasing. A splendid beginning has been made in dental hygiene. But defective vision prevails alarmingly.

The Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry recently reported that more than half of our industrial workers are suffering from poor eyesight. Now we are told the same ailment affects one-quarter of our school kids.

This visual weakness is only in part due to defective reading and study, though these, of course, aggravate it.

Our Optometrist makes a most searching examination and is reasonable in his fee.

ORANGE FUNERAL WELL ATTENDED

Many Present at Obequies of the Late W. H. Cook.

1. One of the largest funerals which have been seen in Thurlow township for some years was that on Sunday afternoon when the remains of the late Mr. William Herbert Cook, of Honeywell Corners, were laid to rest in the family lot in the cemetery at Shannonville. The service, held under the auspices of the Orange Society, of which deceased was a prominent member, and hundreds of brethren were present to pay the last tribute of respect to a worthy brother. The hall was entered and in death revered. Members of the society from various parts of South Hastings were present, including Bro. F. M. Clarke of Belleville; Grand Secretary of the Eastern Ontario Grand Lodge. White, Master of Foxboro lodge and E. C. McDavitt, chaplain.

A number of beautiful floral tributes were evidences of sympathy. The bearers were members of the lodge, Bros. T. Kelley, B. McMullen, W. Woods, H. Gerow, M. Jones and John Reynolds.

CHILDREN WITH SQUINT EYES

Unfortunate Boys and Girls With Bad Eyes Should be Treated.

A startling fact is just being brought to light. There are thousands of school children in the Province of Ontario, moreover—and this makes the matter all the more serious—the number is steadily increasing, whose eyesight is definitely being added to.

Everyone knows that squinting, or squint in technical language, is a condition that can easily be put right with the proper glasses or by operation.

What the public does not know unfortunately, is that the vast majority of these children with squint have defective vision, and that many, far too many, are blind in one eye. When they are blind, I mean that doctors call them Amblyopic. All of these children can see light from darkness, and many can count one's fingers held up in front of them when their sound eye is closed.

The dimness of sight in these people is permanent and the obstruction cannot be removed. It is too late to make them see clearly.

How did these people become one eyed, you may ask? It very probably happened in this way:

Take any one of these unfortunate people as an example, and go back to his or her childhood days. Just about the time the youngster was able to leave its mother's apron strings and toddle about alone, a squint, i.e. it crosses or develops, but passes unnoticed. No doctor or nurse had examined the child, and the parents never dreamed that anything serious was wrong. Perhaps the cross-eye was noticed but defective vision never was noticed, so that nothing was done, it being thought that the child would "grow out of it," or the parents were told that the child would and taken the child to one who fitted glasses, instead of to a qualified medical practitioner.

In this case permanent injury may have resulted from failure to correct at the earliest moment. It may have even been given proper glasses, while the blindness o the eye was left neglected.

It is recognized by authorities in all countries that the eyes of young children cannot, in fact, any certainty be correctly tested for glasses without the use of drugs which a licensed medical practitioner may use.

If the defective eyesight remains unnoticed for a time, the strain put upon the eye and brain by the child accustomed to school studies will show that something is wrong, and the worried father or mother will realize after a time that the child should be examined. But there is every likelihood that it will be too late to effect a cure.

Defective vision from this cause should be treated before the age of five, and if the defect is not corrected by six years of age, there is practically no hope of permanent improvement in vision being made.

Apart from the personal affliction of poor vision, one can easily realize that an individual with a defective eye may be both a loss to the state and a menace to the community. Means must, therefore, be found to warn the parents of children with defective eyes of the dangers of permanent injury during the school period. It often happens that when a boy or girl is first given a medical examination until he or she goes to school it is too late to correct the defects, which by that time may have become chronic.

H. M. SCOTS GUARDS TO CANADA

The coming of the Band of His Majesty's Scots Guards is creating universal interest throughout the Dominion. The visit was requested by the Canadian Government and supported by the British Government as these concerts to be given during the month of May assume an importance of more than ordinary moment. No particular object of the visit is to direct attention to the fine work of the Great War Veterans Association who are to benefit by the concerts to be given and which will unquestionably have the support of every patriotic Canadian. The tour from Quebec to Victoria may be termed a flying tour as the celebrated band will be in the country one month only.

LIVES IN MEMORY OF LATE W. H. COOK

New Yorker Recalls Delightful Evening With Twain.

Believed That He Saw Great Humorist at His Best When He Read at the Fireside and Smoked With Him.

It is only about forty years since I spent a most delightful evening with Mr. and Mrs. Clemens at their newly-built house in Hartford, yet the Sun and New York Herald return to the house as "one of the oldest residences in New England from its point of construction," says the writer of a letter to that newspaper.

Undoubtedly your reporter wrote that it was "one of the oldest," and he was right, but Rogers were guilty of a characteristic prank.

We sat in front of a goodly old fashioned fireplace and smoked such tobacco as Mark Twain—that he had and I did—in the long-stemmed clay pipes that call churchwardens, while Mrs. Clemens looked on with smiling toleration, contributing the gracious charm of her presence to the entertainment he was giving to his select guests who had scant claim to the hospitality he was enjoying. I had called as a stranger on professional business and had been received socially.

Clemens was at his best—and let me say that best was never bettered by anyone else. His monologue of the native and exiled Yankee crawled out through a long evening, as I laughed and Mrs. Clemens chuckled and Mark twisted himself cleaning, burning out and filling pipe after pipe—and he was one of the three standing in the corners of the fireplace—and handing them to me or lighting one for himself as fast or even faster than they were needed. There were two of them slightly all the time.

I wish I could remember what he said, but I can recall only snatches, and that was too trivial to repeat, though I laughed at it as heartily as I did at all the other nonsense. It was not what he said so much as the way he said it.

F. T. Barnum, the great showman, told me that he, too, kept a diary and all the time Mark Twain talked to him, "But my wife doesn't," he said. "Mrs. Barnum has not a sufficient sense of humor and she is a little afraid of laughing at the wrong time, so she sometimes seems unappreciative when Mark is really funny even to him.

"She has found out for herself, though, a pretty good rule to live by," he continued. "You see, she and I frequently visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clemens, and I noticed after a time that she was always watching Mrs. Clemens, so I asked her why she did it, and she told me that it was because Mrs. Clemens did not always laugh at other people did when Mark spoke. 'But when she laughs,' said Mrs. Barnum, 'I know it must be really funny, so I laugh, too.'

"I call that pretty good sense," continued the old showman with one of his own hearty ha-has, "and I took to doing the same thing myself. It worked well, I must say, for I noticed after a while that Mrs. Clemens never laughed so encouraging at the very best of Mark's jokes. I suppose she must have got tired laughing all the time at Mark's best."

I knew the great man for a long time after that wonderful evening, but I never felt that I knew him any better.

Colossal German Theater.

One of the world's most colossal theaters, and by far the most bizarre, is the great auditorium recently opened in Berlin. The dreary exterior of the building is monstrous, but gives no promise of the surprise within. The curving walls of the foyer, says the Illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine for May, merge into a domed roof, supported by huge mahogany columns. The upper portion of each column is formed by many tiers of realistic carved fruit and lily light from concealed bulbs. The auditorium itself suggests the Roman circus or amphitheater. The 8,000 seats are ranged in horseshoe form, rising one above, or more properly, an orchestra.

Chess Expert Doomed.

Senor Capablanca has worked up as near to a record as ever was made in any sport in his chess exhibitions in Great Britain and Ireland. His total score is 1,352 games is 1,233 wins, 71 draws, and 28 losses. His opponents have included all the best English players. He takes them on thirty or forty at a time. No such score has been heard the Cuban master devotes an average of about two hours to each game he records. Recalling the tragic history of the great chess experts of Morphy and others, one feels fearfully, when will Capablanca go insane?—New York Globe.

TAKE'S OWN LIFE AFTER READING DOYLE'S LECTURE

Toronto, April 24.—Aged and despondent and believing himself the world's buffetings for 79 years, Percy Brown, 48 Alexandra Avenue, took his own life after reading a newspaper report of a lecture, by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in which he painted out that death is a blessing and without any sense of pain. Brown was found dead in his bed at the above address about 11 o'clock yesterday morning by a fellow-roomer, Charles Simleyson. There is little doubt that Brown committed suicide as the doors and windows were plugged and a gas pipe turned on at full. There will be no inquest. The body was removed to the Morgue, and will be released for burial if any of the man's friends can be found.

Propagandist Attempts a Cook About Henry Ford To Make Him Better Known

"Just why a book should be written about Henry Ford at this time is a little difficult to understand, especially a book which is thinly veiled propaganda. Mr. Ford is not a candidate for any public office, his experience as a would-be senator having probably cured him, and the publication of the publicity any man can desire. But apparently he has decided that he is misunderstood, which probably explains "The Truth About Henry Ford," by Sarah T. Bushnell, a recent critical study Miss Bushnell undertook. It is mainly an effort and fails to convince. In the chapters devoted to Henry Ford as a manufacturer one has an idea that here he sees the true Henry Ford, or at least a remarkable man, as distinguished for his benevolence as for his business acumen. It is a pity that Henry Ford ever had the ambition to be anything else than that of the greatest machinist in the world and a manufacturer of automobiles, motor trucks and tractors without a peer.

Miss Bushnell is obviously an admirer of Mr. Ford, but not a judicious champion. She reviews incidents in his career for the purpose of explaining them, whereas any real friend would pass them by in silence, praying that they should be forgotten. For instance, it will be recalled that in the course of the libel suit brought by Mr. Ford against the Chicago Tribune, the newspaper's lawyer, in an effort to prove his general ignorance, asked him who Benedict Arnold was. Ford's famous reply was "Arnold? Why Arnold was a writer."

Whether at the time that he was confusing Benedict Arnold with Arnold Bennett, although he did not make the sort of man who was likely to be heard of the Chicago Peace or Five Towns. But at the time there was no explanation put forth by Mr. Ford, and he was sat down as a man who did not know Benedict Arnold as a general, whose name several generations of American schoolboys have been taught to despise.

Now comes Miss Bushnell and with a feeble faltering explanation that as soon as court was over Mr. Ford learned all about Arnold. "I thought Stevenson wanted to know about Arnold when he used to write for me. Don't you remember him? He left office about 1913 and went to the city hall, and that night died of heart disease." Stevenson never replied that he did not catch his question. He had been asking me about Dickerson and the other men who wrote for me. He had asked me several times about Brownell, and I thought he was suggesting me about our publicity and advertising department. This explanation leaves much to be desired. It may be the truth, but it is one that would hardly justify Miss Bushnell in bringing it forward. And as it may be true and not appear to be, Miss Bushnell would do well to leave it and give the appearance of truth.

Another episode in the career of the manufacturer which Miss Bushnell brings to the front is the case of factory espionage, in the case of the famous peace ship, which was broken up before it got out of the trenches before Christmas. The author seems to make an unnecessary mystery in suppressing the name of the person who gave the tip to Ford, even though at the time there was never any secret that the author of the brilliant scheme was Rosika Schwimmer, a Hungarian pacifist.

Mr. Ford was in Washington when the peace ship idea was mentioned to him. He was delighted and immediately telephoned Mrs. Ford that they would have a trip to Europe, and would have several guests. Mrs. Ford screed: "Don't let anyone talk you into such nonsense." It is well known that Mrs. Ford did not accompany the messengers aboard the Oscar. On the trip Mr. Ford found himself himself at all; and it was not long before the assembled and self-asserted pacifists began to quarrel among themselves. Mr. Edward W. Hill, who accompanied the outfit as a correspondent, says that the quarrel occurred when a document was laid on the table for signature, pledging the policy of complete disarmament, the United States to set the example. Ford and Hill often refused to sign. Others signed because they were Mr. Ford's guests. Miss Bushnell tells us that Mr. Ford is to be praised for his effort, and remarks that it would be bad an opportunity of studying the European situation at first hand, but she intimates that he was in Europe only three days, and that most of that time he remained secluded in his rooms in a Christiania hotel.

Peeps Into Distant Past of British House of Commons

Discloses Many Comedies

In the British House of Commons Library you may see a row of volumes which are seldom opened, but which are of peculiar interest; for on their time-stained pages, in faded ink, you may read of the doings of Henry VIII. and his queen-wives, stretching back to the time of Henry VII.

These are the old "Journals" of the House, penned through the centuries by industrious scribes. Almost all of them are in contravention by the great fire which destroyed the Houses of Parliament in 1834; and, though few ever turn their pages, they are a veritable mine of interesting and often amusing reading.

Thus, in July, 1610, we find the Speaker complaining that Sir Edward Hoby had used insulting him, whereupon, says the "Journal," "Sir Edward Herbert stood up and said that he meant no offence to the House. Only that he should say he meant no scorn to the Speaker. Affirmed by him, Speaker that Sir Edward Hoby hert put not off his hat to him, but put out his hand and spoke with his mouth with his finger in scorn. Sir Edward declared that he had not intent at scorn, whereupon Mr. Speaker was satisfied that Sir Edward Herbert did not intend the "Jolrnal" does not reveal.

Queen Elizabeth Stuart days seem to have had little respect for the Speaker, for we find: "Mr. Fuller, M.P., in a loud and violent manner, standing near the Speaker's chair, cried 'Baw!' in his ear, to the indignation and astonishment of the Speaker and the members of the House." And if the members of Parliament of Stuart days were lacking in respect, he was "no less lacking in dignity," as is recorded in the Journal" June, 1661, we read: "Ordered that all members who climb over any seat shall pay twelve-pence to the Serjeant." Of a later occasion it is recorded: "The Lords, forgetful of their duty, had interfered in raising money by inserting certain words in a Bill. This was a flagrant encroachment upon the privileges of the Commons; the Bill was rejected unseen, and the Lords warned it over the table, several members on both sides of the question kicking it as they went out."

In the early legislative days men chivalrous that they are to-day; for in July, 1416, the Speaker tells us: "Dorothea Clinton presented a petition, drawn in Latin, to the House, the clamor on Mr. Speaker, or prayer any more petitioned, she is to say to herself in English."

If the M.P. of old spiced dullness and undoubtedly sparkle in the House he had to submit to penalties unknown to the modern M.P. Hear, Thus, we read in the "Journal," of July 14, 1416: "Ordered that whether all that sit absent, upon the calling of the House, shall be fined by shillings. Resolved—Knights of the Shire, 13s. 4d.; Burgesses, 6s. 8d." In 1647 it was "ordered that such members as have not answered upon their calling shall forfeit the sum of £10"; and the member who was absent "for slipshod" prayers was called upon to put a shilling in the pooring.

But the most interesting of all these ancient records are those found in three opened volumes exhibited in the Library, the first page of one on which James I. struck out the words "Parliament" and substituted "Session" on Dec. 31th, 1621. The second records the arrest of the five members of the House of Commons in 1642; and the third marks the disbanding of the House of Commons by Cromwell in April, 1653.

France May Quit Genoa Conference Over Russia

French Delegation Will Insist Upon a Forty-Eight Hour Ultimatum to the Russians—Premier Poincare's Speech at Bar-Le-Duc Has Caused Consternation at Genoa—Tchitcherin Gives His Idea of the reasons Blocking the Progress of the Confer-

MORE DEVELOPMENTS EAGERLY AWAITED

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

London, April 25.—There is reliable information, declares a Central News despatch from Genoa, that M. Barthou of the French delegation received explicit instruction this morning by wire at the Genoa Conference upon the terms contained in the French reply to speech of Premier Poincare.

The French delegation has declared it would press for a further forty-eight hour ultimatum to Russia or else break from the conference.

Premier Poincare's speech has created great consternation in conference circles.

Premier Minister Tchitcherin of Soviet Russia declared to-day that it was the Allies' intolerance to the Russian principle of nationalization which was blocking the conference.

He was quoted as having said: "The Allies refuse to pass from discussion of the question of general reconstruction to the questions of a few former Russian properties."

That Russia insisted still insists on the most important item of the conference.

Premier Lloyd George expressed the hope that the question would be satisfactorily settled by the end of the week, when he would like to be able to leave for London, returning for the closing of the conference. He was ready to remain, however, if complications should arise requiring his presence.

LLOYD GEORGE LEAVES GENOA AT WEEK END

Genoa, April 25. — Lloyd George is going to leave the conference the end of the week. The British Premier last night notified Premier Facta, the president of the conference, that he would have to be in London May 3 to accompany the King of England to Brussels. Lloyd George is not expected to be away from the conference any longer than is necessary.

The equipment is satisfactory and requisites properly kept. All teachers are properly qualified. Owing to ill-health the Board was losing a valuable teacher in Mrs. Helen Foster, Her place will be filled until the end of June by Miss Frances Sweetman of Trenton, who is graduating this year in arts. One more assistant will be needed at the opening of the schools in September. Organization of the schools is satisfactory. Discipline is good in the schools. The Entrance Board are continuing their practice of former years and are accepting satisfactory candidates for Collegiate School pupils unconditionally. There will be an examination of County pupils in the city as usual. Departmental examinations will begin on June 13th, and there will be far more candidates than at any previous examination in the city owing to more room than the assembly room at the High School would be required.

TROOPS KILL IRISH OFFICER

Heartless Murder of Brigadier General Adamson of Republican Army.

STRIKE TERMINATED

Twenty-Four Hour Cessation of Labor Held Without Disorder.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

Dublin, April 25.—Adamson, commander of the Republican army, was shot and killed to-day in the streets of Athlone by regular troops. He was confronted by armed men who ordered him to throw up his hands. When he complied with this deliberately fired into him. Several of the murderers' officers have been arrested.

Dublin, April 25.—The 24-hour strike terminated at 9 o'clock last night, with three gigantic demonstrations held to mark the opposition of the people against militarism. There were no disorders in connection with the strike, but a sensation was created by placards posted throughout the city proclaiming an Irish republic and declaring investigations proved that the proclamation was bogus.

The object of the proclamation was apparently to detract from the success of Labor's protest and allege the sympathy of the employers with the strike, that the Labor party had discovered the strike with the purpose of establishing a republic.

Conditions in Belfast

Business proceeded as usual also in Belfast and throughout Ulster to-day and yesterday, but the one-day strike in Southern Ireland caused some inconvenience through the stoppage of telegraphic and telephonic communications between Dublin and Belfast. The Great Northern Railway ran special trains in Free State territory, but services was maintained through the six County area.

The only communications of any character between the North and the South during the day, were wireless messages between the Victorian Barracks and the Dublin Military. These messages, the authorities say, were purely routine.

Two men, one of them 76 years of age, were drowned yesterday in East Belfast by anipers.

WIFE SEES SILVER LINING OF COAL MINERS STRIKE AS HUSBY CLEANS HOUSE

Hazelton, Pa., April 25.—Spring house cleaning this year has no horrors for the housewife in the authority of coal miners. The withdrawal of much of that drudgery by her husband or son—sometimes both—is the blessed heritage of the suspension of mining operations.

Men in freshly washed mining togs, bending to their task with water, employing soft from chimneys, polishing furniture and scrubbing floors are a common sight. They are the perfect to be thus employed, rather than to stand on corners discussing the strike wage conference.

FOUR LARGE LOCOMOTIVES SENT TO SOVIET RUSSIA

Moscow, April 25.—Four of the largest locomotives ever bought by the soviet government arrived in Moscow recently from Germany, each weighing 80 tons.

While a certain amount of section work has been done on nearly all lines under the new regime, Premier Lenin's railroad experts say the railroad beds are badly in need of repair everywhere and much will have to be done this summer if Russia's railways are to be kept in running order.

SCARCITY OF MUSKRATS INCREASE PELT PRICES

Peterboro, April 25.—The season for trapping muskrats is now closed. Trappers from Lake Scugog generally report a much lighter catch than the average. The late breaking of the ice was an early drawback, and, followed by the rapid rise in water, formed a combination that prevented the Indians and others from working to advantage. As a result, prices have reacted upward. Prices range from $2.10 to $2.25 a skin. They remain until May 1 to dispose of their catch.

VAGRANT GOES TO REFORMATORY

Clifford Thompson Receives Sentence and "Stoney Lonesome" Scrap Settled.

Clifford Thompson, arrested more than a week ago on a vagrancy charge, appeared before Magistrate Mamco at this morning's session of police court, pleaded guilty to the charge, and was sentenced to the Reformatory of Ontario for a period of time not to exceed six months nor to be less than four months.

When asked if he had anything to say in his defence, Thompson, who is a returned soldier, asked for a chance to make good. The officers, however, explained that he had been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, farmers near this city, and since returning from overseas refused to work about the farm. He left his home secondingly, and has "existed" at the G. W. V. A. headquarters here during the winter. Although warned to keep away from those quarters, he insisted upon remaining there and was finally arrested on a vagrancy charge.

Dr. F. G. Wallbridge, who examined accused during the winter, informed the court that the statement made to him by Thompson was unsatisfactory. The latter seems to drink physically, no doubt, but some good wholesome work would doubtless do him good.

Female Pugilists.

Two residents of the Stoney Lonesome district attracted the attention of the police court officials this morning, when Mrs. Eleanor Lucas and Mrs. Jane Lucas appeared in the dock of the defendant, Mrs. Lucas.

The setting of the scene was laid in the home of the plaintiff, and also was Saturday last, about 10.30 a.m. The plaintiff testified that defendant entered her house and demanded that plaintiff's son explain the alleged misbehavior of defendant's children. An argument and free-for-all ensued in which plaintiff was knocked up against a stove and struck in the chest, according to her evidence.

Mrs. Lucas was aware that she did not strike touch, nor make a pass at the plaintiff, but had shook her fist at her when she (the plaintiff) had abused her daughter.

Alex. Cross, a 10-year-old witness in the affray, gave evidence that the old son, told a very good story on the stand. He testified that Mrs. Lucas did not strike Mrs. Lucas "right on the door nor strike her."

The case was a straight denial of evidence, but with two witnesses against one, Magistrate Mason gave defendant the benefit of the doubt, dismissing the case. One week in which to raise the $4.50 which are the constable's fees, and which she was obliged to pay.

INCREASE SEAMEN'S WAGES ON PACIFIC COAST SHIPS

San Francisco, April 25.—Wages of workers on coastwise vessels in the lumber and general freight trade have been increased by approximately 40 Pacific Coast concerns, it was announced here to-day by officers of the Ship Owners' Association of the Pacific Coast. The voluntary increase will be in the form of bonuses ranging from 5 to 10 per cent. a month, in addition to a $5 flat increase.

DEER SEASON IS EXTENDED

Hunters Are Now Allowed to Shoot Deer on September 15.

LIMIT DUCKS

Many Important Changes Proposed in Fish and Game Laws.

Toronto, April 25.—The Government's proposed changes in the fish and game laws were explained to the House by Hon. Henry Mills, yesterday. The Minister outlined the proposals which are based on recommendations of the fish and game protective associations. The important change affecting deer is the advancement of the shooting season north of the Transcontinental. At present it runs from the first of October to the thirtieth of November, but under the bill introduced yesterday it will extend from September 15 to November 15.

The partridge shooting season is to be from the fifth to the twentieth of November, except in the district north and west of the French and Mattawa Rivers, where it will be from the 15th of October to the 30th of November. The bag is limited to not more than ten partridges.

The daily bag for wild duck is to be limited to 20, with 200 as the maximum for the season.

Another change prohibits the use of traps, snares, nets, etc., for deer-hunting, except provincial waters, and pound nets, except in those waters and the waters of Lake Nipissing, Temagami and Trout Lake, under which the Minister will be able to grant licenses for fishing there to Canadian Indians. fishermen has not been increased by the Act for a technical offence.

MEMBERS OF COUNCIL MAKE INSPECTION

Visit Victoria Park and Note Conditions of Some of the Streets.

The majority of the members of the City Council spent Monday afternoon in a tour of the city to ascertain the condition of some of the streets and to see what necessary repairs were to be made. They first visited Victoria Park and noted some of the contemplated improvements which are being made in that park. has in view. The pump house was also visited, after which several streets were visited in turn. It is needless to state that many of our streets were found in a deplorable condition. The report will be made and presented at a meeting of the Public Works Committee.

MAN PUT BEHIND BARS FOR USING INSULTING MAYOR

Montreal, April 25.—When Mayor Martin was leaving the city council meeting yesterday afternoon, a man named Francois Pierre Tardif and to the dialogue that followed his worship considered that he had been insulted and ordered the man arrested. Sergeant Lafleur conducted the prisoner to the police headquarters of the city hall annex, later, however, Mayor Martin withdrew his complaint, and as the man apologized he was allowed to go home.

THE PASSION PLAY

In a Bavarian forestry, nestled among the deep hills, is a village of some 1,500 souls. Inhabitants. It is called Oberammergau. In 1633 an epidemic raged in Bavaria, killing hundreds of thousands. The inhabitants of this village vowed eternal vengeance upon the village, presuming any citizen from leaving the place, and promising sure retribution to all who had relatives in the village cited the sentiments during the night, and entered the place, should any one doing, be developed symptoms of the plague, which caused his death, and the death of hundreds of the inhabitants. Owing to prayer to God (as they thought) believed the plague was stayed. In gratitude to God, the inhabitants decided to enact and produce a play in which all of the events in Christ's history should be represented. The play attracted many thousands as it has been repeated every ten years since 1633. It is to be reproduced this year. I had the opportunity recently, of seeing the very same scenes of this wonderful play exhibited by movies. The pictures were taken by the gentlemen who produced them, and who was present and described the pictures as produced. Seven hundred persons take part in the play, nearly one half of the population of the village. The auditorium seats six thousand persons. During the centuries each family has produced a member whom plays the same character his ancestor played.

The intervening years between the productions are used to perfect the scenes. The costumes used are precisely the same description as those in use during the history of Christ. The New Testament is strictly followed in every way. The family of Anton Lang, has always produced the character of Christ. Today he appeared as a blacksmith. The Virgin Mother by a woman, with a very sweet countenance. Her face weighs nearly by three hundred pounds. Herod Caiphas and the Roman soldiers, appear in particularly similar costumes to those used during the trial of Christ. Thirty thousand persons are expected to visit the village this year.

The Passion Play was exhibited later in what is know as the "Hollywood Bowl" which is simply an immense excavation in one side of a mountain in which is a large theatre. The Passion Play given here differs in many respects from the Oberamagau play, but was very wonderful. I shall never forget the closing scene, where the figure of Christ standing upon the summit of a hill many hundred feet high, died in the white and his body illuminated against the background of the mid-night sky.

J. J. B. FLINT.

CLEVER DRAMA BY REX STOCK CO.

"The Price She Paid" One of the Best Seen Here.

There have been very few presentations of drama in Belleville that can equal this week's bill of the Rex Stock Co., who are presenting "The Price She Paid" at Griffin's Opera House. A crowded house greeted them local favorites last night and they, more than lived up to the standard set by themselves in their previous showings here.

The drama revolves around the married life of Robert Stafford, a multi-millionaire and noted financier. He has married a former stenographer and in moments of drunkenness taunts her with the fact that he has bought and paid for her. Rex Sinclair as Stafford and Zana Vaughn, as Virginnia his wife, render a performance that is satisfying in every sense.

Those two clever character people Florence Winters and William Yule portrayed their various parts in their usual happy manner and well earned the laughter and applause that greeted their efforts.

Presenting something decidedly new and novel, "The Hell Diggers," a Realart Star-Paramount starring vehicle, was shown with no inconsiderable success at the Regent yesterday. For the first time in the history of the screen, the giant dredging machines which are employed to mine the earth in the gold fields of Northern California, are made the central theme of a gripping and fascinating story.

Mr. Reid plays the role of one of the engineers on one of the big dredging engines and construction superintendent for the company. Many of the exterior scenes were taken around and abroad the big machines, which are shown in operation.

The star is supported by a cast of famous players, headed by Lois Wilson the heroine of "What Every Woman Knows" and "The Lost Romance."

A Sunkist Animal comedy, Pathe Review, and a thrilling chapter of "Fighting Fate" serial preceded the exhibition of the feature offering.

WELFARE FACTS ARE TABULATED

Child Welfare Week Shall Raise Health Standards Here.

Yes, I am interested in your work —very much interested, but how can I help? What do I say or do to be of assistance to you?"

Only a few days ago a lady in Belleville asked this question of Miss Hersey, the energetic nurse from the Provincial Board of Health, who is here in our midst preparing for the great event of the year in health matters—the "Child Welfare Week" which will begin on Child Welfare Sunday, April 30th.

Of course from the point of view of the Community how there are so many ways that volunteer ladies and gentlemen can help that the answer to this Belleville lady's question seems obvious, but it is not so, from the point of view of the toy workers. It is necessary, therefore, to provide practical and authentic information that the volunteer worker can make use of. Hersey has questions typed out in question and answer form which may help to make the situation clear:

1.—Who is behind this Week of Child Welfare? It is the Ontario Government, working through the Maternal and Child Welfare Division of the Provincial Board of Health.

2.—What is its object? (a) To reduce the death rate among infants and young children in this Province.

(During 1921 there were 28 babies died in Belleville before reaching one year of age).

(b) To give advice of instruction to prospective mothers how to care for their health during the critical months preceding childbirth, in order that the children may be well-born, and get a good start in life.

(c) To instruct mothers in the proper care and feeding of infants so that they may survive the first critical year of life.

(d) To provide means whereby mothers can have their children weighed and measured for physical ailments or defects.

(e) To advise the parents of a child having physical defects to procure medical treatment for the child, so that the defects may be early corrected and thus give the child a chance to grow up normally, without any unnecessary handicap in its growth and development.

(f) To make the children of to-day healthy so that they may grow up to be healthy men and women.

3.—Will the carrying out of a Child Welfare scheme be an additional burden on the taxpayer?

Work of this kind is never an expense. It is money invested and I regard a hundred-fold in raising the standard of health of the entire community. The trifling cost of maintaining a Community nurse is only a shrinkage surrounded by a reduction in the expenditures for hospitals, asylums and institutions which are now in many cases filled to overflowing and are supported by the taxpayers of the Province. Many of the inmates of these institutions would be healthy men and women to-day if their present defects and health handicaps had been given medical and nursing attention in early life. These unfortunate people have become chronic invalids and are now a burden to the state.

4.—How many children were born last year in Ontario?—72,811.

5.—How many of these died before reaching one year of age?—7,264, or more than one hundred out of every thousand births.

6.—What is the infant death rate in New Zealand where Child Welfare?—About 45 per 1,000.

Knowing these facts tell your friends and neighbors. Interest everybody you know in the great work that is being carried on in your city and community and, if possible, persuade indifferent people to become enthusiasts. Remember it is a labor of love. It is work that is worthy of every good citizen. It is the work of the Master, who said: "Inasmuch as ye have done it to one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me," and "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

BLAMES THE MAN

London, April 14.—A man is "more dangerous" for women between the ages of thirty and fifty, than at any other time, declares Lady Angela Forbes in an article published to-day.

"Actually a man can be dangerous the minute that he looks at a woman under the eyes of a half a dozen school boy. There is no age when a man can be trusted not to make a fool of himself in the time and circumstances are on the side of the temptress," says Lady Forbes.

DAIRY PRODUCE GRADERS DIFFICULT TO SECURE

Ottawa, April 24.—The Department of Agriculture and the Civil Service Commission are engaged in organizing the necessary staff to carry out a general system of grading dairy produce for export according to the provisions of the Dairy Products Act passed at the last session of Parliament, says a statement issued tonight.

Owing to unavoidable delays from one cause and another, the statement says, it has not been practicable to secure the appointment of a sufficient number of graders to establish a complete system of grading at the opening of the present season. As was expected, but the work will be proceeded with as rapidly as possible.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 22.—"Babe" Asher, a bantam champion, defeated Frankie Jammisi, of Chicago in a 10-round contest last night in the opinion of newspaper critics. Asher took eight rounds with the others even.

Battling Hess, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Al. Volgast, of Cadillac, fought a 10-round draw.

MUCH AMMUNITION LOOSE ON FORMER BATTLEFIELDS

London, April 21.—The Manchester Guardian's special correspondent in the War East, who has just returned after an extensive trip through Macedonia, saw piles of ammunition still lying about among the old battle grounds, without the slightest precaution being taken by the Inter-Allied Government to prevent a catastrophe, such as that reported from Monastir, where hundreds of lives were lost. Although Jugo-Slavia maintains an army of 600,000, the slightest attempt has been made to clean up war rubbish, so the whole country still resembles a desolate battleground.

BEECHAM'S PILLS Sweeten the Stomach

Those men who formerly thought it wise to choose a cheap suit for reasons of price, now know that this was false economy.

They realize that it is both good business and sound finance to wear good-looking, well-fitting garments, that hold their shape, notwithstanding all the careful tailoring and superior fabrics in them.

A price is never cheap unless backed by quality and service. Fit-Reform Spring Suits and Overcoats have the first and give the second.

MOTOR CAR KING EXPLAINS IDEAS

Henry Ford Writes of Progress in the Automobile Industry.

New York, April 25.—Life on a farm drove Henry Ford into making auto mobiles, it is revealed in May's Magazine.

Mr. Ford says he himself in an article which he calls "My Life and Work" written by himself for May's Magazine for May, with the collaboration of Samuel Crowther, an they and editor.

And Mr. Ford still feels the same way about farming. Not that he has anything against farmers, he points out, but there is "too much hard hard labor on farms." Because he was brought up a farm and knew without question just what farming means, Mr. Ford invented an automobile with which he hoped, first, to lighten the farmer's task and, second, to add people without a lot of money to their search for enjoyment and business re lief.

That is a mistake, is what Mr. Ford's article gives as the reason for the Ford car. Incidentally it is the reason for his interest in farm tractors and for a lot of other things which have happened in Detroit recently.

"The automobile, however, barely escaped being a watch. My father had designed a fine mechanical work and his ideas naturally turned to watches he says. At one period of those early days he had 30 watches and knew what made the wheels go around in every one of them. It was during this time that the possibility of making a watch for 30 cents. In fact, he says, he al most started in the business but the matter when he figured out that watches were not a necessity and so would not for sale.

"Just how I reached that surprising conclusion is difficult to state, now, he observes.

But a combination of the farm and the watch, and the slight when he was only 15 of a road engine was too much for anything plebian in Mr. Ford's fu ture. He started to consider the possibility of machines and alter electric at that engine, studying it, watching changes, reading and thinking. Mr. Ford branched out into the automo tive industry.

Of course, says Mr. Ford, the horse less carriage was a common idea. He says, as did several other inventors, that Mr. Ford figure that action was the thing wanting for moving his car, and he set about making a machine to supply by steam. He built one, and it was "terrified school. One of them He very carefully points out most of them. When he found he couldn't work his difficulties to satisfactor he turned to gasoline—and so was born the Ford.

It's was in 1890 that I began work on a double cylinder engine," he writes, "because it was quite impractical to consider the single cylinder for transportation."

Shortly after that the farm was left behind definitely and completely. When Mr. Ford went to Detroit as an engineer and machinist for the Detroit Electric Company at exactly $45 a month. The job wasn't much in itself but its great beauty lay in that it took him out in his work-shop for he had spare time and he employed it.

Two years later Detroit got a thrill. Chap-chapping down its main streets came the gas-buggy. In the rear was Henry Ford. Behind it was a string of frightened horses and curious people. In front of it was a bulwark of wondering thousands. Henry Ford had found a way to ride without horses to drag him.

The machine, however, was a vicious problem. To begin with it blocked traffic. Not that it stalled, but every time Mr. Ford stopped the crowd stayed and he could not, in safety, leave the car a moment. Always there was some curious soul who would climb aboard, play with the brakes or the clutch and then trouble commenced.

Finally, it came to a showdown with the city authorities. At last, writes Mr. Ford, although there were no speed laws, no traffic ordinances, he had to get a permit from the Mayor to operate the machine.

"Then for a time," he continues, "I enjoyed the distinction of being the only licensed chauffeur in the country."

Mr. Ford ran that first machine 1,000 miles until 1896 and then sold it. It took him four years to make the first sale of a Ford automobile, but he immediately did what he has done since—put his profits into building a new and better car.

All this time, Mr. Ford was working as an electrician with the Electric Company. He had become a foreman if $125 a month but his gas engine experiments were not popular at the shop. The trouble was they believed a electricity completely, and were at best mildly sceptical about gas.

Fairly soon, therefore, Mr. Ford left he electric company. That was when a group of men willing to take a chance stepped in and organized The Detroit Automobile Company. Mr. Ford was chief engineer. He owned a small block of stock and it was his car they sold. There were disagreements over questions of finance and into development, and Mr. Ford quit. He took his patents with him, opened he famous one-story, brick shed and proceeded to build and sell about 25 cars. About that time—it was then 1903—Mr. Ford won a road race in one of his own cars and business began to pick up.

Formation of the Ford Motor Car Company was the result.

Don't Rub—Just Soak Your Clothes Clean

RINSO is fine granules of soap essence, scientifically and completely different from ordinary soap, flakes or washing powder. It should be used differently, too—for instance, to get the best results, do not pour the Rinso granules into the tub from the package.

Make the wonderful Rinso liquid first—take half a package of Rinso for each tub of clothes—stir it into a cream in a little cool water, add two quarts of boiling water, stir vigorously and put into the tub of cool or lukewarm water.

Put your clothes to soak for one hour, two hours, overnight, or as long as convenient in this rich Rinso suds, then just rinse thoroughly and the dirt runs away. Your clothes are ready for the line—snowy-white, clean and fresh.

If You Use a Washing Machine—follow the regular directions on the Rinso package and soak the clothes. Then before operating the machine, add fresh Rinso solution and proceed. No other preparation is needed when Rinso is used.

CANADIAN WHEAT IS IMPROVING

So Says Senator Calder in Speech to U. S. Senate.

Washington, April 25.—Senator Calder, of New York, in his first speech in the Senate in opposition to the St. Lawrence waterway project, presented an interesting picture of the possibilities of Canada as a wheat-growing country. Senator Calder predicted that the United States will soon fall behind Canada in the production of wheat. The Dominion, he declared, will develop several times the wheat acreage of the United States.

"The peak wheat acreage in the United States, said Senator Calder, was 75,694,000 acres, reached in 1919, an increase of 35 per cent. over the acreage in 1910. Canada's peak year was 19,125,968 acres in the same year, an increase of 115 per cent. over the 1910 figure. Canada's wheat production increased from 132,000,000 bushels in 1910 to 263,000,000 bushels in 1920, an increase of 100 per cent. The production of the United States increased 33 per cent. while production in the United States increased 33 per cent. during the 1910 period, the value of the wheat crop increased 150 per cent., the 1910 value being $560,000,000, the 1920 figure being $1,400,000,000. During this period the value of Canada's wheat crop increased 400 per cent., being $99,539,000 in 1910 and $427,856,000 in 1920.

"The average price per acre of the land devoted to wheat in 1920 was $92. The average price of Canadian land now devoted to the production of wheat is $42."

Senator Calder then read statistics showing details of the relative increase in Canadian and United States wheat growing lands.

"But this is only part of the picture," the New York Senator continued. "Canada has but entered the fields. Its wheat growers have not even begun to fight. There are in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta 125,894,000 acres under private ownership. The total number of acres surveyed up to January, 1920, was 199,767,000." Of this total approximately 25,000,000 acres are now available for homestead entry. In addition to the surveyed areas there are large tracts in this provinces which have been only partly surveyed. These tracts contain more than 250,000,000 acres.

"A quarter section of land may be obtained as a homestead in these provinces on the payment of an entry fee of $10. In northern Ontario a quarter section can be obtained for 50 cents an acre, one quarter in cash.

"Now here is the question: Granted equal transportation facilities, what will be the result of a contest in which 250,000,000 acres of land, valued at from 50 cents to $45 an acre, is pitted against 75,000,000 acres of land with an average value of $92 an acre?

"Bear in mind that the proposed canal is ostensibly being built primarily to carry wheat. If cereal the product from its aggregate agricultural point and it collapses. I concede that perhaps this canal, if built, may carry wheat, but whose wheat, I ask you? The answer is unescapable—Canada's.

"I will not venture an attempt to prophesy regarding the future of the United States as a wheat-exporting nation. Herbert Hoover has given it as his opinion that within ten years we will have become a wheat importing nation. I neither reject nor accept that conclusion. But I know that no one should be qualified to speak on this subject than our very able Secretary of Commerce."

"What's this 'Triplex' Stuff I Hear So Much About, Ed?"

"THAT'S it: right there on that bicycle.

"It's as simple as A. B. C.

"But it means as much to a bicycle as the whole alphabet does to the English language."

"How's that, Ed?"

"Just this way:—

"The crank hanger is the power plant of your bicycle.

"If your crank hanger turns just a little stiff or hard, that means more effort for you.

"If the hanger develops those mean 'tight and loose' spots, it means more friction and less power.

"But the 'Triplex' was designed and is built to overcome those faults.

"It is made of such fine steel and to such close limits of accuracy that it always runs smoothly. It makes your bicycle ride so easily you'd think you were riding down grade.

"It takes a lot more time and better workmanship to construct such an accurate hanger."

"Well, well! I never thought a crank hanger was so important. I see now that it is really just as important to have a good crank hanger on a bicycle as a good engine in a car."

"That's right. The 'Triplex' is sure some power plant.

"Were you thinking of buying a new bike, Charlie?"

"Yes, I was thinking something about it, Ed. You know I bought a cheap one against your advice last year and I'm sick of pushing the old cart along. Besides, it's always wanting repairs."

"What you need is one of those new C. C. M. Bicycles. They're built to stay out of the repair shop. I know of many C. C. M.'s that are giving good service after ten to fifteen years riding over all kinds of roads."

INSECTS AND CROPS.

According to a statement recently made public, insects and bugs, by their destructiveness, cost the United States some $1,500,000,000 annually. Their predatory instincts cause them to feed on various kinds of farm products, on clothing, our form of household goods and even go so far, we are told, as to eat the old foundations of houses. A universal propaganda of war waging on these pests is to be undertaken by the United States Board of Agriculture. This departure is of unique interest to Canadians. Speaking of insects, it is noticeable that scientific opinion has undergone from time to time to find out if certain birds are helpful to mankind. Many farmers, gardeners and others hold to the opinion that while some birds are very excellent friends, yet they make a charge for maintenance. Scientific research has proved that the character of their food in respect can be altered. The sparrow has been unable to re-establish its reputation because it has the tendency to drive insect-eating birds away from gardens. Rooks and crows are decidedly grain-eaters, and as such are not desirable. But many birds deserve a certificate of good character. The lark is a friend after a day's work in the fields, and is suspected of being partial to grain, but in its case it has been proved that it selects as diet—nine-tenths of the time—farmers' and gardeners' enemies.

The importance of birds to agriculture is scarcely well enough known. Birds on the whole are deserving of protection. If the number of insect-eating birds is reduced insects will multiply, thus injuring the crops and reducing the harvest. We could well spare the company of thousands of sparrows in return for insect-devouring members of the feathered tribe. Extermination of insects in regard to crop epollation is gauged by the expert opinion that it will take years—perhaps a century—to win success over their wiles. The predatory law of nature is notorious throughout the animal kingdom. The Dominion Entomologist stated a few days ago that the annual loss in field crops, fruit and garden crops due to destructive insects is more than $200,000,000, so that this fact alone should emphasize the importance of the relationship of birds to agriculture. The maintenance of a plentiful supply of useful Canadian birds, therefore, becomes more and more an apparent necessity.

LONG-WINDED SPEECHES.

The Ottawa Journal suggests the equipping of the House of Commons with time-recorders to serve as a check on long-winded orations. It declares that the ordinary member takes an hour or more to make a statement that could without difficulty be compressed into fifteen minutes, and that even the Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition "confuse and enfeeble their utterances by a mass of superfluous repetitions, details and quotations."

And to what end? Is it any longer seriously contended that these long-winded speeches exert any important influence—except on rare occasions—on those who hear them? How often does it happen that votes are changed in the House of Commons by the flow of oratory?

It may be said, of course, that the speeches are really intended for the people at home, rather than for the members of the House; but even so, the longer the speeches the less chance they have of getting to the people at home. The speeches are reported at length in Hansard, but how many of the people at home read Hansard? If the speeches were reduced to reasonable space the local newspapers would, no doubt, be glad to reprint them, and then they might serve a useful purpose.

Lack of proper preparation is probably responsible for the length of many of the speeches. When a man is not quite sure of what he should say and how he should say it, he is likely to ramble, repeat and become confused when he gets on his feet. The most effective speeches in which the points are clearly stated and appropriately emphasized are short. The more piling up of words without intelligent design is not oratory in any proper sense of the word.

CRISP COMMENTS

It cannot very well be denied that the O. T. A. has been responsible for a thriving new industry—home brewing, which has thousands of enthusiastic patrons.

Not one hair on a man's head is changed in the spirit world, declares Sir Arthur Doyle. This is rather rough on bald heads, who might reasonably be looking forward to a new thatch.

THE WISDOM OF WOMEN

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

Two women who were elected members of a municipal council in Michigan have resigned, feeling that they were wasting time. Politics, they declared, took too much of a woman's time from her duties as housewife, and they "would not be bothered" with such an argument over a paving contract."

And perhaps these women were right. It may be that women are too much right to devote their time to politics as men have; but after the right is acknowledged it does not follow that every woman is to insist on exercising it.

If a woman thinks that she can render a better service by attending to the duties of the home than by taking part in public affairs, she should be free to exercise their righ of staying at home. And it is no reflection on a woman's capacity for public affairs to say that many of them can render the best service right at home. There is completed lodgy that the home is being neglected, that the children in too many cases are not receiving the attention they should receive, that it is a serious complaint and one that deserves attention of wives and mothers, if the home is neglected that it cannot be remedied in the municipal council or even in the legislature.

It is to the credit of the women decided to go back to their household duties set an example that is worth considering. That is to say that there are not women who might render important service in a public way; it simply means that there are, perhaps for most women the home is the place where they can do their best work. It is to the credit of the women themselves that so many of them recognize this truth.

THE ROYAL BANNERS FORWARD

The Royal Banners forward go;
The Cross shines forth in mystic glow;
Where He in flesh, our flesh, who made
Our sentence bore, our ransom paid.

Where deep for us the spear was d'yd,
Life's torrent rushing from His side,
With wate us that precious flood
Where mingled water flow'd, and blood.

Fulfilled is all that David told
In true prophetic song of old;
Amidst the nations, God, saith he,
Hath reign'd and triumph'd from the tree.

O Tree of Beauty! Tree of Light!
O Tree with royal purple dight!
Elect on whose triumphal bread
Those holy limbs should find their rest!

On whose dear arms, so widely flung,
The weight of this world's ransom hung;
For price of human kind to pay,
And spoil the Spoiler of his prey.

O Cross, our one reliance, hail!
This holy Passion-tide avail!
Piy give fresh merit to the faithful,
And pardon to the penitent.

To Thee, Eternal Three in One,
Let homage meet by all be done;
When by the Cross Thou dost restore
Whom by the Tree we lost before.

This noble hymn was written about
A.D. 569 by Venantius Fortunatus, an Italian, who became Bishop of Poitiers.

Diogenes' Find

You have ended your quest for an honest man?

Yes, said Diogenes, as he put his lantern away.

Where did you find him

Holding public office. Instead of saying he was serving the people at a great personal sacrifice he said if he hadn't landed the job he might have starved to death.—From The Birmingham Age-Herald.

It Was Business

Arthur, said a young artist to a friend, do you see that lady and gentleman who are looking at my picture, and talking in such low, earnest tones?

Yes, replied the friend.

I wish you would saunter by carelessly, and find out what they are saying. It looks like business.

She is calling him down for staying out late last night, said the friend, returning.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

A neighbor of mine hesitates to plant in a new orchard because the annual cost of spraying it would be almost prohibitive. Besides it eats up time in the busiest season of the whole year. Fire insurance will be a mere trifle compared with the insurance which the farmer will have to pay up in the future for other things. The insect and the germ have to be fought and they go on as long as we are fed now, the fruit grower and the farmer will have to spray every season; thing we have brought from overseas, like my grass, like lucerne, his crop. He has to spray his trees nowadays, if he wants to get a fair crop. Potatoes must be sprayed before they appear, they must spray their bees. Soon we will have to spray the Khan. Spend the money, the old folks and the stranger that is within our gates. Within ten years on every farm in Ontario there will be a greater necessity than the manure spreader, the seed drill or the binder. As a matter of fact there will be no need for seed drills and binders if there be no sprayers.

Farmers will spray, and spray right, but most of them will spray care lessly or not at all. There will have to be compulsory spraying if we are to get the best results. The spraying machines should be under public owner ship and run by the local municipality.

Why is it that more people don't get married? I think I have hit upon one reason. Dunkander has just got married to Flossie Dunkander just eighteen months ago. He had saved up enough to get a little home and a cow to milk. Flossie had fifty dollars and a cow her father gave her and a settin' of hens her grandmother sent her and a goose and gander that her grannie gave her, and the Dearer League gave her a shower and the Ladies' Institute gave her a tin shower and the choir gave her a linen shower. Then they got married and they got spliced and set up housekeeping. This afternoon Mister Solpin called on me and asked me to join him in one of these figures, to wit, as follows:

Hospital expenses for Flora...$907.35
Second nurses for Flora..... 391.45
Ambulances, taxes, stretchers and corpares..... 900.00
Grocers' bills for feedin' the Dunkanders what come to see Flora after she was to home, which, fortunately, in one way, was lucky, because she was there always in the hospital a.....700.00

Total $2341.12

Now, dang his figures, we concluded to strike terror into the heart of the average young man who is thinking of entering into the state of matrimony. Joe has got a blister on his fifty acres and a chattel mortgage on his ten truck stock, and his cash for corn dry long ago. Everybody was milking her turn about and that won't do, you know, on Uncle's cow, get plumb disgusted and dried up, and now she's eating her head off.

What we need in this country is hospital insurance. If the Government insured every girl in the land against the hospital the married man's market would be crowded so that the butter shed and the packaters stands would be shored out like Mafia street.

Marriage is just like a lottery. Now it's a gamble, but it needn't always holds the jackpot. You can't get married to cut for a dial. If the right comes your turn to shake the dice. Then there is a distinct chance that the trained nurses and a staff now sitting into the game you will ask yourself in years to come whether you are married or not.

The women have got the vote. Let them make hospital insurance for it. Doctor's bills and dental fees are bigger than death, deformity and disease put together. Ask the women what for a royal commission. They can't refuse them—there are royal commissions given away for less. Make it as big a possible debt fall only on the afflicted or rather the relatives of the afflicted? Would it be wise to put all the hospitals and doctors in the nation under Government control? Religious and surgery are quite as necessary and a monopoly at that. You say that the hospital is a municipal affair? Then why should the municipality contribute to the Hospital for Sick Children.

But it is the girls I'm thinking of. A patriotic Government will take steps to make marriage a safe investment. I don't see why it could not be done on the lines of the Workmen's Compensation Act. There are so-called benevolent societies where the members pay in once every so often and then they get sick benefits and graveyard money. But they are almost exclusively male organizations. Let the ladies insure—ed. I would not ask the girls to pay dues—not at all. I would or rather we would, pay them. The nation would insure every girl in it and have the right to tax the costs for operations.

If something like this is not done marriage will fall into a state of inpecuous desuetude, by bridges!

WOULD PROHIBIT EXPORT OF POWER TO U. S. FROM CANADA

Ottawa, April 24.—Dr. H. Dealandre St. Maryn, Montreal, has given notice that he will bring before the Commons a resolution which would have the effect of prohibiting the export of electrical power from Canada to the United States. Dr. Desiaurier's resolution would assert "that whereas the exportation to the United States of the electric energy of the waters of Canada, promotes the progress of the United States to the detriment of Canada, it would be desirable that the Government place a prohibitive duty on this anti-national commerce.

SHIPPING SEASON MAY OPEN WITH LONGSHOREMEN'S STRIKE

Montreal, Que., April 23.—After peaceful relations since 1902, prospects are that the shipping season for Montreal will open with a strike of the longshoremen over the question of wages. The syndicated longshoremen of the port of Montreal have definitely decided that they will not accept the retail 20 cents an hour, which is a 10-cent per hour cut on last year's rate, offered by the Shipping Federation on behalf of all the steamship companies. The season opens this week and, it is men declare that they will not work. A statement was issued by the union to the above effect last night.

The Human Clock

"It has long been a favorite idea of mine to compare the human body with my old clock here.

"Without proper attention the old clock gets run down and stops until I wind it up again, and then it ticks away just as heartily and regularly as ever.

"And so it is with the human body, but the great difference I find is that the human clock usually breaks down instead of runs down, because people refuse to take proper care of their health.

"Through all these years I have managed to keep well and to keep young by using restorative treatment, whenever there are indications of the system becoming 'run down.'

"Fortunately I learned the value some years ago of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and to its use I largely attribute my healthful condition at this age.

"When I hear people talking about being unable to sleep, or of suffering from nervous headaches, indigestion or worn-out feelings, I ask them, 'Why do you not use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to increase your nervous energy?'"

Why Eddy matches are so uniform—

EDDY-TORIAL

The great industries and public utilities of to-day are the servants employed by modern society to serve itself.

Eddy's is an all-Canadian institution.

It is owned by Canadians, operated by Canadians, employs only Canadian capital, and its profits are kept in Canada for the development of other Canadian industries.

That it has attained national importance is proof that it has performed a needed service in an acceptable manner.

Always, everywhere in Canada ask for Eddy's Matches.

Some matches are different. Eddy's are all the same. Each Eddy is a sure, safe, reliable light.

Eddy matches have to be uniform—they can't help themselves. Made from close-grained Canadian white pine, kiln dried and carefully inspected, the powerful machines turn them out more uniform than soldiers on parade.

The water power harnessed at the great Chaudiere Falls which generates the electricity from their own modern Power House also ensures an unvarying uniformity in the running of the complex and highly specialized machinery of the Eddy factory.

Each Eddy match matches its fellow. And each and every day Eddy's great army of 120,000,000 matches advances into the multitudinous duties of another Canadian working day, each performing its functions of thrift, convenience, reliability.

Eddy matches light your way to happiness and comfort. This service Eddy's have been performing for over 70 years—matchlessly. Every Eddy will serve you as faithfully.

FOR A SNAPPY SPRING DAY!

Soft pongee slip, worn over blouse of contrasting color, is cool and economical to colored yarn is worn with a proper novel coast and cap of the same material.

MONEY SHADES FOR BLOUSES

Dainty Is Regarded With Keenest Favor This Spring, Manufacturer Just Returned, Reports.

"Romantic or honey shade, is the color the French are regarding with the keenest feeling at the moment," said a New York manufacturer of dresses, who returned from his season visit abroad. "Color, of course, is an ever changing, with the soft shades of warm amber in tone, verging on the golden, honey hues, occupying first place. In the same breath in which one mentions first place eight cannot be last of the prevalent colors that every dress is playing in the development of the dress for the new season. Hunet, Rosse, Bernard, Miller, Worth and others from whom I personally obtained models, are all united in their adherency of this material and the color that manifested.

"Contrary a different stand on the moonlight blue theme, which is still the general classification of the dress creation, is the use of tucked-under effects in the waistline. The tucking is executed at each side, grasping the fullness of fluidy, and turning it under, a pleasing effect.

"Fluid wear is represented by a model in pale rose, done in Persian crepe, unpreferred in broken stripe effects in widest rose. The covered stenching of the ring lines was the novel arrangement in what looked like "knot being tied centered upon the bare tone in the ultra-blouse" silhouette.

"Aprons and tunics are emphatically in vogue this spring. Individual differentiation of the adjunct was noted on an almost color crepe model, whereon a novel panel was stitched by a line cut to festooned page, with the usual stitching shaping it flatly over the stomach. The same effect was repeated on the tunic, wide sleeve, in this instance, the shirring mass forming a tucked cuff.

NEWPIE PINCUSHION IS CUTE

Novelty is Easy to Make; Few Pieces of Ribbon and Tulle Will Be Needed.

Riding like a little Venus from waves of tulle, the newpie calls attention to her captive pins. To make this the cushion you will need a cushion five inches square and two inches high, two yards of pink satin ribbon two inches wide, one-quarter yard of pink moiree, one-half of narrow pink satin ribbon and a cabbage newpie that will measure four inches after you have removed its legs. Wind the ribbon around the cushion across both sides, allowing the joining to come at the edge of the cushion. Wrap ribbon around the center in the same manner, then in the opposite direction. Tack ribbon around the base of the cushion with a loose knot in each corner. Make a rose, using the remaining piece of ribbon, as follows: Fold ribbon through center and gather it. Roll one end between your thumb and finger, wind it around and sew it to the front of the cushion. Cut the newpie's legs off and sew its body to the center. Cut mallows into fleet-inch strips and gather two of them together through centers to form double ruffles. Fasten them around the newpie holding them in place by tying the narrow ribbon around the waist.—Delineator.

Individual Style.

Fashion offers so many suggestions that may be individualized by a little bit of thought that there seems no reason why every woman should not be well and charmingly costumed. The selection of the right accessories is no small matter; even so trifling a thing as a hair ornament helps able to make or mar an entire outfit.

Medium-Sized Crowns.

Medium-sized crowns, fashioned to fit the head snugly, and brims of medium width are two of the style recommendations for spring, and the hats that is going to be worn back from the front promises to be very popular. Certainly this type of brim is comfortable and it is generally becoming.

PRINCE OF WALES TO VISIT SHRINE

Japan's Veneration for Her Great Leaders Noticeable in Tenno Shrine.

Tokio, April 24.—Japan's veneration for her great leaders of the past will be brought home to the Prince of Wales when he is taken on a pilgrimage to the sacred Tenno shrine, bordering on the ancient capital of Kyoto, burial place of Meiji Tenno, father of the present ruler and the great figurehead of the restoration period; and of Jimmu Tenno, founder of the empire.

The Meiji tomb is situated at Momoyama, a wooded eminence some five miles from Kyoto, a spot which little emperor is said to have chosen as his last resting place.

The tomb itself is remarkably simple, consisting of a huge mound of concrete, covered with 300,000 minute slabs of white granite and so constructed as to withstand the ravages of time and nature. The mound rests on a terraced slope, behind which, amphitheatre-like, is a grove of trees, the open space in front being covered with fine white sand, while around it is a double line of stone fences pierced by "torii" gates bearing the imperial insignia.

This district is particularly rich in historical associations. It is the site of the famous palace of the dictator Hideyoshi, built in 1594 but now completely destroyed. It is said to have been the most magnificent mansion ever built in Japan. Here, too, not far from the Meiji tomb is the mausoleum of the Emperor Kwanmu, who in 792 founded the Imperial capital of Kyoto, a distinction which belonged to this city until Meiji Tenno moved to Tokio in modern times.

The mausoleum of Jimmu Tenno is built on the low hill of Unebi overlooking the romantic land of Yamato, where in the dim ages was founded the empire of Japan. It is a large mound of tumulus of stone and earth, surrounded by ancient trees and a double line of moats.

To both these tombs are attached shrines, simple and severe in aspect, perfect examples of Shinto architecture. That dedicated to the founder of Japan is situated at Kashiwabala, at the foot of Mt. Unebi, while the Meiji Shrine, in recognition of that Emperor's long connection with Mme. Joffre and her daughter feeding the holy deer in the Garden of Sarusa Miyajin, ancient shrine of Japan, during Marshal Joffre's visit to the Orient.

HAVE TO PAY A FINE OR GO TO CHURCH

This Alternative is Suggested by Rev. Robert Forman Horton.

London, April 25.—The alternative of going to church on Sunday or paying a fine is suggested by the Rev. Robert Forman Horton, one of Nonconformist leaders, noted Non-conformist minister, as a means of raising sufficient revenue "to put the country without plunging it into bankruptcy". Such legislation, he declares, would net $100,000,000 a year.

Dr. Horton's suggestion is said to be based on a law passed in the reign of Edward VI., when anyone absenting himself from church "without lawful or reasonable excuse" was fined one shilling. The law was repealed, but re-enacted and rigidly enforced in subsequent reigns.

The 30 or more officials in the square file around the Bank of England contained full congregations in those days, but few persons enter them on weekdays now except American tourists, and the Sunday congregations Dr. Horton declares, do not exceed a baker's dozen.

The Bishop of London has even gone so far as to suggest that some of them be demolished and the valuable sites sold to provide funds with which churches could be built in other parts of the city.

This suggestion brought a deluge of complaints upon the Bishop, but strange to say, they were not from persons identified with church affairs. Almost without exception they came from financiers, who maintained that the sights of these old churches served a very good purpose in softening the hearts of "money-mad people" who gazed upon them as they hurried by.

MONASTIR, DISASTER SAID TO HAVE BEEN EXAGGERATED

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Mrs. Henry B. Harris, widow of Henry B. Harris, the famous theatrical manager, is the first woman to make an unqualified success of the business side of the theatrical game, the owns outright, three theatres in New York city and comes from her country place to her office every morning and reads plays, attends rehearsals, and selects casts.

Miss Charlotte McGovern of Brownsville, Tex., deputy sheriff of Cameron county for several years, was acting sheriff recently while Sheriff Henry Ford case held her superior in the north. Her duties include directing the peace officers, and preserving order "down on the border," as well as the less responsible but no less dignified business of opening court.

Lady Beatty, who is the wife of the British admiral and daughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago, pays more taxes than her annual income of $50,000, due to the 40 per cent on her income in the United States because it is in excess of $200,000 and 50 per cent in Great Britain. So $200,000 of income costs her $210,000.

TUBERCULOSIS KILLING OUT INDIANS OF COAST RESERVE

Vancouver, B.C., April 24.—Unless something is done to prevent the spread of tuberculosis among Indians of Alert Bay and other coast reserves, the Indian will be only a memory, according to the report of C. Tips to Housewives

A dash of salt added to the whipping of cream makes it whip more quickly.

Keep your baking pins in the pin board with the head down. What's sharp knife slips the blade very little down by the cord, but does not get through. When enough slices are cut run the knife under the slices very close to the rind and the slices will go free.

A leaking fountain pen may often be put right by dropping a few drops of its reservoir and replacing the nib before screwing on the ink supply.

Before being dropped into hot water rasolins or cod liver oil bottles should be slightly heated until the remaining contents run to the bottom and then held on their sides to coat with hardened the ingredients can be easily got at and the amount is economized.

GEORGES MAY LOSE PRESTIGE

Frenchman Has Little to Gain in Bout With Ted Lewis.

Whether Jack Dempsey is to get another match with Georges Carpentier may be determined on May 11, when the Frenchman steps into the ring for 20 rounds in London. The arrival of Dempsey and Johnny Kilbane in England makes matchmaking easy for Promoter Hitchcock, and there is no important boxing upon Carpentier's fixture, except that Carpentier has gone into hard training for the mill interest is aroused. It is a notable that promoters do not express a desire to see Lewis never was rated very highly. Even when he and Carpentier fought it was a poor bout, often a glum fighter. The veteran Jack Britton was the outstanding first class welterweight in the Carpentier bakers. Was little credit to mill Ted Lewis.

The last the English-American-Englishman could do with Tiger Smith Champion Terry Leonard was to stand him out in a tame exhibition in which each man performed as though he were in deadly fear of the other. Then, when the ancient Britton knocked Lewis out with his tapping glove, it was looked as though Ted had reached the end of his ring career. In his last American appearance he was beaten easily by Eagle Farmer, who made him look like a second rater.

But when Lewis landed in England he took a new lease on life. Over there he has won every bout in which he has taken part, most of them with knockouts. He is now a welterweight, middleweight and light heavyweight champion of England.

Whether Lewis has been able to win because the opposition was so weak or whether he has really improved is the question. Lewis says that he always could fight better in England than in America because the climate of his own country agrees with him.

He was in poor health for a long time while in the U. S., a condition that resulted from infected teeth. It was while he was weak from the poison in his system that he was knocked out by Britton. Shortly before he went abroad Lewis discovered that the cause of his trouble lay in his teeth and he had them fixed up. It may be that this is the reason why he has done so well of late.

Bog McCormick and Jack Bloomfield two of the best Jewish beef wrestlers have been matched to settle the American championship, a light heavyweight, did some very good fighting in Utah Saturday night. Bloomfield, however battling Levinsky so bad that he hates looking and lost the bout. He held the highly touted Tom Dickson to a draw. Lewis knocked Boy out in a few rounds which seems to put Ted in Carpentier's class despite the difference in weight.

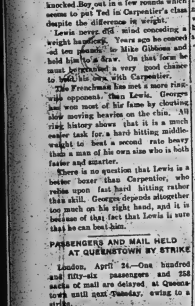

Lewis never did mind conceding a weight handicap. Years ago he conceded ten pounds to Mike Gibbons and held him to a draw. On that form he must be promised a very good chance to battle his own with Carpentier.

The Frenchman has met a more ring-wise opponent than Lewis. Georges has won most of his fame by clowning their moving heavies on the chin. All ring history shows that it is a much easier task for a hard hitting middleweight to beat a second rate heavy than a man of his own size who is both faster and smarter.

There is no question that Lewis is a better boxer than Carpentier, who relies upon fast hard hitting rather than skill. Georges depends altogether too much on his right hand, and it is because of that fact that Lewis is sure that he can beat him.

TEAMS PLAY SCORELESS TIE

Albert College and Tiger Tires Battle to a Draw.

An exhibition game was played between three teams on Saturday afternoon on the College grounds. The weather was anything but ideal for football as a little snow had fallen making the ground very greasy. The Students won the toss and chose the advantage of the breeze. From the kick-off W. Hucking got away on the wing but was stopped by the defence, who cleared to mid-field. The ball was passed over to Yates on the left and was near the Tigers goal when Davis cleared. Barry now took possession and Baker dribbled in but shot by. From the goal kick the Students pressed and Dedwell shot over. After this the Tigers went to the other end but could not beat the goalie. Mid field play followed for a time until Yeates made a good run and just missed the post with a good shot. Half time came with no scores.

During the interval the Tigers changed their wing men Hucking taking over on the right, which improved the play. Both teams now showed good combination. First one goalie was tested and then the other but each kept their goals clear and the final came with no scoring. Mr. W. Reeves acted as referee and his decisions were satisfactory to both teams.

Yerex, also the high three string of 563.

SMALL BONE IN GONZALES' HEAD IS FRACTURED

Toronto, April 25.—The injury of Wiry Gonzales, Toronto second baseman, is more serious than was at first thought, it having been discovered that a small bone in his head is fractured, which means that he will be out of the game for several weeks at least. Some players, after getting a blow of the nature that he received, became bat shy, and lose their form completely. Rodriguez, the shifty first baseman of the Rochester Club several years ago, and also a Cuban, was going along at a great clip when he was hit with a pitcher's ball and his average dropped to nothing. What effect Gonzalez' injury will have on his batting remains to be seen.

At present druggists pay excise of $9 a gallon, while the pharmaceutical companies pay only $2.50 a gallon. The druggists say they are being discriminated against, as they cannot make preparations as cheaply as the drug companies.

SPORTSTUFF

Here's hoping it's plenty good.

To see the lads chasing around after the old pill brings back memories of the old time popular songs that would be very appropriate right now. Something like: "After the Ball, Sweetheart, I'll be running home to you."

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH

The home run in yesterday's game don't mean anything today.

Ever hear of a baseball proposal. The boy says: "Will you sign up with me for life?" And the sweet woman replies: "Sure, where's your diamond?"

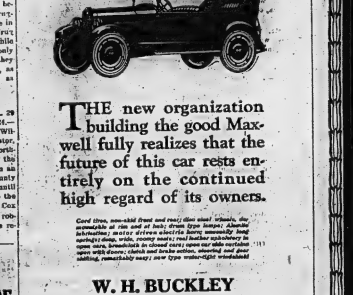

King George has a chance to win the English derby. This is where everybody will get right behind His Majesty and root in the hope that he duplicates the late King Edward's success in the paddock.

Jack Dempsey was entertained by Lord Northcliffe the other day. He never escape from defeat, when she only succeeded in winning from Miss Bristed after two of the hardest sets seen during the tournament. The scores were 6-4, 8-6. Miss Langlen's arrangement this year being that the first player reaching six games wins the set.

Mlle. Lenglen expressed confidence in her ability to defeat Mrs. Mallory, saying she considered Miss Elizabeth Ryan a much more dangerous player.

ARE WE AS A NATION TO BE BALD, TOOTHLESS AND BLIND ?

We're told that baldness is certainly increasing. A splendid beginning has been made in dental hygiene. But defective vision, prevails alarmingly.

The Hoover Committee on Elimination of Waste in industry recently reported that more than half of our industrial workers are suffering from poor eyesight. Many we are told have same ailment affects one-quarter of our school kids.

This visual weakness is only in part due to intensive reading and study, though these, of course, aggravate it.

Our Optometrist makes a most searching examination and is reasonable in his fee.

No better service anywhere!

Chicago, April 24.—Mary Garden has retired as Director of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. This action has been forecast for some time, but intimations that she would resign have always been met by denials from Garden's authority. She arrived in Chicago 24 hours ahead of her company, went into an executive session with the Directors of the opera, and then issued a statement to the Press announcing she had decided to lay aside her duties as artistic manager.

The Committee was also empowered to have the new school grounds in Coleman Ward sided.

Coil Poulan moved, seconded by Mr. McGie, that the Board approve of the principle of securing a superintendent of schools, whose duties would be to look after repair work and keeping an inventory of the school requisites.

threatened crises that he had learned that the bite of the plenipotentiaries was not as bad as their bark. The British and United States correspondents are giving a dinner of a hundred covers in honor of Lloyd George on Wednesday.

Another new twist in the Russian tangle again causes disquietude in conference circles. Besides the Russian delegates have developed a new set of proposals. It is understood that at the meeting of the experts of the Russian question this afternoon the Soviet delegates argued for the complete wiping out of the war debts and also relinquishment of all arrears in interest on pre-war debts.

Simultaneously they asked for assurances that the powers would grant loans sufficient to enable Russia to re-organize her national life.

POSTAL CHECKING ACCOUNT SYSTEM STARTED IN SWEDEN

Stockholm, April 25—A postal checking account system whereby the Swedish post office department will be enabled to do a limited commercial banking business is proposed in a bill recently submitted to the Riksdag and sponsored by Anders Oerne, Minister of Communications, the bill also provides that the present postal savings department be merged with the post office service.

Under the proposed system, which is meeting some opposition from the banking interests of the country, small depositors in the reorganized postal savings banks could draw their own checks instead of using the postal money orders. This system, Minister Oerne contends, would result in saving in the salaries of the officials and money order clerks and other expenses. He declares that long lists of qualified clerical force how required could handle the work under the new arrangement.

Minister Oerne states that the proposed postal checking system will be of incalculable value to small depositors and especially to people in rural communities where there are no banking facilities.

ASK DAMAGES FOR SEIZURE

Distilleries Ask $20,000 Damages for Seizure of Liquor Here.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

Case Will be Heard Further on May 1st in City of Toronto.

The latest development in the sensational liquor seizure which occurred here last week is the issuing of a writ of damages by the Consolidated Distilleries of Corbyville and G. & R. Weodward, of Toronto for $20,000 against the Provincial Police Force represented by Chief of Provincial Police Elliott, and Provincial Officers Aimey and Hughes, who are stationed in the City at Belleville.

The plaintiffs are represented by Porter, Butler and Payne, who on April 25th took out an injunction against the defendants restraining them from seizing upon any liquor shipped by the Consolidated Distilleries for export sale to parties outside of the Dominion of Canada. The injunction is of an interim character and is good up till May 1st when the case will be heard further at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, before the Master in Chambers for the continuation of the interim injunction or final disposition of the case.

The plaintiffs allege damages to the extent of $20,000 and also ask for a declaration as to the rights of the plaintiffs in the matter of the ownership of the liquor.

AWAIT ORDERS FOR RUSS. RELIEF

Literature Depicting Terrible Conditions in Russia Will be Distributed.

Nothing further has transpired in Russian Relief Fund circles during the past few days, according to information supplied by Mayor Chas. Hanna, this morning to The Intelligencer.

The Russian Relief Fund for this city is not yet thoroughly organized, Mayor Hanna explained, as Ottawa is expected daily by the officials here. As soon as word has been received, and no further steps will be taken until definite instructions are received.

Mayor Hanna has received a large consignment of literature dealing with the Russian famine conditions, and he purposes having the Boy Scouts distribute this literature about the city so that by gaining a first hand, terrible, actual photographs of the conditions in stricken Russia, and then reading about said conditions, our citizens may more thoroughly appreciate the extreme worthiness of the cause.

SIR ROBERT VISITING

London, April 26.—Sir Robert Borden has arrived here and is the guest of Sir Campbell Stuart, Deputy Chairman of the Times.

G. T. R. OFFICER MAKES ARREST

Offenders Under Railway Act to be Strictly Dealt With.

George Whitson, while on route from the Chippewa Canal to Montreal, on Grand Trunk Railway (side door pullman), was arrested by Grand Trunk Officer Sgt. P. Maker and taken to the police station at an early hour this morning.

George explained that he had been trying to secure employment on the Chippewa canal, and being unsuccessful, was on his way to Montreal, where he is in Halifax, and he states that he hasn't been in trouble in 17 years, is a returned soldier and single. He reports that work is very scarce all over Ontario.

Magistrate Masson has recently received instructions to deal strictly with cases of breach of the Railway Act, and in the future, it will be an unfortunate occurrence for the "Knight of the Road" who appears before him.

Whitson was remanded for one week, during which time he is to endeavor to produce character evidence from his home district, which will largely determine his sentence.

Moral—The way of the "trespasser" is hard.

WILL FORM DAIRYMEN'S POOL

Huge Co-Operative Scheme is Sponsored by Minister of Agriculture.

PROVINCE-WIDE

Bill Authorizing Organization Has Been Introduced in the House.

Toronto, April 26.—The organization of the dairymen of the Province into a huge co-operative marketing organization somewhat upon the lines of the famous California system, is the object Hon. Manning Doherty has in view in asking the House to pass legislation to incorporate the "Ontario Co-operative Dairy Products, Limited." The bill was submitted to the House by the Minister yesterday, and is the first step of a carefully laid out plan by which it is hoped to bring into one compact organization by the Fall of the present year a large percentage of the butter and cheese producers of Ontario.

For some time past the Minister has been working out the general lines of the plan for putting the big scheme across. Members of the O.A.C. staff have been working upon a thorough dairy survey, and this data will be submitted sometime in May to a conference of representatives of every dairying country in the Province, each of whom will be asked to take over the work in his own district. These representatives will canvass the local situation, submit information as to the number of producers, output, and so forth, and inform the department regarding sentiment toward the scheme. Following this the department, early in June, will undertake an extensive educational campaign to explain the scheme to the producers, and Aaron Sapiro, the California authority on co-operative marketing, will be brought up to assist. Always, it is stated, the Minister has received assurances of co-operation from some of the largest cheese producers in the Province, who are willing to throw their whole output into the pool.

EMMANUEL HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The Pastor Reviews Interesting Happenings of Past Successful Year.

The annual parish meeting at Emmanuel Church was held on Tuesday evening, the 25th. The Rector, Rev. George Marchant presided and after the opening exercises and the attendance was just about the same as in past years, he would like to have seen a larger company, but after all, a small attendance at the annual meeting is often an indication that everybody is satisfied, had there been dissatisfaction, division and contention, he had no doubt there would have been present.

He welcomed all before him, and desired to take that opportunity of expressing his satisfaction and appreciation of the hearty manner in which the Wardens, the Vestry, and all the workers had supported him another year.

All were urged to even more energetic, and aggressive work, as he was convinced that when the church ceased going forward it commenced going backward.

It was desirable that all present should take an active interest in the procuring of this, their annual meeting, as such opportunity would be given for any question or remarks that any member desired to make.

The Rector explained that at the Tyrendal Council, that he attended at Philadelphia last summer, the question of up-to-date financing was again brought on for discussion, and a resolution was passed directing that all the funds be applied and asked to adopt the system. Our synod at Toronto, last fall had the matter before them, and passed on to the Vestries a recommendation urging its adoption the method, and the apportionments were then explained in detail. The rector also reported that after much debate and discussion the Council reached the conclusion that its doors should no longer be closed to women. It was therefore, now in the hand of

PEACE TALK IN IRELAND

Conference of Free State and Republican Leaders Met Today.

ACTION DEFERRED

New Differences have Arisen Over the Appointment of Rail Board.

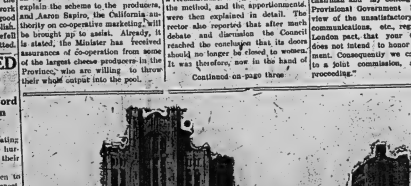

Dublin, April 25.—Efforts to secure peace in southern Ireland were renewed today with the reassembling of the conference between the Free State and republican leaders. Three labor delegates, Alderman O'Brien, Thomas Johnson and Cathai O'Shannon, were in attendance and their presence is taken to mean that definite peace proposals would be submitted.

The conference continued in the afternoon when it adjourned until Saturday. The labor leaders in the interval will consult with the other sections of the conference.

Belfast—Serious differenced have arisen between the Northern and Provisional Governments over the appointment of the joint commission for railway affairs, provided for in the February agreement. The Provisional Government today nominated its man independently of the Northern Government.

Minister of Labor Andrews of the Ulster Government yesterday made public correspondence with Joseph McGrath, Labor Minister in the Dail Eireann Cabinet, which contained the following letter from Mr. McGrath:

"We have to inform you that the chairman and my colleagues of the Provisional Government believe, in view of the unsatisfactory replies to communications, etc., regarding the London pact, that your Government does not intend to honor the agreement. Consequently we cannot agree to a joint commission, and intend proceeding."

The new Masonic Temple now under construction in Detroit, as it will look when finished. Its cost will be $5,000,000.

MEMBER FOR NORTH HASTINGS MAKES SPLENDID ADDRESS

J. R. Cooke Makes a Notable Contribution to the Budget Debate in the Legislature — Shows How Separate Schools Profit in the Matter of School Grants.

Toronto, April 26.—Hon. R. H. Grant's statement, explaining the policies of his department in reference to the distribution of rural, public and separate school grants, formed an equally extended reply in the House yesterday from J. R. Cooke, Conservative member for North Hastings. Mr. Cooke, who contributed one of the finest addresses heard in the course of the long-drawn out budget debate, attacked the Government's general record from the standpoint of a practical farmer, but the major part of his address dealt with the problems of rural education and particularly with the administrative policy of the Government in the distribution of the grants. It will be remembered that the Minister of Education, in his statement, declared that the division of the legislative grant between public and separate schools was based, as required by statute, upon school attendance, and explained the apparent disparity in grants by pointing out that while the public schools absorbed their whole grant the separate schools, because of lower salaries, etc., did not earn much over one-half their share; but that since the law required the distribution among the separate schools as a whole of their proper share of all appropriations the unearned balance had to be distributed pro rata among the schools benefiting in the first instance.

Mr. Cooke did not enter into any argument upon the legal question involved in this, but went subsequently to the matter to show how the present system was giving some separate schools grants far in excess of those given the public schools. He admitted that the Government had been a "seeing" Government in having to deal with legislation half a century old, but pointed out that the late Government had taken a different interpretation from 1908 to 1917, which returned into the Treasury many thousands of dollars in unearned grants which, under the system now followed, were distributed among schools which had not earned them.

WET WEATHER DELAYS SEEDING

Fall Wheat and Clover is Fairly Promising This Year.

Following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives in the Ontario Departmental of Agriculture:

Eastern districts had seeding well further delayed by the wet conditions of the land during the week, especially the low lying fields. On high and well drained soils little seeding was done. A considerable quantity of old oats will be used for seeding purposes, as most of last year's growth was of poor sample for seed.

Fall wheat is on the whole fairly promising, although Elgin and Norfolk say that the fields do not look as well as earlier in the season, being a little spotty from ice forming. Hurlbut thinks the crop is in about average condition. Grey remarks that fall wheat never looked better. North Himoe says that the fields are not too promising, while South Simcoe says prospects are brighter. Brant and Perth speak of the crop as making good growth, and Waterloo says that it came through the winter well and that fields now look dark green.

Clover has done fairly well in most cases, but still hardly equal fal wheat for wintering.

Hay has been purchased around $17 a ton in the Port Arthur District for shipment to Montreal.

Potatoes have been selling at this encouraging prices in the northern part of the Province. Port Arthur reports sales at a dollar a bag, with very little demand. Six carloads were recently bought at Kakabeka Falls at 70 cents a bag.

Frontenac says: "Many farmers are intending to sow sweet clover over their new seeding with the hope of getting a better covering. Some are mixing ordinary grass seed and clover for this purpose. Sweet clover and alfalfa are gaining in importance as hay crops among our farmers."

Judging by the fruit buds orchards should be fairly generous in yield this season where they have not been neglected.

Speaking of the severe ice-storm of March 31st, Brant says: "In the old unpruned orchards the storm did a great deal of damage, breaking the trees down very badly. In the healthier and better pruned orchards the damage was not so serious, however. Northern Spy trees split up pretty badly."

It would look as if the bulk of well finished cattle have been disposed of, and that most of those remaining are of the butcher type and will be finished on grass.

A carload of well fed cattle averaging about 1,300 lbs., was shipped from the county of Grey during the week.

North Simcoe states that the high real price for pure-bred Shorthorn cows at a recent farm sale was $160.

Peel states that at a dispersion sale, good grade Holstein cows, in excellent condition brought from $75 to $160.

Dufferin states that good grade dairy cows have sold at auction as high as $125, and Lanark says that some good milkers have gone over the $100 mark.

More farmers in Victoria are taking up milk testing.

Grey says that the general opinion is, that county is that the sending of hogs will be a good thing for the producer.

Little pigs have been selling in North Simcoe, and Frontenac at $10 a pair; in Brant at $12 a pair, and in Port Arthur as high as $8 each.

Grey claims that one man in Bentinck township has twenty-nine lambs from ten ewes.

Good horses are selling around $175 county a nice three-year old grade each in Brant, and from $160 to $175 Clydesdale mare sold for $207.50.

GANG OF BOY THIEVES BETRAYED BY GIRL LEADER

Vancouver, April 24.—Twenty-three boys and one girl, ranging in age from 13 to 16 years old, constituting what were known as the "Hamilton Street Gang" and the "Helmick Gang," have been arrested in connection with a series of automobile robberies, which have occurred in the last four months. The girl has made a statement implicating all the boys now held.

This girl, say the police, was the "Queen" of the gangs, which were organized on the Apache style, to satisfy her whims. Numerous confectioneries were broken into and looted, the thieves making their escape in stolen automobiles.

Four Scientists Declare That They Were Libelled

By Stefansson's Story

Four prominent scientists with the Southern party of the Stefansson-Anderson expedition have forwarded a petition to Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Mines, asking that a commission be appointed to investigate the organization, conduct and events of the expedition, and to determine the truth or falsity of charges made by Mr. Stefansson. The petitioners are Dr. R. M. Anderson, acting chief Biological Division, Department of Mines, Ottawa, and formerly chief of the Southern party of the expedition; R. G. Chipman, topographical engineer, Geological Survey, Ottawa, and formerly chief topographer of the Southern party; J. J. O'Neill, acting assistant professor of economic geology, McGill University, formerly geologist with the Southern party; and D. Jenness, anthropologist, Division of Anthropology, Ottawa, formerly ethnologist with the Southern party.

The petitioners declare that they were members of the Southern party of the expedition, while at the same time holding positions on the staff of the Geological Survey of Canada. They claim that, since the return from the Arctic in 1918, Mr. Stefansson has attempted to discredit the scientific staff of the expedition and, indirectly, the Geological Survey of the Department of Mines.

Mr. Stefansson," says the petition, "has repeated many of these slanderous statements in his recent book, 'The Friendly Arctic,' which, to be unjustifiable, needs to be an official publication."

"In this book," Mr. Stefansson has made statements which reflect upon the undersigned, and are such serious reflections upon their personal honor that they are determined in justice to their personal and professional reputations, to defend themselves of the unjustifiable charges made against them."

The principal charges for investigation are arranged in the petition as follows:

1. An alleged conspiracy, insubordination and attempted mutiny at Collinson Point, August 12, 1914.

2. R. M. Anderson is falsely charged with failure to transmit an important letter of instructions to Ottawa, and to inform the press of Mr. Stefansson's movements.

3. An untrue charge that R. M. Anderson disobeyed instructions in 1916.

4. In "The Friendly Arctic," Mr. Stefansson has libelled the honor and personal scientific reputations of the scientific men of the expedition, both living and dead.

5. Mr. Stefansson has published false statements which were made by members of the various crews, though such statements had been contradicted by responsible officers.

6. The undersigned allege that, though the expedition was under taken at Government expense, to obtain scientific and other information for the Government of Canada, it was used by Mr. Stefansson for his own aggrandisement and personal profit.

7. The good faith and judgment of responsible officers of the Geological Survey has been called into question, while, at the same time, over 90 per cent of the permanent scientific results of the expedition] were due to the work of these members of the Geological Survey.

8. The documents filed at Ottawa demonstrate that the scientific staff of the expedition have been assailed because they attempted to carry out their official instructions.

"We, therefore," the petition concludes, "respectfully request that a commission be appointed to investigate the organization, conduct and events of the Canadian Arctic expedition of 1913-18, to determine the truth or falsity of the charges made by Vilhjalmur Stefansson against the officers of the Canadian Government who were associated with him during the Canadian Arctic expedition of 1913-18."

The petition is signed by the four scientists whose names are indicated above.

WALLACE REID AT REGENT

Wallace Reid's new Paramount picture, "The Hell Diggers" which is in view at the Regent Theatre, tonight, is attracting large audiences. The picture is dramatic and thrilling and the supporting cast headed by dainty Lila Wilson, is highly capable. The picture is being shown for the last time tonight, along with a 2-reel "Sonnie's Monkey comedy, Pathe Review No. 17 the latest chapter of "Fighting Fate" serial.

BOYS' WORK NIGHT WITH THE REX STOCK COMPANY AT GRIFFIN'S TO-MORROW

Come on, let's go, don't be a piker, kick in with a little small change, stop some Lion or Rotarian on the street and get tickets for that show tomorrow night. You might as well as a way, for in this manner the money will be raised, and you will get some show for the money. If you didn't come one would only come around the next day and take a few spot coins from you, and all you would get for it would be "The Joy of Giving."

Some of you have seen on the street to-day and said: "Why is that show to be only for Lions and Rotarians, and not for everyone?" Well, you can't likewise get the idea out of your head This Show is For Everyone and Everyone has Got to Come On.

Personally, allow me to say, that as far as the play itself is concerned, I think it is about the best comedy we have ever played. It is so planned human, and when the laughs start, they come fast and furious. If you don't believe me, try it yourself. Try starting to-morrow and tell the middle boys about it, and then the Truth to everything mind you. If your best girls asks you how you like her in her new easter bonnet, and down in your heart you think it looks rotten you will have to say "Helen, My Dear," and then get out of the hospital, some of the boys can tell you how they liked the show.

My Challenge is still uncalled, I stated publicly, that I would put up ten bucks, if four other chaps will and we will buy the gallery outright, and give it to the new boys and other kiddies who happen to be a bit shy on change.

The Rotary club, and The Lions have promised to put on good stunts too, there ought to be something doing.

Yours for, Boys' Work—Rex.

REX STOCK COMPANY PRESENT "PRICE SHE PAID" AT GRIFFIN'S TONIGHT

The Rex Stock Company are presenting "The Price She Paid" at Griffin's tonight, though the subject is a great one, and some of the scenes very tense, the comedy predominates.

Rex portrays the role of Robert Stafford, a Captain of Industry and farming financier, an entirely new role for him different from anything he has so far done here, and his portrayal of the character is convincing and pleasing.

Zana Vaughn has an opportunity to do some fine acting, first in the role of the poor girl, and later in the role of Virginia Stafford, the financiers' wife.

The roles of Jimmie Gillis and his wife Fanny, the two comedy characters of the story are in the capable hands of "Bill" Yale and Florence Winters, who keep the audience in good humor throughout the play.

FAMOUS BAND HERE NEXT WEEK

Scots' Guards' Band on Tour of Canada—In Belleville Friday, May 5.

The forthcoming tour of His Majesty's Scots Guards' Band, which performs in this city on May 5th, is arousing widespread interest throughout the Dominion. The tour, which has been arranged under the personal direction of Dr. Charles Harriss of Toronto, by the consent of the Lord of the Islands, Great Yarmouth, Lowestoft, and Norwich, will be the first visit of the band in the previous musical history of this country. The reputation of the Scots Guards is unexcelled in the British Army, and the fame of its great conductor, Lieut. F. W. Wood extend over two continents. It was only after a special request had been presented through the Canadian Government to His Majesty the King, asking for permission for the Guards to come to Canada, that the arrangements of the tour were made possible. Dr. Harriss, who has been the moving spirit in the negotiations throughout, had the honor of conducting the Scots Guards, among other bands when he appeared in Hyde Park in 1919, the vast Imperial Choir of ten thousand voices with the massed bands of the whole Islands of Guards, and when all the members of the Royal Family personally attended. Advance programmes of the concerts to be given by the Scots Guards here indicate that these concerts will be of an unparalled high standard, embracing the greatest ensembles and modern composers. Rotary Clubs from the Atlantic to the Pacific are already preparing the stages of the concert.

HIGH RECORD IN BOND SALES

Huge Canadian Loan Floated on the New York Market.

New York, April 26.—Public offerings of bonds this week will exceed $200,000,000, a new high record for the year.

To-day's flotations alone were nearly $150,000,000, which is within a few millions of last week's total, the previous record. With $45,000,000 of corporate stock of New York city to be offered to-morrow, the week's record probably will approach, if not exceed, that of any week since those of war-time issues.

Both the Canadian Government loan of $105,000,000 offered by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Company, and the $40,000,000 issue of the Empire Gas and Fuel Company, offered by a syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart and Company, which were placed at par yesterday were reported over-subscribed within a few hours after the stock exchanges opened.

Success of the Canadian and local offerings was attributed to the vast amount, in search of sterling investment in the local market, the improved credit of both the Dominion and the municipality, and the tax exemption features.

PRIOR CONSULTATION.

The prospect of Great Britain having added to the army of millions of unemployed a vast number of engineers, estimated at 400,000, amounts to a national misfortune, especially as the difference between them and the employers seems to be largely one of equal bargaining. The engineer workers maintain that before any change is made in the established customs and practices of the shops in which they were employed they have a right to have the intended change notified to them to enter into discussion concerning it with the management. If objection is taken to it, the union contends, it is necessary to make use of the machinery of negotiation provided for the trade, just as if the trade union desired a change. It would have to make use of the machinery before any strike or similar action could be taken.

The employers contest this right and say they have the right to make any change they please, subject only to the right of the unions to discuss the matter afterwards. It hardly is necessary to point out that the fair discussion of a proposed change is very gravely prejudiced if the change is actually made against the will of one of the parties, before the discussion takes place. The employers maintain that the making of decisions is a function of management.

The engineers are the aristocrats of the shops and anxious to resist encroachment upon their preserves. They will probably insist that the workers have an equal right with the employers to determine the conditions under which they will give their services. It is unfortunate that this difference has arisen at a time when Britain needs all her efforts to recover her industrial supremacy.

BRITISH DYE INDUSTRY.

Nothing so well exemplifies the practical value of scientific research work as the British dye industry, now happily winning its way to success over German competition. The story of Sir William Perkin's great discoveries in the manufacture of aniline dyes, of the lack of enterprise on the part of the British authorities which permitted the great benefit of these discoveries to pass into the hands of the Germans, and of the attempt to recapture the industry by Great Britain during the war, when German exportations were cut off, is too well known to need reiteration. But what is of immediate interest in the fact that British chemists are working out new and secret processes, independently of the methods employed by German manufacturers, and are producing dyestuffs of a quality said to be superior to that obtainable anywhere else in the world. In a state ment published on Saturday last it was stated that 90 per cent. of the color being used this spring in Britain was of home manufacture. Australia will not permit the importation of any dyes but those manufactured in Britain, and many other countries have placed heavy restrictions against the entry of German products, thus virtually restoring the monopoly formerly enjoyed by Germany in this industry has already disappeared, and there is no doubt that the enormous efforts and the tremendous expenditure made by British firms will be amply repaid.

The British Dye Stuffs corporation gave an exhibition in London early in the present month, the result being a revelation as to the progress which has been made. Brigadier-General Sir William Alexander declared that "the remarkable achievements of Dr. Renshaw and Mr. Fairbrother, who had been investigating the effects of dye stuffs on the bacilli which were the causes of many diseases, had already reached a point which justified the highest hope that a tremendous step forward had been taken towards the final conquest of many terrible scourges which brought suffering to humanity." Research in dye stuffs industry, he said, had created and maintained a highly trained and experienced body of organic chemists in Britain, who in times of stress could apply themselves to any problem of national urgency, whether of peace or war.

It is reported that the Germans are endeavoring to "find a leakage" in the British Dye Stuffs Act. On the score of quality, it is not possible for them now to destroy the effect of British competition in the markets of the world. Sir William Alexander announces that processes have been perfected to such an extent that it is only the depreciated German currency and the risk of that favorite trick of German manufacturers of dumping their goods below cost, in order to crush their rivals, that renders the protection of the Dye Stuffs Act necessary. The history of the British dye-stuff trade in Britain is of peculiar interest to this country, seeing that such a niggardly policy has been followed in matters of research work. No country offers a more promising field than Canada for the scientific researcher, yet few countries have done so little to encourage him in his work.

LIVESTOCK OF LOW GRADE
Kansas City Star

Strictly speaking, there are a few farm animals left in the United States that have not had the benefit of some improvement in breeding, and on the whole, when taken taken long steps for ward the grading up of our farm stock. But a survey of the situation will convince anyone that the average grade of American livestock is lamentably low. Only a fraction of a per cent. of the animals are pure bred. The great majority, in most cases, only a small per cent. of the sires used are of this class.

THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED
Brooklyn Eagle

Both sides in this industrial war which threatens to paralyze industry and disorganize the whole economic system of the nation, are acting on the assumption that the public interest is secondary. This is the story of the history of every similar struggle here or abroad. In the last analysis, the public will be the judge by the press are of public opinion. Yet this calamity has been precipitated under conditions which make it difficult for the public to form an intelligent opinion of the merits in the claims put forth by miners and operators.

The Poets' Corner

LOVES PRAYER

I wandered down a woodland way,
And heard the hidden warbler's call;
I saw where blooms sequestered play,
And watched the gentle lives cling.

A shadow beckoned, and I went
To watch a wood-bird's wondrous smile;
Unruffled breezes crooned content,
While certain blossoms dreamed the while.

I heard the calling of a bird,
And followed to a sheltered glade;
My musing heart was suddenly stirred,
And in the deep and silent shade

I said, "O God, who'er Thou art,
Who knowest not forgetfulness,
Keep my beloved in Thy heart,
Creator of all loveliness."

I wandered from the woodland way,
Treading beneath the buoyant trees,
No sober dreams crept near that day,
For love was woven with the breeze.

A WEEK THIS VERY DAY

By BYRON STAUFFER.

Know all men by these presents that one week from today, it being then the first day of May, we trout fishermen will be missing from our usual places of call. We will hide ourselves away where the birds twitter chatter among the rocks of the marsh, where the bullfrog sturdy confirms man's faith in life hereafter, where the glad song of the brook assures us the speckled trout are there in plenty.

Ah, that leaping, tumbling, whirling, wind brook! I say it with the think of auburn's Prather's rising thirty an inch street during a downpour of rain last week. There were torrents and cloudbursts, waterspouts and tempests, floods and retinues, tributaries and confluences, bays and straits, islands and fathomens. After the storm my neighbor came along. Pointing to a swirl below a waterfall, I said: "There's a likely spot." Pointing to an eddy under a tree he him, and I calmly tried to show him what I saw. No use! he plainly deemed me on the verge of dementia, and turned away saying: "You'd fish along time there before you'd land a trout."—Ha! Ha!

Tomorrow I ascend to the attic and bring down my fishing outfit. Hold on: don't throw away that rod, please! It's the one my dying father had a half-day's supply of angle worms. The reel must be oiled. The line needs a liberal grease fitting. The flies assorted. I need a new pair of waders, too; also a basket.

The strain I have in mind for next Monday seems dippy about reaching Georgian Bay before night. I'm content to be satisfied with the first of the average creek about it. It has but one principal mood and that is mood. It is a mood of complete abandon, the sight of that wild river, coursing its way through the beautiful, pastoral valley of Valley, never fails to astonish me. I have seen something akin to it in the swardbound of the Empire Sunday morning when I was on hour through the still-Mohawk Valley. One feels like yelling. "Good-bye, all! I'm off for a week in Georgian Bay; wait for me there! Ha ha ha!"

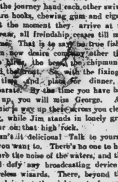

Believe me, the man who can thoroughly enjoy a trout stream is some fisherman. Pardon my adding that I have done it myself. The basis of it all is patience with the underbrush and less that shine fishing is possible only here and there. Otherwise will standing expertly, with the line projecting tiddery and lose his balance with a splash. He will snarl his line tightly about everything in hour through the still-Mohawk Valley. One feels like yelling. "Good-bye, all! I'm off for a week in Georgian Bay; wait for me there! Ha ha!"

Companionship and solitude join hands next Monday. Fishing chums cramped sit in the train en route; they don't mind sleeping together at the little miserable tavern; they exchange queer little remarks on the journey hand each other swivels snare hooks, chewing gum and cigars. But the moment they arrive at the stream, all friendship ceases till meal time. That is as it should be; true fishermen desire complete solitude on the banks, the hoop of the chipmunk and the whistle of the fishing of tiny bird, are the only sounds we separate. By the time you have baited up, you will miss George. And George will miss you. Then you're fishing, while Jim stands in lonely grandeur on that high bank.

Isn't it delicious! Talk to yourself if you want to. There's no one to hear aboth the noise of the waters, and they will defy any broadcasting device of wireless wizards. There, beyond that wood, is just the right sort of a spot. Zip! he has it! Ah, he's gone. Hi, he's back! Ree, ree, ree, goes the reel. I'll give him a bit of line since he's so frisky. He's tiring now, and I'll lift him easily. Gee. Isn't he a beauty? Since he is the first of the season, you pardon me for peeping into the basket half-a-dozen times.

Yell to the other fellows about my luck? Oh, no; that's puerile. Just keep on getting 'em till noon. Then

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS MAKE PRESENTATION

Send Train Load of Delicacies to Turkish Nationalist Leaders.

Constantinople, April 25th.—The Russian Red army has just sent a train load of presents to members of the Turkish Nationalist army who participated with the Russians in the revolutionary campaigns in the Caucasus when the governments of several small states there, were overthrown by Russian Soviets.

The presents consisted of several thousands of small sacks made of red material and containing sugar, chocolate and cigarettes. Each package bore the inscription, "presented by the red soldiers of red Russia to their valiant friends, the soldiers of Turkey." They were presented by the Bolshevik Minister at Angora to the Turkish Nationalist War Minister, Kiazim Pasha.

Constantinople, April 23.—One hundred Turkish students will be received at Moscow University for full terms whenever the Nationalists, authorities at Angora are ready to send them, according to a memorandum received here from the Russian Ambassador to Angora. The invitation was issued to the students by the Soviet Government's Minister of Education.

Ottawa, April 25.—The Canadian Government received an appeal from the 48th Highlanders, Prince of Wales' Leinster Regiment (Royal Canadians), asking that the Dominion should help them to be retained in the British army to represent Canada, as the Irish Guards represent the Irish Free State. The appeal was referred by the Canadian authorities to the British Army Council, which replied that it was impossible for reasons of economy to grant the request. This statement was made in the House of Commons this afternoon by Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Militia, in reply to V. L. Church, Conservative, North Toronto.

ONCE RICH UKRAINE IS QUIET ONCE MORE

The Vigorous Hard-Working Peasants Are Conquered by Hunger.

Kiev, April 26.—The rich Ukraine, the home of wheat and sugar, bandits and hard-working stubborn peasants, all told quiet. The Ukraine people have been conquered, temporarily, not by the Red Army so much as by hunger. All the Ukraine wants now is food and quiet.

The Ukraine has had 15 Governments since October, 1917. It has been a battleground for Communists, Nationalists and Czarists and Poles, followers of Petliura. The Ukraine people are all, and all manner of men and parties.

The tragedy and ruin of Russia's revolutions is best seen in the Ukraine. Its great farms have been laid low. Its rich lands are lying fallow and go to waste.

Its fine railway systems have been dog to pieces. Its bridges have been blown up. It has been damaged more than any other part of Russia.

In this former land of plenty dozens and dozens of dead bodies are dropped off at each railway station, dead from hunger or typhus.

CHIC PARIS WRAP

Caution Considered as Becoming as It Is Practical.

Coat or Elaborate Dress Used Unless the Garment Is of the Simplest Kind.

The smart "little caution" is playing an important role this spring. It is delicious affair, notes a Paris correspondent. It is becoming as well as practical; just the thing for those girls and even for shelf still younger.

The "little caution" of today is a near relative of the "little dreadful" of a few years ago, but—oh, how different! Then, not an elaborate girdle was left on the face of the earth, and the poor, poor lambs of stem design, but every one of the most important points of the upright-and-outline were repeated. Long, wide sleeves, the big rollover collar, and unstarched lining.

Instead, was made of the new silk crepe which is supple as crepe de chine and comes in the most delicious colors. The special model was of "orchid" tone, and white and the fetching was that it should be worn either a black or white dress.

The jacket, which was really rather of a Russian blouse, was lined and over with black satin. Over this there was a frills girdle to

ATTEMPTS TO PUNISH DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Mother Says Her Son is Alive to Punish Daughter.

Paris, April 25.—A woman's attempt to punish her daughter-in-law for marrying again after her husband's death is the way has just been exposed here.

An elderly woman in Touraine informed the Ministry of War that she had recognized her son in one of six photographs published by the newspapers of Iranian soldiers, former prisoners of war in Germany returned after the armistice in a complete state of amnesia, unaware of their identity.

The wife of the missing soldier having long ago given up her husband as dead, had just been married a second time and in the midst of her new bobeymoon she was instructed to come to Paris to identify her first husband.

Greatly perturbed, she visited the hospital accompanied by her mother-in-law who greeted "her son" effusively.

"That is not my husband", shouted the young woman and acquaintances of the missing soldier summoned also failed to recognize him, some of them even saying that there was not the slightest resemblance.

The older woman broke down and told the officials:

"I've known right along he wasn't my son but I wanted to teach his wife a lesson, she had no business getting married again."

FOLAND STRUGGLES TO REFUND WAR DEBTS

America is Poland's Greatest Creditor and France Comes Next.

Warsaw, April 26—Poland's struggle to refund her foreign debt, amounting to nearly $2,000,000,000 at the beginning of this year, is recounted at length in the first complete budget of the Republic, presented to parliament, by Minister of Finance Michalski.

Poland's greatest creditor is America, to whom she owes $197,319,100 or 65 per cent. of her total indebtedness. France comes next with 25 per cent. and the remainder is divided between England, Italy and Holland.

Recalling the difficulties under which the Polish State had come into existence, Minister Michalski pointed out the alone but constant progress she has made from the beginning in all affairs of government. After sketching the plans for the immediate future intended to hasten that progress, he appealed to the nation for patience and consideration.

"It is one of the Polish characteristics that we should like to build up Poland within one year," he said. "But this is practically impossible and the favorite comparison of Poland with western states which have never lost their independence is indefensible.

"Our future is in our hands. I believe that our future governments and our future parliaments will place the future of the state on the firm foundations of granite."

ONE THREAD WORTH FIFTY THOUSAND

That is the Amount it Saved Mrs. McCormick on Duty.

Chicago, April 25.—A bit of old thread has saved Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick the payment of $50,000 in duty on a collection of old laces, said to rival that in the Vatican and valued at about $100,000.

The laces had been tied up in the collector of customs since their arrival in Chicago from Europe over a month ago. There were many pieces held together in mat form form by a single thread. As antiques the laces would have entered free, but it was contended that the thread with which the individual pieces were held together was new and that it subjected the shipment to duty.

Mrs. McCormick and the thread was as old as the laces and she has just received word that Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Moore has ordered the collection to be released from duty as "artistic antiques."

SWEDEN PROTESTS EXECUTIONS

Soviet Government Threatens to Execute 87 Social Revolutionaries.

Stockholm, April 25.—The Social Democratic party of Sweden of which Premier Branting is leader, has sent to the Soviet government of Russia a protest against the execution of 87 Russian Social Revolutionaries which the Bolsheviists are reported to have threatened. Liberal political groups in other countries including German Socialists have sent similar messages to the Bolshevist dictators. The Swedish protestors sent by radio to Moscow, follows:

"The Social Democratic party of Sweden herewith lodges its fanatical and indignant protest against the act of revenge planned by the Soviet government against its Socialist Revolutionary opponents. In making this protest we are actuated by the same spirit which led us to protest against the violent action proposed by the Horthy government of Hungary against the Bolshevist People's Commissaries of Hungary.

"The labor class of Sweden, firmly embodied in the Social Democratic party, will not cease to brand the sanguinary deeds, for which no excuse can be made, as the result of the so-called revelations of contemptible agents provocateurs.

"We unite in the movement that has seized the entire working-class of western Europe caused by the transgression of justice against the Social Revolutionaries, and we remind the Soviet government, that after the victory of the proletariat in the name of the working class, that the workers of the civilized world will hold it responsible for the blood stepped verdicts menacing justly honored and proven revolutionary Social Socialists. These men were the first martyrs of the Czarist regime and now they are martyrs under the Communist regime of violence."

It was announced in February that the Central Committee of the Social Revolutionary Party in Russia together with a number of active members of the party who had been imprisoned for a long time would be handed over to the revolutionary tribunal for trial. They were charged with having been involved in plots in 1917 and 1918 to assassinate Premier Lenine and Leon Trotsky and other Soviet[illegible].

The Russian Socialists and labor leaders who have been confined in a prison in Moscow issued an appeal in January to their comrades all over the world against the banishment of 22 of their fellow political prisoners to Turkestan. The prisoners asserted that the exiles would suffer untold hardships on the way or a living death there, "where they come under the powers of the bloodthirsty Tartars or the most cruel leaders of the Extraordinary Commission, who can, as Governor of Turkestan, work his will with politics prisoners."

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

In Congoland, the bride wears her wedding ring on the leg, just on the finger, it is her mark of good, but brass, and may weigh anything up to thirteen pounds.

Miss Genevieve Cline, said to be the first woman Federal appraiser of customs in the United States, has just entered upon the duties of her position in Cleveland.

After having been employed for 42 years as a maid in one of the old-time hotels in Grand Rapids, Mich., Miss Ann Johnson had been obliged to give up her position by the closing of the house.

Mrs. Peter Olesen, chosen by the Minnesota Democrats as their candidate for the United States senate, is believed to be the first woman ever indorsed by a major political party for a seat in the upper house of Congress.

Smoking by women is not a modern craze. As long ago as 1791, a writer in a book called "The Statistical Account of Scotland," lamenting the prevalence of smoking amongst women of that time, said, "There is scarcea woman who has learned to spin but has also learnt to smoke."

Mrs. Mary W. BANKS TO FURNISH CREDIT TO FARMERS

Washington, April 21.—President Harding's recommendation to Congress of legislation providing farmers, with credit facilities as favorable as those enjoyed by commerce and industry may lead to the establishment of a rural credits system entirely independent of either the Federal Reserve System or the Federal Land Banks.

Tips to Housewives.

Wet Shells in Cook Water.

When boiling eggs, wet the shells thoroly in cool water before dropping into the boiling water and they will not crack.

To Remove White Spots.

To remove white spots on furniture, dissolve one tablespoonful of salt in one tablespoonful of linseed oil, rubbing it in well.

Removing Yellow Spots.

Yellow spots on clothing may often be removed by rubbing with a cloth dipped in acid; try immersing them in a weak solution of ammonia and warm water.

A Moth Preventive.

To keep furs from moths, hang furs on the line for several days and then well, but, then, in a well-bleached muslin bag tied tightly at top. Moths will never enter.

SURPRISES IN WASH DRESSES

Simplicity Promises to Rule in Both the Cheap Cotton and the More Expensive Lines.

Despite the profusion of ornament and simplicity are at work in the wash frock in the cheap cotton and the more expensive lines, reporters.

One fact that caters to high-class fabrics is exclusively said recently that the sheer dress will not be worn by long, straight lines with a minimum of trimmings. Such trimming as will be used will be confined to ribbons and the simpler decorative materials. Embroideries, both hand and machine, will be used but little, it was stated.

Another fact, which manufacturers of cheap wash dresses, perch dresses, summer frocks, and the like, profited many inventions in their line. The simple organdie collar, though it will continue to be used, is not going to hold the field to itself, and will, to a great extent, be replaced by other materials, says Women's Wear. Several complete surprises are in store for the buyer who visits New York in the march of wash dresses, it was said.

Sweaters Show New Lines.

Straight lines predominate in the sweaters. Silk and mohair make attractive mixtures with a soft effect. The mohair design is employed in many in a new border around the bottom of the sweater. Egyptian figures which are much smaller than the Fairs late design are being shown in many color combinations, while bidding fair for a greater popularity in the sweater of the Lean knit, giving almost a lace effect. These are shown in short sleeves with the round neck, and some with sashes or girdles.

Helpful Suggestion.

Persons who wear camisoles and bloomers that slip on with elastic at the waist usually find the elastic is stretched and "dead" after the garment has been to the laundry a few times, and do the best thing is to sew a hook and eye, or snappers, firmly on the end of the elastic and remove it before the garment is washed. A safety pin makes a "feeder" that does not allow the tape to slip while it is put on.

DIRECTION OF GRAIN IN SHINGLES

It is generally recognized that edge-grain shingles are superior to flat-grain owing to the greater tendency of the latter to "cup." This is explained by the Forest Products Laboratories of the Forestry Branch, Department of the Interior, as follows: Wood shrinks or expands, in response to changes in atmospheric moisture, to a greater degree in a direction around the tree than in a direction from the pith to the bark. As edge-grain shingles, therefore, which is cut in a direction from the pith to the bark, shrinks or expands less than one cut in the other direction. When the heart of the sun causes the shingle to dry out more rapidly on the upper than on the under side, the external shrinkage tends to pull the shingle out of shape. On account of the decidedly smaller shrinkage of the edge-grain shingle, this tendency is very considerably reduced.

CARELESSNESS AND FOREST FIRES

Hunters, fishermen and woodworkers of all kinds work in the forests, while the automobilists tour bits of fire from their cars and speed thoughtlessly are unaware that they have left an incipient conflagration behind them. A single glowing cigarette stub may cost thousands of dollars for fire fighting, to say nothing of the value of the timber destroyed, the desolation of scenic beauty and the harm done to stream flow.

JUST THREE REAL CHAMPS

Dempsey, Britton and Leonard Stand Out in Their Classes.

New York, April 25.—Taking a champion to mean the best man in his class, three of the present fight title holders are real champions.

Some may say that Jack Dempsey isn't the champion that Sullivan and Jeffries were; lots of them do not claim that Benny Leonard cannot be compared to Joe Gans; others think Jack Britton is barely lucky. But the figures show them to be the best men in their class, and that makes them real champions.

Dempsey is alone in his class Harry Wills has been boomed as the one logical contender, Willie and his backers, but he can't get fast, and that lets Jack out. The others in the heavyweight class drop out under the scrutiny. Some haven't the weight, others the inclination.

Leonard Leads

Leonard is head and shoulders over everyone in the lightweight division except Rocky Kansas. The sturdy little Buffalo boy has stood the champion off twice, but has never been beaten. All in favor of Kansas are a steel barrel around the waist, an iron jaw, and the chance of getting over a wild swing. Leonard respects him too much to be caught off his guard by a chance shot.

Lew Tendler has been generally regarded as the most dangerous man in the class, but many believe that the Philadelphia boy is afraid of the champion. As the title holder, Tendler would open himself to a half-million or more dollars, but he wants $50,000 to take the chance. That shows little confidence in his ability.

Left-Hook Charley White would be a dangerous man for Leonard if he had any kind of brain. When he let the game Johnny Dundee out-think him, outfight him and out-everything else, as he did recently he passed out of the contender class.

Old man Jack Britton is practically isolated in the welterweight division, unless Benny Leonard is considered as a prospect, and Benny has not set out to win the "old fellow."

Britton has only inexperienced youngsters to whip since Ted Lewis went over to collect all the shiny titles in Europe. Britton is to smart for the young fellows. There are Dave Shade, Mickey Walker and some other promising boys, but they aren't ready to take the champion yet.

Bermondsey Billy Wells, "one of the best welterweights in England," is over here chasing Britton now, but he isn't getting very far. After the showing made by most of the British ring importations in the last year, Britton is justified in asking him to prove how good he is with some second string man.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HOLD SMOKER

An Interesting Programme Provided by Members of Society.

The Knights of Columbus Athletic Club held a Smoker at the Council rooms last night. Mr. Eddie Lee acted as chairman. Mr. James Boyle gave a reading and Mr. Harold Darnell accompanied by Mr. F. G. Chasling rendered two very pleasing solos. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Jas. Brennan, Dr. Daly and Mr. T. A. O'Rourke of Trenton.

The main event of the evening was a 5 one minute round boxing bout between Mr. Wm. Harris and Mr. H. Hurley which ended in a draw. Referee Chas. Dolan did much to entertain the members with his humorous stories. The meeting closed with "God Save the King."

TENDLER MUST ACCEPT LEONARD'S CONDITIONS

New York, April 25.—Billy Gibson, Manager of Benny Leonard, world's champion lightweight, is vexed by the claim of Lew Tendler, the Philadelphia southpaw lightweight, that he is the champion of his class, inasmuch as Leonard is in virtual retirement and persistently refuses to meet him.

Gibson made it clear today that if Tendler ever is to get a match with Leonard, he must accept the conditions the latter and Leonard dictate. Gibson said that the last time Tendler was asked to meet Leonard he demanded a $50,000 guarantee.

TWO BIG GAMES OF INDOOR BALL

Grand Trunks Win Their Group—K.V.A. Defeat Shoe Clerks.

The Grand Trunks were proclaimed winers of group (4) championship of the Indoor baseball league here last night, when following their outdoor practice at Fire street School grounds they journeyed to the Armouries and defeated the good Tiger Five nine by the score of 30-7, and won the honor of being the first team to defeat "Soup" Goyer's aggregation, by the way.

From the drop of the hat, this game was a thriller, and the (fans the larg est crowd this season, kept up a continual uproar. The Trunks entered the game full of ginger, and by dint of their speedy work and lots of tough luck on the part of George Langdon, pitcher for the Tigers, got 2 runs in the first inning, 4 in the 2nd, and 5 in the third, winning a score of 9 against Tiger's one.

Then the Tigers decided to go at them with vengeance and in the 4th frame they crossed the rubber 4 times. They could not hold the heavy hitting railroaders however, who were also very aggressive ass base runners, and the final result was 30-7.

Langdon for the Tigers pitched a good game, and fielded his position ex cellently, except in the good old stop. Hays, however, his infield was not in the same class as the Trunks, and there is partly where the Tigers lost. On the bases too, they were not careful, and Mill's peg sent many of them to the showers. Fisher was looked certain. Cap Smith pitched a good game for the Trunks, and had a team behind him right from his catcher, Mills, to the kid outfielder Weir, who though a lad in knickers, was as good a player as graced the diamond.

The teams in batting order:

Grand Trunks—Meagher, 3rd b.; V Weir, S.S.; Smith, P.; Mills, C.; Young., 1st b.; W. Ross, 2nd b.; A. Weir, C. F.; Symons, R. F.; and F. Ross, L. F.

Tiger Tyre—Sepper, 3rd b; Cornell, R. F.; McKinser, C. F.; F. Platt 2nd b; F. Goyer, C; G. Langdon, P.; K. Hays, C.S.; G. Platt, 1st b; L. Goyer, L. F.

Umpire on bases Chas. Kreber. Umpire at the Plate, Ken Collins.

The other game between the K.V.A. and the Shoe Clerks was another hard struggle, going 10 innings before a winner was decided. These teams are very evenly matched, and certainly make an interesting argument. The K. V. A. won the game by the score of 20-19.

The Shoe Clerks got away in the early stages, and piled up 18 runs to the K. V. A.'s 11 and it looked as though they had the game safely tucked away. Their opponents, however, stayed right in there, and by sheer pluck and determination and some good hitting, tied the argument up in the 9th inning, 18—18. The Shoe Clerks made one run in their half when Bird scored a fly ball which Frechette muffed, with two down. In their half, however, the K. V. A. managed to get 2 runs across, just enough to win the game by 1 run.

Alex McAlpine, who pitched for the Shoe men, played a good game and had the regular catcher, Cunningham behind the bat, the story might be different. Hadley and Woodley alternated behind the bat and did remarkably well for players who do not profess to play that position. Leslie,

Had the Oxfords been able to hold the pace they started off on the final twelfth of last night's game on the "Y" Alleys would have read very different on the score sheet. LOUD CRIES OF "FAKE"

Quebec, Q., April 25.—Oscar Deschampe, the Montreal lightweight boxer, scored a knockout over Bellflog Murray of New York in the fourth round of the main bout here tonight.

The sporting writers and ringside spectators claim that Murray was not knocked out, and there were loud cries of "fake" from all parts of the Arena.

The K. V. A. hurler, pitched a steady game also and had fairly good support most of the time. The Shoe Clerks played eight men to nine.

The teams in batting order:

K. V. A.—Arnott, C; St. Anderson, 2nd b; Vandervoort, S. S.; Waldorf, O; Hinds, 3rd b; Leslie, P.; Frechette, 1st b; Badgley, R. F.; and Meyers, L. F.

Shoe Clerk's—Hadley, C; Shoozy, 1st b; Woodley, 3rd b; McAlpine, P.; Donahue, 2nd b; Reid, R. F.; McKay, L. F.; and Hill, C. F.

GRAND TRUNKS HOLD PRACTICE

Every Promise for a Real Team in the C.O.B.L. From Belleville.

With the opening date of the Central Ontario Baseball league just eight days away, and less than a week until the baseball season here is in full swing, the Grand Trunks held a real, good practice at the Pine street school grounds.

It was about the only baseball day we have had as yet this season, and the boys certainly made use of it. The players were given plenty of practice on long fine fast line rollers, batting and base running not being neglected.

There were two pitchers and two catchers warming up, Jack Williams, the Trunks Indian, and Vern Ferris, their secretary at the Y. M. C. A. were displaying their wares. Of course it would not be proper to pass judgment on their pitching as yet, but they have certainly handled a baseball considerably in their days. It is quite evident that Williams is a southpaw and Ferris a right hander.

Those persons of the poetic imagination, who dwell in other towns on the C.O.B.L. circuit, and who have professied that "Peeney" Mills, having graduated into the Benedict ranks of Gentry, would turn in his uniform this season, should have seen that well known receiver, handling them last night. He's just as good as ever. "Soup" Goyer, another husky back stop, also worked out last night. "Soup" it will known as a defence man on the Belleville Intermediate hockey team and is a brother of Fred Goyer, Belleville's former southpaw hurler.

Nine stars in the outfield.

Crooks is a new man here having come to Belleville from Toronto about a month ago and is employed being on the staff of the Bank of Commerce here. Crooks played at second base last night and made a good showing.(

SPORTSTUFF

The old whips will be plenty sore today after last night's work out.

The boys just hopped in there foaming at the mouth and anxious to show their stuff.

That's the old spirit.

This new hearer of corn looks to be the class all over. Here's hoping he turns 'em away from the pan as often as his predecessor, Freddy Goyer.

In less than three weeks Belleville's representatives will be battling tough for a victory.

And there ain't a fan in the city but will be behind them on opening day.

If Babe Ruth doesn't hurry back the American League fans will forget there ever was such a thing as a home run.

Johnny Kilbane asked 700,000 francs for a featherweight title bout, thus making it easy for Dempsey to name a figure if he should be asked to fight. All Jack would have to do would be to add together all the auto numbers in Paris, multiply them by the national debt, tack on a few grand for Jack Kearns and shock the Parisians to sudden death.

MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP IS WON BY BILLY BALZAC

Paris, April 25.—Billy Balzac tonight won the middleweight champion ship of France on points over Maurice Prunier. The men fought twenty rounds, and the decision was rendered by Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight pugilist, who referred the bout.

Dempsey furnished the only knockout of the evening. This was when he rose from the referee's chair and announced his decision in French.

JOE BURMAN WINS

Montreal, Que., April 25.—In the fastest ten-round bout of the Mount Royal Arena here to-night, Joe Burman of Chicago, 112½ pounds, outpointed Marty Collins, 122 pounds, of New York, all the way, and was awarded the decision. Collins was frequently staggered with blows to the jaw, but always rallied gamely.

In the semi-final, Sid Marks of New York, claimant of the Canadian light-weight championship, fought up to eight rounds of the scheduled ten-round bout with Sid Grauby, Grauby, Que., when Referee Krim stopped the fight to save the Grandby man from further punishment.

It was announced from the ring after the conclusion of the bout that Mike McTigue, of Halifax and Young Jack, claimant of the Canadian middleweight title, would fight Jim Darcy May 4.

BARRIEAU MAY GET BOUT WITH CHAMPION BRITTON

New York, April 25.—There is a strong probability that Frank Barrieau, Canadian welterweight champion will get a chance at Jack Britton's crown if he succeeds in his battle against Klesch the Cleveland middleweight star, at Toronto next Friday night. It is stated here that Toronto promoters are angling for a championship bout between Barrieau and Britton for the better part of May and it is very probable that articles will be signed shortly. Barieau is considered a very strong contender and if he guarantees to make the welterweight limit the bout is almost assured. He put up a splendid battle with the champion in Vancouver last June.

CHARLEY LEDOUX WINS ENGLISH BANTAMWEIGHT TITLE

Liverpool, April 25.—Charley Ledoux, the French bantamweight pugilist, to-night won the bantamweight championship of England by defeating Thomas Harrison on points in a 15-round bout. FRENCH—CHASE

Among the Easterlide brides was Miss Allie Muriel Chase, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Chase, Carrying Plain. Mr. Clayton French of Melville, Ont., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. French. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Montier of Melville circuit. The bride looked charming in a navy tricotine suit, embroidered in silver and gold, over a blouse of white satin, and carried on her arm a round shell of bridal bandbag with celluloid lift top and lining silk tassel, one of the latest creations. She also wore a beautiful diamond ring and a string of pearls, gifts of the groom. Mr. Lloyd Ayres and Miss Hilda Harris, Consecon, were their only attendants. After the marriage the couple motored to Belleville, where they took the G.T. flyer for Montreal for a short honeymoon. On their return a reception was held to a number of their friends at the groom's parents, Saturday evening, April 22. The bride was the recipient of a beautiful display of presents, including cut glass, Aluminum, Community Silver and many other things. Mr. and Mrs. French will be at home to their many friends at their summer cottage the "Anawata" Consecon Lake after the 15th. Their many friends wish them Bon Voyage.

GENERAL MEETING OF HORTICULTURISTS

Large Enrollment of Members—Campaign Committee Appointed.

A meeting of officers and members of the Belleville Horticultural Society was held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce building and was well attended. Mr. T. Blackburn, President, occupied the chair.

Mr. J. O. Sentry, city industrial commissioner, who recently returned from a business trip in the United States gave some excellent ideas as to improving of parks and lawns, thus assisting in beautifying the city.

Principal McLaurin, of the High School and the President of the Society were selected to give addresses in regard to horticulture at the public meeting to be held on Tuesday evening next at the City Hall in connection with the Children's Welfare Campaign.

A campaign committee was appointed for the purpose of securing members of the society. In this connection all members must be secured by June 30th, which is by law the end of the year for such societies. It may be stated that the Belleville society has the best enrollment of members of any new society. This speaks well for the President, Mr. Blackburn, and those who were associated with him in the reorganization of the society. That it will prove a live organization and will create an interest in horticulture in the city, there is not the slightest doubt.

REVIVE WINNIPEG STRIKE

TO COMMON QUESTIONS

Ottawa, April 26.—The Winnipeg strike of 1919 and correspondence between the Dominion Government departments and other officials and parties regarding that incident is being brought again before the House of Commons in a series of questions put each day this week by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for North Winnipeg. Mr. Woodsworth says he is not the mouthpiece of a deputy minister or section to Winnipeg at the time of the strike, but some one must be responsible and for special privileges and dastardly services, and he copies "all" correspondence and papers which passed between Government officials here and A. J. Andrews and Fawcett, himself a solicitor in the Winnipeg strike.

FIRST DROWNING FATALITY OF SEASON IN BAY OF QUINTE

First Drowning of Season in Quinte Bay

Tragedy Occurred Last Night When Joseph Long-ley, Young Belleville Resident, Set Out on Fishing Trip, Accompanied by His Brother-in-Law — Thrilling Rescue by Stanley McConnell, Jr., Man and Girl — Dead Man Leaves Wife and Child.

VICTIM WAS RETURNED SOLDIER

The first victim claimed this year by the Bay of Quinte, went to his death last night, when Joseph Longley, aged 26 years, of Belleville, was thrown in a leaky boat from which he and his brother-in-law, Stanley McConnell were fishing, capsized. McConnell was rescued in an exhausted condition by Victor Kisser and Gladys Hamilton, who saved him from a watery grave by reaching out in a motor boat. It appears that Longley and McConnell left the city about 7 o'clock in a leaky skiff, for the purpose of fishing. They had rowed about half way across the bay when the boat began to leak; when the boat began to take water, in their excitement Longley jumped, it is reported, to his assistance, and thereupon capsized out of the boat and was lost from sight. Realizing the impossibility of saving his companion, McConnell righted the boat and began to row for shore. The boat was rolling considerably, and the water would naturally be washed from one side to the other, and as a result put some fair, hardened as he was by his clothing, and the boat began to fill with water. Realizing that the boat was going down, he jumped into the water and struck out immediately.

Mr. Arthur Herman, of the Police Force was notified at 9.55 p.m. of the affair and immediately notified Coroner J. W. Mills, who at once accompanied him to the scene of the tragedy. The boat upped about 300 feet from shore, and directly in front of the Marsh Engineering Works, near Franklin St. Dr. H. W. Tennant was summoned and pronounced life extinct. Mr. McConnell was badly chilled and benefited after his thrilling experience. Both of them, it is understood, had had a couple of drinks before starting out.

Grappling parties began their unsuccessful search for the drowning man before being informed of the tragedy. This morning at 10 a.m. the search was again resumed by Chief Brown, Detective Sergeant McConnell, who was the sole witness and Constable Hall, and Constable Hall, assisted by a number of Firemen Dan Glenn and William Lynch to the scene of operations.

About 11.30 a.m. a lantern, carried by the boat, was picked up, and then grappling operations were commenced all about this section of the bay. At one time an oil saw will stood on the bank of the river, and the old piers generally hindered the work.

At 11.36 a.m. Frank Le Palm and Walter Kiser, who were in the last skiff put down by Chief Brown, boarded the body, after having been in the water for five minutes. The body was then conveyed to the undertaking parlors of Mr. Sidney Sharpe, where an inquest will be held.

Deceased was born in Belleville, and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Longley, of Pinnacle St. He was employed at the Belleville Pottery. He was married about two years ago to Miss Ethel Hall, of Belleville, and is survived by his wife and one child. He was a member of the Canadian Legion, having served overseas with the 59th Battalion.

HOW CRIMINALS OPERATE IN NEW YORK CITY IS TOLD

Gangsters Divide City in Sections With Boundary Lines, Within Each of Which a Particular Band Holds Unquestioned Sway.

New York, April 27—How gangs of criminals have mapped the city into districts, whose boundary lines are as exact to those of police precincts, which police district held sacred by its own particular gang for hold up purposes, has been told to the authorities by Hubert J. Slabery, a former army transport captain, now in confessed gunman and gangster, who was arraigned for sentence to-day.

As a result of the revelations, the police allege, six important robbery mysteries have been solved within a few weeks and nine men have been arrested. Fearing that his gang would take revenge against Slabery, the court consented to his removal from the city pending sentence on June 31.

Capt. Slabery gave excellent service during the war, but when retired found himself without work. He went back to his old haunts in the Yorkville section and renewed youthful acquaintances with old companions.

Many of these friends, so the story runs, despairing of work, had become hold-up men and spoiled their trade with a regularity and organization more complete than is found in many more legitimate businesses. He was given an opportunity—or, perhaps, invitation is more suitable—to join a group of highly skilled amateurs operating in Yorkville.

CONTINUANCE OF MURNEY SUIT

Five Witnesses Examined at Wednesday's Sitting of Arbitration.

MUCH LAW INVOLVED

How do Previous Survey Levels Compare With Present Levels?

Arbitration deliberations in the Mooney estate suit for $5,000 damages from the City of Belleville, as a result of alleged damages sustained by the Murney property by the lowering of the Murney Hill, were continued at the Court House on Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The first witness was J. Wilfred Holmes, City Clerk of the Corporation of the City of Belleville. Mr. Holmes identified the City records of the resolution and motion, passed by the City Council at a regular meeting held the 2nd, 1913, where by the instructions for the lowering of the Murney Hill were given out, according to the plans submitted by the City Engineer.

The recommendation of the suggestion of the City Engineer to carry the street, was passed on August 11th, 1913. Mr. G Mason, counsel for the city, produced to prove that the lowering of the street was an independent contract,' from the lowering of the hill.

To Mr. Carnew, K.C., counsel for the estate, witness stated that he had no personal knowledge of the work in progress, nor of the time when the sidewalk was moved from the stone wall, out to the edge of the walk.

Examination—This work, I believe, was done by the Public Works Dept. without a resolution.'

Witness—"Are they supposed to have a resolution for such work?"

Witness—"Yes."

J. G. Mill

Mr. J. G. Mill, city' engineer, was the next witness. Mr. Mill identified exhibit No. 8 of the profile, as signed to by the City Council in June, 1919, and stated that the work of lowering the Murney Hill was commenced on the 11th, 1919, and finished on August 19, 1919; the cost of which was charged to the city at large. The portion of the street paved, however, was paved under local improvement act, and charged against the property proportionately. Witness testified that the grade was lowered and raised again, to meet paving requisitions, making it the same now as before.

To Mr. Carnew, witness stated that he was a graduate of The College of School of Engineering, and had been articled with a well known Edinburgh firm of engineers for five years, from whom he received his diploma. Since coming to Canada he has done civil engineering work in Chicago, Toronto and for the past 3 years in Belleville.

Mr. Carnew—Are the plans submitted here, scaled, and absolutely correct, and do you stand behind all your plans?

Witness—Why, yes.' I can also produce a record of each year and his labor for each day's work which was done on the Murney Hill. The record is in my office at the City Hall.

Mr. Carnew—Was there not a hold means encountered in the operations on this hill such as rock ledge?

Witness—Yes, during the paving operations.

Mr. Carnew—This hill was left from August 19, 1919, when the excavation was completed, until June 26th, 1920, when Paving operations were commenced, (nearly 10 months) and the residents at the Murney estate did not know what the next move was going to be.

Mr. Carnew—Was there not a hold up in paving operations which necessitated the tearing up of a portion of the road east of Isabella street, also trouble with a water main?

Witness—Yes, the council decided on my suggestion, to bear in the water main to keep, it from freezing, as the work was done by contract by the Standard Paving Co,

Capt. Allen D. Harper M.O.

Captain Harper, accountant in the local branch, Bank of Montreal, who has lived for 4 years at the Murney estate residence, and who is administrator of the estate of the late Miss M. H. Murney, was the next witness. Mr. Harper stated that from July, 1919 until late in the summer of 1921, it was almost impossible to get access to the property, with a motor car.

LIQUOR CASE DISPOSED OF Crown Attorney Carnew of Belleville One of the Prosecutors.

An important case was tried at Ottawa on Monday, being a charge laid under the Ontario Temperance Act of a warrant calling liquor to the corporation of the Ottawa Belleville Gun Company at the drill hall. A verdict of guilty was recorded and heavy fines assessed on another point entirely. The deciding point was raised by Mr. Alan H. Armstrong, K.C., and by Mr. William Carnew, K.C., of Belleville. Crown Attorney for the County of Hastings, conducted the prosecution.

Mr. Armstrong, in his prosecution, stated that not one title of evidence had been given by the defense to show that Sgt. Leslie was in any way connected with the militia department.

There was no evidence, he maintained, as to who the owner was for the liquor found there was kept for the purpose of sale, and that, second, finding Leslie in charge of the premises was facie evidence that he sold the liquor.

Magistrate Cummings ruled there was evidence in order, and sustained the prosecution. In announcing his decision, he said that "the prosecution had not shown that Leslie was a Government official, and that he was acting with the knowledge of the militia authorities. As far as I can see," he concluded, "this man Leslie had the right if the defense is proved to set up a canteen anywhere in the city on Government property and sell liquor."

He accused paid the fine, and the other 13 men in the canteen at the time were also fined $10 each on charges of having liquor in their possession. The cases will be pressed according to Inspector Graham.

On the request of Crown Attorney Carnew, the accused gave the names of the man from whom he had obtained the beer, and it is the intention of the crown to prosecute him also. Sergt. Leslie stated in the box that he obtained the beer from a man named Ryan, in Ottawa. He could not remember the name of the driver who delivered the beer.

TROOPS FIGHT IN MULLINGAR

Casualties Result in Clash Between State Troops and Irregulars.

DAIL CONVENES

Supreme Sinn Fein Body is Meeting Again in Dublin.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

London, April 27.—Free State troops took control of Mullingar following the taking this morning of the Military Barracks by the Irregulars.

Mullingar, April 27.—Fighting broke out this morning between the Free State troops and irregulars stationed here in anticipation of De Valera's anti treaty meeting on Saturday next. The regulars commandeered various houses and launched an attack on the mutineers about five o'clock. The fighting lasted for two hours and each side lost one killed, six men were wounded.

The Dail Eireann convened at three o'clock this afternoon in the University Building. No public interest was manifested in the session. Admission to the session was by ticket, but except for twenty each given to Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, admission cards were issued only to the press. Mr. de Valera was the first of the important leaders to enter. Speaker McNeill presided over the session.

The agenda of the session contains notice of a motion to be made by Mary MacSwiney, to revoke the ratification of the Dail Eireann giving approval to the Anglo-Irish Treaty. There apparently has been no shifting in opinion since the Dail Eireann approved the treaty, and its members, if all be present, will, it is believed vote as they did then. Apart from this it is recalled that the Ad Hoc agreement provided that the Government should not be disturbed by any division in the Dail Eireann, and even if the resolution of Miss MacSwiney should be carried it should not displace the Government.

QUEBEC'S PREMIER SPEAKS ON HABITANT

Addresses the Empire Club and Tells of Habitant's Virtues.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

Toronto, April 27.—Addressing the Empire Club here to-day on "the inhabitants," Premier L. A. Taschereau, of Quebec, in referring to Canadianism and how it is understood and practised in his province said that the two races in Canada were essential to Canadian life with their traditions, ethnical customs and their religion.

The inhabitant was the bulwark of their nationality because he retained all the ancestral virtues of his race, because he lives a life free from the unrest, penetration, luxury, and Bolshevist preachings pass over his head.

NEW Ultimatum to be Presented to Soviet Russia

Representatives of all the Countries Meet Today to Read the Final Terms of the Statement to be Presented in Answer to the Russian Counter Proposals Which Have Been Found Unacceptable by the Allies.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS ON CONDITIONS

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

Genoa, April 27.—Representatives of the big and little ententes and Portugal, expected to have before them in final form today the statement to be presented to the Russian delegates in answer to their counter-proposals, which the allies found unacceptable.

Premier Lloyd George today briefed Foreign Minister Facta, Premier of Italy, Vice-Premier Barthou, of France and Prime Minister Jaspar, of Belgium, to meet him at his villa to reach an understanding over the document to be put before the Russians in reply to the Russian counter proposals. This document will contain not only the views of the Russians, but what the Allies are ready to offer them.

London, April 27.—Diplomatic relations between Germany and Russia will be resumed immediately and the German Ambassador to Moscow will be Prof. Bernhard Wiedenfeld, while Leonid Krasin will represent Russia in Berlin.

Berlin, April 27.—The German Foreign Office has issued a statement that the treaty with Russia is of a political or military character and declares that it contains no secret agreements.

Genoa, April 27.—Realizing that the powers assembled at Genoa are most uneasy and disturbed over France's sabre rattling, and that it would probably interfere with Hue getting his peace pact through, Lloyd George has called for a special meeting of the powers to be signed at the Versailles peace treaty. His suggestion has met with favor and powers from other countries especially Italy. The meeting has therefore been decided upon but the date has not been set. It will undoubtedly be called within the next ten days.

Lloyd George drew an alarmist picture of Europe last night. In addressing the British and United States press correspondents he declared that the object at Genoa was to clear up political difficulties, which were full of menace.

He compared Europe to seething racial lava, which like the earth's crust was working in proper level. This adjustment was full of peril. He emphasized that Europe, and not Russia alone, was in danger, which would be equipped by an angry German.

ROW OVER MILITIA ESTIMATES ADDS TO KING GOVT. TROUBLES

Call for Reduction Comes from Quebec Supporters of the Government—Almost Precipitated a Crisis in the Affairs of the Ministry.

Ottawa, April 27.—Viewed as the climax of the difficulties and distresses of the King Government since the opening of Parliament began, dissension in the Liberal party in the Commons over the estimates of the Minister of Militia, which developed yesterday, assumes the proportions of a political crisis and has given place to much gossip. There have been several occasions when the Ministry has yielded to the demands of one or other of the Opposition groups for reduction of appropriations. There also have been many heroic evidences of lack of cohesion in the ranks of the Government party, but never before in secondary importance from a political standpoint. For example the decision of the Committee of Supply Committee, on which the Government has a majority of members to voice its opinion, was overruled only yesterday when a bill was reported for second reading and Premier King himself voted in opposition to the motion of the Liberal chairman of the committee. The difference over the militia estimates, however, is more vital.

The move for a reduction emanates, and from the Opposition parties, but from the Ministry's own supporters. Indeed it is said to have originated in a caucus of Quebec Liberal members who advise what they describe as the Ministry's opposition as "militarism", and who have not remarked of Hon. George P. Graham, the present Minister of Militia.

Its significance may be realized when it is considered how the estimates are handled in the Commons by Parliament. The items are compiled by the departmental heads, are first considered by the Cabinet Ministers in charge of the department, and are then considered and approved by the Government party caucus. Finally with respect to the active militia is being assailed by the Government's own followers.

DEMILLE PLAYERS HAD CLOSE CALL ON RAILROAD TRESTLE PILIMINARY TO SATURDAY NIGHT"

Cecil B. DeMille henceforth can tender his players in death-defying stunts with absolute knowledge of what is required after a personal experience in filming one of the scenes from "Saturday Night," the latest Cecil B. DeMille Paramount production, which will be seen at Griffin's To-morrow night and Saturday, matinee and night.

In this picturisation of Jamie Mac Pherson's story two characters are trapped on a railroad trestle a hundred feet from the ground. Abandoning their automobile, the pair swing below the ties as the motor is crushed and tossed, to the rock below by the passing train.

In rehearsing this scene, Mr. DeMille, Lenore Ulr and Jack Mower on the trestle. All three were unaware of the approach of a train. The rehearsal suddenly became real life. Miss Ulr and Mr. Mower, being near or the mid-st the trestle, reached the bank, but the director was unable to make it. Following the directions in his own scenario, he hastily swung himself out on a string-piece of the bridge and clung there as the train flashed by.

Although entirely unintentional, the experience proved invaluable in directing the subsequent scenes in which the actors participate. Mr. DeMille's emergency action before the camera-"round Night, Edith Roberts, Jack Mower and Theodore Roberts and value to the cast.

NOTE SENT TO POLAND BY SOVIET RUSSIA

Genoa, April 26.—Soviet Russia contributed another sensation to the economic conference today by sending a note to the Polish delegation remonstrating against Poland's action in siding with the allied powers to protest against a separate treaty between Russia and Germany. Russia claimed that the peace treaty leaves herself and Poland covers all relations between the two countries, so that Poland, like Germany, should not participate in the discussion of Russian affairs, even intimating that Poland by her present action in the conference has abrogated the treaty signed at Riga on March 19, 1921.

ESTABLISH CAMP AT RICE LAKE

Leadership to be Taught at Summer Camp This Year.

An event of considerable interest to older boys and leaders of boys' activities is planned for the coming summer, when a Tuxis Training Camp will be held on the shores of Rice Lake during July 10 to 17. The Rotary Club of Cobourg has chosen a fine site and is offering the camp for the above purpose, as well as for the use of similar organizations throughout the summer. The camp will provide a great opportunity for the short and boys of a considerable district to get together for a week of camp life, sport and work out on the Tuxis program; the underlying idea being, of course, to prepare those attending for live and successful leadership among boys in their respective communities. C. E. Tiverman, the well-known Boys' Leader is to be Camp Director.

The district covers the territory from Belleville and Picton on the east, to Whitby and Oshawa on the west, and extends north to Campbellford and Peterboro. Rice Lake being quite easy of access and very central for the whole area. Very successful and enthusiastic camps have been held in other districts in recent years, and great satisfaction is being expressed by the formation of the Rice Lake Camp. A committee, representative of the district, is in charge of details, and expects to have some interesting announcement to make in the near future.

SINCLAIR'S

Find out for yourself why hundreds of thousands of women say that they could not face another washday without it. The two easy steps below will save you hours of back breaking rubbing.

First: For each tub of clothes dissolve a half a package of Rinso into a little cool water until it is like thick cream, then stir in two quarts of boiling water. If the water is hard, or the clothes extra dirty, use more Rinso.

Then, pour into tub—of cool or lukewarm water. Mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a rich, lasting, soapy suds, even after the clothes have been put in. Do not pour the Rinso direct from the package into the tub.

Soak the clothes for one hour, two hours, overnight, or as long as convenient. Then rinse to remove the loosened dirt, until the water runs clear. Hang them out to dry.

There's no rubbing—no boiling. Rinso is not a washing powder, but a scientific combination of pure cleansing materials that loosen and dissolve the dirt from even the heaviest pieces. It soaks clothes clean in a few hours without injury to a single fabric.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Follow the regular directions given here. Soak the clothes. Then, before operating the machine, add fresh Rinso solution using the same amount of Rinso as you used for soaking. No other product is needed when Rinso is used.

Charge of Attempted Murder.
MONTREAL, April 25.—With other fifty pellets from a shotgun in his leg, Leopold Poulin, aged 51, of Brunelles Park, opposite Hochelaga, on Saturday night walked the three miles to Lajoie Point and reported to the police that he had been shot by Damien Lazare, also of Brunelles Park, while attempting to prevent the latter from beating his wife. Mrs. Lazare, with a piece of loaded hose, in the scuffle, he alleged, had struck Mrs. Poulin also and on being deprived of the hose, had gone into his house returning with an shotgun, which he fired at Poulin. The latter was treated at the hospital. The police placed Lazare under arrest on a charge of attempted murder.

Seek Coal In Alaska.
WASHINGTON, April 25.—Development of the Naval coal reserves in Alaska by private enterprise on a contract basis similar to that recently entered into by Secretary of the Interior Fall, with regard to naval oil reserves in California and Wyoming is now pleaded.
Permission has been granted the Lake and Export Corporation of Huntington, West Va., to send experts into the Chickaloon to make a survey, with a view to submitting a proposal for the operation of the mines there. The present plan is for the Government to enter into a contract with the company to furnish coal to the navy.

OTTAWA, April 25.—Sir H. Dessiaters (St. Mary's, Montreal) has given notice that he will bring before the Commons a resolution which would have the effect of prohibiting the export of electrical power from Canada to the United States. Dr. Desiaurters' resolution would assert "that whereas the exportation to the United States of the electric energy of the water powers of Canada, provide the progress of the United States to the detriment of Canada, it would be desirable that the Government place a prohibitive duty on this anti-national commerce.

APRIL CARE OF THE ROSE BED

Spring has come at last and our thoughts are turning to the awakening gardens, which will for a few weeks be transformed from dreary, muddy yards into plaisi great elevated garden. The roses already at work under the overstrain, may be uncovered any time now, if they are sheltered. About ten days after uncovering the leaf buds (small pink buds on the canes) will be seen to have swollen considerably, and pruning must then begin. Cut away all dead wood and prune back hybrid perpetuals to five or six buds, leaving a like number of canes. The hybrid tea and tea may be left a little longer, and then being less sturdy than hybrid perpetuals must be pruned more severely. Cut back to three or four buds leaving three or four canes, being sure in all cases to leave the topmost bud an outside one. Otherwise the new shoots will crowd inside toward the centre, instead of spreading out to the air. Ramblers should not be pruned until after they have bloomed, as they bloom on last year's wood. Uncover, and if they have been laid down, tie up after three or four days, spreading the shoots out, simply removing the dead wood.

If the rose beds have not had well rotted cow manure well dug in last autumn, it should be done now, forking it well in so that when the rain comes, the liquid will descend to the roots. If however, this has already been done an application of Zook's fertilizer may be given, (a tablespoon to a bush), the recipe for which is as follows:

Superphosphate of Lime	12
Nitrate of Potash	10
Sulphate of Magnesia	2
Sulphate of Iron	1
Sulphate of Lime	1

Spray early with a weak solution of Bordeaux Mixture or whale soap (1 oz. to 2 gals. of water), and you will save yourself many an hour's work later in the season.

New roses should be put in as soon as possible after the frost is out of the ground. Dig the hole 2½ feet deep, place a piece of turf upside down at the bottom, then throw in earth and manure alternately, leaving earth next to the roots; plant the roses so that the junction of bud and graft comes three inches below the surface of the ground. This is to prevent the graft from coming up and checking the rose prospect. Spread the roots out as naturely as possible and fill up the space with finely broken up soil and press down firmly with the feet. Water well and prune back severely.

When new beds are to be made, dig a trench at least 18 inches deep, break up the soil thoroughly mix well with well rotted cow manure and put back to settle for a few days. If the beds are to be made in a hollow or the ground does not drain easily the trench will have to be dug 3 inches deeper, and drainage of gravel, or broken stones or bricks put in at the bottom. Arich clay soil is best for roses but if impossible to procure, a sandy soil will be fairly well for hybrid teas if enriched with manure. Dwarf roses should be placed 18 inches or 2 feet apart, and standard, 3 feet apart.

CATHOLIC BISHOP ATTACKS DRESS OF MODERN WOMAN

Montreal, April 25.—"Peeka-boo" blouses with extremely low necks, Skirts that descend to the tops of the low knees and other flimsy garments that partially clothe the modern woman are the target of a fiery attack by Bishop Gauthier, apostolic administrator of the local diocese, in a pastoral letter. The bishop vigorously denounces present-day fashions, and demands to know how children can be expected to become true Christians if their mothers and other elder creations do not set them a worthy example.

INFORMATIONS FOR MURDER LAID AGAINST THREE INDIANS

Chatham, Ont., April 26.—Informations charging Zimmer Nosh, Ed. Rickman and Richardson Logan, three Indian half-breeds, of Thamesville, with murder, were laid this morning, and the prisoners will be given their preliminary hearing tomorrow morning in County Police Court. They will in view of the verdict of the coroner's jury, probably be sent up for trial at the next Criminal Assizes.

The case arises out of the death of William Pickard, constable of Thamesville, who died as a result of a wound received while trying to arrest the prisoners on a charge of robbery.

LAUTIH KHAN'S ARMY TAKES TAMBRIZ

With Army of 10,000 He Overcame Shah's Loyal Forces.

Constantinople, April 27.—A series of battles for the possession of Tabriz, second capital of Persia, has been in progress since the British troops were withdrawn last year as a result of which the city has recently been taken by Lautih Khan, according to advices received here from Teheran.

Lautih Khan, was commander of the Persian gendarmerie forces in the region of Urmia. He set his troops in movement against the Teheran government on the ground that they had not been paid for five months. His forces surrounded the Persian Cossacks and Armenian battalion at Shevrhane and disarmed them and some of the prisoners joined his ranks.

With an army of 10,000 men Lautih Khan then organized an expedition against Tambris which was defended by the Shah's loyal Cossacks and Persian gendarmes commanded by many of the lower price, has brought it Swedish officers.

Overcoming their resistance, he made a triumphal entry into Tambris, occupied all public buildings and issued a manifesto to the people proclaiming his intention to work for and assure the prosperity and independence of Persia. The Shah's government and his assistants in Tambris have been arrested and tried by Lautih's court martial.

Lack of money to pay the troops and gendarmes, Bolshevik propaganda and brigandage appear to be the chief causes of present disturbances movements in Persia, say the Teheran advices.

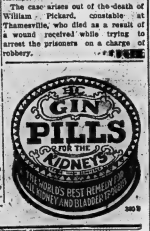

LOW PRICES FETCH WINE OUT OF LUXURY STAGE

London, April 25.—English palates, long noted for their appreciation of fine old wines, are in danger of deterioration because of the lower prices of vintages, according to a group of prominent wine merchants who propose an English "wine week" to acquaint the British people with the wines, they declare, is no longer a luxury at the lower prices, has brought it within the price of all.

The purpose of wine week, it is said, will be to educate the English taste for wines and also to instruct diners in the elementary rules and traditional usages of beverage selections. It is planned to gather a representative group of speakers who writes to sing the praises of wine, and to tell those who would learn how to drink it. The movement expect substantial assistance from the governments of wine producing countries such as France, Italy, Spain and Australia.

RAIN AND SNOW HOLD UP SEEDING IN S. ALBERTA

Lethbridge, Alta., April 26.—Rain and snow over the week-end is holding up seeding in Southern Alberta once more. The fall has not been heavy, but the top soil is left too wet to work. The rain is clearing of the snow of the recent storms rapidly and a general start on seeding all over the district will be possible as soon as the present storm clears.

THE NEW LOAN.

The response of the investors of the United States to the Canadian loan floated there on Tuesday last was gratifying to a degree. Canada's credit is ranked high in New York, and deservedly so. The war put her on the world map in more than one sense and before the war it had a reputation for meeting its obligations. Since the war it has acted in a way to convince all concerning that it is able to care for whatever it assumes. The fact that one such loan could handily have been floated a year ago. The later war-time loans bear 5½ per cent. interest and went to the public at par largely because of the will to win the struggle not matter what it cost. The loan now offered is to bear only 5 per cent. interest, and subscribers are to pay for what they take. The term is a long one—thirty years, which, however, may be reduced to twenty, and should add to its attractiveness to those who want a permanent investment. The success of the venture will indicate the rate the Government is likely to pay for further loans that it may make before the year is finished. The Government is seeking power in the estimates before parliament to pay off over $326,000,000 of its obligations, partly maturing bonds and the remainder treasury bills, largely held by or through the banks, falling due in October and November. It has also to face some obligations growing out of its railway responsibilities. The lowered rate of interest and the fact that the money will be devoted to paying off other debts suggests that the new flotation will not add to the total of national obligations nor to the interest charges.

BURGLARY LOSSES.

During the past year many companies writing burglary insurance experienced a very trying year, says the Financial Post. Losses were heavier. In the early part of the year in Canada there was a veritable outbreak of residence burglary, and as the companies have not the same facilities for investigating claims, as in the case of a fire insurance company, they had nothing else to do but pay up. The situation has become so bad that the companies are only insuring those of high reputation.

Many policies are so broad in application that mere disappearance constitutes sufficient ground for a claim to be made. The instance is given of a large household, where a piece of linen was missed, and later another piece. This led to a thorough search being made and a chain of articles was found to be missing. The claim was made and the company had to make good, but the company was convinced that the loss of these articles was due entirely to the carelessness of servants. Another case is given of a man who was referred to a company to be covered for burglary insurance. He was not known to the company in question, but as far as they could find out he was a good risk and he was insured. Three weeks later this man reported a burglary and a loss of $1,000 which the company had to make good; the same week he disappeared. The company made inquiries but never got any information and they are of the opinion that the man never even had goods to that value in his house. They simply had to take his signed declaration.

Liquor thefts have become so heavy that all the companies are now placing restrictions on the amount of their policies. The following addition was made to the Canadian Burglary Manual last September: "This policy covers liquors and other alcoholic beverages lawfully owned by the assured at the time of the loss or damage. The company's liability under this section shall not exceed the amount actually paid by the assured for such property." The premiums have become so heavy on liquor coverage that one company charges as high as $10 for $100 worth of insurance.

Proof that the crime epidemic of two years ago has not entirely subsided is shown in the total losses of the past year, which were over $100,000 greater than 1920. The actual figures indicate losses of $344,346 as compared with $244,166 of a year ago. In all the hundreds of cases that came up for examination by the companies only three claims amounting to $5,185 were contested. In 1921 premiums were $680,360 as against $481,019 in 1920.

A newspaper headline informs us that "the world's best known man" plans a walking trip through the Canadian Rockies". Now who is the world's best-known man? Lloyd George? No! (Boorish inflection on the word). Marshall Foch? No! (Still more solemn inflection). Babe Ruth? No! (Withering contempt). Well, why then? Why, Charlie Chaplin, of course.

IN PRAISE OF THE MOUNTIES

Buffalo Express

An attempt to disband, or reduce to the vanishing point, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has failed in the Canadian House of Commons.

This picturesque organization always has been a useful one and ought to become its aim to be so. It is on the job when trouble starts and nips many a disorder in its incipiency. As the years go on it is becoming more the expense of maintaining the force will be more than offset by its making unnecessary the calling out of militia for strike duty and the like." Its mobility, the intelligence of the individual constables and also the high standard of the organization make it one of which any country might well be proud.

The Poets' Corner

APRIL

O, I'm a cook of April, for in April was I born,
And all her joyful courtiers awakened me, that morn,
And early, returning Springtime my heart and eye to greet,
To the tear-lashed eyes and laughter of my Lady of the Daffodil.

Her touch is on the meadow, and her footstep's on the hill,
And in the chambers of me, her light lies echo still;
Her fingers filter sunbeams as she trails across the green,
And from her lips the words and blood where she has been.

Her voice is in each bird-song that greets the early morn,
And 'tis blood that leaps at even in the green frog's piping horn;
If you sing, you hear her laughter in the ripple of the stream,
Like the sweet and musical echo of a long-forgotten dream.

There's mystery in her sorrow, as her gentle tears flow fast,
But her mood is ever changeful, and her showers never last!
And for every diamond tear-drop which we idle folks call rain,
There will blossom troops of daffodils and golden fields of grain.

And yonder in the woodlands where my lady loves to rest,
She'll unfold a world of treasures to the ones who love her best.
There she builds a mossy flooring 'neath the azure of the skies,
And blue violets shyly reflecting all the lustre of her eyes.

O, sing a song of April—my Lady of the Spring!
And for the lilting heart of me, I cannot choose but sing!
As, each returning Springtime, all the world grows fair again,
For, 'Tis a maid of April, and I follow in her train!

—Sweet Will Ruth Roffe.

A Laugh or Two

The Only Danger

Customer (with week's beard)—"Do you think that old razor will do it?"
Barber—"It will, sir—if the handle don't break."

Years of Discretion

"I asked you to send me young lettuce."

"Yes, ma'am. "Wasn't it young you got?"

"Young? It's almost old enough to wash and dress itself."

A Question of Taste

The Waiter (who is on a week's notice)—"Would you have tomato or pea soup, sir?"

The Customer—Heaven knows! It tasted more like soap."

The Waiter—Ah, that would be tomato, sir. The pea soup tastes like parafin.

Some Play on Words

Foreign lady went into a store and asked for "Mennen's."

"Mennen's?" asked the clerk.

"No vimmen's."

"Want it scented?"

"No, I'll take it with me."

THE KHAN, IN TORONTO TELEGRAM

BY WELL, HEDGES!

The story of money is fascinating. Sometimes it's a comedy, frequently it is a tragedy, more often it is a delightful melodrama, and occasionally it is a sordid story, depressing and repellant. "Money" is the root of all evil, how should a dollar have been put out at interest fifty years ago at six percent, would be, 106, a heap of money now. People are too much intrigued with interest.

"I don't believe in principle."

But, oh, I do in interest!"

There is something sordid and miserly about interest. I don't think it is elevating, but, then, it is a kind of interest that is.

Perhaps you've heard your grandad talk about shares. He had shares of his own, and but, little prospect of being a woolen mill or basket factory, but shares. They did not pay dividends. You took any, nice sheep on shares. You had no sheep of your own, and but little prospect of being able to buy any. You took any, soon rich farmer we will call the party of the first part you took one of these lambs or ewes, at the end of that term you gave him back his six sheep or six dollars as you got and you got the increase. Happy days. Supposing there were six lambs every year—the chances are there would be a few deaths but we will call it six, you'd get three of your very own and the party of your first part would get three lambs for when they were weaned. Now do you understand? At the end of ten years you would have sixty sheep and when you handed back the original couple of six you would hardly know how many fine people in this province got their start that way. It is an old custom. They did it in the country days when the world was young—they do it yet in remote parts of the country—and they call it doing it on shares. That's a good way to get started with chickens or ducks or geese or turkeys, you give him one to keep for you, by this time next year you've got a good flock.

When Jim Sevenpiper died twenty years ago the few people assembled in a head-on collision with a bull in Bellcow Swamp, and left behind him Jim Sevenpiper, Jr., and Joe Sparlin. She was a good wife, but she was poor and old Dorkunder, Jim's father-in-law, rather took her to task. With a minute. I haven't got that much time, but she took her husband's bed and clothes and some schoolin' and left for Bellcow Swamp. She would be there yet, within the gates. There be more people taken on shares that way than you think. Brick Lonee took Spoiler on shares. I know he did. And it's a mighty good plan to. The trouble with our laws is that they are not paternal enough all the shares, and where the jig is up and the grain reaper comes along to cut down the old fields or Mollie or Belindy Jane she hasn't got a darn thing to leave behind her, and, of course, you know we will do she can't take anything with her, and in any case her man would take good care she didn't.

Missus Bud Durkunder took her on shares. She felt that she had acquired merit in and was good enough to pose as a benefactress. She was a Sevenpiper herself and knew that the Sevenpiper women always clever and handsome, so she didn't stand to lose much. But Francie was different somehow. She had taken her she was cross-eyed, but the lady thought that they would straighten out when she got stronger—and they didn't. And she grew up a wild-looking thing with an insurgent rabble of red hair, freckles, a upturned nose and who had long skinny legs and arms, and the only thing about her that was beautiful was her eyes. They were big, red mouth chock full of little white, white teeth like a young fox. I think that Missus Durkunder hated Francie, and I know that Francie hated Missus Durkunder as the whales hate the dailights out of her. She'd beat her a week. You can understand the state of things when I say that Missus Bud always insisted that she wash Francie's aunts. She had took the young one to give her a good home, with the secret object in view, which, she sometimes expended into a good Christian home. And to keep her from going to the devil, whatever that may mean, she worked her like a little mule and beat her like a dog. Most days, she used to clout her on the child that she was bidjis, a visitation of old on her parents, though I can't figure out how

Mr. Jenkins Took a Cracked Club To Tame Lions

The exhibition ended rather badly. It very nearly was a big day for the lions and a sad day for Mr. Jenkins—all for want of proper care in getting ready.

Many a man who has business to do and a living to make and a job to fill is as careless how he feeds his body as Mr. Jenkins was in picking out a club.

Some foods are too heavy, some are too starchy, many lack necessary elements and so starve the body—and many load the system down with fermentation and autointoxication.
Grape-Nuts helps build health and strength. It contains the full richness of wheat and malted barley, including the vital mineral elements, without which the body cannot be fully sustained. Grape-Nuts digests quickly and wholesomely. Served with cream or good milk, it is a complete food—crisp and delicious.
Grape-Nuts is just the food for those who care to meet life's situations well prepared in health. Order Grape-Nuts from your grocer today. Try it with cream or milk for breakfast or lunch, or made into a delightful pudding for dinner.

THE ORIENTAL SPORT SMOCK

Velatia, a new and interesting material with the luster of silk, is used to great advantage in the creation of this sport suit. The wide sleeves lose a bit of the oriental to it. A hat of velvet and straw completes the outfit.

CAPES WIN FAVOR IN PARIS

Fashionable Dressers Wear Outer Garment or All Occasion Kimono Are Accepted Sport Fad.

The fashionable Parisienne wears capes on all occasions—youthful, swinging capes in bright-hued fabrics, wrap-around affairs, full circle and clinging, or scarcely dressed and loose capes for utility purposes. Kimonos, accompanied by the divided skirt worn with either jacket or cape are a widely adopted sport fad.

The short skirt cannot as yet be counted as a fashion decreed, but the fashionable world is undeniably partial to the meager skirts; if not actually of ankle length, it is made to appear so in many cases by the clever manipulation of the inverted pleating. Or there is a perceptible lengthening of the line of the new frock—the waistline is never found at normal, but is dropped several inches lower; longer the hips, and loosely gathered; the normal shoulderline is long, and sleeve confines to grow in length and width.

There is an irresistible array of materials and colors worn for early spring—taffeta and silk faille for the more formal dance frock, crepe de chine, crepe romaine, crepe faille, and georgette for the tailored and draped modes, and rough-weave woolens for suits and street dresses. The colors most often seen are the navy shades, gray, black, copper henna, jade green, taupe and the light and dark browns. The Garrison Black, in the Designer.

PINK SHADES, SPRING MODE

Coquille, One of the New Tints Promised for Season of the Early Blossoms.

Pink shades promise to be much in the mode for spring, and among these coquille pink is spoken of as one of the new ones. Some French lingerie dresses shown in handkerchief linen and batiste are made in a deep rose shade of pink that is really becoming to the out-of-door complexion of the summer girl.

At the moment red is good for evening and the little sport dresses that are shown in silks in various weights have a leaning toward rose and vivid pinks.

The deep jackets noses have fadeless buttonholes and orchids for sprigs and these colors are used in all types, with dresses from the plain frock made for housework, to evening modes, in which orchid beaded in darker beads of the same hues.

The Hat Matches the Wrap.

One of the pretty features of spring apparel for children, whether the material used is cotton or wool, is a hat or cap to match every dress or wrap. The same rule holds in regard to coat and hats. It is quite the thing to have a hat or cap to match every wrap. For example, a smart little coat of bright green velours is accompanied by a hat made of the same fabric trimmed simply with a fabric band about the crown and with a smart little upstanding bow-knot at the back. The hat has a four-section crown and a stitched brim that rolled a little. The pongee coats each must have its clever little manner but with hats the English prints will be accompanied by matching modes or one style or another, organdie frocks will be worn with harmonized theses of the same fabric used so on.

Overblouses Are Long.

The newest overblouse development is a little less than three-quarters length, quite full and gathered at the waistline, with tailored or split peasant sleeves.

Tips to Housewives

How to Clean Aluminum.

When aluminum pans become black and dull-looking clean them with a soft cloth, which has been dipped in lemon juice. Rinse in warm water, and they will shine like new.

Milk as Soap Substitute.

Half a cupful of milk put in a dish-ful of hot water will serve as a substitute for soap. It softens the water, does not roughen the hands, and brightens dishes cleaning off all grease and leaving on scum in the pan.

When Darning—Loose or Buttons.

If child swallows a bone or object like a button, make him bend his head as low as possible and slap him hard between the shoulder blades.

Separating Tumblers.

When ice glass tumblers or dishes stick together so that there is danger of breaking, in getting them apart, cold water in the inner one and hold the outer one in warm water, and they will separate.

Cover Hands With Soap.

If the hands are covered well with soap, and it is allowed to dry before polishing the stove, the polish will not adhere to the hands and will wash off without any trouble.

WINDSOR EXPORT COMPANY IS ACQUITTED BY O. T. A.

Windsor, Ont., April 25.—Charges of violating the Ontario Temperance Act by keeping liquor for sale preferred against the West Canada Export Company of Windsor were dismissed this evening by Magistrate Gundy, in police court.

The company was originally accused of being in illegal possession of liquor. The charge was amended at the request of Neal Jeffrey, special Crown prosecutor. After Harry Lowe, an official of the export company, identified that the beer seized by the provincial license inspectors at the company's warehouse, Gerard Avenue and Elliott Street, was the property of the Labatt Brewing Company, of London, Ma., Jeffrey suggested an acquittal, and intimated that the brewing company might be proceeded against.

STILL SEEK TO END ENGINEERS' DISPUTE

London, April 25.—It is learned, on what appears to be reliable information, that 47 other unions apart from the Amalgamated Engineers' Union, which are concerned in the engineering dispute, are to be locked out on May 6. Still, hope of ending the deadlock between the engineers and their employers has not yet been finally abandoned.

The National Joint Labor Council will meet the Negotiating Committee of the 47 unions in London to-morrow night.

The Executive of the Amalgamated Engineers' Union will probably join the conference later, and unless a means of reopening negotiations with the employers is suggested a united resistance to the employers will probably be organized.

ANOTHER BIG HOTEL TO BE BUILT IN MONTREAL

Montreal, April 25.—A new hotel in the vicinity of Windsor Station, large enough to rival the Mount Royal Hotel, is under consideration at the present moment, and will likely take definite form within a short time. Plans have been prepared for such a building, comprising a main building and two wings, the cost of which would be nearly five million dollars. A company will be formed to finance the project.

DEMPSEY MAY MEET BECKETT

Britons Believe That Beckett Stands a Chance With the Champion.

London, April 27.—The chances are better than even that Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, will defend against Joe Beckett, holder of the British title, at a battle for the greatest money ever staged in the prize ring history of the United States.

London sporting men to-day all but unanimously voiced the opinion that all—or nearly all—is now in readiness, and to make it worth Dempsey's while to journey to London to defend the American crown, the only obstacle is being made.

Neither Dempsey nor his manager, Jim Kearns, has by any way responded to the popular clamor that the champion journey to London before Jack came to Europe on a vacation, and that Beckett is far from his fighting weight. Still, the fact that this little bolder trained hard abroad on his way over and in working his daily stunts to show that they are willing to talk business whenever a proposition is made that guarantees them the money they believe to be the champion's due.

Would Only Work Week

One week's intensive training would put Dempsey in the great condition he made for the bout with Georges Carpentier last July 2, and in this form he was then there is certainly no man in England who could stand before him many rounds.

The admirers of Beckett still stand by their colors. They are forced to admit the British champion has not yet some very poor fights, notably the bout with Carpentier, in which he was knocked out in the opening round, practically with the first punch the Frenchman landed. They maintain, however, that Beckett is in the pink of condition now today than he was in the Carpentier fracas, and that with his tremendous punching ability he would prove a match for Dempsey or any other man in the world.

While fighting in all the big arenas of the American, for it has aroused tremendous interest in the proposed contest, and if the match is made Britain will be a record one for this country—it will have to be or there will be no fight, for Jack Kearns is sure to be high.

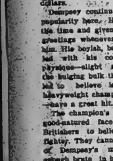

Talk of a Dempsey-Carpentier battle isn't very strong here, the shadowing all other matches. Still, reports from Paris are to the effect that the French champion is a willing to make that contest is also a possibility for decision in Paris. The chances are remote, though, for its ever being staged there, for it is practically impossible to draw enough money in France to equal the sum the American champion's demands in American dollars.

Dempsey continued his tremendous popularity here. He is on the go all this time and given most enthusiastic greetings wherever the mob spies him. His boyish, bashful ways, coupled with his tremendous slightly physique—slight as compared with the bulging built that Englishmen are used to—belong to accompany any heavyweight champion to pack around—have a great lik.

The champion's bright and smiling, good-natured face make it hard for Britishers to believe that he is a fighting fool they cannot see how a man of Dempsey's make-up can have enough brute in him to batter down an opponent, and on this account figure Beckett a good bet. Beckett, with his bristling brows and ever fighting frown, massive bulk and gruff manners, is their ideal fighter.

WILLS MAY MEET DEMPSEY IN LONDON THIS SUMMER

New York, April 26.—The possibility of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills, colored heavyweight, meeting in a championship contest in London this Summer boomed to-day on the strength of a cablegram from George McDonald, English promoter, Accordng to Dr. Dollings, English fight manager now in New York, receipt of the following message last night from McDonald:—"Can you get Wills to come to London to box Dempsey." Wills, when informed of the cable gram announced he would be ready to depart on the first boat." but his manage offered no comment except he said he "could see no reason for bogging yet." Dollings did not indicate whether he had sought a definite answer to McDonald's cablegram.

Dempsey, so far as is known here, has not signed articles definitely for any match in connection with his present tour of Europe, although he has announced his willingness to meet Carpentier in a return engagement or any other European contenders.

CARPENTIER IS WILLING TO AGAIN MEET DEMPSEY

London, April 26.—Georges Carpentier announced to-day that he is willing to fight Jack Dempsey again, providing such a match is desired by the public.

Confirming the announcement, Manager Descamps said:—

"Carpentier would have a far better chance against Dempsey here than in New Jersey. We can only upon having a referee who would be impartial, accurate and straight-forward, and who would not allow one boxer to hold another, and shower quick blows on the back and neck."

Carpentier is now at Maidenhead training for his next month's fight with Ted (Kid) Lewis, when for the first time in his long experience a Frenchman will enter the ring against a man lighter than himself.

Six Teams Have Already Entered and Others Are Expected.

Six teams have entered the City baseball League, up to the present, it was learned at informal meeting held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. of those interested. The teams entered so to the present are the K. of C., Shoemen, Red Sox, G.W.V.A., G.T.R., and Marsh Engineering Co.

An organization meeting will be held at which time the officers will be elected, and any other teams desirous of entering the league will be given an opportunity to do so.

SPORT STUFF

Jack Dempsey has become the idol of the boulevards over night. "A grand garcon," they are calling him in that dear Paris. Jack has developed a penchant for running from bewhiskered men, as he has been told that they are very demonstrative and are liable to kiss him lightly on the cheek. Having kissed many a man on the cheek with his sturdy fist, John doesn't want to be knocked out by a high-hatted individual that has a House of David appearance.

The thousands who have been wondering how Christy Mathewson is faring in his fight with the white plague at Saranac lake, will be glad to know that the best liked ball player in the United States is now in better condition physically he has been since he was crushed away to the Adirondack resorts says an American writer. In a personal letter to a New York friend, Mathewson writes that he now weighs 188 pounds, which is near his normal weight. Mathewson has by far advanced toward being cured that he and his wife, who has been with him all through the long illness, have started to move to a 'cottage of their own in the Adirondacks and start housekeeping there. The former star pitcher of the Giants has had several relapses since he first arrived at the sanatorium, but it now seems that he actually is on the way to recovery.

The news that Molla Bjurstedt Mallory has decided to make the trip to Europe this summer, with the hope of again facing Mlle Suzanne Lenglen in a contest will be joyously received by all tennis followers. Particularly will it appeal to the lovers of the dramatic. That moment last summer when the French tennis champion walked off the court after losing set to the Norse wonder girl, while the gallery looked on in amazement, was one of the most dramatic scenes in a season of sport well filled with thrills. The tennis fans are hoping that the next time these two stars face each other across the net the little mademoiselle will be in fine physical trim, so that the question of supremacy may be definitely decided.

Eddie Roush, heavy hitting outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, may retire from baseball. The fiery gardener of Pat Moran's team demanded $18,000 for a season's work, but when Garry Herrman was confronted with him yesterday. The interview lasted just five minutes, and Roush packed his grip and beat it out of Redville.

GONZALES IS READY TO QUIT BASEBALL

Unconditionally the Injury of Emmie Gonzales of the Toronto team, who was hit on the forehead by a pitched ball during the Reading series has reached a very serious loss to the club, Gonzales' disability, as far as physical injury is concerned, may be only temporary, but there is also the very great possibility that the player will be "done silly." Even should he continue in the game, and there would a strong likelihood prior to his injury that he might retire, his batting effectiveness is apt to be seriously decreased. That has been the experience of "beaned" players ever since the game reached its present high development.

The loss of no other one player would hamper the Leafs in the same way that the loss of Gonzales. It is not generally known that Toronto picked for waivers on the Cuban last season at the then waiver price of $3,000, and there was not a team in the league ready to take him at that figure. Now there isn't a team in the Toole wheel which would not gladly pay $18,000 to $20,000 for his release. The Philadelphia team of the National League and a team in the American League reserved to purchase the Cuban's release during the recent training trip of the Leafs. It is estimated that the supermen of several major league clubs in both circuits to send players to Toronto on option is actuated by a desire to get first chance at Gonzales should he be sold. "Conny" is the best base-runner in the National League in spite of the fact that Kane of Jersey City led him by one or two steals last season. Kane was allowed to "run wild" with the seventh-place Shoeters, whereas Gonzales was made to play the game, and he got no assistance from Alfie Aaberg, who batted immediately behind him. Had Gonzales stolen third base with two out an Kane did frequently, he probably would have been fined and suspended.

Two days before the Cuban star was injured at Reading he informed Manager Onaby that he contemplated going into business in Rochester with a fellow-countryman. Gonzales is dissatisfied with his present berth, but declines to discuss the matter further than to say that there is an immediate likelihood of his getting out of baseball. His injury still precludes the possibility of his playing any baseball at second base again yesterday.

NOVEL SCHEME PROPOSED BY PICTON GOLF CLUB

Picton, April 26.—Picton Golf and Country Club held their annual meeting yesterday, when there was a large and enthusiastic attendance. The president and Secretary-Treasurer's reports showed the club active and progressive, the membership being the largest in the club's history, and the finances in splendid condition.

Arrangements for a reciprocal agreement between the clubs at Belleville, Trenton and Picton have been created, whereby members of either of the above clubs could play on any of the three club's courses at all times. The advisability of engaging a "pro" between these clubs, the spending two weeks at each club alternately, was discussed.

"Oh! My Back"

HOUSE cleaning is bad enough at any time. There is so much dust and dirt and turmoil.

But it is usually the exposure to cold drafts and the stretching and straining that bring calamitous results.

The kidneys are extremely sensitive to currents of cold air, and you are very likely to find this out suddenly when stretching or straining the muscles of the back.

Suddenly the pain seizes you, and there is of necessity a lull in the house-cleaning activities for a time.

There is nothing like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for kidney troubles of any kind.

Not only on account of their direct action on the kidneys, but also because they arouse the activity of the liver and bowels as well, and thereby relieve the kidneys of much of their work.

Another thing about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, you do not have to wait long for results. In a day or two you will obtain great relief, and a few weeks' treatment will usually overcome complicated derangements of the kidneys which have defied ordinary kidney medicines.

Mrs. Wm. M. Cousins, Plympton, N.S., writes: "I had been suffering from lame back, and had taken medicines for sometime, but nothing helped me until I started to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These pills completely relieved me in a few weeks, and I have never been bothered with lame back since."

Dr. Chase's Kidney - Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c. a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

AGENTS ENTERTAINED BY COMPANY

An Enjoyable Function at Hotel Quinte Last Evening.

At Hotel Quinte last night an enjoyable function took place when a banquet was tendered by the Imperial Varnishing and Color Company of Toronto to their agents throughout this district. Agents were present from various places between Kingston and Cobourg.

After the tempting dinner had been served short addresses of a complimentary nature were given. Mr. Moneypenny of Toronto, Vice-President of the Company occupied the chair and in his remarks referred to the pleasure it was to have the agents of the company present at such an event. He spoke generally of the trade and the prospects for increased business in the future.

Mayor Hanna who was present as one of the company's agents moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Moneypenny and the company for the hospitable manner in which all had been entertained. The chairman replied in an appropriate manner of the vote of thanks which was most cordially received. The pleasing affair terminated by the singing of the National Anthem.

TWO ULTIMATUMS TO BE PRESENTED

"The world must know the fact," he said, "that Russia and Germany combined contained over two-thirds of the people of Europe. Their voice will be heard, and the Russo-German Treaty is the first warning of it."

As proof of the danger he cited the fact that there was no frontier line from the Baltic to the Black Sea, including the Roumanian, Galician, Polish and Lithuanian frontiers, which had been accepted.

"I wish America were here," he exclaimed. "Some people think we want the United States for some selfish purpose. This is not true. We want America because she exercises a peculiar authority; her very aloofness gives her the right to speak.

"America could exercise an influence no other country could command. She could come here free and disinterested, and with the prestige which comes from her independent position, she would come with the voice of peace.

"But America is not here; so Europe must do her best to solve the problems in her own way."

found right in the vicinity of the place where the lantern was found. It was taken ashore, and later taken to Robbins' wharf in solid boat, where the undertakers took charge.

When interviewed by the Intelligencer, McConnell was in very bad shape and has a cold as a result of his contact with the icy water, stated that he felt very well. When asked to explain just what happened, he stated that he and Lantern left shore about 9p.m. in an old, leaky boat on a fishing expedition. They had been out about 45 minutes, and were about 200 feet from shore, when the old boat began to take water. Lantern became excited, and jumped to one side of the boat causing it to dip water. McConnell then warned him to be more careful, but he apparently immediately jumped to the other side of the boat, upsetting it over 3 or 4 times, and began to swim for shore. McConnell clung to the boat, knowing that he couldn't swim any distance in cold water and in a swell. He cried for help, and finally was rescued on the point of exhaustion.

Joseph Lantern, is a married man, living married with Mr. and Mrs. McConnell. He leaves his wife and one child. He moved here about 2 years ago, from Toronto. He has returned soldier, having been wounded in France.

Scores of men, women and children of the district congregated on the shore awaiting the arrival of the boat, when the occupants called to them "We've got him." His frantic wife rushed to the scene but was met by the neighbors and swooning she was carried back to the house.

An inquest will be held at 4 p.m. this afternoon by Nickell & sons undertaking establishment.

CONTINUANCE OF MURNEY SUIT

it being found necessary to enter by way of No. 2 school grounds. During this time, there was nothing offered to the casual observer as to what the intention of those in charge might be.

Walter Evans

Mr. Walter Evans, consulting engineer of this city, and for three years city engineer was the next witness called Wednesday. Mr. Evans stated that he had passed up the Murney Cliff every Saturday night during 1920 and 1921 and could not form an idea as to what was going to happen next in the hill.

"The pavement should have been narrow," said witness, "and appurtenances in the properties arranged. Instead we have wide pavement, at twice the cost, and access to properties shut off."

Mr. Masson — Interested parties should have applied to the City Council officials to find out what was to be done to the hill, or else read it in the newspapers. My contention is that the removal of earth, or the changing in any manner or form, of that portion of the street outside the pavement, has nothing whatever to do with the grade."

Miss M. B. Falconer

Miss Falconer, who resides in the old Murney homestead, was the last witness examined Wednesday, and in narrating her story of the occurrences and happenings, stated that she had continually endeavored to ascertain from the City Council just what would be done with the hill. "On more than one occasion, Miss Falconer alleges, she was informed by a "voice" at the City Hall (over the telephone) to "ask something easy", when she inquired what was to be done with the hill. At times she was unable to raise the officials on the telephone.

"From time to time I read in the newspapers about meetings dealing with this question, but no one from our house was ever notified of such meetings" said witness. "Finally, on interviewing the present Mayor, Chas. Hanna, (then Chairman of the Public Works), Miss Falconer was invited to attend a meeting held on November, 1920. Mr. Mill and Mr. Henderson repeatedly informed me that they did not know from break-fast to tea time what the next move in the game would be," concluded the witness.

Judge Wills—"I would like to see someone prove and show the levels of this road on the previous survey, and as they are today."

The argument of the case between counsel and the arbitrators took place this afternoon at 2-30 p.m.

"Saved My Little Girl!"

Mother tells how her little Esther's life was saved.

That is what one woman wrote us recently, and then she goes on to say that Baby, who is just past eight months old, had cold last August. The child is of a highly strung, nervous temperament and could not be kept quiet in bed. We took everything we could think of to cure her cough. But, the cough grew worse and finally developed into a severe, hacking cough. Baby became pale and thin. Nothing we did seemed to stop the cough and by this time regular spasms of coughing had developed. These coughing spells left the child weak and completely tired out. Doctors said that at any time the cough would have reached the child's lungs. After trying everything I could think of, I saw an advertisement for Catarrhozone saying that this preparation would build one up, got a bottle from the druggist and before it was half finished, little girl had almost completely shaken off the cough. Six bottles began to get back their old colour. She started to put on flesh again and the cough was gone in a day without being used. Today, after having taken two bottles of Catarrhozone she is looking and feeling better than she has ever felt in her life."

Catarrhozone is sold by your druggist and if you have not tried it, do so. If you have any good reason for the empty bottle and he will refund your money. 2-138

The Mystery of the Silver Dagger

By RANDALL PARRISH

Author of "The Secret of the Swamp," "Comrades of Peril," "The Dust's Gone," etc.

Here is a double-riveted mystery story as thrilling as anything this great master of mystery, adventure and romantic tales, ever has produced. It is compounded of love, intrigue, a million dollars and mysterious criminals in a most unusual combination.

It involves agents of the U. S. government and a band of South American plotters. Like all his stories it has some one unique feature. In this case it is the strange and puzzling character of the heroine.

CANADA'S FOREST EXPERIMENT STATIONS

The field work on the Dominion Forestry Branch forest experiment stations is being carried on during this season. There are two permanent stations, one on the Petawawa Mil-itary Reserve in the white pine vicin-ity of Ottawa, the other at Lake Edward, in the hardwood district of Quebec, on the Laurentide Company's holdings. The main object of the work is to discover the proper means of securing a con-tinuous crop of timber on these lands, and of putting lands at present unproductive on a productive basis. The two experimental stations form ob-jectives of the Dominion forest re-search organization. This organiza-tion embraces work on the Dominion forest reserves in the West and simil-lar work in various parts of the East the latter in co-operation with lumber-men and pulp companies, who, in common with provincial foresters and many others, are looking for data of practicable assistance to the work.

ALLIED PROPOSALS TO RUSSIA PROMULGATED AT GENOA

Allied Proposals to Russia are Foreshadowed

Italian Press Comments on the "Various Concessions" to be Made — Allied Supreme Council Will not Meet at Genoa to Consider Reparations Points of Versailles Treaty to be Reaffirmed by Genoa Pact.

CONFERENCE MAY LAST FOUR WEEKS

Genoa, April 28.—Italian press today hints indications of what the allied proposals to Russia are.

First, it is asserted, no loan will be offered, but a suggestion made on an international basis for a loan through Genoan combinations of firms and individuals of the countries represented. Debts will be included with "private" assets for the United Russian Republic.

Only upon the consummation the execution of Russia with reference to the sovereignty of the Soviet Government will not be changed.

Premier Bertlow, head of the French delegation, has returned to Paris to have further conference meeting for Paris to confer with Premier Poincare regarding the reparations settlement, according to the Havas agency. He will return from Paris on Monday.

As result of a conversation over the telephone between Vice-Premier Schanzer and Premier Facta, the official viewpoint of Italy on the official viewpoint of France has been harmonized it was stated in Genoa today.

Paris—The proposition to hold a session of the Allied Supreme Council in Genoa has been dropped because of the attitude adopted by Premier Poincare that reparations must not be discussed by the allies at present.

Genoa—The peace pact by which Lloyd George believes that he will lay the blueprint with peace, reaffirming many of the points of the Versailles treaty and to add additional guarantee to France and the Little Entente for what they got out of the war.

According to reports the draft of the pact when the present draft the pact provides:

It guarantees all the existing treaties and international agreements.

It practically permits Europe being divided into a series of police zones so that it allows military agreements between two or more nations such as France with the Little Entente, or France with Poland, for the specific purpose of guarding against aggression or for the enforcement of the peace terms.

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN DAIL EIREANN DEBATE

Discussion of Mullingar Fighting Leads to Bitter Remarks by Heads of Irish Factions—Griffith Says Free State Ministers May be Assassinated.

Dublin, April 28.—Feeling ran high in the meeting of the Irish Parliament yesterday over the battle between rival forces of the Irish Republican Army at Mullingar this morning. The debate was tinged with bitterness as the details of the battle were brought out.

With two dead and seven wounded in the clash between the regulars and the irregulars on the streets of Mullingar battle was the chief topic of discussion. As soon as the Dail opened de Valera denied that he and his party are in any way responsible for present conditions.

Replying to de Valera's declaration, Arthur Griffith said that Collins and himself had been directly charged with being responsible for the deaths described in Ireland. He told the Dail that Erskine Childers, one of de Valera's main supporters, had spent a long period of his life in the British secret service, and declared that Childers was responsible for inciting Irishmen to shoot one another.

This charge led to a heated scene. Children denied that he had ever served in the British secret service, but Griffith pressed the charge, declaring he would publish the official records.

The atmosphere of the House being their duty.

name unchanged as Griffith accused de Valera of "sitting down" in the Irish Republic after his return from the United States because he had advised the cause of on the fighting immediately upon his arrival in Ireland.

"When I was sent to London," said Griffith, "I had a private conversation with de Valera, in which I told him that we would not be able to bring back an agreement for the establishment of a republic.

"De Valera served with me and told me to go ahead and sign the act of the Republican straight jacket."

De Valera immediately jumped to his feet, but it was impossible to hear the answer for the shouts of the deputies shouting at each other.

De Valera quoted from a document which he said was captured on it, which he wrote to Griffith in London stating that he was ready to go on with the war.

During the debate to-day Griffith declared that there is a growing danger that members of the Free State Government will be assassinated, but stated that the matter had been threshed out and that all were agreed that they would not be intimidated in do-

BENEFIT NIGHT BIG SUCCESS

Theatre Crowded at Rotary and Lions' Show—"Nothing but the Truth."

Griffin's theatre was crowded last evening, the occasion of the presentation of that hilarious comedy drama, "Nothing But the Truth," by the Rex Stock Co., as a benefit performance for boy's work in the city, under the auspices of the Lion's Club and the Rotary Club.

A section of the orchestra seats were reserved for the Lions and Rotarians who adorned by their natty paper hats and "Lion" and "Rotary" badges. Wotten was certainly a funny "Fanny man" in his grotesque make-up and acted the part assisted by "female" partner, H. J. Clarke, in an able manner, in finding seats for the people. They were also song leaders.

Rotarian, Chas. Keeboe's athletic youngsters put on a gymnastic performance closing with a clever pyramid. President Wm. Deacon, of the Rotary Club, and President J. E. Pearce of the Lion's Club, gave short speeches of appreciation and thanks, for the response of the people to such a worthy cause, and were greeted by their club's respective yells.

Miss Zara Vaughn was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of roses and Rex Soalgrove was handed a purse. Firm cabbage head on a celluloid plate by the mischievious clubsters.

The drama, proper, went on over with a swing, and kept the large audience in continual rounds of applause and laughter. "Nothing But the Truth" presents great possibilities and the Rex Co., certainly grasped every opportunity to get the laughs. To single out any individuals members of the caste would be unfair, as every one of the entertainers, (I do not exclude the ushers), were right there with the punch and "Bill care Zieglefer".

John McGie's orchestra rendered the music of the evening, their tuneful airs making intervals more pleasant and abbreviated.

ACCIDENTAL SAYS JURY

Verdict Rendered by Coroner's Jury at Drowning Inquest.

SHORT SESSION.

Two Witnesses Heard as to How Longton Met Death.

"We find that Joseph Longton on the night of April 24th, 1922, came to his death by drowning in the waters of the Bay of Quinte, about 150 yards from shore, opposite the Marsh Engineering Works in the city of Belleville. From the evidence submitted we are also satisfied it was purely an accident."

Such was the verdict recorded by the Coroner's jury in the case of the unfortunate drowning accident which occurred here on Wednesday night. Dr. Boyce, coroner, presided over the inquest and Mr. Carnew, county Attorney conducted the examination of witnesses. The jury was composed of:- Messrs. P. Gill, H. Grills, J. R. Archibald, J. Lafferty, L. Fields, J. C. Weir, L. Vernon, Geo Powell and S. A. Weddon. The latter was chosen as foreman.

After the jury had viewed the body the evidence was taken. Sergt. Harmon of the police testified that he responded to the call, were all qualified to act. He also gave evidence as to what the police had done in regard to the handling of the recovery of the body.

Stanley McCormick testified that he was at Victoria Park-st. The victim of the accident, Joseph Longton was a brother-in-law of witness. Longton was a laborer. He was about 27 years of age. Born in Quebec. On the night of the accident victim was at witness' home. Witness and Longton went bathing on what is known as the old Lingham dock, eating a boat. Each had on his bathing suit. The boat used was known as a ducking float about 8 feet in length. Witness was in the water when the boat and Longton in the bow. They anchored the boat with a stone. The wind was blowing somewhat in the bay. They commenced to fill with water. When the water came into the boat, Longton went from one side to the other. Soon the boat filled and Longton jumped into the water. This was about 100 yards from the shore. Longton started for shore and witness grapped the side of the boat and held on to it. Never saw Longton after he jumped out of the boat and never heard him say a word. The drowning was purely an accident. Longton could not use his left arm very well as at the elbow there was a silver plate placed there owing to being injured overseas.

This concluded the taking of evidence and the jury brought in the above verdict.

The body was later prepared for burial and will be interred under the auspices of the O. W. V. A.

ARGUMENT IN MURNEY CASE

Arbitrators and Counsel Argue, Their Respective Sides of the Case.

HEARING ADJOURNED

Case Will be Resumed to Hear Further Evidence May 8th.

The argument between counsel, in the Murney estate suit against the city, took place at the Court House before the arbitrators, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. S. Masson, counsel for the city, argued that as the work of lowering the Murney hill was completed on August 19, 1918, the claims for damages should have been made in writing and within one year from this date, as it was this occasion that caused the damage, if any, to the estate. The asphalt concrete pavement, and the changing the contour of the grade, as the evidence of witnesses shows the grade on which the street was completed by the city, is not as it was then. Mr. Mason cited a precedent case, that of McDonald versus the City of Toronto, where the claim sued for damages alleged to have been sustained when in the proposed installation of street car tracks, they expropriated 10 feet of his land to widen the street. Judgment for the value of the land was allowed, but the claim for consequential damages were purely sentimental.

Mr. Wm. Carnew, K.C., counsel for the Murney estate, clearly recollects having served a notice upon Wilfrid Holmes, City Clerk, on behalf of the city, a long time, claiming damages for any operation on the Murney hill, which would permanently damage the property. Further, the applicants for damages in this case are scattered over Canada, from coast to coast, so that notice of the claim may even yet be unknown to some of the applicants.

In that case, Mr. Carnew contends, that the date of the expiration of the notice of claim for damages, be set at two years from the date of the work being learned of the completion of the work. The evidence of Miss Falkiner, Capt. Harper and Mr. Walter Read, who for they never really did know just what was to be the next move in the work on the hill. Mr. Carnew held the Engineer Hill would not positively swear that the present grade was exactly as his profile indicated. The work was not really completed until May 6th, 1921, and consequently the date of notification of claim for damages should be taken according to the statute, until May 6th, 1922.

Mr. Carnew cited the case of the City of Winnipeg versus the Toronto General Trust Corporation arbitrated in 1911, when date of expiration was decided upon as two years from the date of the completion of the work.

Mr. Masson objected to the statement that Engineer Hill would not swear positively that the grade of the hill is as his profile indicates, contending that Mr. Hill said he would not swear that it was correct to one or two inches, which he stated he offered by as simple an operation as the passing of a steam roller over the loose earth.

The evidence of the remaining witnesses will be heard at the Court House on Monday, May 8th at 10:30 a.m.

Body Exhumed by Authorities for Investigation

Sensation Sprung at Coe Hill When the Body of Sanford Masters Was Exhumed From the Grave —Unsavory Rumors Lead To Drastic Action by County Authorities — Original Cause of Death Said to be Endocarditis.

INQUEST WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK

At Coe Hill, Wallaston Township, North Hastings, an inquest, will on Wednesday next, May 3rd, be opened into the sensational circumstances of interest in that neighborhood. On Monday, April 3rd, Mr. Sanford Masters, a well known farmer, and respected resident of Coe Hill met his death, it was alleged, when he fell off a load of hay and the broken leg sleigh passed over his neck. He was dead when picked up. At the time the circumstances of the affair were investigated and an order was obtained for the burial of the body. Since then certain rumors have been afloat, unsavory nature was circulated with the result that they were investigated by the proper authorities. This week the body was exhumed and a coroner's jury was empanelled to view the same. The jury returned to their homes and adjourned the proceeding until Wednesday next.

Dr. S. H. Lynch, one of the coroners of North Hastings, at the time of the alleged accident made the following statement to the press, which is somewhat at what he had been informed.

On the morning of April 3rd deceased in company with Albert Patterson went for a load of hay, a distance of 7 miles from Coe Hill. Mr. Masters complained of being unwell at the time and was unable to do any of the pitching. They had trouble with the team and Mr. Masters left the load and walked on to the whipple trees and thence to the sleigh and was pushed on by the sleigh for some distance. When Patterson got to the horses stopped Masters' body was in the centre of the road and a runner of one of the bob sleighs was resting on his neck. Patterson picked up the body and placed it on the sleigh.

The body was examined by me 24 hours after death. There were some bruises and abrasions on the face and a contused cut about an inch long under the right eye, also a bruise and abrasion of the left ear, a half long on the back of his head. His neck and jaw on the right side were contused and swollen.

LEGISLATURE TO INQUIRE INTO VETERAN'S DEATH

Committee to Make an Immediate Investigation.

Serious Statements of Major A. C. Lewis, M.P.P. for North-East Toronto, Will Result in the Issuing of a Royal Commission to Make an Immediate Investigation.

Toronto, April, 28—Attorney-General Raney stated to-day that the Royal Commission to probe the death of Capt. Orville Pearson at Fort Frances would likely be given on to one man and that an announcement would be made soon.

Toronto, April 28.—The tragic death of Captain Orville Heaton, in the barracks of Fort Frances, in December last, was brought to the attention of the House yesterday by A. C. Lewis, of North-East Toronto, in a recital of grave a character that at its conclusion Hon. W. E. Raney stated that a new investigation would be at once authorized and that the Toronto member would be invited to tell all that he knew about the matter. After the House rose the Attorney-General's department announced that a Royal Commission would be issued immediately.

For six months the late Capt. Heaton was electric as Mr. Lewis voiced the protest of those who desired to know the circumstances surrounding his death. Heaton was found dead in his bed with a bullet wound in his head. His death was at first reported as suicide, but subsequently was declared to be accidental. Mr. Lewis drew attention to a number of facts, any one of which, he declared, was sufficient to arouse suspicion of the manner in which the young man had met his death.

Proceeding, the speaker told of the discovery of the war veteran's body lying by a pathway in a field in Fort Frances, with a bullet in the heart. Commenting upon the readiness with which the local officers accepted the theory of suicide, Mr. Lewis drew attention to a number of facts, any one of which, he declared, was sufficient to arouse suspicion of the manner in which the young man had met his death.

point where the Toronto member became mixed up in his duties, precipitated a sharp conflict as to his right to interrupt. But Speaker ruled that he had the right, but from Mr. Ferguson held that the Speaker had got his right to speak from the House and reluctantly stated that he would have to appeal from the ruling. That appeal, however, was avoided, however, by Mr. Lewis himself, making the correction Mr. Raney was seeking to get.

In opening his reference to the matter, in the course of his contributing to the debate on the Address said that a result of the manner in which Captain Heaton's death had been investigated, the Attorney-General's department rested under grave suspicion, in the minds of many people acquainted with the circumstances of not having endeavored to bring out all the facts in the case.

Jazz Discussed by Authorities

What about jazz? Is it a passing craze that will be forgotten with the newest styles of dancing become old fashioned, or does it contain the germs of a discovery which have decreed into the national music of this generation? If may surprise readers that there are two opinions about jazz, and that some conservative students of music hold to the belief that there is something except a weird compound of applesauce, hokum is it. That views have been collected by Professor W. Thiele in the Philadelphia Ledger, and the two views of a professor of music and one who says that jazz is immortal. Among the latter is Victor Herbert, who says bluntly, "I think you are wasting a valuable lot of paper about jazz. Why not let better men's dying attention to this awful thing called jazz. Nothing good could come of it. The presentation of jazz themes of the treel cords." Says the word originated, "The jazz orchestra now consists of three (the music-note performer), trombone, xylophone, trumpets, clarinets violins, piano, banjo, mandolin, all intent on the observance of only one, a musical joy ride. Jazz is a kind of ragtime, with its interminable syncopations, played on a number of peculiar sounds, some of which can only be described by noises since they have no regular designation. James Francis Cooke, editor of Etude, a musical authority of Philadelphia, says that jazz is the monotonous frequency of the syncopation whose beat or accent is for recognition as a basic element for real artistic musical merit.

"Jazz and the dances of to-day are Kismet twins," he says. "They are the two extremes of license. The probability that this is true is indicated by the fact that it is impossible to imagine an audience sitting placidly listening a whole concert of jazz. The impulse is to get up and shimmy. All the original odious from the Barbaric dances, says Mr. Cooke. It is an attempt to combine in one piece the custom-ton incantations of the Congo, the whine of the Orient, the gyrations of the Chinese pipes, the sensuous lure of Spain, the lascinating syncopations of the gypsy, the rhythmic peo of the negro's banjo, the skirl of the Highlander's pipes, the Irish breakdown and the hilarious dances of the American western cowboy or the Canadian logging camps. This inarged orgie of jazz would seem to decide finally against it ever being developed into national and characteristic music like the music of Germany, of Italy, or of Scotland. On the other hand the general testimony is that the public craves jazz strongly of it, which suggests to some critics the certainty that it possesses musical elements which master composers may employ in their works of the future.

Al Jolson says that the beginnings of all songs are more or less barbaric and that jazz is the crude effort of a young people to express itself in a national music. He says, "We are a young, restless people. To Jazz and syncopation best express our national ideals in music. Still, one might object that jazz has been the work of the negro, but nobody will contend that as a race they are by quick, restless people. Lawrence Stowkowski, the famous conductor, has the impression that jazz is of Spanish origin. some of the rhythms being almost identical with those in the old Spanish dances. He believes that it has its good and its bad sides and that the good elements might be easily develop into something new and worthy to music, especially in the direction of rhythmic freedom and flexibility.

That jazz is almost certain to influence the American man who will be the composers of the next generation is the general view. They are hearing jazz in the years when their impressions are likely to be most impressive. Composers are far more indebted to their impressions than they are willing to admit. Debussy found the hole used in a Japanese exhibit at a Paris exposition and it altered his whole career. Always he was seeking fresh effects. Every composer is always keeping his ears open for any new effect, no matter by whom devised, which may be converted legitimate uses. The subconscious mind of the youngsters of to-day will be storing up memories of jazz rhythms and sounds, and some of them will later on become composers are likely to be influenced by the present craze, even though by that time it has ceased to be more than a memory.

MISMATED MARRIAGES TREATED IN DE MILLE'S "SATURDAY NIGHT"

Revealing a society marital mix-up of exceptional interest, Cecil B. DeMille's latest Paramount picture production, "Saturday Night," will be shown at Griffin's tonight, and Saturday matinee and night. The theme which proves that men and women who marry outside their own circle usually find time to regret the step of their rashness, is admirably presented.

The leading players, including Leatrice Joy, Conrad Nagel, Edith Roberts and Jack Wewer, vest their portrayals with artistry seldom seen in the movies. Miss Joy and Mr. Nagel are society folk, while Miss Roberts and Mr. Wewer are of a lower social class. Cupid gets busy with all of them and the result is a mix-up through matrimony that would baffle any other person than Mr. DeMille to straighten out, but he does it with his accustomed grace. The photophy is filled with artistic and beautiful scenes. To reveal the story would be unjust to the reader, and it is perhaps sufficient to say that Jesse Lasky Feature Play Co., who wrote it, never displayed her skill to better advantage.

A Sowel Mermaid comedy, the 13th chapter of "Winners of the West" serial, and a Travelogue are beirs exhibited on the same program with the above nine reel feature offering.

BOOTLEGGER KILLS U. S. CUSTOMS AGENT

Plattsburg, N. Y., April 28.—State and Federal officials were conducting a search along the Canadian border today for the bootlegger who shot and killed Anton Muller, special Customs agent, at Altona, 7 miles north of here, last night.

Muller's slayer was one of four occupants of a whiskey-laden automobile halted by a party of Customs agents and prohibition enforcement officials. When the suspects started to run and the officers pursued them one of the fugitives turned and shot Muller through the chest. The officer's death was nearly instantaneous. The bootleggers escaped.

A SAFETY DEVICE FOR ELECTRIC HEATERS

One of the drawbacks of electrics appliances for heating water and other liquids is that if by chance the current is cut off and then turned on again, such as a kettle or urn, is empty, the element gets overheated and is apt to burn out. In order to get over this difficulty some makers introduced a safety device in the form of a metal plug which melts at a comparatively low temperature and breaks the circuit, thus preventing overheating of the element. This method works fairly well but it has the objection that in order to bring the utensil into action again a new plug must be insert ed. A British firm has therefore devised a safety appliance which is equally effective in action but which does not involve any part requiring replacement. It consists of a simple mechanical arrangement which cuts off the current when the utensil boils dry. All that is necessary to restore connection is to fill the utensil with water, when the device automatically re-sets itself.

CHAS. WALKER AND WIFE BOTH RESTORED BY IT

"Tanlac Certainly Proved Its Worth to Us," Declares Toronto Citizen—Troubles of Many Months Standing Overcome.

"Yes sir, Tanlac has helped my wife out like it did me and now both of us are enjoying good health," said Charles F. Walker, 320 Lansley Ave., Toronto, a machinist employed by the F. N. Burt Co., Limited.

"Both my wife and myself," continued Mr. Walker, "were badly run down. She complained of feeling tired out from morning till night and had become so weak she was hardly able to do the housework. It was the same in my case and I just seemed that my whole system was out of order. Nothing tasted just right to me and I had about reached the point where I felt like I was going to give clean out.

"A neighbor of ours recommended Tanlac and it seemed to help us right from the start. We have taken five bottles now between us and I don't believe either of us ever enjoyed better health. I have been built up all round, eat heartily and sleep good and sound. My wife is looking fine and can do her housework without any trouble. Tanlac has certainly proved its worth to us."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville at Ostrom's Drug Store.

MISUNDERSTOOD RUSSIAN RELIEF

Famine Peak Has Not Yet Been Passed in Russia.

Some American newspapers about the peak of the acute famine period being over seem liable to be misunderstood in Canada, the Russian relief organization, supported by the financial resources of the nation to the extent of $20,000,000 is constantly helping to save the situation. But it should be clearly understood that some of the most pressing needs are being relieved by British funds, including Canada's growing contribution through the Canadian Committee of the Save the Children Fund.

American corn is being shipped into all the famine-stricken provinces. Temporarily, to allow the American shipments all possible facilities for inland transportation, the British relief organizations—the Save the Children Fund and the Society of Friends—have withdrawn their lorries from another service. It is especially urgent that seed should be distributed within the next few weeks for crops of another famine next autumn. But, when the immediate rush of American supplies is over, the British relief workers will still have to continue operating food kitchens, especially to feed the children, until the end of August.

Sir Benjamin Robertson, the British authority on Indian famine relief, after visiting Russia in January and February of this year, with the approval of the British government, anticipated the present claims about the peak of the famine period being overcome due to the arrival of American corn and seed. He expressed the hope that the optimism of the American relief association would prove to be correct. But, in any case Sir Benjamin added, it did not relieve the British organizations from the task they have undertaken, to feed the famished people in certain provinces until next harvest.

A balanced ration is necessary for the children. When they are brought to the various stations, they seem to be in such a condition physically that the greatest care has to be taken to nothing beyond need sparingly more than corn. The consignment of food from Canada, in accordance with the system established by the Save the Children Fund, allow the children to be given one nourishing meal a day, consisting possibly of cocoa, bread, and bean soup, varied with milk and rice.

Refinement takes away flour and most modern cereals, the vitamines and alkaline salts, nature's protectors against disease. Roman Meal, on the contrary, retains all these whole grains, which is alkalin and vitamines. Being 50 per cent. fat-free, which is three times more alkaline than any other grain, it corrects deficiencies in acidity and sloth. It feeds the blood, being several times richer in protein and mineral than beef, while the bluney roughage keeps the bowels sweet, clean, preventing body contamination.

IMPROVEMENTS IN SUGA BEET PLANT

Experimental work of a most satisfactory kind has been carried out in a British experimental factory on a new type of diffuser for the sugar beet industry. In the process of making sugar from beet the roots are cut into slices and are steeped in hot water to produce a syrup. After the syrup is formed it is treated with lime to separate the non-sugar and is filtered, bleached, and evaporated to form sugar. The process in the diffuser is of the greatest importance and has hitherto required a very elaborate and costly plant. In the new type of diffuser have been arranged in battery to extract all the sugar from the beet. The new apparatus is referred to is a single chamber in the form of a vertical cylinder and is so arranged that the beet in its work is subjected to a simple chamber in the form of a vertical cylinder and is so arranged that the beet in its work is subjected to a much more complicated and expensive battery of diffusers. The action is practically automatic and continuous, the beet being fed in at the bottom of the cylinder and the saturated juice being drained off, also at the same end. The only attendance required is in connection with the beet supply and the drawing off of the juice and in regulating the temperature. Extended trials have already been made with this appliance and have proved most satisfactory, it effected at a much lower cost in every way than with the old installation.

LOCAL G.W.V.A. CARRIES ON

Items of Particular Interest to the Veterans of Belleville.

The delegates appointed by the Belleville Branch G.W.V.A. to attend the Ontario Provincial convention have arrived back in the city, bringing the good news that the next annual convention will be held at Belleville, in 1923. This was obtained through the efforts of the delegates, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce and the Belleville City Council. A big reception will be arranged when the convention comes here.

Good Work

Through the efforts of the Belleville Branch, G.W.V.A. and our Dominion Command, a fine victory has been won for a member of the Belleville Branch, he having received his first payment for war service gratuity, being $184, an additional $250.00 will be forthcoming. This member served with the Imperial Army and was a resident of Canada prior to the war and on his return from the Old Land he was discharged by the G.W.V.A. that he would be entitled to additional gratuity, he being a resident of Canada prior to enlistment. Any other claims similar to this have been adjusted successfully.

Comrade Dr. Wilson, President of the local Branch took up numerous cases direct while he was in Ottawa attending the convention.

Military Funeral

On Saturday, April 22th, the local Branch of the G.W.V.A. and Argyll Light Infantry will take full charge of a military funeral of our late Comrade J. Longpre, who was drowned on Thursday evening. The funeral will be held at 1:30 at the residence on Franklin street, and then to St. Thomas' church at 2 p.m. Every returned man or ex-service man should make it his duty to attend this funeral, the band will be in attendance along with gun carriage and firing party. Soccer Team

The G.W.V.A. soccer team had a practice last evening on the Fair Ground street school grounds and they are under a fine showing, now by the aftersware.

SCALE OF PENSIONS PAID IN CANADA

G.W.V.A. Secretary Urges Defects Before Parliamentary Committee.

Ottawa, April 22.—G. G. Macneil, representing the Dominion Veterans' Alliance, has asked that the amount of the Pensions and Re-establishment Committee of the House during the present session.

Mr. Macneil was asked by Chairman Maclar how the Canadian scale of pensions compares with that of other countries.

"It compares very favorably," he said.

"On the results is it better?" questioned the chairman.

Mr. Macneil replied that on the whole the Canadian scale was more generous, but that this was not true of certain classes of disabilities.

PENSIONS ACT

Ottawa, April 22.—Major Power, of Quebec South, is renewing this session his efforts to get fuller provision for the widowed mothers of those soldiers who died on active service. He has given notice of a resolution for the house of commons to amend the Pension of a widowed mother of the forces who died on active service shall not be reduced on account of her income, and further, that she shall have a right to a pension whether or not there are other children living. Under the existing law a widowed mother received no pension if she is in receipt of an income regarded as sufficient, or if she has children who are able to support her.

MISSING MEN LOCATED

A striking instance of the work of the G. W. V. A. in locating men who have become separated from their relatives is that of Hugh M. Montgomery. His relatives in Ottawa, a resident of him three years ago and tried unsuccessfully to locate him. Enquiries were instituted through G. W. V. A. branches and as a result the missing man was discovered to be in Winnipeg, where he is employed at the Douglas Hair Hospital. Communication was established through the G. W. V. A. Provincial Secretary, for Manitoba and as a result direct contact was established by mail between Montgomery and his brother, Robert Montgomery of Ottawa. This is the fourth search brought to a successful conclusion during the past few weeks.

A REQUEST FROM MALTA

The work of the G. W. V. A. touches practically every known corner of the earth. A recent instance illustrating this point was the receipt of a letter from Major E. Douglas Jones of the Royal Artillery at Sirsina, Malta, in which he requests an establishment for the relatives of Pte. Constantine Borg, formerly of the 6th battalion, Canadian Railway Troops, who met his death as a result of an accident while in the imperial Service at Malta. It was thought that an adjustment of pay due to the deceased, could be obtained to secure his War Service medals which were not received prior to death. The Dominion Command of the G. V. A., has taken the necessary action to comply with the request.

Among the correspondence received at the G. W. V. A. headquarters during the past month were communications postmarked Japan, Argentine, Australia, South Africa, India, Denmark, Jugo-Slavia and Piland, all letters relating to persons connected with Canadian Expeditionary Force or dependents.

With the British Government and in a recent article the London Evening News intimates that nearly 100,000 British emigrants will reach Australia this year. It declares that Australia House is almost crowded with would-be settlers sometimes 1,000 daily. It adds that postal enquiries average 1,000 and at present 2,000 people are taken the necessary action to comply with the request.

HOUSING SCHEME FOR VETERANS

G.W.V.A. is Urging Need of Special Legislation by Parliament.

During the past three years the G. W.V.A. has constantly pressed upon the government the need of special housing legislation in order to assist in the re-establishment of ex-service men and dependents. This has been opposed from a number of sources, principally by the statement that any housing benefits decided upon by the Federal authorities should be open to all citizens. The Veteran, the official organ of the G.W.V.A., in its issue of April 29th, publishes a statement setting forth the views of ex-service men on the subject, and pointing out that while 100,000 marriages took place in Canada last year and some 100,000 immigrants entered the country, only some 12,000 houses were built. Nearly 9,000 houses were destroyed by fire so that less than 3,000 were available for the additional demand. The Veteran points out that owing to absence overseas, soldiers as a group were most adversely affected by the lack of homes on their return and, therefore, should be first considered in any effort put forth to remedy conditions. The Veteran considers that by initiating a special housing measure for ex-service men more homes would be made available for the non-veteran population. The statement of the soldier magazine in part follows:

"Today there is a crying need of more homes, and a large proportion of those affected by the lack of homes are ex-service men. It would, therefore, be as logical to provide a special housing measure for ex-service men as it was to enact the present settlement plan. While some 21,000 men were able to qualify under the Soldier Settlement act, a comparatively small number of those who are ready to take advantage of a housing act would be at least four times that number.

"Housing benefits for ex-soldiers at the present time would bring widespread advantages. Many branches of industry would be stimulated, thus alleviating in a considerable degree unemployment and business depression. the opening of new homes would relieve congestion in existing housing facilities, thus permitting more comfort to the non-veteran population; more houses would mean lower rentals; under less congested conditions the general health of the nation would improve and there would be less hesitancy towards bringing children into the world. Practically every new home means the starting of a small garden, so that many men who could not qualify as soldier settlers would be stimulating much-desired production from the soil in their spare hours. Adequate housing also means stability of population.

"Last year there were more than 100,000 marriages in Canada, and in excess of 100,000 immigrants settled here. During this period less than 12,000 houses were built. Nearly 9,000 homes were destroyed by fire, so that the total housing facilities were increased by a doubtful 3,000 homes. Where did the 150,000 new families find quarters?

"Private enterprises has failed to keep pace with growing need for new homes. It is time that the government of the people in the interests of the nation as a whole, and in the interests of the individuals who comprise the nation, should take more comprehensive steps to meet this need. A special housing measure, looking primarily to the requirements of ex-service men, will provide the solution."

QUEBEC ASBESTOS COMPANY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Montreal, April 27.—That the icebergs on the imports of new asbestos which has been persistently suggested from certain quarters lately, would sound the death knell of the asbestos mining industry of Quebec was the warning heard here to-day by President W. G. Ross, at the Tenth Annual Meeting of Asbestos Corporation of Canada, Limited. Business at the meeting was of a routine adopted and the retiring board elected without change.

HUSBAND WHO SHOT WIFE DECLARED INSANE BY JURY

Kitchener, Ont., April 26.—The Coroner's Jury inquiring into the death of Mrs. Louisa Meyer who was shot and killed by her husband following a quarrel last Monday, rendered a verdict that death was due to a gun shot wound caused by her husband, Henry H. Meyer, the deed being committed while in a temporary insanity. Meyer later turned the shotgun upon himself, inflicting such wounds that he died on Friday night.

MEN MADE LEAP FOR LIFE FROM BURNING MOTOR CAR

Chatham, Ont., April 26.—Joseph Lets and Fred Isaacs had a narrow escape in a burning automobile while driving along the fourth concession in Raleigh about 3 miles east of the city. The electric wires evidently short circuited, causing a fire to break out under the front seat which the two men were riding. They both jumped while the car was still in motion. The car later went into the ditch and was consumed by the flames, neither men were injured outside of severe burns.

AN AMERICAN OPINION.

That the average American newspaper is not to be judged by the wild and sanguinary anti-British outpourings of the Hearst press is evidenced in this editorial published by the Cleveland News on the anniversary of the battle of St. Julien under the heading, "Canada's Crucifixion":—

The North, over the border, today in every community leading citizens of the Dominion are holding commemorative services for the sons of the maple, lying in Flanders fields, who held the line for liberty from April 22 to April 24 seven years ago. Up round and loving memory mothers and fathers of those gallant youth of the battle of Ypres in the World War, in which 10 picked conscripts of continental Europe hurled themselves for three consecutive days on the flower of youth of Canada and in the end retired baffled, leaving on the field thrice 10,000 dead.

The true story of the world's salvation from militarism by that little band of stalwart souls, known as the First Canadian division, history will tell. The battle of St. Julien was the start of a series of displays of Canadian heroism and efficiency that marked the Flanders and Picardy campaigns of the great war and gave the sovereignty over the seven seas to the cause of liberty. Descended by the Algerian corps on its left; its right bared by the defeat of the Portuguese eastern French wing, this ripped army stood. Defying the repeated attacks of the magnificent Prussian guard, ten service battalions of which dissolved themselves against that unbreakable human wall; scornful alike of gas and bomb, these Canadians fought for 72 hours to achieve the result their commander curtly ordered in the words: "The line across St. Julienne wood must be held. The Canadians will hold it."

And when, after the three-day agony, the third British army came to the relief of the battered men of the western continental battalions, there was inspiring sight. Never witnessed other than the little army passing through infacing serried ranks of seasoned British warriors, each rigidly standing at "the present."

The salute of St. Julien is Canada's forever!

GOLD PRODUCTION.

Great interest has recently centred in the great gold producing areas of Northern Ontario and the importance of the fields of Porcupine and Kirkland Lake is growing steadily. In the Hollinger and the Dome, Ontario has two mines which stand out among the world's greatest producers, the Hollinger especially, and the claim is made that this mine will shortly surpass the Rand in output and that when the other smaller producers which are turning out their share of the precious yellow metal with many potential mines yet undeveloped. The recent strike in the Rand in South Africa will probably curtail the output of the South African mines considerably.

Canada is of special interest, and with a new perspective, as contained in a recent issue of The London Financial Times as follows:—

"Where is the world to look for the replenishment of its supplies of gold? While it may be true that as a result of reduced production, the price of gold will be higher, it will increase their output, the maximum yield from South Africa must be inadequate to meet even the pre-war demand, and it must be remembered that during and since the war there has been a shortage of the world's production of gold (as compared with the pre-war output) of no less than 27 per cent.

"Little as Canada is known on this side as a gold-producing country, it is nevertheless a fact that, as a result of the development of the rich mines of the Porcupine district of Ontario, Canada not only now ranks third among the six leading British Dominions producing gold, but is the only British colony that has increased its output during the past few years. The value of Ontario's output of the precious metal amounted last year to $13,000,000. The Porcupine field now boasts in the Hollinger one of the largest gold mines in the world, while there are other mines in the world, while there are other mines in this field as, for example, the McIntyre and Dome—that bid fair to become large producers.

CRISP COMMENTS

From now on, crop prospects will be a favorite topic, with varying estimates, until the season's output is garnered.

Frequent abominations in the dictates of the "unwritten law" in the United States, by acquittal of the criminals, is making a travesty of justice there.

SQUARE PLAIN MANIA.

From the Times-Journal

The chief ideal of the average city planner is to lay out every town and city in a series of squares or parallelograms, and if the natural contour of the ground does not suit the right angles, so much the worse for the contour. The habit—for the custom has grown into a habit, if not a mania—of planting all our communities in squares, with a side of six miles, is carried out regardless of the fact that nature has not provided a hill to call attention to mapping her rocks and trees and arable soils and lakes into similar squares.

THE UNCHANGING.

France now has abundant reasons to resist that every effort to obtain peace with Germany has been regarded by Germany as a sign of weakness among the powers. The German nations are uncouth product unchanged by the ages and untaught by the lessons of history.

PORRIDGE AND LATE RISING

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Most authorities agree that the chief factor in the wearing of the great mass of the Scottish people from porridge has been the change in the hour of starting work. Before the war the workmen left home for a 6 o'clock tart, returning for breakfast three hours later, when he found his dish of porridge awaiting him. Nowadays he does not start work till 8 o'clock, with no break till mid-day. Accordingly the latest breakfast leaves at 7, leaves, necessitating an earlier rising for the housewife.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

'Ere's a 'ealth to old St. George, gur 'e's a 'ealth to old St. George,
I don't know who 'is father was, 'is mother's rather feller,
But when 'e's 'ome 'e's some fittin' round alibi 'a record's dim,
I'ge into the Soriat shop and buys a rose for 'im.

'Wot ob yo know of rose, who dwelt in the Isle of Wight
Those lovely English roses wot smile on every 'edge?
They clamber over brake and briar, they bloom where'er they grow,
The incense of old England is the perfume, of the rose.

In many a humble cottage where dwell the English poor
The English rose uplifts 'er 'ead in sweetness o'er the door,
The little lades that wander to the cliffs 'ard by the sea
Are carpeted with rose leaves, just as thick as they can be.

'Ere's a 'ealth to old St. George, 'es 'e don't say 'e ain't,

GOOD ADVICE

A portly woman fled, by mistake, into a seat in a car reserved for smokers. With unconcealed indignation she saw the man next to her light his pipe.

"Sir, shd said in frigid tones smoking always makes me ill.

OUR CANADIAN BEARS

POLAR BEAR FOUND ON SHORE OF NORTHERN QUEBEC.

Black Bear That Roams in Strawberry Patches Is the Most Interesting Animal On the Continent, and Only He Habit of Avoiding Danger Has Saved Him From Extinction.

Three closely defined and distinct types of bears inhabit this part of the Canadian wilderness.

The polar bear, "Thalarctos maritimus," whose range covers nearly the whole of the northern coast line of Quebec, in the Labrador, has nothing in common with the black bear that one has found in almost every county of all the states and provinces in North America, and the brown Grizzly bear, that annoys of trade-tion and story.

When a bear takes up the Polar bear: This great animal shambles along the rugged edges of the floes, prints, and almost the last apart from man, his enemies are few and far between. One of the few animals that he excused from charging his coat with the yellowish white coat the snow reflects the blue light from the roof of the world as he does his fur stands in the good stead.

Rarely having the sea shore this great animal, which is sometimes 8 feet high and without doubt is thoroughly uncomfortable during the summer months, makes his journey into the Stirling cold water apparently with the greatest delight. Active and gambol for hours in the water. The Eskimo, who lives almost around the bottom of the thermometer, has learned to kill polar bears and are the bear's favorite resort to in order to get the fat which they observed. Fat, of course, he does not digest, but he uses it to get rid of the fuel, the Arctic people too, exist for him.

Captain Bernier, the Arctic explorer, has stated that this animal eats his flesh but we can't imagine it to be very tasty food.

The average mature Polar stands about four feet high at the shoulder is about seven feet long, while the legs are about the same length as the black bear. The paws are large, fat and soft, and the animal walks on his hindlegs as he frequently does in a circus ring.

Colossal fights are pulled off between the males and many of the scars of battle can be seen under the author's notice.

The bear, like the larger and older animals is usually shore with a dark and yellowish hide, but occasionally a small bear has thick coats, white as any seal. This is the bear that the commercial world are only hunting for. Polar bear skins are used for the floor rugs and when the head is properly mounted it makes an effect very attractive indeed. Raw pelts are worth from $50 to $100 several dollars.

Where you ever stopped to think of the few, sharply resemblance that there is between the polar bear and the panda and pander the reason of it. Either one has an Indian head and tempted to invest the "hair" of it so he will not be "scalped."

The black bear of the and story is not the bear that is found in the north with blueberry patches in the depth of the great forests, for this animal is quite content to stay there if we are to believe all that we hear in the newspapers, reaching the more countryside seeking whom he may devour, or at least a bottle of feed is one inoffensive animal in the bush it is the evil name that has found in almost every corner of the continent. Even the Eskimo of Labrador gave away from danger has saved him from becoming an object of trade.

Feeding on bugs, insects, roots and all sorts of green things he loves the berry season, and, as the saying is the act of demolishing a bee's nest he will eat the honey, the comb and for only on his nose and eyes can be touched by the stinging insects, and he has wise enough to protect these with his forepaws.

Grassfish in shape and action he is as much at home on land as in the water as when sloshing along on all fours. The fur is smooth and glossy and the color is a dark brown all over the body. The face is brownish in color and of a somewhat "silly" appearance, but of this bird's peculiar snuffling and whining that carries for a great ground at astonishing speed.

With the coming of snow he seeks out a hole in rocks and here he will stay until the first flight of winter. The sows comes and seeks up the cubs and by the time the next spring sun comes him forth, in certain sections of the country he is found in cubs may that before hibernation they will swallow a number of round stones which are found in the bed of the ing over in their stomach throughout the winter, and are known as "insides" in proper condition.

Although the black bear, under whose shods they are truly, forlorn looking creatures, they are capable of considerable jumping around on a search for food, that is proved by the fact that at times later the young are born, happy, snorting little creatures that are red, and they can have more fun than enough with a treatie or even a tin can.

The maternal instinct is strong with the black bear and the search for her young is proverbial.

The price of the black bear is about fifteen in twenty-five dollars, while the fancy prices which make the finer skins and muffs are also worth from fifteen to twenty-five dollars.

Calcium Peroxide In Bread-Making.

Use has been found for calcium peroxide in breadmaking. About .007 per cent. of calcium peroxide to the weight of the flour is incorporated in the bread dough to increase the capacity for moisture.

The Unpeopled Wilderness

The lover of Nature had to search farther and farther for the unpeopled wilderness as the years go by. Every year and mile at the "forest primeval" are being sacrificed to the onward march of civilization. Soon the majesty of the great Northland's forest surrounds will be things of the past, and the sportsman and the wilderness lover will have to go far into the heart of the Mackenzie River district of their friends. Resting in the midst of the green wilderness of the Timagami district, 200 miles north of Toronto) like some gigantic ocean, are the innumerable lakes and streams, and among the largest, Lake Timagami.

There you must go, if you really wish to enjoy Nature. Imagine this lake with its 1,200 islands. The setting is excellent. Lake trout tipping the scale up to 36 pounds, small mouthed black bass, speckled trout and wall-eyed pike abound. Altitude of the district 1,000 feet above the sea level. Illustrated publications with maps, showing the lower deck of Detroit-Windsor ferry this afternoon, Mrs. Dora Pestorazzi, 35, of 64 Erie street, was in the Hotel Dieu, in a hysterical condition. She has been suffering from a mental breakdown and the physician's care.

The ferry was 100 feet out from the Detroit dock when Mrs. Pestorazzi attempted to walk right down the dock hand, grabbed her by the feet. She pleaded to be allowed to eat it to escape from the clutches of her and other members of the crew.

When the ferry reached the side of the boat Mrs. Pestorazzi was taken to the immigration office, where she struggled with officers until the arrival of the police patrol.

JUST HOLDING UMBRELLA FOR OTHER COUNTRIES

Ottawa, April 26.—What prize is Canada made to be governed world crop conditions, declared James A. Richardson, Winnipeg grain exporter, in the house of commons this afternoon to-day. To try and enhance Canadian wheat prices above world values, he declared, is to hold a umbrella for other wheat producing countries to sit under. "The whole idea of an attempt to continue the wheat board would eventually land us in trouble.

BLIZZARD IS RAGING OVER NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, Nfld., April 27.—Winter is lingering very vigorously in Newfoundland. A blizzard, which has raged for two days and which continued last night, has blocked express trains in the interior of the colony, and it is believed no train can get through until the end of the week. Snow drifts in some places are ten feet deep.

RUSSIANS MANY INCLUDED TO TREATY

Genoa, April 27.—That the Russian delegation here may soon score another diplomatic victory over the moment, adding Japanese to the Russo-German economic entente, was the rumor known today. Baron Hayashi, Japanese Ambassador to London, told the Daily News' correspondent here that Japan would probably conclude a separate economic treaty with Russia in the near future. He denied that Japan would recognize the Soviet here and declared that should Tchitcherin approach him he would request that the Soviet leader make the matter up direct, since he has not the necessary material here.

MILITARY CONDITIONS IN CHINA ARE QUIET AT PRESENT

Tokio, April 27.—It is unwise for tourists to go to China, owing to disturbed military conditions there, Jacob Gould Schurman, the United States minister at Peking, said today in a Japan newspaper.

The Japanese Foreign Office although cognizant of conditions in China, does not believe recent reports that the lives of foreigners in China are endangered. Nevertheless, the Foreign Office recommends not going into that country unless on urgent business as discomforts are certain to be experienced.

ASSOCIATED PRESS OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

New York, April 26.—The board of directory of the Associated Press today re-elected its ers and executive committee members as follows:

UNSPOTTED SAINTS

By BYRON STAUFFER.

The Russian Mennonites are returning to Canada, it is reported, because the climate of Kansas is too hot for the party. These are some of the descendants of the religious refugees who left Holland in the Middle Ages to escape persecution. What fickle fate pursues these poor souls, that they cannot find a comfortable home anywhere in the world? Not only do the natives of the Netherlands of the "Low Countries" hate them, but the Germans, in spite of the racial kinship between them, keep hounding the Mennonites from pillar to post, from one part of the country to another, following their self-imposed policy of adopt, persecute, and abandon.

Mennonites are a religious sect, founded by Menno Simons, a Dutch priest, who broke away from the Roman Catholic church and created a new religion of his own. He suggested so many good things that they attracted a large following. Among his suggestions were adult baptism, separation of church and state, and the refusal to bear arms. Many of these ideas were good ones, and have since been adopted by other religious bodies. Menno Simons was a sincere man, and his followers were sincere people, but they were unfortunate in their environment. They were always in the minority, and always persecuted. Now and then the natives of the Netherlands, or the Germans, or the Russians, or the Americans, would temporarily forget their differences and unite in persecuting the Mennonites. Then they would flee to some other country, only to be persecuted anew.

Rarely have the Mennonites been left entirely alone to live their own lives in their own way. Perhaps the most successful of the Mennonite communities was that established in Paraguay, South America, where they were practically left alone to live their own lives in their own way. But even there they were persecuted by the "infidels." If Global Evangelism of the Protestant churches of Mission, B. C., were suddenly left undisturbed to live their own peaceful way, the remaining tribes hindred and forty millions of the world finally "get saved," would still be left out of the picture, for four and-hire one minister to serve them, present a solid front to the Mennonites. Mennonites are peaceful people, non-resistant, non-combatant, non-militant, non-progressive Christians, and incidentally non-advertise Mission, B. C., as a well-behaved community.

KEEN RIVALRY IN DANUBE SHIPPING

Austria Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary Struggle for Control of River.

Prague, April 27.—Keen rivalry for predominance in the Danube shipping is developing among the three countries formed by fragments of the dismembered Hapsburg Empire—Austria, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. The Danube is one of the main rail and port facilities mean traffic and national income. Hence one form of the struggle between the three countries is by build up their respective ports—Vienna, Presburg (now called Bratislava) and Budapest, situated close to each other on a bend of the river.

With the prospect of a connecting canal system between the Danube and the Rhine through Bavarian enterprise, the Danube is coming to be retarded here as the greatest artery of trade in Europe. If summer and the British were aware of this when they founded their River Syndicate.

The first struggle between the three ports was to get the Allies' Danube war fixed for five years and the Commission. Budapest won but the term was fixed for five years and the Commission, will cost $2, where the Special forms has been adapted for the great variety of purposes in order to save time in making numerous calculations of the usual kind. The electrician, the chemist, the optician, and others have enjoyed this convenience of these special slide rules, but our busily enough navigators (who have to perform the same sort of calculation every time he takes a certain wheat variation) still employs logarithmic or other tables. One reason why he has been left out in the cold is that his calculations have to be exceptionally serious, thus necessitating a slide rule long scale. The problem was, however, tackled very energetically by the British Air Force and the difficulty of obtaining a very long scale vitiated a convenient compass was overcome by arranging the scale in a spiral form. The apparatus proved very successful in the case of air navigators, and certain other work, but it is quite accurate enough for use at sea. A form adapted to nautical purposes and giving a result correct to one minute of arc has now been put on the market by a British firm.

NEW RECORDS FOR RUTH'S AIM

Plenty of Marks for the Bambino to "Smash" Yet.

George Herman Ruth will not set a new record for home-run totals this season, but there are a few records left the Bambino may wreck.

There is the record of five consecutive home runs in three consecutive games, which Ruth himself established last year, and seven in five games. These are marks for modern baseball, and Ruth holds all of them.

Ruth made 15 four-baggers before May 20 last year. He will make more this year. Handicapping Ruth 10 home runs, considering that his supporters cheerfully "lose," makes it, impossible for him to go over his own record of 59, which he established last year, but it is possible for him to get more than five homers in three consecutive games, six in four or seven in five. The bids start will not stop him at the point of the going.

Other Men's Feats.

Other existing home-run marks do not belong to the thick-shouldered Ruth. He has never made four home runs in one game. Two men have done that. Ed. Delahanty, who was a great slugger, turned the trick for the Philadelphia Nationals on July 13, 1896, getting five hits in five times at bat and four of the five big were four-baggers.

Bobby Lowe did the same stunt for the Boston Nationals on May 30, 1894. He went to bat six times, made five hits and four were for the circuit.

There you have a joint record that Babe can shoot at.

If Ruth is ambitious he can try to get three home runs in one game. That has been done, not once but 10 times. The greatness of swatting ability also turned the trick. Wilbert "Pop" Anson, of Chicago; Jake Beckley, of Cincinnati; Dan Brouthers, of Detroit; Dave Orr, of New York; Hugh Duffy, of Louisville; Joyce, of Washington; McCreery, of Louisville; Manning, of Philadelphia; Shugart, of St. Louis; Williamson, of Chicago.

Annis, Manning and Williamson all pulled the feat in 1884; Brouthers and Hecker did it in 1886. Connor in 1898, Joyce and Shugart in 1894, Beckley and McCreery in 1895. No one has been able to make three in one game since 1897.

Among Records.

Five home runs in two games may appeal to Mr. Ruth. That has been done by one man, the pictures say. Anson. He pulled the trick on Aug. 5 and 6, 1884, for the Chicago White Stockings. He made six hits in nine times at bat and five of them were circuit drives.

Four home runs in two games is a feat performed four times in the history of the big leagues. Ruth did it in June, 1919, and 14 last season. So did Gus Mans, that ever did it was O'Rourke, of Buffalo. He banged his four on July 14 and 15, 1890. Connor, of New York, did it in 1888, and Tejada did it in 1900.

FOOTBALL.

An exhibition game will be played on the Pine street grounds on Saturday afternoon at 2:45 p.m. between the G.T.R. and Tiger Tyres. This should be an interesting and even game. Last week the Tigers drew with the College Students and the week previous the Railroaders beat the Sons of England.

The following players will line up for the G.T.R.:

Goal, Gorman; Backs, Wilson and Gilmour; Halves, H. Grout, Robinson and Hammett; Forwards, Hickin, J. Grout, Maker, Knox and Lancaster.

ATHLETIC CHIEFS MEET PARKS COMM.

Al. Crossley, chairman of the Parks Committee has called a meeting in the city Hall to-morrow night to which all executives of the various athletic bodies existent in the city at present have been invited. The purpose of the Parks Committee is to lay before the athletic bodies of Belleville a scheme for the running of the fair grounds for athletic events. The city's share of the money then realized will go into a special fund for the improvement of local athletic facilities. It is also the intention of the committee to lay out a schedule of dates so that there may be no confusion this coming summer.

SCRAP IRON

DEMPSEY MAY MEET

GREB THIS YEAR

New York, April 28.—George Engle, professes confidence in his ability to secure a match for Harry Greb against Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, upon the latter's return to this country. The Pittsburger's manager declared Dempsey promised Greb a match in Philadelphia next year. Engle also declared that Jack will observe this promise.

Plans for a bout between Greb and Carpentier have been launched. Matchmaker Flournoy to-day cabled to the French heavy, who holds the world's light-heavyweight title, seeking his attitude toward a bout with Greb. Carpentier is understood to be willing to risking another trip to this country for the purpose of defending his title. If was originally planned to conclude a bout between the French boxer and Tom Gibbons, but the latter's defeat at the hands of Greb eliminated the St. Paul boxer.

DEMPSEY OFFERED HUGE PURSE TO BOX CARPENTIER AGAIN

Paris, April 27.—Jack Dempsey this afternoon received an attractive offer from a group of prominent boxing sportsmen and promoters in respect Georges Carpentier, the French champion, in London some time in the summer, provided Carpentier defeats "red" Lewis on May 11. Neither Dempsey nor Manager Kearns would declare that terms of the offer, but Kearns said it involved an immense purse and that Dempsey would probably accept.

Dempsey had every confidence, he declared that he would repeat his victory over the Frenchman.

Dempsey plans to leave here on Saturday for Berlin, where he will remain for four or five days. He may stop off at Cologne on his way back and give an exhibition for the United States Rhineland troops. He will then proceed to London, where he will attend the Carpentier-Lewis bout, after which he will go to Manchester for an exhibition bout. He will also give exhibitions in Dublin.

IF CARPENTIER BEATS LEWIS HE WILL MEET DEMPSEY

Paris, April 27.—If Georges Carpentier beats Ted (Kid) Lewis in Lytime on May 11, Dempsey may meet the Frenchman in Europe after all," said Jack Kearns to-day.

"I have had a number of good offers from English promoters. Many Englishmen think so well of Lewis' ability, that if Carpentier should whip him easily, it will send the French man's stock away back up.

"American followers of boxing may scoff at the very idea, but none the less the English promoters seem to regard it very seriously. We will return to London right after the fight and wait developments.

Joe Benjamin, the Californian lightweight, detached himself from the Dempsey party to-morrow, and returns to London to go into training for his bout with Ernest Rice, the lightweight champion of England.

MICHAELS SCORES KNOCKOUT

Seattle, Wash., April 27.—Bobby Michaels, New York lightweight, increased his knockout record to forty-two last night when he disposed of Bert Forbes of Seattle, in the second round of a scheduled four-round bout here.

GRAND TRUNKS TURN OUT AGAIN

Two New Prospective Pitchers — Excellent Work Out Last Evening.

The Grand Trunkers held another big practice last evening at the Pine street school grounds. There were athletes enough present at the practice to form three teams, and a real snappy work-out was the result because there were are numbers there is power. The boys did not work too hard of course as this is their second meeting this season. They did not choose up sides, but contented themselves with hard long flies and hot grass cutters.

Two new pitching recruits were present last evening, and tossed the old ball over the old park. Oh, no! We are honest to goodness Belleville boys, who are desirous that Messrs. Dutcher and Grove decide upon their ability in that very important department, and it goes without saying that any team who desires a record, will be glad to run a fair deal by those competent officials. Holman and Mott are the names of the new wires, who may yet be heard from. Holman's delivery is the other two twirlers turned out again, and were steaming them over in fine style.

C. O. B. LEAGUE GAINS PRESTIGE

Brighton Sees a Successful Season Ahead For This Year.

The League of the town of Brighton, noted for producing whining baseball teams, has this to say of the C.O.B.L.

"Perhaps a lot of people don't realize it, but nevertheless the Central District League is just about the fastest amateur league in Ontario, and Ontario takes in the Trenton teams at that. Belleville, the 1919 champions, won the Provincial championship, and in 1920, Peterborough champions went right to the finals Oshawa champions last year, were eliminated in the semi-finals.

The competition is going to be very keen this year, and as players in contract of May 1 are not eligible for clubs are not engaged by and have for star performers. Bowmanville is said to have some good players who out Lindsay uniforms last year, and Port Hope has their star pitcher; Deer again is in the field, and we have previously said, Cobourg and Oshawa are very strong. News from the Peterborough Limited League seems to show strife between management and players, Lonside is too near Toronto not to have some good men, and Bellville can always be counted upon to be a contender. The 1922 C. O. L. championship should be Ontario champion next October.

HERE'S AN UMPIRING JOB THAT'LL BE HARD TO DC

The outfielders will be picked from Nicholson, Fox, Jones, Walsh, Mulroy, Mahoney and several others. Tom Glester, and Ed. Buscombe will do the umpiring.

FINAL SHOOT TODAY

The final shoot in the Canadian of the League will take place to-day, and will finish the season. All members under 18 years of age will shoot at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

Nothing more has been heard from Willie Hoppe since the announcement of his retirement, although many expect he will reconsider. Probably little attention was paid to the once Boy Wonder's exit from billiards because of the explanation which accompanied it. Willie said he would not compete under the conditions governing championship play, the rules of the B.B.C. Co. making it almost impossible for a challenger to beat the champion. Willie forgot that he himself had a hand in framing the rules and regulations for billiard title matches, profited and benefited by them.

RELIC OF DAYS OF 1812 IS FOUND AT SANDWICH

Windsor, April 26.—Workmen excavating for the basement of a new property in the country town of Sandwich today uncovered a smooth bore solid iron shot, such as was used in the cannon of a hundred years ago. It is about three inches in diameter, and weighs a trifle more than 18 ounces. The spot where the relic was dug up is distant but a few rods from the Detroit River bank, and members of Essex Historical Society express the opinion that the shot probably was fired from a small gunboat during the "unpleasantness" of 1812.

The cannon ball will be turned over to the society.

COPYRIGHT BY RANDALL PARRISH

ON THE floor of the dark touring car he found the dagger—"a long, thin-bladed dagger"—an ornament rather than a weapon—with an odd, fanciful hilt. There were stains upon the polished steel. And into his mind came the thought of the girl with the silver dagger in her hat. It was Phillip Severn who found the folded slip of paper in the false bottom of the lacquered jewel box, and that was the beginning of everything.

Here is a serial in Mr. Parrish's best style, adventure treading on the heels of adventure through a thrilling maze of mystery to an entirely satisfactory conclusion.

BRING THEIR OWN WELCOME

Robbie and Dandelion Loved by Children Throughout the World, Say Famous Lumber Company.

Someone has said that the dandelion is pre-eminently the children's flower, for it grows all over the world and is known and loved by the little ones of every nation. The robin holds the same place in the affection of the children of this country, his arrival in the spring being eagerly awaited by boy and girl alike. Both of these have been adopted recently while listening to a song, sung over the radio while they read, "Does a robin sing, boy?" "Think of all the has lost—at fairs, at twilight" and in the immediate absence! Poor, city people.

And that reminds me of an incident in a railroad yard in Michigan. A pair of robins built their nest in a freight car, and just as the brood was hatched the order came to send the car on to Chicago. The yardmaster, on investigation, telegraphed the situation to headquarters, and the order came to transfer the car to the track where the car until the babies were able to leave the nest. The men at both ends of the line were country boys, without doubt.

Our own particular robins are back in full feather, fat, red and merry as ever. We miss the one who always hopped instead of running, on account of some injury in his youth, and who was here every summer for four years. —Chicago Daily News.

ECUADOR HAS FEW SCHOOLS

Colleges in South American Country Out of All Proportion to Primary Institutions.

If the proportion of whites in the population of a country is to be taken as an indication of its intellectual status, then one might fairly expect only a very moderate intellectual development from Ecuador, for it has the smallest of Andean countries, with a total nominal white population of only about 1½ million, and of this number all are Indians and blacks except the four hundred thousand of mixed origin and a mere one hundred thousand pure whites.

At best, the twelve hundred primary, or grade, schools of Ecuador, attended of eighty thousand, do not begin to account for all the children of school age, and the total of fifty secondary schools have to do with no more than three thousand pupils. Only

Like all Andean countries, however Ecuador gives prominence to all who have to do with the professions. Lawyers, and for higher instruction six colleges, with an entire population is only about 1½ million, and of this number all are Indians and blacks except the four hundred thousand of mixed origin and a mere one hundred thousand pure whites.

Officers Drop Epaulets.

Gabriele d'Annunzio's bald head has set the fashion for the officers of his little army in Fiume, who now refuse to have shaved their craniums and are endeavoring to grow hair. Even the dyke heads as copies of the poet's chin adornment.

The Fiume aviators have also adopted the cause with greater zest than other branches of the service. Instead of the Hesks," Youthful officers in their teens and early twenties have shaved their heads and are wearing little pointed beards in an effort to look at in the like the poet-soldier.

Mixed uniforms of French horizon blue and Italian gray green are worn by d'Annunzio's men, a great picture.

Increase in Japan's Coal Output.

Shipping and engineering notes with interest that the output of coal in Japan during the first half of 1921 was put at 26,825,000 tons, showing an increase of 2,700,000 tons, or almost 10 per cent, as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year, in spite of the reduction in exports made from time to time of the gradual cessation of the demand. This was attributed to the revival of old mines and the increase in the number of new mines which, with profitable prices obtaining, although not to the high level which prevailed in 1920, still netted a handsome profit.

Making a Hit.

I had an engagement one evening with a young woman friend, and, when I was endeavoring to make a big hit, I purchased a pompadour. We went to the theater; I walked up to the box office and asked for two tickets. Just then the girl in the ticket pasion walked in ahead. I put my hand into my pocket and found that I had forgotten to take any money with me! I turned red and white, but that was nothing compared to what I felt when the usher gaudily broke the news and escorted me out to a door marked "exit." Did I make a hit? I've got the chills yet.

Identifying the Wicked.

James enthusiastically upholds nickel as the first vintage, for he was having trouble with the control. In reply to his "If did drop a fiddle," Mrs. Reid demanded, "Well, what kind of a nickel are you trying to use?" "I dunno what kind it is," he replied, "but it's got a little ball on it."

Appearances.

Rafferty," said the police justice, "I hear overalls are to become fashionable." "If hope not, yer honor. They'll put cuffs on the bottoms, make the narrow waisted, with bets in the back, and come plaited," said the disgusted Rafferty.

Reminiscences of Bay of Quinte Are Outlined

W. C. Mikel, K.C., Points Out Sacrifices Made and Hardships Endured by U. E. Loyalist This District Cradle Ground for Ontario and Western Canada.

AN ABLE AND INTERESTING ADDRESS

W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, a member of a U.E. Loyalist family since so address before the U.E. Loyalist association of Ontario, Thursday evening, on the "Bay of Quinte Reminiscences," in the course of which he recalled many of the interesting and romantic epoch and the hardships endured by those early settlers for a principle dear to the British heart. The Bay of Quinte District was really the "Cradle Ground" for Ontario and Western Canada.

High Canadian Ideals

He said that the two classes which have contributed most to the early settlement of Canada and which still exert the greatest influence, were guided by high ideals, and by the principle of patriotism, namely, the early French Christian Missionaries and the U. E. Loyalists. The former, of course, were religious, of the latter, British principles.

Stern Stoics

After reviewing the early conditions of the Bay of Quinte section of Upper Canada, he mentioned that the early Settlers "so urged that the Movies, or plays, of the experience of the Loyalists, that the present generation would better understand how Canada became a British country."

Sacrifices Made

The sacrifices made by the U. E. Loyalists, he said, were not to be measured by the wealth they left behind them, but by the hardships they endured. It was estimated that those who to-day scramble for the place or power or wealth or applause or discontinued with their lot, would find useful lessons in studying the lives of the U. E. Loyalists.

Family Compacts

These Loyalists were not to blame for the wrongs of the Family Compact, in that many of them suffered from the selfishness of the Family Compact and opposed its management of public affairs bitterly. The world has not yet the length of taking up arms in 1837. The influence of the Loyalists can be of service to-day in helping to Canadianize the incoming immigrant.

Hereditary Title

When Lord Dorchester was Governor of Canada an Order was passed by the Governor-in-Council, November 9th, 1788 at Quebec, placing a "Mark of Honor" on the U. E. Loyalists, and their posterity regardless of nationality, Political or Religion, and creating the only Hereditary Title that has been created by a Canadian Government. The possessors of this title to-day have good reason to be proud of it as it was not given for the accumulation of wealth or for political influence, but because of the sacrifices of all their material wealth and fifteen years in their home country, for an ideal. It was not given because an ancestor basked in royal favor, as Prince Rupert but because an ancestor fought a noble fight and suffered

Owing to many of the farmers being busy on the land the attendance upon the market this morning was not as large, as is usual on Saturday, but a good supply was obtained for all products offered for sale.

THREE ARRESTS MADE

Following Shooting and Hold-up at Welland.

Welland, April 29.—Three arrests have been made in connection with the holding up that was staged at Winger last October when Harry Smith, a storekeeper, was held up by three men and shot through the chest as a result of which he has been following up clues, made the arrest of Allen Pemberton, John and Harry Garner. Another arrest is pending.

SAYS OCCUPATION OF RUHR WILL START NEW CONFLICT

Moscow, April 29.—The Izvestia asserts that the "decision of the French Council of Ministers to occupy the Ruhr region in Germany" will send "not only to the breaking up of the Genoa Conference, but to disruption of European peace and threat of a new war, which the French 'are provoking by throwing sparks in the powder magazine.'"

GLASS EYE EXPLODES; WEARER KNOCKED DOWN

Lethbridge, Alta., April 22.—Something new in explosives is reported in a church fracas. Warner, near here, which states that Ronald Folsom, a school teacher and the wearer of a glass eye for many years as the result of an accident, was knocked down when the eye exploded. An air hole or flaw in the pupil of the eye is advanced as the cause of the explosion which resulted in a shower of pieces of the glass struck the optic or some other nerve, the shock causing Mr. Folsom to fall.

BRITISH DRAFT PROPOSALS TO RUSSIA TO RECOGNIZE DEBTS

Asked to Pay Two Per Cent. Interest for Five Years, and Four Per Cent. for Another Five Years.

Genoa, April 29.—The Central News correspondent says he learns that the British draft proposals to Russia set forth eight points, the principal of which is that Russia shall recognize all her debts and after a moratorium of five years, to pay two per cent. interest for five years and then four per cent. for another five years. The document does not specify that Russia must accept the principle of private ownership.

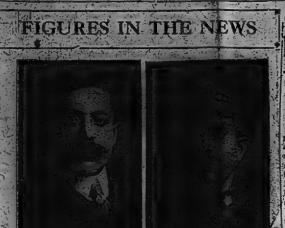

The High Commission on Russian affairs this morning agreed on presents to Russian proposals. The Sub-Commission announced that the French and British drafts or preamble had been harmonized.

Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Russia to-day sent Premier Facta of Italy a note expressing dissatisfaction with the delay in replying to his note of April 20 and saying the note would be withdrawn and the Russians would resume their initial position unless they were assured their credits necessary to restore Russia would be granted.

A despatch to The Times from Genoa says that legal advisers of the Reparations Commission will report that they find nothing, in Russo-German pact inconsistent with the Versailles Treaty subject to satisfactory replies being received from the Germans on certain points.

In line with Lloyd George's declaration that new Allied proposals to Russians must be considered as a whole, special drafting committee was engaged on Friday to frame a document which would harmonize the differences in the demands submitted by British and French delegations.

DESCHANEL IS DEAD, A FORMER PRESIDENT

For Many Years Was an Outstanding Figure in French Public Life.

Paris, April 28.—Paul Deschanel, former president of France died this afternoon.

M. Deschanel was taken ill with influenza a few days ago, and on Wednesday it was announced that complications had developed and that his condition was serious.

Serious complications set in almost immediately after he was stricken, and his weakened condition due to the nervous breakdown he suffered while he was president, contributed to lessening his power of resistance.

Death came to the former President at 5.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Paul Deschanel realized his life's ambition to become president of France on January 17, 1920, only to leave it scarred eight months later by a serious nervous breakdown which compelled his resignation.

Born in Brussels 64 years ago, M. Deschanel was the Beau Brummel among French statesmen. Politically he devoted all his life to fighting collectivism in every shape, and particularly radicalism. He was president of the chamber of deputies from 1898 to 1902, and in 1909, was elected one of the forty "immortals" by the French academy.

ARMED BAND MURDERS CITIZENS IN SKIBBEREEN

Skibbereen, County Cork, April 23.—Shortly after their arrival in Dunmanway, near here, last night, a party of armed men started firing rifles and revolvers in the streets. The firing continued for several hours, and daylight revealed the bodies of three prominent citizens—Francis Fitzmaurice, a solicitor; T. Buttimer, a retired draper; and D. Gray, a chemist. All the men had been shot. Gray was killed virtually inside his own doorway. Two other persons, including a school teacher are reported to have been wounded.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR DROWNING VICTIM

Impressive Service for Veteran of War Conducted by Comrades.

With full military honors, the body of the late Joseph Loonton, who met his death by drowning in the Bay of Quinte, was laid this afternoon, consigned to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. The obsequies were under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. and Argyll Light Infantry, and a number of members were present to pay the last sad tribute of respect to a comrade.

The impressive funeral services at the Anglican church were conducted at St. Thomas' church at 3 p.m. by the Venerable Archdeacon Beamish, the rector.

Following the service, the cortege slowly wended its way to the Belleville cemetery to the mournful strains of "The Dead March", played by the band of the 15th Argyll Light Infantry.

At the cemetery, the firing party fired three volleys over the grave, and the "Last Post" was sounded. The firing party which was under the command of Captain D. T. McManus and Regt. Sert.-Major G. A. Symons, was made up of the following veterans: H. G. Belsey; T. W. Horton, W. G. Wardlaugh, G. Miller, Peter Tilly, H. Holton, H. E. Wilson, Harry Symons, Alex. Joss, Hugh Campbell, W. G. Cryer.

"Last Post" was sounded by Buglar N. J. Burns, and the gun carriage was in charge of William McKenna and John Frost. The bearers were Serreants G. Madden, E. H. Liddle, A. G. Bowyer, G. H. Johns, G. A. Irvine and G. W. Dawes.

All the men in charge of the funeral are members of the local branch of the G.W.V.A.

It is believed that the murders were intended as reprisals for the killing of the MacMahons.

AMATEUR COMEDY WELL PRESENTED

Delightful Entertainment Given by Pupils of the High School.

One of the most delightful amateur comedy plays that has been given in the city of Belleville was presented last night by the Belleville High School in the form of a play in three acts, "The Goose Nest Dew" which was written by H. Hartley Manners was one of the best from which to secure a good play. In it was all the sprightly manner of a good comedy. Miss Ruth March as Sir Jack Osteweld, bronzet was good and Miss Evelyn MacLaurin as his daughter Lady Betty was the best. The other players also were on there mettle and ready at all times to play their parts.

The music which was furnished by Jack McGee's Orchestra was all that could be desired in this line.

A presentation of roses was made by Miss Clara Yeomans was made to Miss M. Young by members of the cast in appreciation of her time and services given to make this play one of the best of the season.

FLOGGING FOR DRUG VENDORS ADVOCATED IN GREAT BRITAIN

Parliament to be Asked to Pass a Bill Providing Such Penalty—Many Night Clubs Closed by Police.

London, April 21.—Chiefly because of the alarming spread of the drug habit in London, the authorities are waging a vigorous campaign against the West End night clubs.

During and since the war about fifty so-called night clubs, corresponding to the Paris cabarets, have sprung up here, and have practically established such a centre of lurid night life, as is familiar to most of the American visitors. The London Council has now determined to close every club of questionable character, and the police are already proceeding against the night-clubs' proprietors. Among the 3166 Hall Club, Bretts, Statement to Government by Directors Was Merely Inventory—Trial of Merchants Bank Official is Opened in Montreal.

VALUE ASSETS ANNUALLY

Montreal, April 26.—The outstanding feature in the evidence submitted to Judge Cimon, sitting in the Exchequer Court here, in the charges against H. C. Macrae, General Manager of the Merchants Bank of Canada, was the fact that the witnesses examined, namely, J. M. Kilbourne, secretary of the bank since 1906; J. Gillespie Muir, Chief Accountant for the past 35 years, and Henry E. Locke of the Chief Accountant's staff, all explained that when the President and the General Manager of the bank signed the monthly statements to the Government they had no personal knowledge of the information to which they had testified.

Further evidence was to the effect that, under the Provisions of the Bank Act, which requires a monthly return to be sent to Ottawa not later than the 30th of the following month, there was no way by which the General Manager could obtain such personal verification of the returns he signed.

Assets Revalued Once Yearly

Evidence further showed that the bank revalued its assets once yearly. These are made up, in much the greater part, by merely consolidating the reports of all the branches which reach the head office of the Chief Accountant, and adding to this statement the reports of senior inspectors as to values of bank premises, real, and other items belonging to headquarters. It was under cross-examination that what the branch managers sent in each month was based on a part of the annual monthly statements sent to the Government was merely an inventory that it is only once a year that there is a revaluation of the assets held based upon inspectors' reports.

The case heard today was against D. C. Macarow, former General Manager, who was charged with having willfully made false and deceptive statements" in the monthly statements for October, 1921. The charge against Mr. Macaulay was of having "deliberately" done so was not taken up today. The case was put over to Monday when it is expected to take several more days' sittings.

CHURCH DIGNITARIES ON IRISH SITUATION

Misrepresentation of Facts Alleged to Have Been Made.

Belfast, April 26.—Primate Dorey of the Anglican Church in Ireland, Archbishop Crozier of Armagh and President Smyth, of the Methodist Church, have replied in statement issued at Maynooth College which, in referring to conditions in Belfast, said the Catholics were subjected to a savage persecution which was followed by bitterest sufferings of the Armistice". The reply says the assertions are misrepresentations of the facts and that trouble in Belfast is political, not religious, and an effort to paralyze six-hour Government.

Writes Thrilling Tales

RANDALL PARRISH

One of the most popular, most industrious, and typically American writers of the day, is Randall Parrish. He deals largely in plots of romance, mystery and adventure. Frequently the setting is in the West, but not always. His latest story "The Mystery of the Silver Dagger" is laid in the East, and introduces new characters and incidents. One of the unusual angles in the mystery with which he surrounds the principal female participant. You do not discover until the final chapter whether she is a dangerous criminal, a foreign plotter, a secret service agent or just a normal, sweet American girl acting from a high sense of duty. Such uncertainty adds to the charm of the narrative. It will be offered soon as a serial in these columns. Be sure to get the opening instalment.

IN POINT OF BEAUTY AND SPLENDOR "SATURDAY NIGHT" RANKS WITH SEASON'S BEST

Received with marked demonstrations of approval by a highly appreciative audience, "Saturday Night," at the Conti Theatre this week, a production of Paramount, was presented at Griffin's last night.

In point of beauty and splendor, this picture production is quite up-to-the Delille standard, lucidity free by "The Affairs of Anatol" and "Why Change Your Wife", and as it deals with the subject of unmarried people in high and low life, it follows that the topic never has been dealt with more discriminatingly or artistically by any screen producers. The story deals with a young man and woman of high social station in life and another couple of humble origin and surroundings. By a strange fate, the fashionable young man weds the daughter of a washerwoman, and the aristocratic girl marries her chauffeur. How they come to realize their error and ultimately are brought together in more congenial ties, makes a thoroughly delightful story. Leatrice Joy, Conrad Nagel, Edith Roberts, and Jack Mower portray the leading roles with excellent results. The picture may be safely recommended as one of the best seen here this season.

REX STOCK COMPANY TO PRESENT "THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND CANDLES"

"The House of a Thousand Candles", is the next offering by the Rex Stock Company at the Conti on Monday to Wednesday. On a certain street corner in "Li'l ole New York" a few years ago when that famous mystery play was in its hay day, an Englishman stood and after gazing at the billboard display and absorbing all the alluring ad, remarked "Great Scott—what, a frightful lot of candles"—however, it does not look, apt only of candles, but of painting of scenery, of actors, of ability and talent, to produce a play of this character; in the manner the author intended.

Rex plays the part of Bates, the servant in the house, the mystery man, the man whom no one can be sure who he is, and whence he came. Zana of course, plays the girl in the case while Billy Seymour will be the young lover, and Bill Yule for a change will be a deep dyed villain.

The play has a unique standing in regard to record runs. The run of the play in London, England was long, but the scribe has no record of its length. In New York it features among the four longest runs. In Chicago it ran second to record. Philadelphia, it broke all records, as California. The scenery and effects the Rex Company have lavished upon it are worthy of a $3 attraction. New vaudeville specialties will be introduced between acts.

NEW COAT OF ARMS ON FLAGS OF CANADA AFTER APRIL 26

Ottawa, April 26.—The Government has passed regulations whereby the new Canadian coat of arms replaces the shield at present in use on the Canadian red ensign, and the blue ensign flown on the ships of the navy and those in the Canadian Government service. The change goes into effect on from April 26, but use of flags bearing the old shield is permitted up to March 31, 1924.

FIREBUGS AT WORK IN OIL FIELDS

Moscow, April 28.—Incendiaries, according to the Pravda, recently set on fire some of the largest oil wells in the Baku region, and it was with great difficulty that the remaining wells in the oil fields were saved. The Pravda charges that the incendiarism was the work of Social Revolutionaries, two of whom were arrested.

In consequence of the fire the output in the Baku district has been reduced to 160,000 poods (a pood is 36 pounds) of oil daily.

THE BAND OF HIS MAJESTY'S SCOTS GUARDS ON FLYING TOUR ACROSS THE CONTINENT

From Montreal to British Columbia and back to the top of the country in nine days constitutes probably the longest tour in the shortest time ever undertaken by any musical celebrity or musical organization. Such work cut out for the celebrated Band of His Majesty's Scots Guards when they left last by the Empress of Scotland from the motherland April 22nd for a series of concerts limited to the most up-to-day and which will see them back from Victoria on board ship again June 5th homeward bound. The arrangements are in the hands of Dr. Charles Harriss. From the concerts to be given it is expected the Great War Veterans Association will benefit considerably under whose auspices the band will perform. The interest being taken in the coming of the Scots Guards by the ladies and women clubs and societies, the I. O. D. E. municipal chambers, the National Society, Rotarians, Kiwanians, Military authorities and divers other of the many patriotic organizations all point to the desire on the part of these influential bodies to get together and make a grand success of the band's performance when they reach this city.

DR. CHARLES HARRIS

BLESSEDNESS OF PURITY

A SERMON PUD THE "SHUT-IN"—THOSE WHO ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICES THROUGH ILLNESS OR INFIRMITY.

By Rev. W. H. Wallace, Pastor of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church.

"Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."

The old Greek sage said "Call no man happy till he dies." But the greatest and greatest of all preachers said, "Happy are the pure in heart." We have from Jesus promise of happiness here and the fulness of joy hereafter. But call no man happy here unless he is "pure in heart." Purity here, and purity now, not only in the spiritual realm, but also in the natural. Our happiness here is largely dependent upon these things. We know that impure things bring misery. For happiness here we need purity, free from foul smell and pestilence and infectious diseases. Pure air is necessary for good health, and good health is very necessary to our happiness.

We also need pure water. What a boon to mankind is pure water. But it tempts, it will foster fever and bring a man misery instead of joy. When water is pure and sparkling it will satisfy and gladden the thirsty soul.

Then pure and wholesome food is necessary to the health and happiness of man. In the more civilized portions of the world we find men careful to eat that which is pure. No substitutes wanted. Pure air, pure water and pure food, equal pure blood, and pure blood means a healthy body, and a healthy body means happiness.

To make happiness more complete we need a sound mind in a sound body. In order to have a pure mind we need pure thoughts. If we would entertain and cherish thoughts considered pure and noble, we must read pure books, look upon pure pictures, and hear and utter pure words in connection—for "evil communications corrupt good manners." An evil and bad mind will bring unhappiness even if the body proves to be sound and healthy.

Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

But we take another step and enter the moral sphere to increase the happiness of man. In this, if a man would be happy, even with a poor body and a weak mind, and seek for an increase in happiness, he must hold a double attitude. In other words, to use a paradoxical and inelegant expression, he must be "two faced." The man who would have his joy full here must smile and frown on all that is evil and unclean, and say, "away with whatever is wrong and bad, I'll have nothing to do and cleave to all that is right and good and godly, that man shall have his rewards in living happy.

From the moral sphere we approach the spiritual and enter the spiritual realm, and find in it alone true blessedness. Not only the promise of future bliss, but the happiness that satisfies here and now. "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." Here we have the blessedness of purity here and hereafter.

Purity of Heart.

What is it? It is not merely the absence of unholy thoughts and desires—these annoying things from which you would flee, we cannot, for they cling to us as part of ourselves. We are all the unhappy heirs to evil thoughts and desires. We cannot drive them away ourselves. We need Him who cleansed the Temple to cleanse our hearts from the filthiness of the flesh and spirit. Let us cry to Him today, "Lord if thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." If we are in earnest we shall probably hear Him say, "I will, be thou clean." But this purity of heart, which we all need, is not merely "the empty house all swept and garnished" with the unoccupied and clean heart would not be left long empty—"seven other spirits" far more evil than the first one unclean spirit, would enter in and possess it, and "the last state of that man would be worse than the first." If the heart has been emptied of all that is unclean the sooner it is filled, healed and the tenant enter the better. During my early Christian life,there was a little boy who had yielded himself to Christ and was happy in his Saviour's love. One day a friend asked this little boy a question to this effect: "What would you do if the evil one came and knocked at your heart's door for admission?" The little fellow replied, "I would tell him to be gone, I had another tenant." Make sure you possess Christ—this is the only sure way of keeping the enemy out.

"The pure heart is not one that has been cleansed from all its idols,neverto,but is filled with the pure love of Him who bought it. It is the love of God shed abroad in the heart that makes it pure, and drives away all fear and all evil. Nothing of evil can dwell in the presence of pure distrusting truth." The glory will then be unveiled love. Purity of heart brings a new order of things. It is evi-ranched and dwells in the pure heart. The tendency of the life. It makes it possible for us to walk with God and to enjoy fellowship with the saints. It is the passport into the presence of the "Lord, Lord, who shall sojourn in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart." yielded and himself to Christ and to send unto the hill of the Lord? or why shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation." Purity of heart means a life of perseverance, holiness and peace. "Follow peace with all men and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord."

Purity of heart means life. What is sound is manifested by pure water. But it tempts, it will foster fever and bring a man misery instead of joy. When water is pure and sparkling it will satisfy and gladden the thirsty soul.

Then pure and wholesome food is necessary to the health and happiness of man. In the more civilized portions of the world we find men careful to eat that which is pure. No substitutes wanted. Pure air, pure water and pure food, equal pure blood, and pure blood means a healthy body, and a healthy body means happiness.

"Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

But we take another step and enter the moral sphere to increase the happiness of man. Jesus, the very thought of Thee With sweetness fills my breast; But sweeter far Thy face to see, And in Thy presence rest."

It may be the world gets between you and the vision of God. I remember a time when the late Chas. H. Spurgeon was preaching at the city of Newcastle-on-Tyne. He told the people that as he approached the city he could see nothing but the smoke caused by the great iron works—but on Sunday when all was quiet and the sky clear he could see the beautiful hills of Northumberland, (where the heather grows as bonnie as in Scotland). Then it was that he said that when we reach our Sabbath of rest and the smoke of the world and the cares of time shall have passed away we shall behold the everlasting hills of God.

But no sky can hide the vision of God from the pure in heart. Outward circumstances cannot obscure the vision if the heart is pure. But only the pure in heart can see God. Who are the pure in heart? All who have been born again, who have received new hearts and been made new creatures in Christ Jesus. These have all been washed by the blood of the Lamb and have seen the vision of the Crucified. The Spirit has dealt effectually with them, they have now "the second sight," their spiritual eyes have been made good. Scholarship as in a glass the glory of the Lord, they are changed from glory to glory, even as by the spirit of the Lord. And all such have received the Spirit of adoption by the hope of the fuller vision of God. Every one that hath this hope in him purifieth himself even as he is pure." We can never have the happiness without the purity. "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA

Caused by Starved Nerves Due to Weak, Watery Blood.

People think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may effect any nerve of the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve "is called sciatica, but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease is the same. The cause is the same, and the remedy to be effective, must be the same. The pain of neuralgia, whether it takes the form of sciatica, lumbago or any it affects the face and head, is caused by starved nerves. The blood, which normally carries nourishment to the nerves, starves, for some reason no longer does so and the distressing pain which you feel is the cry or call for food. The reason why the blood fails to properly nourish the nerves is usually because the blood itself is weak and thin.

When you build up the thin blood of Mr. Williams' Pink Pills, you are attacking neuralgia, sciatica and kindred diseases at the root. The veins of these pills is those of the blood as shown by the experience of Miss Beulah M. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N.B., who says: "About a year ago following an attack of measles, I was left in a badly run down condition. I was weak and very nervous and had no appetite. A doctor was called in and gave me medicine, but it did not help me. My blood was thin and my hands and my feet were always cold. Then to add to my misery I was attacked with neuralgia, from which I suffered greatly. I was reduced to a mere skeleton, and did not care whether I lived or not. I took this deplorable condition when I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was some time before I could notice any benefit from the pills, but before a half a dozen boxes were used there was no doubt that pills were helping me. Then I got six more boxes, and before they were done I was feeling more enjoying good health and am now strong and healthy. I shall always feel grateful for what these pills have done for me, and urge all weak people to give them a trial."

You can get these pills through your dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OODLES OF RUBLES IN ONE BANK BILL

Moscow, April 29.—While private brokers are offering more than four million paper rubles for a dollar, the food prices are soaring proportionately. The Government has announced a new issue of money in probably the largest denominations in the world. The notes will be in 50,000,000 and 100,000,000 rubles, and will be redeemable in 1994.

NEED NOT MAKE RETURNS OF LIQUOR EXPORTABLES

Toronto, April 29.—Edward Gooderham, manager of the Gooderham and Worts, in testifying yesterday against the company for an alleged illegal sale of liquor for export, stated he had been advised by the chairman of the License Board and prominent legal authorities that it was unnecessary to make returns to the Government of export sales. He knew of no consignments not duly exported.

THE KHAN IN TORONTO TELEGRAM

A HOME-MADE HERO.

There is no hero so sure of my admiration as he who hath turned some tremendous misfortune to advantage by exercise of pluck and grit. The great men of his own resources. This is to be deplored for it would add immensely to the joy of living. Only one man in every million realizes how fearfully and how wonderfully he is made. Only one man through life unaware of his amazing capacity for doing things. How many a Napoleon, a Shakespeare, a Gladstone, a Charles Sockdologer published a poem about Medad's Empty Sleeve in the Duke's Cocoanut Foghorn, would marry Cissie if he wanted to. She would likely find out that her husband was a fraud sooner or later,—but most every married woman finds that out sometime or other. What difference does it make how you handle your mitness so long's you humbug her?

There is one thing certain, that so long as Medad's mouth hangs out he don't need to work!

"This Typewriting Gets on My Nerves"

"I WONDER if I am getting nervous. There must certainly be something wrong with me, for, I am so tired in the mornings and do not seem to have the energy to transcribe the bunch of letters which I get every day.

"Of course, I have been working harder than usual to make up for those who have been away sick. Then I have been helping more at home while mother was sick. I suppose it all helps to line one out and exhaust the nerves.

"But what was that I was reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food building up the nerves? Perhaps that is what I need. There was something about worry and anxiety breaking down the nervous system, and I have surely had my share of worry.

"That may account for my headaches and sleeplessness as well as for the tired feelings which I have all the time. Well, am going to get some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food today and give it a try-out.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so gentle in action and yet so potent as a restorative that, it is a great favorite with women of all ages. It seems to be admirably suited to the needs of their delicate nervous systems, and on this account it has come to be universally used as a means of restoring vigor and energy to a run-down, nervous system.

The healthful color and appearance of people who have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—the elasticity and vivacity of their movements —is the best evidence of the benefits they have attained.

The Toll of Death in Russia

TEN MILLION CHILDREN in Russia are doomed to die in the slow agonies of starvation unless the people of Canada awaken in their generosity, and by gifts of food and money, enable the Save the Children Fund to prevent this horror.

The famine in the Volga region is the most appalling in recorded history. Whole populations are exterminated. Children —fatherless and motherless, homeless, with death staring their sunken faces, wander the highways and byways until they creep into some abandoned hovel to die.

Hundreds of thousands have died from starvation and neglect; but millions can be saved if food is dispatched at once.

Will you give something? Will you save a helpless child from starving to death? What can you give means little to you—yet it means the life of a child!

25c will feed a child for a week.

$1.00 will ensure sufficient food for one child for a month.

$600 will establish a kitchen and feed 100 children until the next harvest.

PARLIAMENTARY MANNERS.

Mr. Speaker Parliament of the Legislature of Ontario has found it necessary to warn members that in parliamentary bodies during debate courtesy must characterize the language used and that statements reflecting upon the honor and character of colleagues must be avoided. There are some who think that recent years have seen a decline in parliamentary manners as well as in parliamentary strength, not in the legislatures more than in the House of Commons. It might be as well to accept such claims with reservation. Legislative bodies are always changing personnel as members passing out and new men taking their place. It takes time for those fresh to the service to ripen, and for a time it is not unnatural that they should compare unfavorably with those who have done their work and passed on. The traditions of legislative bodies soon assert themselves, however, and with a capable and firm man in the speaker's chair many lessons are needed to bring the unruly ones into a proper appreciation of what is required.

It is possible that recent events in political life have exaggerated some of the weaknesses from which legislatures have never been free. The platform during the election campaign is used to discuss more than high political issues. Small men as well as broad men stand on it, and there are those who think that what personality damaging to individual opposed to their views or causes him or his friends pain can be made to influence voters. They are generally mistaken. The development of class politics with narrow aims may have increased the number of representatives whose only political education has been from the platform of some who figure on the platform, who do not distinguish between abuse and argument, and who, when they achieve their purpose and find themselves seated among the law makers, think that what carried them through the election campaign will serve them in their new sphere. Such men must be checked would soon degrade the bodies to which they had been sent back. They got a lesson that should do them good when Mr. Parliament reminded them of their duty the other day.

LLOYD GEORGE FIGHTS ALONE.

"Perfidious Albion" is about the only one of the powers at Genoa that is playing a straight-forward, honest, open hand, says the Ottawa Journal. The British Prime Minister is there for the sole purpose of trying to accomplish something for the general good of Europe. What are the others there for? They haven't attempted to conceal their various aims. Russia is there frankly to try and get as much as she can while giving as little as possible in return. Germany is there to get as easy terms as she can for herself. And France is there insisting on such terms for Germany and Russia as will satisfy her, and behind her delegates are the French politicians and press in Paris stamping their feet and declaring like petulant children that if French terms are not granted France should withdraw from the conference. And the French Premier is making speeches in France to the effect that if the wishes of France are not carried out by agreement France will carry them out in her own way.

Lloyd George does not lose his patience. The marvel is that he commands it so well. He does not talk of withdrawing from Genoa. And but for him Genoa would have broken up before this. If it holds together it will be through his efforts.

His rebuke to Poincare for his Bar-le-Duc speech is restrained. But there is meaning between the lines. Poincare's speech, he says, was "a very serious declaration," one "not calculated to improve co-operation among the Allies." He chooses to regard it as having "nothing to do with Genoa," but not to ignore the fact that it was calculated to inflame French opinion and to influence the conference.

There is nothing secret about British policy. "Our policy is that we have no quarrel with the Russian people and do not fear a German-Russian menace, but we are determined to prevent Europe from again becoming a shambles." But not even the greatest determination on the part of one power can avail against odds. He is speaking to France and to Russia when he asserts that "the attitude of the delegates toward a settlement makes our work difficult. We cannot continue to bargain."

"If Lloyd George succeeds at Genoa it will be a victory over enormous difficulties. If he fails, the failure will not lie at his or Britain's door.

CRISP COMMENTS

With the sower going forth to sow in peace and trade showing a continuous upward trend, Canada does not need to exchange places with any nation on earth.

Now that the Canadian dollar has practically reached par, our American neighbors will be again eager to trade on even exchange, and certain tourists will willingly overlook former snubbing in their search for "bargains."

Dublin's mayor must have been in a desperate state of mind after a week when, in alluding to the reign of terror prevailing there, he exclaimed: "What, in the name of God, is it all about?" In the glorious ideal of freedom so soon obscured?

"Fewer 'floppers' among parents would mean fewer flappers among the girls. Dad and mother need a course of exercise to convert their vertebral column into something less yielding," remarks the Chicago News. This little chunk of wisdom is world-wide in its scope.

QUITE IN KEEPING
Vancouver Province

But it would be quite in keeping with Russian and German character to stake or profess to make a new compact and then advertise it to the world. The Bolshevik delegate might expect that this proceeding would make British and France more anxious to obtain an agreement with Russia and break the German monopoly. If this is the device it will be lost on such men as Mr. Lloyd George and M. Poincare. They are not the kind of men to be easily stampeded.

TRUE TO TYPE

Very well did the Huns describe themselves as the "Blond Beasts", and equally so did Kipling write of Russia as the "Bear that walks like a man." The behaviour of these two countries with regard to the Genoa Conference is sufficient proof alone, ignoring past evil proofs, of this.

The Poets' Corner

MORNING IN THE MARSH.

Deep hidden in the marsh while yet the veil
Of darkness hides the landscape from the eye,
Ere dawn's pale wall for dawn, for then the ducks
Shun from their rest and for the open fly.

Just as the first faint streak of morning break
Its misty twilight over field and flood,
So sinks to rest the owl, and whippoorwill
Awakes to life the marsh's myriad brood.

The laboring musquash saddles to his work
And squeaks "Good-morning" to his brother rat,
Deep loaded with his rushes, swimming past
To mend his cottage on the sunken flat.

The little Yaff with green-mailed feet Runs o'er the lily-pads and stops to stare
At the intruder as I silent sit:
He wonders what I can be doing there.

A thousand-bull frogs chant a matin song,
A thousand blackbirds voice a loud
refrain;
The hawks and herons and the bittern,
too,
Sound raucous notes above the watery plain.

The waking black duck's quacking,
clear and low,
Tells me that interest in his coming
mate;
Above the whistle of the wood-duck calls
Her morning greeting to her gay-decked mate.

A million insects swarm the cool, still air,
The slugs across the leaves paint shining trails,
The ugly blacksnake writhes amongst the weeds,
And birds seek hungrily their morning
snails.

The spiders swing their dew-bejewelled webs
Across from rush to rush, the dragon flies
Chase the mosquitoes, while their plainer friend,
The deer-fly on myself his pincers tries.

Across the hills, the sweet September morn
Breaks into crimson glories that enfold
The world in color like a fairy land
Of magic marshes in a land of gold.

The sky is ruddy like the cheeks of flame
Each rush and leaf reflects the brilliant hue;
The water shimmers in the rosy light
The repainted gaily o'er the old canoe.

The whirring of the wild duck's hurtling flight
Now draws the dreamer from the lesser joys,
As pointing lakeward with his outstretched neck,
He catches glimpses of my old decoys.

If then the subtle call is turned aright
He hesitates and makes a hasty choice
On turning as he circles his rose-pied flight
To outstretched wings he makes a moment's poise.

The psychic moment—hand and eye are true,
Good steel and lead have done their best for me,
Load-splashing falls the bird, a moment more
His mate can bear him goodly company.

So deeply is the savage stamped on man,
In spite of all the beauty he may see,
The sum of nature's glories cannot reach
The keen, high joy he takes in battery.

PREMIER W. M. HUGHES SHOCKS DEPUTATION

Tells Them to Shut Up and Go to Blithering Blazes.

London, April 29.—Premier W. M. Hughes, of Australia, somewhat shocked a deputation of shipwrights and allied trades that waited on him recently, according to a labor correspondent of the London Times. The deputation complained to the Premier of the Australian Commonwealth that four Commonwealth ships had been repaired in Antwerp, instead of in Australia, and that the job had been repaired in India by black labor receiving eight annas (8 pence) a day.

The whole scene in connection with the latter complaint, this paper tells us, was worthy of the Premier. He jumped from his chair and exploded. "Black labor be damned," he followed this up by exclaiming to the deputation. "Go to blithering blazes. Don't tell to me about black labor."

Before the deputation could recover its breath Premier Hughes was hurrying from his room and pushing his way through the deputation. He stopped long enough to say that only one ship had been repaired at Antwerp. The policy of the Government, he declared, was to have all repairs effected in Australia, but he insisted that one must allow for emergencies.

The labor representatives present endeavored to appease the Premier, but he slipped into his motor car and was off, while the astonished deputation stood helpless in his room.

FIRE DOES MUCH DAMAGE TO GUELPH IRON WORKS

Guelph, Ont., April 29.—Fire which broke out at an early hour this morning caused considerable damage to the core room at Crowe's Iron Works as well as wrecking the interior of one section of the main foundry building. The blaze was discovered about 5.30 o'clock by the night watchman at the plant, and the firemen battled with the flames for over an hour before getting the fire under control. The damage caused will amount to a considerable sum, as the fire will not cripple the industry, the greater part of which will be in full operation tomorrow. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

Best Cough Mixture Is Home Made

Acts With Speed—Loosens the Phlegm —Stops the Irritation and Coughing Ceases

Fine for Chest Colds, Flu and is Cheaply Made at Home.

When you can make, in your own home, a world beating remedy that acts directly on the membranes and often overnight causes stubborn coughs and even hard chest colds to disappear, why settle with labor that will probably disappoint?

Hawking and snuffling and also soreness of the mucous membranes go and you will feel fine in almost no time.

Just get one ounce of Pargiol (double strength)—add to it a little sugar and enough hot water to make a half pint and you've got an inexpensive remedy better than you can buy ready mixed.

Its soothing, healing action on the membranes is the reason so many people use it for Catarrh and acute nasal colds.

Care Of The Complexion

The proper care of the complexion includes four essentials—good health, cleanliness, prevention of blemishes and correct individual care. Omit one or more of them and your complexion will suffer.

If you expect to have a good complexion, you must live properly; that is, get plenty of sleep, an abundance of fresh air, eat simple, wholesome food and take a normal amount of exercise.

There is nothing which will cause the complexion to grow lifeless and to bring shadows under the eyes quicker than late hours or sleeping in a stuffy room.

To eat of rich, heavy food, to fail to masticate properly, to eat hurriedly or in an uncongenial atmosphere is to encourage indigestion, and that, of course, is followed by a muddy, sallow complexion. But enough, but never to the point of feeling full. It is vulgar to overeat and fatal to one's complexion.

Any one who longs to have a clear, radiant skin must move about in the open air enough to cause the blood to flow swiftly and to throw off its impurities. If you would keep supple of limb, clear of eye and possessed of a beautiful complexion, walk two or three miles a day.

Never buy cheap soap. French castile tincture of green soap, or the production of a reliable soapmaker should be selected.

Unless the skin is very sensitive it will bear one good cleansing with hot water and cheap soap and two or three bathings in cool water, always follow the warm water and soap process by rinsing with cool water.

Cooking Electrically

Makes it Easy for Your Wife

A series of Helpful Talks on Your Cooking Problems and How they ay be Overcome Electrically.

That same electric heater which cooks your electric washer, does your ironing, keeps your rooms cool in summer or warm in winter, and provides light for your home, is also awaiting your command to do your cooking.

Electric cooking is long past the experimental stage; it is a proven success, the highest development of cooking in the home today, and it is fast attaining universal use, especially in localities favored with Hydro generated power. It is the answer to many a woman's cooking problem and a real solution of the problem.

There are over one hundred and seventy Electric Ranges in use in Belleville homes. The majority of these Ranges were in use three times a day, every day of the year, we find that Belleville housewives are strong in their praise of this modern and economical method of cooking their food. They will tell you of the many advantages apart from the economical standpoint.

An Electric Range is convenient to work with, it is easy to keep clean, it dispenses with the use of matches, and it will add charm to the finest kitchen.

The annoyance of having new cooking utensils blackened and tarnished is entirely done away with, for Electric heat operates without flame, smoke, soot or odor, it never rusts, and does not injure your cooking utensils the slightest. It is a pleasure to cook electrically.

GOLF IN CANADA IS IN FULL SWING

Twice as Many Players This Year as Last Year.

Toronto, April 22.—Golf in Canada is going to have a greater play during the season at hand than ever before in its history. Some cities report that the number of players will nearly double that of last year. The long delayed advent of the public course in this country has perhaps done more than anything else to increase the number of enthusiasts so rapidly during the past three years. It is understood that the idea of establishing golf courses where a person could go and play at a nominal cost has really taken root in Canada. Almost every community of any size is getting its golf club. It is already learn's one, and with it a nine hole course is the high hope is not possible at the start.

This Spring the number of the number of golf courses can have but one result and that is a big increase in the number of really fine players, of which this fair Dominion can already boast of quite a few who have helped to put Canada on the golfing map. Canada's golf prestige in the United States which next to the British Isles has more great players of the Royal and Ancient than any other country in the world. And with Canada taking its place as one of the foremost golfing centres the players are now in a position to get only gather in their own Canadian championships but come across to the U.S.A., yes, and even to England and make healthy bids for the championships of those countries. It is estimated that there are now in Canada 216 golf courses with perhaps 18 to 20 more under construction.

The dates of the Canadian championships have all been announced. The Canadian Amateur will be held over the beautiful Ancaster course, at Hamilton during the week of June 16. The Canadian Open will be at the Mount Bruno Club, Montreal, July 23 and 24. Toronto will be the mecca for women golfers. The first week in June, the Ontario championship will be decided over the links of the Rosedale Club, the open championship will be staged at the Toronto Club the week of September 15 by the closed or Canadian championship at Lambton.

The Canadian amateur Championship at Beaconsfield in 1920 which was won by Charlie Grier of Montreal was largely made memorable by the strong delegation of Westerners, and even at this early date information received from Winnipeg, Calgary and other points in the "wild and woolly" west give every reason to expect that, that part of Canada will be finely represented at Hamilton. It would not find the superb Ancaster course much to their liking and should make a splendid showing. On Tuesday, June 20, the championship will start and will then be continued right through to the finals on Saturday the 9th, there will be no other competitions as in the past, and moving the dates back to early summer is much better than holding the championship at the end of August as was the case at Winnipeg last season.

Frank Thomson, the brilliant young Toronto golfer who won the Canadian Amateur last year will, of course, be on hand at Ancaster to defend his title. But it is not certain whether Charlie Hague of Calgary who was runner-up last season will be able to come east. When last heard from Mr. Hague was not certain whether he would be able to get away.

DEMPSEY IN BERLIN TO BOX TWO BOUTS

New York, April 28.—According to a cablegram received here this afternoon by Dan McKetrick from his partner, Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, there is a strong possibility of another match between Dempsey and Carpentier being held at an early date. If the arrangement for the bout is successfully carried out, it will take place in London. Kearns said that he has an option for the bout, and that he expects to have "Babe" Herman and Eugene Criqui, French featherweight champion, meet on the same card.

Carpentier, the cable adds, is now in splendid condition for his coming bout with Ted Lewis. He has been training hard for the past several weeks to meet Lewis at London on May 11. Kearns says there is little question about Carpentier being able to beat Lewis, but he must do so unmistakably to get a second chance at the title.

Dempsey and Kearns left tonight for Berlin where the champion is scheduled to see two exhibition bouts. He is expected to return to London in the middle of next week. Meantime he will keep in touch by telegraph with the sportsmen who are working on the promotion of the Dempsey-Carpentier bout.

CLUB NINE DEFEAT SCOUTS

Listless Game of Indoor Ball —U-Go-I-Go, 24; Scouts 4.

Only the game of indoor baseball was played last night in the armouries, and while it appeared as if it were going to be an interesting battle in the early stages, it gradually developed into a one sided and listless exhibition, and terminated with the U-Go-I-Go nine away out ahead by the tune of 24 to 4.

The scouts, their opponents, started very gloomily, Jeffries their twirler being a slow ball witch fooled many batsmen, and if it was not for the fact that he was a slow fly ball easily handled. Sam Curry went in the box in the 7th inning, but was unable to stop the then victorious clubsters. Bill Knott, who did the hurling for the U-Go-I-Go nine pitched a very good game, and at no time was in danger. The boys from the club were rather heavy on the willow, and once they got to hitting the ball on the ground, were able to find the odd gap in the opposition infield.

GRAND TRUNKS DEFEAT PICTON

Local C.O.B.L. Squad Highly Pleased Large Crowd in Exhibition Game

Walt Gerow, and his Grand Trunk C.O.B.L. team fourteen strong motored over to Picton last evening and opened the baseball season in this district, when he stacked his team up against the nifty Picton Intermediate squad for nine innings. Belleville came out on the long end of the 6-5 score, and returned home, very much pleased with the feat, and very much pleased with the performances turned in, especially by the new men, and the younger players who are breaking into the fast company. After all, there is nothing like a good exhibition game to put the finishing touches on a ball team, and give the manager an opportunity of really looking his material over. Among other things noticed, was the fact that "Peeney" Mills Sr., or "Big" Peeney, or the married Peeney, (as he must be distinguished from his brother Harry of first base) has not "slipped back," although the sporting columns of the news and one of the other C.O.B.L. towns predicted, and indeed stated, that he was skidding, and that he had joined the ranks of the Benedicks, and would retire from baseball, and all the rest of that sort of apple sauce. Don't be easily "pooled" dear reader, for when it comes to baseball, Peeney is nobody's fool.

Not to get down to a story of the game; it was a real interesting exhibition. A large crowd attended the game also, although the weather was too chilly for spectators or players.

Croft, the finished hurler of the Picton aggregation, pitched the entire game, getting five strike-outs, while the Trunks used their three pitchers to excellent advantage. Holman opened the game for the Trunks, pitching three innings. Although they got three runs off him, he did mighty well on the mound, getting three strike-outs. Then Jack Williams went in for three innings. Twelve men faced Jack, and he sent five of them to their dugout via the strike-out route, allowing one hit only, which was a hot one over the first baseman's head.

Keeler hurled the last three innings and he, too made an Al showing, striking out four batsmen in the three innings. "Peeney" Mills did all the receiving, in his usual competent manner.

Belleville got four runs of Croft in the first inning, one in the second, and one in the fourth. Picton got three runs in the first, one in the sixth, and one in the ninth. The Belleville squad showed up well at the willow, the younger and newer men hitting remarkably freely. Al Meagher being king pin in the scoreres last night, by pounding out a 3-bagger. Possibly the Trunks should have secured more runs, but Walt Gerow, desiring them to become proficient in base running, allowed them to take chances that he would not allow in a league game.

Croft, a brother of the Picton pitcher, handled the game to the satisfaction of everyone, assisted by Gerald Lynch on bases.

The lineups—

Grand Trunks—"Babe" Casey, r.f.; Vern Weir, s.s.; Harry Mills, 1st b.; "Peeney" Mills, c.; Fred Ross and Stan. Hagerman at c.f.; Al. Meagher, 2nd b.; "Akki" Ketcheson, 3rd b.; S. Symons and "Cap" Smith, l.f.; Holman, Keeler and Williams, pitchers.

Picton—Carter, 1st b.; Fredericks, c.f.; Hudgin, r.f.; Croft, p.; H. Campney, r.f.; Harrington, 3rd b.; Mulholland, ss.; Fredericks, 2nd b.; and Campney, c.

TWO GAMES IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

Leafs Down Ontarios And Quinte Quad Defeat Grand Trunks

A good crowd turned out, for the Junior City League baseball game last evening, between the Ontarios and the Leafs, at Pine Street school grounds; which resulted in a win for the Leafs, by the score of 18-4. The game was a 5 inning fixture.

Carl Salisbury was the big noise on the winning aggregation clouting out a home run and a three bagger, and also burning a nice steady game for his team. Frank Symons of the Leafs also clouted the old pill for a circuit. For the Ontarios, Dennis, their pitcher, and Harry Anderson, looked about the best. Young Lorne Stork, the kid member of the Leafs also has a good batting eye.

Each team got 4 runs in the first inning, and then settled down to business, nothing of importance in the way of scoring occurring until the last stanza, when the Leafs ran away, and put the game on ice. The Leafs had 14 men in uniform, and by the way turned out with their new uniforms last night.

The teams:

Ontarios—Dennis, p; McAlpine, 1st b; Anderson, 2nd b; Mullens, 3rd b; Boyle, s.s; Curry, r.f; Scott, c.f; Reid lf.

Leafs—Salisbury, p; Latchford, c; F. Symons, 1st b; R. Stork, 2nd b; E. Hibbard, 3rd; Harden, s.s; Doolittle and Day, r.f; L. Stark, c.f; Ross, lf.

A. Symons—Umpire on bases. H. Pringle—Umpire at the plate.

Quinte Quad Win

At Anne Street School grounds last evening, the Quinte Quad nine defeated the Grand Trunks, in the Junior League, by the score of 10-3. As a result of last night's games, the league standing is now as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	to play
Leafs	2	0	3
Quinte Quad	2	1	3
Junior Ontarios	2	2	2
Excelsiors	2	1	3
Grand Trunks	1	2	3
Tigers	0	2	4

The White Sox team also entered the league, but have defaulted all their games.

The next games will be played on Tuesday, May 16, when Quinte Quad, meet the Leafs at Anne Street School Grounds, the Ontarios clash with the Grand Trunks at Pine Street school grounds, and the Tigers meet the Excelsiors at the Fair Grounds.

INTER-SCHOOL LEAGUE

A large crowd attended the baseball game in the Inter School League, played last evening, after 4 o'clock at the Queen Mary's School grounds. The game was between the Queen Mary school team and the Queen Alexandra School nine, and resulted in a win for the former team by a rather one sided score of 27 to 1.

ROBBERS SENTENCED

Barrie, May 12—Thirty months in the penitentiary was the sentence imposed this morning by Police Magistrate Clark on Thomas Eric Carleton, of Needle, Col., and John McNabb, of Lisle, youths of 20 years, who pleaded guilty to robbing and stealing from the post office at Lisle on May 2, and from the store of Lawrence & Co., Creemore, the following night. They were caught at the latter burglary.

SPORT STUFF

Carpentier's Star is again in the ascendant. The Gallic child of fortune crumpled up Ted Lewis in a feverish round at London. The fight will probably be a subject of argument for years to come. Lewis, apparently having the best of it, suddenly took one of Carpentier's terrific rights to the jaw and woke up on his chair. Spectators claimed a foul, but the referee was there and was evidently satisfied there was no foul. Carpentier is now right in line for a return match with Dempsey. In the meantime he would be better suited if he tackled Tunney or Gred.

:: :: :: ::

English fight followers have been singularly unlucky in their big fights. The spectators no sooner scat themselves than they have to deploy from the amphitheatre. In most of the fights of the pas three years the knockouts have come with startling suddenness in the first few rounds.

:: :: :: ::

Montreal is bidding for the Dempsey-Wills fight. It is said the metropolis is the best town for a mixed affair. Hull will hardly bid on this encounter, though it seems to be as lively a mixing centre as ever.

:: :: :: ::

Dempsey greeted Carpentier as "old pal" after the fight. This to us was a very cold and formal welcome to a man who helped him to make about half a million dollars.

:: :: :: ::

Army, the new Ottawa catcher, is a great admirer of Urban Shocker. "I'm here to tell that there is one grand ball pitcher," I saw that baby fan out Ruth three times in one afternoon. The last time he called the outfield in and whanged over three straights on the Babe. That's what I call nerve."

:: :: :: ::

"Huh, that isn't so remarkable," piped in Daisy, the third sacker. "If Ruth had hit one the outfield might as well have been around second base."

O'DOWD BEATS GIBBONS

New York, May —Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight champion last night defeated Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, in a 15-round contest at Long Island City. O'Dowd received the decision.

Gibbons used a left hook effectively in the early stages of the contest, but tired after the seventh round. O'Dowd landed often to the body and head but his punches were light.

OLD BOWLERS ARE DEFEATED

Young Fellers Did the Trick To The Delight of Spectators

Talking it over among themselves the "Old Fellers" said that if they got together they should be able to put it over the Young Fellers. The Young Fellers said they were not so sure of that but that they would try anything once and so last night at the Y Alleys they all went to it. It turned out that the Young Fellers had all the breaks, in fact in a couple of cases it seemed as if they had all the luck in the world. Anyway when the dust was cleared away it was found that the Old Fellers had fet themselves out stuck for the cats.

MANY ENTRIES FOR WRESTLING BOUTS

Canadian Championships in Eight Classes Decided Here Next Week

Monday next will be positively the last day on which entries for the Canadian Wrestling Championship closes, which will be pulled off here, in the Belleville Armouries, on Thursday and Friday evenings next week, May 18th and 19th.

Already many entries have been received and several others are expected to-day. Two local entries have come out for the honour of holding the Canadian Wrestling Championship in each class, one in the heavy weight class, who lays out the Trent road, and Chadwick, who is local boy.

West End Y.M.C.A., of Toronto, are sending down 6 or 10 entries, and one entry has been received from Regina, Sask.

This event is really one of the big attractions of the year, as it is very seldom that 8 wrestling matches in 8 different classes.

THE PASSING OF THE BUCK

Unless the Six Nations Indians on the Grand River reserve are allowed to govern themselves in their own way, according to the ancient laws and usuages of their tribes, without interference by the officers of Canadian law, they may go on the warpath. At least that is the natural inference from speeches made at the council of sachems helds on the reserve recently. If any attempt be made to coerce the Six Nations by armed force, said Big Chief Deslorme, the only reason why any member of that force returns will be that 4,000 Indian braves will have been slain. And the other chiefs agreed. The situation looks serious.

So serious does it look that the provincial and the federal authorities are trying to evade the responsibility of dealing with it. Each set of officials is endeavoring to shift the responsibility upon the other set. The attorney-general's department at Toronto says that the trouble is one for the Dominion authorities to deal with and that the provincial authorities should not interfere, seeing that the Indians are wards of the national government. But the Hon. Charles Stewart, federal minister of the interior, explains that the trouble is one involving civil rights and therefore one for the provincial authorities to deal with. It is an interesting exhibition of the game of passing the buck.

On the surface it would appear that the minister of the interior is right. The provincial authorities are responsible for the enforcement of law within the province. But this question is no ordinary matter of law-enforcement. The situation is complicated by the peculiar status of the Indians on the reserve. They claim to be allies of the British crown, and declare that they are not British subjects and therefore are not amenable to Canadian law. If there is any foundation for their claim, have the the provincial authorities a right to interfere with them? Is not the crown (that is, the national government) responsible to the province for their good behavior? They may be "allies" of the crown, but they are also wards of the government at Ottawa, and should not that government be held responsible for its wards?

The resentment of the Indians seems to be concentrated against an official at Ottawa—Duncan Scott, superintendent of Indian affairs. They accuse him of being an autocrat, and demand an investigation of the conduct of his department. Mr. Scott's "autocracy" consists in putting into effect the regulations of the department. What the Indians really object to is the system under which their alleged right to do as they please is restricted. They do not desire to become citizens: they wish to live a life apart without any of the duties and obligations of citizenship. In the assertion of that supposed right it is inevitable that they should clash with Superintendent Scott or any other man occupying his position. Duncan Scott is one of Canada's finest poets, a man of sensitive and sympathetic nature. It is impossible to believe that he would wilfully treat the Indians harshly. However, it might be well, in order that the situation may be cleared up and a permanent settlement of the trouble made easier, that the investigation demanded by the Indians be held.

THE U.S MERCANTILE FLEET

The steamship Western World, the last of the vessels to be delivered in fulfilment of the U.S. Shipping Board's construction contracts, has been tested and accepted. The expenditure on the fleet has been some $3,500,000,000, a fairly considerable item in the total of the great war outlays. The case in the United States was much the same as in Canada—ships were needed to make up for the losses of the world's mercantile marine during the war, and the powers of private enterprise to produce them were limited. The Government undertook the work, and began by creating building yards. Everything was done in a hurry, the cost being a minor matter if the vessels were to be ready in time. Before the programme was nearly complete, however, the war ended, and the war impetus to ocean trade ceased. Of late the ships, as they entered the water, have found no business to do; they are tied up by hundreds in harbor, and are a cause of expense, not a source of revenue. It may take two or three years to find employment for them. They have served two purposes. Their construction showed what could be accomplished by energy and determination backed by unlimited money. Their fortune, after completion, has convinced the public which paid for them that governing a country is a job big enough for the biggest men to be obtained; and that operating a mercantile fleet on the seven seas can be left with profit to those who have shown their strength in private business.

Is the race getting lazier? Perhaps so. The motor car has, of course, become an important factor in luring many people out of pedestrian ways. The patronage system as we had it in the past bedevilled our public life. More than that, it bedevilled and enfeebled our administrator of public affairs. WINTER NAVIGATION HAS JUST CLOSED

Very Successful Season Reported and Was Busier Than Last Year

St. John, N. B., May 13.—The season of winter navigation just ended, proved busier than the previous one. The coast going steamers using this port numbered 200, as compared with 172 last year. The Canadian Pacific headed the list with fifty one passenger and freight sailings. The Canadian Government Merchant Marine had forty come freighters here during the season. The Head Line had fifteen sailings, the Manchester line eleven, and the Royal Mail Steam Packet twelve to Bermuda and the West Indies.

A peculiar feature of the season was that while the quantity of grain shipped exceeded that of last year, only four steamers took grain exclusively, as compared with fifteen last year. When the grain movement began about the New Year, nearly every steamer took a part cargo of grain.

FACTORIES NOT PRODUCING

Kingston, May 12.—The Frontenac Cheese Board met this afternoon, but there was no cheese boarded. The reason assigned was that the factories are not yet producing, owing to the lateness of the season. On the same date last year 247 boxes were boarded and sold.

The buyers were dissatisfied with the situation, and complained over the action of factories belonging to the Kingston Board selling their cheese to the Napanee and Brockville boards, thus destroying the value of the Frontenac board. Secretary William Pillar declared that prices were just as good on the local board, the average prices for the year showing that the farmers received probably better returns than any other eastern Ontario board.

EASTER MEMBERS VISIT WEST COAST

This Movement Was Started By the House of Commons

Vancouver, B.C., May 13.—The movement initiated during the winter months to get eastern members of the House of Commons to visit the west and the Pacific Coast after the House rises is week by week gaining strength and momentum. One after another western Boards of Trade are going on record in support of the idea. For it is an idea. It is something more than propaganda on behalf of the west, for it is based on the sincere conviction that the very best way to remove fancied causes of friction between east and west and to promote a better understanding is to show eastern parliamentarians just what the west is, to give them an insight on the spot of its varied resources, and to meet and talk over in the frank western way the special problems and difficulties of east and west alike.

Western people travel east quite frequently as a pleasure and on business. They feel it is a duty they owe themselves. But relatively few eastern folk, unless they represent commercial houses or are seeking land, make the long western trip. Professional and business men of Toronto, Montreal or the Maritime provinces rarely find time to see Western Canada, and this is particularly true of eastern members of parliament. It is hoped that the party will include M. P.'s from Quebec and the Atlantic seaboard as well as from old Ontario.

Rossland Board of Trade, in passing a resolution that "it is in hearty accord with the movement to have the Eastern members of the Dominion House of Commons visit Western Canada and the Pacific Coast this summer," adds the rider that it hopes the party will return east through the Kootenay country, and in particular will visit the Tadenac smelter at Trail, largest of its kind in the British Empire, where smelting and refining gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc is carried on.

The Kawartha chain, comprises Lakes Katchewanooka, Clear, Stoney, Buckhorn, Chemong, Pigeon, Bald, Sturgeon, Cameron and Balsam, and they are six hundred feet above the level of Lake Ontario. Every form of outdoor recreation may be indulged in, there being unlimited opportunities for sailing, canoeing and motor-boating, for bathing and for fishing. REMINISCENCES OF BAY OF QUINTE

In good cause. The Title will yet be the most illustrious in the Empire.

Justification

No better justification of the stand taken by the U. E. Loyalists can be had than the words of General Israel Putnam the famous American General, who fought against the British in the American Revolutionary War. General Putnam wrote a letter to Col. Bercley Robinson after the war, dated May 14th, 1783 in which he says: "Whenever I think seriously upon the situation of this country (the new Republic of the United States) I cannot but bewail my folly in this part which I have acted. There was a time which if timely believed that a separation from the mother country would be the greatest blessing to this. But alas! experience—too late experience—has convinced me, as well as thousands of others how very erroneous this opinion was."

If there are persons in any part of the Empire who think separation from the Empire desirable, they would do well to ponder the words of General Putnam.

Over one hundred years afterwards at the dedication of the monument erected on Dorchester Heights, Boston, to commemorate the evacuation of Boston by the British, the orator of the day was delivered by Hon. Senator Hoar of the U.S. Senate, in the course of which he said "The Government of England was in the main a gentle Government, much as our fathers complained of it. Her yoke was easy and her burden light. Our fathers were an hundred times better off in 1776 than were the men of Kent, the vanguard of liberty in England. There was more happiness in Middlesex on the Concord than there was in Middlesex on the Thames."

A vote of thanks was proposed by Gen. Symons and seconded by Col. McQueen.

BODY CONSIGNED TO THE TOMB

Obsequies of the late Mrs. M. E. Schuster Attended by Many Citizens.

The body of the late Mrs. Mary E. Schuster, widow of the late Rev. Anselm Schuster, whose demise resulted from burns received at the home of her son Charles, at Pittsburg Pa., arrived here Friday afternoon and was taken to the home of her son, Mr. W. E. Schuster, George street. Accompanying the body were deceased's two sons. It appears that the wife of Mr. Charles Schuster on Saturday last at the residence of her son Charles, at Pittsburg was standing in front of a grate where natural gas was burning when her clothing became ignited and she was immediately enveloped in flames. The lower portion of her body was terribly burned and death resulted on Thursday of this week. The late Mrs. Schuster was 87 years of age and was born at Napanee, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wright. Her father was a U. E. Loyalist and a pioneer lumber merchant. For many years deceased had been a resident of Belleville, where she had a host of friends who deeply regret her passing, especially such church circles. After the death of her husband who founded the City Business, she continued the good work and did much in her sphere for the good of mankind generally. She was beloved for her many fine christian character, but her genial and kindly disposition and her place in the community will be difficult to fill. In addition to the two sons one sister, Mrs. Judge Merrill, of Picton, survives.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the residence of Mr. W. E. Schuster and a large number of persons were present to pay the last tribute of respect to one who in life was beloved and in death revered. At the house a brief service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Cleaver, of Bridge Street Church, of which deceased was a member after which the body was taken to the City Mission building, 161 Dundas street, where an impressive service was held. The Mission was inadequate to admit all who desired to attend the service. Those taking part were Revs. Dr. Cleaver, Dr. Baker, A. M., Kerr, of St. Andrew's Church, and Geo. Brown. The floral tributes were many and exquisite in design. One particular piece was a large basket of American Beauty roses, the gift of sympathy from the National Cash Register Company with which Mr. Chas. Schuster is connected with. Interment took place at Belleville cemetery. Bearers were Messrs. Alfred Gillies, W. N. Belair, E. F. Frederick, G. Elvins, F. S. Deacon and S. G. Clapp.

The body of the late Mr. John Huddlestone of the city was on Friday afternoon conveyed to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. All Ticket & Sons undertaking parlors services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Wallace of the Baptist church. Bearers were friends of deceased.

HORSE VALUED AT 80,000 FRANCS

Nice, France, April 29.—Senorita de Usais, the 19-year-old daughter of the Marquis de Aldama, of Spain, whose horse, Viburnum, won the Grand Prix de Nice, this spring, paid 60,000 francs for the horse last fall. The first time out she brought her a purse of 100,000 francs.

A Spanish owner, a Belgian trainer, an American Jockey and a French horse are a hard combination to beat; the Senorita said when her friends congratulated her.

Frank O'Neill of Saint Louis had the leg up on Viburnum.

ANTIDOTE IS FOUND TO STOP DUST CLOUDS

Mexico City, April 29.—After years of experimenting in an effort to stop the dense clouds of dust which sweep down on Mexico City at certain regular periods, the Department of Agriculture has decided to plant clover and alfalfa in the bed of Lake Texcoco, a lake near the capital which has been dry for several years.

Agricultural experts believe well cultivated verdure will invite moisture in greater quantities and will prevent the dust from rising in the dryest seasons.

FAST MOTOR BOATS TO CHECK DETROIT RIVER SMUGGLERS

Detroit, Mich., April 29.—A contract for a fleet of fast motor boats to patrol the Detroit River has been let, and when the boats are placed in commission, United States officials say whiskey running will be a vastly more difficult job than it is to-day. Federal Prohibition Director Jos. R. Doyle believes that with three boats in service smuggling will be practically ended and it is the only practical way in his opinion that it can be ended, the smugglers may now choose their own time and place and in a few minutes a boat can run several hundred miles over the Canadian side. Consequently it is only a matter of luck, unless prohibition officers are working on a tip, when a cargo is seized. With fast motor boats patrolling the river smugglers will never be out of danger.

PASSION PLAY FILM NEVER, SAYS LEADER

Berlin, April 29.—Anton Lang, the potter of Oberammergau, who plays the role of Christ in the Passion Play, and is also Chairman of the Village Council, has refused an offer of $1,000,000 to film the Passion Play. "We will never consent to have it filmed," Lang said. "The idea of commercialising it is abhorrent." It will cost the visitor exactly 400 marks ($1.25) to see the play. This includes the price of the ticket, lodging for two nights and five meals.

MANITOBA ELECTIONS TO BE HELD ABOUT JULY 10

Winnipeg, April 29.—Registration for the Provincial general elections will commence May 8, it was officially announced yesterday. The registration will be carried on in the outlying districts until June 10. The registration date for Winnipeg district will not be decided upon until next week. Dissolution and election date will be announced early in May. It is thought that, the election will not be possible until about July 10, as the lists will not be prepared until late in June and 14 days have to elapse between completion of the lists and election day.

FRENCH LAW ALLOWS DAMAGES FOR GRIEF

Paris, April 29.—Measuring human emotions in dollars and cents is the newest problem confronting French juries as a result of a decision of the Paris Court of Appeals, promising to revolutionize French procedure in damage cases. Hitherto, for example in the case of a person killed in an accident the survivor was allotted damages only upon the basis of actual material loss, such as the depreciation of the family income, but henceforward juries will be asked to grant a supplemental allowance covering grief and phatical wear and tear.

TOTEMS TELL TALES

Figures on Postage Stamps Suggest History Lessons.

From the British lion to the Chinese dragon, the bold states of the world looked to the animals for the designs for their national crests.

The Prussian eagle and the Gallic cock, like the British lion, signify strength and pride; but new nations have also their official crests, or totems, and in nearly every case we find the choice has fallen on some kind of animal.

These totems tell tales to the interested observer. In most instances the figure throws in a link with the past. It may be sentiment or business which sways the choice, but the animal is there. The totems of a nation or state are often shown on their postage stamps.

The Canadian beaver and the kangaroo of Australia are natural enough, but Canada pays her tribute to sentiment by also adopting the maple leaf. On the stamps of the United States there is a picture gallery illustrative of national history, from the buffalo being hunted by the Red Man to the self-binders for prairie corn.

Sealing and cod-fishing formed Newfoundland's early trade, so on the oldest colony's stamps we find the hair seal, on another a codfish. A Newfoundland dog graces yet another stamp, evidently a concession to sentiment rather than a record of trade.

Japan's stamps usually incline to bird subjects, the tsuroy being a favorite choice. New Zealand follows in this direction. The apteryx is commemorated on the postal issues. Many of New Zealand's great men have been naturalists, and it is reasonable enough to find the strange fauna of the islands imprinted on the stamps.

Behind the national emblem of the Republic of Guatemala, which is the trogon, a tropical bird of gorgeous feathers and long tail plumes, lies a small history book in itself. This is one of the most interesting of bird emblems, although the black swans of Western Australia also have a story to tell.

In India and the Far East the totems chosen vary from bounding tigers to a tortoise asleep beneath a cocoanut-palm. Fancy runs riot in some postage stamps and national emblems; but, traced back, there is always reason behind the choice. In the totem we may read the past.

Much Life Insurance.

The statistical abstract of insurance in Canada for 1921, just issued by the insurance branch, shows that the net amount of new life insurance issued paid in cash in this country last year was $514,637,612. While this is a reduction from $630,110,900 for 1920, still, taking into account the acute business depression, it is a very creditable showing, being nearly twice as much as was written in 1918. The amount of life insurance written by Canadian companies in Canada was $332,437,038; outside of Canada, $157,637,574; by British companies, $15,660,737; by foreign companies, almost entirely American, $156,336,945. For 1920, the figures were: Written by Canadian companies in Canada, $327,519,764; outside of Canada, $150,614,400; British companies, $14,976,028; by foreign companies, almost entirely American, $237,815,096.

While the value of life insurance issued during the year was $514,000,000 less than in 1920, the number of policies was only about 7,000 less, having been 648,431, as against 655,176.

Last year was not as satisfactory for fire insurance companies in Canada as was 1920, the net losses having been $27,463,837, as against $22,943,085 for 1920. As the net premiums written during the year were $47,193,767, the losses were thus equal to 58 per cent. of the premiums; the ratio, however, were $6,673,828 in excess of those for 1920. The net amount at risk in all fire companies in Canada was $5,887,358,051, as compared with $5,969,879,378 for 1920. Of this $1,046,125,611 is held by Canadian companies, $3,019,109,140 by British companies, and $1,802,123,371 by foreign, or almost entirely American companies.

Canada's Finances.

The financial year closed on March 31 with the net national debt standing at $2,384,996,591, or an increase of seventy-three millions over the figure at the close of the previous fiscal year. As was expected, revenue for the year shows a serious decline as compared with the previous year, although the decline in revenue is largely offset by decline in expenditure, both ordinary and on capital account.

Revenue during the year totalled $371,519,454.17; ordinary expenditure, $224,758,277, and capital expenditure $16,742,081. In the year previous the figures were: Revenue, $451,356,029; ordinary expenditure, $257,515,275; capital expenditure, $46,316,507. There has thus been a reduction in revenue of $79,846,575; in ordinary expenditure of $32,755,-021, and in capital expenditure of $29,574,426. In view of the coming taxation proposals of the Minister of Finance, it is of interest to note that the total ordinary revenue last year was $371,030,000, while the estimates now before Parliament provide for an expenditure in the year which has just opened of nearly $467,000,000.

LADY ASTOR SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON OF A. P.

New York, April 29.—Lady Astor told leading editors and publishers of the United States to-day, at the annual luncheon here of the Associated Press, that the United States would yet join the conference at Genoa.

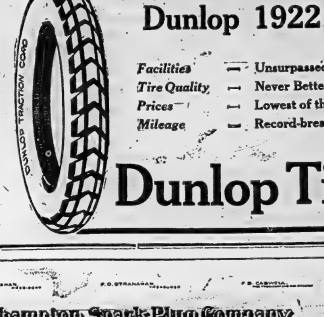

"I believe America can show the way to peace," she exclaimed fervently, amid a gale of applause.

The reference to Genoa was but one of a score of subjects touched upon by the Virginia-born member of the British House of Commons in a breezy address on mother-love and practical politics. Her audience was mostly men, although the boxes in the gallery were filled with women.

"Here's an Eddy —40 years old!"

EDDY-TORIAL

The great industries and public utilities of to-day are the servants employed by modern society to serve itself.

Eddy's is an all-Canadian institution.

It is owned by Canadians, operated by Canadians, employs only Canadian capital, and its profits are kept in Canada for the development of other Canadian industries.

That it has attained national importance is proof that it has performed a service in an acceptable manner.

Always, everywhere in Canada, ask for Eddy's Matches.

In an old shack near the Mattawa River, these matches—a relic of the old match-making days, a box of Eddy's matches made over forty years ago at Hull—were found last Autumn!

They had weathered the extremes of our Canadian climate, the heat and cold, the sleet, snow and rain for forty years.

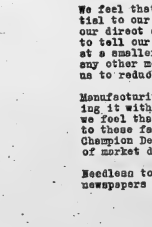

It was an old sulphur match—the "Telegraph", Brand—the last word in matches at that time—a great match in its day.

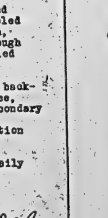

Longer than Eddy's make to-day, it was wasteful. Still, it was a light, and a good one.

The most incredible thing of all was that after 40 years the matches were just as good as the day they were made, and the man who found them lit his pipe with one of these old timers!

Every Eddy will serve you as faithfully.

Gentlemen:-

In considering our advertising media, we have made a careful analysis of each class, and after several years of continuous effort, we have demonstrated to our satisfaction that for Canadian merchandising the daily newspapers are the basic media through which to educate the users of a product that is sold to the masses.

We feel that the daily newspaper is just as essential to our merchandising as is our sales force and our direct dealer work, for through it we are enabled to tell our story to those whom we desire to reach, at a smaller per copite cost than is possible through any other media, and by mass selling, it has enabled us to reduce our prices.

Manufacturing the highest standard of quality and backing it with our entire organization for performance, we feel that the daily newspaper has been only secondary to these factors in its importance in gaining for Champion Dependable Spark Plugs the enviable position of market domination.

Needless to say, we expect to continue to place daily newspapers first on our lists of media.

Yours very truly,

CHAMPION SPARK PLUG CO. of Canada, Limited
Vice-President & General Manager.

High testimony, this, from the makers of Champion Spark Plugs. They say that Daily Newspaper Advertising has been second only to the factors of organization and management in securing for them domination of the Canadian market for Champion Spark Plugs.

What more convincing testimony could there be to the all powerful influence of Daily Newspaper Advertising?

Here is a double-riveted mystery story as thrilling as anything this great master of mystery, adventure and romantic tales, ever has produced. It is compounded of love, intrigue, a million dollars and mysterious criminals in a most unusual combination.

It involves agents of the U. S. government and a band of South American plotters. Like all his stories it has some one unique feature. In this case it is the strange and puzzling character of the heroine.

BREEDING MALE BIRDS.

Good Cockerels Are Very Important In Hen Houses.

Progressive poultrymen are looking forward to the mating of their flocks. In pursuing cockerel use should insist that an exact pedigree be given on delivery of the bird, says O. W. Harvey of the University of Missouri. It is believed that the male bird is more important than the female in transmitting the character of high egg production. Not all male birds transmit the character. Ordinarily, a hen which lays 30 eggs or more during the winter season of November, December, January and February, will lay approximately 200 eggs a year. Of course, some environmental factor, such as a late spring, which may have been having this year, may affect the summer laying cycle, and thus reduce below 200, even though the winter cycle has been 30 eggs or more. The fact remains, nevertheless that with our present knowledge of breeding poultry for egg production cockerels from hens that have exhibited this 30-egg production during the winter laying cycle are the ones to buy to head the breeding flock.

It is but a small proportion of the flock that lays 200 eggs or more during the year. The day of the 200-egg flock has not yet been attained. Poultrymen must not be misled by advertisements that have been appearing in the poultry papers by large fanciers offering birds for sale which have exceptional fancy points and at the same time are claimed to be from a 200-egg strain. A flock average of 160 to 180 eggs a year is excellent production. Of course there are exceptional individuals in every flock. Approximately ten per cent. of the White Leghorn pullets on the University of Missouri poultry farm show a trapnest record of more than 200 eggs a year. It is this small proportion of the flock that is used in pedigree breeding. Cockerels from this selected number are the ones that are believed to transmit the character of high egg production. If the farmer buys a cockerel without securing a trapnest record of its mother's pullet-year production he has no means whatever of knowing whether the bird can transmit the ability for a 30-egg production during the winter season, in other words, 200-egg daughters, or whether he will transmit an ability for producing no eggs at all during the winter season when eggs are highest in price. A trapnest record which shows that the mother of the cockerel has laid 20 eggs from November to March inclusive should always be insisted upon when purchasing new male birds for breeding. To buy on any other basis is a very uncertain procedure, and the chances are less than half for increasing, even in a small degree, the general flock average.

Clearing Farm Land.

The fair-weather days of the autumn afford the farmer an opportunity to undertake the clearing of land for which he has no time in the busy summer months, and which can not be done while the land is wet in the spring. On thousands of farms there are cut-over tracts which should be converted into revenue producers as soon as possible. If the owner decides that the land in question is better suited to crop production than to forest growth, a careful study of the most economical method of removing stumps and small growth should be made. Most cut-over land passes through three stages before reaching its greatest agricultural value. The waste and small growth is disposed of first, then it is allowed to remain in stumps for a few seasons, until the smaller stumps are dead and decayed, during which time it is used for pasture or may be cultivated. Finally, all the stumps are removed.

Generally it is best to cut brush as close as possible to the ground and avoid leaving sharp points that might injure stock. However, if the wood is of no value and the ground is not to be cultivated before the stumps are removed, it may be best to cut the trees rather high above the ground. If the stumps are left three feet high there will be less sprouting than if cut low down, and such stumps are more easily pulled.

The general method of keeping down sprout growth is by heavy pasturing by goats, sheep, or cattle, in the order named. Any sprouts not killed by pasturing should be cut or knocked off with the head of an axe.

Duroc Jersey Swine.

Nearly one-fourth of the pure-bred swine in the United States on January 1, 1922, were Duroc Jersey, the total number of that breed reported by the Bureau of the Census being 919,117 head. Poland Chinas were second with a total of 794,603, and Chester Whites third, with 191,207.

NEW ZEALAND'S £5,000,000 LOAN QUICKLY SUBSCRIBED

London, April 29.—The subscription list for New Zealand's £5,000,000 five per cent. loan, offered at par, opened to-day and closed within a few hours, the amount having been entirely taken up. Three million pounds of the loan will be spent in Great Britain for material for railway expansion in New Zealand.

NO BUSINESS PROFITS TAX PAID BY EMPIRE STEEL

Ottawa, April 29. — The British Empire Steel paid no business profits tax during the last calendar year, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Finance Minister, stated in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. Mr. Fielding added that as the first accounting period of this corporation, ended on December 31 last, it was not assessable under the act in regard to the business profits tax.

COAL STRIKE PARLEY HALTS

New York, April 29.—Failure of anthracite operators to agree on a programme of wage reduction demands today resulted in a temporary suspension of conference of the Joint sub-committee on wage contract negotiations, seeking to end the coal strike. It was announced that members of the sub-committee would return to New York tomorrow prepared to resume negotiations if the operators declared themselves ready.

BAD FIRE IN SPAIN

Malaza, Spain, April 29.—The Custom house in Malaga was destroyed by fire to-day, and 22 persons are known to have perished in the flames or from jumping from the top storey windows of the building. The flames, under the heroic work of the firemen, were prevented from spreading to adjacent buildings. It is thought possible that the bodies of other persons may be found in the ruins after they have cooled sufficiently to permit of a search.

ORDERS GERMANY TO HAND OVER FIFTEEN INDIVIDUALS

Paris, April 29.—The allied council of ambassadors to-day handed a note to Dr. Wilhelm Mayer, the German ambassador here, demanding that the German government hand over at once some fifteen individuals for whom warrants have been issued in connection with the hand grenade attack on the French barracks in Petersdorf, Upper Silesia, three months ago. The council asks that the individuals desired be delivered to the custody of the inter-allied commission in Upper Silesia. The requisitioned men took refuge in Germany after the attack on February 1st, in which two French soldiers were killed and twenty-five wounded.

MUTTON SOLD IN 1790, BILL COMES IN 1922

Harrisburg, Pa., April 29.—The commonwealth of Pennsylvania last week received a bill of £100 for two head of sheep purchased for the use of the American Revolutionary army under what is termed "the army act of June 1, 1780."

The bill was sent to George E. Alter, attorney-general, by Oliver Hayle, of Philadelphia, with a request that he be informed whether it was collectable. The copy received here shows that it was a note executed July 4, 1826, by David Davis, commissary of purchase. It was dated at Reading, Pa., and drawn in favor of Samuel Jones.

Hayle said in his bill that they had no record of such a note and that if it was valid a record probably would be found at Washington.

TANNERS AND SHOE MEN WAIT ON FINANCE MINISTER

Ottawa, April 29. — A deputation representing tanners and shoe manufacturers of Canada, waited upon Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, to-day to place before him its views on tariff matters. The delegation urged that no changes in the tariff be made on boots and shoes etc., when the budget comes down, Mr. Fielding announced some days ago that he would be unable to receive tariff delegations after the 22nd of the month, but it is understood that this is a postponed appointment from an earlier date.

FULL MILITARY HONORS ACCORDED CAPT. HOLLAND

Ottawa, April 29.—Full military honors were accorded Captain H. L. Holland, M.C., who was killed in an aeroplane smash at Waldemar, Ont., last Sunday, at his funeral here this afternoon. The service began at 2.30 in All Saints Church. Rev. C. G. Riepburn conducting.

The Air Board Militia and Defence headquarters and other branches of the service had many representatives present, and there was also a large attendance of private citizens to pay their last tribute to a distinguished officer who had died on duty. The body was carried on a gun carriage and the military escort was supplied by the R.C.M.P. The regimental band of the G.G.F.G. was in attendance.

ASK PERMISSION TO SHIP - RUSSIAN EMIGRANTS

Riga, Latvia, April 29.—The United Baltic Shipping Corporation recently published the Latvian government is granting permission to transport Russian emigrants from the United States to Russia and vice versa via Latvian ports. The company undertakes to guarantee that none of the transit passengers will remain in Latvia.

For this purpose, the shipping company plans to erect special camps in Riga or Libau as soon as the cooperation requested of the government is granted.

SEEDING OPERATIONS IN ALBERTA

Calgary, April 29—Weather conditions in Central and Southern Alberta are almost ideal for seeding operations, and this week will in general be the end of the week if there are no more rains or snowfalls. In some places the ground is a little too moist for seeding, but a couple of days of warm weather will remedy this. There is plenty of labor and the standard wage is $40 with board and lodging.

The area sown this year will be considerably larger than last year and the general conditions could hardly be more favorable. The moisture is deep into the sub-soil and is even now sufficient to carry the crop well into June.

GOVERNMENT ARRANGEMENTS HAVE PROVEN BENEFICIAL

Victoria, April 29.—Sixty-six industries, employing between 800 and 900 persons, are now in operation in the province, under loans granted by the British Columbia Government to found and stimulate industries, according to the report of the Department of Industries for the last year, made public here yesterday.

To establish the industries, the Government has loaned them $1,104,644, 6ft of the industries thus established have progressed so well that they have repaid the whole of their loans.

RECAPTURED SEIZED LIQUOR FROM REVENUE OFFICERS

Brockville, Ont., April 29.—In the east end of Cornwall last night the land revenue officers and provincial police seized 200 bottles of liquor at the premises of Napoleon Lefave. As they were about to arrest Lefave, he bolted, and, although shots were fired after him, disappeared. A crowd of nearby residents gathered, forced the officers to an upper storey of the house and threatened to set it on fire. They broke windows in the house and captured the liquor which the officers had seized.

FURTHER RESTRICTIONS IN U. S. IMMIGRATION ACT

Washington, April 29.—The bill to extend the three per cent. immigration act will probably be agreed to in conference committee of the House and Senate this week. The Senate provision, which extends from one year to five years, the time during which aliens must remain in Canada, Mexico and Cuba before admission to the United States will be retained. The Senate amendment to extend the existing act two years instead of one will also be agreed to.

HORSE RACE BETTORS TO BE TAXED 5 PER CENT.

Toronto, Ont., April 29.—A five per cent. tax on all wagerings on race tracks within Ontario, which will bring into the Treasury of the Province two and a half millions of extra revenue, was announced by Hon. Peter Smith, in the Legislature early this morning, at the close of his budget address. The Treasurer told the House that the tax would be so placed that only the man who won his wager would pay and that for that reason it was a tax that would arouse little, if any opposition. The man who won would not mind it, and the man who lost his wager was not concerned anyway.

It's the little they cost to maintain that makes concrete pavements economical

The ultimate economy of concrete is the big reason for it's adoption

PERMANENT HIGHWAYS of CONCRETE

·No so-called economy is real economy unless it can justify itself in the ultimate cost. This applies with particular force to Roads.

Experience has shown how costly some roads are. There is no longer the shadow of an excuse for disregarding "ultimate economy" when planning our highways. If a road costs little to build but much to maintain, it must give way to a type of pavement which—although costing more to build—involves minimum maintenance charges.

Experience is showing that Concrete has those qualities of permanence which render it "cheapest in the long run." We cannot afford to build our roads of any less permanent material.

Faced with the imperative need of providing those hard surfaces capable of withstanding such increased strain as the increasing use of the Motor Truck inevitably represents, we must surely recognise that real economy calls for the adoption of the higher type of paving which Concrete makes possible.

BROUGHT BACK RICHES.

Czechs That Escaped From Russia Were Thrifty.

The Czech soldiers who deserted from the Austrian to the Russian armies and later returned home via Vladivostok and Vancouver, brought with them many millions in Russian gold rubles, except that the word "ruble" in the Czecho-Slovak Republic on its face, according to an article from the Paris bureau of the Brooklyn Eagle, the story was found through tracing the notes, which were recently put into circulation in France and the United States, back to Prague, the capital of the Czechs.

There were 40,000 Czechs in the Russian armies at the time of the Revolution. Remaining steadfast to the allied cause after the Bolshevik regime commenced, they marched across Russia and joined the anti-Bolshevik forces. They were the backbone of Kolchak's ill-starred attempt to restore the old regime. Later they turned back into Siberia and fought their way to the Pacific. That much is known.

But here is the other story. In the Urals, the range straddling Europe and Asia, they found at Tcheliabinsk, the Constituent Assembly and the anti-Bolshevik administration—and the bank treasury. While the Russian dignitaries searched the town for some nice vanilla, the Czechs took the money and started west on the railway, later delivering their forty cars of the yellow stuff to Kolchak. For the next twelve months they kept an eye on Kolchak and the $310,000,000 stored precariously on a siding at Omsk.

When Kolchak was finished the Bolshevik grabbed thirty-six of the cars, but the retreating Czechs ran four cars out to the main line and were away for the east again with $12,580,000. By this time they had decided that the money was distinctly appointed for the use of the new Czech Government and they took it very carefully home, finally delivering $10,000,000 to the authorities at Prague. The money is now being used to establish the credit and encourage the industries of the new Government and is finding its way to other countries.

Drill Sergeants of the Sky.

One thing must impress you as you watch a cloud of birds in flight, and that is the amazing way in which the whole flock turns, wheels, mounts or descends, as if by some common impulse.

Such a thing as a collision never occurs. Do they act upon a system of signals given by the leader of the flock, or have they some mysterious means of communicating drill commands? Certainly every bird is capable of leading the flock, for the one which is for the moment at the head of the flock is followed by the rest whatever his movements may be.

We find another curious fact in drill used by animals which live in herds. But here there is a difference, for the herd has always an acknowledged leader whose place is at the head. The old stallion who commands a herd of wild horses seems to indicate danger, and gives a short, sharp neigh to command flight. The followers are scattered, he rallies them with a long, shrill neigh, and when he wants the herd to stand and fight its pursuers he gives the signal with a squeal.

Mussels That Make Pearls.

None of the shell-fish that live in the seas around our coast produce pearls that are of any value, occasionally a small pearl is found in an oyster, but as the "native" is eaten when he is about five years old, his rare pearls have not had time to grow to any size. Usually, too, they are blackish and badly shaped.

Possibly there is something in our sea-water that discolors pearls; for when we turn to the only pearl-making creature that lives in fresh water we find that frequently it produces stones of excellent quality.

Pearling is quite an industry in some of the shallow rivers of the northeast of Scotland. The pearler looks down into the water through a tube, and whenever he spots a good-sized mussel, he fishes it out and drops it into his bag. At the end of the day the catch is opened, and as a rule several saleable pearls are found.

A large, well-shaped mussel pearl may be worth several pounds.—London Tit-Bits.

LINKS WITH OTHER DAYS.

Twenty Historical Sites Will Be Marked by Concrete Shafts.

Action has been announced by which twenty historical sites in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces will be marked by concrete shafts, to be erected this year by the Dominion Parks Commission, calls attention to the places of Canada in this region of riches to which the country owes so much of its wealthiness. The plan to mark this batch of sites with uniform memorials may be open to criticism, because of the lack of original ity, but, marking them in this way and caring for them is much preferable to continued neglect.

One of the sites to be so marked deserves it, for the old fort at Isle aux-Noix (Nut Island), in the upper waters of the Richelieu, at St. Johns, Que., Steps were taken last year to save this historic spot from complete oblivion and ruin, and it will be possible to make it one of the attractions for travelers in that part of Canada. It is a picturesque old fort dating back to the French regime, when it formed part of the defence against the Iroquois and the English colonies, on the highway of the Richelieu, long before railways came. Later it was used by the British in their encounters with the revolting colonies and in the war of 1812.

At present its crumbling walls and disappearing moats are shaded by century-old elms, which might form a graceful park for visitors. The color and customs of other days hang about the ruins, for one of imagination, and the change from the days of the Carignan Regiment of the French, to the British red-coats stationed here after the Conquest, and the struggles while the American colonists tried to take Canada in 1775 — all these form a background that ought to be preserved and made familiar to the Canadian people.

When the American Revolution succeeded, and thousands of Loyalists turned their faces northward to find a new home under the flag, many of them first found refuge north of the boundary by coming to Isle-aux-Noix. The war of 1812 caused Britain to greatly extend the defences of this point, and these defences should now be preserved from further neglect and destruction. Up the Richelieu, just over the boundary, at the foot of Lake Champlain, lies a great pile known as "Fort Blunder," another relic of early transportation routes and methods of defence.

Ontario the Producer.

The statistics filed with the Railway Commission showing freight tonnages by provinces are very interesting. They prove what many persons have been too inclined to overlook — that Ontario is the great railway traffic producer, and Toronto is the chief clearing centre in it. If the figures were known, it would be found, probably, that Toronto receives more freight tonnage than Montreal, not counting, in the latter case, ocean freight that merely passes through Montreal. As a province, Ontario is much ahead of the others from a traffic point of view, even considering the great grain movement from the Western elevators each season.

From October, 1920, to June, 1921, a crop season, the Maritime Provinces had 6,009,677 freight tons on a mileage of 3,704. Quebec had 12,-977,777 tons on 4,877 miles. Ontario had 32,686,435 tons on 10,985. Manitoba had 9,452,257 tons on 4,194 miles. Saskatchewan had 4,313,709 tons on 6,145 miles. Alberta had 5,796,382 tons on 4,364 miles. That is, the Quebec tonnage of freight per mile was 2,470, while Ontario's tonnage was 2,967 per mile. Nearly in Ontario was approximately 20 per cent. greater. The National Board recently ridiculed Toronto's claim to the head office of the Canadian National Railway System because, it said, Toronto was not even a waystation on a Transcontinental line. As a matter of fact, the greatest density of traffic to be found anywhere in Canada is in the Niagara peninsula. Much is in the way of Transcontinental traffic, and the Detroit-Port Huron gate comes next. The very geographical position of Quebec tends to isolate it from the most active and progressive commercial influences of the day, and Montreal is an exception only because it is at the head of St. Lawrence navigation.

Without Toronto and Ontario traffic, not a Canadian Transcontinental line could keep out of serious financial trouble. Ontario had, in the year ended June 30, 1920, to June, 1921, almost half of the total freight tonnage on the steam lines. It is freight traffic that gives the railways their fine lines and their handling the most southerly of the provinces, and manufacturing and mining headland of great richness, will always be the honor province, commercially, because nature has provided for it, and railways find it convenient to adjust themselves to providers of traffic.

HOUSED IRE OF SIR JOHN.

While Newfoundland Government Bleeches Merely Grinned.

One of Newfoundland's big men, financially and politically, is Sir John C. Crosbie. Few are more in touch with either the ramifications of the marketing of the island's staple—the codfish, or better have their finger on the political pulse. As a politician he is a very active and clever campaigner, known all the city of the 1919 game, and by the astuteness has more than once turned a dangerous situation into complete victory.

Like many another successful self-made man, however, he occasionally shows his guard to some plain barb of wit which gets in under his armor. It was thus with "Annie."

Sir John is a fluent and easy speaker, a ready debater, and a dangerous antagonist of the Squires Government, sharing the leadership of the Opposition with Sir Michael Cashin. Constant contact with the fishermen, both in business and politics, has led him to drop sometimes unconsciously into the vernacular, which accounted for "Annie."

He had been spiritedly denouncing the Government and the Premier in all moods and tenses during the course of a rattling three-hour speech in the Assembly, "An" he"—as the pronunciation as he gave it—referred frequently but he had not, until he had done this, "an' he" had neglected that.

A scribe from the daily paper, supporting the Government party, caught at the slurring of the consonant in the "an' he," and next morning appeared an article commending Sir John with a mysterious "Annie." The House was agog for a choice morsel of scandal, and the worthy knight's ire was roused.

Not scenting that he was "being had," he arose in his place in the Assembly Chamber, and claiming privilege of Parliament, descended to the paper, its editor, in most scathing terms, threatening and predicting vengeance if such attempt to drag his fair name in the gutter was ever again attempted. The merry faces of the Government benches, who were in the secret, rather added fuel to his wrath.

It was not till the Premier rose to reply that the gallant knight discovered his leg had been pulled. For some time afterwards it was risky to mention Annie in Sir John's hearing.

Fifty Years a Teacher.

That many of the public school text-books in Ontario are too frivolous, that more religious instruction should be given, and that the greatest progress in rural education lies along the path of consolidated schools, are some of the conclusions reached after fifty years as teacher and inspector by one of the veteran educationists of the province, John Elgin Tom, of Goderich. Inspector Tom recently passed the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of his work as teacher. For 17 years of this half-century, he has been inspector for the South riding of Huron, and now at the age of 69, is still actively engaged in professional duties, the instructor being province-wide. Teachers of his inspectorate presented him with a congratulatory bouquet recently.

Mr. Tom's first school, after graduating in Toronto in 1878, was in Goderich Township. After that he taught in St. Marys and Strathroy Collegiate, finally accepting the inspector's post in Huron. Since that time over 1,800 teachers have passed from his charge. When he took over the riding there were 125 teachers, of whom 79 were men and 56 were women. To-day there are 314 teachers, of which 37 are men and 317 are women.

The text books, Mr. Tom thinks, are not as good to-day as those of twenty years ago. The tales are particularly to the readers. Some of the selections are declared to be too frivolous that teachers are discarding them. The poems, the inspector believes, are not as good as those in the readers of twenty years ago. He also asserts that the curriculum could be amended by the addition of Bible teaching—not necessarily the creeds of the Bible but history leading up to it.

No fewer than seventy languages or dialects are said to be spoken in the city of Tulsa, Asiatic Russia.

Poison In Honey.

In various parts of the world there are bees whose products are poisonous and repulsive.

Black honey, green honey, and red honey are not unknown. In Brazil lives a wasp which produces the red honey, which, although extremely sweet, is regarded as poisonous. The black variety is sour and disagreeable to the taste.

Honey varies in color and flavor with breed of the bees producing it, but flowers also have some effect on some little wonder, in some places wild bees make their honey on the rhododendron, wild azalea, and "mountain laurel." This honey has an irritating and narcotic effect upon people.

Old Churches.

The churches on Manhattan island in the very early days were not heated, says Gas Logic. It is related that the "half-frozen dominies preached with heavy knit or fur mittens on their ears, and wear ing mittens." Both men and women carried muffs and wore them in church, and the head of the family, when he felt so inclined, smoked his pipe.

Strange Clothes.

In the town of Mombasa, in British East Africa, jazz jars and curtain plus are used for the personal adornment of the natives.

In the French war zone, Arras now has a population of 41,540, Bethune of 20,649, and Lens of 8,649.

THE KINGFISHER.

This Bird May Be Described as Diving Champion.

Sometimes as you make your way along the banks of a river, or round the edges of a tree-fringed pool, a sudden flash of vivid color tells you that a kingfisher has passed.

You see him for a moment as he takes his swift flight over the surface of the water; then he disappears behind the branches of a tree, or round a bend. You can scarcely claim even to have seen him; it was the merest glimpse of brilliant blue and green that darted past like an animated lightning flash.

Few people ever catch sight of him when he is at rest, for he is one of the shyest of our feathered creatures. If you come upon him suddenly he is away before you can form a definite picture of him.

His long, sharp-pointed, but stoutly built beak is set in a head that appears at first sight rather large for the little body to which it belongs. Head and back are covered with shining feathers of a gorgeous greenish blue; the breast is a beautiful coppery red.

An old story says that the kingfisher was once a little grey bird of no particular beauty. Noah freed him from the Ark in the evening in order that he might go in search of dry land. When liberated he flew straight up into the heavens, his back taking on the hues of the evening sky, his chest the glow of the setting sun.

At this time of the year the kingfisher appears in the full glory of his mating plumages. If you can find his nest you will not have long to wait until either the cock or the hen bird comes over the water and settles for a few moments on a neighboring branch.

The nest takes the form of a small hole, sometimes eight or ten feet in length, burrowed by the parent birds into the bank. At its end a chamber is scooped out in which the eggs are laid and the young birds reared. Generally speaking, the smaller the hole the kingfisher builds a wonderful nest of fish bones, so delicate and fragile that it cannot be removed even by the most careful handling. This is not the case, however, for the kingfisher does not as a rule use or contain bones big enough to form the materials for a nest.

Bones are always in the hole, but they are there merely because the hen discards them as she takes the fish while sitting on her eggs in course of time they form a little wall all round her. This curious habit makes it easy to distinguish the kingfisher's burrow from that of a rat. It has a distinctly fishy smell, which often makes its known as a distance of several yards.

The kingfisher's regular fishing beat—each bird has one or more—is a bough that hangs about three or four feet above the surface of a gentle eddy. He knows that this is the ideal place for small fish. He sits motionless and apparently asleep, but in reality he is far from slumbering.

A small fish shows himself near the surface of the water. In a fraction of a second the kingfisher has come to life and dived after him. He enters the water always with extended wings, so that as they close they act like a swimmer's legs and drive him forward. The fish is captured, and within a couple of seconds the kingfisher is banging him against the branch. The dead fish is turned head downwards (a jerk), then a gulp goes the beak and down goes the fish.

The kingfisher is a poacher of the worst type, and though he feeds largely upon minnows, he has a distinct preference for baby salmon or trout when he can get them.

The American Type.

Ethnologists are more and more inclined to believe that there are only three distinct races of mankind; the white, the black, and the yellow. They think that most of the "race" distinctions that the people of Europe, America and Western Asia talk about are not fundamental, and that the outward and physical variations on which such classification are based are merely the result of the different climatic environment in which the varying nations dwell. If that is the case the people of the United States should be creating a recognizableAmerican type, more or less different from the British, the Irish, the German, the Norwegian, the Italian and the Jewish type that successive waves of immigration have brought to its shores. Dr. Hrdlicka, a competent ethnologist, connected with the National Museum at Washington, has been investigating the matter. He believes that the is already fairly well established. "The old American," as he calls those whose families have lived in the United States for more than three generations, are tall; as a whole, taller than any other numerous group of white-skinned people in the world. They tend to be neither dark nor fair. Pure blonds are rare among them, and there are few of the marked red-haired type. Brown hair, blue-gray or "mixed" eyes and a skin of intermediate shade prevail. The shape of the head also tends to be intermediate, neither very long nor very broad. The face is long and rather narrow, often becoming oval. Dr. Hrdlicka thinks the men of the American type are of rather better proportions than the women, "too many of whom are inclined to be fat-chested."
